SAYS CONLEY CONFESSED

Prominent Florida Girl Wounds Self

GIRL WHO TESTIFIES FAVORABLY TO FRANK

MISS MATTIE SMITH.

Factory employee says she saw negro in plant early on day of crime.

FAMILY SAYS SHOOTING IS ACCIDENT

Miss Inez Seebring, Leader in Jacksonville's Younger Society Set, Mysteriously Shot.

JACKSONVILLE, July 10.—Mystery to-day surrounds the cause of shooting of Miss Inez Seebring, the 17-year-old society girl who was found in her room Wednesday night with a bullet wound over her left breast. She will recover.

Members of the girl's family calm the shooting was accidental. The first report that went out, however, stated that Miss Seebring had shot herself as a result of dispondency over the death of her mother. This was later disputed by members of the immediate family, as well as close friends of the girl, who say it was a case of pure accident.

The shooting caused a sensation in Jacksonville, where the Seebrings have long been among the most prominent people, and curious persons went out of their way all during the day to take a look at the Seebring mansion.

Miss Seebring had just returned from a visit to Atlantic Beach and was supposed to be visiting a friend when the shooting took place. As no members of the family were at home and the servants of the house had gone out for the day, nothing was known of the shooting until several hours afterwards.

The wounded girl when found was rushed to the Desota Sanitarium, where every medical attention was given to save her life. Although shot just above the left breast chances for recovery this afternoon were said to be good.

A rather curious coincidence is the fact that Wednesday, the day of the near tragedy(was the birthday of Miss Seebring.

Miss Seebring is a beautiful girl and one of the most popular of the younger set of Jacksonville society. She is noted for her hospitality among her young friends, whom she counts by the hundreds. Recently her father took her to Atlantic Beach, where a very pleasant ten days was spent in an effort, it is said, to dispel the growing dispondency of the girl over her mother's recent death.

The Seebring family is one of the most prominently connected in Jacksonville, W. R. Seebrinfl, the father of the girl, being an extensive real estate operator of this city. Her grandfather, W. H. Seebring, was formerly Mayor of Jacksonville and a Confederate general during the war between the States.

Saves Girl; Year Goes; Reward, Cold Stare

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Andrew P. Talmadge, of Washington, last summer jumped overboard, clothes and all, and rescued a young woman after she had gone down the second time. In the rescue he was obliged to put his arm about her. She gave him an awful glare, but he attributes it to excitement.

To-day he met the young woman on the street, and instead of beaming a smile of gratitude, she turned her head haughtily and did not speak.

Huerta Wins Pivotal Battle With Rebels

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

MEXICO CITY, July 10.—The most important federal victory in the north since rebellion broke out against President Huerta was reported from Monclova to-day by General Rubio Navarrette, commander-in-chief of the Government troops in Northeastern Mexico.

Four thousand rebels under General Carranza were defeated by General Navarrette's column, and those of the insurgents who were not killed, wounded or captured were put to flight.

Society Leaders, in Masks, See Risque Paris Play 'I Love It'

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 10.—Wearing of masks by society women who attend racy theatrical productions, but who are ashamed to let their relatives and friends know of it, has come into vogue here.

A large number of women from court circles are daily attending the risque French show, "I Love It," but all wear masks for fear of the censure of their husbands and of Queen Mary, who has forbidden any of the ladies of her court from entering the Middlesex Theater, where the production is on.

Clergymen are beseeching the censor to close up the theater, declaring it will debase all who see it because of its gross imorality.

Trainmen Will Not Meet With Wilson To Discuss Strike

NEW YORK, July 10.—Intimation was given here to-day by W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, and A. D. Garretson pPresident of the Order of Railway Conductors, that they would not accept the arbitration of President Wilson and Secretary of Labor Wilson in the wage dispute of the trainmen on railroads east of Chicago, which threatens to precipitate 100,000 men in a strik.

Lee and Garretson said they would not go to Washington Monday to meet President Wilson and the Secretary of Labor.

Kentucky Car Strike Spreads; One Dying

LEXINGTON, KY., July 10.—Striking street carmen announced this morning that all employees of the Kentucky Traction Company and the Lexington Utilities Company will be called out to-morrow morning, tying up street and interurban car systems here.

Demands will be served to-day for a nine-hour day with pay for ten hours, and reinstatement of nine discharged workmen. Some of the men have been on strike for a week.

The first violence occurred late Wednesday, when five men were injured in a riot. One of them, J. W. Bell, of Chicago, is dying in a hospital.

Fly Pests Cost U. S. $157,800,000 a Year

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Figured out in money, to say nothing of the loss in human life, the cost to the United States annually of supporting its fly population amounts to $157,800,000, say Government experts who have been making a study of the results of the germ-spreading activities of these insects.

It is estimated that the fly is responsible for an expenditure of $50,000,000 for the handling of tuberculosis cases, attributable to germs spread by the pests, while $70,000,000 represents the cost of typhoid fever cases originating in the same way.

50 Grocers Freed From Prosecution

BIRMINGHAM, July 10.—The Government to-day allowed about 50 members of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association to be dropped from further prosecution in the contempt hearing going on before Judge W. I. Grubb, of the Federal Court, on charges of violating a decree handed down in 1911.

District Attorney Street made a lengthy address in court to-day before the defense began its testimony, showing what he expected the defense to controvert. The Government contends that acts were committed which were likely to restrain trade.

Negro Pugilist Not To Return to U. S.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

HAVRE, FRANCE, July 10.—"I have determined never to return to the United States again. My home will be in Paris."

This statement was made by Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, under sentence for trafficking in white women, who eluded the United States authorities and arrived here to-day on the liner Corinthian.

Attorneys for Widow of Capitalist Declare Poison Evidence Will Be Shattered.

A positive statement from Dr. F. H. Harris, of the State Board of Health, that Joshua Crawford died of morphine poisoning instead of pneumonia, the announced cause of his death by the attending physician, Dr. J. W. Hurt, was the sensational development in the Crawford $250,000 will case Thursday.

Dr. Harris was called to the stand at noon. Attorney Reuben Arnold, for Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, the widow, to whom all the estate was left, pinned him to the assertion.

For the first time in his career, he said, he deviated from his custom of merely mentioning possibilities or probabilities.

"There was absolutely no trace of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs," said Dr. Harris. "Morphine poisoning very likely produced death."

Statement Unshaken.

Dr. Harris was on the stand for very nearly an hour, but his statement was unshaken.

No announcement would be made by the attorneys for the heirs-at-law, who number more than thirty, but it was confidently understood they would not rest the case with the introduction of Dr. Harris, but would have other experts, and probably members of the family to take the stand in an effort to substantiate the evidence of Dr. Harris.

Attorney Arnold stated that the evidence of Dr. Harris would be torn to pieces when he put Dr. J. W. Hurt on the stand to tell of administering morphine and opium to Crawford in an effort to stop the violent fits of coughing and near congestion of the lungs, with which he suffered in the last month of his life.

Widow Not in Court.

He intimated also that he would introduce experts to prove that the quantities of opium and morphine found in Crawford's stomach by Dr. Harris were not sufficient to produce death, nor more than a normal dose administered by the average physician.

Mrs. Crawford, the widow, was not in the courtroom Wednesday when the poison theory was advanced by Dr. Harris, and it was doubtful whether she would attend the hearing Thursday.

Heirs-at-law to the estate and their friends attended in large numbers, and despite the fact it is a strictly civil procedure and no court official is presiding, it had all the appearance and interest of a sensational criminal trial.

Beavers in Speech Warns Policemen to Keep Out of Dives

Chief of Police Beavers caused a stir Thursday morning when he went before the day watch and addressed the men on their conduct. His talk resulted from the recent scandal in which several policemen were found guilty of visiting a resort in the rear of 127 Auburn Avenue.

"Any man who hangs around a negro dive has no place on the police force of Atlanta," the Chief said, addressing the men. "If you get positive evidence that any of your brother officers are engaged in discreditable practices and frequenting disreputable places, it is your duty to report it."

The Chief will make a similar speech to the night and morning watches.

Queen of Greece Cables for Chewing Gum for Troops

NEW YORK, July 10.—Solon G. Vlasto, editor of The Atlantis, to-day received a dispatch from Queen Sophia, of the Hellenes, asking for a shipment of chewing gum.

To make him more certain why chewing gum was so urgently needed, Miss Contostavlos, a lady in waiting to the Queen, cabled later:

"Chewing gum is against thirst."

Mr. Vlasto cabled $2,000 at once and is about to send the chewing gum.

Congress Prepares For Investigation Of Mulhall Charges

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Congress was busy with two lobby investigations to-day. While the Senate lobby inquiry committee continued to pry into the secrets of the wool lobby, the Garrett committee of the House, appointed by Speaker Clark yesterday, made plans for an inquiry into the Mulhall charges.

Clarence H. Brown, chairman of the hosiery manufacturers' legislative committee, testified that his committee was instructed in 1909 not to attempt to interfere with tariff rates.

"I never even bought a cigar for a member of Congress," said Brown.

Showers for Friday, Weather Prediction

"Showers Thursday night or Friday," is the official weather forecast. Temperature was 87 at noon and 88 at 1 o'clock. The mark between noon and 1 o'clock varied everywhere from 85 to 88.

Temperature in Atlanta at 5 o'clock Thursday morning was 70. It was 71 at 6 o'clock, 73 at 7 o'clock and 75 at 8 o'clock. The biggest gain of the day was made in the next two hours, for at 10 o'clock the mark was 81.

Maximum temperature a year ago was 81.

U. S. Marshal Ready To Quit on Demand

PENSACOLA, July 10.—Thomas F. McGourin, for many years United States Marshal for the Northern District of Florida, under Republican administration, said this morning that he expected to receive a demand for his resignation at once.

He did not say positively, but intimated that he would comply. It is understood that the Marshal for the Southern District of Florida will be asked to resign.

Those who claim to know declare Frank L. Mayes, editor of The Pensacola Journal, will succeed McGourin.

Forest Fire Zone Under Martial Law

MILL VALLEY, CAL., July 10.—Martial law was declared in Mill Valley to-day and troops were ordered to draft every able-bodied man for duty fighting forest fires that threaten to wipe out the town. The soldiers were expected to stop the exodus of men fleeing with their families.

Efforts were being made to get women and children to places of safety.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Aubrey Boucicault, actor and playwright, son of Don Boucicault, died here to-day of pneumonia.

NEGRO MADE BOAST OF KILLING A GIRL, AGENT DECLARES

Attorneys for Frank Will Put Main Reliance of Defense on the Startling Affidavit Made by W. H. Mincey and Now in Their Possession.

That Jim Conley, negro sweeper at the National Pencil Factory, made a virtual confession to him that he attacked and killed Mary Phagan is the startling allegation made in an affidavit by William H. Mincey, until recently a solicitor for the American Insurance Company, of 115½ North Pryor Street.

It became known Thursday that this affidavit, which is in the hands of the defense, will be the principal reliance, aside from the alibis which have been established for Frank, in bringing an acquittal of the accused man and obtaining a conviction against the negro.

No other evidence, in all of the more than two months' investigation of the mystery, has been so damning and so direct. The defense has practically only to establish the creditability of Mincey to assure itself of victory.

Said He Had Killed Girl.

This sensational information is the first hint that the public has had that the negro was alleged to have made a confession of the crime. Up to this time the detectives have said that Conley has denied all connection with the killing itself.

"I've killed a girl to-day; I don't want to kill nobody else," are the words that Mincey swore Conley spoke to him the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered in the pencil factory.

Mincey at the time of which his affidavit relates was selling life insurance in the negro districts. He knew Conley and had been after him several times to take out life insurance, according to the story he told in the office of Attorney Rosser.

Conley Was Drunk.

On the afternoon of the murder of Mary Phagan he met Conley near Electric and Carter Streets. Conley was sitting down with his head in his hands, apparently intoxicated.

"How about that insurance?" Mincey says he asked Conley.

"Get away from here. I don't want no insurance," Conley is said to have replied.

Mincey says in his affidavit that he urged Conley further and that the negro appeared to be angry.

"I tell you I don't want no insurance; I'm in trouble. I don't want you to bother me," Mincey swears Conley retorted.

Mincey asserts that he stayed to argue with Conley and that the negro finally said:

"You go away. I'll be in jail in a few days and I won't want any insurance."

Negro Was Enraged.

The negro jumped to his feet and advanced toward Mincey menacingly, according to the affidavit.

"I've killed a girl to-day; I don't want to kill nobody else!" Mincey declared Conley shouted at him.

Mincey thought little of the remark at the time, regarding Conley's remarks as mere braggadocio or an exaggeration of some negro fight in which he had been involved. When he read of the Phagan murder he recalled the remarks of Conley.

Goes to Factory.

On the Tuesday following the strangling of the little girl he went to the factory. He talked to E. F. Holloway, the day watchman, and asked him how many negroes were employed there. Holloway replied that there were seven or eight.

"You should have every one of them arrested at once," Mincey told

GARRISON PLANS TO ABANDON 100 ARMY POSTS

War Secretary Calls Them Useless, Demoralizing, Wasteful. Ready to Fight Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The most radical and dramatic move in army administration since Elihu Root reorganized it a decade ago has been determined by Secretary of War Garrison. He intends to fight Congress on the question of maintaining 100 or more "absolutely useless" army posts in the interior.

He intends to withdraw troops from at least 75 per cent of them in the interest of economy and efficiency, and next Wednesday will start on a five weeks' tour of the posts to crystallize the details of the policy he announced to-day.

Scores "Pork Barrel" System.

Secretary Garrison is disgusted with the "wasteful and extravagant way in which the army is being conducted," and lays it all to the system of maintaining army posts as part of the "pork barrel" into which every member of Congress dips his fingers. There are at present 157 posts in the country, an average of one post to every 250 soldiers in the army. Every State is represented.

The Secretary of War has made a preliminary investigation, which has proved to him that the maintenance of all these posts, of which he believes that 100 are unnecessary, is not only demoralizing to the army, but the most extravagant way of wasting Government money ever devised.

Plans to Block Congress.

If Congress obstructs his policy of unifying the posts, the Secretary of War intends to use his executive powers of withdrawing troops from those posts which he believes are unnecessary. He declares he has absolute power in this direction, and, with the President's consent, could concentrate the entire army in Washington if he so desires. He intends to use this power in fighting Congress should the latter determine to nullify his policies of post concentration.

Mr. Garrison will be accompanied by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and Quartermaster General Aleshire.

The plan of centralizing the army has been under consideration for several years. General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta, stated that if the plan was ever put into effect Fort McPherson would become one of the largest posts in the country.

him. And then he told of his meeting with Conley. Holloway replied that Conley had not been in the factory that day, no one knowing at the time that the negro had hidden himself in the boxes to the right of the stairway on the first floor.

The shock of the tragedy had not yet worn off, and all was confusion in the building. Because no one suspected that Conley had been in the factory on the Saturday of the crime, a fact which Conley later admitted when under the third degree of the detectives, little attention was paid to Mincey's story at the time.

Says Police Wouldn't Listen.

He states that he went to the police station and was told that they did not want his story. He saw Conley and identified him as the negro with whom he talked on the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

When Conley himself broke down and admitted that he had been hiding on the first floor, Mincey's sensational story took on the highest significance. He returned to the factory and repeated the details of his former statement. An interview was arranged with a lawyer acquaintance not connected with the case in any way. This attorney heard his story and took him to Attorney Rosser, where the statement was taken in sworn form.

"We do not want your statement unless you can swear to the truth of every word of it," he was told. He then dictated the affidavit which is now in possession of the defense.

Mincey was a solicitor for the American Insurance Company until about two weeks ago. He left this firm to teach school. He is said to be employed in Chattanooga, but will return to testify at the trial of Leo Frank July 28. He lived at 128 Davis Street until last October and then moved to another part of the city.

Defense Has Faith in It.

Uncovering for the first time the bulwark of defense which Frank's lawyers have built up around him, as well as containing the first report of a confession from Conley, the affidavit signed by Mincey at once takes its place as the most important document or piece of evidence that has entered into the case.

"Yes, we have the affidavit," admitted one of the lawyers for the defense Thursday afternoon. "We have had it for some time. We place the utmost reliance in it. We believe this man is telling the truth. It forms one of the strongest foundations for our belief in the guilt of Jim Conley."

C. J. Graham, of the law firm of Graham & Chpapell, announced on Thursday that the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus for Newt Lee had been set by Judge Ellis for Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock. He said that he would subpena 50 witnesses to appear at the hearing, among them Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley.

Frank's attorneys will fight his appearance at the hearing and the State is expected to try to prevent Conley from testifying. Solicitor Dorsey is strongly opposed to the freeing of Lee until after the trial of Frank, and has declared that he will use every effort to thwart the movement of Lee's attorneys.

BARROW COUNTY BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

The bill creating the new county of Barrow, to be made up of sections of Walton, Gwinnett and Jackson, with Winder as the county seat, passed the House to-day by a vote of 136 to 35.

The measure came from the Constitutional Amendments Committee with a unanimous recommendation for its passage, but it was not put through the House until after a genuine display had been indulged in.

The fight against Barrow was led by Hardeman, of Jefferson, who attacked it by moving to postpone action upon it until next session. Had that motion prevailed, the bill would have been killed, beyond hope of resurrection.

Barrow County has been looked upon generally as apt to win out. It has been before the Legislature before, and many members who voted for it to-day explained their votes by saying that they voted upon the merits of the proposition entirely, which were evident enough to the Constitutional Amendments Committee to get a unanimous favorable report therefrom.

The impression is that Barrow will pass the Senate and go to the people for ratification in the next general election.

During the voting on the bill, the galleries were packed with citizens from the territory affected, and when the vote was announced the result brought great applause.

INSURANCE BILL FIRST GENERAL ACT PASSED

The first general bill of the session, passed Thursday morning by the House, was House Bill No. 9, which perfects the insurance laws covering the reinsuring in other companies by concerns wishing to retire from business in the State. It was introduced by Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Cook, of Chattahoochee. Some little opposition was expressed, and 30 minutes was consumed in debate.

Representative Sheppard announced that the Ways and Means Committee would not meet until next Tuesday, on account of a death in the family of Chairman Akin. A report will be made by the committee next Wednesday, Mr. Sheppard stated. Resolutions of sympathy for Representative Akin were adopted.

The following local bills were favorably reported, placed on a third reading and adopted:

By Paulk—Providing a Board of County Commissioners for Ben Hill County.

Rhodes and Lipscomb—To amend charter of Athens.

The Rules Committee killed a resolution by Pharr, of Gwinnett, instructing the Constitutional Amendments Committee not to consider any new county bills at this time.

The University of Georgia Committee reported favorably on a bill providing for an agricultural, industrial and normal college to be located in South Georgia and to be a branch of the university.

BEAVERS' WAR ON VICE IS LAUDED BY WOMEN

Chief of Police Beavers' fight against vice was enthusiastically indorsed at the Thursday morning session of the convention of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association. The following resolution, introduced by Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was adopted:

The Georgia Woman Suffrage Association realizes the high civic ideals which actuate Chief of Police James L. Beavers, of Atlanta, and we wish to place ourselves on record as indorsing every move which he has taken for good government and clean morals, and especially do we commend his action in the matter of recommending the appointment of women probation officers for Atlanta; therefore,

Be it Resolved, That we convey to him our hearty congratulations and pledge to him the support and co-operation of the association in securing the appointment of these women officers, and also pledge our co-operation in any movement toward bettering civic conditions of Atlanta, which mean better civic conditions for the whole State, and be it further

Resolved, That The Atlanta Georgian, The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal be requested to publish these resolutions.

Mrs. McWhorter's resolution invoked tremendous enthusiasm among the delegates to the convention, and the indorsement of the association was given to Chief Beavers without a dissenting vote.

The Georgian's Editorial Praised.

The association also gave its unofficial indorsement to an editorial appearing in Thursday's Georgian, which was read from the president's platform by Mrs. Susan Cunningham, of Decatur, formerly vice president of the Alabama Equal Suffrage Association. The editorial comments on the action of the Georgia Senate in refusing to allow the suffragists to meet in the Senate chamber, and congratulates the House for allowing the women to meet in its chamber.

Mrs. Cunningham referred to the editorial as inspiring and wonderful, and declared that it embodied the thoughts of the members of the association.

The recommendation of the committee that the association work for a constitutional amendment striking out the word "male" from the State Constitution was adopted.

Contrary to expectations, no members of the Atlanta Civic League appeared to fight for the control of the State organization. Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, State president, made but a brief reference to the trouble with the league members, headed by Mrs. Frances Whiteside.

She declared that the members of the Civic League had outlawed themselves from the State Suffrage Association because of non-payment of dues.

She declared that the contention of the leaguers that the State association had ceased to exist because no convention was held in 1912 was not borne out by the provisions of the constitution, which declare that the holding of a convention shall be at the discretion of the executive committee.

The routine committees of the convention were appointed by the president and probably will report at the Thursday afternoon session.

Leader Predicts Success.

Several of the members of the association delivered short talks at this morning's session. Mrs. Samuel Cunningham, of Decatur, head of the DeKalb County branch, declared that woman suffrage is coming just as surely as all good things are bound to come. She drew a round of applause when she declared that despite the assertions of opponents of the cause, the first thought of the true suffragist is of her home, and that the granting of the vote to woman would not impair her work as a wife and mother.

Mrs. H. Augusta Howard, who organized the State association and was its president for six years, told a pathetic story of the persecutions she was forced to undergo during the first few years of the movement in Georgia. Members of her family, she declared, took sides against her, and because of her loyalty to the cause, her two little children were taken from her.

She declared her belief in the ultimate triumph of womanhood over the narrowness and bigotry of man, and asserted that the weak will never be adequately protected until woman has a hand in the making of the laws.

Addresses also were made by Mrs. J. P. Scott, of Harrington, Kans., who has voted and served as a judge of election; Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, Mrs. Margaret McWhorter and others.

The final session of the convention will be held in the House of Representatives Thursday night. It will be featured by an address by Mrs. William A. Felton, of Cartersville, one of Georgia's most noted women, who will make her first public appearance as a suffragist.

SILHOUETTE GOWNS TO BE WORN IN U. S. SOON, FASHION EXPERT SAYS

Two examples of the new silhouette gown and in the center first evolutionized Harem costume.

NEW YORK, July 10.—"The prudes can not stop them—they are here. That is, they are in Paris, which means that American women of fashion will bring them home with them this fall and winter," said Mme. Bernard, Fifth Avenue modiste, who has just arrived from abroad with the first harem skirt and the silhouette gown.

The former resembles Turkish trousers, which have succeeded the slit skirt, and the latter is a new French creation of lace and pleated tulle, worn with tights of silk of white or flesh pink, with no suggestion of a petticoat unless it be of filmy material.

"The slit skirt has been the most graceful and attractive made for women which has been worn in many years, so all of the great fashion leaders of Paris declare," said Mme. Bernard. "The harem skirt is an adaptation of the slit skirt with the tendency to the full and natural figure about the hips, which is the dernier cri.

"Turkish trousers, properly adapted, are an ideal costume for the modern woman of fashion. The ones I saw in Paris are the most fascinating and bewitching frocks I have ever seen.

"The silhouette gown, which is built on Grecian lines, is extremely beautiful, provided the figure is graceful. It is like looking at a beautiful woman through a fleecy sunlit cloud.

"The gown is so arranged at the hem that by means of a slit up the front—to the knees—and by pulling the diaphanous pleated tulle and lace criss-cross about the ankles a sort of trouser effect is obtained which only shows when the wearer moves about."

Fights Insurance Suit Under Suicide Clause

COLUMBUS, GA., July 10.—A suit of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, who was shot and killed October 25, 1912, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company, to collect a $2,000 policy, is being heard in City Court.

When the father, M. L. Richardson, demanded payment, the insurance company refused to settle, claiming that the insured committed suicide.

A similar suit for $2,000 is pending against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Rome Fears Water Famine; Wants Rain

ROME, July 10.—The city of Rome, with its 17,000 inhabitants, faces a real water famine. The situation is so critical that the authorities are alarmed.

Only one-quarter of an inch of rain has fallen in Rome since June 7, and so much extra water has been used on gardens and lawns that the supply of city water is about exhausted.

To-day Mayor Yancey issued a proclamation calling on the people to co-operate with the city authorities in an effort to prevent a water famine.

$170,000,000 Bond Issue Inquiry Asked

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Senator Norris, of Nebraska, to-day introduced in the Senate a resolution requiring the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate a proposed issue of $170,000,000 in bonds by the New York Central Railroad.

The proposed bonds will be issued against the combined property of the New York Central, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern.

SLATON'S FIRST APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED

Senator Stark Offers Bill Providing for Rotation of Superior Court Judges.

All of Governor Slaton's first list of appointments were approved by the Georgia Senate in executive session Thursday. Several bills were reported favorably from committees and read the second time, and a few new ones were introduced.

Senator W. W. Stark introduced a bill providing for rotation of Superior Court judges, after the North Carolina plan. It provides that judges shall serve as near as possible in the part of the State from which they are elected.

Other new bills were introduced and read the first time as follows:

By Senator W. D. McNeil—Requiring railroads to erect warning boards for the benefit of train crews half a mile from switches, drawbridges and grade crossings.

By C. H. Parrish—Amending the Code of Statesboro to define the limitations and jurisdiction of the City Court.

By C. H. Richardson—Amending the act of August 21, 1911, revising the schools laws.

By Grant D. Perry—Requiring returns to be made and taxes paid in counties where the property involved is situated.

By S. E. Jones—Detaching Wilson County from the Okmulgee Judicial Circuit and annexing it to the Dublin Circuit.

By Elkins, Kea and Peyton—Constitutional amendment creating Lamar County.

The following bills were reported for passage and read the second time:

From the Committee on Appropriations—House resolution authorizing payment of earned salary of insurance clerk.

From Committee on Legislative Reapportionment—Senate bill detaching Clayton County from the Sixth Congressional District and annexing it to the Fifth.

From the Committee on Education—Senate bill requiring the reading of one chapter from the Bible every day at the opening of public schools. Also a local bill regarding the schools at Oglethorpe.

Senator Harrell's bill making it a misdemeanor to pass a worthless check was withdrawn from the Committee on Banks and passed to the Judiciary Committee.

Refuses to Marry White Girl to Chinese

DETROIT, MICH., July 10.—Fong None, a Chinese civil engineer, 23 years old, and Della Basyer, 22 years old, white, appeared before Judge Degaw this morning and, producing a marriage license, appealed to him to marry them.

The judge refused to marry the couple because one was an Oriental and the other a white girl.

BOYS SAVE MOTHER AND GIRL FROM DROWNING IN PICNIC BATHING ACCIDENT

Heroic work of two little boys, Mizell and J. C. Williamson, of 7 Gray Street, saved their mother, Mrs. J. C. Williamson, and a young woman, Miss Maud Stradley, of 322 Simpson Street, from drowning in Center Hill pond Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Williamson has a class of little girls at the Tabernacle Baptist Church Sunday school, which she had taken for an outing to Center Hill. Her sons, ages 13 and 12, respectively, were in the party.

Ventured Out Too Far.

Mrs. Williamson and Miss Stradley went in wading. The water was muddy and they could not see the bottom, but the water was so shallow and the bottom so smooth that they ventured farther from the shore, though neither of them could swim. They were walking several feet apart when the girls on the bank saw them go under.

Panic followed. The women in the water fought with desperation, oblivious to the fact that opening their mouths to scream was admitting the fatal water. The girls on the bank called and shouted, and the two boys rushed up to see their mother and Miss Stradley go down in the throes of drowning.

Boys Fine Swimmers.

Before the boys could reach the struggling women they had sunk for the second time. When they came up they screamed no more, and they fought with feeble efforts.

The boys had learned to swim in Piedmont Park lake and they hurried to the rescue with the speed of experts. Before the women had gone down for the third time J. C. had grabbed his mother by the hair and Mizell had taken hold of Miss Stradley.

Made Brave Struggle.

It was soon evident, however, that all danger was not passed. The women were too heavy for the little fellows. There were shouts of encouragement from the bank, but the odds were against the victims.

The moment the accident occurred someone had run for Policeman Williamson. He was some distance away and it had taken some time to reach him—seconds in reality, but it seemed hours to the watchers.

As the boys were making for the shore with their burdens he rushed up.

He did not stop to remember that he was a poor swimmer, neither did he discard any of his clothes, but plunged in.

Human Life Line Formed.

Another tragedy threatened when he reached the deep water. Policeman Williamson sank as the women had. When he came up he saw that it was vain for him to attempt to render aid. The boys were making progress toward the shore, so he struck out for the shallow water.

When he secured a footing he watched and gave instructions to the boys. Holding hands, a human life line was made by the girls and all pulled ashore.

The boys were exhausted and the two women unconscious.

Mrs. Williamson is confined to her bed, but her condition is reported not serious. She is merely suffering from a reaction from the shock. Miss Stradley is up and all right except for a slightly sore throat.

JACKSONVILLE, July 10.—Frank Williams, County Commissioner, and a woman were targets for five shots fired by Williams' wife this afternoon. Mrs. Williams, it is said, followed her husband and the other woman to the home of the latter, where the shooting took place. None of the shots which were fired through the window, took effect.

The shooting this afternoon occurred in one of the most thickly settled residential districts of Jacksonville and created great excitement among hundreds of people who were attracted by the fusilade.

Williams is one of the most widely known citizens of this city and Duval County. No trouble between Williams and his wife had leaked out and the shooting came as a complete surprise.

'Purity' Course in Schools of Chicago

CHICAGO, July 10.—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago's public schools, to-day was given credit for a signal victory by the advocates of sex hygiene study in schools.

The Board of Education adopted a resolution providing for a thorough course in "personal purity" to be inaugurated at the beginning of the next school year.

Hoke Smith Wins Fight for Mrs. Ham; Nomination O. K.'d

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Senate to-day confirmed the appointment of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham as postmistress at Gainesville, Ga. Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who was postmistress at Gainesville several years.

The appointment of Mrs. Ham is a victory for Senator Hoke Smith. He has been opposing the appointment of A. S. Hardy, who was Congressman Bell's suggestion for the place.

MILITANT 'JEKYL AND HYDE' IS ARRESTED

Arsonite, Meek Wife by Day, Confesses She Did $200,000 Fire Damage at Night.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 10.—A remarkable confession of a dual life, which in some respects equals "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," was made here to-day by a woman. Mrs. Edith Rigby, wife of a rich and prominent doctor, admitted to the police that she has been a member of militant suffrage arson squad for six months without her husband's knowledge.

Every night she would slip from her home and set fire to buildings, plant bombs or send threatening letters to those opposing the cause. She told the police that she had caused at least $200,000 damage through her own executions.

Gentle Wife by Day.

Her husband opposes suffrage and she had to carry on her campaign of vandalism clandestinely. By day she appeared a gentle, dutiful wife, with no thought of "votes for women." But at night she went forth with violence in her heart. She was arrested.

After being taken to the police station Mrs. Rigby dramatically confessed burning down the mansion of Sir W. H. Lever, Bart, in Lancashire, when over $100,000 damage was done.

Ready to Give Her Life.

"I burned Sir William Lever's home because I understood that King George was to visit there," cried Mrs. Rigby. "I scattered the suffragette placards. I burned other buildings. I risked my life night after night in the manufacture of bombs. But I would give my life for the cause. I would give up my husband and my children—everything. I place the suffrage cause above everything—perhaps above religion."

Clara Giveen, a member of the arson squad of the militant suffragettes, who was sent to prison for incendiarism, was released to-day because of illness brought on by a food and water strike.

Attorneys General Backs Insurance War

Officers elected are: J. S. Dawson, Kansas, president; J. H. Light, Connecticut, vice president; R. C. Johnson, South Dakota, secretary; Charles West, Oklahoma; George Cosson, Iowa; Tanner, Washington, and Martin, Nevada, executive committee. The next meeting will be with the American Bar Association.

Attorney General Barker's fight in Missouri on insurance companies was warmly indorsed by national association Attorneys General.

Wilson's Work Excels Hopes, Col. House Says

LONDON, July 10.—Colonel T. N. House, the intimate friend of President Wilson, at whose home in New York the President generally stays on his visits to the metropolis, is sailing to-morrow on the Latonia for Boston. In a talk with the representative of the Hearst papers he said:

"President Wilson has achieved and even exceeded the high expectations of his friends. Before his term of office is over it is certain he will have left his mark on history."

'Cooling Period,' Is Rabbi's Divorce Cure

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 10.—"Cooling periods" three months from the finish of the trial to give remorse a chance to work and bring about a reconciliation were advocated to-day by Rev. J. Leonard Levy, of Pittsburg, as a remedy for the divorce evil.

Dr. Levy said in a paper read before the Conference of American Rabbis that Rabbis should demand two weeks' notice from those who wanted to be married so as to investigate their records.

FARMERS' UNION GETS RECRUITS IN JENKINS

Campaigners Inject Enthusiasm at Millen Meeting — Two New Locals Formed.

MILLEN, July 10.—That the farmers of Georgia are rallying to the standard of the Farmers' Union as never before is demonstrated at every meeting at which President C. S. Barrett and L. M. Rhodes, State president of Tennessee, are the principal speakers.

At Sylvania Tuesday two new unions were organized. Many names were added to the rolls of the old unions.

At Millen, the county seat of Jenkins, there was a large gathering in the beautiful new courthouse Wednesday.

After the speaking every man who was not a member of the union joined. The enthusiasm was such as to guarantee the success of the union in Jenkins County.

No town in Georgia or elsewhere has grown faster in the past ten years than Millen. It is almost four times as large as it was ten years ago. Why?

The explanation is given by President Barrett. "If there are any better farms, if there are any better farmers, they must be in Georgia," he said, "for I know there are none better in any other country."

Mayor Reluctantly Pays for Crematory

Mayor Woodward Thursday signed checks for $125,000 as first payment on the crematory built by the Destructor Company of New York, but he is not satisfied with the contract.

"The price of $276,000 should have been reduced $100,000," he said. "By my fight we got a cut of $16,000. Claimed interest of $11,000 on deferred payments finally was waived. Chief of Construction Clayton forced them to add extras which, they say, have amounted to $6,000. The city has drawn 2 per cent interest on the $125,000 during the fight. The total saving is $34,000."

'No American Dances' Sign in Swiss Hotels

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND, July 10.—"No American dances allowed here" is a sign confronting tourists at nearly all the high-class Swiss hotels. The managers declare the notices had to be put up because of complaints from English, French and other foreign tourists, with the exception of Americans.

Continental visitors have left a number of hotels where American girls insisted on dancing the turkey trot, the tango, the bunny hug and the Texas tommy.

BALKAN TOLL OF DEATH PLACED AT 65,000

Estimates, Believed Exaggerated, Show Heavy Losses in War Between Former Allies.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 10.—Bulgaria has been defeated and humbled by Servia, Greece and Montenegro and is on her knees begging for peace.

Czar Ferdinand personally telegraphed to Czar Nicholas to-day accepting any terms Russia makes to bring about peace in the Balkans.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

VIENNA, July 10.—According to estimates compiled here to-day from official and unofficial dispatches from the Balkans, at least 65,000 men have been killed in the fighting between Bulgarians on one side and Servians, Greeks and Montenegrins on the other.

It is a certainty, however, that these figures are exaggerated, as the Servian and Greek losses have invariably come from Bulgarian sources, while estimates of Bulgarian casualties have emanated from Athens, Uskub or Belgrade.

Another Great Battle Raging; 75,000 Engaged.

SOFIA, July 10.—Another desperate battle with enormous losses of life on both sides is raging north of Kotchana between Bulgars and Serbs who attempted to cross the border into Bulgaria.

The Servians had a double object—first, to march upon the Bulgarian capital; second, to get behind the Bulgarian lines and cut off the retreat of the two southern divisions to Kustendil, the Bulgarian base of operations.

According to official advices from the front, the battle is being fought between Kotchana and Egri Palanka, along a small river. It is estimated that about 75,000 men are engaged. The battle lines are stretched over an area of ten miles.

Both sides are supported by artillery. The Servians also have a heavy force of cavalry. Bulgarian reinforcements have been sent over the Sofia-Uskub Railroad.

Czar Urges Bulgars to Settle With Roumania.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 10.—Russia is pressing Bulgaria to settle its differences with Roumania over Roumanian territorial expansion without further delay. Foreign Minister Sazonoff declared to-day that it would be national suicide for each of the Balkan States to keep on fighting.

The opinion here is that Greece will emerge from the present war with the greatest laurels.

Bulgaria Is Ordered to Sue for Peace by Powers.

PARIS, July 10.—A joint note from the main European powers was to-day forwarded to Sofia demanding that Bulgaria immediately secure the peace terms of Servia and Greece. Belief prevails here in military and diplomatic circles that Bulgaria will be badly defeated by the other three States in the Balkan League if the war is allowed to go to a conclusion.

If Bulgaria is compelled to sue for peace she will lose much of the spoils of the first Balkan war. Greece will retain Salonika and a big strip in Southern Macedonia, while the Servian frontier will be extended over a large area of northern Macedonia.

Bulgars Give Grounds For War, Turks Assert.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 10.—Bulgarians are committing depredations against the Turks, which furnish cause for a declaration of war, it was announced here to-day by the Ottoman government.

Bulgarian troops stationed along the Littoral of the Sea of Marmora have burned two Turkish towns to prevent their falling into the hands of a Greek army which is marching eastward from Salonika.

Bryan and Envoy of Japs in Conference

WASHINGTON, July 10.—An informal discussion of certain features of the situation between the United States aind Japan was held by Viscount Chinda, Japanese Ambassador, and Secretary of State Bryan to-day. The American reply to the recent Japanese rejoinder is not entirely completed.

Mr. Bryan expects to transmit the document to Viscount Chinda either to-morrow or Saturday.

Savannah-to-Florida Road Plan Indorsed

Favorable report on the bill providing for construction with convict labor of a highway 100 miles long from Savannah to the Florida border at St. Marys River, in Camden County, was authorized Wednesday by the Penitentiary Committee of the Georgia Legislature. Representative Slater, of Bryan County, is its author.

CONTESTANTS TO RIDE PONIES NEXT SUNDAY

Parents of the contestants and the contestants themselves are very cordially invited to Grant Park Sunday afternoon when the ponies, some harnessed and others saddled, will be on hand.

There will be rides and drives for all the children, and for the parents there will be an opportunity to inspect the prizes for which their children are working and a chance to meet the contest manager.

The contest manager is particularly anxious to meet the parents and confer with them as the race enters upon its last lap. But nineteen working days remain in the contest, and the children will need the co-operation of their parents to the fullest extent. How to help the boys and girls in the race will be the topic which the contest manager and the parents will discuss.

The office force of The Georgian and American contest department is busy totaling the bonuses which the contestants have earned through the five-club offers, and the first $30 offer. This is proving even a greater task than anticipated, and it is impossible to give the contestants' full standings as yet.

Meanwhile another bonus offer is in effect. Liberal amounts of extra votes are offered for clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions turned in before 10 o'clock the night of July 19.

Subscriptions of any length—two years, a year, six months, three months or even a month—may be combined to make up these totals.

Legislators Favor Girls' Home Plan

Unanimous approval of the Penitentiary Committee was won Wednesday by Representative Jones, of Coweta, and Representative Mills, of Butts, for their bill appropriating $75,000 for a State home for wayward girls. The measure will be reported immediately, with recommendation for passage.

While no site is mentioned in the bill, the Penitentiary Committee discussed the advantages of Milledgeville.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men

Send Name and Address To-day—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of man, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow-men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest acting restorative, up-building SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4276 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain, ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Comedy Team Forsyth Hit.

Hines and Fox, piano player and singer, who came to the Forsyth unknown on Monday, have scored one of the biggest hits registered by an act of its sort in Atlanta. Eva Taylor and company, one of the headline features, present an act that has attracted the most favorable comment and won a most universal indorsement. Kennedy and Melrose, the novelty gymnasts, have added to the merit of the bill, and there are other features that make the show decidedly worth while.

Next week Valerie Bergere and company will return to Atlanta to present "Judgment," the latest success of this distinguished vaudeville star. Britt Wood, the Rube comedian, and the Shelvey Brothers, flexible gymnasts, will also be on the bill.

Grand Popular Place.

The Grand just now is a decidedly popular place, because the management, in response to the pulse of the people, has instituted a policy of motion pictures that is a revelation to the patrons of "movies."

Excellent programs of exclusive first-run pictures and Edison's talking pictures are presented daily from 2:30 until 10:30 at night, and usually to crowded gatherings.

Bijou Has Good Show.

Will Stanton and Rosalie May, at the Bijou this week, as the stars in "Along Broadway," have made one of the biggest hits of the season. Mr. Stanton's impersonation of a cabaret drunk is a capital piece of acting and keeps the house in a continuous uproar of laughter. Rosalie May, Mr. Stanton's partner, is a clever little woman. The violin solos of Miss Marjorie Calvert never fail to receive an enthusiastic reception, and the same can be said of the clever dancing of Ingalls, Duffield and Ingalls.

Preacher Floyd Official.

ROME.—A Baptist preacher has been elected a member of the Floyd County Commissioners. He is the Rev. C. L. Conn, pastor of the North Broad Street and West Rome Baptist Churches. The Rev. Mr. Conn was elected to succeed the late R. S. Hamrick.

THE BEST SERVICE ---AND THE CHEAPEST

You do not want a thing merely because it is cheap, but when sterling merit is combined with cheapness, then economy is a consideration.

An Atlanta telephone in your home costs only 8 1-3 cents, and it gives you a uniformly courteous, rapid-fire service, covering all of greater Atlanta.

FIFTH REGIMENT BOYS MIX PLAY AND WORK

Atlanta Soldiers Having Great Time at Instruction Camp on St. Simons Island.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, GA., July 10.—The soldier boys of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, who arrived here Wednesday from Atlanta, have taken complete charge of St. Simons. Today the boys, somewhat weary of the more or less arduous duties of pitching camp, are having the time of their lives splashing in the surf and wandering around the island.

Thursday night the first big dance will be held and Friday military tactics and instruction will be the order of the day.

Next Saturday the Fifth will be the host of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Joseph M. Brown, members of the Governor's staff and General R. K. Evans and Colonel Barth, U. S. A.

A special committee from the Brunswick Board of Trade and from the City Council will meet the party at the depot and escort it to the St. Simons boat.

In the Governor's party on the visit to St. Simons will be Governor and Mrs. Slaton, Colonel and Mrs. Frederic J. Paxon, General J. VanHolt Nash and daughter, Miss Nash; General and Mrs. R. K. Evans, Colonel C. H. Barth, Colonel and Mrs. George M. Hope, Colonel A. H. VanDyke and daughter, Miss VanDyke; Colonel William B. Stovall, Colonel H. P. Meikleham, Colonel Ben J. Fowler.

The party will be joined by Colonel and Mrs. Z. H. Clark, of Moultrie, at Fitzgerald, and Colonel and Mrs. John D. Walker, of Sparta, at Cordele.

Slaton Last Hope of Man to Hang Friday

Failing in their attempt to get the Prison Commission to recommend a commutation of sentence for Oscar Dewberry, the negro sentenced to hang in the Fulton County Jail Friday, Attorneys Calhoun and Powell made an appeal to Governor Slaton Thursday afternoon.

Dewberry was convicted of killing a white boy in Decatur Street. Persistent efforts were made to have the Prison Commission to recommend commutation. Governor Brown was appealed to without success.

Denver Puts Ban on Japs and Negroes

DENVER, July 10.—Japanese and negroes are barred from bathing in the lake at Washington Park here by order of Park Commissioner Thum.

He will allow none but whites to use the waters.

SLOGANS EXPLAIN WHY ATLANTA FOLKS BOOST

Designs Submitted in Georgian's Half-Million Club Contest Express City's True Spirit.

Thursday's entrants in the $25 prize slogan contest reveal more than ever that Atlanta's true individuality is the inspiration for the slogans. Any city can boost, but none can boost like Atlanta, as the slogans clearly show.

The pretty girl idea has taken a strong hold on the contestants. One submitted by Robert M. DeFassell, Atlanta Athletic Club, makes the face of a pretty girl the emblem of the "500,000 club." Its caption expresses the lure of romance:

"Miss Atlanta, 'Boost-er.' 500,000 by 1920."

The whole country has been impressed with the aggressive and forceful methods of Police Chief J. L. Beavers. Taking advantage of this William E. Muirhead suggested for a button a face of Chief Beavers with the words: "500,000 by 1920. Get 'Em or Bust."

Contest Open All Week.

Slogans received as late as Saturday will be eligible for the prize. On that day the committee of judges—John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor—will meet and decide the winner. The lucky one will be announced in Hearst's Sunday American.

Here are some of the clever ideas that came to the contest editor through the mails:

"The Atlanta Spirit, Atlanta's Boost.

"Atlanta, My Criterion. 1913-1920, 200,000—500,000"—Lewis J. Ball, 110 Capitol Avenue.

"500,000 by 1920. Atlanta Offers You Opportunity, Peace and Plenty"—Mrs. A. O. Woodward, South Atlanta.

"Atlanta, the Dixie Flyer.

"Will Care for Half a Million Souls and Higher"—Mrs. M. J. Rossman, Greensboro, Ga.

"For 500,000 Souls We'll Win in a Canter.

"Atlanta 1920 Census Booster. Lend a Hand. Make It Grand. Five Hundred Thousand."—R. S. Thomson, 16 Bedford Place.

"Atlanta Booster Club. Boost Atlanta. 500,000 Population by 1920."

"Half-Million City, 1920. Be a Booster."—J. M. Swift, 240 Crew Street.

Design submitted by Robert M. De Lassell.

W. R. Menkee and Harold Runge, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, urge a button on which is a picture of a gate, with the words:

"Atlanta, Gate City. 500,000 Population 1920."

Prosperity in Atlanta.

"Health, Prosperity For You in Atlanta. Ask Me Why."—H. B. Tuller, of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"Atlanta, the Nation's Queen. Biggest, Brightest, Best Means Atlanta."—Mrs. Homer Hones, 54 Flat Shoals Avenue.

"Join the Half-Million Club and Boost Atlanta."—Isadore Bleich, 17 Kennedy Street.

"Atlanta, the Last Word in Cities."—Myrtle Maxwell, 708 South Boulevard.

"Me For Half-Million Atlanta. On the Job All the Time."—M. M. Welch.

"Atlanta Always Ahead."—Nate A. Gordon, 110 Capitol Avenue.

"Ashes to Billions."

"Bigger, Busier Atlanta. Why Not 500,000?"—T. J. Harrington, 35 North Pryor Street.

"Watch Me Pull. Atlanta, 500,000, 1920."—W. J. Hicks.

"For Atlanta — Half-Million and Then Some."—E. W. Ray, Acworth, Ga.

"We're for Smoke."—H. Shaw, 258 Lawton Street.

"Atlanta, the City That Satisfies."—A. M. Moseley, 45 Williams Street.

"Atlanta! Get the habit! Half-million! We must have it. Atlanta spirit has caught many. Half-million in 1920."

Elks Club in Macon May Abolish Buffet

MACON, July 10.—The conviction of C. B. Wright, the secretary of the Elks Club, on the charge of violating the prohibition law, may mean the abolition of the buffet feature of the Macon lodge. Many of the members believe that the buffet should be discontinued, if it is ultimately upheld that the Elks are violating the law in operating it.

Though defended by the ablest lawyers of the city, Secretary Wright was found guilty by a jury.

