CITY ALDERMEN AND FIRE CHIEF ARE EXONERATED

Council Accepts the Report Declaring Maddox, Ragsdale and Spratling Have Not Broken Rules of Office.

COMPETITIVE BID LAW FOR HOSE DISREGARDED

Committee Finds, However, That This Same Method Was Employed Before W. B. Cummings' Administration.

The city aldermen named by Alderman John E. McClelland in his "graft" charges to Mayor James G. Woodward and council were exonerated by the probe committee in its report submitted through Judge John S. Candler yesterday afternoon.

The accused in the McClelland charges were Aldermen F. J. Spratling, of the Seventh ward; James W. Maddox, of the Fifth ward, and I. N. Ragsdale, of the Tenth ward.

The charges were that Alderman Spratling borrowed money from James I. Lynch, Poole & McCullough, and Albert Steiner, near-beer dealers, on the assurance that he would be made chairman of the police committee by Mayor Courtland Winn, in 1911.

Charges Against Aldermen.

That Alderman Maddox used his influence to secure subcontracts from contractors on city work.

That Alderman Ragsdale formed a "dummy" partnership under the name of J. R. Lawhon and company, and engaged in the barter and sale of live stock for the fire, sanitary and construction departments."

Chairman J. H. Harwell, of the fire department investigating committee, submitted a report on the charges made by Mayor Woodward of alleged irregularities in the purchase of hose and equipment for the fire department.

The committee absolved Chief Cummings of the charge made by R. E. Davidson, agent of the Webb Fire Apparatus company, that he accepted a present of $400 after the sale of the DeKalb avenue fire engine.

The committee stated that it did not believe the testimony that a rebate of ten per cent was offered the board of fire masters when it was discussing the bids for an engine for station No. 13.

Chastain Woodward's Statement.

The committee sustained the charge of Mayor Woodward that there was not a line about the No. 12 engine deal in the city hall, but explains that the fire masters accepted the bi dof the La France company for $9,000 and agreed to accept the engine only if it proved satisfactory.

As to the charge that the law requiring competitive bids in the purchase of hose was disregarded, the committee also sustained the mayor, but calls attention to the fact that the same method was employed prior to Chief Cumming's administration, and during Chief Joyner's term. The committee says the city did not lose money on rebates. It states that Chief Cummings bought nearly 300 feet less during his term than Chief Joyner.

It also calls attention to the destruction of nearly 4,000 feet at the Terminal station fire and equipping two new stations by Chief Cummings.

As to the Rebates.

As to the rebates allowed, the committee declares that the warrants and vouchers show that what rebates were received were paid into the treasury.

Both reports were adopted.

Councilman Albert Thomson, immediately following the reading and adoption of the report on the charges against Spratling, Maddox and Ragsdale, asked that the committee be allowed to stand.

"Since the investigation started charges against Alderman McClelland have been hinted at, and it might be well for the committee to stand," he said.

Councilman Smith said that the council could appoint another committee at the proper time if the charges are made.

The committee was discharged.

Findings of Committee.

Following is the report in part on alleged graft against Aldermen Spratling, Maddox and Ragsdale:

"Your committee finds that J. W. Maddox did, in 1911, take a subcontract under Chester A. Dady to do certain excavating under a contract with the city.

"We further find that in the same

DEPUTY WARDEN SAYS FISHERMEN THREATENED LIFE

Jesse Mercer Confers With Governor Relative to Suspending Officials Said to Be in Sympathy With Them.

BIG POND AT MILLTOWN CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

Many People in Berrien and Lowndes Counties Have Been Fishing Without Consent of Owners.

The clash between the officers of the law and some of the people of Berrien and Lowndes counties, who persist in fishing in the great pond at Milltown, came to a serious climax last Saturday, according to a report made by Game and Fish Commissioner Jesse E. Mercer to the governor yesterday.

Commissioner Mercer's special warden, M. F. Bolsclair, returned to Atlanta from Milltown Monday morning with the statement that his life had been threatened, that he had been cursed and abused and that he had been arrested and his pistol taken from him. He says that a mob of 200 or 300 people ordered him to leave the county.

Says Climax Has Been Reached.

Commissioner Mercer says that either the law must be upheld or the authorities acknowledge themselves unable to cope with the situation.

"I am going to enforce the law," he stated, "if I have to camp on the bank of the pond all summer, spend every dollar in my department and call upon the governor for assistance."

"My wardens have been intimidated," says the commissioner, "their lives have been threatened and the local authorities are too much in sympathy with the lawless fishers to give me any assistance. Certain lawless elements persist in fishing in the Berrien county pond, and the law directs me to put a stop to it, and I am going to do it."

He said he had conferred with the governor in regard to the suspension of certain county officials who had failed to help him enforce the law.

Greatest Fish Pond in Georgia.

At Milltown there is located the greatest fish pond in Georgia. It covers eight thousand acres and is filled with the finest of fish, including the large-mouth bass the large-speckled perch, the blue and red-bellied bream and every other kind of fish known to Georgia waters except the mountain and rainbow trout. The fish are plentiful and it is a great temptation to catch them.

In the large body of land covered by the water there are numerous and conflicting land claims, but the pond itself, that is the water rights, have for almost a century been under the control of the Banks family. Those who claim some of the land covered by the water believe they have right to fish in the pond, and there are many others who have no claim at all who believe they have the right to fish, because the fish are there and plentiful and are good for food.

Under an act of the legislature of 1911, regarding the preservation of game and fish, section second, the commissioner is required to prohibit people from fishing in any pond unless the consent of the landowner is given. That law, according to Commissioner Mercer, has been openly and continuously violated at Milltown for many years, despite many arrests and convictions.

A part of the great fish pond lies on the line between Berrien and Lowndes counties and at a point far remote from both county seats, and it has been a very difficult matter for the county wardens under the same to fish commissioner to enforce the law.

According to Commissioner Mercer, this local wardens were "unable to cope with the situation," and he adds that, perhaps, they were influenced too much locally, or did not care to take too much risk.

"About a month ago," states Commissioner Mercer, "I sent a warden to Milltown from an adjoining county, but he was so greatly intimidated that he accomplished nothing. He stated appeals have been made to me by R. T. Berryhill, who is in charge of the property for the Banks estate, and I decided that the time had at last come for something definite to be done. So I detailed M. F. Bolsclair, one of my Atlanta assistants, to go to Milltown. Mr. Bolsclair was formerly my warden in Whitfield county and I know him to be a most excellent official, and a brave and fearless man. The fishermen in Berrien and Lowndes counties had become defiant, so long had they had access to the fish pond, and I instructed Mr. Bolsclair to act carefully but to enforce the law. He is back in Atlanta after a most exciting experience. He swore out twenty-two warrants against persons for fishing in the pond. He says he was warned to leave Milltown just as quick as he could get away, and he found public sentiment so strong against him that he withdrew the warrants in the justice courts and went to Nashville, the county seat of Berrien, and again swore them out. While he was talking to the justice of the peace in Nashville, he states, he was surrounded by a mob of between 200 and 300 people, who made all sorts of threats. He says that Mayor Pafford shook a finger in his face and called him names. The mayor then ordered his arrest without a warrant, he says, and had him searched and his pistol taken. Two bondsmen were required, and only one, R. T. Berryhill, could be found. Just in the nick to time T. J. Luke, my Ben Hill warden, whom I had wired to go to Boisclair, and arrived on the scene in an auto and signed the bond. That was all that kept my man and an officer of the law out of jail."

Commissioner Mercer says the twenty-two warrants are still in force and the cases will be tried on May 19 at Nashville.

"And I am going there," concluded the commissioner, "and I intend to enforce the law and put a stop to the lawless fishing at Milltown if I have to camp out all summer and spend all the money at command and call on the governor of Georgia to assist me."

Where the War Clouds Have Been Scattered

All Europe was alarmed over the threatened war between Austria-Hungary and Montenegro over Scutari. Austria had taken active measures to put its troops in the field and the powers looked with uneasiness upon the situation. The accompanying map in the illustration indicates the several frontiers which the Balkan states and the great powers laid down for the new state of Albania, whose future is so gravely imperiled by the Montenegrin capture of Scutari. As drawn by the European powers Albania would include a territory a little smaller in area than Belgium and a little larger than the state of New Jersey, with a population of about a million, made up, except for a Greek influx in the south on the coast and hinterland facing Corfu, almost exclusively of Albanians, or Skipetars, as they call themselves. As modified by Greek and Montenegrin claims Albania would have somewhat less than 8,000 square miles and would constitute an almost geometrically regular block about 150 miles long by 50 wide, bounded on the west by the Adriatic, on the east by the main ridge of Pindus mountains, on the north by the Albanian Alps and the Drin river and on the south by the Dangli mountain ranges. It contains about 750,000 inhabitants. The southern portion of Albania has been arranged with regard for Italian wishes, precisely as Austrian claims were recognized in the north. The Italians look forward to an ultimate possession of Valona and then to the command of the strait of Otranto and are therefore anxious to keep the Greek boundary as far away from Valona as possible. Greek resentment of Italian aggression has already led to the declaration of a boycott upon Italian productions in Greece.

VICE SEGREGATION DECLARED FAILURE

The Chicago Commission Urges Council to Order Police Campaign for Annihilation.

Chicago, May 5.—Segregation of commercialized vice was declared to have been proved a failure, and a police campaign aiming at ultimate annihilation of the social evil in Chicago, was recommended in the preliminary report of a special commission of the city council here tonight.

Domestic infidelity and its consequent lack of responsibility of parentage were held by the commission to be the first and chief cause of commercialized vice, the report saying:

"There is a large proportion of homes in which the knowledge of right and wrong is never inculcated—where the rule of the household is without the direction of parental authority or interest. Many young men came from such homes without a sense of chivalry, born of respect for the honor of women, and many girls come into the period of womanhood without a single right idea of the mission or dangers incident to their sex."

Hasty marriages, the double standard of morals, immoral dance halls and the toleration of resorts also were suggested as being among the chief causes of vice.

The commission decided against the appointment of a permanent morals committee, recommending that the city ordinances relative to the inspection of moral conditions, be left in the hands of the police.

U. S. SUPREME COURT DISMISSES CASE

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 5.—The United States supreme court today dismissed the case of the government against The Atlanta Journal, which involved alleged violations of the postal regulations. The declaration was unanimous.

The supreme court is of the opinion that it has no right, under the criminal appeals law, to review a decision of a lower court in interpreting an indictment, and that its powers are limited exclusively to review of decisions of the lower court in which the federal statute is construed. The indictment against The Journal was quashed by Judge Newman because it charged no offense.

Alex C. King and Charles T. Hopkins appeared in the supreme court for The Atlanta Journal. The case was argued about ten days ago, and its dismissal followed in a remarkably short time.

WEATHER TO BE FINE FOR BASEBALL TODAY

"Great baseball weather today" is the forecast of the official weather man, C. F. von Herrmann. The temperature will rise nearly to the 90 mark about noon, he declared yesterday, but showers will lay the dust and bring refreshing breezes shortly after nightfall.

"DINE WITHOUT WINE," ADOPTED AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The senior class tonight at a meeting which represented 90 per cent of the members of all four classes of 1913 decided by a unanimous vote to have a "dry" banquet this year. Nothing damper than soda pop, ginger ale, iced tea and fruit punch without the "stick" will go at the senior banquet this year at Georgia.

GEORGIA POSTMASTERS NOT BEING NOMINATED

Delay at White House Causes Irritation—Hardy and Stanley Among Those Held Up.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 5.—(Special.)—Surprise and disappointment was expressed by members of the Georgia delegation today when no nominations of postamsters were received by the senate from the white house.

Nominations for postoffice places made by members of congress a month or six weeks ago have not yet been acted upon. Among those which are being held up are H. M. Stanley, of Dublin; A. S. Hardy, of Gainesville, and others. Some members expressed the intention of going straight to the white house and seeking to learn the president's intention. Others promised themselves to have it out with Postmaster General Burleson. One reason for the irritation is that the long delay in making definite announcements has led to congressmen being swamped with applications from towns where they have already made selections and announced choices. Should no nominations be made tomorrow the situation will become even more acute.

No confirmations were reported by the senate today following its brief executive session.

For New Judicial Circuit.

A large delegation of Georgians are expected here Wednesday to confer with the Georgia congressional delegation over the establishment of a third judicial circuit in the state. There is a strong movement for the creation of a new district. Florida has three districts and Alabama three, but Georgia, with as large a territory and more business, has only two. Representative Bartlett as dean of the delegation has invited Senators Bacon and Hoke Smith to attend the conference in Judge Adamson's committee room.

HE JILTED THE GIRL AND MUST PAY $40,000

Cleveland, Ohio, May 5.—The court of appeals here today upheld the decision of the common pleas court that Jerome Probst, an attorney of Detroit, must pay $40,000 to Miss Alma Broderick, former Cleveland and Chicago teacher, for breach of promise. The decision sets aside a contract whereby Probst turned over securities to the girl which she alleges to be worthless.

U. S. Court in Columbus.

Columbus, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The United States district court convened here today with many west Georgia witnesses, jurors and defendants in attendance. The first day was given over to criminal business and routine matters.

SOUTH NEEDS TARIFF DECLARES JUDGE HART

Georgian Fears the Underwood Measure Will Retard Cotton Mill Industry.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 5.—(Special.)—Declaring that the most promising future for the south lay in the development of her cotton industry, Judge John C. Hart, former attorney general, today declared emphatically in favor of protective tariff duties for this industry.

Judge Hart was here to file briefs with the supreme court in the tax cases affecting the Georgia and Louisville and Nashville railroads.

As he was leaving this afternoon for Augusta he was asked by The Constitution's representative what he thought of the Underwood bill.

"I suppose I am not orthodox on the tariff," replied Judge Hart. "But I believe very firmly that to strike down the protective duties under which southern mills have been built up would be a most serious error and charged with tragic consequences.

"The greatest future I see for our section is in the expansion and development of the cotton trade. We have been urging the construction of mills in the cotton fields, which will cause an increased demand for cotton and a home market. Many new mills are now struggling to establish themselves. To bring them into unrestricted competition with foreign mills will cause many of them to go under.

"We are now building mills making the finer grades of cotton goods, hosiery and underwear. They cannot compete with foreign mills with their cheap labor found abroad."

"I am a democrat in most of my principles, but I want the south to grow industrially, and I believe that we occupy the place today that New England did when protection was established as a principle of our government. Let me say that I am out of politics and want no office on earth. I am expressing only my honest convictions regardless of any political effect."

REPORTERS GO TO JAIL RATHER THAN "SQUEAL"

Three Fort Worth Newspapers Men Refuse to Divulge Source of Information.

Fort Worth, Texas, May 5.—Rather than divulge the source their information on which a newspaper item was based, J. C. Abernathy, Claude McCaleb, Joseph J. Fox and Charles F. Feor, newspaper reporters, each served an hour in the county jail here today. They were held in contempt of court by Judge R. H. Buck, of the Forty-eighth district court.

The item in question related to the indictment of a man charged with attempting to bribe a former county judge. Judge Buck held that the publication was made before the indictment was returned in open court.

CLOUDS OF WAR ARE SCATTERED BY MONTENEGRO

Little Kingdom Puts Question of the Future of Scutari in the Hands of the European Powers.

TENSION IS RELIEVED IN EUROPE'S CAPITALS

Action of Montenegro Does Away With the Fear of a General War Over the Balkan Problem.

London, May 5.—King Nicholas, of Montenegro, having placed the future of Scutari in the hands of the European powers, the settlement of the Albanian question now depends upon whether Essad Pasha and Djavid Pasha will obey the orders sent by the sublime porte to withdraw their armies to the Turkish empire. It is believed that as Montenegro has abandoned Scutari Essad Pasha will recognize the futility of his aspirations to the kingship of Albania in the face of the threatened Austro-Italian expedition to expel him.

One of the ambassadors at the close of the ambassadorial conference here today said:

"The situation is saved and the crisis is past. The reported Austro-Italian action in Albania has no point now."

Another meeting of the ambassadorial conference will be held on Thursday, when arrangements with regard to the future of Scutari and Albania will be discussed.

Relieved the Tension.

The decision reached by King Nicholas at the last moment had the effect of relieving immediately the tension in European politics. It caused unbounded satisfaction to diplomats and the general public. The stock exchange responded at once.

At the close of the ambassadors' conference in London today an official communication was issued reading as follows:

"The fact that the king of Montenegro has placed the fate of Scutari in the hands of the powers is a matter of great satisfaction. The governments of the powers will now consider what arrangements shall be made in the immediate future in regard to the town."

The telegram from King Nicholas to Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, announcing that he had surrendered was as follows:

"My dignity and that of my people do not allow me to submit to isolated orders. I therefore place the destiny of Scutari in the hands of the great powers."

NO CONDITIONS MENTIONED BY THE RULER OF MONTENEGRO

Berlin, May 5.—No conditions were mentioned by Montenegro today when she informed the German foreign office that she had decided to place Scutari in the hands of the powers.

On the other hand, the foreign office says there is no evidence that any concrete step in this direction has yet been taken, and doubt is expressed by officials as to the veracity of the reports that Montenegro has already evacuated the city.

No date for the evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrin troops was given in the communication received here from Cettinje, but there is reason to believe that the German minister in the Montenegrin capital received assurances from King Nicholas that the first steps would be taken within 24 hours.

Further details of the intentions of Montenegro may be forthcoming during the conference of ambassadors in London today.

News received from the German minister at Cettinje and the strength in the city of Montenegrin troops has led to the confirmed belief of Berlin financial circles that a peaceful settlement was in sight.

KING NICHOLAS HAD SWORN NEVER TO SURRENDER SCUTARI

Cettinje, Montenegro, May 5.—King Nicholas, of Montenegro, decided today to evacuate the fortress of Scutari in response to the demands of the European powers.

When he took possession of Scutari on April 23 after a six months' siege, which cost the lives of thousands of Montenegrins and Turks, King Nicholas declared that he would hold the city until the last drop of Montenegrin blood had been shed. As the European powers had decided previously that Scutari was to form part of the future autonomous state of Albania, a crisis was brought about, and the powers immediately brought strong pressure to bear to force him and his troops to evacuate the place. In the meanwhile Austria took energetic steps to enforce the powers' decision, and concentrated large bodies of troops in Bosnia, Herzegvina, and Dalmatia. The powers, in the interim, instituted a blockade of the Montenegro coast. All these demonstrations, however, seemed not to affect the determination of King Nicholas.

Some of the Montenegrin troops were withdrawn from Scutari in order, it was said, to resist a possible Austrian advance. Then word came that Austria and Italy had entered into an agreement to solve the Albanian problem by a military expedition, and it was known that the Aus-

THIRD MAN BROUGHT INTO PHAGAN MYSTERY BY FRANK'S EVIDENCE

Lemmie Quinn, Foreman of the Department in Which the Little Girl Worked, Was in His Office Just a Few Minutes After She Received Her Pay on the Day of the Murder, He Tells the Coroner's Jury at Inquest on Monday Afternoon.

LEO FRANK INNOCENT NEW WITNESS TELLS ATLANTA DETECTIVES

Quinn Declares That Officers Accused Him of Being Bribed to Come to the Aid of Superintendent—Frank Is on Stand for Four Hours Answering Coroner's Questions—Body of Mary Phagan Exhumed and Stomach Will Be Examined.

The Mary Phagan murder mystery assumed a new aspect yesterday afternoon, when Leo M. Frank, the suspected factory superintendent, introduced a third man in the baffling mystery, who, the witness stated, caleld to see him after the girl had drawn her pay and departed.

Frank was testifying before the coroner's inquest when he startled his audience with the declaration that he was visited by Lemmie Quinn, a pencil plant foreman, less than 10 minutes after the girl of the tragedy had entered the building Saturday.

Quinn immediately was summoned before Chief Lanford and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons. He corroborated Frank's story in detail. After being quizzed for an hour or more, he was permitted to return to his home at 31-B Pulliam street.

Foreman of Girls' Department.

Quinn was foreman of the department in which the victim worked. He had known her ever since she first was employed with the concern. A stormy scene is said to have ensued during the interrogation to which he was subjected at headquarters. To a reporter for The Constitution, he last night declared that Scott and Solicitor Dorsey charged him with having accepted a bribe from Frank's counsel for his story he was telling of the visit to the factory.

He says he retorted to the charge: "Show me the man that says I took a bribe, and I'll whip him on the spot."

Quinn was seen last night by a reporter for The Constitution when he returned to his home from police headquarters. When asked if Frank's statement were true, he said:

"Yes. It's true. I left my house Saturday morning about 11:45 o'clock.

C. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

On the way uptown, I stopped into Wolfsheimer's and bought an order of fancy groceries. I stopped at another place and bought a cigar.

"Then I went to the factory. I wanted to see Frank and tell him 'Howdy do.' I knew he would be in the place. He is always there on Saturdays. It was about 12:15 or 12:20 when I arrived at the building. I saw no one in front or as I went upstairs to the office.

"Frank was at his desk. He appeared very busy. I stepped in and said: 'Well, I see you work even on holidays. You can't keep me from coming around the building on Saturdays, either. How do you feel?'

"He said he was feeling good. He didn't appear agitated or nervous. I didn't want to disturb him, so I left. I wasn't in the plant for more than 2 minutes. As I came downstairs on the way out, I saw someone in the rear of the first floor—a person whom I would have no grounds whatever to suspect."

Won't Tell Name Now.

"No! I won't divulge his name. I'll tell the detectives in time. I'm glad Frank told the coroner of my visit. It was if who refreshed his memory of the incident. He apparently had forgotten it. I have not been keeping it secret. I told the detective Saturday of the visit.

"I have known Mr. Frank for years, and I know he is not guilty."

Frank's story on the stand was to the effect that within ten minutes after Mary Phagan had departed with her pay envelope, Quinn, who is foreman of the tipping department, dropped into the superintendent's office to say "Howdy do."

"I had not thought of it until reminded of the incident," he told the jury. "My memory was refreshed. I recollected it clearly. This is the first time I have made it known."

The foreman, Frank stated, came into the building about 12:30 noon during Memorial day. "How do you do?" he is quoted with having said. "I see you work even on holidays. Well, you can't keep me away from the factory on off days either." He remained less than two minutes, according to Frank.

IN BUILDING ONLY 2 MINUTES

Quinn declared to The Constitution that he was in the building about two minutes. He said that he did not see Mary Phagan.

He is outraged at the treatment he alleges was accorded him by the detectives.

"They were insulting and seemed to doubt my statement," he said. "In an insinuating manner Chief Lanford plied the question: 'So you put yourself there about the time the Phagan girl left the factory, eh?'"

Quinn was an ardent admirer of the murdered child. He says she was one of his most industrious employes.

He is married and has one child. His connection with the National Pencil company dates back to several years. The reporter met him at his home just as he was returning from the visit to police headquarters. He was fatigued, and admitted that he was almost exhausted.

Called on Frank in Jail.

Declaring that he had made his visit to Frank on Memorial day known earlier than Monday, Quinn told the reporter that it was he who refreshed Frank's memory of his presence in the building shortly after noon of the day on which the girl is supposed to have been slain.

"I called upon Frank at the jail," he said. "The moment I reminded him of my visit, he recollected it. He apparently had forgotten it."

The foreman's wife expressed dislike for her husband to be connected in the mystery. She seemed to regret that Quinn's name had been mentioned at the inquest, merely because of the sensation it would incur.

"Now our name will be mixed in it, too," she lamented.

Mother Thanked Foreman.

A day or so after her daughter's tragic end, Mrs. J. W. Coleman called Quinn to her home on Lindsay street. She expressed the gratitude felt over the kindness and favors extended the dead girl by her foreman. Mary, she said, had often told her of how she liked Quinn, and of how pleasant is was to work under him.