Wright to-day was fined $700.

Firm Asks $100,000 On Fire Signal Delay

CHICAGO, July 10.—Alleged negligence in forwarding a fire alarm signal in Kansas City, Mo., on July 12, 1912, was made the basis for a $100,000 damage suit against subsidiaries of the Western Union Telegraph Company by Morris & Co., meat packers.

The Morris complaint alleges that a heavy fire loss was caused at its Kansas City plant because of delay in transmitting the fire alarm signal.

White Canvas and White Buckskin Pumps and Colonials Reduced to $1.95, $2.45 and $2.95

We have reduced the shoes mentioned above to $2.95, simply because we are unable to fit everybody in the $1.95 and $2.45 lots, although you might be able to find your size in one or the other of the lots if you will be a little patient. Some of the shoes formerly reduced to $2.45 and $3.00 are now in the $1.95 class, and some of those reduced to $3.00 and $3.50 formerly are now in the $2.45 class, so out of one of these you ought to be able to find your size.

We have just reduced several styles of black and tan calf-skin oxfords; both button and lace, and one style of patent leather. These were formerly $4.50 grades, and we are now selling them at $2.95 a pair.

The reduction on tan low shoes is still in force. You can buy any tan English last, rubber or leather sole, Cuban or military heel, pump or oxford in the house at either one of the three prices, $2.95, $3.95 or $4.95. Same prices apply also to our white buckskin and white Sea Island Canvas button boots. All $6.00 and $7.00 boots are now $4.95; all $5.00 boots are now $3.95, and all $4.50 boots are $2.95.

GOVERNOR AGAIN CITES NEED OF ECONOMY

Makes It Plain at Dinner That He Will Not Countenance Extension of Deficit.

Governor Slaton again made it plain in an after-dinner address at the Capital City Club Wednesday night that he will insist upon rigid economy in the Legislature until Georgia's present systems of finance and taxation are radically reformed.

Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the House Appropriations Committee, was host. The dinner was given in honor of the House committee and the Executive. It was informal, and was given for the purpose of getting the committee and the Governor in close and intimate touch.

The Governor pointed out that the estimated deficit in the State treasury now, based upon appropriations made by the last Legislature, amounts to the amazing sum of $776,170.

To Curb Expenditures.

He said he could not see his way clear to an extension of that deficit, if it were within his power to prevent it. He held that it is the State's duty—its honorable duty—to wipe out the deficit entirely, and to that end he invited the help and co-operation of the committee. The Governor said the two items that should be watched closest are the common schools and the pensions.

"The matter of Georgia meeting its obligations promptly is a matter of business, not sentiment," said the Governor. "We must keep our outgo within our income!"

Tax Reform Urged.

The committee evidently took the Governor's remarks in good part, for on all sides expressions of determination to help him and hold up his hands were heard.

All the talks were in happy vein, and it was the impression that the Governor and the Committee on Appropriations understood each other very well, indeed, when the dinner was over.

Besides the Governor and the House Committee on Appropriations, Speaker Burwell, Chairman Aikin and Vice Chairman Cole, of the Ways and Means Committee, and a number of newspaper men attended Mr. Wheatley's dinner.

J. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, was prevented by sickness from being present.

Dress Linen Prices 5 to 10 Per Cent Up

NEW YORK, July 10.—According to a member of the linen trade back from abroad, prices there now are from 5 to 10 per cent higher than when the last heavy purchases were made in November. In the local market staple color dress linens, especially blues and pinks, are scarce. Dealers have advanced prices on several staple numbers.

The substantial business in novelty dress linens this season has led dealers to believe that ratines will be in good demand next season also. The fact that these goods are being shown extensively in cotton is regarded as an indication of their stability.

COL. T. S. JONES.

FRANK WELDON.

Georgia will have one of the most complete and "jam-up" State exhibits at the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco if members of the State Commission and others interested get what they want—$100,000—from the present Legislature.

The first gun in the big campaign was fired Thursday when Representative R. B. Blackburn, of Fulton County, and other legislative boosters for the Cracker State presented a resolution in the House providing for an appropriation as authorized by the 1912 Legislature. The decision to wage an active campaign for the $100,000 was made Tuesday at a meeting of the State Exposition Commission.

Colonel T. Sambola Jones, of Louisiana, United States Commissioner for the exposition, who arrived in Atlanta Tuesday, will fire the second gun of the campaign Monday at noon when he will address both the House and Senate in joint session to urge the adoption of the resolution.

State Building Urged.

"We hope," said Colonel Jones, "that the Governor and his staff or a committee of distinguished citizens of Georgia will visit San Francisco to select a site for the proposed State building which this State should have, by all means, to house its exhibits and to care for the thousands of Georgians who will visit San Francisco in 1915.

"It is our plan also to have moving pictures of Georgia's participation in the exposition, showing every movement from the selection of the site for the building to the great Georgia Day, including the formal dedication of the building.

"These pictures will be sent all over the country and will constitute a living record of an event of which Georgians will ever be proud."

Mr. Weldon, chairman of the State Commission named by Governor Brown last year, was equally enthusiastic.

Big Display Planned.

"We are going after that appropriation with a vim," said he, "and we believe we will get it. Georgia must be represented—well represented—at this the greatest exposition that ever has been held.

"The commission proposes to have a strong display of Georgia's agricultural and mineral resources, as well as an exhibit showing her manufacturing activities. The State is one of the richest in the Union in natural resources and deserves to have a creditable exhibit at San Francisco."

Two Near Death in Auto Crash; Nabbed On Speeding Charge

A. M. Moon, of Adamsville, and O. H. Starnes, of Center Hill, are congratulating themselves to-day on their remarkable escape from injury when their automobiles collided in the Adamsville road last night. Both machines were demolished and their occupants hurled several feet. Beyond a few bruises, though, neither man was hurt.

Noise of the collision attracted a farmer. He telephoned to county police headquarters. Officers placed Moon and Starnes under arrest on charges of reckless speeding.

Gag for Gossips Is Favored by Judge

WASHINGTON, July 10.—"Women who meet in the corner grocery and other places to exchange neighborhood news are a menace to the community," declared Judge James L. Pugh in Police Court here.

A law to gag gossips is favored by the judge.

A TRIED AND PROVED GUARANTEE

Man Bought a Bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, Then Took It Back and Asked for His Money and Got It.

A man recently tried out the guarantee which all druggists give with every bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. He bought a bottle and then went back to the drug store and said the medicine hadn't helped him.

This druggist just reached into his cash register and took out a half dollar, the price of the bottle of Liver Tone, and handed it back to the gentleman. But he didn't take the money. He owned up that he was just trying the guarantee and, as a matter of fact, he had found Dodson's Liver Tone the best remedy for constipation and biliousness he had ever tried. "Why," he said, "my wife wouldn't be without a bottle in the house for anything. It's the best thing in the world for the whole family, and the medicine that I prefer to take or to give to my children for a lazy liver."

All druggists sell Dodson's Liver Tone and guarantee it to start the liver without violence. It is taking the place of calomel everywhere. If you buy a bottle and don't find this pleasant-tasting vegetable liquid the best thing to start a lazy liver, he will hand your money back with a smile.

The World of Society

Miss Eula Jackson, who will be a debutante next season, and who is being tendered several parties since her return from school, was honor guest at a dinner-dance Wednesday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox. The affair was given at "Woodhaven." Dinner was served from small tables placed on the terrace surrounding the home. Each table was decorated with colored phlox and silver candelabra bearing green shades under silver filigree. After dinner there was dancing in the large living room. Vases of summer flowers from the gardens of "Woodhaven" adorned the apartments.

Mrs. Maddox wore pink and blue chiffon, draped over satin, caught with knots of French roses. Miss Jackson, the honor guest, wore a dancing gown of pale blue chiffon and lace.

Miss Stockard Hostess.

Miss Lucy Stockard entertained at a bridge tea Thursday afternoon for Miss Louise Lorraine, of Richmond, Va., a guest of Miss Virginia Ribble; Miss Juanita Munday, of Augusta, who is visiting Mrs. J. C. McKenzie, and Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, a guest of Misses Goodrich. The decorations were garden flowers and potted plants. Sixteen girls were invited for bridge and twelve called later for tea. Prizes were white silk hose for first and consolation and embroidered handkerchiefs for the guests.

Miss Stockard wore cream lace over net, finished in blue satin sash and bows.

Miss Freeman Hostess.

Miss Emma Lowry Freeman entertained at an informal morning party Thursday in honor of Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs and Cleta Slagle, of Louisiana, and Alice Jones, of Birmingham, who are visiting Miss Dodo White at her country home, "Woodshack." Dancing was enjoyed. Luncheon was served in the dining room, where yellow flowers, goldenglow and Black-eyed Susans adorned the table.

Quick-Sumlin.

At Oakhaven, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Quick, Miss Elizabeth Quick and Mr. William D. Sumlin were married July 3. Because of the illness of the bride's mother the wedding was a quiet one. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Duncan, of the Ormewood Park Presbyterian Church. The house was decorated with palms and roses. The altar was made of palms interspersed with white bells and roses.

The bride wore white mull and lace. She carried Bride roses and valley lilies. Miss Susie Quick was maid of honor. She wore blue crepe and white lace and carried white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumlin went to Virginia Beach and Washington. After August 1 they will be at home in Park Avenue.

For Mrs. Tilt.

Mrs. Charles Remsen will entertain a few young matrons at a tea at the Piedmont Driving Club Friday afternoon for Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson Peel.

For Miss Dorothy Evans.

Miss Dorothy Evans, of Sandersville, was guest of honor at an afternoon party Thursday, given by George Evans at the home of his parents, Judge and Mrs. Beverly D. Evans, in West Peachtree Street. A number of girls and boys were present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Evans and several of her friends.

Ladies' Auxiliary to Meet.

A business meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held Friday evening at 3 o'clock at the Baptist Tabernacle. There will be a short program. Mrs. J. S. Heath will give a piano solo. Miss Verna Ruth Harris, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music and Elocution, will read.

Mrs. Davis Hostess.

An event of Thursday afternoon was a bridge party given by Mrs. Baldwin Davis at her home in Boulevard Terrace for her sisters, Mrs. Frank B. Bryan, of Madison, Miss.; Mrs. Henry Bartlett, of Oleander, Fla., and Mrs. James Fitch, a bride. Prizes were a cut glass bonbon dish, two guests' towels, and for the honor guests silk hose.

Guests included Misses Kate Ransom, Edith Lazarus, Edna Pugh, Mrs. J. R. Abbott, Mrs. L. J. Weimer, Mrs. Will McLendon, Mrs. S. D. Little, Mrs. John Goodrich, Mrs. S. W. Whitner, Mrs. C. M. Michael, of Talladega; Mrs. H. A. Manning, Mrs. Walter Daniel, Mrs. Villenueve, Mrs. C. R. Robinson, Mrs. Wade Harding, Mrs. Thomas Patton, Mrs. Floyd Johnson, Mrs. R. M. Springer, Mrs. Frank Mullin, Mrs. J. P. Seawell, Mrs. Roy Shelverton, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Mrs. Ellison Richards, Mrs. Graham Green, Mrs. H. R. Donaldson and Mrs. Roy Willheit.

Matinee Party.

Mrs. John C. Sage was hostess at a matinee party at the Forsyth Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Helen Williams and Miss Mary Williams, of Pine Bluff, Ark. Guests included the Misses Helen Williams, Mary Williams, Arian Purtell and Mrs. R. C. Taylor.

Mrs. Alston Hostess.

Mrs. Philip Alston entertained 30 of her married friends at bridge Thursday afternoon at her home on the Prado, Ansley Park. The house was decorated with old-fashioned yellow flowers. Prizes were a picture and a book. Mrs. Alston was gowned in pale blue serge and lace.

Mrs. Holland Hostess.

Mrs. Frank D. Holland entertained informally at tea at the Piedmont Club Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Eugene Crichton's guests, the Misses Hamilton, of Rome. Tea was served on the terrace. Guests danced afterward.

At the Country Clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser will entertain 28 guests at dinner Thursday evening at the Capital City Club. A number of other parties will be given, the dinner dance Thursday evening to be the second in the series of weekly dinner dances at the new Country Club this summer.

Parties of twelve guests each will be entertained by Mr. Edward Alfriend, Mr. W. R. McBurney, Mr. Dodson and Mr. W. R. Baskerville. Mr. C. T. Nunnally will entertain ten guests and Mr. Canton will entertain a party of twelve. Mr. Fleming will have a table for four. Mr. W. F. Pool will entertain three guests. Dinner will be served on the broad piazza overlooking the lake. Later there will be dancing in the ballroom.

Reservations are being made for the regular week-end dinner dance at the Piedmont Driving Club Saturday evening. A number of parties are planned, among them a small party by Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson Peel. The club is the scene of many informal parties for tea each afternoon. The ballroom always is open for dancing. Among those having tea at the club Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York; Mrs. William Lawson Peel, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Harry Chamberlin, Mrs. Walter P. Andrews, Mrs. Clarence May, Mrs. Robert Wood, Mrs. William R. Prescott, Mrs. John E. Sommerville and many others.

Skinner-Cofer.

Mrs. J. W. Cofer announces the marriage of her daughter, Janie Brown, to Mr. Francis Charles Skinner. The wedding was at the home of the bride's mother Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner left for Clayton. They will live in West End.

Miss Rose Entertains.

Afternoon Bridge.

The bridge party given by Misses Marion and Nina Neal for Miss Dodo White's guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle, was a pleasant event of Thursday afternoon. Cut flowers and ferns adorned the reception rooms. Prizes were a box of corresponding cards and a bridge set. Misses Marion and Nine Neal both wore afternoon frocks of white crepe trimmed in lace and blue ribbon.

Guests included Misses Dodo White, Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Cleta Slagle, Alice Jones, Martha Crane, Helen Dykes, Helen Stewart, Louise Dobbs, Marie Cobb, Madge Pollock, Jean Robinson, Katherine Wyly, Sina White, Lula White, Frances Bailey, Elizabeth Denman, Janet Hatcher, Elizabeth Black, Louise King, Eleanor Williams, Ruby McGaughey, Bernice Scheussler, Irene Bennett, Pauline Randall and Yvione Rose.

Informal Tea at Piedmont Club.

Mrs. Thod Hammond will entertain fifteen guests informally at tea at the Piedmont Club Friday afternoon.

Miss Carter Hostess.

Miss Margherita Carter entertained at luncheon Thursday for Miss Sarah Holt, of Columbus, guest of Miss Sarah Terrell. Six guests were seated around the table, where a centerpiece was formed of star Jessamine and ferns. Place cards were hand-painted in white and green.

Friday afternoon Miss Carter will entertain twelve couples at tea to meet Messrs. J. R. Estes, Philip Willard Estes and C. R. Banks.

For Mrs. Shallenberger.

Mrs. Cam Dorsey has invited a few friends to tea at the Piedmont Club Friday afternoon to meet Mrs. William Shallenberger, who was Miss Laura Boyd, of Savannah.

"BEST SHOW IN TOWN" AT BONITA THEATER

"The best show in Atlanta" is the verdict of the patrons of the Bonita Theater. The fact is, the Bonita will have none but the best, and when a company does not come up to the standard, the engagement is cut short and the wires are put to work. There is a difference in the class of shows produced at the Bonita and other houses using the same kind of attractions. The music is good, the girls are pretty, and the dancing will make you pat your foot and sway your body with the graceful movements of the show girls. The Bonita has the best.

PUBLIC TO PAY IF TRAINMEN WIN WAGE FIGHT

"Are You, Not Railorads, Willing to Grant Increase?" Is Question, Forbes Declares.

By B. C. FORBES.

Another section of railroad workers have voted to strike, demoralizing traffic over the eastern half of the country, unless demands for wage increases are granted. First the engineers, then the firemen, and now the trainmen have taken this course of action.

* * *

Where are strike threats to end? Arbitrators found the engineers and the firemen entitled to better pay. The railroads were willing to grant concessions in these cases, but they declare the trainmen have no grounds for insisting upon another advance, seeing that their wages were raised in 1910. Yet, there is a feeling in railroad circles that arbitrators will seek the usual line of least resistance and effect a compromise.

* * *

Railroad managers are asking: "If employees know that every time they threaten to starve the people they will be granted higher wages, why should they not go on making fresh demands? They can not lose anything by repeating the performance of putting a pistol to the heads of the railroads and the public—and they have learned by experience that they are tolerably certain to gain something when arbitration is agreed upon."

* * *

That arbitration will be adopted this time is a foregone conclusion. The customary result will likely follow—substantial concessions, entailing heavier burdens upon the public.

* * *

Now, the point raised by the railroads IS important. Where are the demands of railroad employees to end? WHY should they end? Human nature is human nature, and if the men know that by asking a lot they can depend upon receiving something, well, the temptation to ask is apt to prove irresistible. It is easier to preach than to practice self-denial. Are we not all striving to obtain the most we can for our labors? The railroads are at this moment trying to secure better rates for carry freight, are they not?

* * *

Experience may have justified the pessimistic attitude the railroads are taking toward arbitration. But will arbitrators ALWAYS grant concessions regardless of circumstances, regardless of the merits or demerits of the men's demands?

* * *

I do not pretend to have a labyrinth of pigeon-holes, each containing a ready-made solution for some complicated problem. Some writers can solve every difficulty in less than a column. They know just what should be done under every circumstance. I don't. And this problem of adjusting demands of highly-organized workers, especially railroad workers, is one of baffling, unusual difficulty.

* * *

Federal and State Arbitration Boards, as recommended by the commission that arbitrated the railway engineers' dispute, have much to commend them in the case of public and quasi-public service workers upon the uninterrupted continuance of whose labors the people at large are dependent for the necessities of life.

* * *

But it seems to me that the greatest need of all is that the public—you, your next-door neighbor, and all the rest of us—should become thoroughly acquainted with what higher and still higher wages mean TO US. The railroads will not say whatever 'increase in wages the trainmen may be granted. YOU and I will pay. The railroads have not one dollar that you and I did not contribute. They have only one source of revenue—the public.

* * *

Therefore, the question to ask is not, "Should the railroads raise wages?" but "Should WE pay railway workers higher wages?" For WE foot the bill.

* * *

If we conclude, after learning all about the rates of pay these men receive, that they are getting less than we earn ourselves, that we ought to contribute more to their weekly envelopes, that they cannot live as comfortably as the average workers of similar skill, then let us make our decision known. Once it is clearly realized that the public, not soulless corporations, must meet the bill, must give up out of their pockets every additional dollar paid over to these workers, then public sentiment will govern rates of wages and govern them equitably.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

by JAMES B. NEVIN

Representative Clements, of Irwin County, owns the identical spot of ground upon which President Jefferson Davis was captured, after the surrender of General Lee and the flight of the Confederate administration from Richmond.

The arrest of Davis was effected in a little clump of woods, about two acres in extent, near the Clements homestead, and it has been preserved, just as it was then, ever since the war. In the family of Mr. Clements it has always been considered a sacred place.

When Mr. Clements' father died he left a request that this spot of ground be "kept in the hands of Southern people." He was a lieutenant in the Confederate army, and idolized Jefferson Davis. He aided in the fallen chieftain's escape, and only consented to his surrender when it became plain that further resistance was worse than useless.

Mr. Clements is contemplating, in order that his father's last wishes may be complied with, asking the State of Georgia to accept title to this spot where Davis was arrested, and to appoint some kind of commission or committee to take it in charge.

He has worked out no definite plan—he merely wishes to give the property to the State, with the understanding that the State will protect it, preserve it and keep it, as his father wished, in the hands of "Southern people."

Not a stick of timber has been cut from the land since the day Jefferson Davis was arrested thereon, and many trees that were mere saplings then now are great oaks and pines.

He heads the big Committee on Constitutional Amendments, and that committee likely will be worked overtime this session.

Myrick is one of the very best lawyers in the House, and is a gentleman of extreme affability and effectiveness. In other words, he is both able and affable.

Mr. Myrick's committee already has returned one county to the House with a favorable report, and the chances seem bright for the creation of the same by the Legislature. The proposition—Barrow County—has been thoroughly thrashed out in the committee, and the House is apt to take the committee's findings as righteous and just.

Speaker Burwell picked for the constitutional amendment committee from among the best legal talent he could locate in the House, and when he made Mr. Myrick the chairman of that committee he paid him a high but deserved compliment.

A meeting of the legislative committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon League was held at Wesley Memorial Church in Atlanta Tuesday night, several members of the House and Senate being present.

It was decided not to introduce the Tippins bill or any substitute for it at this session of the Legislature, but temperance legislation instead will take the shape of a bill intended to gather the fruits of the Webb-Kenyon bill against interstate shipments of liquor recently passed by Congress.

Whether the Legislature will enact any liquor legislation whatever this session is problematical, as there has been so far no particular agitation of the matter.

Representative George F. Paulk, of Berrien, will introduce in the House soon a bill to establish a branch school for the deaf in South Georgia.

The bill will ask for a branch school convenient to the 150 deaf children in South Georgia who are unable to avail themselves of the education offered by the Cave Spring School, on account of its inaccessibility.

The bill will not specify any particular location, but will leave that to be settled by a committee appointed by the Legislature or Governor. No large appropriation for buildings will be asked, but the town where the school will be located will be expected to provide temporary buildings, at least.

Representative Crawford Wheatley's dinner to the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday evening at the Capital City Club had much more behind it than the mere matter of a compliment to his committee, although, of course, it was a most delightful and engaging compliment.

Its direct purpose was to bring as intimately together as possible the committee and Governor Slaton.

Mr. Wheatley, who is the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, believes that Governor Slaton is exactly right in his ideas with respect to the State's income and outgo. The Governor is known to have determined that the present Legislature shall keep the lid on appropriations, and not exceed the revenue anticipated under the present system of taxation. He has made it very plain that he will exhaust the executive resources, if necessary, in undertaking to do that.

Mr. Wheatley is determined to uphold the Governor at every turn, if it be within his power, and to that end already has had numerous conferences with his excellency.

In order to facilitate the work and to make all features of it as pleasant and as cordial as possible, Mr. Wheatley arranged his dinner last night—and it may be said that it was, in every sense of the crowds, a complete success.

It is safe to say that the Governor will find the House Committee on Appropriations standing right behind him in his work of reforming the State's finances, and if the committee takes that stand, it may be accepted as a further fact that the entire House will fall in line promptly and willingly.

General Agricultural Committee No. 2 of the House has a large grouch toward General Agricultural No. 1.

General Agricultural No. 1 had a hog cholera bill before it Wednesday, and was so impressed with the importance of the thing that it invited General Agricultural No. 2 to sit with it in joint session and hear the arguments. G. A. No. 2 readily consented to this and sat through two mortal hours of talk about hogs and things.

When the time came to vote on the bill, however, G. A. No. 1 moved to put G. A. No. 2 out of the room, leaving the voting entirely to G. A. No. 1. To this G. A. No. 2 objected vehemently.

Rather than get out, G. A. No. 2 moved to adjourn—and the motion carried!

The hog cholera bill, therefore, still is up in the air, and G. A. No. 2 has a big grouch toward G. A. No. 1.

ECZEMA LOOKED AWFUL ON FACE

Started with Watery Pimples. Itched and Burned Badly. Awful Sore. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Boy Now Well.

R. F. D. No. 2, Fredericks Hall, Va.—"My little son was very bad off with the eczema on his face. It started with watery pimples and it itched and burned so badly that he wanted to scratch it all the time and he made an awful sore on his face. I would sit and hold his hands a lot of the time to keep him from scratching it. He didn't sleep any scarcely. The eczema looked awful while on his face. I was afraid it would last for life. He was real cross and fretful.

"I had him treated and he grew worse daily. As soon as I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I sent and got a twenty-five cent cake of Cuticura Soap and a fifty cent box of Cuticura Ointment and began using them. I saw a difference in a short time. I only used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment a few weeks before he was a well boy." (Signed) Mrs. Kate B. Pleasants, Dec. 12, 1912.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery, because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Tifton Slaying Case Now Rests With Jury

TIFTON, July 10.—The trial of I. B. Hall, who shot and killed Dennis W. Hall on May 10, which began with the opening of Tift Superior Court Wednesday, went to the jury this morning.

Four complete panels were exhausted and the fifth venireman of the fifth panel was called before a jury was secured.

Six witnesses were examined for the State, but the defendant relied upon his own statement, in which he told of his quarrel with the slain man, claiming that he acted in self-defense.

Mail Clerk on Trial; Suspected for Year

J. R. Jackson, former railway mail clerk, accused of theft of mails on a Georgia Railway train the night of March 27, 1912, was tried Thursday before Judge Newman in the United States District Court.

The letter alleged to have been taken by Jackson contained a five-dollar bill and three $1 silver certificates.

Government officials state Jackson was suspected of the theft for more than a year before being accused.

New Haven Road Is Blamed for 6 Deaths

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The New Haven Railroad wreck June 12 at Stamford, Conn., when six passengers were killed and 22 injured, was due to the negligence of the railroad in putting in charge of the train an engineman inexperienced and uninstructed in this class of work, according to the report of Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord to-day.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value, and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

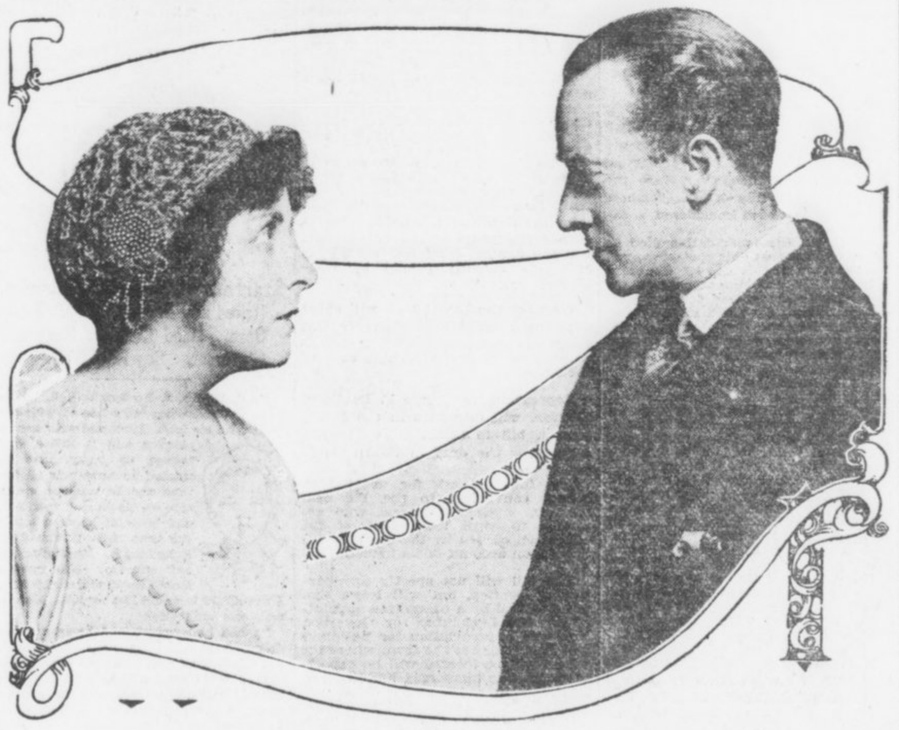
Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

THE PRINCESS SHOWS JARVIS THE SECRET LOCKET



"Here," said the girl, "This is what brought me to America, Like ther antinques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

"Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

* * *

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse. I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bull-hound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Manicure Lady.

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal,
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

"Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—
Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

.:. .:. Her Punishment .:. .:.

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. I vas at der goncert in Berlin, and I hear der great Engleesh soprano sing dot der vas no blace like Ohm, and all der Engleesh beoples in der goncert gry like der leetle babies. Dot must be der vonderful place, Ohm, to make der Engleesh beoples gry, and I dell meinself dot I will go und see dis Ohm vot der vos no blace like. Now, sir, vich is der vay to Ohm?"

Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

T. Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

Making It Worse.

Painter: "How do you like the picture?"

Critic (sardonically): "H'm; it might be worse."

Painter (offended): "Sir, I hope you will withdraw that statement."

Superfluous Hair Truths

De Miracle
The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. Remember, the injury caused by the use of doubtful hair removers will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars because it will take months or possibly years to gain control of hair growths that have been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

Only Guaranteed Hair Remover

Others advertise "Guaranteed," but give no guarantee. De Miracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package. Avoid permanent disfigurement by refusing substitutes offered by dishonest dealers merely for a few cents more profit. If your dealer will not supply you, send $1.00 direct. Free information how to determine which depilatories are harmful and worthless sent in plain, sealed envelope.

NO CHANCE FOR FRANK AS 1914 TURTLE BOSS

By Jo Williams.

MEMPHIS, July 10.—Stick a pin here. Charley Frank will not manage the 1914 Memphis club. Whether Bill Bernhard will be returned or not is a matter yet to be determined. The moral cinch is, however, that if a change is made it will in no way concern the present president-manager of the New Orleans Pelicans. It is quite probable that Frank will not be back at New Orleans next season, but as to his assuming charge of the Turtles there is about as much truth in the report as there are red corpuscles in a Bermuda onion.

Perhaps the foregoing needs explanation. When the Pelicans hit the larded lane some five weeks ago, that ubiquitous person, "One in the know," hustled through with the information that Frank, tiring of his New Orleans investment, had made arrangements with the Memphis club president whereby he was to succeed Bernhard at the close of the current campaign.

The yarn originated in Birmingham. Immediately and without undue hesitation it was given the well-known and emphatic pooh-pooh, locally. Yet it refused to wither and fade away, as is the tragic wont of the average canard. Mique Finn strengthened it by offering to wager a Stetson that the rumored change would come to pass. Mique refused to state where he got his tip. "Just linger around and ye shall receive the ocular proof," was the Celt's evasive retort.

* * *

WHEREUPON, Mr. Coleman, who is connected with the local club in the vague capacity of majority stockholder, president, traveling secretary and general overseer of players and premises, clutched the occasion to unburden himself of large quantities of free and forensic speech, a peculiarity not uncommon with ball magnates. Among other things, Mr. Coleman delivered: "So far I have not given the advisability of changing managers a thought. I can not say just now whether or not Bernhard will be with us again next season. He may and he may not. But one thing is certain. Charley Frank will not be Bill's successor if one is named. There is absolutely no chance, and those interested in the matter may rest assured that my word is final. Where and from whom the ridiculous yarn originated is a mystery to me. The report that I have been negotiating with Frank for weeks in regard to a change is a fabrication of the veriest sort. Neither Frank nor myself has ever discussed the matter. Indeed, I doubt if Frank himself ever dreamed of returning here. The Dutchman will never manage a Memphis ball club as long as I am in charge."

So much for the "well-founded report."

$4,000 Offered by Sutton for E. Brown

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 10.—Larry Sutton, scout for the Brooklyn National League club, who has been in Nashville for the past ten days looking over Southern League players, announced last night that he had made an offer of $4,000 to the Montgomery club for Pitcher Elmer Brown for delivery at the end of this season.

Sutton was so impressed with the masterly game pitched by E. Brown against the Vols last week that he immediately opened negotiations for the brilliant Billiken slabman. His first offer was $3,500, but he willingly met the above price of $4,000, which was set by Manager Dobbs.

"Elmer Brown is not only by long odds the best pitcher I have seen in the Southern League this year," said the Brooklyn scout, "but he is one of the most promising boys I have seen in many seasons."

Up to the time of Sutton's departure for Cincinnati the deal for Brown had not been closed, but it was stated by Sutton that he had urged President Ebbets, of the Dodgers, to lose no time in landing the mainstay of the Montgomery pitching staff.

Lupus Worst Form of Skin Diseases

Here is a Home Treatment that Overcomes even Worst Cases.

Lupus or Any Other Skin Disease Will Go Skulking Away If You Use S. S. S.

A tiny pimple spreads to the side of the face and often covers the cheeks and bridge of the nose. It is very destructive to the tissues of the skin. No external treatments will overcome it, as the cause of lupus is from impurities in the blood supply. The only known method of cure is to get the blood supply under the control of S. S. S., the famous blood specific. Its action is quite remarkable and has direct influence on the network of small blood vessels and glands in the skin.

Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. For illustrated book on skin diseases write The Swift Specific Co., 183 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all substitutes.

HUGGINS BEST OF PLAYERS IN TENN. TOURNEY

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 10.—The finals in the Tennessee State championship tennis tournament now in progress in this city are expected to be reached Friday afternoon. In that case the championship match between the winners of the tourney and Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present State champion, will be fought out Saturday. Local sharks predict that the match will narrow down to either Huggins or Smith of Nashville as the winner of the present tourney.

Charles Rodgers of Knoxville former champion, was eliminated Wednesday afternoon by Huggins in two straight sets, 7-5, 6-1. Rodgers had previously defeated Cleage of Knoxville, and Foster, also of this city.

Some excellent matches have been pulled off thus far during the tourney, Smith of Nashville defeated Wester of Kansas City in a beautiful match, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

By defeating Rodgers and Lowry of this city, both crack players, Huggins is favorite as the winner. Much interest has been manifested in the tourney and large crowds have been in attendance each day.

RIVERS HITS MILKMAN; NOW HE'S IN TROUBLE

VENTURA, CAL., July 10.—Joe Rivers, lightweight pugilist, must appear in court here July 16 to answer a charge of having broken the jaw of a milkman who recently disputed Rivers' right to the road while the pugilist was driving his motor car. Rivers' bond was fixed at $500.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

PASTIMING.

When you pay your money to see a stunt athletic,
And you sit upon a sunny bleacher seat,
And you see a stunt that's awfully pathetic,
It is time for you to raise your voice and bleat.

When the players spend the afternoon in stalling,
And in wishing that the game had not begun,
And the manager persists in vainly hauling,

We note by the papers that several hundred persons clamored outside the Cracker club's office to get their money back on Fourth of July. This shows that the birth rate has increased to 120 per hour.

If the Atlanta management is endeavoring to make itself unpopular there is evidence that said management is headed in that direction at the rate of approximately 8,000 miles per hour.

In an indirect way we note that Tom O'Rourke has been affected by the recent heat. Tom has agreed to become manager of Carl Morris.

When one reads the report that one wrestler choked another half to death, one deplores the fact that he stopped so soon.

If those surgeons who cut out Marty O'Toole's appendix will only cut out his wildness, one Fred Clarke will be much obliged.

If the Athletics could only play the Yanks all season their average would be .996¾, or thereabouts.

Joe Jackson still leads the American League in batting. This is due to the fact that he never has ruined his eyesight reading literature.

FODDER FOR FANS

Rube Marquard, of the Giants, is pitching in his old-time form again. He twirled the Giants to their fourteenth consecutive victory, allowing but four hits. The best any of the Cubs got off him was a two-bagger.

* * *

"Babe" Adams, of the Pirates' pitching staff, allowed the Phillies but one clean hit, while the Quakers used up four pitchers trying to beat Pittsburg. Their efforts were useless, for the Phillies were shut out.

* * *

By being beaten by the Reds the Brooklyn Dodgers reduced the gap separating them from the second division in the National League. But 14 points now separate the Dodgers from the Pirates, the latter being leaders of the second division.

* * *

The New York Yankees were the only Eastern team which did not win in the West yesterday.

* * *

Pitcher Frank Harrington, of the Lynn club, of the New England League, has been sold to the Cincinnati Reds for $4,000.

* * *

Dauss, of the Detroit Tigers, beats the Washington Senators as often as he goes against them. He has met the Senators three times and has beaten them three times.

* * *

* * *

* * *

Honus Wagner, the hard hitting shortstop of the Pirates, nearly cracked a rib laughing when he heard the report that he is all in as a regular. Honus says he will be back in his old form when his injured knee mends.

CRACKER STAKE WILL BE RUN FRIDAY NIGHT

IN the belief that "Tex" Richards will be no match for the other Motordrome stars in a long race, Manager Noon Hudson has scheduled a big 7-mile feature for Friday night. It will be the final heat of the Cracker Sweepstakes. Manager Bill Smith, of the Atlanta club, will start the race and it will go seven miles, which is further than any race has gone in Atlanta this year.

A 5-mile race about marks the limit of a motorcycle sprinter's distance. He can stand up for five miles pretty well. After that time there is no chance. Machines and bodies give down under the strain.

In races over five miles it takes a different sort of rider. And in this long-distance stuff Shields and Lockner ought to star. They are two of the greatest endurance stars in the world. They proved it when they won the famous 24-hour race, the most grueling contest ever staged at a motordrome. Of course, it was a team event and the men were on and off the track at all times, but it was the most awful test of endurance to which a motor rider was ever put. This 7-mile stuff ought to suit Lockner and Shields to perfection.

Of course, Richards does not necessarily have it all his own way, even in the shorter races. McNeil's J. A. P. went out again Tuesday night, this time with a couple of bolts missing from his magneto. And Graves' new Excelsior did not prove to be running right.

McNeil swears that never before did he have such luck as this season. He claims all 1913 honors as the Jinx Kid; but he alleges that he has never before been the victim of so many mischances. He believes he has changed his luck at last, and at any rate he has taken every possible precaution against accidents.

RINGSIDE NOTES

It looks very much as if Los Angeles fans are to see a heavyweight bout some time next month. Tom McCarey, coast promoter, is trying to stage a Gunboat Smith-Arthur Pelky match, and has already secured Smith's consent for such a fight. McCarey is now dickering with Tommy Burns, manager for Pelky.

* * *

Jeff O'Connell, the veteran featherweight, who recently was defeated by Matty McCue, will meet Freddie Enock in a six-round battle at Aurora, Ill., on July 17.

* * *

Kid Pusky, local featherweight, is after a match with any 122-pounder in Atlanta. Pusky is particularly anxious to get on with Kid Young or Charlie Lee. J. P. Ellis, manager of Pusky, says he will give either boy a $100 side bet. Ellis can be reached at 30 Clifton Street, Kirkwood, Ga., phone Decatur 226.

* * *

Reports from New Orleans state that Frankie Russell and Johnny Lore are in great shape for their twenty-round tussle in the Pelican City Sunday afternoon. Russell and Lore recently met in a ten-round battle, with the latter having a slight shade.

* * *

Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion of the world, says he will be ready to defend his title on Labor Day. His stomach, which has been bothering him for several weeks, is again in shape. His opponent will probably be Kid Williams, and the pair will most likely don the gloves in Tom McCarey's arena at Vernon, Cal.

* * *

A return bout, this time of ten rounds, between "Muggsy" McGraw and Addie Brennan would draw a capacity house. McGraw is now taking boxing lessons from Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion.

* * *

The National Sporting Club of London, where Bombardier Wells is a big favorite, hunted the British Isle for an easy opponent for the Englishman and found him in the person of Patsy Mahoney. Of course, Wells won.

Wonder what Billy Nolan, the bounced manager of Willie Ritchie, thinks of the lightweight's easy victory over Joe Rivers. It sure was a glorious Fourth for Willie.

* * *

Leach Cross is still on the coast, undecided whether to remain there in hopes of getting on with Willie Ritchie or to jump over to New York for some easy ten-round money. McCarey is trying to get the champion for a Labor Day date with the Easterner. Should Ritchie refuse, Joe Rivers may get the match.

* * *

* * *

Eddie Campi has asked McCarey to match him with the winner of the Williams-Ledoux bout on July 15. Campi has already defeated Ledoux.

* * *

Tom Tortorich is still after Willie Ritchie's signature to a set of articles to meet Jack Britton. He has offered $20,000 for the title go.

LEFTY SCHWENK PITCHES 36 INNINGS IN 4 DAYS

SAGINAW, MICH., July 10.—Pitcher "Lefty" Schwenk, of the local South Michigan League team, has just hung up a record which is believed to be unequaled in recent years of organized baseball. In four days he pitched four complete games and finished another—36 innings—in which he struck out 33 men in the 36 innings and allowed 21 hits, which netted his opponents seven runs.

WHITE SOX BUY TOM DALY.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The White Sox have purchased Catcher Tom Daly from the Lowell club of the New England League. The price is said to be $3,500 in cash. The recruit is touted as one of the best minor league catchers seen in many days.

PONCE DE LEON PARK, July 10.—Costly errors cost the Crackers the opening game of the series with the Gulls here this afternoon, Mickey Finn's team carrying off the honors by a 6 to 2 score. Price pitched a fair game and would have probably gotten away with a victory had not his team-mates been very much butter-fingered.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Stock was thrown out by Smith. McGill was safe at the opening peg when Agler played ping-pong with the grasser. D. Robertson died on an easy roller to Agler, McGill moving up to the midway. Price's hand was all butter for O'Dell's grounder and on the error the former Cracker landed safely at the opening cushion, while McGill trotted over to third. O'Dell pilfered bag No. 2, and when Chapman made a horrid heave McGill cashed and O'Dell hustled to the difficult cushion. Schmidt grounded to Alperman who booted the pill and O'Dell dented the dish with a tally. Paulet kindly fouled to Chapman. NO HITS, TWO RUNS.

Long ballooned to O'Dell. Welchonce leaned against the pill for a double to right. Alperman peppered a one-timer to right and Welchonce pulled up at third. Bailey lifted to Clark and on the sacrifice Welchonce scored. Clark made a wild chuck home to head off Welchonce and Alperman ambled all the way to third. Smith did the Casey in the pinch. TWO HITS, ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING.

Clark jammed a single over Smith's head. Campbell's best was a hoist that Bisland was under. Cavet sent a roller to Price, who relayed to Bisland, forcing Clark at second. Stock raised a dinky pop to Smith. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Bisland died on a grounder over the O'Dell-Robertson route. Agler gladdened the hearts with a single to right. Cavet and Robertson did all that was necessary with Chapman's puny roll, but Agler hustled to second on the out. Price dropped a pretty bunt down the third base line and beat it out for a hit, Agler going to third. Long drew transportation, and the cushions were intoxicated. Welchonce grounded to Cavet and Long was forced at the midway, Stock getting the putout. TWO HITS, NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

McGill had a good eye and waited out four bad ones. Long pulled down Robertson's good-looking welt. O'Dell took the easy road to first on four bum chucks and McGill moved up one notch. Schmidt sent a sky-scraper into Bailey's waiting digets. Paulet forced O'Dell at second, Bisland to Alperman. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Alperman was the candy kiddo with a screaming three-cushion soak to far away centerfield. Bailey did the usual; sent up a dinky pop that McGill smothered. Smith was on the job with a one-timer to right that brought Alperman home with the tying count. Campbell made easy work of Bisland's soarer. On a pessed ball Smith went to third. Agler flied to Campbell. TWO HITS, ONE RUN.

FOURTH INNING.

Chapman died an easy death, Stock to Robertson. Price fouled to Schmidt. Long was an easy out for O'Dell and Robertson. Atlanta was retired on four pitched balls. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING

Stock out, Bisland to Agler. McGill died over the same route. Robertson was sent back to the bench on a grasser that Price handled to Agler. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Welchonce hit to O'Dell and was safe when Robertson let the pill get away from him. Alperman grounded to Paulet who tossed to Stock, forcing Welchonce. Bailey lined to Stock and Alperman was doubled off first, Robertson getting the second put out. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

O'Dell lifted to Chapman in front of the pan. Bisland scooped up Schmidt's offering and Agler finished the job. Paulet hoisted to Welchonce. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Smith died on a lightening fast play, Stock to Robertson. Bisland fouled to Schmidt. Agler peppered a one-timer to left. Agler wasn't fast enough to beat Schmidt's peg to Stock on a well-planned pilfer trip. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

Clark slammed a single to left. Campbell dropped a beauty sacrifice in front of the plate and died, Chapman to Agler. Time was called here on account of rain, but after a five-minute wait the battle proceeded. Cavet singled to felt and Clark tallied. Bailey let the ball get through him and Cavet, too, scored. Stock beat out a puzzling grounder to Smith for a hit. On a wild pitch Stock took second. McGill kindly popped to Alperman. Robertson lined to Agler. TWO HITS, TWO RUNS.

Chapman drove a liner to McGill. Price whiffed. Long singled past Paulet. Welchonce smashed a single to center and Long went to third. On an attempt to double steal Long was killed off at the plate, Schmidt to Stock to Schmidt. The entire Atlanta team kicked over the decision. TWO HITS, NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

O'Dell doubled down the third base line. Schmidt bunted one down the third base line and when Wally Smith threw the ball over Agler's head O'Dell dented the dish and Schmidt went all the way to second. Paulet sacrificed, Price to Agler. Clark grounded to Smith and was out to Agler. Campbell popped to Bisland. TWO HITS, ONE RUN.

Alperman filed to Campbell. Bailey was easy money for Stock and Robertson. Smith popped to Stock. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING.

Cavet drove a liner to the score board for three sacks. Stock raised to Long, who held Cavet at third. McGill singled to center and Cavet scored. Robertson grounded to Agler and McGill was forced at second to Bisland. Agler played a lone hand with O'Dell's daisy cutter. TWO HITS, ONE RUN.

Bisland out, Cavet to Robertson. Agler fanned. Chapman flied to Clark. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Bryan's Commoner Is Made Monthly Paper

LINCOLN, NEB., July 10.—Secretary of State Bryan has announced that with the current issue the Commoner, which he established in 1901, will cease publication as a weekly, and will be issued monthly. The resignation of Richard L. Metcalfe, appointed Governor of Panama, has left the Commoner without an editor.

Under the new arrangement Mr. Bryan says he will be able to give attention to more editorial writing. The Commoner's size will be doubled. C. W. Bryan will continue in direct control.

Old Suitor Tears Up License at Wedding

WEBSTER, MASS., July 10.—As the bride and bridegroom, Michael Narel and Julia Marcik, were proceeding down the aisle of the altar in St. Joseph's Church here, William Dorobis, of Chicago, drew forth a marriage license, which he had procured six weeks ago to wed Miss Marcik.

He tore it to shreds and scattered it on the floor in front of the couple.

MAJORS BID FOR PLAYER; $15,000 FOR CHAPPELLE

MILWAUKEE, July 10.—Outfielder Larry Chappelle, of the Milwaukee club, will be sold at auction here July 15. Only a few of the big league clubs have already bid for the youngster. Both Chicago clubs, Detroit, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Cleveland are in the market. It is said that $15,000 has been offered for the youngster.

RAIN STOPS MOTORCYCLE RACE; BIG EVENT THURSDAY

NEW YORK, July 10.—Rain stepped in and halted the twenty-mile championship motorcycle race at the Brighton Beach Motordrome here last night before the riders had covered two miles. Ray Veditz was leading when the race was declared off.

EARL MACK ACCEPTS 31 CHANCES IN SINGLE GAME

RALEIGH, N. C., July 10.—Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is believed to have made a new world's record for chances accepted in a ball game here yesterday between the Raleigh and Durham clubs of the Carolina League. Mack accepted 31 chances, 29 put-outs and two assists, without the least sign of an error. The game went for 18 innings and was won by Raleigh, 4 to 3. Young Mack is manager and first baseman of the Raleigh club.

Bisland Horns Into Hero Class

His Hit Wins Game for Crackers

By Fuzzy Woodruff.

IN these piping days when pennant aspirations are beating strongly in human and other breasts, a hero is born each day. To-day the laurel, the bay, the Richard K. Fox belt, or whatever insignia is proper for a Casablanca of the ball lot goes to Mr. Bisland, shortstopper of considerable renown. If the winning streak of the Crackers continues much longer, Bill Smith will have to search around for new hero material or crown the bat boy. For within the past two weeks there is hardly a Cracker who has not felt the touch of the accolade.