When Quinn saw Mary's step-father, and her mother, he told the reporter, he expressed his belief in the superintendent's innocence.

"I told them," he said, "that with all the sympathy I felt for Mary and her relatives, I could not believe Frank guilty. I have worked for nearly four years under him, and I do not believe he was trying to shift the burden of suspicion by dragging my name into the case.

"He has told the truth. It is impossible for him to go against facts. He is purely a victim of circumstantial evidence. Time will tell the story. They may do me an injustice by bringing me into this scandal, but I am doing it in the defense of a guiltless man.

I believe the detectives are bungling this case. Lanford told me Monday that, inasmuch as I had not talked before, he guessed he would have to hold me. I retorted that I would not be the only innocent man he would be holding in that event."

Body of Girl Is Exhumed.

Police headquarters and everyone concerned in the mystery were surprised Monday afternoon when it was learned that the body was exhumed in Marietta. The stomach has been placed in the charge of the state board of health and an analysis for traces of drug or "dope," which it is suspected to contain, will be made.

The reinterment was witnessed by only the corner, Dr. John W. Hurt, county physician, and Dr. H. F. Harris, of the state board. Dr. Harris will perform the examination.

The inquest began fifty minutes later eral days, it is stated. However, it is also said that Dr. Harris' report will be prepared in time to submit it before the Thursday afternoon session of the coroner's inquest.

Theinquest began fifty minutes later than the time for which it was scheduled. This was due to Coroner Donehoo's lateness in returning from the grave at Marietta. Police headquarters was thronged with a crowd of merely curious men, women and boys. Extra squads of police were necessary to handle the immense crowd.

FRANK FIRST WITNESS

Frank was the first witness. He was followed by his father and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Selig, with whom he lives at 68 East Georgia avenue.

Factory Employees Are Excused.

About midway of the inquest, Coroner Donehoo excused the pencil factory employes who were waiting to be examined. They were released, however, subject to summons, and will be called back next Thursday. More than 200 of these witnesses appeared at police headquarters. A large majority were women and girls.

Frank and the negro, Newt Lee, were brought together from the Tower in Chief Beavers' automobile. When they were ushered into the inquest room, the coroner ordered Lee returned to the Tower until he was called. Frank took the stand at 2:50. He was released at 4:15. No one but the coroner piled questions.

Leo Frank On Stand.

The first questions to Frank were the customary formal queries relating to his occupation, age and address.

His statement and the questions he answered are as follows:

"What is your connection with the pencil company?"

"General superintendent."

"How long have you occupied that position?"

"Since 1908."

"In what business were you prior to that time?"

"I was abroad, buying machinery for the National Pencil company."

"Have you lived in Atlanta all your life?"

"No."

"Where did you reside before moving here?"

"In Brooklyn, N. Y."

"Were you ever married before?"

"No—only once."

"What was your Brooklyn address?"

"152 Underhill avenue."

His Work In Brooklyn.

"What business were you in there?"

"I was with the National Meter company."

"When did you leave Brooklyn?"

"In 1907."

"What are your duties with the National Pencil company?"

"Look after the production and filling of orders and the purchase of machinery. In short, I have general supervision of the plant."

"What time of the morning did you get up on April 26?"

"About 7 o'clock."

"Was anyone with you beside your wife?"

"My mother and father-in-law."

"Have you any children?"

"No."

"Does anyone else live on the place at which you reside?"

"A negro washerwoman and servant."

"What time did you leave the house on the morning of April 26?"

"Eight o'clock."

"Who did you see?"

"Minola, the servant girl, and my wife."

"Did you see Mr. and Mrs. Selig, your parents-in-law?"

"I don't remember."

"How did you leave the house?"

"Caught a trolley car. Got to the factory about 8:30, I presume."

When He Reached Factroy.

"Did you talk to anyone on the car?"

"I don't remember."

"Who was at the factory upon your arrival?"

"Holloway, the day watchman, and the office boy, Alonzo Mann."

"Was the door locked?"

"No."

"Who was in your office?"

"The office boy."

"Did you see anyone else?"

"No."

"How long was it before anyone came into your office?"

"About thirty minutes."

"Who was it?"

"Several men for their pay envelopes."

"Was Saturday, April 26, a whole or half holiday?"

"Whole holiday."

"Were there others calling for their pay envelopes?"

"Yes. A girl named Mattie Smith came in shortly afterward."

Frank Waited On Girl.

"Did you personally wait on them?"

"Yes."

"Was there anyone else in the office?"

"Not that I knew of."

"Who occupies the office with you?"

"The chief clerk, Herbert Schiff."

"Was Schiff in the office at the time you paid Mattie Smith and those who preceded her?"

"No."

"Who occupies the outer office adjoining yours?"

"The stenographer and office boy."

"Was anyone in this office at the time?"

"Not that I knew of.'

"Who is your stenographer?"

"Miss Eubanks."

"How long was it before anyone else came in?"

"Anywhere from a half hour to forty minutes. M. B. Darley, Wade Campbell and a Mr. Fullerton. They arrived about 9 o'clock."

How Frank Spent Morning.

"Tell what you did during that part of the morning which followed 9 o'clock."

"I went over the mail, business papers and later to the office of the manager, Mr. Selig."

"What time did you go there?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"Did anyone go with you?"

"No. I went alone."

"What did you do prior to 10 o'clock. (This question was a repeater.)

"Various officeaduties, as I have already told."

"Did you talk to anyone?"

"Yes. To Mr. Darley and Mr. Campbell."

"Anyone else?"

"Not that I remember."

"Did you touch the financial sheet of your concern?"

"No."

"Can you recall anything else you did?"

"No."

"Where did you say you went at 10 o'clock?"

"To the office of Sig Montag, the manager, at 30 Nelson street.

"Do you remember the particular papers you handled?"

"Not exactly. A note, though, I recollect, was one 'Rush Panama assortment forms.'"

"What do you usually do in the morning?"

"Get up various papers over the desk and straighten out the work of my stenographer."

"Did you speak to Holloway, the watchman?"

"Yes. But I only said 'Good morning.'"

"Do you wear the same clothes at the factory which you wear at home?"

"Yes."

"Did you remove your clothes when you reached the factory?"

"Only my coat. I exchanged it for one I wear at the office."

No Personal Mail.

"Did you have any personal mail?"

"No."

"Do you keep papers of value in the safe?"

"Yes."

"Where is the safe?

"In the outer office—the one adjoining my private office."

"Can you recall the first paper you looked over?"

"No."

"Who is your shipping clerk?"

"A Mr. Irby."

"How long did you sit at your desk after your arrival in the morning?"

"I don't know."

"Did you intend going to the ball game?"

"Yes; until Saturday morning."

"Did you work on the house order book?"

"Yes, but not until I got back from the office of the manager—No, I forgot. I did not work on it at all. Montag's stenographer did it."

"Who was in the office when you left for Montag's?"

"Several persons—about six or eight in all."

"How long were you at Montag's?"

"Until 11 o'clock, I believe."

"Did you telephone Miss Hall, Montag's stenographer, that you wouldn't need her at the pencil factory, and that she needn't come?"

No, She Phoned Me.

"No. She telephoned me. I told her she need not come, as I did not need her."

"When you departed for Montag's, you're sure you went alone?"

"Positive."

"Didn't Mr. Darley walk to Cruickshank's at Alabama and Forsyth, to get a drink with you?"

"No. He did not."

"Who was at the office when you returned?"

"Miss Hall, Montag's stenographer, and the office boy."

"How old is the office boy?"

"About 16 years, I presume."

"Does he wear long or short trousers?"

"Short trousers."

"What did you do upon returning?"

"Assorted papers and letters for about ten minutes."

"What did you do while Miss Hall entered the orders you had given her, as you say?"

"I don't remember, except that I was working at my desk."

"Is your office systematized?"

"Yes, excepting on times during which I have no special plans. Then, I take up the most important and pressing business."

"What else did you do?"

"I don't remember precisely. I was at work all morning and afternoon."

"Were you out of the office at all while Miss Hall was in the building?"

"No."

"How long was she occupied with the orders?"

"About thirty minutes."

"When she finished the orders, what did you do with them?"

"I put them on my desk."

"What time did she finish and leave?"

Miss Hall Leaves Factory.

"About 12 o'clock. I recollect the time, because I heard the noon whistles blowing. She and the office boy left together."

"Did you see any outsider in the building when you got back from Montag's?"

"No, I think not."

"What did you do when the stenographer and office boy left?"

"Started to work on the orders.

"Were you entirely alone?"

"So far as I know."

"Do you know of anyone else who came in?"

"Yes. A little after 12 o'clock the little girl that was killed came into my office."

"Where were you?"

"At my desk in the inner office."

"How did she announce herself?"

"I looked up when I heard her footsteps. I think she said she wanted her pay envelope. I asked her number, and she gave it to me. I gave her the envelope with her number stamped on it."

"What was her number?"

"I don't remember."

"Have you ever looked up that number?"

"Yes, but I don't recollect it."

"When you gave her the pay envelope what did she do?"

Has the Metal Come Yet?

"Walked out into the outer office, stopped and called back: 'Mr. Frank, has the metal come yet?'"

"Did you make entry of her payment?"

"No."

"Did she call back about the metal as though in after thought?"

"Yes. It was natural. She hadn't worked since Monday because of the lack of metal."

"What was the amount in her envelope?"

"One dollar and twenty cents."

"Do you remember in what denomination it was given her?"

"No, I don't."

"She disturbed you in your work, did she not?"

"Yes."

"How did you know she was gone?"

"As she went down stairs I heard her footfalls dying away. I also heard another voice. It was vague, but like a girl's or woman's. It seemed as though it came from the Forsyth street entrance."

"Did you know her name?"

"No."

"Do you remember how she was dressed?"

"No. I only looked at her from over the side of my desk."

"Was her dress dark or light?"

"What little I saw appeared light."

"How was her hair arranged?"

"I don't remember."

Did Not See Them.

"How about the color of her shoes and stockings?"

"I didn't see them."

"Did you see a parasol, purse or handkerchief?"

"No. I ddn't notice."

"How long dd ti take for you to give her the envelope?"

"About two minutes. Not longer."

"How did you identify the number on her envelope?"

"She called it out."

"Is that the only means of identification you employ?"

"Yes, except the name is written on the envelope, I think, I'm not sure."

"Did you hear anyone else in the building at the time Mary Phagan was present?"

"Nothing but the voice downstairs as she went down the steps."

"How long were you at the office after she had departed."

"I stayed there."

"Did anything else happen?"

"Yes; within five to ten minutes after the Phagan girl had left an employe named Lemmie Quinn, foreman of the tipping department, came into my office. He said: 'I see you're busy, but you can't keep me away even on holidays.' He stayed only a short time. This is the first time I recollected the incident."

"What were you doing then?"

Where Did Quinn Go?

"Copying orders. It was about 12:15 o'clock, ten minutes after Mary Phagan had left."

"Where did Quinn go?"

"I don't know."

"Had the metal come when Mary Phagan was in your office?"

"No. I don't think it has come even yet."

"How does it come to the plant?"

"By dray man."

"Would you know if it had arrived?"

"Yes; I certainly would."

"Where is it put—in what part of the building?"

"In the rear of the office floor."

"Did you send Mary Phagan back to see if the metal had come?"

"No, I did not know."

"Now, tell the jury once more of Mary Phagan's visit."

(The witness was required to repeat the story of the girl's appearance in his office at 12 o'clock to procure her pay envelope. The recital was without variance from the original statement.)

"How did you fix the time? You say it was about 5 minutes after 12?"

"It seemed that late."

"Were you out of the office from the time the noon whistles blew until Quinn came in?"

"No."

"How long had Mary Phagan worked at the pencil factory?"

"I don't know; I really don't."

"Was she in Quinn's department?"

"Yes."

"Was she under him—was he her boss?"

"Yes."

Was Not in Overalls.

"How was Quinn dressed?"

"I think he wore a straw hat."

"Does he wear different clothes in the factory to what he wears at home and on the street?"

"I presume so. He was not in his overalls Saturday."

"Has he access to the entire factory building?"

"Yes."

"How old is he?"

"About twenty-five years, I would judge."

"Is he married?"

"Yes."

"How long has he been with the pencil company?"

"About four years, I understand."

"What time did you finish work Saturday afternoon?"

"About 1 o'clock."

"You are sure, now that you had not left the office from the time Miss Hall, the stenographer, had departed until you started away for lunch?"

Only Time I left.

"I am positive. The only time I left was when I went upstairs to tell the two mechanics and the wife of one who were on the top floor, that I was ready to go and would have to lock up the building. I came back downstairs and picked up my coat."

"How did you know they were upstairs?"

"The day watchman had told me."

"How long did you stay there?"

"No longer than two minutes."

"What did you leave the place?"

"A trifle after 1 o'clock."

"Doesn't the day watchman usually stay at the plant until the arrival of the night watchman?"

"Yes, except on Saturday afternoons, when we close down for half holiday."

"Do you know Walter Fry?"

"Yes. He's a negro, the oldest employee in the factory."

"Who pays him off?"

"The chief clerk, Schiff."

"What did he do there Saturday?"

"I didn't see him."

Duties of Fry.

"Was Fry away from work upon your authority?"

"No."

"What are his duties?"

"He sweeps and cleans glue from the floors on the glue room."

"What time is he supposed to do this?"

"In the afternoons."

"When you left the building, where did you go?"

"I went up Forsyth street to Alabama, up Alabama to Broad, where I caught a street car for home."

"What time did you get off?"

"At Georgia avenue on Washington street. I went directly home, arriving there about 1:20 o'clock."

"How long were you at home."

"Well, I ate dinner in about twenty minutes."

"Was there any interruption to the meal?"

"No."

"What did you do upon finishing?"

"I think I smoked a cigarette and lay down for a short nap."

"What time did you wake?"

"I didn't go good to sleep."

"Have you been working strenuously?"

"I had been concentrating my mind on the work at the office. It was rather fatiguing, I'll admit."

"What time did you leave your home?"

"About 1:50 o'clock."

"Where did you go?"

"To Washington street and Georgia avenue. I met a cousin, Jerome Michael, and talked with him until the 3 o'clock car came."

"Did you meet anyone whom you knew on the car?"

"Yes, another cousin, Cohen Loeb."

"Where did you get off?"

"At the corner of Washington and Hunter street. The cars were blocked by the memorial parade."

"Did you see anyone you knew?"

Watched Part of Parade.

"No. I walked to Hunter and Whitehall streets and watched part of the parade. Then, I walked on Rich's store where I passed Miss Rebecca Carson, one of our foreladies. Then, I went to Brown & Allen's, at the corner of Whitehall and Alabama streets and across to Jacobs', where I bought four cigars and a pack of cigarettes."

"Do you customarily smoke cigars or cigarettes?"

"Cigars, usually."

"What did you do upon leaving Jacobs'?"

"Went straight to the pencil factory."

"What time was it that you arrived there?"

"About 2:50 o'clock."

"Did you unlock the door?"

"Yes. I unlocked the outer and inner doors, relocked the outer door and left the inner door open."

"When you passed the clock in front of your office what time was it?"

"I didn't notice. It must have been about 3 o'clock. I pulled off my coat and went upstairs to tell the mechanics that I had returned. They already were preparing to leave."

Then Mechanics Leave.

"How long was it before they came downstairs?"

"Only a few minutes. They entered my office about five minutes after 3 o'clock."

"How long before you went downstairs?"

"Three minutes, or four—maybe five. I went down to lock the door."

"You were left alone in the building?"

"So far as I knew."

"What did you do?"

"Worked on the books."

"When you went to lock the door, did you see a girl?"

"No."

"How long did you work on the books?"

"Until about 4 o'clock, or 4:15. I had gone to wash my hands when the

SAMUEL GOMPERS MUST GO TO JAIL

And Mitchell and Morrison Must Pay Fine of $500 Each—Labor Leaders Lose the Contempt Cases.

Washington, May 5.—Contempt of court judgments against Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, for their violation of a court's injunction in the noted Buck Stove and Range case were affirmed today by the district court of appeals, but the jail sentences imposed were held to have been too severe, so the court reduced Compers' sentence from one year to thirty days, and decreed that Mitchell and Morrison should merely be fined $500 each. The lower court sentenced Mitchell to nine months and Morrison to six. The supreme court of the United States undoubtedly will be asked to again review the decision.

Chief Justice Dissented.

Unlike previous decisions in this case which have been unanimously against the labor leaders, the court of appeals was divided. Chief Justice Sheppard dissented, held that the whole decision should be reversed, that contempt of a federal court was a criminal offense, and that the state of limitations had run in the case.

Justice Van Orsdel, who concurred in the majority opinion, held that the refusal of Mitchell to assure the lower court of his intention to obey the mandate of inferior courts in the future was "important in measuring the intent and temper of the respondents."

With that, the dissenting chief justice disagreed, saying in his opinion:

"I am unable to see how the refusal to apologize for an act, the commission of which has been expressly denied shows a reprehensible intent of temper. On the contrary, it seems to me the natural conduct of a self-respecting man. Having sworn that he neither disobeyed nor intended to disobey the mandate of the court, a confession that he had done so would be a solemn admission of the commission of willful perjury."

The Majority Decision.

The majority decision was largely devoted to setting out why the original sentences were held unreasonable. In part it was held:

"To permit respondents to escape punishment would be a travesty upon justice, but we think that the penalty imposed is so unreasonable as to demand modification.

"The differences which necessitated the injunction have been settled. The sole purpose of punishment, therefore, is to give reasonable assurance that respondents will in the future respect the authority of the courts. While the injunction was issued to restrain the most subtle and far-reaching conspiracy to boycott that has come to our attention, the boycott has ceased and the necessity for the injunction no longer existed at the time this case was tried below.

"A penalty, therefore, which would have been justifiable to prevent further defiance of the order of the court, but for the settlement, would now be needless and excessive. Had the court below imposed penalties not greatly in excess of those which we now deem adequate we would not feel justified in holding that there had been an abuse of discretion. Since, however, the penalties imposed are so unreasonably excessive and we are called upon to modify the judgments, we prefer to err, if at all, on the side of moderation.

"No one, however, can read this record without being convinced that respondent Gompers has been the chief factor in this contempt; hence, a severer punishment is merited in his case than in the cases of the other respondents.

Mr. Gompers is ill at a local hospital, and his physicians decided not to inform him of the court's decision. He has been undergoing treatment for mastoiditis for several weeks, and it was said tonight his condition was such that any excitement might be dangerous.

Mr. Morrison was busy tonight reading the court's opinion and the dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Sheppard, preparatory to conferences with his counsel tomorrow.

Mitchell Is Disappointed.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 5.—"I am disappointed at the action of the court of appeals in not reversing the opinion of the supreme court," John Mitchell commented tonight at his home regarding the action of the District of Columbia tribunal in the contempt proceedings against him, Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison. "I feel that we should have been acquitted and I believe now that we will carry the case to the United States supreme court. I have not seen the papers as yet, but I presume that Mr. Gompers will have an appeal taken. I probably will consult with counsel and when I hear from Gompers, we will decide on what step to take next."

PEACE DELEGATES GREETED BY GOTHAM

Plans to Be Made for Celebrating Centenary of the Treaty of Ghent.

New York, May 5.—New York formally welcomed within its doors today delegates who have come from Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland and Australia to join American representatives in a five-day conference looking toward a centenary celebration of the treaty of Ghent—the compact of peace between the United States and Great Britain—to be held in Ghent and in English-speaking countries, beginning December 24, 1914.

In the room where the first United States congress convened—now the governor's room in the city hall—Mayor Gaynor welcomed the visitors to the municipality and Alton B. Parker on behalf of the American delegation, spoke briefly at this gathering through the selection of C. DeBruyne, alderman of that city, as chairman. Mr. DeBruyne, Lord Weardale, of England, and Sir Edmund Walker, of Canada, made addresses in promotion of continued peace.

The delegates then went to an hotel to become guests of honor at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims' society. Chauncey M. Depew welcomed the conferees in the presence of Walter H. Page, ambassador to Great Britain, former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate and other distinguished citizens. Sir Arthur Lawley spoke for England, Sir George Houston Reid for Australia and Sir Edmund Walker for Canada. Mayor Gaynor made a brief address.

Later the delegates met in executive session at another hotel, Lord Weardale presiding. A general discussion of ways and means for celebrating the 100 years of peace took place.

Mr. Depew, in welcoming the delegates at the luncheon, recalled crises that have arisen during the century of peace and their solution without resort to war.

"It is somewhat dramatic that we meet here at this particular time when the world was never so armed and in preparation for it," Mr. Depew said. "While all continental nations are burdening themselves beyond all precedent in order to be ready for a war, which the prime minister of Great Britain stated the other day we had just escaped and which the press say we are on the eve of now, we, representing Great Britain and the United States, meet for peace and peace alone."

Peace among the English-speaking peoples will continue forever, "as an example for the civilization and the humanity of the whole world," he predicted.

Sir Arthur Lawley declared that not alone are the differences of the future to be settled amicably, but Americans and Britons must "frustrate those misunderstandings which beget mistrust and that can be done only by mutual knowledge and by mutual sympathy." The bonds of friendship and affection must be strengthened and utilized, he urged.

Sir Edmund Walker spoke of the friendly relations existing between the United States and Canada. Enormous investments of Canadian money in this country, he declared, rest upon Canadians' confidence that war between the two countries is impossible.

Sir George Reid said he came here with the warmest appreciation of the Australian government. With the mother country, Australia feels the same degree of warmth and affection for the United States.

AMERICAN FLAG PUT ABOVE RED BANNER

East Liverpool, Ohio, May 5—Cheered by thousands, two men tonight placed the American flag above a red flag on a building in which socialists have headquarters. Several days ago the socialists placed their flag to the breeze and city authorities found that there was no law to compel its removal. Tonight a law student and the owner of the building ascended to the roof of the structure through a trap door. The American flag was nailed to the roof just above the red banner. A large crowd had collected. When the men attempted to leave the roof they found the trap door locked. hey notified the crowd below of their predicament. An alarm of fire was sounded. The ladders of the department were run up and the two men descended to the street.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Veto Is Overridden.

Council, by a vote of 16 against 6, voted to override Mayor Woodward's veto of the resolution adopted by council at the last meeting eliminating the block on Madison avenue from Hunter to Mitchell from the near-beer zone. The resolution will go to the aldermanic board Thursday afternoon for approval.

Money for Concerts.

Councilman Ashley has a resolution before council to authorize the finance committee to appropriate $5,000 for summer concerts in Atlantas' parks. Councilman Ashley is a strong advocate of outdoor amusement for the masses of Atlanta. He claims strong support in his movement.

Probe Cost $118.

The fire investigation probe cost the taxpayers of Atlanta $118, according to a statement made by Councilman W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee, who must O. K. the bill. Just what the McClelland investigation will cost is to be determined later. Two hundred pages of testimony was taken down by Sig Teltelbaum, the official stenographer of the committee.

Will Consider Lowering Track.

Councilman Claude Mason had council adopt a resolution appointing a committee composed of Councilman Haverty, Alderman Nutting and himself to take up the plans drawn by Captain R. M. Clayton for lowering the tracks in the neighborhood of the Union station. At the last meeting Councilman Mason caused the report to be tabled, and Captain Clayton and Chairman Hall, of the street committee, made it plain that they were not pleased over the action of council, chiefly because one of the best engineers in the department spent several months making estimates.

To Reduce Repair Cost

To cut down the cost of storage and repairs of the city's autos, Councilman Orville H. Hall has suggested, as chairman of the street committee, that the city establish and maintain a garage of its own, put a competent sanitary department, construction department and the machines of the various officials to look after.

W. H. ANDERSON DIES AT LOCAL SANITARIUM

W. Harry Anderson, 54 years of age, for 23 years a prominent resident of Atlanta, died at a local sanitarium yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. L. R. Root. The funeral services will be conducted at the home of his daughter, 65 West Tenth street at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be taken to Danville, Va., for interment.