Mr. Bisland horned into the Leonidas class in the most approved and dramatic fashion. He was placed there by the generous and gentle Rube Kissinger, who figured that Wally Smith had been acclaimed enough and it was time to let another's heart warm to the shouts of an admiring populace.

* * *

THE hero stuff was pulled in the fourth inning of yesterday's pastiming, which was about as good a spot as any. The battle with the Memphii had rocked along for three sessions without any tangible results. Kissinger was working his usual cool, heady game, and the Crackers did not look particularly formidable against his hurling.

In the fourth, though, things happened. Tommy Long opened with a measly pop back of first base, which Bill Abstein couldn't grab, and when the ball carromed with reverse English the right fielder scampered on for a two-base hit. Welchonce, to display his batting versatility, eased a bunt down the third base line and beat it out.

Alperman then cracked sharply to third. Ward messed the ball, but, to the surprise of the stands, Welchonce remained true and faithful to the first cushion and wouldn't budge, evidently thinking the ball had been caught on a line. How he thought so is the eighth wonder, but let it go at that. Alperman reached first, but as Welchonce was also there one of them had to move back to the bench.

Rudderham eeny-meeny-miny-moed and picked Welchonce for this duty. Bailey followed by striking out, but Alperman had swiped second during the whiffing.

As the formidable Smith approached the pan, Kissinger and Seabough held pow-wow and passed the third sacker.

* * *

BISLAND strode haughtily, but not too confidently, to the plate. Inasmuch as he hadn't registered in the hit column since the morning game of July 4, the fans were not altogether cheerful.

On the first one over, though, he hit high and far into right field, and Baerwald, who had been playing close to center, couldn't reach the pill. All those ahead of Bisland scampered in, and so did he when the peg to get him at third went to the grandstand. The laurel was immediately brought on.

With the single exception of Mr. Bisland's being present with the punch at the proper moment, the game was featureless, though Dent hurled in improved form. The score was 5 to 2.

U. S. TEAM MEETS GERMANS IN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND, July 10.—The American and German tennis representatives clash to-day in the second round of the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis cup matches. Although the weather has not been at all favorable for tennis, Harold H. Hackett, captain of the United States teams, says the American players are in good form. The Germans are complaining of the climate. Yesterday's draw is looked upon as being favorable to the American players.

Froitzheim is Germany's strongest singles player, so it is considered just as well for the American team that he should meet Maurice E. McLaughlin, America's champion, in the first day's play. The showing made by Kreutzer, of Germany, in the all English championship, hardly justifies the belief that he can beat R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia.

Although the Americans are the favorites for the doubles match, they must be in the best form to beat Germany's doubles representatives, Rahe and Kleinscroth.

BUD ANDERSON WON'T BE ABLE TO BOX FOR MONTHS

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—With Bud Anderson in the hospital and not likely to be in a condition to go into the ring for several months, the prospects for a local lightweight match simmers down to a Cross-Rivers battle apparently. Of course, the Harry Trendall match with Cross appears all but closed, and it will be a good one but for a date a little later in the season. Rivers and Cross would be the biggest drawing card possible.

FRANK GOALBY SOLD TO ROANOKE UNDER OPTION

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 10.—Frank Goaldby, former second baseman of the Vols, has been sold to the Roanoke club under an optional agreement. He may be recalled at any time his services are needed. Goalby, in a recent series in Mobile, was badly spiked in the hand by Dave Robertson, and will not leave to join the Roanoke club until the wound heals. His fielding while with Nashville was brilliant, but his batting was very weak.

Georgian Wants--Use For Results

FARMERS WIN BY CO-OPERATION IN EUROPE

Mutual Producing and Distributing Societies Get Credit for Vast Increase in Crops.

By JOHN CUNNINGHAM.
Ohio State Senator, Member of American Agricultural Commission, and Secretary of the Production Group.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, July 10.—Thus far we have passed 60 days studying the various principles underlying the success of European agriculture. By dividing into sections and groups we have covered every phase of agriculture and studied the best methods pursued in every country in Europe.

Without question, co-operative credit and co-operative producing and distributing societies have accomplished a great deal for European farmers during the last 25 years. The reaching of scientific agriculture colleges in short course schools and on farms during the growing season has had much to do with the vast increase in crop production. Encouragement by the various Governments has been another important factor.

Interest in Every Country.

In every country visited a strong realization of the importance of agriculture is manifested. While methods differ in various countries the same underlying principles are found everywhere.

Highly important principles are the conservation and utilization of every natural resource, the scientific application of manures and chemical fertilizers and the great systems of co-operative credits, which in reality make all the other principles operative.

I have visited Italy, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France. In each of these countries we found some special lines of work more advanced than in the other countries. But when we group these special lines and attempt to apply them to our own country we find one thing lacking in America, namely co-operative organizations.

The intensive methods of farming employed in Italy are applicable to many sections of country. The Goverment policy of helping farmers to own their own homes is bringing many Italians back from America.

Swiss Farmers in Union.

In Switzerland more than one-third of all farmers belong to co-operative organizations that are banded into a central organization entitled the Swiss Farmers' Union, which can control the Government policy. Through these organizations the farmers sell all their products and buy all their necessities.

Co-operative credit and distribution societies have played an important part in the rapid development of Germany's agriculture during the past 40 years. Germany produces more than twice as much to the acre as the United States does and from land that has been farmed for centuries. It is now up to us to double our production.

Denmark has made a world-wide reputation through her co-operative exporting societies by guaranteeing every egg and every pound of butter and bacon. Each egg is stamped with the date when laid and the producer's number is recorded in the National Federation's register. Any complaint may be traced directly back to the real producer. Here again farmers have the controlling voice in Government and Denmark is prospering immensely.

Holland's Cheese Fame.

Holland, as a dairy country, has attained fame for her fine cheeses. Her Government exacts a high standard of excellency by rigid enforcement of the pure food laws.

In France the work of the Ministry of Agriculture through co-operative credit and production societies is rapidly coming to the front. When the final report of this commission is made the French methods of co-operative credit will receive deserved consideration.

In America we need long-time credit, conservation of the soils, fertility and improved methods of distribution.

WILSON CURRENCY BILL IS ATTACKED

Measure Gives Politicians Control Over $10,000,000,000 Banking Power, Says Financier.

DULUTH, MINN., July 10.—George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago, the second largest bank of the nation, to-day assailed as revolutionary the Wilson administration currency bill in a speech before the Minnesota Bankers' Association.

"We are confronted with a plan," he asserted, "which proposes to compel the banks to turn over to a political committee virtual control of about $10,000,000,000 of banking power, the result of 50 years' conscientious labor on the part of officers of 7,500 National banks in the United States."

His chief objection was based upon what he termed the political control over such great banking power. He saw demoralizing influences in the proposed plan of decentralization of money and credits. While he believed in Federal supervision, he said it should be regulatory, not administrative.

"I claim," he concluded, "that the amount of bank notes issued should be determined by the requirements of business rather than by guess."

Acid in Oconee Kills 10,000 Pounds Fish

ATHENS, July 10.—Judge Brand has issued a temporary injunction restraining the Empire Chemical Company from pouring waste acid in a branch that empties into the Oconee River, a few miles below Athens. Ten thousand pounds of dead fish have been taken from the river. People living along the banks find the odors almost unbearable. State Game Warden Jesse Mercer has been summoned to investigate.

The temporary injunction will hold until June 26, when a hearing will be given the company.

Pocket Knife Used To Kill Constable

ANDERSON, IND., July 10.—William Brown, Jr., 27, of Ingalls, Ind., to-day confessed he killed Constable Albert Hawkins, of this city, who was found dead on the sidewalk in Ingalls last night with his throat slashed and his jaw crushed.

A charge of murder has been placed against young Brown. He claims he committed the deed in self-defense, using a pocketknife when Hawkins threatened him with arrest.

ATLANTANS SCORE TAX ON FUTURES

Chamber of Commerce Files Protest With U. S. Senators on Cotton Tariff Amendment.

A protest against the passage of the amendment to the tariff bill pending in the United States Senate has been made by the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The measure taxes cotton futures dealings.

The protest was made at a meeting of the Atlanta body Wednesday afternoon. Letters were sent to the two Georgia Senators and to Congressman William Schley Howard, urging them to oppose the "rider."

F. M. Inman was chairman of a special committee which handled the matter. He made the report recommending that the chamber go on record against the bill. Other members of the committee were T. A. Nicolson, J. S. Akers and E. S. Ehney.

Objection to the bill was based on the charge that it would eliminate the cotton exchange, would throw the farmers into the hands of the spinners, thus forcing the price of cotton down.

The members of the committee held that it would do away with the cotton merchant who deals directly with the farmer and country merchant, in that it would prevent him from using future contracts.

Products Exhibit Committee Named

Negotiations toward renting or buying a home for Atlanta-made goods reached the committee stage Wednesday when the Chamber of Commerce appointed Brooks Morgan, V. H. Kriegshaber, Bolling Jones and J. K. Orr to decide whether buying, leasing, or renting with the privilege of purchasing presented the best advantages.

The three propositions were embraced in offers considered Wednesday. It was intimated the committee favored leasing with the option of purchasing.

PITTSBURG, PA., July 10.—A well-equipped gambling den beneath the street the main entrance to which was a big city sewer was raided by the police late last night. Twenty-two men were captured as well as a large amount of money and gambling paraphernalia.

When the police swooped down on the players consternation reigned, but as there was only one manner of egress or exit, the entire crowd was captured.

REORGANIZATION IS ASSURED AT STATE FARM

Board to Ask Assembly for Funds to Retain $30,000 Federal Appropriation.

GRIFFIN, GA., July 10.—The board of directors of the State Experiment Station Wednesday voted to comply with the suggestions of National Inspector Allen and to petition the Assembly for an appropriation sufficient to carry on all physical work of the station. With this in view, a committee, consisting of J. J. Flint, J. D. Price, J. H. Mobley, J. W. McWhorter and R. J. H. DeLoach, was appointed.

Should the Legislature provide funds, the $30,000 Federal appropriation will be used exclusively in making scientific experiments from which increased knowledge may be gained by the farmers, as the national department specifies.

Director DeLoach also announced his intention of reorganizing the station for experimental farm work rather than for a model farm. A new feature will be a department of animal husbandry, of which Professor Perry VanEwing, recently connected with experimental farms in Ohio and Kansas, will be the head. The appointment was made Wednesday.

Dr. E. W. Allen, inspector of the National Agricultural Department, presented his plan of reorganization and the terms of the National Government in regard to the $30,000 appropriation.

Those present at the board meeting were J. D. Price, Chancellor D. C. Barrow, Judge J. J. Flint, J. W. McWhorter, J. H. Mobley, R. C. Neely, J. W. Andrews, F. R. Mann, M. G. Gamble, W. H. Henderson and Dr. E. W. Allen, of the National Department of Agriculture.

Alert Friends Turn 'Surprise' on Pair Wedded 'Secretly'

When Miss Myrtle McLean, of 250 Bass Street, and Gordon Hanson, of 168 Davis Street, stole away to the minister's Wednesday night they thought themselves the only persons in on the secret. Arrangements for their marriage in November had been made, but they decided to steal a march and surprise their friends.

Much to their surprise, however, a number of friends surprised them by appearing suddenly and offering congratulations. There was nothing to do but confess.

38 BABIES GIVEN FREE MILK EACH DAY

All Work in Campaign Is Done by Committee Members to Cut Expenses.

Thirty-eight babies, whose mothers are unable to purchase proper food for them, are being supplied daily with pure, fresh milk, bought from the fund raised by the Atlanta Mothers' Congress. Every day brings names of new babies who require assistance from the milk fund.

The campaign is being waged at a minimum expense, all the work being done by members of the committee. A committee of young girls has been of great aid.

A check for $25 was received Thursday morning from a prominent Atlanta woman, this being the second check for that amount contributed by a society leader.

Milk bottles, placed in the downtown stores, to receive contributions from the public, are each day adding a small sum to the fund, and individuals are mailing donations to Mrs. John Rowlett, chairman of the committee. Still, more money is needed.

"No one realizes the great field that is open in Atlanta for this work," declared Mrs. Rowlett at her home, 186 East Pine Street, Thursday. "There are hundreds of babies who do not get proper nourishment. So far but few contributions have come in. We need money if the work is to be continued."

Carnegie Library Adds 3 Assistants

Three new assistants to the Carnegie Library staff were appointed at a meeting Tuesday of the Board of Trustees. They were Misses Catherine Walker, Isabel Stevens and Emily Kemp.

The report of the Librarian showed that 24,629 volumes were taken out in June, and that 362 new members were added. More than 7,000 people used the reference and reading rooms. Fees turned over to the City Treasurer for books kept over time amounted to $155.75.

Miner's Neck Broken When Earth Caves In

CARTERSVILLE, July 10.—John Baker, a white miner, lost his life at the Cherokee Ochre Company's mines near this city when several tons of dirt caved in on him, breaking his neck. He died a few minutes after being rescued. He was 31 years old and unmarried. The funeral and interment will be held to-morrow at his old home near Stilesboro.

Practically all the women's clubs in Georgia have indorsed the bill.

ROBINSON'S BLACK BITTERS

One Thing We Do Not Claim For It

That it is a new discovery—it is not. There is nothing new about it except the wonderful new cures it is making daily. The medicine itself has been in use over a half century, and to introduce and keep before the public a family remedy for 50 years is no little task. The reason we have been able to do it is because the merit is there. It has only been accomplished by a strict adherence to the original formula, using only the very best roots, herbs, barks and gums that nature affords for the relief of the many distresses the human flesh is heir to.

To-day we find but few physicians who claim that minerals are just as good and efficient as are the roots, herbs, etc. You know that epsom salts will act, but the mere fact of acting does not mean cure, and is not what constitutes the remedial virtue of ROBINSON'S BLACK BITTERS; but it is the perfect combination of nature's remedies that enter its composition for the relief of Indigestion, Constipation, Intestinal and Gastric Disorders, Torpidity of the Liver, Colic, Cramp Colic, Pains in Back, Hips, Shoulders and Sides, Neuralgia, Ovarian Pains, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Rheumatism and all Nervous Complaints.

Now, we want to know every reader of this paper that is suffering with any of the above troubles. We guarantee to help you. Come to see us at Coursey & Munn's, where we are demonstrating this great tonic. If you live out of town, send us an order and we will return your money if you are not satisfied. $1.00 a bottle, $5.00 for 6 bottles. Coursey & Munn's, corner Broad and Marietta.

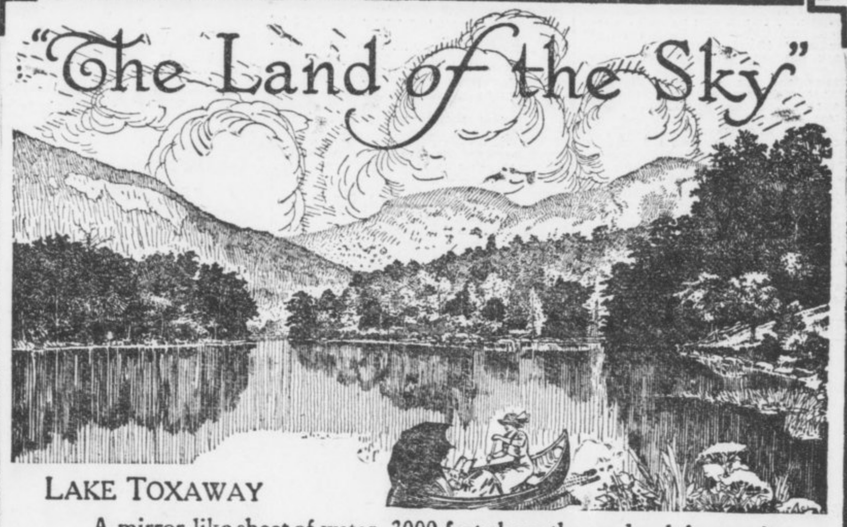
"The Land of the Sky"



LAKE TOXAWAY

A mirror-like sheet of water, 3000 feet above the sea-level, in a setting of gigantic mountain peaks—Lake Toxaway is the crowning glory of a land of loveliness.

The Toxaway region of "The Land of the Sky" in Western North Carolina, has been likened to the beautiful English Lake District, famed by the songs of Wordsworth. It is, however, on a much grander scale than that noted section. Fast-flying Pullman trains on the

COTTON LOSES EARLY ADVANCE

Fear of High Temperatures in Texas and Liverpool Buying Cause Sharp Rise.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Old positions were well sustained at the opening of the cotton market to-day and started off 3 points higher, while new crop months were to 2 points lower than Wednesday's final.

New positions were affected by cloudy weather in the eastern half of the belt, suggesting possible showers. Futures and spots in Liverpool were firm. Liverpool bought considerable cotton on the weather prospects. Brokers representing large spot houses were good buyers of new crop positions. The buying was general and offerings light. After the market shaded a few points from the initial range prices rallied some 3 to 5 points from the previous close, where prices were firmly maintained throughout the early session, with the exception of July, which fell back to 12.17, last night's closing quotation.

Strength of Liverpool was attributed chiefly to short covering on fear of an American advance on high temperatures over the triple holiday there.

The official weather for yesterday showed temperature average 102 in Oklahoma and 100 in Texas, with six station recording 100, seven stations 102, seven stations 104 and one station 106. Today's early record shows it is cooler in Oklahoma, and Sherman, Tex., reports drizzling rain.

At the close the market was steady with prices at a net decline of 2 to 5 points from the final quotations of Wednesday.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, July 10.—This market was due to open 3½ to 5½ points higher, but opened steady at a net advance of 3 points. At 12:15 p. m., the market was steady, 4 to 4½ points net advance.

A fair business was doing in spot cotton at 5 points advance; middling 6.76d; sales, 8,000 bales, including 7,000 American; imports, 7,000 bales, including 4,000 American.

At the close the market was steady with prices at a net gain of 2½ to 3½ points from the closing quotations of Wednesday.

This market will be closed Friday and Saturday on account of the King visiting Liverpool.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S DAILY COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Liverpool came in as due, and quoted spots 5 points higher; sales 8,000 bales. Cables reported the market sustained by short covering before the holidays, rearing advance in New York on the circulation of reports of high temperatures. Liverpool will be closed to-morrow and Saturday on account of the King of England's visit there.

Weather developments overnight were as predicted and favorable. Cooler with showers in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee. Cloudy over entire belt, except in southern half of Texas, where it is fair.

Indications are for generally cloudy weather with more extended showers in Oklahoma and the Central and Eastern States; cooler in the Central belt; generally fair and warm in central and south Texas. Several points in the Central States reported rain this morning.

The market declined at the start, but was soon brought up by the strength of July New York and also on some support in October, which position, New York says, will likely be affected by the very small stock there. It looks as if the intention is to advance the market.

The into-sight for the week looks around 24,000 bales, against 25,293 bales last year. We compare with mill takings of 195,000 bales for this week last year.

FIFTH HEAT PROSTRATION.

CHATTANOOGA, July 10.—Frank Morton, who was overcome by the heat here late yesterday afternoon, is recovering. This was the fifth prostration during the present heat wave.

COTTON GOSSIP

NEW YORK, July 10.—Areund the opening there was some selling by ring speculators, but it was soon apparent there was some cotton wanted from strong sources and a wave of short covering followed, some of which was said to come from Wall Street. Contracts were scarce, especially in October. The buying, it is said, was based on fear of high temperatures in the Southwestern belt and the continued talk of boll-weevil in Texas. Cables from Liverpool stated that the strength there was caused by short covering in fear of high temperatures over the holidays. Some of the larger spot interests were noticeable buyers of new crop. The South was put down as selling, also some of uptown crowd. The market is narrow and is influenced easily either way just now. Agitation in Washington is having a tendency to restrict business and no serious change in prices is looked for pending this legislation.—Anderson.

* * *

"If the tax of 50 cents per bale becomes a law the cost of hedging will fall upon the merchant or producer, probably the latter, but as a matter of fact, it is doubted if merchants would be able to hedge at all in any market because the law eliminates the speculator who is theoretically on the opposite side of the hedge.

"A cost of 50 points to trade would kill speculation on American exchanges and kill straddle operations between New York and Liverpool. The English market without straddlers would not be large enough to take care of American hedging, so the only opportunity for a merchant to have a hedge order executed would be when it meets another hedge order the other way.

"Any one familiar with future markets know that these orders would seldom meet, consequently, the law would really kill all opportunity to hedge. Such a situation would drive out all the smaller merchants, leaving the business in the hands of a few rich spot dealers who would have the Southern producer in a merciless grip."—Clevenburg.

Reports of serious boll-weevil damage in Texas, together with timidity on the part of sellers because of the local situation, was responsible for the strength of the market yesterday.

* * *

McFadden and Gwathmey brokers were the leading buyers yesterday, mostly of October, which feels the threat of a depletion in stocks more than any other month. Baruch and Wall Street covered some shorts.

* * *

Sentiment is not unfriendly to the market, traders figuring that with contracts scarce any unfavorable reports will cause a further advance.

* * *

Dallas wires: "Texas—Panhandle and south clear; central and east cloudy; numerous rains. Oklahoma—North and west clear; balance cloudy; local rains."

* * *

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—Hayward & Clark: "The weather map is very favorable; it shows cloudy over entire belt, except fair in southern half of Texas. Distinctly cooler in Oklahoma and Arkansas, with fine rains in Arkansas and parts of Tennessee. Some scattered showers elsewhere. Indications are for cloudy, with scattered showers, and cooler in the central belt.

* * *

Houston, Tex., wires: "First bale received from Lyford, Cameron County, South Texas, and will be sold at auction to-day."

* * *

Cotton summary of The New Orleans Times-Democrat: "The steadiness of yesterday's cotton market was explained in two widely divergent ways. The man who believes that cotton on its merits can take good care of itself said that we were experiencing difficulty in obtaining tenderable supplies; that the short interest is still large enough to give trouble, and that the position of the actual bale being a strong one is responsible for reactions upward even when favorable weather would seem to be aiding the bearish cause.

"The man who believes artificial support is responsible for the market's continued show of strength said that talent and trade alike bought new crop deliveries yesterday because the action of the market suggested that July longs were beginning to put the screws to shorts and further strength in July would probably influence new crop deliveries to climb temporarily to higher levels.

"Of course, the weather artists were much in evidence. One faction promised heat waves in the West. Another exploited the comparative records as proof that current temperatures are not excessively high. Still another turned prophet and promised showers and cooler weather in the West."

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—There will be showers to-night or Friday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys and the Northwest. COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The market for cotton seed oil was moderately active to-day and higher with commission houses on both sides. Some of the buying was for short account and new speculative demand also was in evidence. The old crop situation remains light and compound trade continues good.

Atwood, Violett & Co.: We would take the short side.

STOCKS GO UP ON GOOD WAR NEWS

By C. W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Canadian Pacific, which led the stock market in its downward movement yesterday, turned about today and led an upward trend of prices at the opening. Canadian Pacific opened at 211½ for a gain of ⅝, but soon was selling at 213¾, which was 2⅜ higher than Wednesday's closing.

Union Pacific showed the best strength it has exhibited since the present movement began. Union Pacific climbed to 146 for a net gain of nearly 2 points. United States Steel common advanced 1 point on good buying.

The market was largely influenced by London, Paris and Berlin and a considerable share of the buying at the opening came from the other side. This was inspired by a report from St. Petersburg that the Balkan war probably would be ended this week.

Among other gains were Amalgamated Copper ⅝; Southern Pacific ½; Reading ½; Chino Copper ½; Illinois Central ½; American Car and Foundry ½; St. Paul ⅝ and Erie ⅜.

Wall Street took an optimistic view of the railroad situation the belief prevailing that the trainmen on the eastern lines will not strike, but are maneuvering to force an amendment to the Erdman arbitration law.

The curb was strong.

American in London were strong.

The advance in stocks is due to short covering and a dispatch from St. Petersburg saying that the Balkan war would soon end.

For a time after the opening the market witnessed a stampede and before the advance ceased gains of 1 to nearly 3 points were recorded. Shortly after the first hour, however, recessions appeared, but prices held above yesterday's close. Union Pacific advanced ⅝ to 145⅝, Reading reached 157, a gain of ⅜. Lehigh Valley, Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania were up ½. Copper declined ¼. Other issues remained unchanged to a fractional advance. Great Northern preferred issued a 1¾ dividend.

Trading was quiet in the last hour. Prices were practically unchanged from the mid-day level. Canadian Pacific sold around 212¼, for a net advance of nearly 2 points on the day. Amalgamated Copper was fractionally higher. Steel sold at 52⅝ and Union Pacific sold around 145⅛.

The market closed firm. Governments unchanged; other bonds steady.

Memphis Wins and Loses in Rail Rate Pine Lumber Cases

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Rates on pine lumber over the Illinois Central from Jackson, Miss., to Memphis, Tenn., were held by the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day to be unreasonable in so far as they exceed 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Lumber, staves and barrel headings rates to Memphis from points East of the Mississippi and South of Vicksburg, except over the New Orleans, Mobile and Chicago Railroad, were found to be unreasonable if they exceed 11 cents per 100 pounds for a one-line haul and 12 cents for a two-line haul.

Proposed advances of 3 per cent in rates on lumber over the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad in Mississippi and Louisiana to Memphis, Tenn., were allowed.

STOCK GOSSIPS

With the prospects of a 3,000,000,000-bushel corn crop, it looks as if the railroads would have all they can carry this fall and winter. It looks as if President Wilson would avert the railroad strike. Expect a traders' market for the present, but prefer to buy stocks on breaks rather than sell on rallies.—Potter.

* * *

The New York Financial Bureau says: "Moderate profits should appeal to the daily trader for the present. Information channels are pessimistic. Trading movements in the general list, with a somewhat better demand for the leading stocks, may be seen to-day."

* * *

The market responds well to favorable news, due to the large outstanding short interest and the limited supply of stocks. Prospects of a corn crop of record-breaking proportions and the ending of the Balkan war are factors of the utmost importance. Last, but not least, the present level of prices is very low, the returns to the investors are attractive, and the chances for a considerable appreciation in values in a reasonable time are good.—Potter.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says:

"Wheat traders were inclined to construe the Government report as bullish when considered in all its details. There were a number of sharp operators, however, who took a bearish view of it, and talked lower prices. It is the general belief that the final returns on all wheat will show around the same as last year, which, with the carry-over, should make a larger supply than last year.

"Corn specialists took the Government report as bearish, although the acreage is two-tenths of 1 per cent under last year. This was offset by the condition being the highest since 1900. The crowd were regarded as short and the commission house holdings nave been reduced of late.

"Oats traders were surprised at the showing of the crop report, it being larger than expected. Most operators took a bearish view of it, and said that with the crop within less than three weeks of harvest they look for a yield of 1,000,000,000 bushels."

* * *

General liquidation is on in oats and this, together with pressure of new oats from the country, will, in my opinion, carry the market several cents lower.—Roycroft.

* * *

Bartlett, Frazier Co. says: Wheat—The country continues to market the new crop of winter wheat very freely. As long as Europe continues to buy liberally the effect of hedging operations is materially lessened. We believe there is a large outstanding short interest, and are inclined to look for a fair rally.

Corn—This morning's map was generally clear with some high temperatures again in the Southwest. The figures given in yesterday's Government report indicate a crop larger than the trade generally was looking for, but there has been considerable scattered liquidation and short selling during the past few days. We are inclined to think the report will not prove a depressing influence.

Oats—The Government report was about as expected and therefore will not prove an influence. New buying power is extremely limited, but there has been a great deal of liquidation, and while prices may gradually work lower, we do not look for any sharp break at the moment.

Wheat—No. 2 red ..... 86½@87
Oats—No. 2 ..... 40 @41

CHICAGO, July 10.—The strength shown by the wheat market at Chicago this morning when prices advanced ⅞ to ¾c was a reflection of the higher prices at Liverpool, coupled with the bullish construction placed on the Government report of yesterday. The best prices were shaded ¼ to ½c soon after they were made by "hedging" sales. Argentina shipments for the week are estimated at only 400,000 bushels, compared with 1,552,000 bushels for the corresponding period last year. Northwestern receipts, while a few cars larger than for the same day in 1912, were small.

Corn was a shade better in sympathy with wheat, as the weather is favorable.

Oats were ½c lower for September and a fraction lower for July.

Provisions were lower.

HOG PRICES WORK LOWER.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Hogs opened 10 to 15c under the high spot yesterday, 9.15 being about the limit, with the bulk at 8.90@9.10. The reaction, after the boom is logical, the break being facilitated by swelling supply and a stale stock of 5,700. There were 75,000 at eleven markets, against 69,000 last week. Cattle trade was easier than yesterday, although prices were quotably steady. Arrivals of nearly 11,000 Southern lambs direct to packers gave trade in the sheep house a 15 to 25c lower appearance.

Corn opened unchanged to ¼d lower; at 1:30 p. m. the market was unchanged to ⅛d lower. Closed ⅜d higher.

Deserted, She Asks Work, Not Charity

Mrs. Emory Batta, who appealed to Matron Mary Bohnefeld for assistance in finding employment after being deserted by her husband, denies the published report that she is penniless and tramped the streets 48 hours without anything to eat.

Though her husband is said to have taken $500 of their savings Mrs. Batta declared Wednesday that she simply appealed to Matron Bohnefeld to help her get work, not for charity.

Poultry, Pet and Live Stock

Poultry Business Is Indebted to Fanciers Fifty Years Ago

Fancier Has Done the Slow and Plodding Work Which Has Taken Years to Accomplish.

How often we hear people say, "Oh, I do not want anything to do with the fancy part of the chicken business; I am out for utility and I just do not want to have anything to do with the fancy part of the business." Some persons seem to have about the same aversion to the fancy that the small boy does to having his hands and face washed.

They seem to think that that sounds mighty practical and will help to keep them from getting mixed up with the fellows who are always talking about shows and prizes and all such things. Oh, yes, they want good stock, but nothing fancy. The fancier can get along without the utility man just about as well, if not better, than the utility man can get along without the fancier. In reality, they need each other. Where would the utility man be to-day if the fancier had not gotten in his great work for the poultry industry. Just think of it, the fancier has given the country all the pure breeds of poultry from which the utility people have taken their foundation stock that has made them what they are to-day. He brought the Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans and Leghorns from other countries. He really manufactured the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Reds frome other breeds and gave them to us in a shape that has made them of the greatest value to the farmer and market poultryman. Where is there a utility man or farmer who would be willing to blot out all these breeds and go back to where we were 50 years ago? He has given us such a variety that the most exacting along any line of utility work can be supplied with about what his needs require. There is the Brahma or Cochin if a strictly meat breed is desired; or the Leghorn, Minorca or Spanish, strictly for eggs. For the farmer who would like a combination, they have furnished him with the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Red.

So you see it is a question of simply paying your money and taking your choice. The fancier has done the slow and plodding work which has taken years to accomplish, giving it to the utility man all ready to work with.

Of course, the farmer may let the barrs on the Rock get a little irregular, or the comb on the Leghorn become a little top-heavy, the Reds a little mealy in color, yet, in spite of all these little irregularities they maintain their valuable qualities and serve the utility part to a marked degree. The fancier invented the trapnest that egg-production might be increased from an average of 75 eggs annually to 150 or better for the laying breeds; or, for the general-purpose breeds for that matter. He has led the van in giving better houses for the hens that they might produce eggs in winter as well as in summer. The fancier has furnished the country with the best appliances for the economical handling of poultry in great numbers. Take, for example, the incubator; it has been really the solving of the commercial poultry problem of this country. Just think of the hundreds of thousands of chickens and ducks that are annually turned out of these machines to fill the great markets of our cities and towns. Machines holding as high as 60,000 eggs at a filling. Just think of it, 4,000 hens to do the work of that one machine, which is looked after by the attention of one man not over an hour each day. The poultry fancier has made possible the diffusing of the best in poultry literature to one and all. The great poultry and farm journals which the country supports were made possible by him, and, in fact, are largely supported by the fancier. The utility man takes advantage of all these helps; in fact, looks to them largely for his guidance.

Then we must not lose sight of the beauty part of it. For there is no one, we believe, so completely engrossed in the making of money that he does not enjoy the beautiful in nature. Most of us make our money for the purpose of spending it in the pursuit of pleasure and happiness.

Why not double this pleasure by having the pleasure right along with the making of the money. Flocks of pure-bred poultry of any variety should be a pleasure for any one to handle; on the other hand, a lot of mongrels could hardly be an incentive to any one, much less a pleasure.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Seeking to Locate $100,000 Concern

Manufacturers Search for Plant. East Alabama St. Sale Reported. Permits for 14 Bungalows.

Real estate agents began looking Thursday for a site with railroad frontage on which to locate the Sox Duplex Cinder Deflector Company, a concern organized recently with $100,000 capital and Henry Schaul as president.

This manufacturing company will make a patented device for keeping cinders out of Pullman and day cars, with Atlanta as headquarters, and an expensive plant will be installed. David Sox is the inventor, and it is said that his device has been adopted by a number of railroads.

While the exact amount to be expended on site and plant has not yet been determined, it is estimated that $100,000 will be necessary.

Alabama Street Sale Reported.

Report in real estate circles Thursday had it that Luther Z. Rosser and J. H. Porter had bought the East Alabama Street property of Colonel Robert J. Lowry at $35,000, or about $1,000 a front foot.

This property is 57 East Alabama Street and has a frontage of 35 to 40 feet. It is improved with a three-story brick building.

Messrs. Rosser and Porter have been associated in a number of interesting deals, notably the purchase of 301 Peachtree Street and the property on North Pryor Street of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company.

A petition has been in circulation for the repaving of East Alabama Street, and property values are expected to take a rise with the improvements. J. Livingston Wright has a parcel east of 57 which he holds for $1,200 a foot.

Williams Street Subdivision.

Twenty-four residence lots will be put on the market August 1 by the A. J. & H. F. West Real Estate Agency. These are in the Atwood tract of six acres on Williams Street, between Tenth and Fourteenth Streets. The land is now being platted.

Small Sales Made.

W. A. Cook, of Senoia, has sold to J. M. Lankford, through J. F. Culpepper, of the L. P. Bottenfield Real Estate Agency, 44 Plum Street, for $2,200. The above agency has sold a farm tract on Mt. Perian Road, near Pace's Ferry Road, for $875; two lots in Clairemont Park, Decatur, for $2,200, and three lots in the Peachtree Highlands subdivision for $3,700.

R. W. Milner, formerly a traveling salesman, and J. W. Reeves, formerly a building contractor, have been added to the sales force of this agency.

Whitehall Street Transfer.

George A. Boynton has transferred to Martha A. Boynton a 46 by 110 footp arcel on Whitehall Street and to Haygood Boynton a 98 by 100 foot property on the north side of Woodward Avenue, 100 feet east of Crew Street. The Whitehall lot is 159 feet northeasterly of Garnett Street.

Permits for Bungalows.

Permits were issued Thursday to Fitzhugh Knox to erect fourteen bungalows in his subdivision on Kensington, Brantley and Hardee Streets and Cleland Avenue, to cost a total of $24,500. Day work will be used.

Building Permits.
BUILDING PERMITS.

Wide Range of Sales.

Realty men say they have seldom seen more interesting bonds for title and warranty deeds going to record. Among the papers are the following conveyances:

W. B. B. Richards, administrator of the estate of the late William C. Richards, to R. W. Davis, lot on the south side of West Fourteenth Street, 284 by 150, for $4,269.

The L. S. Huntley Company to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Peachtree Road, 368 feet northeast of the junction of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, 48 by 140, $1,575, and to same, the adjoining lot to the southwest, same size, for the same price.

R. I. Barge to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Ormond Street, 160 feet west of Grant Street, 50 by 141, $2,500.

Charles A. Davis to M. I. Hule and Mrs. Luella Skinner, lot on the west side of Peachtree Road, 1,040 feet northeast of Piedmont Road, 100 by 685, $4,500. Transferred to C. M. Love et al.

Mrs. Eugenie Baich to Mrs. Mamie Cohen, 265 Crew Street, 50 by 200, $3,650.

Lois and Nellie Hollingsworth to M. Friedman, lot at the northwest corner of Highland Avenue and Fortune Street, 90 by 120, $4,300.

James E. Brown Company to National Stock Yards Commission Company, lot on the east side of Marietta Street 67 feet south of Lee Avenue, 74 by 222, $12,607, and to same, southeast corner of Lee and Marietta, 67 by 149, $5,200.

The total of these transactions is $35,176. A few are trades made some time ago, with papers just going to record, but most of them are of recent date.

Successful Auction Sale.

John S. Owens and Gid Hanna are to-day $2,500 better off than they were this time Wednesday, having made this amount on an auction sale at the corner of Park Avenue and Bryan Street, Grant Park section. Less than a year ago they bought a tract for $4,900 and the total in the auction was $7,295. The buy was made from Mrs. Lizzie Hollingsworth through William A. Vernoy, the latter of whom had charge Wednesday. J. W. Ferguson & Son were the auctioneers.

Mr. Hanna and Mr. Owens attributed the success of the sale to effective advertising, the value of the property and plenty of good lemonade.

Lots 1 and 2 were bought by H. A. White for $775 each; lot 3, by J. T. Wallace, for $875; lot 4, by John A. Fritz, for $1,390; lot 5, by Frank Whitley, for $830, and the house and lot, by George B. Beauchamp, for $2,650. Mr. Whitley refused a good profit on his lot immediately after his purchase.

"We could have sold 50 lots if we had had them," declared Mr. Vernoy after the sale.

Renting Meet Postponed.

Renting agents called together in the office of Charles P. Glover will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30, two previous meetings having been postponed. The "single listing system" of houses will be discussed.

New Pharmacy College.

The Courtland Street section between Harris and Cain Streets is soon to have a new college of pharmacy, when Dr. George F. Payne, the proprietor, completes plans for remodeling two double frame houses, which he has just bought. Dr. Payne acquired this property from W. I. Webb through G. M. McKinnon, paying $20,000, or nearly $260 a front foot. The lot is on the east side of the street and the dimensions are 77 by 275 feet.

Ponce DeLeon Activity.

Seldom during the year, say the realty agents, is there any trouble disposing of residences on Ponce DeLeon Avenue. This is true alike of the closer-in homes, not far from Peachtree, and the homes near or in Druid Hills. Claude E. Sims, for instance, is doing his share of selling. He reports the sale for Dr. John B. Daniel to J. H. Leversredge, of Montgomery, Ala., of 666 Ponce DeLeon, 50 by 180, for $13,000, and of 532 Ponce DeLeon, only two blocks to the west, to Dr. William Asher for R. C. Taylor, for $10,000. The latter is 55 by 232.

Druid Hills Sale.

Although few homes are offered for sale in Druid Hills, buyers can always be found. O. D. Gorman, Jr., a successful trader with Smith & Ewing, has just picked up a profit in the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road to Mrs. J. J. Morris, for $12,500. This lot is 50 by 150 feet and contains a two-story nine-room brick veneer house. The transaction was handled through the Martin-Ozburn Realty Company.

Exchange of Properties.

H. M. Carlton has traded with a client of R. W. Evans, of the Cheatham Brothers' agency, for 219 East North Avenue, 45 by 150, for $4,900, giving in part payment a vacant lot on Ashby Street, 50 by 300 feet, valued at $1,000.

Auburn Avenue at $58.

Chauncey Smith has bought from a client of John D. Babbage a lot on the south side of Auburn Avenue, between Yonge and Jackson Streets, for $1,500, or at the rate of not quite $58 a front foot. The lot is 26 by 149 1-2.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

(Copyright, 1912.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

Senate Makes Great Reductions in Vital Schedules in Underwood Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applied to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or convict labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

MORE GIRLS ARRESTED IN VICE INVESTIGATION

NEW PLAN MEANS GREATER ARMY POST HERE

M'PHERSON CERTAIN OF BIG GAIN

Colonel Van Orsdale Expects the Atlanta Fort Will Be Enlarged. Quotes General Wood.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Mr. Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

When questioned as to the probable abandonment of Fort Oglethorpe, at Chickamauga Park, Colonel VanOrsdale said he did not believe the War Department would consider its elimination, as it is a splendid strategic point.

Macon Society Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

Mrs. Guilford recently returned from Florida, where she spent the winter. There she met her husband.

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

Invitation Cards to Golden Wedding Gold

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 11.—M. Spiridinoff, a wealthy man of Moscow, has issued 200 invitations to his golden wedding celebration. The invitations are on cards of pure gold, each weighing three-quarters of an ounce.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED.

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—James H. Anderson, referee in bankruptcy, has denied a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, of Dayton, Tenn. Creditors whose claims aggregated more than $1,000,000 were represented.

SENATE CUTS IN TARIFF DRASTIC

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 5 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax.	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000

Frank Hammond Gets High Office in Theatrical Ass'n

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of the "Footlight," a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the Finance Committee of the Grand Lodge, and Deputy Grand President of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Atlanta Furniture To Be Sold Broadcast

General managers and buyers of the Rhodes Retail Furniture Syndicate are spending several days in Atlanta inspecting Atlanta-made goods, preparatory to visiting Eastern and Western markets to make fall purchases.

They intend to stock their chain of stores with goods manufactured in Atlanta. J. D. Rhodes, of Atlanta, is vice president of the syndicate and chief of the purchasing department.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

Dog Catcher Job at $10 Day Lures Many

Energetic men with long arms are crowding the office of City Clerk Walter Taylor, seeking the job of city dog catcher, which pays $10 a day while it lasts. Applicants are being examined as to their fitness for this important post by City Marshal Fuller, who has qualified as a dog and dog catcher expert.

Mr. Taylor plans to hire his dog catchers as soon as possible. It is probable that the first of the week will see the hunters searching for unattached canines.

Hotel Sleuth Shoots Himself Cleaning Gun

While oiling and cleaning his revolver Thursday afternoon, G. W. Walker, special detective at the Georgian Terrace, accidentally shot himself in the leg just below the knee.

An hour later he walked to the taxicab which took him to Grady Hospital. Dr. A. G. DeLoach said the wound was slight.

DEWBERRY CALM AS HOUR NEARS FOR HANGING

Negro Convicted of Killing Atlanta White Boy Goes to Death at 11 o'Clock A. M. Friday.

Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing to death Horace Dodson, a white boy, on Decatur Street last year, will explate his crime on the scaffold in the county c ourt yard at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Dewberry probably will mount the gallows protesting to the last that he is innocent. He told his guards early Friday morning that he was not guilty of the crime, but if he had to go he was ready and willing. Dewberry was convicted of the crime in question on the testimony of three eyewitnesses.

Dewberry does not dread the ordeal through which he is to pass. He ate a hearty breakfast Friday morning and talked with composure to his guards in the death watch Thursday night. He was visited during the morning by a negro preacher and members of his family, who presented a pitiful scene as they spoke their last farewells.

Sheriff Mangum probably will spring the trap which will send Dewberry into eternity. Only newspaper men, county officials, physicians, other necessary witnesses and a negro minister, in accordance with a request of the condemned man, will be permitted to see the hanging.

Young Millionaire Loses Stepmother's Sister, to Whom He Was Reported Betrothed.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

ROUMANIA ALSO OPENS WAR ON BULGARIA

Balkan Nation, Attacked on All Sides, Tries to Get Turks to Renew Fighting.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia, and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

14-YEAR-OLD VICTIM OF SLAVERS TAKEN

Child Tells How She Was Lured by Girl, Sixteen—Chief Is Stirred by New Facts.

A sensational story of being enticed into a life of shame by a 16-year-old girl was told to the police Friday morning by 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, 17 Broyles Street, who was arrested by detectives Thursday night after she had been missing from her home since Monday night.

Chief Beavers is making a thorough investigation of the statements of the girl and is confident that the developments of her story will unearth another angle of the vice system of which Hattie Smith became the victim.

The girl named by Dora Rothstein as a procuress, Corinne Wilson, 334 Highland Street, was placed under arrest at the same time as the Rothstein girl. Two men were arrested early Friday morning, after the Rothstein girl had told her story. A charge of kidnaping has been placed against one and the other is charged with disorderly conduct.

Four To Be Tried Friday.

The four—the Rothstein girl and the three who are alleged to have brought about her downfall—will be tried before Judge Broyles Friday afternoon, and it is expected that she will name other men besides the two who are under arrest.

The girls' story to the police was one of the most sensational Chief Beavers has heard since he inaugurated his vice investigation. She had been missing from her home since Monday night, and after her father had failed to locate her he asked the police to help him.

Plain Clothes Officers Green and McKibben arrested the two girls as they came out of a downtown moving picture show at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

"I went out to White City Monday afternoon," Dora Rothstein said, "and met the Wilson girl about supper time. We went around the park together, and she suggested that we go down into the woods and pick some blackberries.

Slept in Ball Park.

"When we got there she told a lot of bad stories, and we had a great time. Then she began telling me how much money I could make and what a good time I could have with the boys, and suggested that we hunt a couple of men.

"I didn't go home any more that night, and have been with the Wilson girl until last night, when we were arrested. We met the men early in the week, and one night we all slept in the baseball park. And one afternoon they took the Wilson girl and myself down to the old Mount Gilead campmeeting grounds, and we stayed out in the woods all night.

"They brought us back to Atlanta the next afternoon and since that time Corrinne and I have been roaming the streets, meeting some of the boys."

14 PER CENT CUT IN TARIFF IN SENATE

Only House Schedule Not Reduced Is That on Cotton—Income Tax Lowered.

Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per pound and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

by JAMES B. NEVIN

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member, and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

Former Representative R. A. Denny, of Rome, one of North Georgia's best-known attorneys, is in Atlanta for a few days.

Mr. Denny does not come to Atlanta often nowadays, but when he does he gets the glad hand, palm up, from many directions!

Byron B. Bower, of Decatur County, than whom among all former Georgia legislators there is not one thanwhomer, is in Atlanta's thrice-happy midst to-day.

This is Mr. Bower's first visit to the Georgia Legislature of 1913-14, and it is the first Legislature since 1898 that he had not proudly claimed membership in.

During Mr. Bower's long and distinguished legislative career he never once missed being recorded as present at roll call, even though it frequently became necessary to halt the well-under-way House proceedings temporarily, the while the gentleman from Decatur had himself so recorded.

Few men, as a matter of fact, ever enjoyed the friendship of his legislative colleagues more universally than Mr. Bower. He is the personification of good nature, and his constituents found him so useful that they kept him in the House until, voluntarily and of his own accord, he decided last year to retire.

One of Governor Slaton's first official acts was to reappoint Mr. Bower a trustee of the University of Georgia. This is a high and coveted honor, but the Governor unquestionably bestowed it worthily.

"The Legislature should take action looking to the suppression of mob law in this State," says The Marion County Citizen.

That is precisely the object of the bill introduced by Mr. Adams, of Hall, providing for a central place of execution for all criminals convicted of capital offenses.

Criminals taken from jails and lynched generally are taken from jails in the smaller counties, where those places of incarceration are weak and not easily defended.

No prisoner ever has been, or ever will be, perhaps, taken from the jail in Fulton County and lynched. It would be well-nigh impossible for a mob to get into that stronghold. When recently two negroes were carried from Atlanta to Forsyth County for execution, it was necessary to send a strong military escort along to make sure they would be legally put to death. A central place of execution would have rendered that precaution and expense unnecessary.

Of course, the Adams bill would prevent mob law only in that one direction, but its passage would help in the solution of the entire problem, no doubt.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

LEGISLATOR PROUD OF HIS LIKENESS TO BRYAN

SAM L. OLIVE.

Can't Bring Himself, Though, to Appreciation of Commoner's Kind of Highballs.

Representative Samuel L. Olive of Richmond is kept mighty busy most of his time nowadays looking like William Jennings Bryan. Generally he makes a first-class job of it.

Not only does Mr. Olive look the part of the Peerless Leader, but he acts it in numerous ways, particularly in speaking.

Olive, admittedly, is the very best orator in the House.

In one way, though, Mr. Olive fears he never shall come to be entirely like the Peerless—for the life of him, the gentleman from Richmond is unable to make grape juice the paramount liquid issue with himself!

Olive is the one man in the House who can overcome the wretched acoustic properties so completely as to make himself heard in every nook and corner when speaking.

He is ingenious in argument, happy in oratorical effect and finesse, and altogether well worth listening to when under full steam ahead on the floor.

The gentleman from Richmond is one of the younger members of the House, but has had considerable Legislative experience. As a consequence, he knows his way around amazingly well. He is popular and influential and regular in his attendance on the sessions, both of the House and his committees.

Because of his marked facial resemblance to Mr. Bryan, Mr. Olive is known to many as "The Boy Orator of the Savannah," and he rather likes it!

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmastress at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

Homesteading Arid Lands Is Made Easy

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Senate to-day passed a bill, introduced by Senator Pittman of Nevada, providing that the Secretary of the Interior shall designate certain arid lands in Nevada, Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming and New Mexico on which residence shall not be necessary to establish a homestead.

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"A button carrying a photo of a telephone and the words, 'Call Atlanta.'"

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"All the time, every time Atlanta. 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city. 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 100, Atlanta.

Wool Sales Reflex On Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinos. Tariff legislation and the holiday season are the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

Domestic	5,042,642	11,838,729
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Foreign	41,550,200	75,104,006

DOCTOR SAYS HE GAVE DRUGS TO CRAWFORD

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris, in which he stated the late Joshua B. Crawford died of morphine poisoning, would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold when the will case opened Friday morning.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel J. S. James, attorney for the dissenting heirs-at-law, announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was illegally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

Pet Trout Likes to Have Back Stroked

ESTES PARK, CAL., July 11.—"Sunbeam," the pet speckled trout in the fish hatchery at Estes Park, has just recovered from an indisposition caused by stomach trouble or rheumatism.

The fish, now a 3-year-old, and about 11 inches long, is as good an example of gentle and loving trouthood as it is possible to find. It is very fond of being stroked and petted, and will swim around and rub itself against a person's hand whenever a chance is given it.

SLAYING CHARGE FOR CONLEY IS EXPECTED

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery by The Georgian's publication Thursday of the accusation of William H. Mincey, an insurance solicitor, that he had heard the negro boast on the afternoon of the crime of killing a girl.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's connection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Counsel Relies on Mincey.

Attorneys for the defense have expressed themselves as satisfied that Mincey's word is to be relied upon, and that his remarkable affidavit published in The Georgian is true in every particular.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters, and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Lee Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

600 OF FIFTH REGIMENT ARE IN ST. SIMONS CAMP

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely — Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamsip companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" saked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certaintly," replied Mr. Strachan who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quizz ended

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

Rake With 40 Teeth Given to President

WINSTED, CONN., July 11.—Following a custom inaugurated by his grandfather, who presented to Abraham Lincoln a hay rake, Marshall W. Stedman, a rake maker, of Tyringham, Mass., has sent a rake with 40 teeth, the whole handsomely grained and varnished, to President Wilson.

Forbes Says That, Although Europe Is Buying All Our Gold, Trade Is Stagnant.

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, July 11.—"How's she heading?"

* * *

Baron Kato, one of Japan's dignitaries, who took part in the Portsmouth peace negotiations, writing of his experiences, declared that what impressed him most was the difference between Japanese and American journalists. It would take a native interviewer half an hour to perform his salaams and express all sorts of laudatory sentiments before leading up to the subject on his mind, whereas the American correspondent would saunter in with his hat on, a cigar in his mouth "at a conversational angle," dray up a chair and address him thus: "Hello, Kato; how's she heading?" the she meaning, of course, the peace dickering.

* * *

In this instance she refers to the general financial, stock market and business situation. Wall Street's mission is to gauge how "she's heading."

* * *

In one sentence, I would reply: "Fairly well, financially; rather poorly, commercially."

* * *

I'm told on the highest authority that an important announcement concerning the disposal of Union Pacific holdings of Southern Pacific will be made soon. The news may not have an electric effect upon the stock market. One or two issues, indeed, may be depressed. The announcement may not be confined to Southern Pacific, but may include a reference to Baltimore and Ohio, although on this point definite information was lacking last evening.

* * *

The general monetary position has been strengthened. The country banks are now thoroughly aroused to the need for caution. They are husbanding their cash to the extent of a million dollars a day, and curtailing loans even more, whereas, formerly they were expanding credits recklessly. The pruning process will probably result in a good many mercantile failures.

* * *

France formulated a plan at New Year for drawing from New York millions of gold every two months, regardless of foreign exchange conditions. The first shipments were made on January 7; the second movement began early in March, the third early in May, and now the fourth is under way, $5,000,000 having been engaged this week. A total of $40,000,000 has been taken from us—at a stiff price. That France will make further raids upon our supply of the yellow metal is accepted as certain. Meanwhile, Germany is making desperate and successful efforts to accumulate gold at a similar pace. The Reichsbank to-day holds the largest stock of bullion in its history.

* * *

The Transvaal strike, which threatens to stop the inflow of new gold, is virtually over. The outbreak among the negro laborers reported yesterday can easily be handled, but the white miners know no bounds when once their ire is raised, and the authorities hesitate to shoot them both for humane and political reasons.

* * *

The prospects are that the United States will be able to get through the fall without serious monetary stringency.

* * *

Labor troubles loom up at home and in high financial circles uneasiness exists on this score.

* * *

The renewed fighting in the Balkans is deplored, but international complications are not expected. .. ..

* * *

The stagnation on the Stock Exchange is accepted in certain very responsible circles as indicating that the market has been liquidated to the last share, and that the next decisive movement will be upward, although no immediate or drastic action is looked for.

* * *

The "Lamar" revelations have injured certain individuals more than stocks. Incidentally, the Stock Exchange, in endeavoring to forbid members to accept orders from this self-confessed scoundrel, is attaching to him an importance which he does not possess. Cannon should not be turned on "vermin," to borrow J. P. Morgan's expression.

* * *

The Pittsburg failures will have more effect abroad than at home, as the Kuhns disposed of many irrigation and other bonds to Europeans. Following so closely on the heels of the Frisco fiasco, this incident will have most unfortunate influence. And to turn Europeans against American securities is no light matter. It is infinitely serious. We need European capital. We must have overseas buyers of our securities, for thus only can we offset our adverse "invisible" financial balance.

* * *

Crops are doing well enough.

* * *

To conclude a rambling survey, the stock market ought to be nearly out of the woods, but liquidation in business and in labor is likely to follow the liquidation that has been suffered by securities. That would seem to be how she's heading.

4-YEAR-OLD MADE KING OF JUNIOR CLAN O'HARA

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

Chief of Younger O'Haras.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Hara at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Has Brogue and Temper.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

WILSON'S MONEY BILL PRAISED BY BRITISHERS

Samuel Untemyer, Apostale of Currency Measure, Says London Bankers Call Act Sound.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Samuel Untermyer, of New York, who spent a busy week here, en route to Paris and Baden Baden, where he will remain a month, has been prosecuting an inquiry among banking circles—unofficially, of course—respecting the British feeling about the new American currency bill.

It is significant that Mr. Untermyer has been much in company with Colonel E. M. House, of Texas, during the week. These inquiries will be further pressed during Mr. Untermyer's stay in Paris.

When seen by The Georgian correspondent Mr. Untermyer admitted seeing many famous bankers here. He made this statement exclusively to The Georgian as a result of his investigation:

Bill Carefully Studied.

"The proposed new currency bill is surprisingly well understood here. It has been carefully studied and digested, and is favorably regarded. The fundamental principle of a Government currency issued and controlled directly by the Government is universally regarded as sound.

"I had rather expected that English traditions of banking would create a prejudice against so radical a departure, but find that this is not true, and that the question has been considered on its merits and meets with approval.

"The sentiment that has been sought to be created against it by the press bureaus of certain great New York financial interests is not shared here. The peril to the country from the vast concentration of the control of credit in a few hands that has assumed such gigantic proportions in past few years is recognized here as a stern reality."

RACE FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STRENUOUS

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

SEQUEL TO LOVE FOR DOLL

Maternal Instinct Greatly Developed by Teaching Children to Love Their Dolls.

The little child's doll is mother to the most romantic fairy. And in the years that pass, the doll fades into the petals of a June rose, to evolve the most wondrous of all transformations.

And now comes a more serious period when the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best effort can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend, an external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every cord, nerve, muscle and tendon involved.

There will be no pain, none of that nausea or morning sickness, no sensation of distress or strain of expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, thus making the period one of restful days, of peaceful nights and a source of happiest anticipation.

The young, expectant mother must be carefully watchful lest she become absorbed in those mental distresses which fitly prepare her for the most important event in her life.

Mother's Friend enables her to avoid all sensation of dread, worry or pain, and thus she is preserved in health and strength to take up the joyful task of motherhood.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at all drug stores at $1 a bottle. Do not fail to use it regularly as directed. Write to-day to Bradfield Regulator Company, 135 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their most valuable little guide book for expectant mothers.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

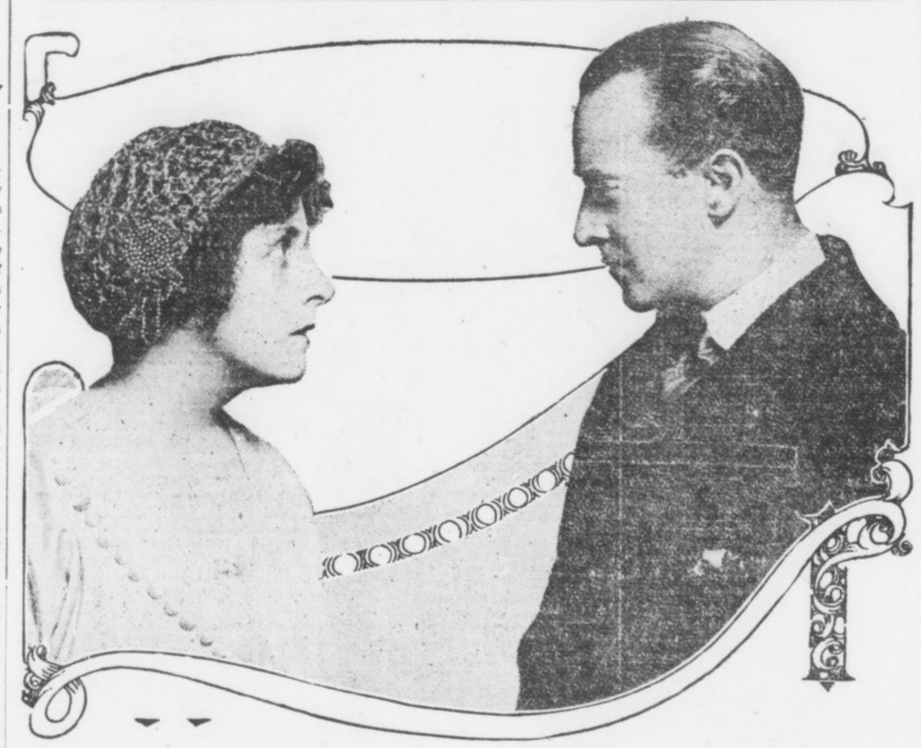
Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

THE PRINCESS SHOWS JARVIS THE SECRET LOCKET



"Here," said the girl, "This is what brought me to America, Like ther antinques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

'Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

* * *

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse, I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bullhound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

Superfluous Hair Truths

De Miracle

The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. "Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—
Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. I vas at der goncert in Berlin, and I hear der great Engleesh soprano sing dot der vas no blace like Ohm, and all der Engleesh beoples in der goncert gry like der leetle babies. Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

T. Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

Making It Worse.

Critic (sardonically): "H'm; it might be worse."

Painter (offended): "Sir, I hope you will withdraw that statement."

Critic: "All right, then; it couldn't be worse."

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked.

The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

STANDING OF THE RIDERS.

Name	1st	2d	3d	T't'l.
Richards	6	2	0	38
Shields	1	2	2	19
Lockner	1	2	2	19
Renel	0	3	2	18
McNeil	2	0	1	13
Graves	0	1	2	10
Lewis	0	0	1	3

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines. Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.
Motordrome Purse.
One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.
No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.
No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.
Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.
Crackers' Sweepstakes.
Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.
No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Eighth Event.
No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Ninth Event.
Seven miles final of the Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Tenth Event.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COLumn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared to-day that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Doolin and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

Miner Brown, who pitched for the Reds yesterday and won, is still suffering from an injury to his knee, although his arm is as strong as ever. His running is badly handicapped.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. O." made a big hit up there and will be given a Butte match with one of the star middleweights before long. Walsh likes Butte as a boxing town so well that he is going to take Joe Mandot up there to fight in the fall. Mandot will be here to join Walsh in a few days.

TAGGART DECLARES HE IS NOT "ANGEL" FOR TRACK

FRENCH LICK, IND., July 11.—"What? Me the 'angel' for the Mineral Springs Jockey Club? Quit kidding me!" shouted Thomas Taggart, when interrogated as to the reports printed in Chicago newspapers that he had guaranteed purses offered by the Jockey Club so that the meeting would not "blow up."

Mr. Taggart pronounced the report as "a pure fabrication" or "untruth," declaring he had no connection whatever with the Porter races.

CLARKE WARS ON BRENNAN; ASKED COOPER TO FIGHT

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Manager Clarke, of the Pirates, has filed sworn charges with National League President Lynch, accusing Umpire Brennan of challenging Pitcher Cooper to fight under the Philadelphia grandstand after Tuesday's game with Philadelphia. Cooper is said to have accepted and Brennan was absent.

Clarke wired President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club this information to-day, together with the information that the fine of $25 imposed on Cooper had been paid under protest.

LYNCH NOTIFIES UMPIRES; GAMES TO GO 9 INNINGS

NEW YORK, July 11.—President Lynch, of the National League, to-day notified his umpires that in the future all teams would be required to play nine full innings in each game, or as many as possible unless prevented by rain or darkness. There will be no more early starts and early stops by agreement of managers and umpires.

INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the reasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in a tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he falls in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a litle in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State cnampionship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map,
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound,
When suddenly they halted in the middle of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Peploski.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

Mr. Chance is a wonderful guy if he can reflect upon the Chase deal without delivering unto himself a swift kick.

Mr. Comiskey has established diplomatic relations with Mr. Bryan, but there is no truth in the rumor that he has taken to unfermented grape juice.

If Mr. Bryan can induce the National Commission to drink grape juice it will be recorded as the greatest diplomatic feat in the archives of history.

The practice of stalling to avoid a beating may be inside baseball, but it has a distinct shade of yellowness.

A motorcyclist in Pittsburg jumped the track and was rendered defunct, thereby making the meet a grand success.

Australia may beat us at cricket, but it will be at least a couple of years before the world's series is held in Melbourne.

We shudder to think of Connie Mack's mental strain as he hesitates between Bender and Plank for the first game of the world's series.

KICKS.

When the game is going badly you can bet your final dollar

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the Detroit and Boston clubs, Bert started two double plays in the game of June 16, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 16, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

Poultry, Pet and Live Stock

Fancier Has Done the Slow and Plodding Work Which Has Taken Years to Accomplish.

How often we hear people say, "Oh, I do not want anything to do with the fancy part of the chicken business; I am out for utility and I just do not want to have anything to do with the fancy part of the business." Some persons seem to have about the same aversion to the fancy that the small boy does to having his hands and face washed.

They seem to think that that sounds mighty practical and will help to keep them from getting mixed up with the fellows who are always talking about shows and prizes and all such things. Oh, yes, they want good stock, but nothing fancy. The fancier can get along without the utility man just about as well, if not better, than the utility man can get along without the fancier. In reality, they need each other. Where would the utility man be to-day if the fancier had not gotten in his great work for the poultry industry. Just think of it, the fancier has given the country all the pure breeds of poultry from which the utility people have taken their foundation stock that has made them what they are to-day. He brought the Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans and Leghorns from other countries. He really manufactured the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Reds frome other breeds and gave them to us in a shape that has made them of the greatest value to the farmer and market poultryman. Where is there a utility man or farmer who would be willing to blot out all these breeds and go back to where we were 50 years ago? He has given us such a variety that the most exacting along any line of utility work can be supplied with about what his needs require. There is the Brahma or Cochin if a strictly meat breed is desired; or the Leghorn, Minorca or Spanish, strictly for eggs. For the farmer who would like a combination, they have furnished him with the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Red.

So you see it is a question of simply paying your money and taking your choice. The fancier has done the slow and plodding work which has taken years to accomplish, giving it to the utility man all ready to work with.

Of course, the farmer may let the barrs on the Rock get a little irregular, or the comb on the Leghorn become a little top-heavy, the Reds a little mealy in color, yet, in spite of all these little irregularities they maintain their valuable qualities and serve the utility part to a marked degree. The fancier invented the trapnest that egg-production might be increased from an average of 75 eggs annually to 150 or better for the laying breeds; or, for the general-purpose breeds for that matter. He has led the van in giving better houses for the hens that they might produce eggs in winter as well as in summer. The fancier has furnished the country with the best appliances for the economical handling of poultry in great numbers. Take, for example, the incubator; it has been really the solving of the commercial poultry problem of this country. Just think of the hundreds of thousands of chickens and ducks that are annually turned out of these machines to fill the great markets of our cities and towns. Machines holding as high as 60,000 eggs at a filling. Just think of it. 4,000 hens to do the work of that one machine, which is looked after by the attention of one man not over an hour each day. The poultry fancier has made possible the diffusing of the best in poultry literature to one and all. The great poultry and farm journals which the country supports were made possible by him, and, in fact, are largely supported by the fancier. The utility man takes advantage of all these helps; in fact, looks to them largely for his guidance.

Then we must not lose sight of the beauty part of it. For there is no one, we believe, so completely engrossed in the making of money that he does not enjoy the beautiful in nature. Most of us make our money for the purpose of spending it in the pursuit of pleasure and happiness.

Why not double this pleasure by having the pleasure right along with the making of the money. Flocks of pure-bred poultry of any variety should be a pleasure for any one to handle; on the other hand, a lot of mongrels could hardly be an incentive to any one, much less a pleasure.

IT'S TIME to feed Pratt's Poultry Regulator; it hastens laying maturity, insures quick and complete moult. That means fall and winter eggs, which bring the big prices. It acts on the digestive and egg-producing organs. Your money back if it fails. 25c, 50c and $1 packages.

RID your houses of murderous blood-sucking mites. Lee's Liquid Lice Killer does the work effectively, easily, at a small cost. Quart 35c, half gallon 60c, one gallon $1.

HAPPY, healthy, hustling hens produce the eggs and bring in the money. Health is more than freedom from disease. It means perfect digestion and good circulation. Conkey's Laying Tonic puts and keeps hens in this condition. 25c, 50c and $1 packages.

DUST THE hens with Lice Powder, a very effective way to get rid of lice. 25c and 50c.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Seeking to Locate $100,000 Concern

Manufacturers Search for Plant. East Alabama St. Sale Reported. Permits for 14 Bungalows.

Real estate agents began looking Thursday for a site with railroad frontage on which to locate the Sox Duplex Cinder Deflector Company, a concern organized recently with $100,000 capital and Henry Schaul as president.

This manufacturing company will make a patented device for keeping cinders out of Pullman and day cars, with Atlanta as headquarters, and an expensive plant will be installed. David Sox is the inventor, and it is said that his device has been adopted by a number of railroads.

While the exact amount to be expended on site and plant has not yet been determined, it is estimated that $100,000 will be necessary.

Alabama Street Sale Reported.

Report in real estate circles Thursday had it that Luther Z. Rosser and J. H. Porter had bought the East Alabama Street property of Colonel Robert J. Lowry at $35,000, or about $1,000 a front foot.

This property is 57 East Alabama Street and has a frontage of 35 to 40 feet. It is improved with a three-story brick building.

Messrs. Rosser and Porter have been associated in a number of interesting deals, notably the purchase of 301 Peachtree Street and the property on North Pryor Street of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company.

A petition has been in circulation for the repaving of East Alabama Street, and property values are expected to take a rise with the improvements. J. Livingston Wright has a parcel east of 57 which he holds for $1,200 a foot.

Williams Street Subdivision.

Twenty-four residence lots will be put on the market August 1 by the A. J. & H. F. West Real Estate Agency. These are in the Atwood tract of six acres on Williams Street, between Tenth and Fourteenth Streets. The land is now being platted.

Small Sales Made.

W. A. Cook, of Senoia, has sold to J. M. Lankford, through J. F. Culpepper, of the L. P. Bottenfield Real Estate Agency, 44 Plum Street, for $2,200. The above agency has sold a farm tract on Mt. Perian Road, near Pace's Ferry Road, for $875; two lots in Clairemont Park, Decatur, for $2,200, and three lots in the Peachtree Highlands subdivision for $3,700.

R. W. Milner, formerly a traveling salesman, and J. W. Reeves, formerly a building contractor, have been added to the sales force of this agency.

Whitehall Street Transfer.

George A. Boynton has transferred to Martha A. Boynton a 46 by 110 footp arcel on Whitehall Street and to Haygood Boynton a 98 by 100 foot property on the north side of Woodward Avenue, 100 feet east of Crew Street. The Whitehall lot is 159 feet northeasterly of Garnett Street.

Permits for Bungalows.

Permits were issued Thursday to Fitzhugh Knox to erect fourteen bungalows in his subdivision on Kensington, Brantley and Hardee Streets and Cleland Avenue, to cost a total of $24,500. Day work will be used.

Building Permits.
BUILDING PERMITS.

$100—Mrs. Walter D. Smith, 141 Nelson Street, additions. Day work.

Wide Range of Sales.

Realty men say they have seldom seen more interesting bonds for title and warranty deeds going to record. Among the papers are the following conveyances:

W. B. B. Richards, administrator of the estate of the late William C. Richards, to R. W. Davis, lot on the south side of West Fourteenth Street, 284 by 150, for $4,269.

The L. S. Huntley Company to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Peachtree Road, 368 feet northeast of the junction of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, 48 by 140, $1,575, and to same, the adjoining lot to the southwest, same size, for the same price.

R. I. Barge to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Ormond Street, 160 feet west of Grant Street, 50 by 141, $2,500.

Charles A. Davis to M. I. Huie and Mrs. Luella Skinner, lot on the west side of Peachtree Road, 1,040 feet northeast of Piedmont Road, 100 by 685, $4,500. Transferred to C. M. Love et al.

Mrs. Eugenie Balch to Mrs. Mamie Cohen, 265 Crew Street, 50 by 200, $3,650.

Lois and Nellie Hollingsworth to M. Friedman, lot at the northwest corner of Highland Avenue and Fortune Street, 90 by 120, $4,300.

James E. Brown Company to National Stock Yards Commission Company, lot on the east side of Marietta Street, 67 feet south of Lee Avenue, 74 by 222, $12,607, and to same, southeast corner of Lee and Marietta, 67 by 149, $5,200.

The total of these transactions is $35,176. A few are trades made some time ago, with papers just going to record, but most of them are of recent date.

Successful Auction Sale.

John S. Owens and Gid Hanna are to-day $2,500 better off than they were this time Wednesday, having made this amount on an auction sale at the corner of Park Avenue and Bryan Street, Grant Park section. Less than a year ago they bought a tract for $4,900 and the total in the auction was $7,295. The buy was made from Mrs. Lizzie Hollingsworth through William A. Vernoy, the latter of whom had charge Wednesday. J. W. Ferguson & Son were the auctioneers.

Mr. Hanna and Mr. Owens attributed the success of the sale to effective advertising, the value of the property and plenty of good lemonade.

Lots 1 and 2 were bought by H. A. White for $775 each; lot 3, by J. T. Wallace, for $875; lot 4, by John A. Fritz, for $1,390; lot 5, by Frank Whitley, for $830, and the house and lot, by George B. Beauchamp, for $2,650. Mr. Whitley refused a good profit on his lot immediately after his purchase.

"We could have sold 50 lots if we had had them," declared Mr. Vernoy after the sale.

Renting Meet Postponed.

Renting agents called together in the office of Charles P. Glover will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30, two previous meetings having been postponed. The "single listing system" of houses will be discussed.

New Pharmacy College.

The Courtland Street section between Harris and Cain Streets is soon to have a new college of pharmacy, when Dr. George F. Payne, the proprietor, completes plans for remodeling two double frame houses which he has just bought. Dr. Payne acquired this property from W. I. Webb through G. M. McKinnon, paying $20,000, or nearly $260 a front foot. The lot is on the east side of the street and the dimensions are 77 by 275 feet.

Ponce DeLeon Activity.

Seldom during the year, say the realty agents, is there any trouble disposing of residences on Ponce DeLeon Avenue. This is true alike of the closer-in homes, not far from Peachtree, and the homes near or in Druid Hills. Claude E. Sims, for instance, is doing his share of selling. He reports the sale for Dr. John B. Daniel to J. H. Leversredge, of Montgomery, Ala., of 666 Ponce DeLeon, 50 by 180, for $13,000, and of 532 Ponce DeLeon, only two blocks to the west, to Dr. William Asher for R. C. Taylor, for $10,000. The latter is 55 by 232.

Druid Hills Sale.

Although few homes are offered for sale in Druid Hills, buyers can always be found. O. D. Gorman, Jr., a successful trader with Smith & Ewing, has just picked up a profit in the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road to Mrs. J. J. Morris, for $12,500. This lot is 90 by 150 feet and contains a two-story nine-room brick veneer house. The transaction was handled through the Martin-Ozburn Realty Company.

Exchange of Properties.

H. M. Carlton has traded with a client of R. W. Evans, of the Cheatham Brothers' agency, for 219 East North Avenue, 45 by 150, for $4,900, giving in part payment a vacant lot on Ashby Street, 50 by 300 feet, valued at $1,000.

Auburn Avenue at $58.

Chauncey Smith has bought from a client of John D. Babbage a lot on the south side of Auburn Avenue, between Yonge and Jackson Streets, for $1,500, or at the rate of not quite $53 a front foot. The lot is 26 by 149 1-2.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter somewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

ASK ARREST OF MRS. CRAWFORD

SIXTEEN MEN ACCUSED IN VICE PROBE

LEGISLATOR PROUD OF HIS LIKENESS TO BRYAN

SAM L. OLIVE.

TWO WOMEN IN PERIL OF MOB IN TENNESSEE

Mother and Daughter, Confessed Slayers of Stepchildren, Given Additional Jail Guard.

UNION CITY, TENN., July 11.—Threats of mob violence against Mrs. James Yates and her daughter, Floy Farris, 18, in jail here following the confessed murder of the children of James Yates, caused county officials to-day to place a special guard about the jail. An attempt at lynching is expected to-night.

Mrs. Yates, second wife of James Yates, a prosperous farmer, confessed that she had drowned the two children of Yates' first wife. Her daughter by a former marriage, Floy Farris, was with her, and, according to the story, aided in the crime.

The killing occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Yates found the two children, a boy, 12, and his sister, 10, swimming in a creek that ran through the Yates farm. She ordered them to leave the water. The boy, she said, called her vile names. She became enraged at him, she said, and, seizing him by the throat, held his head under the water until he drowned.

The lad's sister screamed and tried to escape, but was caught by the Farris girl, the woman said, and was drowned as her brother had been.

The children's bodies were found in the creek Wednesday night. Yesterday Mrs. Yates and her daughter were arrested. The woman confessed to-day.

Her husband to-day declared he would use every effort to see that his wife was hanged for the crime.

Can't Bring Himself, Though, to Appreciation of Commoner's Kind of Highballs.

Representative Samuel L. Olive of Richmond is kept mighty busy most of his time nowadays looking like William Jennings Bryan. Generally he makes a first-class job of it.

Not only does Mr. Olive look the part of the Peerless Leader, but he acts it in numerous ways, particularly in speaking.

Olive, admittedly, is the very best orator in the House.

In one way, though, Mr. Olive fears he never shall come to be entirely like the Peerless—for the life of him, the gentleman from Richmond is unable to make grape juice the paramount liquid issue with himself!

Olive is the one man in the House who can overcome the wretched acoustic properties so completely as to make himself heard in every nook and corner when speaking.

He is ingenious in argument, happy in oratorical effect and finesse, and altogether well worth listening to when under full steam ahead on the floor.

The gentleman from Richmond is one of the younger members of the House, but has had considerable Legislative experience. As a consequence, he knows his way around amazingly well. He is popular and influential and regular in his attendance on the sessions, both of the House and his committees.

Because of his marked facial resemblance to Mr. Bryan, Mr. Olive is known to many as "The Boy Orator of the Savannah," and he rather likes it!

Suffragettes Assail King George and Queen

THREE NEW VICE WAR ARRESTS

Man Prisoner Declares He Will Bare the Whole System if Brought to Trial.

As a result of statements made to Chief Beavers Friday morning by Hattie Smith, the young girl who has been held for the Grand Jury in connection with the vice war, Detective Rosser at noon arrested three persons —two men and a woman—who were named by the Smith girl as contributing to her downfall and being involved in her white slavery charges.

The woman is a cousin of Hattie Smith and lives next door, while both Estes and Monroe are in the employ of the Collier Garage at Cone and James Streets, where the Smith girl says she met Lena Barnhardt, who later took her to the Cumberland Hotel.

Says She Went Joy Riding.

In her new statement made Friday morning Hattie Smith declared that she went automobile riding with her cousin, Mrs. White, and Estes and Monroe. The two men were released by Chief Beavers after being giving a copy of charges, and their case set for Tuesday afternoon. The White woman was taken to detective headquarters and will be questioned by Chief Lanford. It was announced by the police that she will be held on heavy bonds.

The arrests of Estes and Monroe are considered by Chief Beavers as the preliminary to the spreading of the dragnet and the arrest of seventeen men, some of them prominent in business, who, it is alleged, are involved. Estes, when arrested, declared that he intends to make a complete confession and throw new light on the situation.

"I'm not going to be the goat," Estes declared. "I am going to open my mouth and tell everything I know about vice, and I'm going to give names. I'm going to name every girl and man that I know have taken automobile rides and gone to hotels for immoral purposes.

Promises a Sensation.

"And I know enough names to stir up an awful racket if they are all arrested, and I know a lot about vice in Atlanta that no one else knows."

Chief Beavers stated that every man whom Estes names in his proposed confession will be arrested and brought before Judge Broyles for trial. The Chief declares that the developments of Friday in the vice war have placed him in a position where he can put a speedy end to the immoral operations of men and women in Atlanta, and he stated that he intends to continue his investigation with increased vigor.

Sensational revelations involving two more downtown hotels and seventeen well-known men, one of them a prominent business man, were made to Chief Beavers and Plainclothes Officers Green and McKibben Friday morning by Corrinne Wilson, the 16-year-old girl who was arrested, together with 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, Thursday night.

The confession of the Wilson girl, which Chief Beavers regards as one of the most important developments of the vice crusade, and which is even more censational than the story of Hattie Smith, came at the close of a long examination of the girl by the police.

Accuses Business Men.

The Wilson girl was definite in her accusations. She furnished the chief with the name of a prominent business man whom she said has contributed to her downfall, and told of three others whose names she does not remember, but whose places of

President Wilson Near Injury as His Automobile Skids

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson had a narrow escape from a serious accident on the return trip from Hanover to-day when his automobile skidded on the newly oiled road and came near crashing into a rail fence.

Robinson, the White House chauffeur, threw on the emergency brakes and stopped the heavy machine just in time to prevent injury to the car or to the President.

The President's automobile attempted to turn aside to allow a heavy dray to pass. The skid chains failed to catch in the oil and the car swung around until it came within a foot of the fence by the side of the road.

The President was thrown slightly to one side of the car, but managed to retain his seat.

Rome Has Coldest Mid-July Day in 600 Years; Storms Rage

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

ROME, July 11.—Italy to-day experienced the coldest mid-July in 600 years. The cold wave has followed a great storm.

The temperature fell below 60 degrees here to-day. Such weather has not been experienced since the summer of 1313.

MESSINA, July 11.—A tempest near the Straits of Messina, accompanied by heavy rainfall, has caused enormous damage in this region. Crops have been destroyed.

COSENA, July 11.—Hurricanes, accompanied by slight earthquake shocks and underground rumblings, have terrified peasants in this region for two days.

'Bloody Breathitt' in Kentucky Car Strike

LEXINGTON, July 11.—The street car strike situation here increased in seriousness to-day. It was reported this morning that the entire system of city and interurban lines would be tied up by a general strike this afternoon. Strikebreakers have been summoned here from Breathitt County, it is stated. Both sides decline to give positive statements.

Mayor Cassidy will take charge of the cars in the event of a general strike, and run them with special police if necessary. Sheriff Scott to-day swore in a large number of special deputies. William Hill, a Chicago strikebreaker, who was injured in a riot Wednesday, is still alive to-day, but he can not recover.

Dog Catcher Job at $10 Day Lures Many

Energetic men with long arms are crowding the office of City Clerk Walter Taylor, seeking the job of city dog catcher, which pays $10 a day while it lasts. Applicants are being examined as to their fitness for this important post by City Marshal Fuller, who has qualified as a dog and dog catcher expert.

Mr. Taylor plans to hire his dog catchers as soon as possible. It is probable that the first of the week will see the hunters searching for unattached canines.

Attorney Found Dead In Woods Near Ensley

BIRMINGHAM, July 11.—The body of James Alexander, an attorney of Ensley, was found in the woods between Ensley and Wylam to-day. Alexander, who was 55 years old, went to Fairfield to attend court on Wednesday. On his return he started to walk to his home, two miles away. It is believed he was stricken with apoplexy and dropped dead in the woods.

Searching parties spent a day and night looking for him.

O. K. LUMBER RATE RAISE.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today held that the proposed advances in rates on lumber, staves and heading on railroads from Memphis to New Orleans were justified.

WOMEN RIOT AT ROYAL CARRIAGE

Gunman, Hired by Militants, Fires Shot From Gallery in the House of Commons.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Many persons were hurt here to-day in street fighting between men and women which followed an attempt by militant suffragettes to attack the carriage in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the city.

The attack followed a wild scene in Lord Street when Miss Jolly, secretary of the Liverpool branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, made a lone raid, smashing hundreds of dollars' worth of plate-glass windows.

The local militant leaders had laid plans for the biggest suffrage demonstration Liverpool has ever seen, because of the presence here to-day of the King and Queen, who are making a tour of England.

Great Precautions Taken.

Extraordinary police precautions had been taken to guard their majesties from attack, as it was feared that the militants, who have been unusually active here of late, would attempt to interfere with the progress of the royal party and perhaps commit actual assault.

Soldiers co-operated with police and detectives in policing the streets and in protecting the King and Queen from the crowds.

Just before the royal party turned into Lord Street Miss Jolly appeared, dashing into the crowd of spectators, and brandishing a poker above her head, she scattered them right and left. Screaming denunciations of the Government, she sent her weapon crashing into the plate-glass windows, doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

Several policemen overpowered her while she struggled with maniacal fury. She was locked up. This incident alarmed the authorities, for it served as a clew that the women planned an active day.

Royal Carriage Attacked.

Half an hour later the attack upon the royal carriage occurred. From a break in the police lines several women ran into the street. They hurled a quantity of suffrage literature into the carriage and one of them seized the door and tried to wrench it open. Another ran toward the horses' heads to stop them.

An equerry leaped to the street and grappled with one of the women, and in an instant the others were seized by policemen. In the meantime, however, supporters of the militants had swarmed to the aid of their sisters and a fight began.

Women attacked men and men retaliated. Fists, clubs and hatpins were the chief weapons. Many were knocked down and trampled. The police made a number of arrests.

Shot Creates Panic In House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—An evident attempt at assassination occurred in the House of Commons to-day when a man in the gallery for spectators drew a revolver and fired hsortly after the session of the House opened. A parliamentary policeman who was nearby grasped the man and wrenched the pistol from his han dbefore he could fire again.

One sensational report which was circulated was that the man was a fanatic on the topic of suffrage and had attempted to assassinate Premier Asquith because of his opposition to the suffrage propaganda. Another report was that the man had been hired by the militants to make a demonstration, and that the bullet was not intended for any one in particular.

U. S. Tennis Players Win Right to Play Davis Trophy Finals

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND, July 11.—The American tennis team today earned the right to meet the winner of the Canadian-Belgian match in the finals for the right to challenge the English players for the Davis Cup.

After vanquishing the Germans in two single matches ytesterday, the American doubles team, comprising Maurice E. McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett, defeated Frederick W. Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschrota, the German team, three sets to one. The score was : 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6.

FOLKSTONE, ENGLAND, July 11. The United States lawn tennis team in the contests for the selection of a challenger for the Davis Cup will meet the Canadian team in the final. This was made possible when R. B. Powell and D. P. Schwengers, of Canada, defeated A. G. Watson and W. H. Duvivier, of Birmingham, in the doubles here to-day by the scores of 6-2, 6-2 and 6-2.

Tifton Slayer to Die on the Gallows

TIFTON, July 11.—I. B. Hall was sentenced by Judge W. E. Thomas this morning to hang on Friday, August 22. The jury returned a verdict of guilty without a recommendation of mercy late Thursday afternoon, after being out more than five hours. I. B. Hall killed Dennis W. Hall May 10.

Charley Farley, a negro, who killed Albert J. Rucker, a negro preacher, on March 21, was given a sentence of eight years in the penitentiary. Appeal for bail pending application for a new trial was denied.

Native Golfers Run Wilson From Links

HANOVER, N. H., July 11.—The quiet and isolation the President so highly prized on the Dartmouth College golf links were rudely broken to-day by the intrusion of a score of native golfers, attracted by the reports that the Chief Executive was taking his daily exercises in Hanover.

Because of what he considers an intrusion upon his privacy, the President probably will go elsewhere in search of vacation to-morrow.

Plans to return to Washington Monday are unchanged.

Clerk Gets 3 Years For Robbing Mails

Federal Judge W. T. Newman Friday sentenced G. R. Jackson, former railway mail clerk, convicted Thursday of robbing the mails while on his run between Atlanta and Augusta on the Georgia Railroad, March 28, 1913, to serve three years in the Federal prison and fined him $1,000.

Jackson's attorney, Colonel Thomas Felder, may make a motion for a new trial.

BIGGER ARMY POST HERE CERTAIN

Garrison's Plan to Centralize Regulars Will Result in Enlargement of Fort McPherson.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Secretary Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

When questioned as to the probable abandonment of Fort Oglethorpe, at Chickamauga Park, Colonel VanOrsdale said he did not believe the War Department would consider its elimination, as it is a splendid strategic point.

Families Fight for Possession of Bride

ANNISTON, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Peel, who were married Wednesday morning, are central figures in a family quarrel to-day.

W. D. Chandler, the girl's father, hurried to the house where the two were stopping and took his daughter home. She now is held a prisoner.

The father of the bridegroom, Samuel Peel, is helping his son in his efforts to recover his bride. He contemplated habeas corpus proceedings, but was advised first to try moral suasion on the father of the bride.

JURY HOLDS POISONING CAUSED DEATH

Doctor to Testify for Widow That He Gave Capitalist Drugs as Stimulants.

The arrest of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford on the charge of poisoning J. B. Crawford was recommended by a verdict of the Coroner of Carroll County, read at the hearing in the famous will case before J. N. Anderson, auditor.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from poison administered by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, and recommend that she be held for investigation by the Fulton Grand Jury.

The inquest was held Thursday in Carrollton. It was an adjourned session of the first inquest on June 12, when the body was exhumed. Dr. H. F. Harris, of the State Board of Health, and Miss Viola Whitman, a woman who lived with the Crawfords after the marriage, were the witnesses.

Dr. Harris testified to finding morphine in the stomach, and that in his opinion Crawford did not die of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs.

Saw Medicine Given.

Miss Whitman testified to seeing Mrs. Crawford give her husband medicine from a small vial.

Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford allowed the verdict to be submitted as evidence, but stated to the auditor that they would later file an objection on the grounds of the inquest not having been legal. They stoutly maintained that before the hearing ends they will introduce positive evidence that Crawford died of pneumonia, and that the morphine found in his stomach was administered by his family physician.

J. S. James, attorney for the heirs-at-law stated he, in all probability, would start action along the line outlined in the recommendation of the Coroner's jury, but that he had not yet determined how soon he would do so.

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Doctor Gave Drugs.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel James announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was illegally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

GIRL PRISONERS TELL MORE OF VICE RING

business she knows. The chief stated that the girl will be taken around the city Friday afternoon to identify the three men, and that they will be arrested at once after being identified.

In addition to the four men named by the Wilson girl against whom charges will be made, she gave the Chief the names of thirteen others with whom she says she and Dora Rothstein have taken auto rides.

These twelve will be subpoenaed as witnesses in the trial of the two girls, which has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, and forced to tell all theyknow about vice. If evidence warranting it develops at the trial, they will be arrested and cases made against them.

Two men named by the Wilson girl as having kept her and the Rothstein girl in the woods for several nights were arrested by the police Friday morning. They are A. C. Dollar, a shoemaker, living at 69 Davis Street, who is held on a charge of disorderly conduct, and W. W. Suttles, assistant yardmaster of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, who is held on a kidnaping charge.

Suttles and Dollar were named also in the statements of the Rothstein girl, who named the Wilson girl as a procurer, and declared she introduced her to the two men.

Wilson Girl Denies Charge.

Corrine Wilson denies the charges made against her by the Rothstein girl and declares that she was led into a life of shame by the latter girl and the two men.

"I met the Rothstein girl at the White City Park last Fourth of July," said the Wilson girl. "I was skating and fell, and she was among the crowd that gathered around me. That is how I met her. We were together all that evening and night in the woods near the park, and the next day we met Suttles and Dollar. Monday night we stayed all night with men at the baseball park.

"Saturday night and Sunday night we spent somewhere in the woods, and Monday night we stayed at the baseball park with some men. Tuesday and Wednesday night we stayed with Dollar and Suttles in an old mill on the Adamsville Road. Yesterday afternoon we came to Atlanta and were arrested last night.

Accuses Her Accuser.

"Dora Rothstein lied when she says I induced her to go with the men. She told me she had been doing it for a long time and that we could have a good time and make some money. I yielded when she told me we could make money, and she introduced me to the men."

The Wilson girl told Chief eBavers also that eight months ago, before she was married, she stayed at a hotel on Broad Street with a man, registering as his wife. She says she is the wife of Andrew Wilson, who now is working in Marietta. She came to Atlanta four weeks ago to visit her mother, who had burned her foot, she said.

Chief Beavers stated that in addition to involving the hotels and the seventeen men, the Wilson girl has told him a lot of things she had heard from other girls. He said she had given him the names of all the girls she knew who made a practice of going auto riding with men and of staying at the hotels with them, and that all of the girls will be brought to headquarters and questioned.

The Wilson girl also gave the chief the names of a number of alleged assignation houses which, she asserted, she and other girls had visited, and all will be thoroughly investigated.

Hearing for Milledge County Bill Tuesday

Milledge County advocates will have their day in court next Tuesday. Senator G. Y. Harrell, of the Eleventh District, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments, has called the Committee to meet at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Senate Chamber.

The new County of Milledge will be the special order.

SEQUEL TO LOVE FOR DOLL

Maternal Instinct Greatly Developed by Teaching Children to Love Their Dolls.

The little child's doll is mother to the most romantic fairy. And in the years that pass, the doll fades into the petals of a June rose, to evolve the most wondrous of all transformations.

And now comes a more serious period when the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best effort can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend, an external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every cord, nerve, muscle and tendon involved.

There will be no pain, none of that nausea or morning sickness, no sensation of distress or strain of expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, thus making the period one of restful days, of peaceful nights and a source of happiest anticipation.

The young, expectant mother must be carefully watchful lest she become absorbed in those mental distresses which ill prepare her for the most important event in her life.

Mother's Friend enables her to avoid all sensation of dread, worry or pain, and thus she is preserved in health and strength to take up the joyful task of motherhood.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at all drug stores at $1 a bottle. Do not fail to use it regularly as directed. Write to-day to Bradfield Regulator Company, 135 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their most valuable little guide book for expectant mothers.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

Mr. Denny does not come to Atlanta often nowadays, but when he does he gets the glad hand, palm up, from many directions!

Byron B. Bower, of Decatur County, than whom among all former Georgia legislators there is not one thanwhomer, is in Atlanta's thrice-happy midst to-day.

This is Mr. Bower's first visit to the Georgia Legislature of 1913-14, and it is the first Legislature since 1898 that he had not proudly claimed membership in.

During Mr. Bower's long and distinguished legislative career he never once missed being recorded as present at roll call, even though it frequently became necessary to halt the well-under-way House proceedings temporarily, the while the gentleman from Decatur had himself so recorded.

Few men, as a matter of fact, ever enjoyed the friendship of his legislative colleagues more universally than Mr. Bower. He is the personification of good nature, and his constituents found him so useful that they kept him in the House until, voluntarily and of his own accord, he decided last year to retire.

One of Governor Slaton's first official acts was to reappoint Mr. Bower a trustee of the University of Georgia. This is a high and coveted honor, but the Governor unquestionably bestowed it worthily.

"The Legislature should take action looking to the suppression of mob law in this State," says The Marion County Citizen.

That is precisely the object of the bill introduced by Mr. Adams, of Hall, providing for a central place of execution for all criminals convicted of capital offenses.

Criminals taken from jails and lynched generally are taken from jails in the smaller counties, where those places of incarceration are weak and not easily defended.

No prisoner ever has been, or ever will be, perhaps, taken from the jail in Fulton County and lynched. It would be well-nigh impossible for a mob to get into that stronghold. When recently two negroes were carried from Atlanta to Forsyth County for execution, it was necessary to send a strong military escort along to make sure they would be legally put to death. A central place of execution would have rendered that precaution and expense unnecessary.

Of course, the Adams bill would prevent mob law only in that one direction, but its passage would help in the solution of the entire problem, no doubt.

Macon Society Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

New Members Added By University Club

The University Club announced Friday the election of the following new members:

G. P. Shingler, Jr., B.S., Mercer University, 1909; graduate in agricultural chemistry, University of Georgia, 1903-1904; S.B., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1906.

ROUMANIA ALSO OPENS WAR ON BULGARIA

Balkan Nation, Attacked on All Sides, Tries to Get Turks to Renew Fighting.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia, and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

5,000 Roumanians Invade Bulgaria.

PARIS, July 11.—A force of 5,000 Roumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgaria.

King Charles has promulgated a proclamation of war against the Bulgarians but it has not yet been approved by the Roumanian congress, which will assemble next Wednesday.

Bulgars Try to Influence Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Bulgaria is trying to provoke Turkey to reopen the war against the Balkan allies in order to save herself from humiliating defeat by Servia and Greece, according to the belief in official circles here to-day.

Word was received here to-day that Bulgarian troops had set fire to Midia, an important port on the Black Sea. It was said that a number of Turks had been massacred there by the Bulgarians.

Greek Army Sweeps All Before It.