At the time of his death Mr. Anderson was vice president of the Gramling-Spalding company, and was one of the best known business men in the city of Atlanta.

For many years he was traveling salesman, and was a prominent member of the U. C. T.'s, and T. P. A.'s, besides being a member of several local clubs and organizations.

Mr. Anderson's death was not unexpected as he had been in ill health since the death of his wife, one year ago.

Five teams competed, three from the Tenth cavalry, one from the engineer corps and the Fort Myer team. The cup last year was won by the Eleventh cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, and must be won three times in succession. Women riders and entrants again were numerous on the card.

OLD MAN'S LOVE NOTES DON'T PROVE IMBECILITY

Kansas City, May 5.—When a man 77 years writes love letters the act he does not constitute evidence of mental incapacity.

Judge Ellison laid down that ruling in the Kansas City court of appeals today. The case was one in which a son sought to break his father's will. In the love letters the writer said he was 45 years of age. Judge Ellison held that this misrepresentation had nothing to do with the case. The fact that he was able to deceive, the judge said, argued that he was in possession of all his faculties.

REGULATE TAXI RATES, URGES H. S. BARTLETT

H. S. Bartlett, a traveling salesman, wants council to take up the matter of regulating taxicab rates in Atlanta. In a communication to Mayor Woodward, Mr. Bartlett calls attention to what he claims to be an exorbitant fare charged him recently.

Council has already regulated cab fares in Atlanta. However, it sent Mr. Bartlett's communication to the ordinance committee, and it can frame a resolution, if it desires.

"GREEN PLASTER CURES, SOME LAWYERS THINK"

Dr. Nicholson Tells Young Attorneys to Follow Closely to Ethics in General Practice.

"The corporation lawyer insists that a green plaster will cure spinal concussion, and that injured victims get well at the sight of the 'long green,'" said Dr. William Perrin Nicolson in an address before members of the Atlanta bar and students of the Atlanta Law school. "If you think that your client is going to get well before the trial comes on, if he gets well too quick, do your duty; there are some cases to be settled.

"But the most outrageous practice of the personal injury lawyer is the frequency with which the claims of clients are sacrificed and compromised by lawyers who have no qualms of conscience at this shady practice," he added.

Dr. Nicolson was introduced by Dean Hamilton Douglas, who was given an enthusiastic ovation in appreciation of his recent victory for college fraternities in the supreme court, of Mississippi.

"I've seen people stay on crutches for years who didn't any more need them than you or I," said the medical expert, who denounced lawyers who played doctors' roles to prolong the apparent effect of the client's injury.

"It makes me mad every time I get a subpoena, 'You are summoned on the part of the plaintiff,' or 'the defendant,' for a doctor is presumed to be nobody's witness, though some physicians vary very much in their methods. Every principle of medical ethics is ignored by the doctor who speaks for 'your side of the case,' for the doctor is presumed to have no side, and is supposed to give impartial diagnoses."

Athens, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Miss Marjorie Brown, daughter of Governor F. Own, this afternoon won the tennis championship at Lucy Cobb institute, defeating Miss Vivian Pulliam by two sets out of three by scores of 6 to 1 and 6 to 4.

Miss Brown won first place last year and will this year be presented with the loving cup.

ROADS MUST PROTECT PERISHABLE FREIGHT

Washington, May 5.—The interstate commerce commission held today that where perishable freight moves regularly and in sufficient volume to justify the installation of special equipment in the cars, as stoves and linings—to prevent the shipments from freezing, the special service should be furnished by the carriers.

Headquarters in Washington.

Women may build a national headquarters for women's clubs in Washington, where visiting members may stay and be entertained. Evidently, the stronger sex are bent upon the capture of the capital, and as they have shown their mettle, the conquest will not be difficult.

ANOTHER LIFE LEASE FOR DR. M'NAUGHTON

Governor Brown Respites Emanuel County Man Until Next September.

Dr. W. J. McNaughton, who was to have been hanged in Emanuel county next Friday for the murder of Fred Flanders, was yesterday respited by Governor Brown and the death sentence postponed until Friday, September 5.

This is the third time that Dr. McNaughton has been respited and each time it was because the governor did not think the sentence should be carried out until after the trial of Mrs. Flanders, who is charged with being implicated in the murder.

The case against Mrs. Flanders was last called at Swainsboro a week ago and continued until next September.

Flanders died under suspicious circumstances about four years ago, and Dr. McNaughton was convicted on the charge of having poisoned him. For a while the Flanders lived with Dr. McNaughton after the death of the wife of the latter. It was shortly after the Flanders had moved back into their home that the death of Flanders occurred.

Mrs. Flanders was arrested on the charge of assisting Dr. McNaughton in administering the poison. Dr. McNaughton was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

night watchman came."
"Why were you washing your hands?"
"It's awfully dirty in the building."
"You went out and washed your hands upon beginning work, too, didn't you?"
"Yes."

Negro Has a Pass Key.

"How did the negro watchman get in?"
"He has a pass key."
"How frequently do you wash your hands?"
"Whenever they get dirty."
"What did you say to the watchman?"
"I said: 'Howdy, Lee. I didn't go to the baseball game. I'm sorry I put you to this trouble. You may go out on the street and enjoy yourself for an hour and a half. Be sure and be back within that time, though.'"
"Had you told him to come at 4 o'clock?"
"Yes. Friday I told him I wanted to go to the ball game."
"When did you actually finish working on your books?"
"About 5:30 o'clock."
"Your work occupied your whole time."
"It did."
"You saw no one but Lee?"
"No one else."
"Heard no noise in the building?"
"None."

Couldn't Go to Game.

"Who were you intending going to the ball game with?"
"My brother-in-law, Mr. Hirzenbach."
"When did you tell him you could not go?"
"I tried to get him at noon Saturday, but failed."
"Did you notify him at all?"
"No."
"Did you go downstairs after 4 o'clock?"
"No."
"What were you doing when Lee came in?"
"Fixing the time-clock slips."
"Were you at the factory Monday?"
"No."
"When Lee came in, was it light or dark?"
"It wasn't light. Two lights were burning near the time clock."
"Did you wash your hands then?"
"I think so."
"Did you and Lee go out together?"
"No. He went first."

Factory Employees Excused.

At this juncture of the examination the 200 or more factory employees who were summoned to the inquest by Coroner Donehoo were notified that they were excused for the day, but were subject to further summons. They had been sitting in the assembly hall. It was later than 4 o'clock when they left police headquarters.

"What time did he get downstairs?"
"Shortly after 6 o'clock."
"Did you follow him?"
"Yes; I went downstairs to lock the door."
"What did you see, if anything?"
"I saw Newt Lee talking to J. M. Gantt, a former employee of the pencil factory. Lee said: 'Mr. Gantt wants to get his shoes.' I asked him what shoes. Gantt said either black or tan, I forget which color. He saw that I didn't like the idea of letting him in the building. He said, 'You can go with me, or let the watchman go.' 'Lee can go,' I told him. They went in together, Lee locking the door behind him."
"What did you then do?"
"I went down Alabama street to Whitehall to Jacobs' where I bought a drink and box of candy."
"Did you talk with anyone there?"
"Yes. I held a short conversation with the young lady at the candy counter. Following that, I went directly home, arriving there about 6:25 o'clock."

Went to His Home.

"Who was at home?"
"My father-in-law and Minola, the negro servant."
"How long before your wife arrived?"
"She came about 6:30 o'clock."
"Were you inside your home at the time she returned?"
"Yes."
"What were you doing?"
"Telephoning."
"Telephoning who?"
"The night watchman at the factory."
"What time was that?"
"Six-thirty o'clock."
"What was your conversation with the watchman?"
"I couldn't get him."
"Why did you call?"
"To see if Mr. Gantt had left the plant."
"Have you and Mr. Gantt ever suffered personal differences?"
"No. I discharged him for gross carelessness. I had heard that he said I had not treated him right."
"How long before you called again?"
"Seven-thirty o'clock—I mean 7."
"What did you do in the meantime?"
"Ate supper."
"What did you say over the phone to Lee?"
"I asked if Gantt had gone and if everything was all right at the factory. He said, 'yes.'"
"Did you fear physical violence from Gantt?"

Looked Big and Dangerous.

"I can't say, exactly. He looked mighty big and dangerous when I saw him. He impresses me as a kind I'd like to have somebody with whenever I run up against him."
"What did you do after supper?"
"We discussed the opera which my wife had attended Saturday afternoon, and I smoked and read until 9:30 o'clock. Later, about 10:30 to be explicit, I went up and took a bath."
"Did you leave the house?"
"No."
"How long were you in the bath?"
"Until 11:30 o'clock."
"When did you go to bed?"
"Immediately after taking the bath."
"When did you wake the next morning?"
"About 7:30 o'clock."
"What did you do?"
"Answered the telephone. It wakened me."
"How were you dressed?"
"In my nightgown and bathrobe."
"Was anyone else up at that time?"
"No."
"When was the message you received over the telephone?"
"It was from Detective Starnes. He said he wanted me to identify someone at the pencil factory—that there had been a tragedy. I started to dress."
"How long did it take you to dress?"

Then Detectives Come.

"I don't know. I went at it hurriedly, though. I told my wife to meet Starnes at the door when he arrived—No! I went down myself. He came in an automobile with Detective Black and a man named Rogers—Boots Rogers. I had no more than got into my top shirt and sox when they arrived."
"Who spoke first—you or they?"
"I don't remember. I dressed and jumped into the machine. We went to Bloomfield's, the undertaker, and I went in and saw the poor little thing. I said: 'That is the girl I paid off yesterday afternoon'."
"Describe her, will you?"
"She was bruised and cut about the face—a horrible sight. I saw a piece of wrapping cord around her throat and a strip of cloth."
"In what department in the pencil factory is used the cord that was around her throat?"
"On the second floor for bundling pencils."
"Is any used on the office floor?"
"Yes. Some."
"How long were you at the undertakers'?"
"Only a few minutes."
"What did you do upon leaving?"
"Went immediately to the factory building."

Went to the Basement.

"To which part of the building did you first go?"
"The basement with Mr. Darley, who arrived at the same time I did, and the detectives."
"What time did you remove the tape from the watchman's clock?"
"I don't remember."
"Did you examine the back door?"
"Yes, upon being told that it had been open."
"Was it a part of the night watchman's duty to go into the basement?"
"Yes."
"How far was he supposed to go?"
"To the dust pan, which is situated only a few feet from the back door."
"Were you aware that the building—or some parts of it—had been used for assignation?"
"No."
"How often have you been in the basement since your connection with the plant?"
"Not more than a dozen times."
"How was the clock tape when you removed it?"

Clock Was in Error.

"I thought at the time that it was correct but, upon further thought, I have concluded that it was punched inaccurately during Saturday night and Sunday morning."
"How many misses did it contain?"
"Three, I think."
"Why was one tape stamped and the other penciled?"
"It was a mere coincidence. I penciled one because it would have been impossible to apply the stamp."
"Did you go over the factory premises on an inspection tour with the detectives?"
"Yes."
"Did you go to the dressing room used by Mary Phagan?"
"Yes."
"Did you see anything unusual in it?"
"No, not that I noticed."
"How long were you in the building at that time?"
"I don't remember."
"Where did you go upon leaving?"

Went to Police Station.

"I went with the detectives in the automobile that carried the watchman to police headquarters. I talked with Chief Lanford and offered him all the assistance I could possibly give in running down the murderer. I told him I was naturally interested in the case, and that I would give most anything to find the girl's slayer. Then, I walked uptown with Mr. Darley."
"What suit did you wear Sunday?"
"A blue one."
"What kind of suit on Saturday?"
"A brown one—the one I am wearing at present."
"Can you run the elevator in the plant?"
"Yes, but I don't make a practice of operating it."
"Have you ever called up the office at night before you telephoned last Saturday night?"
"Yes, several times."
"Had you ever let Lee go away before as you let him go last Saturday?"
"No. That happened to be the first whole holiday during the time he has been at work."
"Were you nervous and agitated when you saw Gantt Saturday afternoon?"
"No."
"When did you first see the notes found beside the dead girl's body?"

About the Two Letters.

"In Chief Lanford's office Tuesday, when Detective Starnes dictated them for me to copy."
"When you began them, was the first letter a capital or small letter?"
"I don't recollect."
"Did you recognise the handwriting on the notes?"
"No."
"Could you make out their composition?"
"No. Both were incoherent and illegible."
"What was it in the dead girl's appearance which caused you to recognize her body?"
"Her face."
"How did you identify her as the girl to whom you gave the pay envelope last Saturday week?"
"I saw her plainly that day."
"Wasn't she badly bruised and cut about the face?"
"She was badly."
"How long have you had this blue suit which you wore Sunday?"
"Three or four months."
"Did you ever wear it at the factory?"
"No."
"Didn't you tell Mr. Darley Sunday that you had on a new suit?"
"No. I merely remarked of the freshness of the suit I wore."
"Did you change clothes Sunday morning?"
"Yes. I always change on Sundays."

Conversation With Lee.

"How about the private conversation you had with Lee in the cell at police headquarters?"
"It was this way: The detectives asked me to talk to Lee. They said they wanted to find if he had ever let couples go in the factory building at night. Detective Black asked me to get all I could out of him. 'Get all you can,' he told me, 'for we think he knows more than he's told us or will tell. Tell him that the police have got you both and that you'll go to hell if he doesn't talk.' I didn't use those exact words, although I did say something similar. Lee said to me: 'Fore God, Mr. Frank, I'm telling the truth.' I told him, 'Lee, they've got us both, and we'll swing if you don't tell the straight of it.' I did not say anything about going to hell—I positively did not."
"Are you accustomed to going to ball games?"
"No."
"What did you do with the underclothes you took off Saturday?"
"I threw them into the washbag. Detective Black saw them."
"Who notified the employees that Friday would be pay day?"
"It was posted in the plant."
"Did Newt Lee accuse you of murdering Mary Phagan?"
"No."
"When you and Lee were talking in the cell at police station, didn't he describe the body and didn't you ask him not to talk about it?"
"No."

Nobody Notified Her.

"Who notified Mary Phagan to come and draw her pay envelope Saturday at noon?"
"No one of whom I know."
"Do you ever tie bandles with the kind of cord with which she was strangled?"
"No."
"Do you ever use that kind of twine?"
"Yes, occasionally."
"Are you right or left-handed?"
"Right-handed."
"Were you the first to hear the telephone ring when Detective Starnes called you early Sunday morning?"
"Yes. I thought at first that I was dreaming."
"When was the first time that you were told the dead girl's name was Mary Phagan?"
"When Mr. Starnes called me and asked me if I had paid Mary Phagan, a girl who worked in the tip plant."

Following this question Frank was excused. He probably will be put on the stand again before the inquest ends. He did not appear fatigued or agitated when the ordeal was finished. He was carried to the Tower in custody of Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor.

quest in the neighborhood of $100.

Father-in-Law Goes on Stand.

Emil Selig, of 68 East Georgia avenue, father-in-law of the suspected superintendent, took the stand when it was deserted by Frank.

"How long has Lee Frank, your son-in-law, been married?"
"Three years."
"Do you live with him?"
"No; he lives with me."
"When did you first see him Saturday?"
"At dinner."
"How long did he stay at dinner?"
"Quite a while."
"When did you next see him?"
"At supper."
"What did he first do upon arriving for supper?"
"Sat down at the table."
"What did he do afterward?"
"Read in the hallway."
"How long did you see him?"
"Until about 10 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldstein, my wife, Mrs. Ike Strauss, Mrs. Wolfsheimer and my daughter, Mrs. A. Marcus, were playing cards until 11 o'clock. Lee returned about 10 o'clock, I think."
"Did Frank see these people?"
"I suppose he did."
"How was he dressed?"
"In a brownish suit."
"What time did you wake Sunday morning?"
"At 8 o'clock."

Frank Called Up Factory.

"Did he often call up the factory upon coming home at night?"
"Yes."
"Did Mrs. Frank tell you anything Sunday morning?"
"Yes. She said something terrible had happened."
"Didn't she say that a girl who worked at the factory named Mary Phagan had been murdered?"
"No, sir."
"Did you talk to Frank that day?"
"Yes."
"Did you find out anything about the murder?"
"No."
"Didn't you get any information from him about it?"
"No."
"Did Mr. Frank say anything about it when he came back from the factory?"
"No; not that I recollect."
"All you knew was what your daughter had told you?"
"Yes. She said, 'Papa, something terrible has happened at the pencil factory.'"

Mrs. Selig On Stand.

Mrs. Josephine Selig, wife of Emil Selig, and mother-in-law of Frank, was next called for examination.

"Did you see Frank on Memorial day—at supper?"
"Yes. He was in the hall, reading a paper."
"Did Frank know you were in the house when he went to bed Saturday night?"
"Yes—he must have."
"Did he talk to the guests in your home?"
"Yes."
"Do you remember any of the conversation?"
"No."
"How long did he talk with any of them?"
"About twenty minutes, I suppose."
"When did you go in to see Mrs. Frank Sunday morning?"
"About 9 o'clock."
"Did she tell you anything about Mr. Frank?"
"No."
"Did you ask her about him?'
"Yes. She said he had gone to town."
"When did she speak about the murder?"
"When Mr. Frank came home that afternoon."
"Did he speak of it?"
"Yes. He said a little girl had been murdered at the plant."
"Did you ask him anything about it?"
"No. I didn't think it had any bearing on us."
"How did he seem to take it?"
"He seemed unconcerned."
"He didn't express any anxiety or curiosity about it?"
"No."
"Did he read the paper that afternoon?"
"Yes."
"Did he read it just as studiously as he read it the preceding night?"
"Apparently so."
"Did he seem to feel apprehensive?"
"No."
"When did Frank first mention the name of the slain girl?"
"I don't think I remember."

The inquest was adjourned at 7:18 o'clock. It will be resumed at 9:30 Thursday morning. "Two-day" postponement is to permit detectives to garner evidence they announce available.

Following up a new theory advanced last night, detectives are said to have searched the roof of the National Pencil factory building in search of the victim's missing pocketbook and pay-envelope, neither of which have ever been found.

Police headquarters could not verify the report at midnight. Two men with lanterns, however, were seen walking over the roof about 10 o'clock. They were noticed from The Constitution editorial rooms. After remaining on the building for thirty minutes or longer, they disappeared through a scuttle hole.

INDUSTRIAL BUREAU WILL BE CONSIDERED

The final meeting of the committee of the chamber of commerce, which has in view the establishment of the industrial bureau, will be held at noon today in the chamber of commerce. It is thought that this meeting will see the final efforts of the members rewarded, and the industrial bureau a reality.

For more than a year and a half this movement has been on foot, as it is thought that such a bureau will be of inestimable value in gaining new organizations, factories, etc., for this section and exploiting Atlanta generally.

Aged Millionaire Saved.

Ottawa, Ont., May 5.—John Rudolphus Booth, millionaire lumber manufacturer, had a narrow escape from death today when the rising waters of the Ottawa rivers swept away a coffer dam built across a log drive at the Booth plant. One workman was drowned. Mr. Booth, despite his eighty years, was superintending the log drive when the dam let go. The mill foreman, seeing his employer was in imminent danger of being caught in the swirl, went to his assistance and got him to a place of safety.

Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison Pleases in Role at Atlanta

If Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison's work and reception Monday night at the Atlanta theater, when she made her debut upon the stage in "The Girl From Out Yonder," may be taken as a prophesy, she is destined for greater things.

In "The Girl From Out Yonder," which is being presented this week by Miss Billy Long's stock company, Miss Harrison took the role of Clarice Stapleton, a young society girl. Her first appearance upon the stage in the first act was greeted with an enthusiastic round of applause, and at the end of the second act a small army of ushers marched to the front of the stage with so many flowers that little Miss Harrison could scarcely see over them. With as many roses as she could hold in both her arms she bowed her thanks to the audience.

The work required in Miss Harrison's role was for the most part simple and was done with a simplicity that appealed. In the third act where it was necessary for her to change quickly from a portrayal of jealous dissatisfaction to the realization of love her powers were given their only opportunity for full sway and she did a very clever piece of acting.

Miss Harrison has selected "Marjorie Mason" as her stage name.

"My reception tonight," said Miss Harrison last night, "is far more than I could have asked of the people of Atlanta. They are good to me and I am very happy. A reception such as this in one's home town makes effort to achieve greater things absolutely incumbent upon me. I love my work and hope I shall not disappoint those who have so encouraged me tonight."

Miss Harrison's debut was distinctly a society event. In the boxes and orchestra seats were a large number of her friends.

For the present Miss Harrison is under contract with Miss Long's company for this week only and has made no arrangements for further work with the company for the rest of its engagement.

The Girl From Out Yonder" is a familiar story to Atlanta theatergoers, having been made popular here in seasons past by Miss Adelaide Thurston.

Miss Long in the role of "Flotsam," who is "the girl from out yonder," portrayed the part of the attractive little keeper of the lighthouse with a naturalness that went well with the audience. She is supported by a good company. The play last night dragged a little by reason of the long time between acts.

"The Girl From Out Yonder" will be seen at the Atlanta matinee and night during the remainder of this week.

PAYING TELLER SHORT $15,000 IN HIS ACCOUNTS

St. Louis, May 5.—H. C. Basseler, paying teller of the Third National bank of St. Louis, is short $15,000 in his accounts, according to a statement made today by Thomas Wright, vice president of the bank.

Basseler's recent refusal to change two $10,000 bills until they had been investigated, resulted in the unearthing of the details of the theft of $200,000 in currency, which was sent from Havana to New York.

Vice President Wright said Basseler had confessed. He is in the custody of a national bank examiner. Beseler has a wife and three children.

LAWYER ENTERS JAIL AND SHOOTS PRISONER

Attorney Wanted to Avenge the Murder of His Brother-in-Law.

Montgomery, Ala., May 5.—W. J. Fuller, a local attorney, entered the county jail today and shot Bernard Tolliver, a negro prisoner, in what is understood to have been an endeavor to kill either Morris or Bud Hannon. The Hannon negroes are in jail charged with murdering Fuller's brother-in-law, David Thurman, some days ago. Long latent insanity is the plea advanced in Fuller's defense. He was refused admittance to the jail, but succeeded in getting in during the transfer of an insane patient.

Governor O'Neal became deeply incensed at the shooting and immediately made a personal investigation. He has requested Judge Brown, of the city criminal court, to reconvene the grand jury for the purpose of investigating the affair thoroughly. The governor also directed that Fuller be denied bail if the negro's condition develops a bad turn, although the negro who was shot in the leg is not dangerously hurt.

Negro Man Found Dead.

A gaping bullet wound in his head, an unidentified negro man was found in the Davis street plant lake at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by one of the machinists at the plant. The body had evidently been in the water for several days, and the features were almost entirely unrecognizable. No papers were found on him that might prove his identity. he body was taken to the undertaking establishment of D. T. Howard & Son, where it will be held pending investigations by the police. Coroner Donehoo will hold an inquest over it at 9 o'clock this morning.

Bankruptcy Charged to Todd.

Daniel, asserting a $460 obligation; Lamar & Rankin Drug company asking for $800 and the Coca-Cola company alleging a $178.86 debt yesterday filed bankruptcy proceedings in the federal court against P. H. Todd, of Atlanta, doing business as the Todd Drug company at 106 North Forsyth street. The papers state that the alleged bankrupt has admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts. In the absence of Judge Newman from the city the papers were referred to Referee Adams, who has fixed the case for a hearing this morning at 11 o'clock.

ACCUSERS OF HETTER RELUCTANT TO TESTIFY

Pittsburg, May 5.—Investigation by a citizens' committee of charges of alleged immorality against S. L. Hetter, superintendent of public schools of Pittsburg, scheduled to begin today, was delayed indefinitely, owing to the absence of Mr. Hetler, who is at the bedside of his mother at North Manchester, Ind., Hetler was acquitted several weeks ago by a jury in criminal court of two serious charges preferred by a female domestic employed at his home. Additional charges, however, and a strike of school children, resulted in the board of education appointing a committee of six prominent ment to conduct another inquiry.

In a statement the committee charged that in almost every instance persons circulating accusations against the school superintendent have shown reluctance to testify, although assured that names and testimony are to be kept secret.

The committee, composed of bishops, ministers and business men, says:

"Can it be possible that the moral tone of Pittsburg is so law that, notwithstanding the circulation and currency of all these rumors—and there are a large number—those responsible therefor will not come forward, even though protected from publicity. Are we a city of slanderers, or are these charges true?"

COLLEGE ORGANIZED BY THE PHYSICIANS

Washington, May 5.—Five hundred physicians and surgeons from all sections of the United States and Canada, here to attend the sessions of the American Congress of Physicians and Surgeons, beginning tomorrow night, organized the American College of Physicians and Surgeons, with the announced purpose of standardising surgical practice and raising the standard of surgical education in this country. The organization is patterned after that of the Royal College of Surgeons in England.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, of Chicago, called the meeting as a result of findings of a committee appointed at the last meeting of the clinical congress of surgeons of North America. This report referred particularly to unnecessary operations.

The college adjourned to meet in Chicago next November. There degrees will be conferred upon those who participated in the organization and one thousand others whose standing is approved by the board of regents.

SMITH GETS MISTRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Springfield, Ohio, May 5.—After the jury that has been trying Dr. Arthur B. Smith, accused of the murder of his wife, reported this morning it could not agree, the presiding judge ordered a mistrial.

The jury had been out more than forty hours.

Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon no application had been made for bail for Dr. Smith. It was intimated late today that such an application will not be made until after the state makes known its intention concerning a retrial.

Refused the luxury he has been enjoying in a private cell on the second floor of the jail, Dr. Smith has been thrown into prisoners' row in the county jail. Sheriff Funderburg says the giving of luxuries and unusual attentions to his prisoner disorganized his jail.

"OLD TIME SINGING" TO INTRODUCE SALES

An "old-time singin'" will introduce the legal sales before the courthouse door this morning at 10 o'clock.

This apparent departure from all precedent comes about by the peculiar nature of certain property which will be offered at a sheriff's sale. Two dozen hymn books will be sold for the Southern Express company upon a fi. fa. by Joe S. James. It is always the custom to describe teh nature of real estate or other property offered at the legal sales so that a prchaser may be sure of what he is getting, but the problem of describing the nature of the songs is something that the Fulton county sheriff's office has not heretofore been up against.

In view of the fact that two pianos will be offered for sale Tuesday morning the solution to the knotty problem was found. Deputy Sheriff John Chambers will "hist the tune" and the prospective purchasers will "jin in the chorus."

Several parcels of realty and other property will also be offered.

Judge Graham sought to reconcile the couple after Mrs. Merriam had said she would agree to any course for the sake of her daughter.

"Would you be reconciled for the child?" asked the judge of Captain Merriam.

"It is impossible," was the reply.

GARRISON AND WRIGHT TALK OF PHILIPPINES

Secretary Garrison is confronted with the task of finding a new governor general to succeed Cameron Forbes, whose resignation has been tendered, and of making other changes in the personnel of the Philippine commission. He also is giving much thought to the broad question of when the Philippine people will be ready for independence.

While in Washington General Wright will discuss Philippine questions with the president.

Tupper Wanted Check From Detective Chief; Insane Says Physician

James K. Tupper, of 121 Plum street, who seems under the impression that Chief of Police Beavers has a $2,200 check belonging to Tupper, was adjudged insane by City Physician Martin to the office of Chief of Detectives Lanford and demanded a pistol. When his request was refused, he ran downstairs into Chief Beavers' office, and in a disjointed way demanded a $2,200 check that the chief had a $2,500 check for him, and that he was going to get out of jail and get it."

Tupper is 27 years old. His father is G. H. Tupper.

That "SKUNKY" Taste in Some Beers

is caused by the action of Light.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable so-called 'light-taste,' and also a repulsive skunk-like odor. Beer so affected is offensive to the palate of most consumers, and there is probably nothing that will influence them more against any brand of bottled beer than to have once tasted beer possessing this 'light taste' to a marked degree. The presence of this defect, however, is not always the bottler's fault, as the consumer himself very often lets the beer stand in the light. But the consequences must usually be borne by the bottler."

Extract from "The Beer Bottlers' Handy Book," published by the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.

Schlitz is sold in Brown Bottles to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

In our brewery we spend more in purity—in time, in skill and in money—than any other cost.

Why don't you, too, demand the pure beer—Schlitz in Brown Bottles?

SETTLED EMPHATICALLY.

Whether or not the civil war settled the issue of paramount sovereignty as between state and nation is the subject of an interesting interchange of letters between Professor J. T. Derry and B. M. Zettler, published in another column. Both of these gentlemen are among the best-known confederate veterans in the state. Mr. Zettler challenges the statement, in a former communication of Professor Derry to The Constitution, that "the question of paramount sovereignty was decided against us at Appomattox." Mr. Zettler denies that that question was settled. What Appomattox did determine, he says, was the futility of the south contending against the superior resources and numbers of the other states. To this, Professor Derry replies, and we think, very effectively.

The Constitution feels impelled to hold with Professor Derry. Regardless of whether the verdict was reached by force of arms or force of argument its nature and effect were unequivocal: the south's theory that any state could withdraw from the union was adversed and the supremacy of the nation was indubitably established. We may or may not voluntarily have submitted the question of state rights to final settlement. The rest of the country submitted it for us and settled it for us, settled it emphatically.

The verdict may have been constitutionally or academically right or wrong; to this day there is a diversity of opinion on that score. But shot and shell smash academic reasoning into smithereens, and it was shot and shell that pronounced federal sovereignty supreme and state sovereignty subordinate.

This, of course, is all threshing over old straw. But the communications we publish are interesting as shedding sidelights on a very turbulent era in our history.

AS TO WHOSE OX IS GORED.

Suppose that California had today a Jap population almost as large as her white population; suppose, further, that she was threatened not with the ownership by Japs of merely a few paltry acres of land, but by the proposition to put each one of these Japs upon an exact plane of equality with the white freeholders; to give them the ballot; to make them eligible to hold office; to make laws; to enforce laws; to sit as judges and jurors. The little land-ownership trifle is now causing California to fill the land with roars. What would she do if the entire proposition, as we have outlined it, was forced on her? Imagination falters.

Fifty years is a long time in the past, but the journey is easy when memory holds so many tragic reminders. Fifty years ago the south had the hot end of the proposition—we have laid down—except that the negro is not, of course, comparable to the Jap in intelligence, heredity and respect of law and order—and the position California then assumed was exactly opposite to her present position. She then thought it proper, not simply to let the freed negro purchase a few acres of land—which the southern whites were glad to have them do—but to give into the hands of a million negroes just free from slavery and scarcely a generation from the jungle the full rights of American citizenship; the same right to vote with his former master; the same right to hold office; to sit on juries and on the bench trying his former masters.

That's all! Except that California must have done a vast amount of thinking in the past half century. We simply conjure old ghosts to justify the interesting query:

If our California friends make such a vast ado over a few Japs and a few acres of ground, what peals might not go up to high heaven if the whole power of the federal government were turned on them, as it was on the south, to force their every institution under an alien and repugnant yoke? It makes a lot of difference as to whose ox is gored!

A JUST VERDICT.

By unanimous vote council has accepted the report of its investigating committee and acquitted its three members—Messrs. Spratling, Maddox and Ragsdale—of the charges brought against them. The result accords with the testimony and is simple justice to the three men. The charges appear to have been materially exaggerated, founded on shreds of unconfirmed suspicion and of whispered rumors so ingeniously placed together as to give them the appearance of plausibility. They have been exhaustively and painstakingly explored with the result that they are shown to have no basis whatever in fact or in legal culpability. The investigation was full and complete, all sides had every opportunity to present testimony and from the evidence adduced The Constitution is satisfied that neither the committee nor council had any alternative other than to wholly exonerate the three councilmen.

The men under fire are well-known citizens. While The Constitution has differed with them regarding public matters before them as councilmen, we have never doubted their honesty; the searching investigation from which they have emerged has certainly given us no reason to change that attitude. It is, perhaps, just as well that the investigation has been held. The air has been cleared of gossip and rumors and the accusations of criminal offense, gravely fashioned from hearsay and loose talk, have been resolved into nothingness. The aspersion has been lifted and a scandal tempest in a teapot has been allowed to blow itself out of existence.

END OF A FIASCO.

News dispatches report today that the supreme court of the United States yesterday dismissed the case of the government against The Atlanta Journal, involving alleged violation of the postal regulations. The verdict of the court was unanimous.

This is an end to the miserable effort of Hitchcock and his bureaucratic spies to involve The Journal in a manner which was overwhelmingly resented by the public, not only because the people knew that the management of The Journal was not involved in any petty swindle to save a few dollars in mail payments, but more particularly for the reason that the Hitchcock procedure against legitimate business was a departure entirely new in federal administrative methods in this country.

It will be recalled that when The Journal was first apprised of the fact that it was to be the victim of Hitchcock's animus the information came in the nature of an indictment for trial without having been given opportunity to make even a showing as to the accuracy of its figures, or of the fact that it was, at least in its own opinion, making an honest effort to comply with the law. That was considered an unimportant detail to Hitchcock and his spies.

Of course, the government lost in the lower United States court, and now the supreme court has put the stamp of its disapproval upon the whole proceeding by dismissing the case.

It is the end of the cheapest fiasco in which this government has ever been involved, and it is to be hoped that never, as long as this is a government, will there be a repetition of such a disgraceful and tyrannical proceeding from any of its departments.

EUROPE'S PEACEMAKER.

If the long-continued tension of the situation in the Balkans does not involve all Europe in war credit will be due Sir Edward Grey, British minister for foreign affairs. This is the claim made by Sydney Brooks in a recent issue of "Harper's Weekly" and the American who has followed the course of events in the old world will agree with him.

Sir Edward's success is due, first, to the fact that no European nation really wants war. None of them, even the richest, can really afford the drain. But if the continent is to be repartitioned as a result of the near eastern war, none of the powers could avoid being drawn into the conflict. This might well have been the situation and still war would have been forced, in the absence of a man able to weld all the dissenting elements. Sir Edward Grey has shown himself that sort of factor. Quiet, earnest, a king among diplomats, a deep student and a born conciliator, his is the personality that has framed most of the common grounds of meeting that thus far have insured peace. If he shall bring the nations through the entanglement now pressing the whole world will be under obligations to him.

Once again Mr. Andrew Carnegie is talking world-peace to beat all the war-bands.

There is a rumor that Holy Hiram Johnson is talking pretty much as directed.

Vice President Marshall should take the summer lecture platform, where he would have more excuse for talking.

(From Crawfordville Advocate-Democrat.)

The average sugar consumption per person in the United States is about eighty pounds. It is said with "free" sugar that eighty pounds would cost about $1.60 less than as the tariff is now. That would help some, "if" we get it.

New News of Yesterday

Why Grover Cleveland Sent a Substitute to the Civil War.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

"I had many evidences during my close association with Grover Cleveland of his inherent and abiding sense of justice and also his willingness to submit to some humiliation and to a good deal of personal sacrifice rather than to be instrumental in injuring the feelings or the career of anyone," said George F. Parker, who was the biographer of Grover Cleveland, to me at a time when he was showing me a great mass of letters and documents which he had received as the ex-president's literary executor.

E. J. Edwards.

"I think, however, that the incident which most strongly impressed upon my mind this characteristic of Cleveland was one which is associated with the order which was issued for the return of the battle-flags to the southern states.

"I was chatting with Mr. Cleveland one day in his library when he said to me that he had been strangely, almost cruelly, misjudged with respect to what is called the 'battle-flags incident.'

"He was amazed, he said, at the violence of the attacks which were made upon him for issuing that order. The attack which hurt him most came from a distinguished politician or the northwest, who in his letter of public protest stated that this order had actually been issued through Adjutant General Drum, of the army.

"Having made this statement, Mr. Cleveland looked at me for some moments steadily and yet meditatively, as though he were wondering whether it was expedient to make me his confidant. Still keeping his eyes fixed upon me he opened a drawer and took from it a letter which he asked me to read. To my astonishment it was a letter from Adjutant General Drum to Mr. Cleveland, in which the adjutant general recommended that as an act of courtesy and amity towards the south it would be worth while to issue an order restoring the southern battle-flags.

"When I had read the letter I said to Mr. Cleveland: 'Why don't you, in defense of yourself, cause this letter to be published? It is a semi-official letter and not a confidential communication.'

"But Mr. Cleveland shook his head decisively. He said he would not make the letter public. He had issued the order and he would not for an instant do anything to divide the responsibility or pass it along to someone else.

"I have seen a great deal of political life and I have frequently observed with what alacrity politicians who have done or said something which has proved to be unpopular have passed the responsibility over to someone else. But Cleveland endured in silence the attacks which were made upon him, although he could have made public the letter of Adjutant General Drum.

"Cleveland was especially hurt at the intimation that he had issued this order because he secretly had sympathized with the confederacy and was really one of those in the north who in war dayse were called 'Copperheads.' He told me that these accusations hurt him.

"He said that there were three brothers in his father's family. Two of them went to the war, two of them enlisted in union regiments and it was necessary for one to stay at home to care for their mother and sisters. He was the one chosen to stay at home. He was drafted and he was forced to borrow a thousand dollars to pay for a substitute, because if he, too, went those who were dependent upon him would have no means of support. He told me that it took four or five years of hard work and the most scrupulous economy to save money enough to repay the loan of a thousand dollars, and then in the saddest tone he added, 'And yet they bring these accusations against me.'"

SENIORS

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

At this time of the year the senior becomes an all-important institution in our colleges.

A senior is like a president in the last gasps of office. He is a great man, who is about to become a common citizen. After the senior has delivered his oration and has received his diploma, he takes off his cap and gown and becomes a humble struggler at the foot of the ladder, with everybody's feet in his face. But just before commencement he is so large that it takes a freshman or sophomore several minutes to walk entirely around him. Nothing is more interesting than to watch an under classman looking up to a senior—unless it is to watch the same senior a few months later, looking up to an office boy, and asking him how he got his job.

A senior is a man who is completing his education in science, philosophy, languages, and arts, and is about to begin it in work, worry, and the earning of a living. Being a senior is more fun than almost anything else, because a senior has had all that is coming to him in college, and doesn't know what is coming to him in life.

"It takes a freshman or sophomore several minutes to walk entirely around him."

A great many seniors are very wise, and have more knowledge than most men of fifty. A senior can sit down and instruct a captain of the industry in metaphysics and aesthetics, and can read Latin faster than a railroad president. Some seniors carry this knowledge away from the college with them and try to peddle it in the wholesale districts, while others take a check for it and leave it in a cool dry place, where it will not be disturbed. When you notice an exsenior making very good in business, politics or journalism you can safely bet that he has taken off most of his cloglies and has gotten down to his fighting clothes.

Seniors are very necessary, because we must have men with trained minds, even if they do leave their mental Indian clubs in the gymnasium on graduation. But seniors do not have to be taken seriously, except by those who are not yet seniors. One of the pathetic sights of life is a young graduate of Yale or Harvard trying to hook a football and debating club glory in the busy financial district.

The World's Mysteries

THE CASE OF THOMAS GREEN

Captain Thomas Green, his mate, John Madder, and another of his crew, were taken to the sands at Leith on the second Wednesday in April, 1705, and were there hanged within the floodmark upon a gibbet until they were dead. The crime for which they were hanged was piracy, robbery and murder. They may have been guilty of all, but there was never any proof brought to that effect. Instead they seem to have suffered for policy's sake.

Green was condemned for a crime of which he was probably innocent. He died for a crime which was not even proved to have been committed. It may have been committed by persons with whom Green had no connection, while Green may have been guilty of other misdeeds as bad as that for which he was hanged.

Duncan Forbes, of Culloden, who later became president of the court of sessions, believed fully in the innocence of Captain Green. He wore mourning for Green and attended his funeral at the risk of his own life. When the Porteous riot was discussed in parliament Forbes arose in his place and attested his conviction that the captain was wrongfully done to death.

Thomas Green, at the time the accusation was made against him, was in charge of the "Worcester," an East Indiaman. On his homeward voyage in 1705, he was forced, by stress of weather, to put in at the Forth. The Scottish public was in a state of wild excitement over the still recent seizure of the Scotch East Indiaman "Annandale" in the Thames.

When the "Worcester" was arrested by the way of reprisal, it was rumored that the vessel was not the harmless trader she professed to be, but while in the East Indies had been engaged in piracy. This rumor was strengthened by the talk of a drunken sailor and a mate who was at odds with Captain Smith. The mate said that a ship had been captured and the crew murdered.

Although it was shown that the mate did not join the crew until a considerable time after the incident about which he gave evidence was supposed to have occurred, yet the public feeling ran so strong that Captain Green and his officers were found guilty of piracy and murder. The charge specially named Captain Robert Drummond and the crew of the "Speedy Return" as having been so robbed and killed.

There was not only no clear evidence of conspiracy or murder, but no one was able to affirm that Drummond had been murdered or that he was even dead. The government was afraid of the riot which threatened to break out in case Green and the others were acquitted, and consequently, railroaded them to the scaffold.

Even before the men were executed a galley arrived in Scotland on which were two who made affidavit to the effect that they belonged to the "Speedy Return." They said that while their vessel was lying in Port Maritan, Madagascar, Drummond and several of the crew being on shore, a large body of pirates came aboard and seized the ship. The pirates put to sea in her, sailed to Rajapore and there burnt her. They said that they were never attacked by the "Worcester."

From another source this story was also confirmed, with the additional information that Drummond was killed in Tullea, seven leagues to the northward of Augustine Bay, by a Jamaica negro. It is therefore evident that no matter what may have been the character of Green, or what crime might be laid to his door, he was not guilty so far as the cases of the "Speedy Return" was concerned.

History has very many instances in which innocent persons were sacrificed to satisfy a mob who looked for vengeance in some direction. In fact, this case was very parallel to that of the Campden mystery, recently related in this series, in which three people were hanged for killing old Mr. Harrison, who later turned up in perfect health. In Green's as in the Campden case some of the accused confessed their guilt, and yet evidence later obtained tends to prove that Captain Drummond and his ship and crew were all quite safe at the date of the alleged piracy of Captain Green.

Did Civil War Decide State or National Power?

The following correspondence between Professor J. T. Derry and Mr. B. M. Zettler, of Atlanta, both well-known confederate veterans, grows out of a letter in The Constitution in which the former declared the civil war decided that "paramount sovereignty rested with the nation. Mr. Zettler disputes that view.

The correspondence follows:

The Real Issue.

Editor Constitution: Brother Zettler in the following personal letter takes exception to my statement that Appomattox settled the question of paramount sovereignty. Since he has given me permission to do so, I send his communication to you, together with my reply.

Mr. Zettler.

Professor J. T. Derry, Atlanta—Dear Professor: I read with interest your article in this morning's Constitution on the California situation. In one of the concluding comments it seems to me you are a bit inconsistent and yield a point that the north has never admitted.

You say: "As has been well said, the question of paramount sovereignty was decided against us at Appomattox. * * * If we admit, as Lincoln claimed, that a state could not withdraw from the union, and if the states that constituted the southern confederacy were never out of the union, then they were, as you say, guilty of treason, and Lee and his followers were all traitors.

But was the issue of the war the paramount sovereignty of the state or the general government? Was that the issue between the seceding states and those that remained in the union, and was that the question decided by the war? We have always held differently. We had the right to withdraw; we did withdraw and for four years we successfully resisted the effort of the other states to compel us to return to the union.

The only question decided at Appomattox was that it was useless to fight longer against the superior numbers and resources of the other states.

We never submitted any question to the arbitrament of the sword as some are fond of saying. We fought when we were invaded, and only because we were invaded. This is the teaching of your own admirable school history of the United States and especially of your charming story of the confederate states. Hence, I do not understand your comment that the question of paramount sovereignty was decided at Appomattox.

The first thought of asking The Constitution to indulge me in a brief criticism of this point in your article, which concluded to make the criticism directly to you, and if you see fit you can use it in the news columns with such reply as you may see fit to make.

I am reluctant to join issue with one whom I regard as the south's representative historian and on a purely historical point I would not. The moment think of doing so. On all other points in your article on the California-Japan situation I agree with you most heartily.

Your friend confederate comrade,
B. M. ZETTLER.

Kirkwood, Ga.

Professor Derry.

Editor Constitution: In reply to Brother Zettler, I have at all times believed and taught that, under the union established by the fathers, a state could resume its delegated powers, secede and set up for itself, and that such action involved neither rebellion nor treason.

While Appomattox could not settle the right or the wrong of secession, it did establish over us the authority of the federal government.

In accepting the offer of citizenship, under the new order of things, we took the amnesty oath and pledged ourselves to maintain the supremacy of the union.

There was nothing in that pledge to intimate that we had been guilty of rebellion or treason. But by taking it we pledged ourselves to the supremacy of the union. Had it not been for the result at Appomattox, we would have founded a new republic on this continent.

Therefore, without any change of sentiment as to where the paramount authority resided in the old union, we can truthfully say that the result of Appomattox was to establish over the states the paramount authority of the government of the United States. It has been done, no matter how we may phrase it. J. T. DERRY.

THINGS TO DO

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The people who get the most done—and still seem to have the most time on their hands for other things—are the ones who go at their work from a carefully mapped out plan. For in the end, it's the one who conserves and uses to it efull, the 24 hours of Time at his command, that Leads and Rules.

The Successful are they that See and Do—the Unsuccessful are they that See—and do not Do.

Having Things To Do—and doing them according to Plan has produced sufficient Romance in the Business of the World, which if written out, would remain undying in its inspiration to succeeding generations. A single illustration here. Hugh Chalmers, but a few years ago Office Boy, then Salesman, then Sales Manager, then Vice-President and General Manager of the National Cash Register Company—now President of a Concern incorporated for millions! Each night Mr. Chalmers' Secretary writes out on a little slip the ten most important Things To Do for the next Day.

Time used in Thinking out things and putting them into logical order for Action, is Time invested in advance.

Victor Hugo says: "He who every morning plans the transactions of the day and follows out the plan, carries a thread that will guide him through the labyrinth of the most busy life. The orderly arrangement of his time is like a ray of light which darts itself through all his operations."

Atlanta's Water Supply.

(From Lawrenceville News-Herald.)

Atlanta has got tired of drinking Chattahoochee river water. Of course, not all Atlantans drink Chattahoochee water nor any water at all, but most of them do, and for the benefit of those who are not members of clubs and still adhere to the good old custom Alderman Van Dyke has suggested that it would be a great idea to build an aqueduct from the mountains and give Atlanta pure mountain water instead of Chattahoochee river water, which has to be filtered and treated with alum before the mud is got out of it so it fit to drink. There is absolutely no question about the purity of Atlanta's present water supply, but purity it its only claim. There is nothing sparkling or palatable about it.

Keep Hammering, Brother.

(From Hawkinsville News and Dispatch.)

Farmers have it in their power, by curtailing acreage, to secure 12 to 15 cents a pound for the next crop of cotton, or to drive the price to 11 or 19 cents, or possibly lower.

The world profits by cheap cotton; the farmer does not. Railroads, brokers and all agents of distribution receive as much toll for handling cheap cotton as for handling dear cotton; the bigger the crop the more they make. But with the farmer the bigger the crop the less the profit—and if the crop be big enough there will be no profit at all. The 16,000,000-bale crop of 1911 did not pay the producer for his labor; the 14,000,000-bale crop of 1913 hardly paid more than a fair wage to the actual producer.