ATHENS, July 11.—All of Southern Macedonia now is in the hands of the Greeks. The important city of Demir Hissar was occupied today.

The Greek army is sweeping all before it on its eastern march, and there is a possibility that it may penetrate as far as Adrianople.

DEWBERRY PAYS FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Exactly one year to the very day and hour after the death of his victim, Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing 15-year-old Horace Dodson on Decatur Street, May 27, 1912, expiated his crime on the gallows in the county prison Friday morning. The trap was sprung by Deputy Sheriff John Owens at 11:05 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Dewberry confessed his guilt to Sheriff Mangum at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and later dictated a written confession to the Rev. H. H. Proctor. He said he stabbed young Dodson after Dodson and some other boys had brushed against him.

The negro professed religion and prayed fervently just before he was led to the gallows.

Dewberry mounted the scaffold with a firm step. When Sheriff Mangum asked him if he had anything to death warrant, he replied calmly that he did not.

During the hanging, which was attended by about 25 men, including county officials, newspapermen, physicians and deputy sheriffs, the condemned man's sister who is also in jail, charged with burglary, emitted shrieks which could be heard for blocks around.

Pet Trout Likes to Have Back Stroked

ESTES PARK, CAL., July 11.—"Sunbeam," the pet speckled trout in the fish hatchery at Estes Park, has just recovered from an indisposition caused by stomach trouble or rheumatism.

The fish, now a 3-year-old, and about 11 inches long, is as good an example of gentle and loving trouthood as it is possible to find. It is very fond of being stroked and petted, and will swim around and rub itself against a person's hand whenever a chance is given it.

SLAYING CHARGE FOR CONLEY IS EXPECTED

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery by The Georgian's publication Thursday of the accusation of William H. Mincey, an insurance solicitor, that he had heard the negro boast on the afternoon of the crime of killing a girl.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's connection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Counsel Relies on Mincey.

Attorneys for the defense have expressed themselves as satisfied that Mincey's word is to be relied upon, and that his remarkable affidavit published in The Georgian is true in every particular.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters, and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Lee Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

Homesteading Arid Lands Is Made Easy

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Senate to-day passed a bill, introduced by Senator Pittman of Nevada, providing that the Secretary of the Interior shall designate certain arid lands in Nevada, Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming and New Mexico on which residence shall not be necessary to establish a homestead.

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

ALL BUTTON SLOGANS MUST BE IN SATURDAY

Booster button designed by A. P. Thompson, Jr., of the Crumley Hardware Company.

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"All the time, every time Atlanta, 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city, 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 100, Atlanta.

"The Atlanta spirit, we have plenty, which assures half million in 1920."—Robert S. Link, Abbeville, S. C.

"Get 'Em or Bust."

"Half million or bust."—Carl J. Broome, Douglasville, Ga.

"Hearst's Sunday American did it. Atlanta, 500,000."—Mrs. Belle Tyson.

"God helps Atlanta."—H. L. Owen.

"Atlanta's growth and prosperity has no limit. Nineteen-twenty, half million people."—P. B. Rand.

"Hurrah for Atlanta, magic city."—G. Ford, 40 1-2 North Forsyth Street.

"Prosperity, wealth, opportunity, morality. America's Queen City. Watch Atlanta grow. 500,000 by 1920."—J. K. Tippett, Frederick apartments.

All Express Optimism.

"Success is yours in Atlanta. Half-Million Club. 1920."—A. C. Lanier, 595 North Jackson Street.

"Onward to Atlanta, the Half-Million City, 1920."—Mrs. N. E. Love, 633 Woodward Avenue.

"Atlanta, the Gate City,
With a half-million plan,
And whatever has been called for
She has never failed to land."
—Orie King.

476 Whitehall Street.

J. S. Booth, of 12 West Pine Street, suggests a button with the face of Mayor Woodward on it, and these words around it: "Only one Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."

"We push, Atlanta's Half-Million Club."—George A. Latimer.

"We boost Atlanta. Half Million, 1920. Opportunity, location, organization, co-operation. Come!"—W. W. Tommins, 35 Chatham Street.

Bowden Man Enters.

"Half million souls Atlanta needs and half million souls she's going to have. I'm in the fight for them. Are you?"—G. A. Barr, Bowden, Ga.

W. H. Gattis R. F. D. 6, suggests an emblem of a bee on a flower with the slogan: "Everybody get busy. 500,000 for Atlanta 1920."

A "Little Boy Blue," with a horn and the words, "Blow your own horn. Atlanta!" is the offering of Miss Hester Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

Saloon Men Plead Guilty; Take Fines

MACON, July 11.—After two had been convicted, fifteen other saloonkeepers pleaded guilty in the Superior Court to conducting their businesses for several months before paying licenses. J. J. Quinlan was fined $100 and J. B. Brooks $75, both going to the jury. The others, who pleaded guilty, paid fines ranging from $20 to $35.

When it was understood that Judge Mathews was imposing only nominal sentences on those who admitted their guilt, there was a rush by the defendants to enter pleas.

Motorcycle Racer At Macon Is Killed

While going about 50 miles an hour, and turning the first curve from the grandstand, a pedal scraped the ground and struck a rock. O'Brien was hurled against a fence, striking on his head, his neck being broken and his body badly mangled. The motorcycle was wrecked.

SPEAKER DENIES CHARGES MADE BY LAMAR

Never Knew Him and Was Unacquainted With Morgan, Champ Clark Declares.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark appeared before the Lobby Committee of the Senate today and made a denial that he ever knew or had anything to do with J. Pierpont Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward Lauterbach or David Lamar. The Speaker's declaration was in answer to the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony before the committee, although Lamar finally admitted he never saw Speaker Clark and never had any direct communication with him.

It was the intention of the committee to call Colonel Martin W. Mulhall, but this action was delayed by lengthy testimony given by W. L. Whitman, of Boston, a wool manufacturer. Whitman testified, among other things, that Simon N. D. North, former Director of the Census, was on the pay roll of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers while he was chief statistician of the Census Bureau and while he was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee.

He was clerk of this committee while the Dingley tariff bill was under consideration. Whitman said North received $4,000 a year from the association up to the time he became Director of the Census.

Clark Defends Himself.

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone," said Speaker Clark. "Lauterbach, who acknowledged that he lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed that the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaimed any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and promptly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale a lie, in which he was entirely correct. He and I never in our lives conversed about or in any way mentioned to each other Morgan & Co. nor the Steel Trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever; never authorized anybody else to do so.

Didn't Know Morgan.

"I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never introduced, even casually, to him or to any of them. To my best knowledge and belief, I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron Club banquet.

"I was introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington several years ago in the presence of several gentlemen and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before nor since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever nor about any business matter whatsoever.

"I never had heard of Lamar and knew only by seeing his name in the papers that there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and my name were being bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

Important Reductions in Underwood Bill Made by Upper Branch of Congress

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applies to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or conviet labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

SENATE MAKES GREAT CUTS IN SCHEDULES OF HOUSE TARIFF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 3 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000
Income tax	70,000,000	69,625,000
Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per bushel and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

MISS KATHERINE FORCE AND MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

At 85, Sees Her First Hobble; Dislikes It

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. John McCafferty, 85, of this city, who has been blind for fifteen years, has just seen an automobile for the first time. She also saw a number of hobble skirts, which met with her instant disapproval.

Although several doctors had declared the condition of her eyes hopeless, an operation for the removal of cataracts was successful.

'Dew Bath' Beauty Dance, Society Fad

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A number of society women here seek health or conserve beauty by taking their morning "dew bath" in their own yards or nearby woods. They wear bathing suits and go barefooted. They dance new Greek dances and roll and gambol on the green like children.

Attempt to Blow Up Barracks Thwarted

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., July 11. An attempt was made here to-day to blow up the King Edward Military Barracks by sympathizers of youths who were imprisoned for refusing to do military service.

Electric wires attached to the explosives were discovered and disconnected, thus saving many lives and the building from destruction.

MONEY; STOVE BANK; ALAS!

Young Millionaire Loses Stepmother's Sister, to Whom He Was Reported Betrothed.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

Co-Eds Cheer Wilson For His Skill at Golf

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson has so improved in health in the last three days, and likes his summer home so well that he has decided to stay until Sunday.

While golfing yesterday the President putted neatly, almost from the edge of the turf, and a party of co-eds from the Dartmouth Summer School clapped their hands in applause.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

Negro's Attempt to Rob Bank Thwarted

CORDELE, July 11.—While L. E. Fenn, assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Cordele, was counting several thousand dollars in cash and currency late last night the electric lights suddenly went out.

Mr. Fenn, fearing robbery, summoned a policeman, who found a negro hiding near the electric switch in the bank building. As the would-be robber was making a quick getaway the policeman fired several shots at him.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 11.—Four doctors and a nurse were called to attend a Pekinese dog which is suffering from a nervous shock. The dog is owned by Mrs. William E. Carter, of Newport.

NEW COUNTY OF CANDLER IS LIKELY

House Amendment Committee Indorses Proposal—Three Others Meet With Rejection.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has cleared the new county atmosphere considerably by recommending the creation of Candler County and turning down bills proposing the new counties of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall.

All of the counties proposed cutting into Tattnall County, and all were argued before the committee at the same time. The committee seems to have believed the Hampton, Evans and Stonewall proposals really were more "dummy" proposition set up to defeat Candler.

The throwing out of Evans, Hampton and Stonewell Counties very materially reduces the total number of new counties likely to get favorable action by the present Legislature.

The Constitutional Amendments Committee will go right along disposing of the dozen or so remaining propositions. Within the next week or ten days it should be possible to forecast with a degree of accuracy exactly what other counties besides Barrow and Candler stand any chance of getting through the Legislature.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Interest in Electric Line.

A meeting of people interested in the proposed electric trunk line from Anderson, S. C., to Atlanta is expected to be called soon by the officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which body has received overtures from the Anderson Chamber. This road would connect up Atlanta with Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Anderson and Norfolk, if the plans of the Duke interests and the Anderson officials are carried out.

Real estate men are watching this development because of its possibilities in opening up new territory to the north of Atlanta and bringing in settlers from the other States.

Finish Peachtree in Three Weeks.

Repairs to Peachtree will be completed within three weeks, according to a statement of Shelby Smith, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The convicts have reached Peachtree Creek on their southward tour from Buckhead and have turned back to complete that part of the job. After finishing both sides they will begin at Peachtree Creek and work southward.

Chairman Smith declared that the machines now being used are capable of doing the work of 100 men, and that another labor-saving device, in the shape of a pulverizer, had been bought to break up the soil and road material. Hand labor is now being employed to do the pulverizing, and the work is necessarily slow.

Completing Healey Steel.

United States flags have been run up on the steel frame of the Healey Building, denoting that the first girders of the sixteenth and last above-ground story have been installed. This is a favorite performance among construction gangs—to hold an informal celebration when the last floor is reached.

Not only is the Healey Building going up fast in steel, but Stone Mountain granite has made its appearance at the base and soon will rise above the fences that inclose the structure. It will go 15 feet, where terra cotta will begin. Two stories are under ground.

William T. Healey, the owner, declares that although the building was two months late in starting, he is satisfied with the progress made.

Hurt Building's Arcade.

The unique entrance arcade of the Hurt Building is rapidly taking place. This is to be two stories high and is located in the apex of the triangular lot on which the structure stands, at the junction of Edgewood Avenue and Exchange Place. Handsome stone slabs are being put in place around the sides of the arcade. As for the rest of the building, it is progressing nicely. The exterior is almost completed, and soon the workmen will go inside to put on finishing touches.

Although the Hurt Building is not due to be opened before October 1, it is declared that leases have been signed for most of the space and that there will be no trouble filling the structure. The same is true of the Healey Building, which will not be completed until some time after January 1, 1914.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $50, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

(Affidavit) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Note—Mrs. Garvin has seven children.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. STATESBORO HAS LIVE UNION OF FARMERS

Bulloch County Town Supports One of State's Best Agricultural Colleges.

STATESBORO, GA., July 11.—Filling the large auditorium of the First District Agricultural College to its capacity Bulloch County farmers rallied to the call of the Farmers' Union and to the standard bearer, Charles S. Barrett.

L. M. Rhodes, of Tennessee, delivered one of the greatest addresses ever heard here. The crowd showed its appreciation by applause.

The Bulloch County Union is one of the best in the State, due largely to the efforts of Professor O. T. Harper, of the Agricultural College, a tireless worker for the farmer.

Another factor is President E. C. J. Dickens, who took charge of the college after it had run down to a handful of students, and built it up until it ranks as a leader. It has an enrollment equal to one-sixth of the total of the eleven district agricultural colleges in the State. Scientific farming, mechanics and domestic science are taught.

A magnificent brick building has been erected. It was designed and built by the students.

The farm of about 120 acres resembles an experiment farm after the experiment has proven a success. Finer corn could not be found anywhere. Other crops are as good. Bulloch farmers call it their school. It will not be long until reservations will have to be made a year in advance.

Statesboro is a progressive and up-to-date little town. On every hand new buildings are going up. Old ones are being remodele.

There is a magnificent three-story office building, covering a quarter of a block, which would be a credit to any town of five times the population.

There are good department stores. One is three stories. It covers a space of about 100 by 150 feet. The other big department store is only two stories high, but covers a space 150 by 150 feet, with a large warehouse in the rear.

An odd feature of this store is that the center, with a frontage of about 25 feet, is the First National Bank, of which the head of the store is president. On either side of the bank are entrances to the store.

Either of these stores would be appreciated in Atlanta or any other city.

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike Riley Rules for Year Over Younger Members of Famous Irish Tribe.

Chief Michael Riley hunched up his shoulders, stuck his finger in his mouth, and tightened his grip on the collar of his dog, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

Chief of Younger O'Haras.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Hara at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Now, for a year, Mike Riley, the 4-year-old son of Pete Riley, one of the leaders of the clan, will guide the destinies of his juvenile subjects.

Has Brogue and Temper.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

Bijou Actors Delight Federal Prisoners

The players at the Bijou Theater this week held the boards Thursday at the Prison Auditorium, where they enacted "Along Broadway," much to the delight of the hundreds of men behind the walls.

Among those who gave the prisoners the benefit of their talents were Will Stanton, Miss Thornton and Miss Rosalind May. The tabloid was given under the direction of Mr. Labridy. The performers were assisted by the Bijou orchestra.

Aerial Liners to Ply From London to Paris

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—The first regular passenger airship service in England is being planned. New semi-rigid dirgibles will be built with a speed of 60 miles an hour.

It is proposed to provide services from London to Brighton, Birmingham and other English cities and also to Paris.

Aid Solicited for Hightower Family

Members of local charitable organizations are soliciting aid for the family of Robert Hightower, the daring Confederate officer, said to be dying of some strange mental disease. The Hightower family, 247 Cooper Street, is said to be in destitute circumstances.

According to physicians, the aged veteran is near death.

TAX REFORM IS GEORGIA'S HOPE SAYS SLATON

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Agreed More Money Is Needed.

"Revenues and expenditures of Georgia must balance," declared Governor John M. Slaton Thursday night. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, and W. H. Burwell, Speaker of the House of Representatives, concurred.

Members of the Georgia Legislature and of the Chamber of Commerce, 700 in all, voiced their hearty approval in the great ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club.

The occasion was a reception to the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," said Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the guests applauded noisily.

Governor Slaton and the heads of the legislative arm of the State government seized the chance to express their conviction that Georgia is confronted with one of the most serious problems of its history—a deficit in the State Treasury. It was the unanimous opinion that the Legislature is able to solve the problem.

"The revenue and expenditure of Georgia must square," said Governor Slaton to the diners. "When I tell you that in one of our State institutions, where girls are taught to cook and to sew and to make happy homes for Georgians, it is necessary to put fourteen girls in a room, you will see the need of greater revenues. When I tell you that the Technological School is offered $100,000 worth of the most modern machinery if only we can provide housing for it, and when I tell you that the Agricultural College at Athens is in sore need of funds, you will see the need of greater revenues.

"The man who is paying 10 cents on the dollar while his neighbor is paying 20 cents on the dollar in taxes ought to be made to increase his payments. An increase of only 20 per cent in taxable values in Georgia means $180,000,000, which means $900,000 added revenue—enough to supply all the State institutions and pay all the debts."

SUFFRAGE MEET ENDS; WOMEN ENCOURAGED

Members of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association closed Thursday night one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The fight started in the Legislature after the action of the Senate in denying the women the right to meet in the Capitol and the dissension with the Atlanta Civic League have served to bring the cause strongly before the people. More interest was manifested by the public generally in the convention than in any suffrage gathering of recent years.

About 50 women attended the business sessions of the convention. Their enthusiasm and willingness to fight to obtain their rights, shown by their stand before the Legislature and in the quarrel within the ranks, has given an impetus to the cause that is expected to aid them to obtain the 1,000 members they have set as their mark for 1914.

Press Bureau Is Indorsed.

Two propositions for spreading the suffrage movement were indorsed at the final session. A press bureau, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was organized, and expects to begin its work of education immediately.

Volunteers will be secured in every town in the State to furnish live, local news of the suffrage movement to the country papers, and a central bureau will be established in Atlanta to handle the suffrage news of the Capitol.

Miss Augusta Howard, of Columbus, proposed the organization of a "Men's Suffrage League," similar to organizations now existing in other States, which met with approval. No official action on the proposition was taken, but it is probable that the executive committee will endeavor to complete the organization of the league.

Reports Show Progress.

The reports of department superintendents showed that the movement has gained in Georgia to a greater extent than is generally supposed. These reports were made by Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. May C. Moore, Mrs. S. C. Osburne, Mrs. Mamie Matthews and Miss Katherine Koch.

Three addresses on suffrage, delivered before a crowd that filled the House of Representatives, brought the convention to a close Thursday night. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. W. A. Felton, of Cartersville, who made her first public appearance as a suffragist. Other speakers were Attorney Leonard Grossman and Miss Augusta Howard, founder of the State association and its president for six years.

On invitation of the DeKalb County Association, the convention voted to meet in Decatur in 1914.

Central Officials at Macon Depot Site

MACON, July 11.—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central and the Central of Georgia, and W. A. Winburn and A. R. Lawton, vice presidents of the latter road, stopped in Macon several hours to inspect the site chosen for the erection of the union station at Cherry and Fifth Streets.

Committees from Council and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the railroad in arranging settlements with owners on Cherry Street who claim their properties will be damaged by the closing of the street.

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

OBITUARY.

W. T. Preston, aged twenty-four, died Thursday night at the family residence, 124 West Pine Street. Funeral services were held at the residence Friday morning at 10 o'clock, interment being in Atlanta Park.

John S. Tribble, aged thirty-one, died Thursday night at the family residence on Campbellton Road. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and interment will be at South Bend Cemetery. A wife, three children, six brothers and one sister survive him.

W. D. Short, aged thirty-one, died early Friday morning at the residence of his father, E. P. Short, Church and Spring Streets, East Point. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Westview. The Junior Order of United American Mechanics will have charge of the funeral. The deceased is survived by his wife, two small children, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Short; five brothers, H. E., H. M., D. N., E. T. and Wingfield Short, and three sisters, Miss Mary and Elsie Short, of East Point, and Mrs. T. R. Cheney, of Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTEST FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STIRRING

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

Beverly Swanton, 52 Beecher Street.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

WILSON'S MONEY BILL PRAISED BY BRITISHERS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Samuel Untermyer, of New York, who spent a busy week here, en route to Paris and Baden Baden, where he will remain a month, has been prosecuting an inquiry among banking circles—unofficially, of course—respecting the British feeling about the new American currency bill.

It is significant that Mr. Untermyer has been much in company with Colonel E. M. House, of Texas, during the week. These inquiries will be further pressed during Mr. Untermyer's stay in Paris.

When seen by The Georgian correspondent Mr. Untermyer admitted seeing many famous bankers here. He made this statement exclusively to The Georgian as a result of his investigation:

Bill Carefully Studied.

"The proposed new currency bill is surprisingly well understood here. It has been carefully studied and digested, and is favorably regarded. The fundamental principle of a Government currency issued and controlled directly by the Government is universally regarded as sound.

"I had rather expected that English traditions of banking would create a prejudice against so radical a departure, but find that this is not true, and that the question has been considered on its merits and meets with approval.

"The sentiment that has been sought to be created against it by the press bureaus of certain great New York financial interests is not shared here. The peril to the country from the vast concentration of the control of credit in a few hands that has assumed such gigantic proportions in past few years is recognized here as a stern reality."

Will Halt Credit Checks.

"This bill will go far to check further encroachments upon the free flow of credit, but it will not in itself do all that is needed. It will have to be supplemented by a revision of the banking act incorporation, by regulation of clearing house associations and by a prohibition against interlocking directories and other remedial measures. But these can wait. The urgent need of the moment is this new currency system."

Macon Contracts for $110,000 High School

MACON, July 11.—A contract for the erection of a new Boys' and Girls' High School has been awarded by the Board of Education to a local contractor, the building completely equipped to cost about $110,000.

A. L. Miller, at present arbitrator for the United States in Eucador, was re-elected president of the board.

Sues for $2,000 and Obtains Just $27.30

COLUMBUS, July 11.—A jury in the City Court returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $27.30, being the amount of premiums paid in the case of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Richardson's death occurred October 25, 1912, and the investigation of the police led to the announcement that he had committed suicide. When the father of the young man demanded payment of the $2,000 policy the insurance company refused.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value, and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

"Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse, I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bullhound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

"Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—
Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

T. Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

Making It Worse.

Painter: "How do you like the picture?"

Critic (sardonically): "H'm; it might be worse."

Painter (offended): "Sir, I hope you will withdraw that statement."

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Ross," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. "And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked.

The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.

Motordrome Purse.

One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.

No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.

No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.

No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.

Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.

Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.

No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.

No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Eighth Event.

No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Ninth Event.

Seven miles final of the Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Tenth Event.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COL-umn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared to-day that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Dooin and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. O." made a big hit up there and will be given a Butte match with one of the star middleweights before long. Walsh likes Butte as a boxing town so well that he is going to take Joe Mandot up there to fight in the fall. Mandot will be here to join Walsh in a few days.

TAGGART DECLARES HE IS NOT "ANGEL" FOR TRACK

FRENCH LICK, IND., July 11.—"What? Me the 'angel' for the Mineral Springs Jockey Club? Quit kidding me!" shouted Thomas Taggart, when interrogated as to the reports printed in Chicago newspapers that he had guaranteed purses offered by the Jockey Club so that the meeting would not "blow up."

Mr. Taggart pronounced the report as "a pure fabrication" or "untruth," declaring he had no connection whatever with the Porter races.

CLARKE WARS ON BRENNAN; ASKED COOPER TO FIGHT

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Manager Clarke, of the Pirates, has filed sworn charges with National League President Lynch, accusing Umpire Brennan of challenging Pitcher Cooper to fight under the Philadelphia grandstand after Tuesday's game with Philadelphia. Cooper is said to have accepted and Brennan was absent.

Clarke wired President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club this information to-day, together with the information that the fine of $25 imposed on Cooper had been paid under protest.

LYNCH NOTIFIES UMPIRES; GAMES TO GO 9 INNINGS

NEW YORK, July 11.—President Lynch, of the National League, to-day notified his umpires that in the future all teams would be required to play nine full innings in each game, or as many as possible unless prevented by rain or darkness. There will be no more early starts and early stops by agreement of managers and umpires.

INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the seasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in a tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he fails in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a little in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., July 11. Pitcher Neihaus and Shortstop Callahan, of the local Southern Michigan League team, have been sold to the St. Louis Nationals. Neihaus is a left-hander who has won 18 games and lost 4 this year.

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State championship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map.
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

A football team was fighting on a bloody battle ground,
And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound.
When suddenly they halted in the middle of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Peploski.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

Mr. Chance is a wonderful guy if he can reflect upon the Chase deal without delivering unto himself a swift kick.

Mr. Comiskey has established diplomatic relations with Mr. Bryan, but there is no truth in the rumor that he has taken to unfermented grape juice.

If Mr. Bryan can induce the National Commission to drink grape juice it will be recorded as the greatest diplomatic feat in the archives of history.

The practice of stalling to avoid a beating may be inside baseball, but it has a distinct shade of yellowness.

A motorcyclist in Pittsburg jumped the track and was rendered defunct, thereby making the meet a grand success.

Australia may beat us at cricket, but it will be at least a couple of years before the world's series is held in Melbourne.

We shudder to think of Connie Mack's mental strain as he hesitates between Bender and Plank for the first game of the world's series.

KICKS.

When the game is going badly you can bet your final dollar

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse. Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the middle cushion, is acknowledged by all experts to be the "keystone king" of the American League, but when any authority sets out to prove that the Columbia graduate is the peer of his contemporaries he never rushes to the guide books for statistical information on the subject.

A good way to find out how swift a fielder is, some persons think, is to take the number of double plays a man starts. Up to July 1 the American Leaguers had rid their systems of 380 dual killings, the man who started most of them being Collins. He took the initiative in sixteen of his team's two-ply massacres.

The Johnsonites' swiftest shortstop, according to the performances in the Double Play League, is Ray Chapman, of the Naps. He inaugurated a dozen plays that resulted in the retirement of a pair of runners. In figuring Chapman's speed as an inaugurator of double plays, it should be remembered that he has been often absent from the Naps' line-up because of injuries, and it is possible that had he played all season long, as has Collins, he would have started just as many two-ply killings.

Baker Leads Third-Sackers.

The third basemen who have started the greatest number of double plays are Frank Baker, of the White Elephants, and Ivan Olson, of the Naps. Each man has inaugurated six. George Stovall, of the Browns, shows the way to the first-sackers, having been the pioneer in seven dual massacres.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 10. Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

The Browns, just at present, are leading in manufacturing double plays, with the Washingtons a close second, and the World's Champion Red Sox last.

U.S. BETTER OFF IN MONEY THAN IN TRADE---FORBES

By B. C. FORBES.

* * *

Baron Kato, one of Japan's diplomatic, who took part in the Portsmouth peace negotiations, writing of his experiences, declared that what impressed him most was the difference between Japanese and American journalists. It would take a native interviewer half an hour to perform his salaams and express all sorts of laudatory sentiments before leading up to the subject on his mind, whereas the American correspondent would saunter in with his hat on, a cigar in his mouth "at a conversational angle," dray up a chair and address him thus: "Hello, Kato; how's she heading?" the she meaning, of course, the peace dickering.

* * *

In this instance she refers to the general financial, stock market and business situation. Wall Street's mission is to gauge how "she's heading."

* * *

* * *

I'm told on the highest authority that an important announcement concerning the disposal of Union Pacifis' holdings of Southern Pacific will be made soon. The news may not have an electric effect upon the stock market. One or two issues, indeed, may be depressed. The announcement may not be confined to Southern Pacific, but may include a reference to Baltimore and Ohio, although on this point definite information was lacking last evening.

* * *

The general monetary position has been strengthened. The country banks are now thoroughly aroused to the need for caution. They are husbanding their cash to the extent of a million dollars a day, and curtailing loans even more, whereas, formerly they were expanding credits recklessly. The pruning process will probably result in a good many mercantile failures.

* * *

France formulated a plan at New Year for drawing from New York millions of gold every two months, regardless of foreign exchange conditions. The first shipments were made on January 7; the second movement began early in March, the third early in May, and now the fourth is under way, $5,000,000 having been engaged this week. A total of $40,000,000 has been taken from us—at a stiff price. That France will make further raids upon our supply of the yellow metal is accepted as certain. Meanwhile, Germany is making desperate and successful efforts to accumulate gold at a similar pace. The Reichsbank to-day holds the largest stock of bullion in its history.

* * *

The Transvaal strike, which threatens to stop the inflow of new gold, is virtually over. The outbreak among the negro laborers reported yesterday can easily be handled, but the white miners know no bounds when once their ire is raised, and the authorities hesitate to shoot them both for humane and political reasons.

* * *

The prospects are that the United States will be able to get through the fall without serious monetary stringency.

* * *

Labor troubles loom up at home and in high financial circles uneasiness exists on this score.

* * *

The stagnation on the Stock Exchange is accepted in certain very responsible circles as indicating that the market has been liquidated to the last share, and that the next decisive movement will be upward, although no immediate or drastic action is looked for.

* * *

The renewed fighting in the Balkans is deplored, but international complications are not expected. . . .

* * *

The "Lamar" revelations have injured certain individuals more than stocks. Incidentally, the Stock Exchange, in endeavoring to forbid members to accept orders from this self-confessed scoundrel, is attaching to him an importance which he does not possess. Cannon should not be turned on "vermin," to borrow J. P. Morgan's expression.

* * *

The Pittsburg failures will have more effect abroad than at home, as the Kuhns disposed of many irrigation and other bonds to Europeans. Following so closely on the heels of the Frisco fiasco, this incident will have most unfortunate influence. And to turn Europeans against American securities is no light matter. It is infinitely serious. We need European capital. We must have overseea buyers of our securities, for thus only can we offset our adverse "invisible" financial balance.

* * *

Crops are doing well enough.

* * *

To conclude a rambling survey, the stock market ought to be nearly out of the woods, but liquidation in business and in labor is likely to follow the liquidation that has been suffered by securities. That would seem to be how she's heading.

Rake With 40 Teeth Given to President

WINSTED, CONN., July 11.—Following a custom inaugurated by his grandfather, who presented to Abraham Lincoln a hay rake, Marshall W. Stedman, a rake maker, of Tyringham, Mass., has sent a rake with 40 teeth, the whole handsomely grained and varnished, to President Wilson.

GIRL FAN, MAIMED BY FOUL, STAYS OUT GAME

ZANESVILLE, OHIO, July 11.—Miss Cora Bauer, aged 30, of this city, was struck in the face by a foul tip while watching a ball game here yesterday. Her nose was split and three teeth were knocked out. She may be disfigured for life. Nevertheless, after being treated by a physician, she decided to stay out the game.

600 ATLANTA SOLDIERS IN CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely—Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

Hotel Sleuth Shoots Himself Cleaning Gun

While oiling and cleaning his revolver Thursday afternoon, G. W. Walker, special detective at the Georgian Terrace, accidentally shot himself in the leg just below the knee.

An hour later he walked to the taxicab which took him to Grady Hospital. Dr. A. G. DeLoach said the wound was slight.

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

MAYOR'S ROOSTER MUST GO.

BOSTON, July 11.—A neighbor complained anonymously that Mayor Fitzgerald has been violating a city ordinance by keeping a rooster in the henyard at his home, and the Board of Health ordered that he must kill or remove it.

Frank Hammond Gets Office in T. M. A.

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of The Footlight, a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge and deputy grand president of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

McKee Not Going to Postmasters' Meet

Postmaster Hugh McKee said Friday he would be unable to attend the annual convention of postmasters at Denver this month.

Mr. McKee instead will spend part of his vacation in New York. He will go there July 22 to meet his daughter, Miss Jessie McKee, on her return from abroad.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamship companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" asked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certaintly," replied Mr. Strachan, who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition, but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quiz ended.

Prison Probe Brings Slaying Indictments

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—Two indictments for murder in the second degree and two for perjury have been returned by the Hamilton County Grand Jury after a probe of the county workhouse.

The murder indictments are the result of the death of a negro, who, it is alleged, was too severely punished.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Forsyth Busy This Week.

Attendance this week at the Forsyth is well up to the standard of the busy theater. The house is being well filled at nearly every performance and the several feature acts are winning deserved applause.

Next week's program has already been arranged and includes some delightful acts. The headliner will be Valerie Bergere and company in "Judgment," and among the comedy features will be Britt Wood, an exceptionally clever character comedian.

Grand Pictures Popular.

Motion pictures at the Grand daily from 2:30 until 10:30 have added wonderfully to the popularity of this theater.

The very highest grade of first-run motion pictures is offered, and the program is as good as any that has been exhibited on a screen in the city.

At the Bijou.

"Along Broadway," with Will Stanton and Rosalind May, is filling the Bijou to capacity this week. The performance bristles with breezy action, and the several specialties that stand out with startling distinction are the violin solo by Miss Marguerite Calvert, the juggling of Sam Alburtus and the Tango dance by Ingalls and Hite. For next week another snappy and up-to-date attraction is announced, "Hotel a la Carte."

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the opening of the cotton market the feeling was generally bearish and prices were unchanged to 4 points lower than Thursday's final. The ring was inclined to sell on favorable weather conditions, rains being fairly well distributed over the central and eastern belt.

The Government records show a temperature average in Oklahoma of 98 degrees, which is 4 degrees lower. Temperature average in Texas was 100 degrees, with five stations 100, four stations reporting 102 degrees, nine stations 104 and four stations 106 degrees.

This, together with favorable reports on the condition of the crop issued by Cordill and Habersham King, resulted in a general selling movement after the call. Before the call, however, July and December rallied 2 to 3 points from the opening range.

The ring, Wall Street and brokers representing spot houses sold the market heavily, resulting in prices losing 8 to 12 points from last night's close. Both July and August touched 12c. Summer positions were given no support. This was in part explained by the fact that late months reflected favorable weather and crop news.

During the late forenoon, prices recovered 2 to 7 points of the early decline through more active buying, which seemed to come mainly from a few scattered shorts. The selling, however, continued general.

COTTON GOSSIP

Bulls worked the high temperatures and the boll weevil for all they were worth yesterday, but neither are doing any harm to cotton, according to crop advices.

* * *

A Texas cotton man says that conditions for the crop could not be better. With continued clear, hot weather, he predicts that Texas will produce between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 bales of cotton this year. Rainy weather would do considerably more damage to the plants than high temperatures, because it would promote the spread of activity in the boll weevil. The boll weevil has done but very little damage so far.

* * *

* * *

According to quoted views of members of the Georgia Legislature, the crop outlook for Georgia, which ranks next to Texas, is the largest producer of cotton in the belt. They say that conditions are much better than the previous season, and if the present outlook is fulfilled the yield will rival the record crop of 1911, when Georgia picked 2,784,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Hayward & Clark: The weather map is favorable and shows generally fair in Texas; no rain; cloudy rest of the belt, with fine general rains in Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather; also in eastern part of Texas, and cool wave coming on the belt, which should bring general rains on Texas in about six days.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "Very hot weather covers the western cotton belt and friends of the staple are exploiting high temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma as good reason why the cotton market should continue steady. Wednesday and Thursday the high temperature average for the State of Oklahoma was 102 degrees. Yesterday twenty-two Texas stations reported high temperatures, ranging between 100 and 106 degrees, seven of which were 104. Such temperatures, if sustained many days, would, of course, play havoc with the crop as well as with the boll weevil, but both States report periods of even higher temperatures practically every year, and for this reason talent and trade alike refused to become excited over the hot temperature talk yesterday.

"After many days of waiting, Houston at last reported the arrival of the season's first new bale. It comes one month later than the first new bale of 1911 and eight days later than the first new bale of 1912. In this connection, bulls contend that the lateness of the first new bale is proof positive of the all-round lateness of the 1913-1914 cotton crop. Bears, however, contend that while the early producing section of Texas is late, the heavy producing sections are not late at all, and that the Texas movement will be under full swing earlier this year than usual. In the meanwhile, outside influences seem to have combined to reduce contract trading to a minimum. In the first place the talent, confronted by the threat of prohibitive legislation, is in no mood for enterprise. In the second, the actual cotton trade foresees many complications in the event the prohibitive tax should become a law. In the third, commission men are kept busy explaining the effect of the tax to their clients."

* * *

Cordill wires from Memphis: "Yazoor City to Greenwood good to excellent. Greenwood to Clarksdale, Clarksdale to Memphis plant well developed, fruiting nicely. There is some small cotton, but greater part large and well developed. Locally the crop is excellent, clean and thoroughly worked. No excess or deficiency of moisture. Weather warm and part cloudy. Perfect cotton-growing weather. Good rains and scattered showers have fallen over Arkansas and Mississippi where needed.

* * *

Habersham King says: "Briefly, I would say that I consider the developments of the week as favorable to 85 per cent and a standoff on 15 per cent. Since Monday temperatures moderated favorably in the dry districts and are now around normal so that unfavorable conditions seem checked for the present."

* * *

Forwardings from Liverpool to mills this week only 37,000, against 62,000 last year, points to bearish visible to-day.

Houston says second new bale reported ginned on July 10, and started for sale at New Orleans.

Study to Know the Profitable From the Unprofitable Hen

It seems to me we can not overestimate the importance of finding out whether our hens are paying a good profit or not; and which ones are the drones and cutting down the profit. The only way to do this is to keep a record. Under present conditions, when almost everything that goes to help produce a dozen eggs, comes the necessity for stricter economy and the knowing of what it takes to produce the eggs. We must turn over a new leaf and open an account with the hens. We must charge them with what they consume, and at the same time give them credit for all eggs laid at the market price, whether they are sold or consumed by the family. It is not much work, if you but have a little account book in which to keep it. Five minutes a day will do it. It may pay you to go to the little extra trouble in ascertaining just where you stand.

The owner who has, by the use of the trap-nest, found out the egg-producing abilities of his flock, has taken the first step toward separating the unprofitable hen from the profitable one, a thing that every one who keeps hens should be able to tell or know.

We are often asked the question as to what constitutes a profitable hen? It is one that will pay for her feed, interest on the investment of roosting house, labor taken to care for her, and a profit besides. Of course, the cost of feeding a hen will vary quite a little, owing to the different sections of the country in which it is kept. Feed is quite a little cheaper in some places than others. It is but little trouble to count the cost of feeding ten or twenty hens. If you buy the feed, it is easily put down. If you are raising your own feed, simply measure out a barrel or two of it, putting down the price it is worth, then go to work feeding it.

Farmers are beginning to appreciate the worth of the really laying hen. They are beginning to find out that it does not pay to even harbor one that is too old to lay well or that never did lay much. All such should be cut right out of the game. And there is no way so good to determine that fact as by the trap-nest and the little record book.

With the ever and rapidly-increasing values of farm lands it is but natural that the farmer should look about him for some plan by which he can increase his income without greatly increasing his farm expenses, or investing in more land to do it with. The farmer has this very factor in the hen, if she is a good one. And there are good ones if we will but take the trouble to get acquainted with her. There are but few farms in the country but what have from one to three acres of land going to waste, or rather that are not being utilized. This is about the house and outbuildings. If this could be fenced and subdivided and a lot of good hens located therein it would soon begin to give revenue rather than be an expense to keep free from weeds and trash. I do not think it advisable for the farmer to try to run all to poultry, but just a hint to them that may help them to raise money for the taxes and various odds and ends that take the cash, leaving the regular farm crops in tact for other purposes. Tests show us that hens have made a record of 200 eggs per year; some have done even better than that, but a good many have done that well. Now it is an old saying that what has been done can be done again, so let us not fool away our time keeping hens that will only give us the old farm average of 75 eggs per year. That kind just about pays for its keep, so that if we get rid of them and keep the 150 to 200-egg kind then we get the profit that is due us. A flock of good, thoroughbred hens, say 300, should give us a profit of $400 to $500. Of course, you read of people making $500 from ten hens and a rooster, but that is from real fancy stock in which there is all kinds of possibilities, but on the other hand, there is the chance that you will not make anything from them. We have reference to the commercial kind, well managed; but it can not be done with the hit-or-miss scrub kind. They are too much like the Irishman's flea, you get your finger on them and they are not there.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We anticipate no pronounced decline and prefer purchases on moderate recessions.

Sternberger, Sinn & Co.: We do not look for any big change one way or the other for the immediate future.

Logan & Bryan: We are disposed to the view that the long side on sharp declines will possess the greatest attractions.

Stock Markets

By CHARLES W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Considerable irregularity was shown in the price list at the opening of the stock market to-day. The railroad situation in the East, involving a possible strike, caused some selling on account of reports that the general committee, which will meet in this city to-morrow, will probably refuse to entertain Federal intervention. On the other hand, optimistic news came from the Balkans.

Among the losses were Amalgamated Copper, ⅛; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; American Car and Foundry, ½; American Telephone and Telegraph, ¼; Southern Pacific, ½; United States Steel common, ¾; Chino Copper, ⅝; Northern Pacific, ⅝; Union Pacific, ⅜.

STOCK GOSSIPS

The New York Financial Bureau says: "We would buy the standard issues conservatively where good opportunities are offered with the intention to accept moderate profits. Trading movements in the general list will be seen to-day. Information channels are expecting further improvement."

* * *

Look for a profesional traders' market for the present. Would buy the active issues on any fair reaction for moderate profits. There is a good demand for standard dividend-paying stocks on all declines for investment. The odd lot buying by people of moderate means continues, and it looks as if speculative holdings are gradually being taken over by the investors throughout the country.—Potter.

Wool Sales Reflect Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinos. Tariff legislation and the holiday season at the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, July 11.—General rains over the Northwest on both sides of the international line, caused a more bearish feeling to pervade the wheat market early to-day and prices showed recessions of ¼ to ⅜. Argentine shipments for the week were only about one-fifth of the shipments for the corresponding time last year. There was a decrease in the visible supply of that country. Northwestern receipts were 109 cars, against 110 cars a year ago.

Corn was ½c lower on better weather. Oats were ⅜c lower in sympathy with the other grains, coupled with heavy offerings.

Provisions were stronger.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders regarded the rally yesterday as only natural following a four days' decline. Bears are looking for lower prices with a continuation of the liberal hedging sales. One cash handler looks for a free movement, believing tight money will force the grain to terminals and export business will be the best possible thing for the country.

Corn traders were mixed last night, most of them being bearish. Many of the longs have unloaded. The bulls figure that the market is heavily oversold and had reports from Kansas that the crop has been damaged by the recent high temperatures.

There are many bears in oats who believe that the rally yesterday was only temporary. Cutting of early oats has commenced in Southern Illinois and yields are said to be light. Chief argument of bears is that stocks of old oats are too large for a big bull movement at present.

* * *

Grand Forks, N. Dak., wires: "Rain fell from four to six hours yesterday and last night on the parched fields throughout almost the entire northern part of North Dakota. The downpour began in the Minot District about noon and struck Red River Valley about 4 o'clock. More than an inch fell in places. Three days of hot winds had left the soil without moisture and caused heavy damage to crops. With the heavy rain, however, the crop is in condition to weather the remainder of the season without serious difficulty."

* * *

Mitchell, S. Dak., wires: "Heavy rain commenced late yesterday and continued last night, the downpour extending 67 miles west of the Missouri River and 100 miles north. Wheat harvest is two weeks away and this rain will make a big improvement."

* * *

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: "Wheat—The weather map shows general rains over the entire spring wheat country, parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The country continues to offer wheat to arrive in liberal quantities and this factor creates a good deal of local bearishness.

"Corn—With the exception of rain in Nebraska and Iowa, there was no rain in the corn belt, with fairly high temperatures again in the southwest. Judging from the strength shown late yesterday, indications point to considerable liquidation having taken place and a fair short interest created. We look for light receipts and a good demand.

"Oats—There seems nothing bullish in the news at the moment, but there has been a pretty good evening up during the recent decline. Covering yesterday brought about a good rally from the low point.

"Provisions—Receipts of hogs considerably under the estimates, with opening prices 5c lower at the yards. July pork is very strong and a fair outstanding short interest is indicated."

KENTUCKY CROP PROSPECTS RUINED BY LONG DROUTH

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 11.—Drouth during the last month has ruined the prospects for the best crops Kentucky ever produced. The report of the Department of Agriculture of the State said on July 11 that prospects for record crops were splendid.

The report made public to-day said every crop in Kentucky will be short.

Poultry, Pet and Live Stock

Poultry Business Is Indebted to Fanciers Fifty Years Ago

Fancier Has Done the Slow and Plodding Work Which Has Taken Years to Accomplish.

How often we hear people say, "Oh, I do not want anything to do with the fancy part of the chicken business; I am out for utility and I just do not want to have anything to do with the fancy part of the business." Some persons seem to have about the same aversion to the fancy that the small boy does to having his hands and face washed.

They seem to think that that sounds mighty practical and will help to keep them from getting mixed up with the fellows who are always talking about shows and prizes and all such things. Oh, yes, they want good stock, but nothing fancy. The fancier can get along without the utility man just about as well, if not better, than the utility man can get along without the fancier. In reality, they need each other. Where would the utility man be to-day if the fancier had not gotten in his great work for the poultry industry. Just think of it, the fancier has given the country all the pure breeds of poultry from which the utility people have taken their foundation stock that has made them what they are to-day. He brought the Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans and Leghorns from other countries. He really manufactured the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Reds frome other breeds and gave them to us in a shape that has made them of the greatest value to the farmer and market poultryman. Where is there a utility man or farmer who would be willing to blot out all these breeds and go back to where we were 50 years ago? He has given us such a variety that the most exacting along any line of utility work can be supplied with about what his needs require. There is the Brahma or Cochin if a strictly meat breed is desired; or the Leghorn, Minorca or Spanish, strictly for eggs. For the farmer who would like a combination, they have furnished him with the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Red.

So you see it is a question of simply paying your money and taking your choice. The fancier has done the slow and plodding work which has taken years to accomplish, giving it to the utility man all ready to work with.

Of course, the farmer may let the barrs on the Rock get a little irregular, or the comb on the Leghorn become a little top-heavy, the Reds a little mealy in color, yet, in spite of all these little irregularities they maintain their valuable qualities and serve the utility part to a marked degree. The fancier invented the trapnest that egg-production might be increased from an average of 75 eggs annually to 150 or better for the laying breeds; or, for the general-purpose breeds for that matter. He has led the van in giving better houses for the hens that they might produce eggs in winter as well as in summer. The fancier has furnished the country with the best appliances for the economical handling of poultry in great numbers. Take, for example, the incubator; it has been really the solving of the commercial poultry problem of this country. Just think of the hundreds of thousands of chickens and ducks that are annually turned out of these machines to fill the great markets of our cities and towns. Machines holding as high as 60,000 eggs at a filling. Just think of it, 4,000 hens to do the work of that one machine, which is looked after by the attention of one man not over an hour each day. The poultry fancier has made possible the diffusing of the best in poultry literature to one and all. The great poultry and farm journals which the country supports were made possible by him, and, in fact, are largely supported by the fancier. The utility man takes advantage of all these helps; in fact, looks to them largely for his guidance.

Then we must not lose sight of the beauty part of it. For there is no one, we believe, so completely engrossed in the making of money that he does not enjoy the beautiful in nature. Most of us make our money for the purpose of spending it in the pursuit of pleasure and happiness.

Why not double this pleasure by having the pleasure right along with the making of the money. Flocks of pure-bred poultry of any variety should be a pleasure for any one to handle; on the other hand, a lot of mongrels could hardly be an incentive to any one, much less a pleasure.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Seeking to Locate $100,000 Concern

Manufacturers Search for Plant. East Alabama St. Sale Reported. Permits for 14 Bungalows.

Real estate agents began looking Thursday for a site with railroad frontage on which to locate the Sox Duplex Cinder Deflector Company, a concern organized recently with $100,000 capital and Henry Schaul as president.

This manufacturing company will make a patented device for keeping cinders out of Pullman and day cars, with Atlanta as headquarters, and an expensive plant will be installed. David Sox is the inventor, and it is said that his device has been adopted by a number of railroads.

While the exact amount to be expended on site and plant has not yet been determined, it is estimated that $100,000 will be necessary.

Alabama Street Sale Reported.

Report in real estate circles Thursday had it that Luther Z. Rosser and J. H. Porter had bought the East Alabama Street property of Colonel Robert J. Lowry at $35,000, or about $1,000 a front foot.