Will the farmer plant cotton just to see how much he can raise, or will he plant it for profit?

A Slam at Somebody.

(From Hawkinsville News and Dispatch.)

A dozen or more new county propositions will be before the legislature when it meets this summer. Most every place that is big enough to have one or two stores, a blacksmith shop and a horseback wants to be a county seat.

FREE LIST FOUGHT BY REPUBLICANS

They Even Want a Tax on Bibles — All Amendments Were Voted Down by the House Democrats.

Washington, May 5.—The free list of the Underwood tariff bill, with its democratic promises of reductions in the cost of living, furnished the grist for the legislative mills of the house today. Through a monotonous session the republicans, wearied by the persistence with which the democrats rejected all amendments, made perfunctory attempts to place on the dutiable list articles the Underwood bill would admit free. There was little of a real struggle about the republican efforts, however, and only a few minor amendments proposed by the ways and means committee democrats were adopted.

While the house dragged along through the bill, the senate finance committee made its plans for considering the bill when it shall have passed the house. It was decided not to hold oral hearings on the various schedules, but to accept and consider any briefs that might be submitted by those interested in the tariff.

In the house, republicans attacked a majority of the hundreds of paragraphs in the lengthy free list. In almost every instance they argued that admission of the various articles free would "ruin the industry," and would not reduce the cost of living. Majority Leader Underwood pointed out that this argument was inconsistent.

"In order to ruin the industries," he said, "as you gentlemen seem bound to do, it would be necessary to reduce the price the producers receive. This would inevitably result in a reduction to the consumer."

To eliminate unnecessary debate Mr. Underwood after the free list had been about one-half completed, made an agreement to pass the paragraphs which were not in controversy without debate. The disputed paragraphs were then taken up in order.

Republican opposition centered about the paragraphs admitting free of duty coal, iron ore, cotton, wool, wheat, wheat flour, corn, buckwheat, wood pulp and print paper meats, lumber, leather, potatoes, works of art, fish, steel rails, barbed wire and dairy products. All of the amendments offered were argued in a more or less perfunctory fashion and the sweltering majority, forced to remain in their seats in the hall where the temperature soared, drowned each succeeding republican proposition in a deluge of "noes."

Bankers and Income Tax.

A brief relating to the income tax provision of the Underwood bill was filed with the senate finance committee today by the Investment Bankers' Association of America. The association favors the general purpose to collect the tax at the source, but urges that the tax should follow the general plan of the English act with respect to interest on corporate bonds. The brief sets forth that the bill overlooks the fact that nine-tenths of this interest is payable on coupons to bearer, making no provision by which this interest can be deducted by the corporation.

The republican-progressive feud broke out anew when Representative Murdock referred to Representative Humphreys as "the dyspeptic gentleman from Washington, understudy of the republican leader, Mr. Mann."

"The members of the progressive party have no rings in their noses," he shouted. "They are not led around as the gentleman from Washington has been for years in this body."

Mr. Murdock read a printed letter from a progressive county chairman in Wisconsin reading Representative Lenroot into the democratic party, and then caused some consternation by declaring that several members sitting on the floor as republicans had been elected as progressives by progressive votes. Representative Mann replied to Mr. Murdock, whom he characterized as "free trader for everything not produced in his district."

Man's Confession While Asleep Can't Be Used to Prove His Guilt

Denver, Colo., May 5.—The state supreme court today held that a person may not be convicted of murder by the use of his own admission made while talking in his sleep. The case of Joseph Martinez, convicted of murdering a woman named Fortune Campbell and sentenced to life imprisonment, was sent back to the district court with instructions to try Martinez again, without permitting the prosecution to introduce Martinez's somniloquent testimony. At Martinez's first trial a jail guard testified the defendant in his sleep repeated "I killed her." Largely through this testimony the man was convicted.

The supreme court ruled the confession of a defendant can be used against him only when given voluntarily, that when the confession is made during sleep it is not voluntary.

Frank Stanton's Song a Feature Of the Bill at Forsyth This Week

The song of Frank L. Stanton, of The Constitution, "You've Got to Stop a-Pickin' on My Little Pickaninny," is one of the features at the Forsyth this week.

It comes in the act of Gus Edwards' "The Kid Kabaret," which introduces a number of clever juveniles, who can sing and dance, as was as act cleverly the roles assigned to them.

The song, which was sung at one performance several months ago, when Gus Edwards himself was here, is now a regular part of the new act, and on Monday afternoon and evening made a hit at the Forsyth, where an excellent vaudeville bill is now holding for the patronage of all lovers of good amusement.

From a standpoint of beauty of face and of video their ain many this week who will rave over Belle Story, the attractive singer who has been featured in America's largest vaudeville houses.

Miss Story wears three gowns that will attract the attention of all the women in the audience, and be the cause of much discussion when the show is ended. Perhaps there will be some to say that it's getting rather warm for the first time, which makes one think of winter time, but then it is such a dainty costume that a woman would think several times before letting the weather interfere.

Miss Story's voice is the wonder of the musicians in the theater. She reaches high F in her "Coming Through the Rye" song, and that is "going some," when you learn that only Helens, of all the singers appearing here, have been within four tones of the record. Her act kept on growing better.

Hart's Six Steppers won the unstinted praise of all the lovers of dancing. There were a number present in the audience, judges of good work in this line, who declared they were the best ever seen in Atlanta, and the storm of applause that swept the house after the last number, which brought many bows, seemed to show that the entire audience was of the same opinion.

The Burglars' union, in which three clever actors take a part, is the laugh act of the week, and is a number hard to beat. The Musical Alimos are good, and Eldora and company, in comedy juggling, please. Two other acts complete the bill.

ATLANTAN SETTLES BIG RALEIGH SUIT

Benjamin M. Hall Called Upon to Help Fix Price of Waterworks.

An interesting question was solved by arbitration at Raleigh, N. C., in which an Atlanta engineer took a large part. It was the settlement of a suit for the possession and operation of waterworks for the city of Raleigh, docketed as Wake Water company and bondholders v. Raleigh, N. C.

The arbitrators were Benjamin M. Hall, engineer, of Atlanta; Gilbert C. White and Thomas J. Shaw, of North Carolina. The price decided upon by the arbitrators was $250,000, agreed upon as fair, when the figures had before differed anywhere from $193,000 to $272,000. The award was suggested and upheld by Mr. Hall after his careful survey and estimate of the condition of the waterpower plant and distributing system.

Among other suggestions of the arbitrators was an impounding basin for the storage of water, the supply heretofore having been furnished by the normal flow of a stream, with nothing to spare for emergency and fire protection.

The recent loss of The News and Observer plant at Raleigh, $75,000 damage, was due largely to the insufficient supply. It is understood Josephus Daniels, now secretary of the navy, owner of The News and Observer, will sue the city of Raleigh for the difference between his loss and $28,000 insurance he carried.

Mr. Hall returned to Atlanta Saturday night.

TELEPHONE RATES UNDER EXAMINATION

Valdosta Committee Investigates Claims for Higher Tariff—Case Before Commission Later.

Valdosta, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The committee from the Valdosta chamber of commerce, which has been appointed to investigate the claims of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company's right to fix a higher tariff in this city, left Monday night for Atlanta to confer with the Bell officials. The committee is composed of G. W. Varn, T. S. McKey, Abial Winn and J. M. Ashley, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The Valdosta committee will, at the invitation of the telephone company, examine the books and vouchers since the taking over twenty years ago of the local exchange.

The company claims that it has realized less than 4 per cent on its Valdosta investment and that it intends to go before the commission and ask to raise telephone rates, but that it wants to satisfy the people of Valdosta that it is entitled to the increase.

Members of the chamber of commerce say that in case their committee is satisfied with the company's showing no fight will be made of the proposed raise, but that otherwise they will object before the commission.

A modern building with one of the most complete equipments in the country is promised with the increase, which is desired to be 50 cents per telephone for each subscriber, and which it is stated will amount to $12,000 per year added gross income to the company.

JAPAN TO MAKE FORMAL PROTEST

Against Anti-Alien Land Law Passed by California—Diplomats Think It Has Put U. S. in Delicate Position.

Washington, May 5.—The Japanese embassy was supplied by the state department today with a copy of the alien landowning bill passed by the California legislature and the ambassador will employ the time between now and Secretary Ryan's return to Washington in preparing a formal protest against the measure.

Apparently the embassy has no hope that any word President Wilson may send after Secretary Bryan returns will influence Governor Johnson to withhold his signature from the act, so the only object of the protest will be to acquaint the American people with the Japanese contention and, if possible, to influence the executive branch of the government to endeavor to nullify the action of the California legislature.

The embassy will make known the ground of its protest in a diplomatic note to Secretary Bryan. It is well understood that to settle the question no matter what may be the point of opposition will require the action of the United States courts, and much consideration must be given to the procedure to be followed in arranging for a judicial test of the California law. It will be for Secretary Bryan to determine whether the United States government shall become a party to a suit of this character, in the capacity of an intervenor.

In a Delicate Position.

International lawyers hint that the administration is in an exceedingly delicate position for the reason that, while apparently a champion of the Japanese through the secretary of state before the California legislature, probably from this point on it must defend the California law against Japan in the diplomatic struggle about to begin.

If the department should adopt the California contention that the land law does not violate the existing treaty with Japan, then it might feel bound to refuse to submit the issue to arbitration by the Hague tribunal.

Furthermore it is contended that the United States government probably would be unable to enforce the decree of the tribunal in case it should be adverse to California, if the American courts found that the state acted within its rights in enacting the law. No case has yet been found where the supreme court has passed upon the relative force of a treaty which invades the reserved constitutional powers of a sovereign state and of a conflicting law of such state. So the state department has nothing to guide it in that direction, and probably must establish a precedent in disposing of this issue.

Feeling of Unrest Among Diplomats.

It developed today that, as a result of the centering of attention upon the California situation, a number of the diplomatic representatives in Washington have been informally discussing and conferring over alleged violations of treaties by many states of the union. Violations are said to have occurred particularly in connection with cases involving the disposition of the property of aliens who have died intestate in this country and in which local state courts have taken jurisdiction in defiance of treaties.

Altogether there are indications of a feeling of unrest that may lead to demands upon the national government which could not be compiled with without a general rearrangement of the functions of the state governments, so far as they concern allens.

Meanwhile the government's legal experts are studying the Webb bill in an effort to locate what may be points of attack. Many officials here believe that the lawyers of the California legislature have succeeded in framing a bill that may successfully resist attack on the ground that it violates any provision of the treaty of 1911 between the United States and Japan. In that case Japan would need to rely upon the general provisions of the international law to secure relief from the threatened discrimination.

Japan Increasing Navy.

It alleges in some apprehension that an effort might be made to connect with the California situation the recent placing of orders for three dreadnaughts. Japanese officials today declared these vessels were appropriated for by the last diet before the land legislation began in California.

The joint board, composed of the highest technical officers of the army and navy, and headed by Admiral Dewey, was in secret session today. While it was a special meeting, it was stated that it had been in contemplation for some time and it was to have been called as soon as Major General Wood returned from his Texas trip.

DRASTIC ART-ALIEN LAW PASSED BY ARIZONA HOUSE

Phoenix, Ariz., May 5.—To take the place of the measure enacted a year ago, the lower house of the state legislature passed an anti-alien land ownership bill today that is far more drastic than the California legislation on the same subject. The act prohibits any alien who has not declared intention to become a citizen from acquiring title to real property.

Opponents of the bill, who wanted to exempt foreigners who were eligible to citizenship, but did not care to forswear allegiance to their native land, were able to muster but six opposing votes.

The bill was sent to the senate, where present prospects point to early passage.

PROBE PHAGAN CASE GRAND JURY URGED

Crime Calls for Your Immediate Attention, Declares Judge Ellis, in His Charge.

"The Mary Phagan case calls for your immediate and vigorous attention. The power of the state is behind you. What appears to be an awful crime has been committed, and the welfare of the community, the good name of Atlanta, public justice and the majesty of the law demand at the hands of this grand jury and of all officers of the law the most searching investigation and the prompt bringing to trial of the guilty party."

Such was the charge made by Judge W. D. Ellis, of the superior court, to the grand jury for the May session empannelled Monday morning. Judge Ellis declared that a thousand crimes would not equal in horror the murder of little Mary Phagan.

Solicitor-General Dorsey expressed the opinion that the grand jury would not take the matter up immediately. To do this, he declared, would interfere with the coroner's jury, which is still making its inquest.

The body of Mary Phagan was exhumed Monday morning by Coroner Donehoo. An examination of the contents of the stomach will be made in an endeavor to get some new clew that may throw light on the mystery.

AUGUSTA MAN TRIED FOR MURDER CHARGE

Augusta, Ga., May 5.—Marshall Shedd, railroad engineer, went on trial this morning in superior court, charged with the murder of Edward B. Collins on the night of February 8 last.

It took an hour and a half to secure a jury after examining seventy-four talesmen. Eight are farmers. The defense probably will be that the slaying was an accident.

CASE OF L. J. GLENN WILL BE TRIED TODAY

It is expected that the case of L. J. Glenn, the Atlanta contractor who eloped with Mrs. Ione Pidcock, divorced wife of C. W. Pidcock, of Moultrie, president of the Georgia and Northern railroad, will come up for trial today before City Judge Calhoun.

The charge of abandoning his minor children, upon which he will be tried, are contained in warrants sworn out by Mrs. Glenn last September at the time of Glenn's elopement.

EUGENE DUNN DIES AT TALBOTTON HOME

Talbotton, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Eugene G. Dunn, aged 40, died today after a lingering illness from typhoid pneumonia from which he had been ill for three months. His funeral will be held here Tuesday.

He was a planter on a large scale and was regarded as one of the leading men in the county and always took an interest in movements for improvement. He had a large circle of friends whose sympathy goes out to his bereaved family.

Mr. Dunn is survived by one sister, Miss Lina Dunn, of Talbotton, and three brothers, Henry Dunn, of Monongah; Gus Dunn, of Bullochville, and Cupp Dunn, of Oakman, Ala., and a niece, Miss Helen Dunn, of Greenville.

DR. FRANCIS PATTON LEAVES PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., May 5.—Francis Landey Patton resigned as president of the Princeton Theological seminary at the annual commencement meeting of the board of directors today. Benjamin Breckinbridge Warfield, senior member of the seminary faculty, will act as president until Dr. Patton's successor is elected.

Advancing years and failing eyesight were given by Dr. Patton as reasons for resigning. He will leave at the expiration of his term, August 1. He will be connected with Princeton University, however, as he holds the chair of ethics in that institution.

In 1888 he was elected president of Princeton University. Dr. Patton is 70 years old. He resigned in 1902, and he was succeeded by Woodrow Wilson. Dr. Patton being elected president of the seminary at the same time. President Hibben, of Princeton University, said it was with the deepest regret that he heard of Dr. Patton's resignation, and added:

"Dr. Patton's loss, both to the seminary and to the community, is irreparable."

It is understood that Dr. Patton will make his home in Bermuda.

$1,000 LOSS BY FIRE IN COTTON WAREHOUSE

Cuthbert, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the cotton warehouse early today of J. T. Moye on Depot street and burned about $1,000 worth of cotton.

Cotton in other warehouses was moved out for safety, while the efforts of the fire department were concentrated upon the flames. The cotton was not insured and the principal losers were Moyeand R. D. Crozier.

HE WILL GET $30,000 FOR LOSS OF BOTH LEGS

Washington, May 5.—The constitutionality of the Indiana employers' liability law was today upheld by the supreme court in the suit of Haynes L. Hackett against the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railroad company. Hackett, a yard switchman, at Monon, Ind., will recover $30,000 for the loss of both legs through the negligence of his immediate superior, the yard foreman.

"In repeated decisions the Indiana supreme court," held Justice Lurton today for the high court, "has construed the act as one which cannot be invoked by any class of railroad employes not engaged in some branch of service where they are subject to the hazards incident to the movement of trains or engines and held thatas thus limited the act is valid. As thus construed the act does not contravene the fourteenth amendment. But we do not intimate that the act, if construed as applicable to all employees of a railroad company would be in contravention of that amendment."

REPUBLICANS FIGHT SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

Washington, May 5.—Carrying a total of nearly $117,000,000, the sundry civil appropriation bill was taken up in the senate today, but after a three-hour debate was put over until tomorrow, when it probably will be passed. The provision exempting labor and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the Sherman act, with funds appropriated for anti-trust prosecution, was the subject of attack by many republicans. Senator Gallinger read part of the message which accompanied the vote by former President Taft of the same bill during the last session of congress. Chairman Martin, of the appropriations committee, asked that the bill be adopted in its present form, and Senator Stone defended the exemption clause.

FORMER MAYOR DENIED PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL

Columbus, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Judge S. P. Gilbert today overruled mitton for a new trial in the case of Claude Gullatt, former mayor of Phenix City, Ala., who was recently convicted in Muscogee superior court of being an accessory before the fact in a case of assault with intent to murder and sentenced to one year on the Georgia state farm. The case will now go to the state supreme court.

Diamond Prices Advancing; Buy Now and Save From $1 to $30 Per Carat

Importers advise that prices in the primary market have advanced $10 to $30 since January. This increase will be felt in this country within the next four months.

In addition to this the Democratic Caucus of the House of Representatives have recommended a duty of 10 per cent on rough diamonds and a duty of 20 per cent on polished diamonds.

This duty will no doubt be levied on diamonds as soon as the Tariff bill is passed. This, of course, will cause a still further advance.

This is a favorable time to buy in anticipation of your wants.

Call or write for our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds." This book quotes net prices on all grades and weights. It explains our method of sending diamonds on approval and selling on attractive monthly payments.

The prospective brides came fromth Scotland and Ireland and the immigration authorities said they were the prettiest as well as the largest company that ever came here to be married.

ALABAMA CORN CROP SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Huntsville, Ala., May 5.—(Special.) Professor J. R. Hobdy, one of the agricultural experts of the agricultural experiment station at Auburn, delivered an address on corn culture at the first meeting of the Madison County Boys' Corn club of this season. The corn club starts the year with more than one hundred contestants and half of the members attended the meeting.

Professor Hobdy told some of the things that have already been accomplished in Alabama and said that the corn yield had been increased from 44,000,000 bushels to 65,000,000 bushels within four years. This has been accomplished with an average cultivation in the state only 3 1-2 inches and he believed that if the soil be cultivated 7 inches the corn yield in Alabama will be 100,000,000 bushels. The average yield per acre cultivated by corn club boys in Alabama is four times the average yield attained by the other farmers of the state. There were 10,894 corn club boys in Alabama last year. Professor Hobdy said. He urged great care in seed selection and said the farmers should never burn their cornstalks, but should turn them under in the fall.

NO SECRET HEARINGS IN DIVORCE SUITS

London, May 5.—The possibility of secret proceedings in divorce and other suits in the United Kingdom was put to an end today by a judgment delivered by the house of lords, sitting as the highest court of appeals.

The divorce court had adjudged a Mrs. Scott guilty of contempt of court in circulating among her friends the report of a case heard "in camera," in which she had been accused of infidelity, but had been vindicated.

The third lord chancellor's opinion, in which the other law lords concurred, reverses the judgment for contempt of court.

The lord chancellor declares: "Every court of justice in the land is open to every subject of the king and a court has no power to sit otherwise than with open doors."

ALABAMA COMMISSION UPHELD BY U. S. COURT

Judge Grubb Sustains Right of Commission to Fix Rates. No Injunction for Roads.

Birmingham, Ala., May 5.—Judge W. I. Grubb, of the United States court here today passing on the proceedings in which the state railroad commission fixed the passenger rate at 2½ cents per mile, held that the commission had the right to fix rates and that the railroads had a way of going either into the state or federal courts for injunctions and trying the case on merits; that the state railroad commission was not in contempt when it fixed the rate of 2½ cents after Judge Jones, of the federal court, had declared the legislative enactment to the same effect null and void is in the decision, the state railroad commission having called a hearing and having fixed the new rate irrespective and regardless of the legislative enactment.

It is intimated that the railroads will take steps to enjoin the state railroad commission from putting the new rate into effect May 20, the date heretofore fixed for the rate to go into effect.

SESSION TO BE LONG SAYS SENATOR BACON

Washington, May 5.—An attempt to pass a resolution authorizing the senate banking and currency committee to hold hearings preliminary to emergency reform legislation precipitated a sharp debate in the senate today and an objection of Senator Clarke went over until tomorrow.

Senator Gallinger inquired directly of Chairman Owen if it was the intention of the committee to pass currency legislation at the extra session.

"I am unable to make a definite reply," said Mr. Owen. "Personally I am strongly in favor of this legislation at this session."

Senator Bacon declared senators might as well make up their minds that the day of the short session was over and that they would have to spend most of the year in Washington.

JACK JOHNSON TRIED FOR "WHITE SLAVERY"

Chicago, May 5.—Twelve jurymen to try Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act, had been selected by the government when the first day of the trial ended today. None of the panel had been accepted by the defense. Johnson is charged with having transported Belle Scrabner from Pittsburg to Chicago for immoral purposes in 1910.

Counsel for Johnson, it is said, will seek to bar from the jury those who admit having convictions against the marriage of white women to negroes.

J. E. Johnson and A. E. Dick, of Aurora, the first two men examined, were excused promptly when both declared they had decided opinions as to Johnson's guilt and strong convictions as to the punishment they would mete out to him.

Lucile Cameron Johnson, the fighter's second white wife, did not appear in court, and it was said counsel for Johnson will keep her from the courtroom unless she is called upon to testify.

There are forty-five counts in the nine indictments against Johnson, the maximum penalty collectively being forty-five years in the penitentiary or a fine of $90,000, or both.

NEW DAY IS DAWNING ACCORDING TO DANIELS

New Orleans, May 5.—The address of Secretary of the Navy Daniels before the board of trade here today was interpreted a vindicating that he favored the resumption of active operations at the New Orleans naval station and at other stations which were ordered dismantled by former Secretary Meyer. He declared that it would not favor closing permanently any naval station of the country even if its operation meant the payment of only a small interest on the money invested.

After an inspection of the New Orleans naval station, Secretary Daniels left tonight for Pensacola, Fla., where he will inspect the dismantled station there.

In his address here today, Secretary Daniels said that while he is a southerner and a lifelong democrat, he is proud of the fact that secretaries can have no part in the present administration.

"We are on the threshold of a new day and a day of justice and fairness," he said. "There has been an awakening and the day of special privilege is gone. The government no longer can be in partnership with individuals, and under the new order every section will be given equal justice."

Secretary Daniels paid a tribute to the memory of the late United States Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, to whose foresight and tireless energy, he declared, we are indebted in a large measure for the construction of the Panama canal.

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE IS PREDICTED BY REA

Pittsburg, May 5.—Speaking at a luncheon, tendered him today by the Pittsburg chamber of commerce, President Samual Rea, of the Pennsylvania railroad, forecasted a general increase in freight rates. Mr. Rea said:

"We find it most difficult for the railroads to raise money for improvements and there is little light ahead. We are asking no favors. All we want is fair play. The eastern divisions of the Pennsylvania railroad are making less than five per cent on their investment. If the company had not been properly managed it would not be paying even this small return. We are, therefore, obliged to look forward to a general and moderate increase in rates. The recent floods have cost us $2,500,000, which amount has been a cash outlay. We must rely on the support of the public to secure the increase in rates which is clear, we need.

"We do not know whether the government valuation of railroad properties is to be used for purposes of taxation by the government, or to assist the regulation of rates, but we do know that we propose to assist the interstate commerce commission in its mighty task. There are at present in this country between 15 and 16 thousand millions of dollars' worth of railroads."

"CRIMINAL METHODS" LAID TO ROCKEFELLER

Senator Works Bitterly Attacks Oil Magnate in Opposing His $100,000,000 Foundation.

Washington, May 5.—Efforts in congress to incorporate the $100,000,000 Rockefeller foundation were scored today by Senator Works, who declared them a "proposal to 'farm out' to John D. Rockefeller and his associates the right and power to educate the people of the country with money accumulated by criminal means." Senator Works' statement was made in connection with a speech he delivered in the senate today on trusts and combinations, the existence of which he blamed to the high protective tariff policy.

"The extent to which this may be carried out is practically unlimited. The corporations and institutions of learning which may be established throughout the country in the hands of people who will be subservient to the interests and views of Mr. Rockefeller and his associates are without number or limitation," said the senator.

"We do not want our children to be taught the ways nor the methods of John D. Rockefeller or his kind, nor to be generous with ill-gotten gains, nor to touch, handle or profit by gold that should blister the fingers of the man who has accumulated it by extortion, oppression, and crime, and is now attempting to rid himself of it by giving it away, nor to become the receivers of stolen goods in the name and under the guise of charity.'

IF WAGES ARE REDUCED THERE'LL BE A PROBE

Washington, May 5.—If reductions in wages of workingmen follow the enactment of the democratic tariff bill, the investigating powers of the department of commerce will be called in to establish whether they are of a bona fide nature according to Secretary Redfield.

President Wilson has said he would try to learn the cause of any reductions of pay after passage of the bill and to callers today he indicated a general approval of Mr. Redfield's ideas.

Mr. Redfield declared at the white house that probably the first inquiry would be into the pottery industry for which he said representatives had been made that a reduction in wages would follow changes in duties.

"We want to see," said Secretary Redfield whether any changes in business, particularly those that affect wages, are directly necessary in the industries affected or whether some business men just bluffing. In other words, we do not feel disposed to accept at par statements of the interests themselves as to the effects of the tariff bill, but will make a thorough investigation through the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce."

The secretary indicated that his department would observe business in general after the tariff bill had gone into effect, and if changes in the tariff seemed necessary the data collected would be a basis for discussion in congress at later sessions.

YOUNGSTERS TOOK A LONG STROLL IN SCANTY RAIMENT

James and Charles Johnson, aged 3 and 5, respectively, don't want to stay in any orphan asylum, and they aren't going to do it, if they can help it.

Sunday afternoon they were taken to the Georgia Baptist Orphan's home in Hapeville by their aunt, Mrs. Carrie Meade, of 24 Milledge avenue. They objected, strenuously, but they were taken under the wing of the kindly matron, and Mrs. Meade departed, thinking that she had arranged a permanent home for her little nephews.

Monday morning, though, when the matron went to their bedroom, she found their beds untouched, and the two brothers were conspicuous only by their absence.

Two hours later they were found in West End, Atlanta, clad in an odd mixture of pajamas and petticoats. They were taken back to the home, six miles distant.

Not more than an hour later they were found to be missing again. A search party put out from the home, and the two little fellows were found about a mile odwn the road. The came back, but they don't intend to stay.

"We won't be here tomorrow," they didn't hesitate to tell the matron. As they have already shown an aristocratic lack of care for stylish clothes, she is rather at loss for a way to keep them.

AFTER 37 YEARS' FIGHT EDISON IS DEFEATED

Washington, May 5.—After being in the courts thirty-seven years, the suit of Thomas A. Edison and others against the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company and the suit of Jay Gould for alleged infringement of patents relating to quadruplex telegraphy, was ended today when the supreme court dismissed the Edison appeal. The lower court held it was without jurisdiction to consider the case and the supreme court sustained that view.

To Probe Civil Service.

Washington, May 5.—Senator Pomerene introduced a resolution today asking for an investigation of alleged abuse of the civil service. The resolution set forth that in the administration of the civil service laws "it has been and now is repeatedly charged that they have been disregarded in the interest of and by the party at the time in power."

BIBB COURT HOLDS RECEIVERS MAY SUE

Demurrer of Stockholders of Defunct Bank Denied and Receivers Given Right to Sue.

Macon, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Judge Matthews, in the Bibb superior court this morning, held that the receivers of the defunct Exchange bank are the proper parties to bring the suit against the stockholders of that institution to make up a deficiency of 16 per cent still due to depositors.

Several months ago the receivers entered suit against a number of the stockholders for $20 a share on their stock to make up the balance of the money needed to pay the depositors. A number of the stockholders accepted a compromise on the basis of $20 a share, but the majority refused and demurred to the right of the receivers to bring the suit.

The court also held that the stockholders can be sued for interest on the amount still due the depositors from July, 1907. The case will be appealed.

Captain Harris Resigns.

Macon, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Captain John B. Harris, of the Macon Volunteers, tonight presented his resignation to that company, following the regular weekly drill. He will probably be succeeded by Lieutenant M. C. Balkcom, who during the seven years that he has been connected with the Volunteers has never missed a single drill.

Macon, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The beautiful country residence of A. K. Van Vera, seven miles from Macon on the Thomaston road, was destroyed by fire last night at a loss of $5,000 above insurance. Mr. Van Vera, who barely had time to arouse the members of his family and escape from the building before the roof fell in, is one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Southern railway.

Cadets Enjoy Camp Life.

Macon, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The Gordon cadets from Barnesville, who are holding their annual encampment in Central City park, Macon, declare they are having the time of their lives. Many of them are in camp for the first time. Many Macon people have visited the camp to witness the maneuvers.

Select Site for Church.

Macon, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—The Vineville Baptists have chosen a site for their new church at Vineville and Pierce avenues, six blocks further out than the present church. Announcement is made that the architect will be here this week to go over the plans and work will be started as soon as the contract can be awarded. The new church will cost $40,09, exclusive of furnishings.

NO TARIFF HEARINGS BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, May 5.—No public hearings on the tariff revision bill are to be held by the senate finance committee, according to Senator Simmons, its chairman. This is expected to speed up consideration of the bill after it gets to the senate, probably Thursday. Senator Simmons said today that those most interested in the schedules were content to file briefs setting forth their views and recommendations.

It is the present view of the finance committee chairman that the committee will have the bill under consideration about ten days or two weeks at most. After that two weeks will be given senators to prepare for debate on the floor. The bill is expected to be reported to the senate about June 1 at the latest.

Republican leaders, it is reported, are planning to move, when the bill comes from the house, to refer it to the finance committee with instructions for public hearings.

SOLDIER IS KILLED IN FRONT OF POST

John Galivan Is Run Over by a Central of Georgia Passenger Train.

John Galivan, a Spanish war veteran and a private in Company L of the Seventeenth United States infantry, stationed at Fort McPherson, was struck and instantly killed by a Central of Georgia local in-bound passenger train in front of the army post at 7:43 o'clock last night.

Galivan was a little deaf and, when he crossed the track, evidently failed to hear the train coming. When it hit him, he was hurled fully ten yards away. Practically every bone in his body was broken. He struck on his head, breaking his neck, which probably caused death.

He was 45 years old and had been in the service for nearly twenty years. He was a native of Ireland. His place of enlistment or the names of any relatives living in this country could not be learned.

W. B. Last, the engineer, and J. D. Weather, the conductor of their train, were released on their own recognizance.

SEVEN WEEKS OF OPERA ASSURED PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, May 6.—Philadelphia will have seven weeks of grand opera next winter by the Philadelphia-Chicago Grand Opera company, as a result of a conference of the Philadelphia company here this afternoon. Cleofonto Campanini will be the general manager of the company, succeeding Andreas Dippel, who recently resigned. The question of grand opera in Chicago, it is said, hinged on the situation in Philadelphia, and it is now believed the company will give performances in Chicago the same as last winter.

Andrews Dippel, it was announced, will retire from the grand opera field for a term of three years. He transferred his contract with Titta Ruffo to the management of the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera company, and the latter company will give performances in this city for two and a half weeks, beginning early in November, and will return for five weeks in March or April, 1914.

Dippel received $25,000, which his contract called for as salary next year, and other considerations for his agreement not to enter the grand opera field for three years for the contract he assigned. The total amount paid him was not made public.

WOMEN BREAK JAIL BY USE OF KNIVES

Albany, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—An unusual delivery of prisoners occurred last night at the Dougherty county convict camp, when five negro women, confined in the stockade, cut through the wall with knives, which they had in some manner secured. Although officers have been on the lookout for them all day, none of the women have been recaptured.

GEN. AUBERT AND ARMY SURRENDER TO REBELS

Huerta's General and 700 Soldiers Are Taken by the Carranza Forces.

El Paso, Texas, May 5.—The rebel committee today received verification of the report that General Trucy Aubert had surrendered to the Carranza insurgents at Lampasas, below Laredo, Texas. The verification was brought to the border by Major Salvador Gomez, of the state forces, who says he saw the surrender of Aubert and 700 federal troops.

Mutinous federal troops, which on Saturday drove their commander, General Jose Inez Salazar and his faithful followers from old Casas Grandes Mexico, are being urged to accept formally the constitutionalist revolution. This practically would place the revolutionists in control of the territory along the Mexico Northern railroad, southwest of Juarez. So far the mutineers, who number 2,500, merely have displayed resentment of their leaders' ordering them to proceed to Chihuahua City, on instructions from General Antonio Rabago. But insurgent agents here believe that they soon will accept the revolutionary plan.

General Salazar and his men retreated to New Casas Grandes, the railway town, with the mutineers in undisputed claim of the older and larger settlement, a few miles from the railway. With the possession of the Casas Grandes district, a valuable food supply center, it is planned to proceed directly with the campaign against Juarez.

Gun Running is Barred.

Washington, May 5.—Persons exporting arms from the United States to promote revolution in Mexico may be arrested by American authorities for violating the neutrality proclamation of 1912 before the arms have actually left the United States, according to a decision today by the supreme court. The decision reversed the district federal court for western Texas, which annulled indictments against Arunifo Chavez and Jose Masa.

Hundreds Have Been Killed.

Washington, May 5.—Reports from Mexico City today estimated that from 1,200 to 1,500 lives have been lost in engagements outside of Sonora during the past week. The reports confirmed the blowing up of a railroad train by Zapatistas at Nepantla, when 150 persons were killed. It is said that the federal forces have driven Zapata from his stronghold at Chinameca, and are pressing him hard. Matehuala, recently under siege, is said isolated and Americans have been advised by their employers to leave, as as anti-American feeling runs high.

Hurst's Troops Vanished.

Nogales, Ariz., May 5.—Fighting continued throughout the afternoon between the advance of the federals from Guaymas and the state troops below Ortiz. Indications were that the federal troops had been repulsed, although taking the aggressive in the fighting.

The telegraph line has been cut below Ortiz and efforts to reach Guaymas by wireless failed. Two American railway men were reported killed in yesterday's fighting.

NEW POLITICAL SCHOOL DISCUSSED BY TAFT

New Haven, Conn., May 5.—"If we are to have free trade let's have it," said President Wilson Howard Taft. Kent professor of law at Yale, in the second of his lectures on questions of modern government, at the university this afternoon. "Let the party that favors it vote for it. Let's try it."

His statement was incidental to a discussion of "the necessity of the political party to efficient legislation."

"The three objects of the new school of political thinkers who style themselves progressives," said Professor Taft, "are to prevent corruption of government by corporations, to endeavor to create an equality of opportunity for all men, and to equalize property holdings to some extent. Persons who don't concur with this school in the exact method of arriving at the true purpose of popular government which is to make for the happiness of all the people, are called reactionaries.

"Those of us who fall in this category must be content, but we must never cease fighting."

Professor Taft expressed the belief that the sentiment for radical changes in the method of government would recede, and that the result would be a happy medium between the old method and the new.

Emphasizing the necessity for political parties the former president said: "Popular government is impossible without parties. A group of men who are willing to sacrifice minor details for the sake of a consistent course for the accomplishment of a few main things is necessary for efficiency in government."

It was in this connection he made the reference to free trade.

PLAN TO CELEBRATE BATTLE OF ATLANTA

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon a conference will be held in the chamber of commerce, Empire building, by representatives of all of the leading patriotic bodies of the city, in which will be discussed the feasibility of Atlanta celebrating the semi-centennial of the battle of Atlanta.

This idea originated with President Wilmer L. Moore, who submitted it to the chamber of commerce and the people in the last few days circular letters have been sent out to a number of the leading citizens of the city, asking them to be present.

Congressman William Schley Howard has sent the following telegram in this regard:

"The movement for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Atlanta is heartily indorsed by me. This decisive battle of war should be celebrated with substantial recognition from the federal government, and I feel assured that we will receive hearty co-operation in making it a great success. I am at your command as is the entire Georgia delegation."

SHORTAGE OF YERGER WILL REACH $60,000

Jackson, Miss., May 5.—Investigation into the alleged shortage of Lawrence Yerger, former secretary of the state prison board, continued today. While it was intimated others are involved, nothing developed to bear out this. It is now declared by the investigators the amount of the alleged defalcation will reach $60,000.

Governor Brewer says Yerger admitted to him that he was short in his accounts, but told him no others besides Yerger are implicated. Further developments are expected. The board of prison trustees meets tomorrow.

FIGHT FOR SUFFRAGE BEGINS IN COMMONS

Measure That Would Enfranchise 6,000,000 Women Is Being Debated.

London, May 5.—The struggle for woman suffrage began again in the house of commons this afternoon when the second reading was moved of Willoughby Dickinson's bill which proposes to enfranchise 6,000,000 women.

Vital sections of the brief bill are as follows:

"1. Every woman who

"(A)—If she wear a man would be entitled to be registered as a parliamentary elector in respect of a household qualification within the meaning of the representation act of 1884; or

"(B)—If the wife of a man entitled to be registered in respect of a household qualification and has resided in the qualifying premises during the period required by law to enable a person to be so registered, she shall be entitled to be registered and when registered to vote as a parliamentary elector in the constituency wherein the qualifying premises are situate.

"2. A woman shall not be entitled to be registered unless she has attained the age of 25 years.

"3. A woman shall not be disqualified by reason of marriage from being registered and voting."

The bill is backed by seven liberals, two unionists and two labor members. While it meets the wishes of most of the men supporters of woman suffrage, it does not go far enough for others.

The parties are so hopelessly divided and even the members of the cabinet are so widely set asunder on the question that a forcast of the outcome of the debate is most difficult.

Members when they arrived at the house today had to run the gauntlet of women carrying placards directed at the cabinet ministers, such as "Traitor Asquith," "Deport Reginald McKenna, and Chancellor Hobhouse."

Willoughby Dickinson, in moving the second reading of the bill, argued that to refuse women parliamentary suffrage rights to punish a few criminals such as the members of the Women's Social and Political Union would be unjust.

Arthur Cecil Beck, another Liberal member, in speaking for the rejection of the bill, said the fact that all the outrages and crimes had been committed by women of education and high character showed the inclusion of such women among the voters would be a destructive blow at parliamentary and constitutional government.

It was noticeable that both those supporting and opposing the bill were in accord in their denunciation of militancy.

Viscount Wolmer, speaking in behalf of the bill, evoked cheers by his condemnation of "those irresponsible lunatics who are carrying on the militant movement."

The Right Honorable Charles A. Stuart-Wortley, supporter of the bill, said:

"No sane man can approve of the criminal acts of the militant group."

AT THE TIP OF ALASKA HE WILL CLAIM BRIDE

Seattle, Wash., May 5.—Paul Patkotah, an 18-year-old Eskimo, will sail for Point Barrow, the Arctic extremity of Alaska, on May 22, on the schooner Transit, to claim the hand of Miss Alice Ahlook, native teacher in the Point Barrow government school, who refused to marry him three years ago because of his lack of education.

When he was rejected by Miss Ahlook the youth trapped enough Arctic foxes to pay for a year's schooling and worked his passage to Seattle. He was permitted to enter one of the grammar schools because of the knowledge he had gained at the Point Barrow school. His summer vacations were spent with a fishing fleet. During the last year he has learned shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping, in addition to his other studies.

OLD POE LANDMARK GIVES WAY TO PROGRESS

New York, May 5.—King's Bridge tavern, a landmark of 100 years' standing and a resort where Edgar Allen Poe used to wait for his manuscript to come back from unappreciative editors is about to give way to the march of progress. It is on the site of what will be the new American league baseball park next summer at 226th street and Broadway, and today a gang of laborers took possession of the old tavern as a shelter for themselves and their shovels while the last guest walked out. Efforts of Poe's admirers to preserve the old tavern for its historical interest failed.

KERN TO PRESS PROBE OF STRIKE CONDITIONS

Washington, May 5.—After reading a statement by Governor Hatfield, of West Virginia, denying allegations of peonage and a reign of terror in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal districts, Senator Kern today reiterated his intention to press his resolution for a federal inquiry into the West Virginia coal field situation.

"I have never pretended," declared Senator Kern, "to have had personal knowledge of conditions in West Virginia. I have stated facts as they have been presented to me. Opposition to investigation which has come from various quarters has done more than anything else to arouse my suspicions as to the conditions existing there."

Pope Pius Gives Audience.

Rome, May 5.—Pope Pius, for the first time since his illness, gave an audience this morning. The honor fell to Cardinal Dominic Ferrata, who recently returned from Malta, where he had presided over the Eucharistic congress as papal legatee. The pope expressed deep interest in the congress, inquiring minutely about the details of this great religious gathering.

Baroness Weds American.

Baltimore, May 5.—Baroness Alix Moncheur, daughter of Baron Moncheur, former Belgian minister at Washington, now ambassador to Turkey, was married at the cathedral here today to Robert F. Mr. Jetton went to Memphis two years ago to take charge of the advertising of the Phoenix Cotton Oil company. Prior to that time he had held many responsible positions as advertising manager for other concerns in the east and south and has an enviable reputation.

MAN IS FATALLY SHOT IN A SOCIALIST RIOT

Huntington, W. Va., May 5.—One man was shot in the head and seriously wounded and several others slightly injured during a riot here tonight in alleged attempt to break up a mass meeting of socialists which had been called to protest against martial law in the coal strike district of Kanawha county and the imprisonment of labor leaders.

William Taylor, an aged man, was shot through the head. He will die. Missiles were hurled on all sides. Speakers were hooted down and the resultant confusion made it impossible to ascertain who used firearms.

Several squads of police rushed to the scene. The officers waded into the fighting factions, using their clubs freely. A number of arrests were made.

ORDINANCE TO PREVENT WILDCAT CONTRACTORS

The ordinance prepared by Superintendent Turner, of the electrical department, proposing a bond of $1,500 to prevent "wildcat" contractors fleecing owners of buildings, was introduced in council, yesterday, and on the suggestion of Councilman Claude Mason it was referred to the city attorney. The ordinance was advanced to its second reading, and stood a good chance of being passed.

The resolutions providing for $700 for an additional inspector for the electrical department, and $750 for an auto for Superintendent Turner, were introduced and sent to the finance committee.

NEW "ANTI-DIRT" LAW PROPOSED BY ASHLEY

Councilman Claude L. Ashley is not satisfied with the present law which was passed to prevent hauling contractors from spilling dirt on the streets.

He has offered another ordinance, which not only makes a contractor liable to arrest and punishment by fine or imprisonment, but it also gives the police power to arrest the driver of the wagon. Councilman Ashley believes that by making the driver liable along with the contractor they will be more careful.

Alderman Maddox has already declared war on the ordinance.

ITCHED AND BURNED BADLY

Pimples in Hair and on Face and Hands. Turned to Festers and Sores. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

Bladen, Georgia.—"I suffered ten months with itching of the skin. It began on my body in small red pimples, then all in my hair and on my face and hands. The pimples festered and then began to turn into sores. They itched and burned badly until I could not help scratching them. They began to disfigure my hands and face after turning to festers and sores. My hands would itch worse when I put them in water. My hair came out gradually. I could not sleep or do any of my work for the itching and burning of the sores. I tried three medicines and found very little ease. I suffered nine months with the red pimples itching and burning. Then I began the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I would bathe with the Cuticura Soap three times each day but only use the Cuticura Ointment on rising and retiring. After keeping this up two weeks all the sores and itching had disappeared. I was completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in two weeks." (Signed) Miss Maggie D. Holmes, Apr. 16, 1912.

Why not have a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean scalp and good hair? It is your birthright. Cuticura Soap with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will bring about these coveted conditions in most cases when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

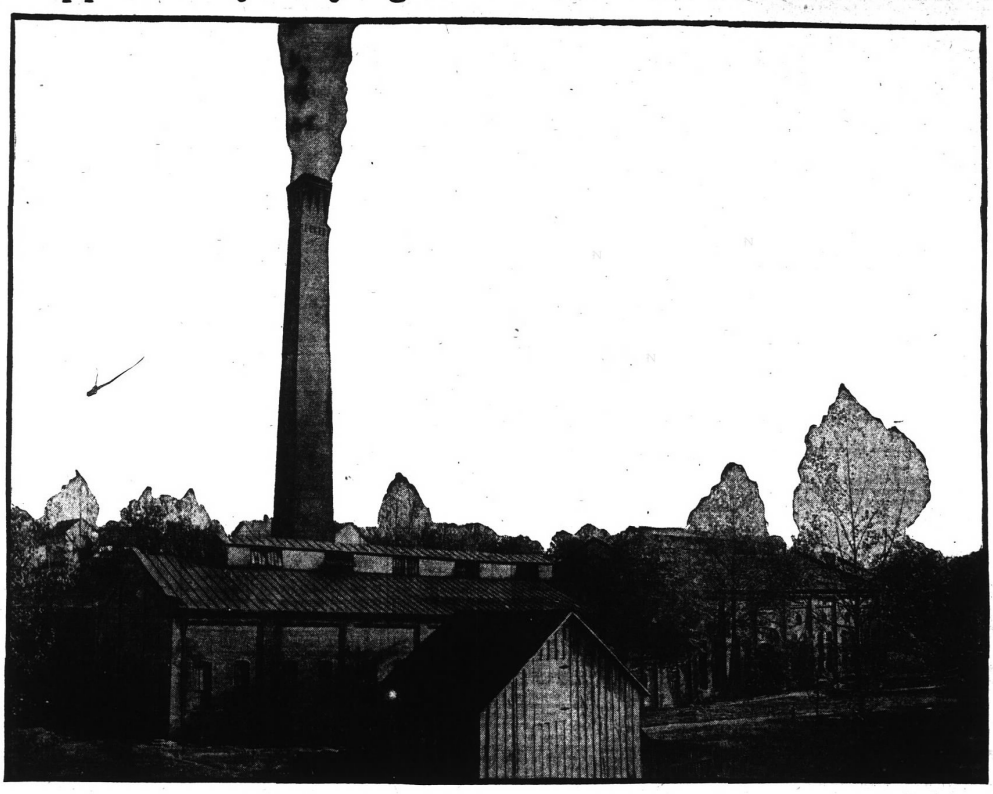
"Smoked in Atlanta"

City of Atlanta is the Latest Enterprise to Give Central Station Electric Current Complete Approval by Buying It for the New 10,000,000 Gallon Pump



THE RIVER PUMPING STATION

This plant is the home of the new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump for which the City of Atlanta has contracted with the Georgia Railway and Power Company to supply it with electric power, after carefully considering all other methods.

If any further proof were needed to demonstrate the economy and reliability of CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT, after the owners and managers of half a dozen of Atlanta's big new enterprises had contracted for it upon careful investigation of ALL methods of supplying power, then that proof is clearly furnished in the action of the CITY OF ATLANTA last week in rejecting ALL OTHER POWER PROPOSITIONS and accepting CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT of this company for the city's new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump at the River Pumping Station.

Every possible effort was made by representatives of other power methods to induce the city to accept their propositions, including that of the Municipal Ownership advocates who wanted the city to buy machinery and make its own electricity. Along with these proposals this company submitted its STANDARD RATES AND ITS REPUTATION FOR RELIABLE SERVICE.