This property is 57 East Alabama Street and has a frontage of 35 to 40 feet. It is improved with a three-story brick building.

Messrs. Rosser and Porter have been associated in a number of interesting deals, notably the purchase of 301 Peachtree Street and the property on North Pryor Street of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company.

A petition has been in circulation for the repaving of East Alabama Street, and property values are expected to take a rise with the improvements. J. Livingston Wright has a parcel east of 57 which he holds for $1,200 a foot.

Williams Street Subdivision.

Twenty-four residence lots will be put on the market August 1 by the A. J. & H. F. West Real Estate Agency. These are in the Atwood tract of six acres on Williams Street, between Tenth and Fourteenth Streets. The land is now being platted.

Small Sales Made.

W. A. Cook, of Senoia, has sold to J. M. Lankford, through J. F. Culpepper, of the L. P. Bottenfield Real Estate Agency, 44 Plum Street, for $2,200. The above agency has sold a farm tract on Mt. Perian Road, near Pace's Ferry Road, for $875; two lots in Clairemont Park, Decatur, for $2,200, and three lots in the Peachtree Highlands subdivision for $2,700.

R. W. Milner, formerly a traveling salesman, and J. W. Reeves, formerly a building contractor, have been added to the sales force of this agency.

Whitehall Street Transfer.

George A. Boynton has transferred to Martha A. Boynton a 46 by 110 footp arcel on Whitehall Street and to Haygood Boynton a 98 by 100 foot property on the north side of Woodward Avenue, 100 feet east of Crew Street. The Whitehall lot is 159 feet northeasterly of Garnett Street.

Permits for Bungalows.

Permits were issued Thursday to Fitzhugh Knox to erect fourteen bungalows in his subdivision on Kensington, Brantley and Hardee Streets and Cleland Avenue, to cost a total of $24,500. Day work will be used.

Building Permits.
BUILDING PERMITS.

$100—Mrs. Walter D. Smith, 141 Nelson Street, additions. Day work.

Wide Range of Sales.

Realty men say they have seldom seen more interesting bonds for title and warranty deeds going to record. Among the papers are the following conveyances:

W. B. B. Richards, administrator of the estate of the late William C. Richards, to R. W. Davis, lot on the south side of West Fourteenth Street, 284 by 150, for $4,269.

The L. S. Huntley Company to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Peachtree Road, 368 feet northeast of the junction of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, 48 by 140, $1,575, and to same, the adjoining lot to the southwest, same size, for the same price.

R. I. Barge to R. L. Brightwell, lot on the north side of Ormond Street, 160 feet west of Grant Street, 50 by 141, $2,500.

Charles A. Davis to M. I. Huie and Mrs. Luella Skinner, lot on the west side of Peachtree Road, 1,040 feet northeast of Piedmont Road, 100 by 685, $4,500. Transferred to C. M. Love et al.

Mrs. Eugenie Balch to Mrs. Mamie Cohen, 265 Crew Street, 50 by 200, $3,650.

Lois and Nellie Hollingsworth to M. Friedman, lot at the northwest corner of Highland Avenue and Fortune Street, 90 by 120, $4,300.

James E. Brown Company to National Stock Yards Commission Company, lot on the east side of Marietta Street, 67 feet south of Lee Avenue, 74 by 222, $12,607, and to same, southeast corner of Lee and Marietta, 67 by 149, $5,200.

The total of these transactions is $35,176. A few are trades made some time ago, with papers just going to record, but most of them are of recent date.

Successful Auction Sale.

John S. Owens and Gid Hanna are to-day $2,500 better off than they were this time Wednesday, having made this amount on an auction sale at the corner of Park Avenue and Bryan Street, Grant Park section. Less than a year ago they bought a tract for $4,900 and the total in the auction was $7,295. The buy was made from Mrs. Lizzie Hollingsworth through William A. Vernoy, the latter of whom had charge Wednesday. J. W. Ferguson & Son were the auctioneers.

Mr. Hanna and Mr. Owens attributed the success of the sale to effective advertising, the value of the property and plenty of good lemonade.

Lots 1 and 2 were bought by H. A. White for $775 each; lot 3, by J. T. Wallace, for $875; lot 4, by John A. Fritz, for $1,390; lot 5, by Frank Whitley, for $830, and the house and lot, by George B. Beauchamp, for $2,650. Mr. Whitley refused a good profit on his lot immediately after his purchase.

"We could have sold 50 lots if we had had them," declared Mr. Vernoy after the sale.

Renting Meet Postponed.

Renting agents called together in the office of Charles P. Glover will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30, two previous meetings having been postponed. The "single listing system" of houses will be discussed.

New Pharmacy College.

The Courtland Street section between Harris and Cain Streets is soon to have a new college of pharmacy, when Dr. George F. Payne, the proprietor, completes plans for remodeling two double frame houses which he has just bought. Dr. Payne acquired this property from W. I. Webb through G. M. McKinnon, paying $20,000, or nearly $260 a front foot. The lot is on the east side of the street and the dimensions are 77 by 275 feet.

Ponce DeLeon Activity.

Seldom during the year, say the realty agents, is there any trouble disposing of residences on Ponce DeLeon Avenue. This is true alike of the closer-in homes, not far from Peachtree, and the homes near or in Druid Hills. Claude E. Sims, for instance, is doing his share of selling. He reports the sale for Dr. John B. Daniel to J. H. Leversredge, of Montgomery, Ala., of 666 Ponce DeLeon, 50 by 180, for $13,000, and of 532 Ponce DeLeon, only two blocks to the west, to Dr. William Asher for R. C. Taylor, for $10,000. The latter is 55 by 232.

Druid Hills Sale.

Although few homes are offered for sale in Druid Hills, buyers can always be found. O. D. Gorman, Jr., a successful trader with Smith & Ewing, has just picked up a profit in the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road to Mrs. J. J. Morris, for $12,500. This lot is 90 by 150 feet and contains a two-story nine-room brick veneer house. The transaction was handled through the Martin-Ozburn Realty Company.

Exchange of Properties.

H. M. Carlton has traded with a client of R. W. Evans, of the Cheatham Brothers' agency, for 219 East North Avenue, 45 by 150, for $4,900, giving in part payment a vacant lot on Ashby Street, 50 by 300 feet, valued at $1,000.

Auburn Avenue at $58.

Chauncey Smith has bought from a client of John D. Babbage a lot on the south side of Auburn Avenue, between Yonge and Jackson Streets, for $1,500, or at the rate of not quite $58 a front foot. The lot is 26 by 149 1-2.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Think of the negro in the Gabboon region who is standing a temperature of 140, think of the seal and walrus at the North Pole on a block of ice.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

TO ARREST WIDOW IN POISON MYSTERY

Girl Tells Police Startling Story of Vice Ring

MILITANTS ASSAIL KING AND QUEEN

THREE NEW VICE WAR ARRESTS

Man Prisoner Declares He Will Bare the Whole System if Brought to Trial.

As a result of statements made to Chief Beavers Friday morning by Hattie Smith, the young girl who has been held for the Grand Jury in connection with the vice war, Detective Rosser at noon arrested three persons—two men and a woman—who were named by the Smith girl as contributing to her downfall and being involved in her white slavery charges.

The persons under arrest are Paul Estes, 52 Queen Street; Hoyt Monroe, Edgewood, and Mrs. Lola White, 768 Marietta Street.

The woman is a cousin of Hattie Smith and lives next door, while both Estes and Monroe are in the employ of the Collier Garage at Cone and James Streets, where the Smith girl says she met Lena Barnhardt, who later took her to the Cumberland Hotel.

Says She Went Joy Riding.

In her new statement made Friday morning Hattie Smith declared that she went automobile riding with her cousin, Mrs. White, and Estes and Monroe. The two men were released by Chief Beavers after being giving a copy of charges, and their case set for Tuesday afternoon. The White woman was taken to detective headquarters and will be questioned by Chief Lanford. It was announced by the police that she will be held on heavy bonds.

The arrests of Estes and Monroe are considered by Chief Beavers as the preliminary to the spreading of the dragnet and the arrest of seventeen men, some of them prominent in business, who, it is alleged, are involved. Estes, when arrested, declared that he intends to make a complete confession and throw new light on the situation.

"I'm not going to be the goat," Estes declared. "I am going to open my mouth and tell everything I know about vice, and I'm going to give names. I'm going to name every girl and man that I know have taken automobile rides and gone to hotels for immoral purposes.

Promises a Sensation.

"And I know enough names to stir up an awful racket if they are all arrested, and I know a lot about vice in Atlanta that no one else knows."

Chief Beavers stated that every man whom Estes names in his proposed confession will be arrested and brought before Judge Broyles for trial. The Chief declares that the developments of Friday in the vice war have placed him in a position where he can put a speedy end to the immoral operations of men and women in Atlanta, and he stated that he intends to continue his investigation with increased vigor.

Sensational revelations involving two more downtown hotels and seventeen well-known men, one of them a prominent business man, were made to Chief Beavers and Plainclothes Officers Green and McKibben Friday morning by Corrinne Wilson, the 16-year-old girl who was arrested, together with 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, Thursday night.

The confession of the Wilson girl, which Chief Beavers regards as one of the most important developments of the vice crusade, and which is even more sensational than the story of Hattie Smith, came at the close of a long examination of the girl by the police.

Accuses Business Men.

The Wilson girl was definite in her accusations. She furnished the chief with the name of a prominent business man whom she said has contributed to her downfall, and told of three others whose names she does not remember, but whose places of

U. S. Tennis Players Win Right to Play Davis Trophy Finals

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND, July 11.—The American tennis team today earned the right to meet the winner of the Canadian-Belgian match in the finals for the right to challenge the English players for the Davis Cup.

After vanquishing the Germans in two single matches ytesterday, the American doubles team, comprising Maurice E. McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett, defeated Frederick W. Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschrota, the German team, three sets to one. The score was : 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6.

FOLKSTONE, ENGLAND, July 11. The United States lawn tennis team in the contests for the selection of a challenger for the Davis Cup will meet the Canadian team in the final. This was made possible when R. B. Powell and D. P. Schwengers, of Canada, defeated A. G. Watson and W. H. Duvivier, of Belgium, in the doubles here to-day by the scores of 6-2, 6-2 and 6-2.

'Bloody Breathitt' in Kentucky Car Strike

LEXINGTON, July 11.—The street car strike situation here increased in seriousness to-day. It was reported this morning that the entire system of city and interurban lines would be tied up by a general strike this afternoon. Strikebreakers have been summoned here from Breathitt County, it is stated. Both sides decline to give positive statements.

Mayor Cassidy will take charge of the cars in the event of a general strike, and run them with special police if necessary. Sheriff Scott today swore in a large number of special deputies. William Hill, a Chicago strikebreaker, who was injured in a riot Wednesday, is still alive today, but he can not recover.

Native Golfers Run Wilson From Links

HANOVER, N. H., July 11.—The quiet and isolation the President so highly prized on the Dartmouth College golf links were rudely broken to-day by the intrusion of a score of native golfers, attracted by the reports that the Chief Executive was taking his daily exercises in Hanover.

Because of what he considers an intrusion upon his privacy, the President probably will go elsewhere in search of vacation to-morrow.

Plans to return to Washington Monday are unchanged.

Clerk Gets 3 Years For Robbing Mails

Federal Judge W. T. Newman Friday sentenced G. R. Jackson, former railway mail clerk, convicted Thursday of robbing the mails while on his run between Atlanta and Augusta on the Georgia Railroad, March 28, 1913, to serve three years in the Federal prison and fined him $1,000.

Jackson's attorney, Colonel Thomas Felder, may make a motion for a new trial.

WOMEN RIOT AT ROYAL CARRIAGE

Gunman, Hired by Militants, Fires Shot From Gallery in the House of Commons.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Many persons were hurt here to-day in street fighting between men and women which followed an attempt by militant suffragettes to attack the carriage in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the city.

The attack followed a wild scene in Lord Street when Miss Jolly, secretary of the Liverpool branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, made a lone raid, smashing hundreds of dollars' worth of plate-glass windows.

The local militant leaders had laid plans for the biggest suffrage demonstration Liverpool has ever seen, because of the presence here to-day of the King and Queen, who are making a tour of England.

Great Precautions Taken.

Extraordinary police precautions had been taken to guard their majesties from attack, as it was feared that the militants, who have been unusually active here of late, would attempt to interfere with the progress of the royal party and perhaps commit actual assault.

Soldiers co-operated with police and detectives in policing the streets and in protecting the King and Queen from the crowds.

Just before the royal party turned into Lord Street Miss Jolly appeared, dashing into the crowd of spectators, and brandishing a poker above her head, she scattered them right and left. Screaming denunciations of the Government, she sent her weapon crashing into the plate-glass windows, doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

Several policemen overpowered her while she struggled with maniacal fury. She was locked up. This incident alarmed the authorities, for it served as a clew that the women planned an active day.

Royal Carriage Attacked.

Half an hour later the attack upon the royal carriage occurred. From a break in the police lines several women ran into the street. They hurled a quantity of suffrage literature into the carriage and one of them seized the door and tried to wrench it open. Another ran toward the horses' heads to stop them.

An equerry leaped to the street and grappled with one of the women, and in an instant the others were seized by policemen. In the meantime, however, supporters of the militants had swarmed to the aid of their sisters and a fight began.

Women attacked men and men retaliated. Fists, clubs and hatpins were the chief weapons. Many were knocked down and trampled. The police made a number of arrests.

Shot Creates Panic In House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—An evident attempt at assassination occurred in the House of Commons to-day when a man in the gallery for spectators drew a revolver and fired shortly after the session of the House opened. A parliamentary policeman who was nearby grasped the man and wrenched the pistol from his hand before he could fire again.

One sensational report which was circulated was that the man was a fanatic on the topic of suffrage and had attempted to assassinate Premier Asquith because of his opposition to the suffrage propaganda. Another report was that the man had been hired by the militants to make a demonstration, and that the bullet was not intended for any one in particular.

Owner Asks $25,000 For Death in Wreck Of Aristocratic Pig

Premier Longfellow Rival, a blue-blooded Berkshire hog with an ancestry tracing back to the Mayflower, was the subject of a $25,000 litigation in the court of Judge Bell Friday morning.

Rival's owner, J. B. DeBow, late of Nashville and now of Atlanta, sought to recover this amount for the killing of the aristocrat of pigdom.

Attorneys for the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad were on hand to say that the hog was not worth even the $10,000 awarded DeBow by another court and from which award an appeal was taken.

The story told the court was that Premier Longfellow Rival was on his private palace car en route from Montgomery to Vicksburg, where he was to be exhibited at a fair in 1909. There was a collision and Rival was considerably smashed up. About a month later he calmly laid down and died.

President Wilson Near Injury as His Automobile Skids

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson had a narrow escape from a serious accident on the return trip from Hanover to-day when his automobile skidded on the newly oiled road and came near crashing into a rail fence.

Robinson, the White House chauffeur, threw on the emergency brakes and stopped the heavy machine just in time to prevent injury to the car or to the President.

The President's automobile attempted to turn aside to allow a heavy dray to pass. The skid chains failed to catch in the oil and the car swung around until it came within a foot of the fence by the side of the road.

The President was thrown slightly to one side of the car, but managed to retain his seat.

Rome Has Coldest Mid-July Day in 600 Years; Storms Rage

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

ROME, July 11.—Italy to-day experienced the coldest mid-July in 600 years. The cold wave has followed a great storm.

The temperature fell below 60 degrees here to-day. Such weather has not been experienced since the summer of 1313.

MESSINA, July 11.—A tempest near the Straits of Messina, accompanied by heavy rainfall, has caused enormous damage in this region. Crops have been destroyed.

COSENA, July 11.—Hurricanes, accompanied by slight earthquake shocks and underground rumblings, have terrified peasants in this region for two days.

Tifton Slayer to Die on the Gallows

TIFTON, July 11.—I. B. Hall was sentenced by Judge W. E. Thomas this morning to hang on Friday, August 22. The jury returned a verdict of guilty without a recommendation of mercy late Thursday afternoon, after being out more than five hours. I. B. Hall killed Dennis W. Hall May 10.

Charley Farley, a negro, who killed Albert J. Rucker, a negro preacher, on March 21, was given a sentence of eight years in the penitentiary. Appeal for bail pending application for a new trial was denied.

BIGGER ARMY POST HERE CERTAIN

Garrison's Plan to Centralize Regulars Will Result in Enlargement of Fort McPherson.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Mr. Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

When questioned as to the probable abandonment of Fort Oglethorpe, at Chickamauga Park, Colonel VanOrsdale said he did not believe the War Department would consider its elimination, as it is a splendid strategic point.

Reynolds Announces In Race for Council

Frank H. Reynolds, Park Commissioner from the Eighth Ward, Friday positively announced his candidacy for Councilman from that ward, to succeed Clarence H. Haverty. Mr. Reynolds declared his efforts would be directed toward the development of Piedmont Park, if elected.

H. M. Patterson, prominent business man, also has announced for Councilman from the Eighth Ward. W. A. Hancock and Charles S. Owens have announced for Alderman. Others have intimated they might enter the contests.

WIDOW ACCUSED IN CRAWFORD WILL CASE

MRS. MARY BELLE CRAWFORD.

MINCEY'S STORY JOLTS POLICE TO ACTIVITY

Steps Taken Immediately to Discredit Affidavit Published Exclusively in The Georgian.

The Georgian's exclusive publication of the sensational details of the W. H. Mincey affidavit, in which Jim Conley was alleged to have confessed to the killing of a girl the afternoon that Mary Phagan was slain, created a big stir Friday in police circles and immediate efforts were made to discredit the accusations against the negro.

Detectives set out at once on a still hunt for Mincey. Lines were thrown out to produce witnesses who would swear that Mincey's word was not to be depended upon. The detective force, which virtually had been resting on its oars in the Phagan case for several weeks, was galvanized into action by the startling charges made in the affidavit of Mincey, which was first made public by The Georgian.

Police Deny Being Told.

Interviews with the detective heads brought denials that Mincey ever had told them the story that was printed in The Georgian. Attorneys for the defense, however, corroborated the published details of the affidavit.

"It is correct in every detail," said one of the lawyers. "It was not the intention to make any of our important evidence public, but now that Mincey's story has found its way into print, there is nothing to do but admit that we have the affidavit and that it makes the assertions which The Georgian printed yesterday.

"It is only natural that an attempt will be made to discredit Mincey's story. But we are assured of its truth and are confident that it will stand the test of all the investigation that can be made."

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH ATTACK ON WOMAN

COLUMBUS, GA., July 11.—Dr. James Delemar, a well-known physician of Mountain Hill, Harris County, is confined in the Muscogee County jail, charged with attacking the wife of a prominent Harris County farmer.

Feeling between the families and friends of the accuser and accused is tense. Dr. Delemar was lodged in jail her because of threats of violence.

The Delemar family and that of the woman who says she was attacked are among the most prominent in Harris County and the charge against the doctor has caused a sensation.

Dr. Delemar is married and prior to this charge had always borne a splendid reputation.

His preliminary hearing has been set for Saturday morning.

The woman says she was attacked last February, but kept the fact a secret until yesterday.

Trouble between friends of the families is feared when the preliminary hearing is held.

Showers Forecast By Weather Bureau

"Showers Friday night or Saturday," was the official weather forecast announced Friday.

Rainfall for the 24 hours ending Friday morning was half an inch, of which .46 fell in the night. Light rains fell Friday morning.

Only once did the mercury mount above 75, and that for only a few moments. At 11 o'clock the temperature was 81 for a brief twenty minutes while the sun's rays were unobscured, but the clouds quickly gathered and sent it down to 75 long before noon.

Winds were from the southeast; velocity, 12 miles.

CRAWFORD'S DEATH IS LAID TO WIFE

The arrest of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford on the charge of poisoning J. B. Crawford was recommended by a verdict of the Coroner of Carroll County, read at the hearing in the famous will case before J. N. Anderson, auditor.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from poison administered by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, and recommend that she be held for investigation by the Fulton Grand Jury.

The inquest was held Thursday in Carrollton. It was an adjourned session of the first inquest on June 12, when the body was exhumed. Dr. H. F. Harris, of the State Board of Health, and Miss Viola Whitman, a woman who lived with the Crawfords after the marriage, were the witnesses.

Dr. Harris testified to finding morphine in the stomach, and that in his opinion Crawford did not die of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs.

Saw Medicine Given.

Miss Whitman testified to seeing Mrs. Crawford give her husband medicine from a small vial.

Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford allowed the verdict to be submitted as evidence, but stated to the auditor that they would later file an objection on the grounds of the inquest not having been legal. They stoutly maintained that before the hearing ends they will introduce positive evidence that Crawford died of pneumonia, and that the morphine found in his stomach was administered by his family physician.

J. S. James, attorney for the heirs-at-law stated he, in all probability, would start action along the line outlined in the recommendation of the Coroner's jury, but that he had not yet determined how soon he would do so.

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Doctor Gave Drugs.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel James announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was illegally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

Attorney Found Dead In Woods Near Ensley

BIRMINGHAM, July 11.—The body of James Alexander, an attorney of Ensley, was found in the woods between Ensley and Wylam to-day. Alexander, who was 55 years old, went to Fairfield to attend court on Wednesday. On his return he started to walk to his home, two miles away. It is believed he was stricken with apoplexy and dropped dead in the woods.

Searching parties spent a day and night looking for him.

GIRL PRISONERS TELL MORE OF VICE RING

business she knows. The chief stated that the girl will be taken around the city Friday afternoon to identify the three men, and that they will be arrested at once after being identified.

In addition to the four men named by the Wilson girl against whom charges will be made, she gave the Chief the names of thirteen others with whom she says she and Dora Rothstein have taken auto rides.

These twelve will be subpenaed as witnesses in the trial of the two girls, which has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, and forced to tell all they know about vice. If evidence warranting it develops at the trial, they will be arrested and cases made against them.

Two men named by the Wilson girl as having kept her and the Rothstein girl in the woods for several nights were arrested by the police Friday morning. They are A. C. Dollar, a shoemaker, living at 69 Davis Street, who is held on a charge of disorderly conduct, and W. W. Suttles, assistant yardmaster of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, who is held on a kidnaping charge.

Suttles and Dollar were named also in the statements of the Rothstein girl, who named the Wilson girl as a procurer, and declared she introduced her to the two men.

Wilson Girl Denies Charge.

Corrinne Wilson denies the charges made against her by the Rothstein girl and declares that she was led into a life of shame by the latter girl and the two men.

"I met the Rothstein girl at the White City Park last Fourth of July," said the Wilson girl. "I was skating and fell, and she was among the crowd that gathered around me. That is how I met her. We were together all that evening and night in the woods near the park, and the next day we met Suttles and Dollar. Monday night we stayed all night with men at the baseball park.

"Saturday night and Sunday night we spent somewhere in the woods, and Monday night we stayed at the baseball park with some men. Tuesday and Wednesday night we stayed with Dollar and Suttles in an old mill on the Adamsville Road. Yesterday afternoon we came to Atlanta and were arrested last night.

Accuses Her Accuser.

"Dora Rothstein lied when she says I induced her to go with the men. She told me she had been doing it for a long time and that we could have a good time and make some money. I yielded when she told me we could make money, and she introduced me to the men."

The Wilson girl told Chief Beavers also that eight months ago, before she was married, she stayed at a hotel on Broad Street with a man, registering as his wife. She says she is the wife of Andrew Wilson, who now is working in Marietta. She came to Atlanta four weeks ago to visit her mother, who had burned her foot, she said.

Chief Beavers stated that in addition to involving the hotels and the seventeen men, the Wilson girl has told him a lot of things she had heard from other girls. He said she had given him the names of all the girls she knew who made a practice of going auto riding with men and of staying at the hotels with them, and that all of the girls will be brought to headquarters and questioned.

The Wilson girl also gave the chief the names of a number of alleged assignation houses which, she asserted, she and other girls had visited, and all will be thoroughly investigated.

MORTGAGE LAW REFORM LOSES IN HOUSE

Attempt to Reduce Number of Foreclosure Notices Defeated. Committee Report Ignored.

The effort to reform the mortgage laws of Georgia so that the mortgage holder would be required before foreclosing to advertise once a week for four weeks instead of for four months prior to the next term of the Superior Court, met with defeat in the House Friday, despite the favorable recommendation of General Judiciary Committee No. 1.

Representative Moss, of Cobb, presented a minority report, in which the proposed bill was declared to be too rapid and drastic. This drew a debate, in which Representative Wohlwender, chairman of General Judiciary Committee No. 1, and Garlington, of Fulton, and Wright, of Floyd, participated.

The roll call showed 83 ayes an 76 nays on the passage of the bill. This not being a constituetional majority, the bill was declared lost. Representative Barry Wright gave notice that he would move to reconsider the bill.

Davidson, of Putnam, and Sparks, of Toombs, presented the bill, Speaker Pro Tem. E. H. McMichael, of Marion, presided for the first time during the calling of the roll on this bill.

Among the new bills filed were:

By Fulbright, of Burke—Providing for a special tax of 1 mille during 1915 and 1916 to meet deficiencies.

Rhodes, of Clark—Appropriating $50,000 for new buildings at the University of Georgia.

Cheney, of Cobb—Requiring that befgore the marriage of persons under 18 years of age notice of the marriage license be advertised in the public gazette for at least one week.

Gower, of Crisp—Permitting owners of electric railroad companies, electric power and hydro-electric companies, to own and control gas companies.

Burwell, of Hancock—Providing amendment to the Constitution providing the pro rata ad valorem tax levy for the common schools of Georgia.

$600 BACK PAY IS VOTED CLERK BY SENATE

First Expenditure by New Legislature Consummated — Slaton's Appointments Confirmed.

The first measure involving the expenditure of money by the present Legislature was acted on by the Georgia Senate Friday. It was a House resolution providing for payment of the earned salary of the insurance clerk, and made up a deficiency of $600 in the 1913 budget.

Four appointments by the Governor were approved by the Senate in executive session. The appointees were L. D. Shannon to be Judge of the City Court of Jeffersonville and H. J. Griffin to be Solicitor, and Carl Vinson to be Judge of the County Court of Baldwin and J. D. Howard to be Solicitor.

Among the bills reported from committees with recommendation for passage was one to increase the number of senatorial districts to 60. It provides that each of the six counties with the largest population shall be a senatorial district.

Would Regulate Doctors.

The bill regulating the practice of medicine and creating a State Board of Medical Examiners was reported favorably from committee. These two bills were read the second time.

Senator Grant D. Perry, of the Twenty-eighth District, introduced a bill providing for monthly pay of school-teachers. The first section provides that hereafter "teachers in the public schools of Georgia shall be paid monthly." The second section, in part, provides "that the payment of teachers shall be considered of as much importance as that of any other employees of the State, and the Governor shall have as much right to exercise his borrowing power for this purpose as for any other State expense."

Other Bills Are Presented.

New bills were introduced in the Senate and referred to committees as follows:

By Senator L. L. Ford—Amending the code with reference to quarantine against the Mexican boll weevil.

By Senator J. N. Watts—Changing the title of the stenographer in the Department of Commerce and Labor to "stenographer and chief clerk."

By Senator M. E. Rushin and Senator J. R. Anderson—Providing for maintenance of inter-county bridges and causeways

The usual number of House bills were received and referred to Senate committees. The Senate adjourned to meet at noon Monday.

Engineers to Have Barbecue Saturday

The local branches of the National Architectural and Engineering Societies will have a barbecue Saturday at 2 o'clock at the waterworks pumping station on the Chattahoochee River.

Engineers hope Saturday's meeting will result in an affiliation of the various organizations and a closer association of the more than 200 architects and engineers who are the leaders of their respective lines in the South.

SLAYING CHARGE FOR CONLEY IS EXPECTED

Mincey was employed until two weeks ago, was seen Friday and was disposed to discredit Mincey's affidavit.

He declared that Mincey was something of a braggart and that on the Monday following the crime had asserted his belief in the guilt of Newt Lee. When Conley was arrested, said Dukes, Mincey at once became just as certain that Conley had committed the crime.

"Mincey was wondering how much money he might make as a witness and seemed more concerned with this phase of the case than with the identity of the murderer," said Dukes.

Conley Indictment Likely.

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's connection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Dorsey Makes No Comment.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters, and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Leo Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

LEGISLATOR PROUD OF HIS LIKENESS TO BRYAN

SAM L. OLIVE.

Can't Bring Himself, Though, to Appreciation of Commoner's Kind of Highballs.

Representative Samuel L. Olive of Richmond is kept mighty busy most of his time nowadays looking like William Jennings Bryan. Generally he makes a first-class job of it.

Not only does Mr. Olive look the part of the Peerless Leader, but he acts it in numerous ways, particularly in speaking.

Olive, admittedly, is the very best orator in the House.

In one way, though, Mr. Olive fears he never shall come to be entirely like the Peerless—for the life of him, the gentleman from Richmond is unable to make grape juice the paramount liquid issue with himself!

Olive is the one man in the House who can overcome the wretched acoustic properties so completely as to make himself heard in every nook and corner when speaking.

He is ingenious in argument, happy in oratorical effect and finesse, and altogether well worth listening to when under full steam ahead on the floor.

The gentleman from Richmond is one of the younger members of the House, but has had considerable Legislative experience. As a consequence, he knows his way around amazingly well. He is popular and influential and regular in his attendance on the sessions, both of the House and his committees.

Because of his marked facial resemblance to Mr. Bryan, Mr. Olive is known to many as "The Boy Orator of the Savannah," and he rather likes it!

Pet Trout Likes to Have Back Stroked

ESTES PARK, CAL., July 11.—"Sunbeam," the pet speckled trout in the fish hatchery at Estes Park, has just recovered from an indisposition caused by stomach trouble or rheumatism.

The fish, now a 3-year-old, and about 11 inches long, is as good an example of gentle and loving troutdom as it is possible to find. It is very fond of being stroked and petted, and will swim around and rub itself against a person's hand whenever a chance is given it.

Frank Hammond Gets Office in T. M. A.

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of The Footlight, a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge and deputy grand president of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

The Footlight, of which Earle E. Griggs is editor, was made the official publication of the T. M. A.

Macon Society Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

Wilson Didn't Ask Trainmen to Confer

NEW YORK, July 11.—A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, denied to-day that representatives of the employees on the Eastern roads have been invited by President Wilson to go to Washington for a conference on the wage dispute which threatens to cause a strike of 100,000 men.

One thousand committeemen are gathered here for a meeting to-morrow, when a final decision of the proposed strike will be reached.

Motorcycle Racer At Macon Is Killed

While going about 50 miles an hour, and turning the first curve from the grandstand, a pedal scraped the ground and struck a rock. O'Brien was hurled against a fence, striking on his head, his neck being broken and his body badly mangled. The motorcycle was wrecked.

Stamford Wreck Laid To Green Engineman

HARTFORD, CONN., July 11.—Chief responsibility for the wreck on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway at Stamford, June 12, when sixteen persons were killed, was put on the engineer in a report made to-day by the State Utilities Committee, following an investigation.

The road is criticised for allowing a "green" engineman to handle an express train.

Homesteading Arid Lands Is Made Easy

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Senate to-day passed a bill, introduced by Senator Pittman of Nevada, providing that the Secretary of the Interior shall designate certain arid lands in Nevada, Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming and New Mexico on which residence shall not be necessary to establish a homestead.

McKee Not Going to Postmasters' Meet

Postmaster Hugh McKee said Friday he would be unable to attend the annual convention of postmasters at Denver this month.

Mr. McKee instead will spend part of his vacation in New York. He will go there July 22 to meet his daughter, Miss Jessie McKee, on her return from abroad.

WILSON'S MONEY BILL PRAISED BY BRITISHERS

Samuel Untemyer, Apostale of Currency Measure, Says London Bankers Call Act Sound.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Samuel Untermyer, of New York, who spent a busy week here, en route to Paris and Baden Baden, where he will remain a month, has been prosecuting an inquiry among banking circles—unofficially, of course—respecting the British feeling about the new American currency bill.

It is significant that Mr. Untermyer has been much in company with Colonel E. M. House, of Texas, during the week. These inquiries will be further pressed during Mr. Untermyer's stay in Paris.

When seen by The Georgian correspondent Mr. Untermyer admitted seeing many famous bankers here. He made this statement exclusively to The Georgian as a result of his investigation:

Bill Carefully Studied.

"The proposed new currency bill is surprisingly well understood here. It has been carefully studied and digested, and is favorably regarded. The fundamental principle of a Government currency issued and controlled directly by the Government is universally regarded as sound.

"I had rather expected that English traditions of banking would create a prejudice against so radical a departure, but find that this is not true, and that the question has been considered on its merits and meets with approval.

"The sentiment that has been sought to be created against it by the press bureaus of certain great New York financial interests is not shared here. The peril to the country from the vast concentration of the control of credit in a few hands that has assumed such gigantic proportions in past few years is recognized here as a stern reality."

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applies to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or convict labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

SENATE MAKES GREAT CUTS IN SCHEDULES OF HOUSE TARIFF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 3 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000
Income tax	70,000,000	69,625,000
Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per bushel and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

Sues for $2,000 and Obtains Just $27.30

COLUMBUS, July 11.—A jury in the City Court returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $27.30, being the amount of premiums paid in the case of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Richardson's death occurred October 25, 1912, and the investigation of the police led to the announcement that he had committed suicide. When the father of the young man demanded payment of the $2,000 policy the insurance company refused.

At 85, Sees Her First Hobble; Dislikes It

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. John McCafferty, 85, of this city, who has been blind for fifteen years, has just seen an automobile for the first time. She also saw a number of hobble skirts, which met with her instant disapproval.

Although several doctors had declared the condition of her eyes hopeless, an operation for the removal of cataracts was successful.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED.

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—James H. Anderson, referee in bankruptcy, has denied a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, of Dayton, Tenn. Creditors whose claims aggregated more than $1,000,000 were represented.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $50, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

(Affidavit) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Note—Mrs. Garvin has seven children.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. VINCENT ASTOR'S SWEETHEART, MISS KATHERINE FORCE, TO WED

MISS KATHERINE FORCE AND MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

STATESBORO HAS LIVE UNION OF FARMERS

Bulloch County Town Supports One of State's Best Agricultural Colleges.

STATESBORO, GA., July 11.—Filling the large auditorium of the First District Agricultural College to its capacity Bulloch County farmers rallied to the call of the Farmers' Union and to the standard bearer, Charles S. Barrett.

L. M. Rhodes, of Tennessee, delivered one of the greatest addresses ever heard here. The crowd showed its appreciation by applause.

The Bulloch County Union is one of the best in the State, due largely to the efforts of Professor O. T. Harper, of the Agricultural College, a tireless worker for the farmer.

Another factor is President E. C. J. Dickens, who took charge of the college after it had run down to a handful of students, and built it up until it ranks as a leader. It has an enrollment equal to one-sixth of the total of the eleven district agricultural colleges in the State. Scientific farming, mechanics and domestic science are taught.

A magnificent brick building has been erected. It was designed and built by the students.

The farm of about 120 acres resembles an experiment farm after the experiment has proven a success. Finer corn could not be found anywhere. Other crops are as good. Bulloch farmers call it their school. It will not be long until reservations will have to be made a year in advance.

Bulloch County farmers believe in the Farmers' Union and Charles S. Barrett, who is making their cause his life work.

Statesboro is a progressive and up-to-date little town. On every hand new buildings are going up. Old ones are being remodele.

There is a magnificent three-story office building, covering a quarter of a block, which would be a credit to any town of five times the population.

There are good department stores. One is three stories. It covers a space of about 100 by 150 feet. The other big department store is only two stories high, but covers a space 150 by 150 feet, with a large warehouse in the rear.

An odd feature of this store is that the center, with a frontage of about 25 feet, is the First National Bank, of which the head of the store is president. On either side of the bank are entrances to the store.

Either of these stores would be appreciated in Atlanta or any other city.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

Atlanta Furniture To Be Sold Broadcast

General managers and buyers of the Rhodes Retail Furniture Syndicate are spending several days in Atlanta inspecting Atlanta-made goods, preparatory to visiting Eastern and Western markets to make fall purchases.

They intend to stock their chain of stores with goods manufactured in Atlanta. J. D. Rhodes, of Atlanta, is vice president of the syndicate and chief of the purchasing department.

DEWBERRY PAYS FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Exactly one year to the very day and hour after the death of his victim, Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing 15-year-old Horace Dodson on Decatur Street, May 27, 1912, expiated his crime on the gallows in the county prison Friday morning. The trap was sprung by Deputy Sheriff John Owens at 11:05 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Dewberry confessed his guilt to Sheriff Mangum at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and later dictated a written confession to the Rev. H. H. Proctor. He said he stabbed young Dodson after Dodson and some other boys had brushed against him.

The negro professed religion and prayed fervently just before he was led to the gallows.

Dewberry mounted the scaffold with a firm step. When Sheriff Mangum asked him if he had anything to to say, following the reading of the death warrant, he replied calmly that he did not.

During the hanging, which was attended by about 25 men, including county officials, newspaper men, physicians and deputy sheriffs, the condemned man's sister, who is also in jail charged with burglary, emitted shrieks which could be heard for blocks around.

SPEAKER DENIES CHARGES MADE BY LAMAR

Never Knew Him and Was Unacquainted With Morgan, Champ Clark Declares.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark appeared before the Lobby Committee of the Senate today and made a denial that he ever knew or had anything to do with J. Pierpont Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward Lauterbach or David Lamar. The Speaker's declaration was in answer to the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony before the committee, although Lamar finally admitted he never saw Speaker Clark and never had any direct communication with him.

It was the intention of the committee to call Colonel Martin W. Mulhall, but this action was delayed by lengthy testimony given by W. L. Whitman, of Boston, a wool manufacturer. Whitman testified, among other things, that Simon N. D. North, former Director of the Census, was on the pay roll of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers while he was chief statistician of the Census Bureau and while he was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee.

He was clerk of this committee while the Dingley tariff bill was under consideration. Whitman said North received $4,000 a year from the association up to the time he became Director of the Census.

Clark Defends Himself.

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone," said Speaker Clark. "Lauterbach, who acknowledged that he lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed that the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaimed any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and promptly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale a lie, in which he was entirely correct. He and I never in our lives conversed about or in any way mentioned to each other Morgan & Co. nor the Steel Trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever; never authorized anybody else to do so.

Didn't Know Morgan.

"I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never introduced, even casually, to him or to any of them. To my best knowledge and belief, I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron Club banquet.

"I was introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington several years ago in the presence of several gentlemen and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before or since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever nor about any business matter whatsoever.

"I never had heard of Lamar and knew only by seeing his name in the papers that there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and my name were being bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo Palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

Aid Solicited for Hightower Family

Members of local charitable organizations are soliciting aid for the family of Robert Hightower, the daring Confederate officer, said to be dying of some strange mental disease. The Hightower family, 247 Cooper Street, is said to be in destitute circumstances.

According to physicians, the aged veteran is near death.

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike Riley Rules for Year Over Younger Members of Famous Irish Tribe.

Chief Michael Riley hunched up his shoulders, stuck his finger in his mouth, and tightened his grip on the collar of his dog, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Hara at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Now, for a year, Mike Riley, the 4-year-old son of Pete Riley, one of the leaders of the clan, will guide the destinies of his juvenile subjects.

He is king of the kids and his rich brogue and antics, together with his fascinating countenance, with the map of old Ireland on his face, make him almost adorable even to a stranger.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

Bijou Actors Delight Federal Prisoners

The players at the Bijou Theater this week held the boards Thursday at the Prison Auditorium, where they enacted "Along Broadway," much to the delight of the hundreds of men behind the walls.

Among those who gave the prisoners the benefit of their talents were Will Stanton, Miss Thornton and Miss Rosalind May. The tabloid was given under the direction of Mr. Labridy. The performers were assisted by the Bijou orchestra.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamship companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" asked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Strachan, who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quiz ended.

Saloon Men Plead Guilty; Take Fines

MACON, July 11.—After two had been convicted, fifteen other saloonkeepers pleaded guilty in the Superior Court to conducting their businesses for several months before paying licenses. J. J. Quinlan was fined $100 and J. B. Brooks $75, both going to the jury. The others, who pleaded guilty, paid fines ranging from $20 to $35.

When it was understood that Judge Mathews was imposing only nominal sentences on those who admitted their guilt, there was a rush by the defendants to enter pleas.

SUFFRAGE MEET ENDS; WOMEN ENCOURAGED

Members of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association closed Thursday night one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The fight started in the Legislature after the action of the Senate in denying the women the right to meet in the Capitol and the dissension with the Atlanta Civic League have served to bring the cause strongly before the people. More interest was manifested by the public generally in the convention than in any suffrage gathering of recent years.

About 50 women attended the business sessions of the convention. Their enthusiasm and willingness to fight to obtain their rights, shown by their stand before the Legislature and in the quarrel within the ranks, has given an impetus to the cause that is expected to aid them to obtain the 1,000 members they have set as their mark for 1914.

Press Bureau Is Indorsed.

Two propositions for spreading the suffrage movement were indorsed at the final session. A press bureau, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was organized, and expects to begin its work of education immediately.

Volunteers will be secured in every town in the State to furnish live, local news of the suffrage movement to the country papers, and a central bureau will be established in Atlanta to handle the suffrage news of the Capitol.

Miss Augusta Howard, of Columbus, proposed the organization of a "Men's Suffrage League," similar to organizations now existing in other States, which met with approval. No official action on the proposition was taken, but it is probable that the executive committee will endeavor to complete the organization of the league.

Reports Show Progress.

The reports of department superintendents showed that the movement has gained in Georgia to a greater extent than is generally supposed. These reports were made by Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. May C. Moore, Mrs. S. C. Osburne, Mrs. Mamie Matthews and Miss Katherine Koch.

Three addresses on suffrage, delivered before a crowd that filled the House of Representatives, brought the convention to a close Thursday night. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. W. A. Felton, of Cartersville, who made her first public appearance as a suffragist. Other speakers were Attorney Leonard Grossman and Miss Augusta Howard, founder of the State association and its president for six years.

On invitation of the DeKalb County Association, the convention voted to meet in Decatur in 1914.

Central Officials at Macon Depot Site

MACON, July 11.—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central and the Central of Georgia, and W. A. Winburn and A. R. Lawton, vice presidents of the latter road, stopped in Macon several hours to inspect the site chosen for the erection of the union station at Cherry and Fifth Streets.

Committees from Council and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the railroad in arranging settlements with owners on Cherry Street who claim their properties will be damaged by the closing of the street.

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

CONTEST FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STIRRING

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

NEW COUNTY OF CANDLER IS LIKELY

House Amendment Committee Indorses Proposal—Three Others Meet With Rejection.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has cleared the new county atmosphere considerably by recommending the creation of Candler County and turning down bills proposing the new counties of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall.

All of the counties proposed cutting into Tattnall County, and all were argued before the committee at the same time. The committee seems to have believed the Hampton, Evans and Stonewall proposals really were more "dummy" propositions set up to defeat Candler.

The throwing out of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall Counties very materially reduces the total number of new counties likely to get favorable action by the present Legislature.

The Constitutional Amendments Committee will go right along disposing of the dozen or so remaining propositions. Within the next week or ten days it should be possible to forecast with a degree of accuracy exactly what other counties besides Barrow and Candler stand any chance of getting through the Legislature.

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

The statement gives correspondence between himself, Senator Smith, Postmaster General Burleson and President Wilson's secretary, J. P. Tumulty.

MID-SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE OF HIGH GRADE SHOES FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

OUR ENTIRE STOCK AT REDUCED PRICES, INCLUDING THE FAMOUS QUALITY LINES OF

EDWIN CLAPP and LAIRD AND SCHOBER

There is not a pair of "Special Sale" Shoes in our house. We have not bought a single pair for this sale. We are simply overstocked, and make this reduction on our regular line of high class, quality shoes in order to move them and make room.

Every pair is this season's models. There are button or lace Oxfords for the lady, in a variety of materials, including novelty effects in fabrics, as well as the staple styles in patent colt, dull leathers or tan, white buck or brown suede, soft black kid and satins in black. Pumps for every occasion.

For men's wear, in the celebrated Edwin Clapp line are styles and shapes of every leather and last. Smart, snappy shoes for the young man, medium styles for the more conservative, and dignified lasts for the elderly man.

There's a wide range of sizes in every style and leather.

CHILDREN'S SHOES FOR EVERY NEED

Our large and varied line of children's dependable shoes is also included in this sale.

This stock is exceptionally inviting to the mothers who find that the children's supply of summer footwear needs replenishing. Choice goods are shown in all materials and styles, from sandals for the tiny tots, up to the strong sturdy shoes for growing boys and girls to romp in.

BUTTON SLOGAN MUST BE IN BY SATURDAY

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Here is a good example of an out-of-town letter, from John T. Abney, of the Swift Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ga.:

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"A button carrying a photo of a telephone and the words, 'Call Atlanta.'"

H. W. Thorp, 152 West Peachtree Street, sends this one:

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

"Atlanta—always leads, always succeeds—the Half-Million City."—Woodie Hardeman.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"Half million by 1920. Boost Atlanta."—W. C. Meador, 49 Washington Street.

"All the time, every time Atlanta, 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"Atlanta's alive with 500,000 busy bees. 1920. Watch us hum."—Mrs. Albert Sydney Ullman, 433 Washington Street.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city, 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 100, Atlanta.

"Boost, boost, boost. Atlanta 1920, 500,000. Get the habit and come to Atlanta."—R. Speer, 635 Woodward Avenue.

"The Atlanta spirit, we have plenty, which assures half million in 1920."—Robert S. Link, Abbeville, S. C.

"Get 'Em or Bust."

"Half million or bust."—Carl J. Broome, Douglasville, Ga.

"Hearst's Sunday American did it. Atlanta, 500,000."—Mrs. Belle Tyson.

"God helps Atlanta."—H. L. Owen.

"Atlanta's growth and prosperity has no limit. Nineteen-twenty, half million people."—P. B. Rand.

"Hurrah for Atlanta, magic city."—G. Ford, 40 1-2 North Forsyth Street.

"Prosperity, wealth, opportunity, morality. America's Queen City. Watch Atlanta grow. 500,000 by 1920."—J. K. Tippett, Frederick apartments.

All Express Optimism.

"Atlanta, the Pinnacle City."—Jas. F. Saunders, 94 Greenwood Avenue.

"Success is yours in Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."—A. C. Lanier, 596 North Jackson Street.

"Onward to Atlanta, the Half-Million City, 1920."—Mrs. N. E. Love, 633 Woodward Avenue.

"Atlanta, the Gate City,
With a half-million plan,
And whatever has been called for
She has never failed to land."
—Orie King.

476 Whitehall Street.

J. S. Booth, of 12 West Pine Street, suggests a button with the face of Mayor Woodward on it, and these words around it: "Only one Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."

"We push, Atlanta's Half-Million Club."—George A. Latimer.

"We boost Atlanta. Half Million, 1920. Opportunity, location, organization, co-operation. Come!"—W. W. Tommins, 35 Chatham Street.

Bowden Man Enters.

"Half million souls Atlanta needs and half million souls she's going to have. I'm in the fight for them. Are you?"—G. A. Barr, Bowden, Ga.

W. H. Gattis R. F. D. 6, suggests an emblem of a bee on a flower with the slogan: "Everybody get busy. 500,000 for Atlanta 1920."

A "Little Boy Blue," with a horn and the words, "Blow your own horn, Atlanta!" is the offering of Miss Hester Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

"Boost Atlanta. At it all. Always at it. 1913-1920."—Mrs. W. F. Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

Dr. Emmett V. Ball, 700 Austell Building, has sent in a number of slogans. Here is one of his best ones:

Two Suggestions For the Boosters

Booster button designed by A. P. Thompson, Jr., of the Crumley Hardware Company.

MR. DOLPH WALKER, Empire Bldg.

One of the most prominent and successful business men of the city, says: "Dr. Kelly's Nuxcara cured me of dyspepsia in its worst form after I had suffered for years. In spite of the fact that I took every digestive remedy that I could hear of I was almost an invalid, and so discouraged that I had about decided to give up all medicines advertised for stomach troubles, as I had about lost faith in drugs. My case was so bad that I could not see any improvement at all on the first bottle of Nuxcara, but by the time I had taken five bottles I had gained forty-five pounds and was stronger and in better health than I ever was in my life. It is certainly the most wonderful remedy known."

"ASK YOUR DRUGGIST."

The Social World

Mrs. Charles Remsen was hostess at an informal tea of fifteen guests Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Club, in honor of Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, the guest of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel.

The guests were received on the piazza surrounding the ballroom. Later, tea was served at four small tables, each decorated with summer flowers.

Mrs. Remson was lovely in white embroidered crepe, worn with a Panama hat tied with purple streamers.

Bridges-Black.

Miss Julia Caroline Bridges and Mr. Arthur Franklin Black were married Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Bridges, 143 Lawton Street. The bride and bridegroom departed later for Washington, D. C.

The bride wore white embroidered marquisette and carried bride roses. Her traveling costume was of tan ratine, with hat, shoes and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Portsmouth, Va.

Dinner Dance at Country Club.

The dinner dance at the Capital City Country Club Thursday evening was the second in the series inaugurated at the new clubhouse, and was largely attended. Several parties were given.

Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, was the honor guest at a large party given by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser. Invited to meet her were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser and Mr. James M. Nunnally.

Another party was given by Judge and Mrs. J. T. Pendleton in honor of their guests, Misses Mary B. Murphy and Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nunnally and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stewart.

Miss Almeta Jackson Entertains.

Miss Almeta Jackson was hostess Thursday afternoon at her home on Myrtle Street, entertaining a number of her young friends. Hearts dice was played, and Miss Kathryn Donely won the prize, gold pins. Miss Helen Nesbit won the second prize, a bottle of extract.

Misses Sarah Roberson and Sarah Eubanks served punch, and Mrs. T. A. Burke and Miss Marguerite Adams, of West Point, assisted in entertaining.

The guests included Misses Katherine and Nedra Turner, Marion Dean, Marie Stoddard, Hallie Crawford, Louise Cooper, Idelia Andrews, Elizabeth Downing, Helen Brown, Evelyn Roberts, Bernice Jackson, Aline Conley, Helen Tucker, Ellen Donnelly, Katherine Donnelly, Alma Boone, Elizabeth Floding, Mary Floding, Ida Brittain, Anne Dow Wurm, Lucile Young, Elizabeth Millard, Cornelia Walker, Virginia Walker, Sarah Robertson, Sarah Eubanks and Marguerite Adams of West Point.

Dancing Party.

Miss Helen Atkisson will entertain at a dancing party Friday evening at her home in Ansley Park for Miss Dorothy Robbins, of Birmingham, and Miss Dodo White's guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle. About 70 young people will dance.

Mrs. Snodgrass Hostess.

Mrs. W. W. Snodgrass entertained at a spend-the-day party Friday at her home in Lawton Street for Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, guest of Misses Mary and Lucile Goodrich.

Miss Pollock Hostess.

Miss Madge Pollock was hostess at a 5-o'clock tea Friday afternoon at her home in North Avenue. The party was for Miss Dodo White's house party guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle.

In the dining room, where the ices were served, there was a Marie Antoinette basket of Shasta daisies adorning the table. Yellow tulle was draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

Miss Pollock wore yellow satin draped in white chiffon and trimmed in seed pearls. Mrs. George Pollock, her mother, assisted her in entertaining. She wore white lace with touches of blue satin. Little Misses Margaret Elder, Mary White and Elizabeth Goldsmith received the callers at the door. Others assisting were Misses Nina Neal, Marion Neal, Louise Dobbs, Ruth Reid, Marie Cobb, Harriet Haynes, Jennie Lou Lindsey Martha Lawshe and Ruth Cocke. Guests numbered 150.

For Miss Lewis.

Miss Laurette Lewis, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Edgar Jones will take place next Wednesday afternoon, was tendered a forty-two party Friday afternoon by Miss Lallah Moncrief. This is the last of a series of affairs for Miss Lewis preceding her marriage.

For Miss Cozart.

Miss Fannie Lou Cozart, of Washington, Ga., who is visiting Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick, is being entertained pleasantly in an informal way. Thursday afternoon Miss Cozart was honor guest at tea at the East Lake Country Club, following a motor ride. Thursday evening she was entertained at an informal party given by the Misses Kirkpatrick.

Birthrday Party.

The guests were Misses Ann Lane Newell and Ellen Newell, Annette, Louise and Eli[illegible] Marcelle Robinson, Inez Fuller and Elizabeth Irwin.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Hodgetts, Mrs. W. A. Byers Clyde Stutesman.

Miss Charlotte Watkins is visiting friends in Brunswick.

Miss Aurelia Speer has recovered from an illness.

Miss Rupert Chapman, of Milledgeville, is the guest of Miss Marian Cook at her home on Angier Avenue.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson has as her guest Mrs. G. W. Blanton, of Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hadeny, of San Diego, Cal., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mickel at 88 Holderness Street, and are being entertained in a pleasant and informal way.

Misses Tommie and Marion Perdue are attending a house party in Murphy, N. C. They will be away two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Greth, who have been at the Imperial for some time, leave on Friday for Detroit, where they will reside.

Mrs. Edmund Winston Jordan left Atlanta Thursday evening for Wrightsville Beach. She was accompanied by Earle Watson, Jr.

Mrs. J. T. Pendleton has as her guests her niece, Miss Mary B. Murphy, of Alexandria, Va., and her great niece, Miss Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. They are being entertained in an informal way.

Miss Katherine Wootton has returned from New York, where she attended the meeting of the Library Association of America, going later to the Catskills for a stay with friends.

Mrs. Edwin Stewart, with her daughters, Misses Mary and Katherine Stewart, Marion Dunson, Dolly Blalock and Grace Bloodworth, left Friday to spend two or three weeks at Warm Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rice, with their granddaughters, Misses Mary and Georgia Rice, visited Lithia Springs the first of the week, returning by way of Marietta.

Miss Janie Allen, of Greenville, S. C., will arrive Friday to visit Mrs. and Mrs. T. E. Byers are at Borden Wheeler Springs.

TAX REFORM IS GEORGIA'S HOPE SAYS SLATON

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Agreed More Money Is Needed.

"Revenues and expenditures of Georgia must balance," declared Governor John M. Slaton Thursday night. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, and W. H. Burwell, Speaker of the House of Representatives, concurred.

Members of the Georgia Legislature and of the Chamber of Commerce, 700 in all, voiced their hearty approval in the great ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club.

The occasion was a reception to the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," said Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the guests applauded noisily.

Governor Slaton and the heads of the legislative arm of the State government seized the chance to express their conviction that Georgia is confronted with one of the most serious problems of its history—a deficit in the State Treasury. It was the unanimous opinion that the Legislature is able to solve the problem.

"The revenue and expenditure of Georgia must square," said Governor Slaton to the diners. "When I tell you that in one of our State institutions, where girls are taught to cook and to sew and to make happy homes for Georgians, it is necessary to put fourteen girls in a room, you will see the need of greater revenues. When I tell you that the Technological School is offered $100,000 worth of the most modern machinery if only we can provide housing for it, and when I tell you that the Agricultural College at Athens is in sore need of funds, you will see the need of greater revenues.

"The man who is paying 10 cents on the dollar while his neigubor is paying 20 cents on the dollar in taxes ought to be made to increase his payments. An increase of only 20 per cent in taxable values in Georgia means $180,000,000, which means $900,000 added revenue—enough to supply all the State institutions and pay all the debts."

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

Hotel Sleuth Shoots Himself Cleaning Gun

While oiling and cleaning his revolver Thursday afternoon, G. W. Walker, special detective at the Georgian Terrace, accidentally shot himself in the leg just below the knee.

An hour later he walked to the taxicab which took him to Grady Hospital. Dr. A. G. DeLoach said the wound was slight.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Forsyth Busy This Week.

Attendance this week at the Forsyth is well up to the standard of the busy theater. The house is being well filled at nearly every performance and the several feature acts are winning deserved applause.

Next week's program has already been arranged and includes some delightful acts. The headliner will be Valerie Bergere and company in "Judgment," and among the comedy features will be Britt Wood, an exceptionally clever character comedian.

Grand Pictures Popular.

Motion pictures at the Grand daily from 2:30 until 10:30 have added wonderfully to the popularity of this theater.

The very highest grade of first-run motion pictures is offered, and the program is as good as any that has been exhibited on a screen in the city.

At the Bijou.

"Along Broadway," with Will Stanton and Rosalind May, is filling the Bijou to capacity this week. The performance bristles with breezy action, and the several specialties that stand out with startling distinction are the violin solo by Miss Marguerite Calvert, the juggling of Sam Alburtus and the Tango dance by Ingalls and Hite. For next week another snappy and up-to-date attraction is announced, "Hotel a la Carte."

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

Testimony by William Devery, of the New York Imperial Film Exchange, before the special examiner in the Government's suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law brought this out.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

MAYOR'S ROOSTER MUST GO.

BOSTON, July 11.—A neighbor complained anonymously that Mayor Fitzgerald has been violating a city ordinance by keeping a rooster in the henyard at his home, and the Board of Health ordered that he must kill or remove it.

TWO WOMEN IN PERIL OF MOB IN TENNESSEE

Mother and Daughter, Confessed Slayers of Stepchildren, Given Additional Jail Guard.

UNION CITY, TENN., July 11.—Threats of mob violence against Mrs. James Yates and her daughter, Floy Farris, 18, in jail here following the confessed murder of the children of James Yates, caused county officials to-day to place a special guard about the jail. An attempt at lynching is expected to-night.

Mrs. Yates, second wife of James Yates, a prosperous farmer, confessed that she had drowned the two children of Yates' first wife. Her daughter by a former marriage, Floy Farris, was with her, and, according to the story, aided in the crime.

The killing occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Yates found the two children, a boy, 12, and his sister, 10, swimming in a creek that ran through the Yates farm. She ordered them to leave the water. The boy, she said, called her vile names. She became enraged at him, she said, and, seizing him by the throat, held his head under the water until he drowned.

The lad's sister screamed and tried to escape, but was caught by the Farris girl, the woman said, and was drowned as her brother had been.

The children's bodies were found in the creek Wednesday night. Yesterday Mrs. Yates and her daughter were arrested. The woman confessed today.

Her husband to-day declared he would use every effort to see that his wife was hanged for the crime.

Families Fight for Possession of Bride

ANNISTON, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Peel, who were married Wednesday morning, are central figures in a family quarrel to-day.

W. D. Chandler, the girl's father, hurried to the house where the two were stopping and took his daughter home. She now is held a prisoner.

The father of the bridegroom, Samuel Peel, is helping his son in his efforts to recover his bride. He contemplated habeas corpus proceedings, but was advised first to try moral suasion on the father of the bride.

Aviator in 900-Mile Air Race Near Record

MACATAWA, MICH., July 11.—A world's hydroaeroplane record for distance was within the grasp of Glenn Martin, of Los Angeles, this afternoon as he closed in upon Beckwith Haven and Roy M. Francis, leaders in the Chicago-to-Detroit airboat race.

Martin maintained a speed of 80 miles an hour for 200 miles to-day after leaving Chicago. He landed for half an hour at Michigan City, and then came on to Macatawa Bay, where he lunched and left for Cralevoix, his third scheduled stop, shortly after 1 o'clock.

Tifton Man Held as Philadelphia Forger

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Maintaining his innocence even after a merciless cross-examination by detectives, Henry L. Kramer, who was brought back yesterday from Tifton, Ga., charged with forgery and embezzlement, was released under $1,500 bail.

A scene was caused in the courtroom when the accused man's wife denounced her husband's accusers. Later she secured the bondsmen.

Mrs. Kramer is a Tifton girl.

French Scientist Has Wireless Telephone

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, July 11.—Professor d'Arzonval, the eminent scientist, it is reported, has just found a complete and practical solution of the baffling problem of wireless telephony.

How he has accomplished this is at present kept secret, but the report is generally credited here.

Walter E. Willimon, of Greenville, who has been in the employ of the postal service for the past seven years, has been appointed a postoffice inspector and will be retained in the Atlanta division.

Negro's Attempt to Rob Bank Thwarted

CORDELE, July 11.—While L. E. Fenn, assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Cordele, was counting several thousand dollars in cash and currency late last night the electric lights suddenly went out.

Mr. Fenn, fearing robbery, summoned a policeman, who found a negro hiding near the electric switch in the bank building. As the would-be robber was making a quick getaway the policeman fired several shots at him.

Co-Eds Cheer Wilson For His Skill at Golf

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson has so improved in health in the last three days, and likes his summer home so well that he has decided to stay until Sunday.

While golfing yesterday the President putted neatly, almost from the edge of the turf, and a party of co-eds from the Dartmouth Summer School clapped their hands in applause.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discoufaged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value, and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

'Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

"Oh," smiled the young man, "there's always money where the ghost walks."

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginativé instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse, I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry whilé I unchain my bullhound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Jacobs' Pharmacy and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

'I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

"Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—
Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight. "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. "And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about, Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Donner and blitzen, nein! In England—in dis gountry."

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. I vas at der goncert in Berlin, and I hear der great Engleesh soprano sing dot der vas no blace like Ohm, and all der Engleesh beoples in der goncert gry like der leetle babies. Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

T. Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

Critic (sardonically): "H'm; it might be worse."

Painter (offended): "Sir, I hope you will withdraw that statement."

Critic: "All right, then; it couldn't be worse."

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

Another thing—a poor umpire is generally the most honest thing in the world.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked.

The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

Price beat out his usual bunt. He's a marvel at that.

In the fourth inning Cavet retired the Crackers on four pitched balls.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

STANDING OF THE RIDERS.
Name	1st	2d	3d	T't'l.
Richards	6	2	0	38
Shields	1	2	2	19
Lockner	1	2	2	19
Renel	0	3	2	18
McNeil	2	0	1	13
Graves	0	1	2	10
Lewis	0	0	1	3

IT looks like rather the best program of all out at the Motordrome to-night.

Three features are carded, and each looks a wonder.

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines. Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.
Motordrome Purse.
One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.
No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.
No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.
Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.
Crackers' Sweepstakes.
Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.
No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Eighth Event.
No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Ninth Event.
Seven miles final of the Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Tenth Event.
Four-cornered special match race to be announced later, four miles.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COLumn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared to-day that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Doolin and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Joe Tinker, who needs pitchers, probably would part with $10,000 of Garry Herrmann's money right now for Brennan.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the seasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in a tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he fails in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a little in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., July 11. Pitcher Neihaus and Shortstop Callahan, of the local Southern Michigan League team, have been sold to the St. Louis Nationals. Neihaus is a left-hander who has won 18 games and lost 4 this year.

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State championship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map,
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

A football team was fighting on a bloody battle ground,
And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound,
When suddenly they halted in the middle of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,
"There's nothing doing," they replied; "we've got to catch a train."

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Pepioski.

This is one of those rare intervals during which Doc Roller and Charlie Cutler are not matched for an alleged battle on the mat.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

It is rumored that the Yanks are dissatisfied with Frank Chance. If Frank Chance is not dissatisfied with the Yanks he ought to be.

Mr. Chance is a wonderful guy if he can reflect upon the Chase deal without delivering unto himself a swift kick.

Mr. Comiskey has established diplomatic relations with Mr. Bryan, but there is no truth in the rumor that he has taken to unfermented grape juice.

If Mr. Bryan can induce the National Commission to drink grape juice it will be recorded as the greatest diplomatic feat in the archives of history.

The practice of stalling to avoid a beating may be inside baseball, but it has a distinct shade of yellowness.

A motorcyclist in Pittsburg jumped the track and was rendered defunct, thereby making the meet a grand success.

Australia may beat us at cricket, but it will be at least a couple of years before the world's series is held in Melbourne.

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse. Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

I.-M. LEAGUE WILL FINISH.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., July 11.—The Illinois-Missouri League will be able to finish the season, as Pekin has overcome its financial difficulties. This was announced by President Cline to-day.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the middle cushion, is acknowledged by all experts to be the "keystone king" of the American League, but when any authority sets out to prove that the Columbia graduate is the peer of his contemporaries he never rushes to the guide books for statistical information on the subject.

A good way to find out how swift a fielder is, some persons think, is to take the number of double plays a man starts. Up to July 1 the American Leaguers had rid their systems of 380 dual killings, the man who started most of them being Collins. He took the initiative in sixteen of his team's two-ply massacres.

The Johnsonites' swiftest shortstop, according to the performances in the Double Play League, is Ray Chapman, of the Naps. He inaugurated a dozen plays that resulted in the retirement of a pair of runners. In figuring Chapman's speed as an inaugurator of double plays, it should be remembered that he has been often absent from the Naps' line-up because of injuries, and it is possible that had he played all season long, as has Collins, he would have started just as many two-ply killings.

Baker Leads Third-Sackers.

The third basemen who have started the greatest number of double plays are Frank Baker, of the White Elephants, and Ivan Olson, of the Naps. Each man has inaugurated six. George Stovall, of the Browns, shows the way to the first-sackers, having been the pioneer in seven dual massacres.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 10, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

The Browns, just at present, are leading in manufacturing double plays, with the Washingtons a close second, and the World's Champion Red Sox last.

ROUMANIANS ALSO OPEN WAR ON THE BULGARIANS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia, and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

5,000 Roumanians Invade Bulgaria.

PARIS, July 11.—A force of 5,000 Roumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgaria.

King Charles has promulgated a proclamation of war against the Bulgarians but it has not yet been approved by the Roumanian congress, which will assemble next Wednesday.

The occupation of a considerable portion of Bulgarian territory by the Roumanians is imminent.

Bulgars Try to Influence Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Bulgaria is trying to provoke Turkey to reopen the war against the Balkan allies in order to save herself from humiliating defeat by Servia and Greece, according to the belief in official circles here to-day.

Word was received here to-day that Bulgarian troops had set fire to Midia, an important port on the Black Sea. It was said that a number of Turks had been massacred there by the Bulgarians.

ATHENS, July 11.—All of Southern Macedonia now is in the hands of the Greeks. The important city of Demir Hissar was occupied to-day.

600 ATLANTA SOLDIERS IN CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Boys of the Fifth Regiment embarking at Brunswick for St. Simons.

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely—Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

SEARCHING SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS IN GEORGIA

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member, and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

BEARISH ADVICES DEPRESS COTTON

Lower Temperatures and Weakness of Summer Months Cause General Selling.

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the opening of the cotton market the feeling was generally bearish and prices were unchanged to 4 points lower than Thursday's final. The ring was inclined to sell on favorable weather conditions, rains being fairly well distributed over the central and eastern belt.

The Government records show a temperature average in Oklahoma of 98 degrees, which is 4 degrees lower. Temperature average in Texas was 100 degrees, with five stations 100, four stations reporting 102 degrees, nine stations 104 and four stations 106 degrees.

This, together with favorable reports on the condition of the crop issued by Cordill and Habersham King, resulted in a general selling movement after the call. Before the call, however, July and December rallied 2 to 3 points from the opening range.

The ring, Wall Street and brokers representing spot houses sold the market heavily, resulting in prices losing 8 to 12 points from last night's close. Both July and August touched 12c. Summer positions were given no support. This was in part explained by the fact that late months reflected favorable weather and crop news.

During the late forenoon, prices recovered 2 to 7 points of the early decline through more active buying, which seemed to come mainly from a few scattered shorts. The selling, however, continued general.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S DAILY COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Weather developments overnight were again favorable. The map shows fair weather in Texas, cloudy elsewhere; cooler with a fine general precipitation in the Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather in the belt, except fair in the lower half of Texas.

There is a cool wave now heading for the Western States, which should bring general rains and cooler weather on Texas within the next six days, preceded, as usual, by a short heat spell of no consequence.

The market was inclined to open lower on good reports concerning the crop and the favorable weather prospects, but controlling influences in New York at once advanced August prices and by this show of power checked all selling, with the consequence that the market remained idle around last night's closing figures.

The Turner Crop Bureau, of Memphis, makes the condition 82.5 on July 8. The report says that the great producing area of Texas is practically free from the weevil pest. The market weakened in the second hour on an announcement from Houston of a second new bale from San Benito, shipped for sale to New Orleans, on Government records showing a temperature average for Oklahoma of only 98, against 102 the past two days, a bearish into-sight forecast and small forwardings from Liverpool to the mills, only 37,000, against 62,000 bales last year.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We anticipate no pronounced decline and prefer purchases on moderate recessions.

Sternberger, Sinn & Co.: We do not look for any big change one way or the other for the immediate future.

Logan & Bryan: We are disposed to the view that the long side on sharp declines will possess the greatest attractions.

Miller & Co.: Sell cotton on the hard spots.

Raymond, Pynchon & Co.: We feel safe on the long side.

COTTON GOSSIP

NEW YORK, July 11.—The only feature of the market this morning was the weakness of the summer months, due to scattered selling, some of it on July notices. New crop sympathized to some extent and was also sold moderately on predictions for unsettled weather in Texas, and the favorable Turner and Cordill reports. Business was of small volume because of the holidays abroad. No important change is probable for the balance of the week. —Anderson.

* * *

J. B. Turner, of Memphis, reports the following condition of the cotton crop as of July 8, by states: North Carolina, 77; South Carolina, 74; Georgia, 76; Alabama, 81; Mississippi, 84; Tennessee, 87; Arkansas, 85; Louisiana, 82; Oklahoma, 85; Texas, 87.

Where declines are shown from the condition of two weks ago, the loss seems due to an imperfect distribution of the moisture supply. In Texas boll weevils are more evident than at this date last year. East of a line down from Bunge to Tyler, weevils are sufficiently numerous to attract notice, but as yet have done little damage. West of that line there are very few or none. It is clear, therefore, that the general producing area of the state is practically free from the pest.—J. B. Turner.

* * *

Bulls worked the high temperatures and the boll weevil for all they were worth yesterday, but neither are doing any harm to cotton, according to crop advices.

* * *

A Texas cotton man says that conditions for the crop could not be better. With continued clear, hot weather, he predicts that Texas will produce between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 bales of cotton this year. Rainy weather would do considerably more damage to the plants than high temperatures, because it would promote the spread of activity in the boll weevil. The boll weevil has done but very little damage so far.

* * *

* * *

According to quoted views of members of the Georgia Legislature, the crop outlook for Georgia, which ranks next to Texas, is the largest producer of cotton in the belt. They say that conditions are much better than the previous season, and if the present outlook is fulfilled the yield will rival the record crop of 1911, when Georgia picked 2,794,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Hayward & Clark: The weather map is favorable and shows generally fair in Texas; no rain; cloudy rest of the belt, with fine general rains in Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather; also in eastern part of Texas, and cool wave coming on the belt, which should bring general rains on Texas in about six days.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "A very hot Sunday over the western cotton belt and friends of the staple are exploiting high temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma as good reason why the cotton market should continue steady. Wednesday and Thursday the high temperature average for the state of Oklahoma was 102 degrees. Yesterday twenty-two Texas stations reported high temperatures, ranging between 100 and 106 degrees, seven of which were 104. Such temperatures, if sustained many days, would, of course, play havoc with the crop as it is with the boll weevil, but both States report periods of even higher temperatures practically every year, and for this reason talent and trade alike refused to become excited over the hot temperature talk yesterday.

"After many days of waiting, Houston at last reported the arrival of the season's first new bale. It comes one month later than the first new bale of 1911 and eight days later than the first new bale of 1912. In this connection, bulls contend that the latenss of the first new bale is proof positive of the all-round lateness of the 1913-1914 cotton crop. Bears, however, contend that while the early producing section of Texas is late, the heavy producing sections are not late at all and that the Texas movement will be under full swing earlier this year than usual. In the meanwhile, outside influences seem to have combined to reduce contract trading to a minimum. In the first place the talent is confronted by the threat of prohibitive legislation, is in no mood for enterprise. In the second, the actual cotton trade foresees many complications in the event the prohibitive tax should become a law. In the third, commission men are kept busy explaining the effect of the tax to their clients."

* * *

Cordill wires from Memphis: "Yazoor City to Greenwood good to excellent. Greenwood to Clarksdale, Clarksdale to Memphis plant well developed, fruiting nicely. There is some small cotton, but greater part large and well developed. Locally the crop is excellent, clean and thoroughly worked. No excess or deficiency of moisture. Weather warm and part cloudy. Perfect cotton-growing weather. Good rains and scattered showers have fallen over Arkansas and Mississippi where needed.

Habersham King says: "Briefly, I would say that I consider the developments of the week as favorable to 85 per cent and a standoff on 15 per cent. Since Monday temperatures moderated favorably in the dry districts and are now around normal so that unfavorable conditions seem checked for the present."

Forwardings from Liverpool to mills this week only 37,000, against 62,000 last year, points to bearish visible to-day.

Wool Sales Reflect Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinos. Tariff legislation at the holiday season at the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	5,042,642	11,638,729
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	53,607,375	92,178,405
Foreign	41,550,200	75,104,006

DULLNESS CAUSES BREAK IN STOCKS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Considerable irregularity was shown in the price list at the opening of the stock market to-day. The railroad situation in the East, involving a possible strike, caused some selling on account of reports that the general committee, which will meet in this city to-morrow, will probably refuse to entertain Federal intervention. On the other hand, optimistic news came from the Balkans.

Among the losses were Amalgamated Copper, ⅛; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; American Car and Foundry, ½; American Telephone and Telegraph, ¼; Southern Pacific, ½; United States Steel common, ⅜; China Copper, ¾; Northern Pacific, ⅜; Union Pacific, ¼.

The advances included Erie ¼, Atchison ⅛, Reading ⅛ and New York Central ⅛. New York Central turned weak, declining ¼.

The curb market was dull and easy. Americans in London were quiet above New York parity.

In the late forenoon trading was sluggish and price movements were almost at a standstill. Atchison yielded ½ under small sales and concessions were noted in a few other issues. Slight fractional declines were recorded in Amalgamated Copper, Steel common, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Guggenheim. At noon trading was very dull with prices unchanged. Call money loaned and renewed at 2¼ per cent.

STOCK GOSSIP

The New York Financial Bureau says: "We would buy the standard issues conservatively when good opportunities are offered with the intention to accept moderate profits. Trading movements in the general list will be seen to-day. Information channels are expecting further improvement."

* * *

Look for a professional traders' market for the present. Would buy the active issues on any fair reaction for moderate profits. There is a good demand for standard dividend-paying stocks on all declines for investment. The odd lot buying by people of moderate means continues, and it looks as if speculative holdings are gradually being taken over by the investors throughout the country.—Potter.

Estimates of the quantity of Canadian Pacific stock liquidated by European sellers Wednesday ran as high as 20,000 shares. Canadian Pacific is about the highest-priced stock listed on the market and securities of such prices are usually the first ones sold if money is badly needed.

* * *

The weakness in Canadian Pacific stock during the past few days was said to be the result of the rumor that $60,000,000 new stock was to be issued. This, however, was officially denied.

* * *

Although the dullness in the market continues, there are few stocks for sale at the present level. Speculative holdings have decreased and investment holdings have increased considerably within the last thirty days. This is usually a bullish sign, as in the past under these conditions prices have advanced when activity begins.—Potter.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—There will be thundershowers to-night and Saturday in the Central Valley and the Upper Lake region and to-night or Saturday in the Lower Lake region, the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. In the Plains States and the Northwest the weather will be generally fair to-night and Saturday, moderately low temperatures will continue.

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday:

Georgia—Local showers to-night or Saturday.

Virginia—Generally fair to-night and Saturday.

North Carolina—Local thundershowers to-night or Saturday.

South Carolina, Alabama, Missisippi and Florida—Local showers to-night or Saturday.

Tennessee—Showers to-night and Saturday.

Louisiana—Fair in west; showers in east to-night or Saturday.

Texas—Fair to-night and Saturday in east; fair to-night, except rain and warmer in the Panhandle. Saturday fair and cooler in the Panhandle.

MILLER-COTTER COTTON LETTER.

MEMPHIS, July 11.—Good weather and crop accounts were of some influence in the day's decline. A few notices circulated on summer months caused some depression. The market is dull, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to sustain prices in the face of the steady improvement in the crop, which is reaching a stage of more definite assurance of yield.

Shorts in summer months have been eliminated and further manipulation promises little profit.

KENTUCKY CROP PROSPECTS RUINED BY LONG DROUTH

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 11.—Drouth during the last month has ruined the prospects for the best crops Kentucky ever produced. The report of the Department of Agriculture of the State said on July 11 that prospects for record crops were splendid.

The report made public to-day said every crop in Kentucky will be short.

GRAIN DROPS ON GENERAL RAINS

Absence of Cables and Liberal Receipts Also Factors for General Selling Movement.

CHICAGO, July 11.—General rains over the Northwest on both sides of the international line, caused a more bearish feeling to pervade the wheat market early to-day and prices showed recessions of ¼ to ⅜. Argentine shipments for the week were only about one-fifth of the shipments for the corresponding time last year. There was a decrease in the visible supply of that country. Northwestern receipts were 109 cars, against 110 cars a year ago.

Corn was ½c lower on better weather. Oats were ⅝c lower in sympathy with the other grains, coupled with heavy offerings.

Provisions were stronger.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders regarded the rally yesterday as only natural following a four days' decline. Bears are looking for lower prices with a continuation of the liberal hedging sales. One cash handler looks for a free movement, believing tight money will force the grain to terminals and export business will be the best possible thing for the market.

Cash traders were mixed last night, most of them being bearish. Many of the longs have unloaded. The bulls figure that the market is heavily oversold and had reports from Kansas that the crop has been damaged by the recent high temperatures.

There are many bears in oats who believe that the rally yesterday was only temporary. Cutting of early oats has commenced in Southern Illinois and yields are said to be light. Chief argument of bears is that stocks of old oats are too large for a big bull movement at present.

* * *

Grand Forks, N. Dak., wires: "Rain fell from four to six hours yesterday and last night on the parched fields throughout almost the entire northern part of North Dakota. The downpour began in the Minot District about noon and struck Red River Valley about 4 o'clock. More than an inch fell in places. Three days of hot winds had left the soil without moisture and caused heavy damage to crops. With the heavy rain, however, the crop is in condition to weather the remainder of the season without serious difficulty."

* * *

Mitchell, S. Dak., wires: "Heavy rain commenced late yesterday and continued last night, the downpour extending 67 miles west of the Missouri River and 100 miles north. Wheat harvest is two weeks away and this rain will make a big improvement."

* * *

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: "Wheat—The weather map shows general rains over the entire spring wheat country, parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The country continues to offer wheat to arrive in liberal quantities and this factor creates a good deal of local bearishness here.

"Corn—With the exception of rain in Nebraska and Iowa, there was no rain in the corn belt, with fairly high temperatures again in the southwest. Judging from the strength shown late yesterday, indications point to considerable liquidation having taken place and a fair short interest created. We look for light receipts and a good demand.

"Oats—There seems nothing bullish in the news at the moment, but there has been a pretty good evening up during the recent decline. Covering yesterday brought about a good rally from the low point.

"Provisions—Receipts of hogs considerably under the estimates, with opening prices 5c lower at the yards. July pork is very strong and a fair outstanding short interest is indicated."

HOGS SELL AT WIDE RANGE.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Hogs sold at a wide range of 8.50@9.20 to-day. Above the 9s line the speculators made a market that was higher than yesterday's close, but a large deal was promised on grades that affected only the packer outlet. There were 68,000 at 11 points against 77,000 a year ago.

Good cattle were strong to 10c higher, owing to the presence of a few urgent orders. Others were neglected.

Live muttons were strong, 8.25 being paid freely for good lambs.

MODERN MILLER GRAIN REVIEW.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Weather favorable for winter wheat harvest. Heavy rains, which have prevailed over some areas, did some damage to wheat in shock, but this occurs more or less every year. Cutting is about completed and threshing well under way. Quality of winter good and hard winter turning out better than expected. Movement to market continues free, yet it is evident that a further decline in price would cause a holding policy.

BAR SILVER.

LONDON, July 11.—Bar silver steady at 26 15-16d.

Split Houses Favor Clarke's Amendment

NEW YORK, July 11.—Advices from telegrams and letters which are current, state that many, if not a majority, of the large spot cotton firms and many mills favor the passage of the Clarke amendment, believing it will enable them to buy their spot cotton from the planter cheaper than at present.

It said that the open competition and broadcast distribution of the market information and quotations kept the producer of cotton well posted under ruling prices from hour to hour and day to day. This would not be the case with the adoption of the Clarke amendment, as it would leave the cotton markets in the hands of simply the few spot dealers.

With the adoption of the Clarke amendment there would be a fixed tax of 50 cents a bale for hedging contracts. When the local cotton Union in interior towns buys his cotton from the farmer his bid price would be low enough to enable him to hedge his contract and pay the 50 cents a bale tax, and the farmer, therefore, would indirectly have to pay this tax. If the head and officials of the local cotton Union could realize what this amendment means, and would look at it from purely a business standpoint, they would oppose the Clarke amendment and try to introduce some bill that would perpetuate the exchange and encourage competition that makes a broad market for cotton. This tax reduces the value of cotton on a collateral with the bank as protection in all lines of business has become a necessity.

Follow Advice and Eliminate the Drones From Your Flock.

It seems to me we can not overestimate the importance of finding out whether our hens are paying a good profit or not; and which ones are the drones and cutting down the profit. The only way to do this is to keep a record. Under present conditions, when almost everything that goes to help produce a dozen eggs, comes the necessity for stricter economy and the knowing of what it takes to produce the eggs. We must turn over a new leaf and open an account with the hens. We must charge them with what they consume, and at the same time give them credit for all eggs laid at the market price, whether they are sold or consumed by the family. It is not much work, if you but have a little account book in which to keep it. Five minutes a day will do it. It may pay you to go to the little extra trouble in ascertaining just where you stand.

The owner who has, by the use of the trap-nest, found out the egg-producing abilities of his flock, has taken the first step toward separating the unprofitable hen from the profitable one, a thing that every one who keeps hens should be able to tell or know.

We are often asked the question as to what constitutes a profitable hen? It is one that will pay for her feed, interest on the investment of roosting house, labor taken to care for her, and a profit besides. Of course, the cost of feeding a hen will vary quite a little, owing to the different sections of the country in which it is kept. Feed is quite a little cheaper in some places than others. It is but little trouble to count the cost of feeding ten or twenty hens. If you buy the feed, it is easily put down. If you are raising your own feed, simply measure out a barrel or two of it, putting down the price it is worth, then go to work feeding it.

Farmers are beginning to appreciate the worth of the really laying hen. They are beginning to find out that it does not pay to even harbor one that is too old to lay well or that never did lay much. All such should be cut right out of the game. And there is no way so good to determine that fact as by the trap-nest and the little record book.

With the ever and rapidly-increasing values of farm lands it is but natural that the farmer should look about him for some plan by which he can increase his income without greatly increasing his farm expenses, or investing in more land to do it with. The farmer has this very factor in the hen, if she is a good one. And there are good ones if we will but take the trouble to get acquainted with her. There are but few farms in the country but what have from one to three acres of land going to waste, or rather that are not being utilized. This is about the house and outbuildings. If this could be fenced and subdivided and a lot of good hens located therein it would soon begin to give revenue rather than be an expense to keep free from weeds and trash. I do not think it advisable for the farmer to try to run all to poultry, but just a hint to them that may help them to raise money for the taxes and various odds and ends that take the cash, leaving the regular farm crops in tact for other purposes. Tests show us that hens have made a record of 200 eggs per year; some have done even better than that, but a good many have done that well. Now it is an old saying that what has been done can be done again, so let us not fool away our time keeping hens that will only give us the old farm average of 75 eggs per year. That kind just about pays for its keep, so that if we get rid of them and keep the 150 to 200-egg kind then we get the profit that is due us. A flock of good, thoroughbred hens, say 300, should give us a profit of $400 to $500. Of course, you read of people making $500 from ten hens and a rooster, but that is from real fancy stock in which there is all kinds of possibilities, but on the other hand, there is the chance that you will not make anything from them. We have reference to the commercial kind, well managed; but it can not be done with the hit-or-miss scrub kind. They are too much like the Irishman's flea, you get your finger on them and they are not there.

GRANT PARK COTTAGE

The scarcity of good homes for sale in the Grant Park section is a well-known fact. A great many subdivisions have been made beyond Grant Park to meet the demand for this very desirable section.

When a good home on a good street near Grant Park is offered for sale, it is usually sold right away. We have had listed with us for sale a 7-room cottage at 45 Park Avenue, on a lot 50 by 200 feet. The lot is elevated, has plenty of trees and faces east. The cottage is well built and has all conveniences. This place is located near several churches, public schools and is on one of the few double car-tracked streets in the Grant Park section. Price, $4,750. Very reasonable terms.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Wide Range Is Shown In Realty Transfers

Announcements Include $85,750 Exchange, Sales of Land Lots in Fulton and DeKalb, Peachtree Buys.

An exchange involving 42 North Side city lots, a 1,750-acre farm in South Georgia and $85,750 in money, the purchase of 206 1-4 acres in North Fulton County and 203 acres in DeKalb, a transfer of business property at Buckhead and announcement of a $25,000 building on South Forsyth Street featured Friday's real estate news.

John H. Maddox, of the Smith & Ewing real estate agency, effected an exchange of properties between Dr. Joel T. Daves, of that agency, and George L. Patterson, of Valdosta, whereby the former gave 42 residence lots, beginning at the southeast corner of State and West Tenth Streets, and valued at $42,000, for a 1,750-acre farm in Lowndes County, valued at $43,700, or $25 an acre, and paid the differences, $1,750, in cash.

The North Side lots comprise about four blocks and front on Tenth, Eighth and State Streets, Peachtree Place and Ridge Avenue. Mr. Patterson has placed them with Mr. Maddox for resale, and Dr. Daves will cut his South Georgia farm into 100-acre tracts and offer them to immigrants. The sale indicates that South Georgians are willing to trust Atlanta real estate investments, and that, on the other hand, Atlantans recognize the opportunity in South Georgia colonization.

North Fulton Acreage Bought.

C. C. Foster and S. Y. Stribling, of Cobb County, and G. B. Thomason, of Jeff Davis, have sold to Morris Brandon and Ben J. Conyers three separate acreage tracts, aggregating 206 1-2 acres, in the upper portion of North Fulton County, north of Oak Grove, for $10,312, or at the rate of $50 an acre. This is in land lots 86 and 127 of the Seventeenth District, and is known as lots 1, 2 and 3 of the William E. Brightwell subdivision. A parcel 14 by 16 feet in lot 1 was reserved.

DeKalb Acreage Transfer.

Another large acreage deal has been consummated. Mrs. S. E. L. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to M. W. Reid and others, executors of the estate of the late J. D. Kilpatrick, 40 acres on the east side of land lot 15, Seventeenth District, and also 40 acres in DeKalb County; and W. T. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to same 23 acres in land lot 15, on the north line of said land lot 799 feet west of the east line thereof, and 54 acres in the southeast corner of land lot 16, and 46 acres in DeKalb County.

The total is 203 acres. That conveyed by Mrs. Ivey was sold for $3,800, and that by Mr. Ivey, $5,800.

Buckhead Transfer.

John G. Burckhardt has conveyed to B. F. and A. C. Burdett the triangle at the intersection of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, for $15,000. The transaction was handled by George P. Moore and is understood to have been in the nature of a swap.

The frontage on Peachtree is 152 feet, on Roswell Road 150 and the base line is 72. Mr. Burckhardt bought this some months ago from Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley for about $12,000.

To Erect $25,000 Building.

There will be no nine-story business building for the present on the property of the D. Greenfield estate on South Forsyth Street, between Mitchell and Hunter Streets. A change of plans calls for a one-story and basement building to cost $25,000. Permit to build was issued Friday by Building Inspector Ed R. Hays.

The building has a foundation for nine stories, however, and it is probable that the estate will add to it later. Moise DeLeon is the contractor.

Interesting Loan Deed.

Joseph Loewus has given a loan deed to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts for $37,500, borrowed on the Bass Dry Goods Company property at 18 West Mitchell Street, 48 1-2x140 feet. The Bass concern adjoins the McCroskey property at the northwest corner and was bought from the D. Greenfield estate some months ago by Mr. Loewus.

Lot Sales Total $9,000.

Fitzhugh Knox has announced the sale of six residence lots in his subdivision on South Moreland Avenue at an aggregate of $9,000. These sales have taken place since Mr. Knox started his fourteen bungalows in this section. The subdivision originally contained 41 lots, all but five of which have been sold.

Morris Brandon Sells.

J. B. Thompson has bought from Morris Brandon and others through the Smith & Ewing Real Estate Agency the northeast corner of Pine and Lovejoy Streets for $1,900 cash.

To Sell at Courthouse.

The Greene Realty Company will sell before the courthouse door Tuesday, August 5, the southwest corner of East Fair and Fraser Streets, 68 by 90 feet, for the estate of the late Dominico Gussi. The terms will be half cash and one and two years.

Not in Druid Hills.

In an account Thursday of the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road it was stated that this property was in Druid Hills. Briarcliff Road is in the Druid Hills section, but not in Druid Hills proper.

Buy on Peachtree.

Mrs. R. G. Warner has given E. A. Bancker, Jr., a warranty deed on a Peachtree property 162 feet north of Sixteenth Street for $10,500, 50 by 290 feet, this being lot 11, block 3, of Ansley Park, and Mr. Bancker has placed a $10,000 loan on it through the Home Life Insurance Company of New York. The place is described as 1096 Peachtree.

Interest in Electric Line.

A meeting of people interested in the proposed electric trunk line from Anderson, S. C., to Atlanta is expected to be called soon by the officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which body has received overtures from the Anderson Chamber. This road would connect up Atlanta with Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Anderson and Norfolk, if the plans of the Duke interests and the Anderson officials are carried out.

Real estate men are watching this development because of its possibilities in opening up new territory to the north of Atlanta and bringing in settlers from the other States.

Finish Peachtree in Three Weeks.

Repairs to Peachtree will be completed within three weeks, according to a statement of Shelby Smith, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The convicts have reached Peachtree Creek on their southward tour from Buckhead and have turned back to complete that part of the job. After finishing both sides they will begin at Peachtree Creek and work southward.

Chairman Smith declared that the machines now being used are capable of doing the work of 100 men, and that another labor-saving device, in the shape of a pulverizer, had been bought to break up the soil and road material. Hand labor is now being employed to do the pulverizing, and the work is necessarily slow.

Completing Healey Steel.

United States flags have been run up on the steel frame of the Healey Building, denoting that the first girders of the sixteenth and last above-ground story have been installed. This is a favorite performance among construction gangs—to hold an informal celebration when the last floor is reached.

Not only is the Healey Building going up fast in steel, but Stone Mountain granite has made its appearance at the base and soon will rise above the fences that inclose the structure. It will go 15 feet, where terra cotta will begin. Two stories are under ground.

William T. Healey, the owner, declares that although the building was two months late in starting, he is satisfied with the progress made.

Hurt Building's Arcade.

The unique entrance arcade of the Hurt Building is rapidly taking place. This is to be two stories high and is located in the apex of the triangular lot on which the structure stands, at the junction of Edgewood Avenue and Exchange Place. Handsome stone slabs are being put in place around the sides of the arcade. As for the rest of the building, it is progressing nicely. The exterior is almost completed, and soon the workmen will go inside to put on finishing touches.

Although the Hurt Building is not due to be opened before October 1, it is declared that leases have been signed for most of the space and that there will be no trouble filling the structure. The same is true of the Healey Building, which will not be completed until some time after January 1, 1914.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Don't get excited about anything if you can help it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Think of the negro in the Gabboon region who is standing a temperature of 140, think of the seal and walrus at the North Pole on a block of ice.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

This is admirable in a way, yet not an altogether admirable quality.

If you are this type of good neighbor do not take pride in it.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

CRAWFORD'S DEATH LAID TO WIFE

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, widow of J. H. Crawford, on the charge of murdering her husband by giving him poison, was issued late Friday afternoon, signed by the Coroner of Carroll County and returnable to the Fulton Country Grand Jury.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury, which was read at Friday morning's hearing of the famous will case before J. N. Anderson, auditor, recommended that she be arrested and held for a Grand Jury investigation.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from poison administered by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, and recommend that she be held for investigation by the Fulton Grand Jury.

The inquest was held Thursday in Carrollton. It was an adjourned session of the first inquest on June 12, when the body was exhumed. Dr. H. F. Harris, of the State Board of Health, and Miss Viola Whitman, a woman who lived with the Crawfords after the marriage, were the witnesses.

Dr. Harris testified to finding morphine in the stomach, and that in his opinion Crawford did not die of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs.

Saw Medicine Given.

Miss Whitman testified to seeing Mrs. Crawford give her husband medicine from a small vial.

Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford allowed the verdict to be submitted as evidence, but stated to the auditor that they would later file an objection on the grounds of the inquest not having been legal. They stoutly maintained that before the hearing ends they will introduce positive evidence that Crawford died of pneumonia, and that the morphine found in his stomach was administered by his family physician.

J. S. James, attorney for the heirs-at-law stated he, in all probability, would start action along the line outlined in the recommendation of the Coroner's jury, but that he had not yet determined how soon he would do so.

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Doctor Gave Drugs.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel James announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was legally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

THREE NEW VICE WAR ARRESTS

Man Prisoner Declares He Will Bare the Whole System if Brought to Trial.

As a result of statements made to Chief Beavers Friday morning by Hattie Smith, the young girl who has been held for the Grand Jury in connection with the vice war, Detective Rosser at noon arrested three persons—two men and a woman—who were named by the Smith girl as contributing to her downfall and being involved in her white slavery charges.

The persons under arrest are Paul Estes, 52 Queen Street; Hoyt Monroe, Edgewood, and Mrs. Lola White, 768 Marietta Street.

The woman is a cousin of Hattie Smith and lives next door, while both Estes and Monroe are in the employ of the Collier Garage at Cone and James Streets, where the Smith girl says she met Lena Barnhardt, who later took her to the Cumberland Hotel.

Says She Went Joy Riding.

In her new statement made Friday morning Hattie Smith declared that she went automobile riding with her cousin, Mrs. White, and Estes and Monroe. The two men were released by Chief Beavers after being giving a copy of charges, and their case set for Tuesday afternoon. The White woman was taken to detective headquarters and will be questioned by Chief Lanford. It was announced by the police that she will be held on heavy bonds.

The arrests of Estes and Monroe are considered by Chief Beavers as the preliminary to the spreading of the dragnet and the arrest of seventeen men, some of them prominent in business, who, it is alleged, are involved. Estes, when arrested, declared that he intends to make a complete confession and throw new light on the situation.