First, the Water Board, composed of practical business men whose sole purpose is to secure the best service at the lowest cost for the city, considered all propositions and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

Then the CITY COUNCIL, also composed of business men actuated by the single motive of buying the best service at the lowest rates, rejected all other proposals and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

Then the ALDERMANIC BOARD AND THE MAYOR, all looking solely for the city's best interests, followed the action of the water board and council, rejected all other methods for supplying power for the city's new pump and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

It was literally the acid test of the economy and reliability of the Central Station service furnished by the Georgia Railway and Power Company, and the service and rates stood the test.

The most efficient, the most reliable, the most economical method of obtaining power and light for factory or building is to contract with this Company for such service.

Ask for estimates.

CITY EFFECTS BIG SAVING ON PUMP

Centrifugal Pattern Is Bought for $7,000, as Against $60,000 for Old Type

Mayor Woodward's signing of the contract with the Georgia Railway and Power Company for electric current to operate a new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump at the river station probably marks a new epoch in the history of Atlanta's waterworks department, according to W. Z. Smith, general manager. A steam pump of the type in use by the city would have cost more than $60,000, but the contract for the centrifugal pump to be operated by electricity, provides for an expenditure of only a little more than $7,000.

The objection of officials of the water department heretofore to electrically driven centrifugal pumps has been the cost of operation. The centrifugal pumps are cheaper and convenient to house and maintain, but until the bid of the electric company, based on the new water power rates, was submitted the officials did not believe the new plan would be economic. The rate is 5 1-2 mills per kilowatt hour.

Work on the new pump will be rushed. General Manager Smith said the crippled condition of two of the pumps at the river station demanded that the new one be established as quickly as possible.—From The Atlanta Georgian, April 30.

WORLD PRESBYTERIAN ALLIANCE IS INVITED

Ministers to Seek Aid of the Chamber of Commerce to Get Convention.

When the World's Presbyterian alliance meets in June in Dundee, Scotland, the invitation will be extended to that large and representative body to hold its 1914 convention in the city of Atlanta, Ga., "the gate city of the south, and the world famous host of conventions."

This was decided on Monday morning at the meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' association, which voted favorably upon the invitation and decided to confer with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies with a view to gaining general support for the invitation. Dr. G. A. Beattie presented the invitation for the consideration of the body, and it contained the provision that the presiding officer of the association, Rev. W. C. Schaeffer, personally extend the invitation to the gathering in Dundee, Scotland.

It is probable, however, that the invitation will be carried to Scotland and delivered by W. H. Roberts, of Philadelphia, who is stated clerk of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., and who is also secretary for America of the World's Presbyterian alliance. Dr. Roberts will be in Atlanta next week for the joint assemblies of the U. S. A., the U. S. and U. P. churches, and from here he will go to Scotland. There are no Atlanta men who are delegates to the Dundee convention, although it is likely that several Georgians will be going.

The World's Presbyterian alliance which meets every year in June, is a conference of representatives of practically all the Presbyterian organizations of the world.

WARDEN M'CLAUGHRY QUITS LEAVENWORTH

Leavenworth, Kan., May 5.—Major Robert Wilson McClaughry for fourteen years warden of the federal penitentiary here, today forwarded his resignation to the department of justice.

In making known this fact, the warden, who is 74 years old, said he thought he "had been on the job long enough."

Warden McClaughry is said to be one of the best informed men in the country on prison affairs. He served fourteen years as warden in the Illinois prison at Joliet, ending this service in 1888. Then he was appointed superintendent of the Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa. Three years later he became superintendent of the Chicago police department, and later was superintendent of the Illinois State reformatory at Pontiacs.

Warden McClaughry was known as the "humane warden." His advice to his subordinates was "treat a prisoner like a man and make a man of him." Under these methods prisoners were put upon their honor to observe the rules.

Authorities who have visited Leavenworth have hailed it as "the perfectly disciplined prison."

CHARITIES REMEMBERED IN WILL OF MRS. DODD

The will of Mrs. Barbara C. Dodd, widow of Philip Dodd, was filed for probate with the ordinary of Fulton county Monday morning.

While the disposition of Mrs. Dodd's estate will not be made public through the will until it comes up for probate several weeks hence, The Constitution's story of Monday that Mercer university is named as the residuary legatee and will be entitled to a bequest in teh neighborhood of $100,000 was verified.

The remainder of the estate is disposed of as follows:

The Grady hospital for the maintenance of an infants' ward the proceeds of a $2,000 fund, left in trust with the Central Bank and Trust corporation, with whom is also left a similar sum for the Georgia Baptist orphanage and a sum of $1,500 for the maintenance of Mrs. Dodd's grave any excess earnings of which will go to Mercer. A sum of $5,000 outright is left to her sister, Mrs. Fannie T. Ackerman, of New York. The earnings of $5,000 is left in trust with C. E. Currier, executor, for her brother, Henry E. Dibble, of Campbell county, upon whose death it will revert to Mercer, and a sum of $2,000 and a handsome marquise ring set with nine diamonds to her niece, Barbara E. Dibble, of Montgomery, Ala. All other jewelry is to be sold by the Central Bank and Trust corporation, the proceeds amounting to several thousand dollars, to go to the Home for Old Women, in Atlanta.

BRAZIL DEALS BLOW AT AMERICAN TRADE

Washington, May 5.—American manufacturers probably have lost a flour trade amounting to $3,000.000 a year as well as a lucrative business in cement, typewriters, machinery and other products as a result of the Brazilian government resentment at the breaking up of the Brazilian coffee valorization scheme by the department of justice. After several conferences with state department officials Brazilian Ambassador Dagama let it be known today that his country in future would decline to extend the 30 per cent differential in customs dues which until April 9 was allowed on their American products.

Without the differential, it is said, the American producers will not be able to compete with those in Argentina and Argentine millers are expected to control the Brazilian flour market.

There has been no commercial treaty between the United States and Brazil since 1841, but negotiations from time to time had resulted in the tariff differentials, under which manufacturers in this country had built up an extensive trade.

Brazil's claim is that this differential was allowed with the express understanding that America was not to impose any harrassing or discriminatory tax upon her exports to the United States. The action of the department of justice recently in seizing 320,000 bags of coffe held by the valorization committee in this country and compelling its sale contrary to the plans of the committee, is regarded as a violation of this understanding. The Brazilians not only are planning a new valorization project, but the committee is still holding 3,000,000 bags of coffee in Europe to market at its pleasure.

Casting about for means to continue the differential, Americans have urged the state department to retaliate by recommending to congress the imposition of duties on Brazilian coffee and rubber, imported to America in enormous quantities. It is understood, however, that the Brazilians confidently believe Americans must have these commodities at any cost, so that either the middle man or the ultimate consumer must pay any tariff tax that may be imposed.

MANUFACTURERS BACK WHITEHALL REGRADING

In Signed Statement They Declare They Wish Improvement Made as Soon as Possible.

The manufacturers and jobbers on Whitehall street have signed a very emphatic statement, in which they say that so far from having any objection to the regrading of Whitehall street they wish the improvement made as soon as possible. They say they think the imprisonment the greatest that could be made in the city at this time.

Their signed statement is as follows:

"We, the manufacturers and jobbers of Whitehall street, desire to correct the report that some opposition has been shown by the manufacturers to the grading of Whitehall street.

"On the contrary, and without exception, we consider it the greatest street improvement that can be made in our entire city.

"The $35,000 which we would urge the city to furnish at once will be made and saved many times over to both the city and business interests of this street.

"The abolishment of the 5 per cent grade from Brotherton to Mitchell street will enable every concern at the manufacturing end of Whitehall who hauls to depots on through the city to double their present hauling capacity.

MOTHER LIED IN VAIN TO SAVE SON'S LIFE

New York, May 5.—It is all over with "Happy Jack" Mulraney. He must die for the murder of "Paddy, the priest." His application for a new trial was denied today by Judge Rosalsky, who has been taking testimony to determine whether Mulraney could make good his claim that he was the victim of the underworld's code, which bans "squealing" on a pal.

"Happy Jack," who was granted a sixty-day respave by Governor Sulzer, changed his story time after time, and finally said he had been lying and he was ready to take his medicine. He relied largely on his aged mother to establish an alibi. She swore he was at home in bed, helplessly drunk on the night of the murder.

Today the feeble old woman broke down and admitted to the district attorney that this story was untrue. She perjured herself, she said, to save her boy.

Mulraney will be executed during the week of May 18.

HE RUINED THE WIFE AND KILLED HUSBAND

Chicago, May 5.—Joseph A. Williams was recommended to be held to the grand jury without bail for the killing of Leon LaFayette LaCount at the end of the coroner's inquest today. Williams, an art student, shot LaCount when the latter attacked him for intentions to Mrs. LaCount.

The testimony developed that Count had spent only two days with his 17-year-old bride before he went to his duty as government inspector on the Panama canal, and that improper conduct, if any, between Williams and Mrs. LaCount took place on only one occasion, when they knew the husband's return was imminent, and they did not expect to see each other again.

To spare the young widow embarrassment all persons but the jurors and the witnesses were excluded from the court room when Mrs. LaCount told of her last meeting with Williams.

Mrs. LaCount told of her secret marriage in February and of her husband's departure two days later. She met Williams, she said, in the latter part of February at a dance hall at an amusement park.

Mrs. LaCount told of other dances, calls and walks with Williams.

Williams declined to testify. Mrs. LaCount gave way to hysteria when the verdict was returned.

TRUST METHODS USED IN OBSERVING SUN

Wellington, N. Z., May 5.—The mission of linking together solar observation throughout the world, undertaken by Miss Mary Proctor, of New York, a daughter of the great English astronomer, Richard A. Proctor who died in New York in 1888, has been brought to a successful conclusion after five years' work.

The establishment of a solar physic observatory in New Zealand was assured today by the donation of $60 000 by Thomas Cawthron, of Nelson New Zealand.

New York, May 5.—"Carrying American trust methods into the heavens" was the definition given today by a well-known writer on scientific subjects to universal solar observation. The method is in every way admirable and desirable, he added, as much duplication by observatories will thereby be avoided.

There are, perhaps, a dozen great solar observatories scattered over the world. Each of these has been making independent observations of every phase of solar activity. Universal solar observation will restrict each observatory to a specific phase of observation. Thus, one observatory will be allotted the work of observing phenomena attendant upon sun spot, another will study protuberances from the rim of the sun, and so on. Each will adhere exclusively to its own phase and all will work as separate departments of a monopoly for sun observation.

The idea is about ten years old and was first credited to Professor Pickering, of Harvard.

GOSSIP AT CAPITOL

Waste Efficiency Increased.

Commissioner of Labor H. M. Stanley, it is understood, will be very likely to ask the legislature to increase the efficiency of his department. He thinks he should have the facility to take up the matter of friendly intervention in all disputes between labor and capital when called upon to do so.

Believes Cut Rates Beneficial.

Railroad Commissioner C. M. Candler has taken issue with the railroads which have claimed that the cut of rates has decreased revenues. He says:

"If the railroads want an increase in freight rates, if it be true, as they claim, that present rates do not permit of proper returns on their investment, they should base their demands square upon the plank of increased expenses and fight the thing out along that line and that alone.

"Any claim that commissions have made ruinous reductions cannot be upheld successfully."

Venue Law Being Tested.

The supreme court was engaged Monday in hearing arguments in the case of Nick Wilburn, charged jointly with Mrs. King with the murder of James King in Jones county. The appeal was made on the ground that fear of mob violence was a ground for a change of venue.

The last legislature passed what is known as the Felker law, which makes fear of mob law a good ground for a case being transferred to another county. It was to test the constitutionality of the law that the case went to the supreme court. The attorney general desired a ruling from the court on the question.

Clemency Is Sought.

The following cases were argued before the prison commission yesterday for executive clemency:

Stanley Henrix, white, murder, Cherokee county.

Jim Johnson, colored, burglary, Fulton county.

Jim Henry, white, liquor selling, Floyd county.

Mitchell Hulsey, white, bigamy, Haralson county.

Will B. Troupe, colored, manslaughter, Laurens county.

Jim Crawford, colored, murder and sentenced to be hanged, Putnam county.

Carter Tompkins, colored, murder and sentenced to be hanged, Putnam county.

Marion Rodgers, white, shooting at another, Gwinnette county.

Ex-Mayor Brown Dead.

Charlotte, N. C., May 5.—P. M. Brown, for two terms mayor of this city, former chairman of the Mecklenburg board of commissioners, and one of the leading citizens and churchmen of Charlotte, died suddenly in his office this morning. He was 52 years old.

Bill Smith needs about three good pitchers. Three of the present quintet will not do. Something must be done and that shortly.

OH! FOR SOME PITCHERS

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

After Molesworth.

INTIMATIONS are creeping into the Birmingham papers that what the Barons lack is managerical ability. This is not stated in plain words, but T. B. Sherman, in the Birmingham News, comments as follows: "Levity aside, it is nothing more than a just conclusion that Birmingham cannot possibly hope to show with the present lineup managed in the present way. Birmingham needs another outfielder, another infielder and another pitcher, but worst of all it needs system." Draw your own inference from this slinging of the hammer. We should worry. "The downhill of the Crackers will begin in Birmingham."

Seriously.

HUMOR was injected into Caller King's detail Saturday, when, after Roy Ellam had committed his fourth bobble of the game, the Birmingham operator sent "time is called, some one has been taken sick on the Birmingham bench." This caused all sorts of humor to run throughout the hall. The arrival of the Birmingham papers, however, tell of the incident. Fred Diliger, the Baron backstop, was carried to the hospital, and it is understood that he is threatened with appendicitis. Our sympathies are herewith extended.

Speed Will Win.

GRIFFITH is out with a statement that the Giants and the Senators will win the pennants in the major leagues, and will battle for the world's series. He bases his claims on the speed of the two teams. And it was this feature alone that kept them both in the hunt all last season. Maybe the old Fox is right.

Touts Speaker.

CLARK GRIFFITH says that Tris Speaker, the great outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, is the greatest outfielder in the game. He makes it stronger than that. He says that in his twenty-five years of baseball experience he has never seen an outfielder who even compares with the Texan. "He plays hard hit balls better," says Griffith, "and backs up his infielders in a manner that is distinctive to the playing of Speaker alone."

A Great Eye.

WHO SAID Jimmy Sheckard, the veteran outfielder with the St. Louis Cardinals, had lost his eye? Who ever it was had better glance at the game the Cardinals played with Pittsburg Saturday. Jimmy was att he bat four times. He had twenty-four balls pitched to him, and never swung at a one. In every instance he had three balls and two strikes on him and then walked.

A New Star.

SAM AGNEW, of the St. Louis Browns, is the latest catcher to make them all sit up and take notice. A new comer to big league ranks, he has supplanted the St. Louis veterans and has bested Stovall to let him do all the catching. The Browns boss has granted his plea and Sam has made good with a vengeance. "No better throwing to the bases has ever been witnessed in Pittsburg," was one of the Pittsburg papers comment recently.

A Live Issue.

THE PELICANS have made a hit with the fans in liberality, if not in their good ball playing. Announcement is just made that the management will, on rainy days, refund to all the grandstand patrons their carfare back to town. This ought to make a hit with the fans, and incidentally, ought to boost the grandstand attendance in the Pelican city.

Three Cracker Hurlers Unable To Stop Fast Flying Sea Gulls; Robertson's Big Stick Busy

Today's Batteries.

Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—Bauswein or Brady and Dunn, for Atlanta, and Hogg and Brown, for Mobile, are the batteries of Tuesday's game.

By G. J. Flournoy.

Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—Bauswein, who started the game for Atlanta today, which was won by Mobile by the score of 10 to 6, lasted just long enough for the first three men who faced him to be walked to first, when he was taken out and Musser sent in to relieve him.

After the locals secured three hits off him, one of them being a home run, making a total of five scores in three innings, he had to give up the fight and turned it over Gilbert Price, who is regarded as the Crackers' star pitcher.

Price was easy pickings for the Gulls, a total of eight hits being secured off his delivery, including two home runs. It was a regular slaughter that made Manager Smith wild, as he had already used four pitchers against the fast-flying Seagulls without any effect.

Robertson's Great Work.

Robertson, the great right fielder for the Mobile club, who was sent to Manager Finn in time of need, secured two of the three home-run hits, two singles, stole one base, and made a great running catch. The batting of the player is the most sensational ever seen in the Southern league since Joe Jackson was with the New Orleans club.

Long and Bisland featured in the hitting for the visitors, the former securing three hits out of five times land hit for three bags, scoring Smith each being a three-bagger.

Manager Billy Smith was ordered out of the park in the fourth inning for jawing back at Umpire Fifield.

Campbell, who worked for Mobile, was hit eleven times by the visitors, but after the first inning he never seemed to be in any danger.

Long, the first man to face Campbell, flew out to right field. Agler was safe on a bad throw by O'Dell and advanced on Alpermann's single to center field. Welchonce could not locate the ball and fanned. Smith hit safe to left and Agler scored. Bisland hit for three bags, scoring Smith. Graham ended the inning by striking out.

Bauswein Wild.

Bauswein, in Mobile's half of the first, walked Stock, Starr and O'Dell and on a hit by Jacobson and a sacrifice fly by Clark scored two runs.

In the second, Atlanta failed to score, although Musser and Long hit safe. Atlanta, in the third inning, scored another run when Bisland hit his second three-bagger and scored on Kernan's hit to right.

Mobile tied the score in her half of the third and went ahead of the visitors, Robertson driving one to right field for four bags, scoring Jacobson and Clark ahead of him. Musser was relieved then by Price.

In the fourth, Mobile put the game on cold storage by batting Price all over the lot after two men were out. Clark singled, stole second and scored on Robertson's single. Paulet came across with another single, scoring Robertson. Schmidt followed with another single, sending Paulet home. Fuchs reached second on an error of Long's in handling his hard-hit ball.

In the sixth, Atlanta put two more across the pan on a single by Long, an error of Agler's hard-hit grounder to Stock, followed by Alpermann's two-bagger to right.

In Mobile's sixth, Jacobson, first up, put the ball over the right field fence for a home run and, after Clark flew out to Alpermann, Robertson drove his second homer in the same place that Jacobson did.

This made a total of ten runs for the locals and after that neither side scored.

New Orleans, May 5.—Errors behind Pitcher Swindell made it easy for Birmingham to win today from New Orleans 4 to 1. Both pitchers were wild but Foxen was given better support. In the first inning Messenger scored after making a scratch hit on two passed balls, and Yantz's throw to centerfield, trying to prevent McBride from stealing second. No one covered second to take the throw. McBride's single and two errors let in another run in the sixth. A base on balls filled the bases, and Yantz threw badly to third in an effort to catch the runner off, two more tallies being registered. Yantz's three-base hit and an infield out enabled the locals to secure the ninth.

CORLEY TWIRLS A SPLENDID GAME

Holds Washington and Lee to Two Hits While His Team Mates Pound Out 12 to 0 Victory.

Athens, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Washington and Lee fell before the hands of the University of Georgia here this afternoon in the score of 12 to 0. The visitors were in the air at all times and exhibited the poorest fielding seen here this season. The Virginians were able to connect for but two safeties oq the delivery of Corley, while the locals larrupped the benders of Larrick for thirteen bingles.

The features of the game were the pitching of Corley, the fielding of McWhorter and Erwin, and the batting of Ginn, McWhorter, Hutchens, Bowden and Erwin.

Only thirty men faced Corley during the entire fray, one being left on first, one on second and one on third.

Crackers' Pinch Hitter

The cotton-topped field leader of the Crackers, whose mighty bludgeon has been most effective in keeping the Crackers up in the race this season. It has been the old pinch wallop from the bat of Whitey that has driven in run after run for the locals this season. Local fans rely on Whitey in the pinch, and the veteran has seldom failed to come through with the wallop when the sacks have been populated. Incidentally, he is having his best year in the field and is at the present writing leading the second-sackers of the league in both hitting and fielding. As first aid to Bill Smith and director of the team's play in the field, Whitey has been of great value to the club. He and William Andrew make a team that has been hard to beat.

That advance in the wages of locomotive firemen is another illustration of the truth that arbitration is a whole lot better than a strike.

Veteran George Rohe Joins Crackers at Mobile Today; Billy After Some Pitchers

By BILLY SMITH
(Manager Atlanta Team.)

Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—I purchased George Rohe from the New Orleans team this afternoon. He will play utility for my club for the rest of the season.

Rohe will report to me Tuesday morning and I will play him in right field until Bailey joins the team.

Where the report came from that Harry Bailey had joined the team I do not know. Evidently some telegraph operator mistook one of the other players for him.

The team has been going fine, scoring enough runs and making enough hits to win nine games in ten, but the pitchers have not been showing anything.

Pitching Fierce.

We have gone out and secured a lead for them in both of the games here, only to have them walk a dozen men. A few hits mixed in, and bing!—goes the old ball game. When they are not walking men they are giving up plenty of hits.

I never saw such rotten pitching in all my life. The Atlanta pitchers have walked more men so far this season than they should walk in the entire season.

I am going to get a couple of pitchers in a few days. Just who they are I do not care to say until I have secured them, but I have some good lines out and I expect to close something before very long.

Kernan played right field today, but I released him tonight and he is on his way back to Atlanta.

They may shoot Bauswein back at them again Tuesday. If he can locate the plate we ought to win. He seems to have a peck of stuff, but has been unable to get it over. Brady will pitch the last game if Bauswein gets by Tuesday.

After Chappelle.

A report received from Chattanooga last night was to the effect that Manager Smith had made an offer to the Chattanooga club for Pitcher Bill Chappelle, but the acceptance had not been received there as yet.

The report was too late to confirm locally, though there may be something to it definitely today.

Chappelle, pitching for a hard-hitting club like the Crackers, would win a lot more games than he would lose.

JACKET LINE-UP UNCERTAIN ONE

Heisman Does Not Know Just Who He Will Use Against Georgia on Next Friday.

By Robert L. Hughes.

With the Georgia-Tech baseball games only a few days off, every Tech fan is wondering what the Jackets will do with her Red and Black rivals. Or they could better ask, what will the slugging Georgians do with the Yellow Jackets?

News from the Georgia camp states that the Red and Black fans look upon the Tech series as won and that to them it is only a question of how large the score will be.

Several times in the past the Georgia supporters have counted their chickens before they were hatched, and found that they were several shy.

Without a doubt the Georgians are entitled to the championship, win or lose, and certainly even in case of victory Tech would be the last to dispute her claim. To the Tech fans it take notice.

Coach Heisman stated Monday afternoon that if his men kept up the pace set in the Sewanee games he was in not a question of championship, but whether or not the Jackets will defeat Georgia.

Although the Athens lads have a much stronger pitching staff and heavier hitting team than Tech, it is doubtful if they are as good in base running or fielding as the Jackets.

Jackets Have Improved.

The Jackets improved showing against the Sewanee Tigers in the two games Friday and Saturday has greatly added to the hopes of the Tech fans. The battle put up by the Jacket nine in these two games would have made any college team sit up and satisfied that they would give Georgia a good argument for the series.

It is hoped at the flats that the showing made against the Tigers is an indication that the Jackets have at last struck their stride. Certainly they showed in these games marked improvement over their former playing.

Coach Heisman's plan of sitting the varsity men on the scrub bench and keeping them out of several of the regular games certainly worked wonders. He stated that several of the men were too cock sure of their places and were failing to put forth every effort; for this reason he scrubbed them until they picked up. Pick up they did in short order.

Line-up Uncertain.

He stated Monday afternoon that he was not at all sure what the Tech line-up would be against the Red and Black, but it would depend entirely upon the showing the men made during the present week. Coach Heisman is looking out for heavy hitters this week and on this department of the game will largely hinge the swinging of the Jackets line-up.

At present there are only two men on the Jacket varsity who are hitting over .300. Pitts, who has been playing in the outfield when he has not been doing box work, leads the team with the stick, batting around the .250, while the others are under .200, next with an average around .350, Amason and Moore are batting below .250, while theothers are under .200.

KIDNAPING IS CHARGED

J. Thomas Long Must Return Children or Be Prosecuted.

STOVALL SUSPENDED FOR INDEFINITE TIME

Chicago, May 5.—George Stovall, deposed as manager of the St. Louis American league team and indefinitely suspended as a played by B. B. Johnson, president of the league, as a result of Stovall's attack on Umpire Ferguson Saturday, may get permission to play again this season, and also may be reinstated in his managerial berth, according to Mr. Johnson tonight.

"The case is not closed," said Mr. Johnson tonight. "Stovall is relieved as manager indefinitely and is suspended indefinitely from playing. He may be allowed to play again and it is possible that he may manage the team again, but the two are separate propositions. If he is allowed to play it does not follow that he will be permitted to manage the team."

The deposition of a manager by the president of the league is said to be the first action of the kind ever taken in a major league.

"I cannot recall any precedent for this step," said Johnson. "I did this myself according to the powers given me by the league constitution. What action will be taken in the case will wait until I have had time to think it over at more length.

"There is not room in the American league for players who commit offense against public decency," he declared. "I am astonished that any manager should create such a scene by losing his self-control in the presence of a large assemblage of patrons of teh game. The American league will not countenance such conduct for a minute."

Stovall was ordered out by Ferguson in the sixth inning of the game at St. Louis Saturday with the Cleveland team. In a row Stovall pulled Fergusons' cap from his head and spat on the umpire's coat, according to the reports received here.

Johnson suspended Stovall by telegraph on receipt of Ferguson's report. The league president has demanded complete details of everything in connection with the occurrence. Robert Wallace, former leader of the St. Louis team, probably will manage the club for the present, it is said.

Americus, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Fifteen hundred and thirty spectators witnessed this afternoon another drubbing of the Americus team at the hands of Cordele, the third defeat sustained by Americus of the four games played to date with Cordele.

Complimentary to the Americus team there was a general suspense of business here, all stores closing for the opening game of the league season in Americus, expectation was at the height, but when Cordele opened the festivities with seven runs in the first inning, the spirits of Americus fans fell to the depths of despair.

Local manufacturers and merchants gave their employees a half holiday and the Carrollton band furnished music for the occasion. Mayor T. F. Rawls pitched the first ball, after which Umpire Burke called play.

The game abounded in many sensational plays, chief among them being the feat of Hawkins, who struck out three LaGrange men in the ninth inning with the bases full and none out. Manager Bagwell, playing left field for Newnan, also made a wonderful sensating catch, doubling a runner at second.

Boston, Mass., May 5.—An operation which, it is hoped, will enable him to resume his position at first base, was performed upon Manager Stahl, of the world's champions, Boston American league baseball team, here today. A surgeon opened the foot and removed a growth which, he said, had resulted from a "weeping sinew." It will take about three weeks for the wound to heal.

ALDERMEN AND CHIEF ARE EXONERATED

year Maddox took a small subcontract under Nichols Brothers for cutting a ditch in connection with a sewer contract held by Nichols with the city.

"We further find that Maddox was requested and urged by the contractors to make bids for the excavations in question; that before Maddox made any such bids he sought the advice of the city attorney to ascertain whether or not he could legally make bids upon the work in question, in view of the fact at that time he was an alderman of the city.

"Maddox did not violate the code in question, and that he did not do anything which, under the charter of the city, the ordinances of the same, and the code of the state he could not legally do.

Maddox Is Cleared.

"Your committee finds that, with the exception of the matters set forth, Alderman Maddox has not performed any other work in which the city was interested.

"As to the charges made against Alderman Ragsdale, your committee submits the following:

"From the evidence submitted, it appears that Alderman Ragsdale did, several years before his becoming a member of the general council, form a partnership with J. R. Lawhon; that this partnership was what is known in law as a limited partnership; that Alderman Ragsdale had nothing whatsoever to do with the management of the business of Lawhon & Co.; that he knew nothing of the business of Lawhon & Co., except incidentally; that the business was entirely and absolutely separate from that of the main business of Alderman Ragsdale; that Ragsdale had nothing whatever to do with the purchase or sale of any stock purchased or sold by Lawhon & Co.; that he had no control over the business, and had no right, under the partnership agreement, to direct or control the same, but that he did on numerous occasions request J. R. Lawhon not to have any dealings with the city, and that, when approached at various times by officers of the city for the purpose of purchasing stock for the use of the city, that Ragsdale declined to have anything to do with the same and likewise requested them to go elsewhere than to Lawhon & Co.

Ragsdale Made Objection.

"It appears from the evidence that upon one occasion, when Alderman Ragsdale learned that the firm of Lawhon & Co. were being sought to secure stock by an official of the city, that Ragsdale personally objected to J. R. Lawhon, but was told by Lawhon that this was not a matter with which Ragsdale had any interest, that he, Lawhon, was running that business, and was responsible for it, and that Ragsdale had nothing whatsoever to do with it. As far as your committee was able to ascertain from many witnesses called before it, no such statement was ever made to the city by Lawhon & Co., of which Alderman Ragsdale had any knowledge with the exception of certain sales to the construction department in 1911.

"We find from the evidence that after this sale was made, Ragsdale paid to J. R. Lawhon a part of the purchase money for ten mules which were purchased from Lawhon by the construction department, assisted by the chairman of the street committee. Other stock at various times were purchased from Lawhon & Co. by the chief of the sanitary department, assisted by Dr. C. R. Jolly, the veterinarian.

Has Acted for Atlanta.

"The committee further finds that upon several occasions Alderman Ragsdale has acted for the city in the sale of condemned stock by the various departments. In every instance where he has so acted his action was taken at the special request of the mayor and council. In each instance he succeeded, according to all the evidence submitted, in getting better prices than the city was entitled to; that in every instance the city profited largely by the fidelity and ability of Alderman Ragsdale and in no instance did any benefit whatsoever accrue to said Ragsdale from the transactions in question.

"In two instances where money was paid to the Ragsdale company it appears that one voucher was to repay certain freight charges paid for the city by the Ragsdale company as a favor to the city. It appears that the chief of the fire department bought horses for the department in St. Louis; that, in order to obtain a cheap freight rate to Atlanta on said horses, the said chief obtained permission from a son of Alderman Ragsdale to ship these horses to Atlanta at carload rates in a car of horses being shipped to the Ragsdale company in Atlanta. By shipping the horses in this way the city was able to get the benefit of the carload rate. We cannot find anything whatever to criticize in this transaction.

City Paid Actual Cost.

"We find that the mules sold for the city by request of the mayor and council were at the barn of the Ragsdale company and it was necessary to feed the same and that the actual cost of feed was paid by the city to this company. A careful examination of every act of Alderman Ragsdale in connection with the various transactions with which he has been connected all show the act of a faithful, honest, conscientious officer of the city, doing far more for the city than his duty required him to do, and doing these acts for the sole purpose of helping the city, and so far as it was possible for us to ascertain, at a great loss of both time and money to himself.

Charges Against Spratling.

"As to the charges against Alderman Spratling, we find that, prior to his nomination in 1910, he did secure loans from three gentlemen, all of whom had been his personal friends for many years, but who were strangers, as charged, in the near-beer business. These loans, as appears from all of the evidence, were secured prior to the nomination of Spratling to the aldermanic board. They were obtained without any representations whatsoever being made, or any promises of any sort, on the part of the gentlemen. They were purely personal matters, as testified to by each. It appears from the evidence that Alderman Spratling never had any promise or appointment to the chairmanship of the police committee from the mayor, even after his election as alderman.

"It further appears that when it was ascertained by the mayor-elect (Winn) that Alderman Spratling was under personal obligations to the gentlemen in question, that the mayor declined to make the appointment to membership on the committee."

"Pistol Toting" Is Condemned By Judge Ellis in His Charge

The instructions given the new Fulton county grand jury by Judge William D. Ellis in his charge at the convening of that body Monday morning placed especial stress upon the call of the Mary Phagan case for the "immediate and vigorous attention" of the grand jury. He also urged the jury to investigate the locker and social clubs of Atlanta and to "find true bills against all who conduct clubs which are run for the purpose of selling liquor."

In this connection he also urged that the grand jury declare war against the Sunday tippling house. "Pistol toting" and the operation of assignation houses are also due for considerable annoyance at the hands of the new grand jury.

The Charge in Full.

Judge Ellis' charge to the grand jury in full is as follows:

Under our system of judicial procedure, we have in the superior court of this county, six terms each year. Grand juries are drawn and impanelled at each term, but the duties of making investigations into matters of a general nature, under the law, devolve upon the first grand jury impanelled at each term, but the duties of making investigations into matters of a general nature, under the law, devolve upon the first grand jury impanelled at each term of the superior court after the beginning of the year. The books, papers and records of the clerk of the superior court, the sheriff and of the county treasurer, the duty of examination of public buildings and their condition, the examinations of the lists of voters, and the examination of and making the inspection of the jail and such other matters concerning the public welfare, the peace and good order of the county at large, are required at the March and September terms. While such matters are usually looked after by the grand jury of the terme named, yet you are not prohibited from investigating into such matters at your term if necessary, or if brought to your attention by the court or the solicitor general.

You are charged that at this the May term especially to inquire into and take action upon all violations of the penal code of this state. You are to consider all violations of the law, and bring to trial by presentment or indictment all who are probably guilty of crime. You will call your special attention to some matters.

GAMBLING HOUSES OR LOCKER CLUBS.

Look to the violation of the law against the sale of intoxicating liquors. Find true bills against all who conduct clubs which are run for the purpose of selling liquor. Under the law, these clubs are declared to be clubs that are organized or maintained for the purpose of making money by the sale of intoxicating liquors, those who operate or maintain them are guilty of the law.

Such a locker club organized for social pleasure is conducted as such an organization, it is permitted that the members may keep liquor as a part of the social establishment, but the mere act of intoxicating liquor is the purpose, and the social feature only an excuse for the organization or operation, then those who run such an alleged club are guilty, and should be brought to trial.

I want again to call your special attention to keeping open tippling houses on the Sabbath day. Under the Jewish Liberty club, no matter how well organized and operated, within the law, is a tippling house if the members are permitted to assemble there on Sunday and drink intoxicating liquors. Even a private citizen would be guilty of keeping a tippling house on the Sabbath day if he allowed his friends and neighbors to assemble in his parlor and drink intoxicating liquors on Sunday, and this would be true, even if he furnished the liquor free, or allowed those who assembled to bring it with them. Look after the law as laid into this matter.

I want to invite your careful attention to the law against carrying concealed weapons. No man, under the law, has a right to carry a concealed weapon. Officers of the law are merely carrying them, and private persons may carry them openly by obtaining a license, but no person has a right to carry a deadly weapon concealed. This is a free country, and life and person ought to be safe in this country.

Good people do not go armed, but the vicious and criminal class do go armed. A man who is certainly as courageous as the bad, and he is entitled to walk in the pathways of life without being at the disadvantage of being shot down by some cowardly villain who walks about with a weapon for defense or offense. If all men are to have an equal showing, all ought to be allowed to go armed, or all ought to be compelled to go about unarmed. The law has decided which equality shall exist, and it declares that no man shall go about with concealed weapons, and none shall carry pistols even openly, unless he shows some reason for it, and publicly procures a license.

HOUSES OF PROSTITUTION.

It is distressing that public houses of prostitution have been shared in this county of course, it is desirable that prostitution shall not be carried on openly, but the fact that such houses in known localities makes it most probable that assignation houses will spring up, and that the illicit intercourse of the sexes from known localities to dark and secret places. A thousand open of fortune are better than twenty professional lewd women and men of the class who go with them, are not in the aggravation resulting as one case of adultery of a virtuous girl, or the rape and murder of little Mary Phagan. I charge you to look carefully and deliberately into the matter of vice, and especially to investigate suspected places of assignation or houses of ill fame for the purpose of prostitution under the name of rooming houses.

ACTION ON PHAGAN CASE.

The Mary Phagan case calls for your immediate and vigorous attention. The power of the state is behind you. What appears to be an unlawful crime has been committed and the welfare of the community, the good name of Atlanta, public justice and the majesty of the law demand at the hands of this grand jury and of all officers of the law, the most searching investigation, and the prompt bringing to trial of the guilty party.

This is a good community. There are thousands of intelligent and law-abiding people in it, and a vast majority of our people are good and virtuous. Like all other communities, there are bad people in it. The reputation and fame of Atlanta has brought to it large numbers of people from all parts of the country, and some of the worst people from other places come here, and add themselves to the bad element of our county. Let the grand jury get to the bad element under all violations of the law in Fulton county, and the court will see that speedy trials will follow and certain punishment will be inflicted on the guilty.

HUMANITY NOT BAD.

I do not sympathize with the comment, cry that humanity is all bad. I do not believe that the tendency of humanity is for the bad. I believe that is under a law of nature and virtue, and at the same time ferret out and punish the guilty who are upon us, and who, by all the traditions of the past, have been condemned the vicious, and which give praise to and protect the virtuous, and which punish the guilty.

I want to remind you of your duty as to matters which occur in the grand jury room. Your oath is to keep secret the state's counsel, your fellows' and your own, unless called on to give evidence thereof in a court of justice. The object of the law is to allow the utmost freedom in the grand jury room, in making honest and full investigation. It is a bad faith, and a violation of his oath, for a grand juror to divulge or transpire in the deliberations, but it is not an uncommon thing for the general public to be informed of things that transpire during the investigation of alleged crimes. Look to this, and if there is a violation of it, you should investigate, find out who has betrayed the confidence reposed, and report to the court the offending person.

The attitude of Russia under these circumstances was a matter of great concern to Europe, and when she joined in the pressure exercised on Montenegro, great relief was felt, as it had been thought she would resist any attempt by Austria to order her army southward.

It was suggested during the negotiations that the king of Montenegro was to receive territorial compensation in some other direction if he would give up Scutari, and that his majesty was preparing to accept this offer.

WITHAM GOES TO EUROPE VERY SOON

To Join American Commission Investigating Foreign System of Farm Credits.

W. S. Witham, Sr., head of the chain of Witham banks, leaves for Europe the latter part of this month to join the American Commission on Farm Credits, having been appointed by Governor Brown as a member of the commission. The appointment the financial weekly bulletin of Dow, Jones & Co., of New York, says:

Governor Joseph M. Brown, of Georgia, has appointed W. S. Witham, of the Bankers' Trust company, Atlanta, a member of the special commission on farm credit, which will study rural credit conditions in Europe. In doing so he has recognized a fact which banking people in the north and south have often failed to appreciate, namely, that in the southern states, where agriculture is pre-eminently the ruling business, the opportunity for good dealer to the people than in most other portions of the country.

The Witham banks, which are known as "Witham banks" are to be found in several southern states and in 175 different towns and villages with a central financial agency in Atlanta, Ga., which controls assets of over $15,000,000 in local banks alone. Here in Atlanta the Witham banks occupy a place in which the responsibility as well as the control rests on the local organizers supplemented by supervision of a good dealer in the people section. What the local bank gets from this connection is the benefit of expert methods in accounts and methods which makes it difficult for them to go far wrong, and gives them the benefit of the most reliable credit information.

The Witham banks which have had twenty-five years' experience, began with $25,000 of paid-up capital and now have over $3,000,000 capital. The system is neither a branch banking system nor a chain or banks, quoting from its own statement: "Each bank has its own charter, its own capital, its own board of directors, and its own local officers, its own bank-customers and is conducted as an independent institution operating under the banking laws and in the advice and protection of the Bankers' Financing company, which is serving as fiscal agent for the members of the system.

When the rural banking and currency authorities come to inquire into the question of rural banking and agricultural needs, they will have the right to expect that the light thrown on experience which this group of banks has furnished in the course of a century of growth. The Witham banks have demonstrated that a well-conducted country banking can be conducted along lines of broad business and with a high degree of safety.

Georgia authorities have had occasion to observe carefully the practical operations of the Witham system, and its ability to meet conditions command the confidence of the communities they serve, and they have paid satisfactory dividends. A particular merit is that they identify themselves as banks with the erection of local school houses, the stereotyping of light plants, cotton warehouse and the substitution of brick for wooden structures. The system has proved especially fortunate in marketing the agricultural paper. The acquaintance of the central fiscal agency with the banks in the various institutions as well as with the local firms where such paper originates is a safeguard to the note market which adds greatly to the merit of these instruments of credit.

ELEKANTHROPSIS MYSTIFIES MASSES

Elekanthropsis, who or what it is, is a question Peachtree and Broad street pedestrians have an opportunity to consider. No use looking in the dictionary for a definition of the word. It's not there.

Elekanthropsis appears in the window of the Cable Piano Company for the first time Tuesday at 12 o'clock, and remains until 2. The next appearance will be made at 3 o'clock. The same schedule will be maintained the rest of the week. The occasion is the introduction to the public of the celebrated Corols Inner-Player Piano, one of the most wonderful inventions of the age.

This marvel has traveled from city to city, and in each place has puzzled the multitudes who gathered to witness its movement. Many speculations are indulged in. Some allege it to be human with phenomenal muscular control. Others steadfastly declare it to be an electric machine, and other guesses are that it is an automaton with all the human characteristics of motion. If it is a mechanical device, all agree that it is the most perfect and undiscovered genius. If it be a human it is conceded to be a most remarkable one.

Elekanthropsis was lifted in the Cable Piano Company's window, and will give demonstrations from the centre week on the celebrated Corols Inner-Player Piano each day at the hours named.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON MADE RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Market Closed Near the Best of the Day—Spot Was Quiet.

New York, May 5.—Business was comparatively quiet in the cotton market today and fluctuations were more or less irregular, with the close steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 2@8 points and the market sold off to a net decline of some 8 to 10 points during the morning. Reports of good rains in the southwest and favorable private crop advices, combined with somewhat disappointing Liverpool cables and reports that certain of the Fall River mills would close down for an indefinite period, beginning next Monday, pushed into account for the decline. On the break, which carried prices back to within 5 or 6 points of the low level of last week, there was a considerable demand, however, which seemed to be partly in the way of realizing by recent sellers, as well as buying for general sales in the English market, and prices steadied up from the lowest during the early afternoon.

Rumors that the old crop long interest was preparing to receive further deliveries on contracts, and the failure of bearish items in the news to create a more aggressive selling power, were probably factors in the rally which was led by old crop positions.

Closing prices were within a point or two points of the best.

European political advices were considered rather more reassuring and it was rumored that the shutting down of some of the Fall River mills would be for the purpose of installing new machinery.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to scattering liquidation of the old crops, which supposed to be the result of a few additional notices. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the early buyers here, while in teh late trading spot houses were buyers of July.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands 11.85; do. gulf 12.10; sales 3,500 bales.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 5.—Cotton goods markets were steady, but quiet for the day. The announcement of another large carpet auction to begin Monday May 12, had been made. Cotton yarns dull dealer. Trade for the day with the jobbers was very moderate.

Remarks.

Rain has been general and heavy in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana and good and warm weather continues east of the Mississippi river.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director Weather Bureau.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 5.—Advices of good rains in western and northern Texas extending over Oklahoma brought about a decline in Liverpool. Many American selling orders were reported. The feeling on continental Europe, where the belief that the Balkan troubles were finally on the road to an actual settlement, without further warfare, is spreading. Europe was also a buyer here and in New Orleans. The demand absorbed all of the southern and local offerings for both south and north are more bearish than at any time this season. The closing of a large Fall River mill intensified the bearish feeling. In the last hour, the effect of the early European buying closed the market steady 1 to 3 points lower. There are really very few bulls in the market and the sentiment is overwhelmingly bearish.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 5.—The course of prices was undecided and hesitating in the cotton market today. Bears were able to influence the opening their way, but scalpers preferred the long side temporarily and bought on the idea that more of the short interest would have to cover. Weather news was called more bearish than unfavorable but after the early trading, it did not play much part in the market.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 5 points, on poor cables and favorable weather and crop reports. For a while, moderate offerings served to hold the market down and the most active months went 6 to 7 points under the close of Saturday. Around the middle of the morning, buying orders increased and the long side made use of better cable news regarding the Balkan situation. A great many telegrams from the country, telling of replanting, because of recent cold weather were circulated and also helped the market, which gradually recovered the decline.

The market was dull, but steady in the afternoon when the near months were unchanged to one up, compared with the last prices of Saturday.

The close was steady, 2 points down to 6 points up, net.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, May 5.—Reports from Texas and Oklahoma today stated that rains had been general over Sunday and, as crop conditions elsewhere continue satisfactory, the market met with liquidation which carried prices down about eight points while in progress. However, selling was not aggressive and Liverpool buying proved sufficient to steady the tone. Political affairs in Europe appear to be clearing, so far as the Balkan situation is concerned, but this factor is offset for the present by the favorable crop reports and the contemplated closing of mills at Fall River commencing next Saturday.

WHEAT PRICES DROP ON RAINFALL REPORTS

Wet Weather in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Parts of Kansas—Corn Lower.

Chicago, May 5.—Wet weather was the chief influence today in lowering the values 3-8@1-2 to 3-8c. The close was ⅛c and oats a shade to ¼. Provisions made a net upturn of 5 to 15c.

"Goodbye chinch bug," said wheat traders today, as they read reports of rains of Saturday and Sunday in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. In some parts of Kansas the rainfall amounted to about 4 inches and Oklahoma fared nearly as well. It is said the moisture stored by the fields will be enough to carry the plant through the maturity, as well as rid it of the pests which became threateningly numerous during the warm, dry weather in the southwest. The downward course of prices incident to the weather map was aggravated by the clearing of the disturbed political situation in Europe, when Montenegro's king reported he was ready to give up Scutari. There was a rally because of a report showing a decrease of 3,666,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply—the total being 47,157,000 bushels, against 50,823,000 a week ago—but a reaction followed, in spite of reports that 45 loads of Duluth wheat had been sold to exporters. Primary receipts of wheat today were 1,214 bushel; last year, 1,005,000. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 690,000 bushels.

Expectation of increased country offerings lowered corn. The market showed a narrow range throughout the session.

General rains caused heaviness in oats.

In spite of lower prices at the yards, provisions made gaoins. Offerings were limited and there was good investment buying, as well as covering, by shorts.

BETTER FEELING SHOWN IN THE STOCK MARKET

London Buying Heavily of American Securities Feature of Day.

New York, May 5.—The decided improvement in the European political situation, consequent upon Montenegro's decision to yield to the powers and the resultant strength of securities abroad, exerted the dominating influence upon the stock market today. Expectations of speedy settlement of problems, which have menaced the peace of Europe for months, opened up the prospect of the repurchasing of American securities by foreign investors. London, in fact, has been buying stocks on every favorable opportunity for some time, and before the opening here American stocks in London were marked up sharply. The situation was one which offered no comfort to the bears, and there was spirited bidding for stocks to cover when the market opened. London also was in this market, buying most heavily of Steel, Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific.

Operations on the long side were carried on more confidently, and in the first hour there was a quick upturn, resulting in gains for important issues of 1 to 3 points.

The action of the market during the remainder of the day showed that the improving prospects abroad had not produced sufficient effect here to bring about aggressive and sustained buying for the long account. Trading grew dull and prices eased off, although in the final hour the list rose to around the top again. Optimistic reports which Wall street has received from Europe have several times proved disappointing, and there was a general disposition to await definite developments before building too strongly upon hopes for peace.

There were several developments at home which served to take off the edge of any tendency toward enthusiasm. Traders were disappointed at the supreme court's refusal to extend beyond July 1 the time for completing the Harriman dissolution