"I'm not going to be the goat," Estes declared. "I am going to open my mouth and tell everything I know about vice, and I'm going to give names. I'm going to name every girl and man that I know have taken automobile rides and gone to hotels for immoral purposes.

Promises a Sensation.

"And I know enough names to stir up an awful racket if they are all arrested, and I know a lot about vice in Atlanta that no one else knows."

Chief Beavers stated that every man whom Estes names in his proposed confession will be arrested and brought before Judge Broyles for trial. The Chief declares that the developments of Friday in the vice war have placed him in a position where he can put a speedy end to the immoral operations of men and women in Atlanta, and he stated that he intends to continue his investigation with increased vigor.

Sensational revelations involving two more downtown hotels and seventeen well-known men, one of them a prominent business man, were made to Chief Beavers and Plainclothes Officers Green and McKibben Friday morning by Corrinne Wilson, the 16-year-old girl who was arrested, together with 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, Thursday night.

The confession of the Wilson girl, which Chief Beavers regards as one of the most important developments of the vice crusade, and which is even more sensational than the story of Hattie Smith, came at the close of a long examination of the girl by the police.

Accuses Business Men.

The Wilson girl was definite in her accusations. She furnished the chief with the name of a prominent business man whom she said has contributed to her downfall, and told of three others whose names she does not remember, but whose places of

HOGG FINDS CRACKERS EASY

Mobile Scores Five Runs Off King Brady in Fourth and Dent Goes to Rescue.

PONCE DE LEON BALL PARK, July 8cdNo4Slc;xB.. 1D.Gh HJghC shrd luu 11.—Hogg twirled air-tight ball here this afternoon, and as a result the Gulls blanked the Crackers, 6 to 0, in the second game of their series. A batting rally in the fourth session netted Mike Finn's crew five runs, which practically settled the combat. They secured their final tally in the fifth inning.

Brady started for Smith's men, but was routed in the fourth period and was relieved by Dent, who hurled good ball the rest of the route. Stock and Paulet did the heavy stick work for the visitors.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Stock popped to Agler. McGill rolled one to Alperman and was out to Agler. Robertson was easy for Brady and Agler. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Long grounded to Stock and was out to Robertson. Welchonce was given free transportation to first. Alperman lofted a tall one to Paulet. Smith sent a roller to Stock, who relayed the pill to Paulet, forcing Welchonce at the midway. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

O'Dell rolled to Bisland, who made a crazy chuck past Agler and the former Cracker anchored safely at the opening peg. Schmidt sent a screaming liner to Bisland who clutched tight to it, thereby drawing much applause. Paulet kindly sent a grasser to Bisland, who handed the ball to Alperman, forcing O'Dell at the keystone. Clark dropped a one-timer into left garden, Paulet moving up a base. Alperman tossed out Campbell. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Stock and Robertson made easy work of Bisland's grounder. Agler went out over the O'Dell-Robertson route. Bailey grounded to Paulet, but Bill was safe at first for Robertson dropped a perfectly good throw. Bailey stole second with neatness and dispatch. Chapman gladdened the hearts of the multitude with a single through short, Bailey pulling up at third. Brady's best was a roller down the first base line that Robertson handled all by his lonesome. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Hogg sent a ballooner to Welchonce. Stock singled to right. McGillsacrificed Stock along to second with a bunt that Brady handed to Agler. Robertson was turned back to Agler. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Long raised to Paulet. Welchonce died, Paulet to Robertson. Alperman went back to work when Paulet and Robertson repeated. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Smith and Agler did all that was necessary with O'Dell's daisy-cutter. Schmidt lanced a single to center. Schmidt raced around to third when Paulet dropped a one-timer to right. Clark rolled to Alperman who tossed to Bisland in hopes of forcing Paulet, but the shortstop dropped the ball, and on the error Schmidt tallied. Campbell singled to left, and Paulet scored. Hogg singled to center, scoring Clark and Campbell. Stock beat out a slow roller for a hit. McGill doubled to right, scoring Hogg, while Stock made third. Brady was yanked off the mound here, Dent taking up the unwelcomed burden. Robertson popped to Agler. Stock tried to score on a short passed ball, but died, Chapman to Dent. SIX HITS, FIVE RUNS.

Smith soared high and far to Campbell. Bisland was easy for Stock and Robertson. Agler lifted to Clark. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

O'Dell pushed a grasser to Smith and was out to Agler. Schmidt was out, Smith to Agler. Paulet poled a long triple to the score board. Clarke rolled an easy grounder to Smith, but when Agler dropped Wallie's throw Paulet registered, while Clarke was safe at the initial sack. Clarke stole second. Campbell ended the inning with a high foul to Smith. ONE HIT, ONE RUN.

Robertson handled Bailey's grounder without any assistance. Chapman rolled an easy grounder to Hogg and was out to Robertson. Dent rompedtofirst on four bad ones. Long's best was a pop fly to Paulet. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

Hogg lined to Bailey, but when the latter failed to hold the pill, the Gull twirler was safe. Stock placed his bat against the ball for a single to left and Hogg went to second. McGill bunted to Dent and Hogg was forced on Dent's fast relay to Smith. Robertson bit a grounder to Alperman and McGill was forced at second, to Bisland. Robertson pilfered second. O'Dell was not equal to the occasion and was out, Bisland to Agler. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Welchonce lifted a long fly to Campbell. Alperman was easy for Hogg and Robertson. Smith rolled an easy grounder to Odell and was out to Robertson. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

Alperman and Agler took care of Schmidt. Paulet grounded to Bisland and was out to Agler. Clark smashed a single to center. Campbell flied out to long. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Bisland fleid to McGill. Agler fouled to Schmidt. Bailey out Robertson to Hogg, who covered first. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

Hogg poped to Bailey. Stock walked. McGill out, Smith to Agler. Robertson filed to Bisland. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Chapman singled. Dent flied to Hogg. Long forced Chapman. Stock made a wild throw to first and Long was safe. Welchonce flied to Campbell. One hit, no runs.

NINTH INNING.

O'Dell flied to Bisland. Schmidt flied to Long. Paulet flied to Long. No hits, no runs.

Alperman singled. Smith out, Paulet to Robertson. Bisland lined to McGill. Agler fanned.

GEORGIAN'S STORY STIRS OFFICIALS TO ACTION

Mincey Affidavit Leads to Another Cross-Examination of Phagan Case Suspect.

As a result of the publication by The Georgian exclusively Thursday of the sensational affidavit of W. M. Mincey, the insurance agent, which declared that Jim Conley had confessed on the afternoon of the Phagan murder, that he had killed a little girl, the negro sweeper was again put on the grill late Friday afternoon. The cross-examination was conducted by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey personally at the police station and was attended by utmost secrecy.

Conley was taken into the Police Commissioners' room on the second floor of the station house by a circuitous route to avoid being seen. In the room awaiting him were the Solicitor, his assistant, Frank J. Hooper, and Chief of Detectives Lanford. The negro was questioned for more than an hour. The result of the inquiry was not made known.

That Mincey's affidavit is of the utmost importance became obvious with this latest move by the prosecution. Undoubtedly its startling accusations, directing guilt at the negro, have shown themselves to the State to have foundation of more strength than Mr. Dorsey and his colleagues have so far cared to admit.

Police Deny Being Told.

Interviews with the detective heads brought denials that Mincey ever had told them the story that was printed in The Georgian. Attorneys for the defense, however, corroborated the published details of the affidavit.

"It is correct in every detail," said one of the lawyers. "It was not the intention to make any of our important evidence public, but now that Mincey's story has found its way into print, there is nothing to do but admit that we have the affidavit and that it makes the assertions which The Georgian printed yesterday.

"It is only natural that an attempt will be made to discredit Mincey's story. But we are assured of its truth and are confident that it will stand the test of all the investigation that can be made."

J. S. Dukes, manager of the American Insurance Company, by whom Mincey was employed until two weeks ago, was seen Friday and was disposed to discredit Mincey's affidavit.

He declared that Mincey was something of a braggart and that on the Monday following the crime had asserted his belief in the guilt of Newt Lee. When Conley was arrested, said Dukes, Mincey at once became just as certain that Conley had committed the crime.

"Mincey was wondering how much money he might make as a witness and seemed more concerned with this phase of the case than with the identity of the murderer," said Dukes.

Conley Indictment Likely.

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's con-

business she knows. The chief stated that the girl will be taken around the city Friday afternoon to identify the three men, and that they will be arrested at once after being identified.

In addition to the four men named by the Wilson girl against whom charges will be made, she gave the Chief the names of thirteen others with whom she says she and Dora Rothstein have taken auto rides.

These twelve will be subpenaed as witnesses in the trial of the two girls, which has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, and forced to tell all they know about vice. If evidence warranting it develops at the trial, they will be arrested and cases made against them.

Two men named by the Wilson girl as having kept her and the Rothstein girl in the woods for several nights were arrested by the police Friday morning. They are A. C. Dollar, a shoemaker, living at 69 Davis Street, who is held on a charge of disorderly conduct, and W. W. Suttles, assistant yardmaster of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, who is held on a kidnaping charge.

Suttles and Dollar were named also in the statements of the Rothstein girl, who named the Wilson girl as a procurer, and declared she introduced her to the two men.

Wilson Girl Denies Charge.

Corrinne Wilson denies the charges made against her by the Rothstein girl and declares that she was led into a life of shame by the latter girl and the two men.

"I met the Rothstein girl at the White City Park last Fourth of July," said the Wilson girl. "I was skating and fell, and she was among the crowd that gathered around me. That is how I met her. We were together all that evening and night in the woods near the park, and the next day we met Suttles and Dollar. Monday night we stayed all night with men at the baseball park.

"Saturday night and Sunday night we spent somewhere in the woods, and Monday night we stayed at the baseball park with some men. Tuesday and Wednesday night we stayed with Dollar and Suttles in an old mill on the Adamsville Road. Yesterday afternoon we came to Atlanta and were arrested last night.

Accuses Her Accuser.

"Dora Rothstein lied when she says I induced her to go with the men. She told me she had been doing it for a long time and that we could have a good time and make some money. I yielded when she told me we could make money, and she introduced me to the men."

The Wilson girl told Chief Beavers also that eight months ago, before she was married, she stayed at a hotel on Broad Street with a man, registering as his wife. She says she is the wife of Andrew Wilson, who now is working in Marietta. She came to Atlanta four weeks ago to visit her mother, who had burned her foot, she said.

Chief Beavers stated that in addition to involving the hotels and the seventeen men, the Wilson girl has told him a lot of things she had heard from other girls. He said she had given him the names of all the girls she knew who made a practice of going auto riding with men and of staying at the hotels with them, and that all of the girls will be brought to headquarters and questioned.

The Wilson girl also gave the chief the names of a number of alleged assignation houses which, she asserted, she and other girls had visited, and all will be thoroughly investigated.

MORTGAGE LAW REFORM LOSES IN HOUSE

Attempt to Reduce Number of Foreclosure Notices Defeated. Committee Report Ignored.

The effort to reform the mortgage laws of Georgia so that the mortgage holder would be required before foreclosing to advertise once a week for four weeks instead of for four months prior to the next term of the Superior Court, met with defeat in the House Friday, despite the favorable recommendation of General Judiciary Committee No. 1.

Representative Moss, of Cobb, presented a minority report, in which the proposed bill was declared to be too drastic. This drew a debate, in which Representative Wohlwender, chairman of General Judiciary Committee No. 1, and Garlington, of Fulton, and Wright, of Floyd, participated.

The roll call showed 83 yeas and 76 nays on the passage of the bill. This not being a constitutional majority, the bill was declared lost. Representative Barry Wright gave notice that he would move to reconsider the bill.

Davidson, of Putnam, and Sparks, of Toombs, presented the bill, Speaker Pro Tem. E. H. McMichael, of Marion, presided for the first time during the calling of the roll on this bill.

Among the new bills filed were:

By Fulbright, of Burke—Providing for a special tax of 1 mill during 1915 and 1916 to meet deficiencies.

Rhodes, of Clark—Appropriating $50,000 for new buildings at the University of Georgia.

Cheney, of Cobb—Requiring that before the marriage of persons under 18 years of age notice of the marriage license be advertised in the public gazette for at least one week.

Gower, of Crisp—Permitting owners of electric railroad companies, electric power and hydro-electric companies, to own and control gas companies.

Burwell, of Hancock—Providing amendment to the Constitution providing the pro rata ad valorem tax levy for the common schools of Georgia.

Connor, of Spalding—Providing for the county of Lamar.

$600 BACK PAY IS VOTED CLERK BY SENATE

First Expenditure by New Legislature Consummated — Slaton's Appointments Confirmed.

The first measure involving the expenditure of money by the present Legislature was acted on by the Georgia Senate Friday. It was a House resolution providing for payment of the earned salary of the insurance clerk, and made up a deficiency of $600 in the 1913 budget.

Four appointments by the Governor were approved by the Senate in executive session. The appointees were L. D. Shannon to be Judge of the City Court of Jeffersonville and H. J. Griffin to be Solicitor, and Carl Vinson to be Judge of the County Court of Baldwin and J. D. Howard to be Solicitor.

Among the bills reported from committees with recommendation for passage was one to increase the number of senatorial districts to 60. It provides that each of the six counties with the largest population shall be a senatorial district.

Would Regulate Doctors.

The bill regulating the practice of medicine and creating a State Board of Medical Examiners was reported favorably from committee. These two bills were read the second time.

Senator Grant D. Perry, of the Twenty-eighth District, introduced a bill providing for monthly pay of school-teachers. The first section provides that hereafter "teachers in the public schools of Georgia shall be paid monthly." The second section, in part, provides "that the payment of teachers shall be considered of as much importance as that of any other employees of the State, and the Governor shall have as much right to exercise his borrowing power for this purpose as for any other State expense."

Other Bills Are Presented.

New bills were introduced in the Senate and referred to committees as follows:

By Senator L. L. Ford—Amending the code with reference to quarantine against the Mexican boll weevil.

By Senator J. N. Watts—Changing the title of the stenographer in the Department of Commerce and Labor to "stenographer and chief clerk."

By Senator M. E. Rushin and Senator J. R. Anderson—Providing for maintenance of inter-county bridges and causeways.

The usual number of House bills were received and referred to Senate committees. The Senate adjourned to meet at noon Monday.

Engineers to Have Barbecue Saturday

MINCEY'S STORY JOLTS POLICE TO ACTIVITY

nection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Dorsey Makes No Comment.

Solicitor Dorsey Friday morning would make no comment on the new evidence.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Lee Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

Macon Society Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

Frank Hammond Gets Office in T. M. A.

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of The Footlight, a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge and deputy grand president of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

The Footlight, of which Earle E. Griggs is editor, was made the official publication of the T. M. A.

WIDOW ACCUSED IN CRAWFORD WILL CASE

MRS. MARY BELLE CRAWFORD.

GREATER ARMY POST HERE IS CERTAIN

Garrison's Plan to Centralize Regulars Will Result in Enlargement of Fort McPherson.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventeenth Infantry.

VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Mr. Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH ATTACK ON WOMAN

Harris County Community Aroused by Accusation of Planter's Wife. Prisoner Guarded.

COLUMBUS, GA., July 11.—Dr. James Delemar, a well-known physician of Mountain Hill, Harris County, is confined in the Muscogee County jail, charged with attacking the wife of a prominent Harris County farmer.

Feeling between the families and friends of the accuser and accused is tense. Dr. Delemar was lodged in jail here because of threats of violence.

The Delemar family and that of the woman who says she was attacked are among the most prominent in Harris County and the charge against the doctor has caused a sensation.

Dr. Delemar is married and prior to this charge had always borne a splendid reputation.

His preliminary hearing has been set for Saturday morning.

The woman says she was attacked last February, but kept the fact a secret until yesterday.

Trouble between friends of the families is feared when the preliminary hearing is held.

Motorcycle Racer At Macon Is Killed

While going about 50 miles an hour, and turning the first curve from the grandstand, a pedal scraped the ground and struck a rock. O'Brien was hurled against a fence, striking on his head, his neck being broken and his body badly mangled. The motorcycle was wrecked.

ROYAL PARTY IS ASSAILED BY MILITANTS

Gunman, Hired by Suffragists, Fires Shot From Gallery of House of Commons.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Many persons were hurt here to-day in street fighting between men and women which followed an attempt by militant suffragettes to attack the carriage in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the city.

The attack followed a wild scene in Lord Street when Miss Jolly, secretary of the Liverpool branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, made a lone raid, smashing hundreds of dollars' worth of plate-glass windows.

The local militant leaders had laid plans for the biggest suffrage demonstration Liverpool has ever seen, because of the presence here to-day of the King and Queen, who are making a tour of England.

Great Precautions Taken.

Extraordinary police precautions had been taken to guard their majesties from attack, as it was feared that the militants, who have been unusually active here of late, would attempt to interfere with the progress of the royal party and perhaps commit actual assault.

Soldiers co-operated with police and detectives in policing the streets and in protecting the King and Queen from the crowds.

Just before the royal party turned into Lord Street Miss Jolly appeared, dashing into the crowd of spectators, and brandishing a poker above her head, she scattered them right and left. Screaming denunciations of the Government, she sent her weapon crashing into the plate-glass windows, doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

Several policemen overpowered her while she struggled with maniacal fury. She was locked up. This incident alarmed the authorities, for it served as a clew that the women planned an active day.

Royal Carriage Attacked.

Half an hour later the attack upon the royal carriage occurred. From a break in the police lines several women ran into the street. They hurled a quantity of suffrage literature into the carriage and one of them seized the door and tried to wrench it open. Another ran toward the horses' heads to stop them.

An equerry leaped to the street and grappled with one of the women, and in an instant the others were seized by policemen. In the meantime, however, supporters of the militants had swarmed to the aid of their sisters and a fight began.

Women attacked men and men retaliated. Fists, clubs and hatpins were the chief weapons. Many were knocked down and trampled. The police made a number of arrests.

Shot Creates Panic In House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—An evident attempt at assassination occurred in the House of Commons to-day when a man in the gallery for spectators drew a revolver and fired shortly after the session of the House opened. A parliamentary policeman who was nearby grasped the man and wrenched the pistol from his hand before he could fire again.

One sensational report which was circulated was that the man was a fanatic on the topic of suffrage and had attempted to assassinate Premier Asquith because of his opposition to the suffrage propaganda. Another report was that the man had been hired by the militants to make a demonstration, and that the bullet was not intended for any one in particular.

The other spectators in the gallery were thrown into panic by the shooting and a mad scramble for the exits ensued. Many were knocked down and trampled. On the floor of the house there was high excitement. So great was the uproar that all business was suspended.

HEALEY BUILDING WORKMEN OUT ON STRIKE

The Employment of Non-Union Painter Stops Work on 16-Story Structure.

Attempts of the R. M. Walker Company, general contractors, to employ non-union painters and electricians on the Healey Building brought on a general strike Friday afternoon. One non-union painter started to work at 2 o'clock, and his appearance was the signal for a walk-out. Two minutes later not a man was working on the building.

The skeleton of the Healey Building, sixteen stories above ground, had just been constructed by the steelworkers, who had flung an American flag to the breezes high in air when the topmost beam was riveted.

None but union men had worked on the building. Electricians and painters were expected to begin their interior work at noon Friday, but when the hour arrived no agreement had been reached between the general contractors and the Painters' and and Electricians' Unions.

Business agents of the unions conferred with the R. M. Walker Company between noon and 2 o'clock, but no agreement could be reached. Meanwhile, the contractors had begun negotiations with non-union men.

Federation officers have resumed negotiations with the contractors looking to the employment of union electricians and painters. It is expected the differences will be adjusted and union workmen will return to their jobs Saturday.

the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best effort can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend, an external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every cord, nerve, muscle and tendon involved.

There will be no pain, none of that nausea or morning sickness, no sensation of distress or strain of expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, thus making the period one of restful days, of peaceful nights and a source of happiest anticipation.

The young, expectant mother must be carefully watchful lest she become absorbed in those mental distresses which ill prepare her for the most important event in her life.

Mother's Friend enables her to avoid all sensation of dread, worry or pain, and thus she is preserved in health and strength to take up the joyful task of motherhood.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at all drug stores at $1 a bottle. Do not fail to use it regularly as directed. Write to-day to Bradfield Regulator Company, 135 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga., for their most valuable little guide book for expectant mothers.

Important Reductions in Underwood Bill Made by Upper Branch of Congress

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applies to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or convict labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

SENATE MAKES GREAT CUTS IN SCHEDULES OF HOUSE TARIFF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 3 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax.	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000
Income tax	70,000,000	69,625,000
Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per bushel and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

Sues for $2,000 and Obtains Just $27.30

COLUMBUS, July 11.—A jury in the City Court returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $27.30, being the amount of premiums paid in the case of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Richardson's death occurred October 25, 1912, and the investigation of the police led to the announcement that he had committed suicide. When the father of the young man demanded payment of the $2,000 policy the insurance company refused.

At 85, Sees Her First Hobble; Dislikes It

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. John McCafferty, 85, of this city, who has been blind for fifteen years, has just seen an automobile for the first time. She also saw a number of hobble skirts, which met with her instant disapproval.

Although several doctors had declared the condition of her eyes hopeless, an operation for the removal of cataracts was successful.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED.

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—James H. Anderson, referee in bankruptcy, has denied a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, of Dayton, Tenn. Creditors whose claims aggregated more than $1,000,000 were represented.

VINCENT ASTOR'S SWEETHEART, MISS KATHERINE FORCE, TO WED

MISS KATHERINE FORCE AND MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

STATESBORO HAS LIVE UNION OF FARMERS

Bulloch County Town Supports One of State's Best Agricultural Colleges.

STATESBORO, GA., July 11.—Filling the large auditorium of the First District Agricultural College to its capacity Bulloch County farmers rallied to the call of the Farmers' Union and to the standard bearer, Charles S. Barrett.

L. M. Rhodes, of Tennessee, delivered one of the greatest addresses ever heard here. The crowd showed its appreciation by applause.

The Bulloch County Union is one of the best in the State, due largely to the efforts of Professor O. T. Harper, of the Agricultural College, a tireless worker for the farmer.

Another factor is President E. C. J. Dickens, who took charge of the college after it had run down to a handful of students, and built it up until it ranks as a leader. It has an enrollment equal to one-sixth of the total of the eleven district agricultural colleges in the State. Scientific farming, mechanics and domestic science are taught.

A magnificent brick building has been erected. It was designed and built by the students.

The farm of about 120 acres resembles an experiment farm after the experiment has proven a success. Finer corn could not be found anywhere. Other crops are as good. Bulloch farmers call it their school. It will not be long until reservations will have to be made a year in advance.

Bulloch County farmers believe in the Farmers' Union and Charles S. Barrett, who is making their cause his life work.

Statesboro is a progressive and up-to-date little town. On every hand new buildings are going up. Old ones are being remodele.

There is a magnificent three-story office building, covering a quarter of a block, which would be a credit to any town of five times the population.

There are good department stores. One is three stories. It covers a space of about 100 by 150 feet. The other big department store is only two stories high, but covers a space 150 by 150 feet, with a large warehouse in the rear.

An odd feature of this store is that the center, with a frontage of about 25 feet, is the First National Bank, of which the head of the store is president. On either side of the bank are entrances to the store.

Either of these stores would be appreciated in Atlanta or any other city.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

They intend to stock their chain of stores with goods manufactured in Atlanta. J. D. Rhodes, of Atlanta, is vice president of the syndicate and chief of the purchasing department.

DEWBERRY PAYS FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Negro Confesses Slaying, Professes Religion and Mounts Gallows Calmly.

Exactly one year to the very day and hour after the death of his victim, Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing 15-year-old Horace Dodson on Decatur Street, May 27, 1912, expiated his crime on the gallows in the county prison Friday morning. The trap was sprung by Deputy Sheriff John Owens at 11:05 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Dewberry confessed his guilt to Sheriff Mangum at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and later dictated a written confession to the Rev. H. H. Proctor. He said he stabbed young Dodson after Dodson and some other boys had brushed against him.

The negro professed religion and prayed fervently just before he was led to the gallows.

Dewberry mounted the scaffold with a firm step. When Sheriff Mangum asked him if he had anything to to say, following the reading of the death warrant, he replied calmly that he did not.

During the hanging, which was attended by about 25 men, including county officials, newspaper men, physicians and deputy sheriffs, the condemned man's sister, who is also in jail charged with burglary, emitted shrieks which could be heard for blocks around.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $50, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

(Affidavit) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Note—Mrs. Garvin has seven children.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all of Jacobs' Drug Stores and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

SPEAKER DENIES CHARGES MADE BY LAMAR

Never Knew Him and Was Unacquainted With Morgan, Champ Clark Declares.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark appeared before the Lobby Committee of the Senate today and made a denial that he ever knew or had anything to do with J. Pierpont Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward Lauterbach or David Lamar. The Speaker's declaration was in answer to the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony before the committee, although Lamar finally admitted he never saw Speaker Clark and never had any direct communication with him.

It was the intention of the committee to call Colonel Martin W. Mulhall, but this action was delayed by lengthy testimony given by W. L. Whitman, of Boston, a wool manufacturer. Whitman testified, among other things, that Simon N. D. North, former Director of the Census, was on the pay roll of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers while he was chief statistician of the Census Bureau and while he was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee.

He was clerk of this committee while the Dingley tariff bill was under consideration. Whitman said North received $4,000 a year from the association up to the time he became Director of the Census.

Clark Defends Himself.

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone," said Speaker Clark. "Lauterbach, who acknowledged that he lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed that the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaimed any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and promptly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale a lie, in which he was entirely correct. He and I never in our lives conversed about or in any way mentioned to each other Morgan & Co. nor the Steel Trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever; never authorized anybody else to do so.

Didn't Know Morgan.

"I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never introduced, even casually, to him or to any of them. To my best knowledge and belief, I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron Club banquet.

"I was introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington several years ago in the presence of several gentlemen and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before or since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever nor about any business matter whatsoever.

"I never had heard of Lamar and knew only by seeing his name in the papers that there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and my name were being bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo Palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

4-YEAR-OLD MADE KING OF JUNIOR CLAN O'HARA

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike Riley Rules for Year Over Younger Members of Famous Irish Tribe.

Chief Michael Riley hunched up his shoulders, stuck his finger in his mouth, and tightened his grip on the collar of his dog, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Hara at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Now, for a year, Mike Riley, the 4-year-old son of Pete Riley, one of the leaders of the clan, will guide the destinies of his juvenile subjects.

He is king of the kids and his rich brogue and antics, together with his fascinating countenance, with the map of old Ireland on his face, make him almost adorable even to a stranger.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

Bijou Actors Delight Federal Prisoners

The players at the Bijou Theater this week held the boards Thursday at the Prison Auditorium, where they enacted "Along Broadway," much to the delight of the hundreds of men behind the walls.

Among those who gave the prisoners the benefit of their talents were Will Stanton, Miss Thornton and Miss Rosalind May. The tabloid was given under the direction of Mr. Labridy. The performers were assisted by the Bijou orchestra.

Aerial Liners to Ply From London to Paris

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—The first regular passenger airship service in England is being planned. New semi-rigid dirgibles will be built with a speed of 60 miles an hour.

It is proposed to provide services from London to Brighton, Birmingham and other English cities and also to Paris.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamship companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" asked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Strachan, who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition, but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quiz ended.

Saloon Men Plead Guilty; Take Fines

MACON, July 11.—After two had been convicted, fifteen other saloonkeepers pleaded guilty in the Superior Court to conducting their businesses for several months before paying licenses. J. J. Quinlan was fined $100 and J. B. Brooks $75, both going to the jury. The others, who pleaded guilty, paid fines ranging from $20 to $35.

When it was understood that Judge Mathews was imposing only nominal sentences on those who admitted their guilt, there was a rush by the defendants to enter pleas.

Feet Like Ton Weights?

Feet feel like they were dragging ton weights? Do they burn, ache and jump with shooting darts and pains? Instead of letting perspiration clog pores, retard circulation and cause all this fiendish torture, why don't you dissolve in a warm footbath, to-night, one or two Jacobs' Foot Relief Tablets, and put an end to your suffering? Instantly draws out the poisonous exudations, cleanses pores antiseptically, stops pains and aches, soothes, rests, stops the swelling, prevents abnormal sweating and keeps the feet feeling good. It is the finest preparation for the feet we have ever sold. Large box, 18c, by mail 20c.

Jacobs' Foot Comfort, powder form, to be sprinkled in shoes and stockings, to prevent excessive perspiration; keeps the feet cool and comfortable, 15c, by mail 17c.—(Advt.)

SUFFRAGE MEET ENDS; WOMEN ENCOURAGED

Tilts With Senate and the Civic League Show People Increasing Strength "of Course."

Members of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association closed Thursday night one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The fight started in the Legislature after the action of the Senate in denying the women the right to meet in the Capitol and the dissension with the Atlanta Civic League have served to bring the cause strongly before the people. More interest was manifested by the public generally in the convention than in any suffrage gathering of recent years.

About 50 women attended the business sessions of the convention. Their enthusiasm and willingness to fight to obtain their rights, shown by their stand before the Legislature and in the quarrel within the ranks, has given an impetus to the cause that is expected to aid them to obtain the 1,000 members they have set as their mark for 1914.

Press Bureau Is Indorsed.

Two propositions for spreading the suffrage movement were indorsed at the final session. A press bureau, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was organized, and expects to begin its work of education immediately.

Volunteers will be secured in every town in the State to furnish live, local news of the suffrage movement to the country papers, and a central bureau will be established in Atlanta to handle the suffrage news of the Capitol.

Miss Augusta Howard, of Columbus, proposed the organization of a "Men's Suffrage League," similar to organizations now existing in other States, which met with approval. No official action on the proposition was taken, but it is probable that the executive committee will endeavor to complete the organization of the league.

Reports Show Progress.

The reports of department superintendents showed that the movement has gained in Georgia to a greater extent than is generally supposed. These reports were made by Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. May C. Moore, Mrs. S. C. Osburne, Mrs. Mamie Matthews and Miss Katherine Koch.

Three addresses on suffrage, delivered before a crowd that filled the House of Representatives, brought the convention to a close Thursday night. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. W. A. Felton, of Cartersville, who made her first public appearance as a suffragist. Other speakers were Attorney Leonard Grossman and Miss Augusta Howard, founder of the State association and its president for six years.

On invitation of the DeKalb County Association, the convention voted to meet in Decatur in 1914.

Central Officials at Macon Depot Site

MACON, July 11.—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central and the Central of Georgia, and W. A. Winburn and A. R. Lawton, vice presidents of the latter road, stopped in Macon several hours to inspect the site chosen for the erection of the union station at Cherry and Fifth Streets.

Committees from Council and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the railroad in arranging settlements with owners on Cherry Street who claim their properties will be damaged by the closing of the street.

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

OBITUARY.

W. T. Preston, aged twenty-four, died Thursday night at the family residence, 124 West Pine Street. Funeral services were held at the residence Friday morning at 10 o'clock, interment being in Atlanta Park.

John S. Tribble, aged thirty-one, died Thursday night at the family residence on Campbellton Road. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and interment will be at South Bend Cemetery. A wife, three children, six brothers and one sister survive him.

W. D. Short, aged thirty-one, died early Friday morning at the residence of his father, E. P. Short, Church and Spring Streets, East Point. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Westview. The Junior Order of United American Mechanics will have charge of the funeral. The deceased is survived by his wife, two small children, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Short; five brothers, H. E., H. M., D. N., E. T. and Wingfield Short, and three sisters, Miss Mary and Elsie Short, of East Point, and Mrs. T. R. Cheney, of Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTEST FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STIRRING

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

Attempt to Blow Up Barracks Thwarted

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., July 11. An attempt was made here to-day to blow up the King Edward Military Barracks by sympathizers of youths who were imprisoned for refusing to do military service.

Electric wires attached to the explosives were discovered and disconnected, thus saving many lives and the building from destruction.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Barnett Getford, of Brooklyn, withdrew $700 from a savings bank and placed it in the kitchen range in his home. His wife built the fire.

NEW COUNTY OF CANDLER IS LIKELY

House Amendment Committee Indorses Proposal—Three Others Meet With Rejection.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has cleared the new county atmosphere considerably by recommending the creation of Candler County and turning down bills proposing the new counties of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall.

All of the counties proposed cutting into Tattnall County, and all were argued before the committee at the same time. The committee seems to have believed the Hampton, Evans and Stonewall proposals really were more "dummy" proposition set up to defeat Candler.

The throwing out of Evans, Hampton and Stonewell Counties very materially reduces the total number of new counties likely to get favorable action by the present Legislature.

The Constitutional Amendments Committee will go right along disposing of the dozen or so remaining propositions. Within the next week or ten days it should be possible to forecast with a degree of accuracy exactly what other counties besides Barrow and Candler stand any chance of getting through the Legislature.

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

The statement gives correspondence between himself, Senator Smith, Postmaster General Burleson and President Wilson's secretary, J. P. Tumulty.

BUTTON SLOGAN MUST BE IN BY SATURDAY

Hearst's Sunday American Will Announce Winner—Hundreds of Designs Submitted.

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Here is a good example of an out-of-town letter, from John T. Abney, of the Swift Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ga.:

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"A button carrying a photo of a telephone and the words, 'Call Atlanta.'"

H. W. Thorp, 152 West Peachtree Street, sends this one:

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

"Atlanta—always leads, always succeeds—the Half-Million City."—Woodie Hardeman.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"Largest city South—Atlanta, 1920, 500,000 population."—Alvin Samuel, 93 East Georgia Avenue.

"Half million by 1920. Boost Atlanta."—W. C. Meador, 49 Washington Street.

"All the time, every time Atlanta, 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"Atlanta's alive with 500,000 busy bees. 1920. Watch us hum."—Mrs. Albert Sydney Ullman, 483 Washington Street.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city, 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 100, Atlanta.

"Boost, boost, boost. Atlanta 1920, 500,000. Get the habit and come to Atlanta."—R. Speer, 635 Woodward Avenue.

"The Atlanta spirit, we have plenty, which assures half million in 1920."—Robert S. Link, Abbeville, S. C.

"Get 'Em or Bust."

"Half million or bust."—Carl J. Broome, Douglasville, Ga.

"Hearst's Sunday American did it. Atlanta, 500,000."—Mrs. Belle Tyson.

"God helps Atlanta."—H. L. Owen.

"Atlanta's growth and prosperity has no limit. Nineteen-twenty, half million people."—P. B. Rand.

"Hurrah for Atlanta, magic city."—G. Ford, 40 1-2 North Forsyth Street.

"Prosperity, wealth, opportunity, morality. America's Queen City. Watch Atlanta grow. 500,000 by 1920."—J. K. Tippett, Frederick apartments.

All Express Optimism.

"Atlanta, the Pinnacle City."—Jas. F. Saunders, 94 Greenwood Avenue.

"Success is yours in Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."—A. C. Lanier, 595 North Jackson Street.

"Onward to Atlanta, the Half-Million City, 1920."—Mrs. N. E. Love, 633 Woodward Avenue.

"Atlanta, the Gate City,
With a half-million plan,
And whatever has been called for
She has never failed to land."
—Orie King.

476 Whitehall Street.

J. S. Booth, of 12 West Pine Street, suggests a button with the face of Mayor Woodward on it, and these words around it: "Only one Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."

"We push, Atlanta's Half-Million Club."—George A. Latimer.

"We boost Atlanta. Half Million, 1920. Opportunity, location, organization, co-operation. Come!"—W. W. Tommins, 35 Chatham Street.

Bowden Man Enters.

"Half million souls Atlanta needs and half million souls she's going to have. I'm in the fight for them. Are you?"—G. A. Barr, Bowden, Ga.

MR. DOLPH WALKER, Empire Bldg.

One of the most prominent and successful business men of the city, says: "Dr. Kelly's Nuxcara cured me of dyspepsia in its worst form after I had suffered for years. In spite of the fact that I took every digestive remedy that I could hear of I was almost an invalid, and so discouraged that I had about decided to give up all medicines advertised for stomach troubles, as I had about lost faith in drugs. My case was so bad that I could not see any improvement at all on the first bottle of Nuxcara, but by the time I had taken five bottles I had gained forty-five pounds and was stronger and in better health than I ever was in my life. It is certainly the most wonderful remedy known."

The Social World

Mrs. Charles Remsen was hostess at an informal tea of fifteen guests Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Club, in honor of Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, the guest of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel.

The guests were received on the piazza surrounding the ballroom. Later, tea was served at four small tables, each decorated with summer flowers.

Mrs. Remson was lovely in white embroidered crepe, worn with a Panama hat tied with purple streamers.

Bridges-Black.

Miss Julia Caroline Bridges and Mr. Arthur Franklin Black were married Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Bridges, 143 Lawton Street. The bride and bridegroom departed later for Washington, D. C.

The bride wore white embroidered marquisette and carried bride roses. Her traveling costume was of tan ratine, with hat, shoes and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Portsmouth, Va.

Dinner Dance at Country Club.

The dinner dance at the Capital City Country Club Thursday evening was the second in the series inaugurated at the new clubhouse, and was largely attended. Several parties were given.

Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, was the honor guest at a large party given by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser. Invited to meet her were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser and Mr. James M. Nunnally.

Another party was given by Judge and Mrs. J. T. Pendleton in honor of their guests, Misses Mary B. Murphy and Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nunnally and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stewart.

Other hosts of the evening were Mr. Edward Alfriend, Mr. W. R. McBurney, Mr. Dodson, Mr. W. R. Baskerville, Mr. Fleming and Mr. Pool.

Miss Almeta Jackson Entertains.

Miss Almeta Jackson was hostess Thursday afternoon at her home on Myrtle Street, entertaining a number of her young friends. Hearts dice was played, and Miss Kathryn Donely won the prize, gold pins. Miss Helen Nesbit won the second prize, a bottle of extract.

Misses Sarah Roberson and Sarah Eubanks served punch, and Mrs. T. A. Burke and Miss Marguerite Adams, of West Point, assisted in entertaining.

The guests included Misses Katherine and Nedra Turner, Marion Dean, Marie Stoddard, Hallie Crawford, Louise Cooper, Idella Andrews, Elizabeth Downing, Helen Brown, Evelyn Roberts, Bernice Jackson, Aline Conley, Helen Tucker, Ellen Donnelly, Katherine Donnelly, Alma Boone, Elizabeth Floding, Mary Floding, Ida Brittain, Anne Dow Wurm, Lucile Young, Elizabeth Millard, Cornelia Walker, Virginia Walker, Sarah Robertson, Sarah Eubanks and Marguerite Adams of West Point.

Dancing Party.

Miss Helen Atkisson will entertain at a dancing party Friday evening at her home in Ansley Park for Miss Dorothy Robbins, of Birmingham, and Miss Dodo White's guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle. About 70 young people will dance.

Mrs. Snodgrass Hostess.

Mrs. W. W. Snodgrass entertained at a spend-the-day party Friday at her home in Lawton Street for Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, guest of Misses Mary and Lucile Goodrich.

Miss Pollock Hostess.

Miss Madge Pollock was hostess at a 5-o'clock tea Friday afternoon at her home in North Avenue. The party was for Miss Dodo White's house party guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle.

In the dining room, where the ices were served, there was a Marie Antoinette basket of Shasta daisies adorning the table. Yellow tulle was draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

Miss Pollock wore yellow satin draped in white chiffon and trimmed in seed pearls. Mrs. George Pollock, her mother, assisted her in entertaining. She wore white lace with touches of blue satin. Little Misses Margaret Elder, Mary White and Elizabeth Goldsmith received the callers at the door. Others assisting were Misses Nina Neal, Marion Neal, Louise Dobbs, Ruth Reid, Marie Cobb, Harriet Haynes, Jennie Lou Lindsey, Martha Lawshe and Ruth Cocke. Guests numbered 150.

For Miss Lewis.

Miss Laurette Lewis, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Edgar Jones will take place next Wednesday afternoon, was tendered a forty-two party Friday afternoon by Miss Laliah Moncrief. This is the last of a series of affairs for Miss Lewis preceding her marriage.

For Miss Cozart.

Miss Fannie Lou Cozart, of Washington, Ga., who is visiting Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick, is being entertained pleasantly in an informal way. Thursday afternoon Miss Cozart was honor guest at tea at the East Lake Country Club, following a motor ride. Thursday evening she was entertained at an informal party given by the Misses Kirkpatrick.

Birthrday Party.

The guests were Misses Ann Lane Newell and Ellen Newell, Annette, Louise and Elinor Gay, Marcelle Robinson, Inez Fuller and Elizabeth Irwin.

Hotel Sleuth Shoots Himself Cleaning Gun

While oiling and cleaning his revolver Thursday afternoon, G. W. Walker, special detective at the Georgian Terrace, accidentally shot himself in the leg just below the knee.

An hour later he walked to the taxicab which took him to Grady Hospital. Dr. A. G. DeLoach said the wound was slight.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Forsyth Busy This Week.

Attendance this week at the Forsyth is well up to the standard of the busy theater. The house is being well filled at nearly every performance and the several feature acts are winning deserved applause.

Next week's program has already been arranged and includes some delightful acts. The headliner will be Valerie Bergere and company in "Judgment," and among the comedy features will be Britt Wood, an exceptionally clever character comedian.

Grand Pictures Popular.

Motion pictures at the Grand daily from 2:30 until 10:30 have added wonderfully to the popularity of this theater.

The very highest grade of first-run motion pictures is offered, and the program is as good as any that has been exhibited on a screen in the city.

At the Bijou.

"Along Broadway," with Will Stanton and Rosalind May, is filling the Bijou to capacity this week. The performance bristles with breezy action, and the several specialties that stand out with startling distinction are the violin solo by Miss Marguerite Calvert, the juggling of Sam Alburtus and the Tango dance by Ingalls and Hite. For next week another snappy and up-to-date attraction is announced, "Hotel a la Carte."

TAX REFORM IS GEORGIA'S HOPE SAYS SLATON

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Agreed More Money Is Needed.

"Revenues and expenditures of Georgia must balance," declared Governor John M. Slaton Thursday night. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, and W. H. Burwell, Speaker of the House of Representatives, concurred.

Members of the Georgia Legislature and of the Chamber of Commerce, 700 in all, voiced their hearty approval in the great ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club.

The occasion was a reception to the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," said Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the guests applauded noisily.

Governor Slaton and the heads of the legislative arm of the State government seized the chance to express their conviction that Georgia is confronted with one of the most serious problems of its history—a deficit in the State Treasury. It was the unanimous opinion that the Legislature is able to solve the problem.

"The revenue and expenditure of Georgia must square," said Governor Slaton to the diners. "When I tell you that in one of our State institutions, where girls are taught to cook and to sew and to make happy homes for Georgians, it is necessary to put fourteen girls in a room, you will see the need of greater revenues. When I tell you that the Technological School is offered $100,000 worth of the most modern machinery if only we can provide housing for it, and when I tell you that the Agricultural College at Athens is in sore need of funds, you will see the need of greater revenues.

"The man who is paying 10 cents on the dollar while his neighbor is paying 20 cents on the dollar in taxes ought to be made to increase his payments. An increase of only 20 per cent in taxable values in Georgia means $180,000,000, which means $900,000 added revenue—enough to supply all the State institutions and pay all the debts."

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

Testimony by William Devery, of the New York Imperial Film Exchange, before the special examiner in the Government's suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law brought this out.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

MAYOR'S ROOSTER MUST GO.

BOSTON, July 11.—A neighbor complained anonymously that Mayor Fitzgerald has been violating a city ordinance by keeping a rooster in the henyard at his home, and the Board of Health ordered that he must kill or remove it.

TWO WOMEN IN PERIL OF MOB IN TENNESSEE

Mother and Daughter, Confessed Slayers of Stepchildren, Given Additional Jail Guard.

UNION CITY, TENN., July 11.—Threats of mob violence against Mrs. James Yates and her daughter, Floy Farris, 18, in jail here following the confessed murder of the children of James Yates, caused county officials to-day to place a special guard about the jail. An attempt at lynching is expected to-night.

Mrs. Yates, second wife of James Yates, a prosperous farmer, confessed that she had drowned the two children of Yates' first wife. Her daughter by a former marriage, Floy Farris, was with her, and, according to the story, aided in the crime.

The killing occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Yates found the two children, a boy, 12, and his sister, 10, swimming in a creek that ran through the Yates farm. She ordered them to leave the water. The boy, she said, called her vile names. She became enraged at him, she said, and, seizing him by the throat, held his head under the water until he drowned.

The lad's sister screamed and tried to escape, but was caught by the Farris girl, the woman said, and was drowned as her brother had been.

The children's bodies were found in the creek Wednesday night. Yesterday Mrs. Yates and her daughter were arrested. The woman confessed to-day.

Her husband to-day declared he would use every effort to see that his wife was hanged for the crime.

Aviator in 900-Mile Air Race Near Record

MACATAWA, MICH., July 11.—A world's hydroaeroplane record for distance was within the grasp of Glenn Martin, of Los Angeles, this afternoon as he closed in upon Beckwith Haven and Roy M. Francis, leaders in the Chicago-to-Detroit airboat race.

Martin maintained a speed of 80 miles an hour for 200 miles to-day after leaving Chicago. He landed for half an hour at Michigan City, and then came on to Macatawa Bay, where he lunched and left for Cralevoix, his third scheduled stop, shortly after 1 o'clock.

Families Fight for Possession of Bride

ANNISTON, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Peel, who were married Wednesday morning, are central figures in a family quarrel to-day.

W. D. Chandler, the girl's father, hurried to the house where the two were stopping and took his daughter home. She now is held a prisoner.

The father of the bridegroom, Samuel Peel, is helping his son in his efforts to recover his bride. He contemplated habeas corpus proceedings, but was advised first to try moral suasion on the father of the bride.

Tifton Man Held as Philadelphia Forger

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Maintaining his innocence even after a merciless cross-examination by detectives, Henry L. Kramer, who was brought back yesterday from Tifton, Ga., charged with forgery and embezzlement, was released under $1,500 bail.

A scene was caused in the courtroom when the accused man's wife denounced her husband's accusers. Later she secured the bondsmen.

Mrs. Kramer is a Tifton girl.

French Scientist Has Wireless Telephone

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, July 11.—Professor d'Arzonval, the eminent scientist, it is reported, has just found a complete and practical solution of the baffling problem of wireless telephony.

How he has accomplished this is at present kept secret, but the report is generally credited here.

Walter E. Willimon, of Greenville, who has been in the employ of the postal service for the past seven years, has been appointed a postoffice inspector and will be retained in the Atlanta division.

Negro's Attempt to Rob Bank Thwarted

CORDELE, July 11.—While L. E. Fenn, assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Cordele, was counting several thousand dollars in cash and currency late last night the electric lights suddenly went out.

Mr. Fenn, fearing robbery, summoned a policeman, who found a negro hiding near the electric switch in the bank building. As the would-be robber was making a quick getaway the policeman fired several shots at him.

Co-Eds Cheer Wilson For His Skill at Golf

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson has so improved in health in the last three days, and likes his summer home so well that he has decided to stay until Sunday.

While golfing yesterday the President putted neatly, almost from the edge of the turf, and a party of co-eds from the Dartmouth Summer School clapped their hands in applause.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and exteads down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well, but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

'Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

"Oh," smiled the young man, "there's always money where the ghost walks."

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse. I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bull-hound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Sweil costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

"Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—
Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That nasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Donner and blitzen, nein! In England —in dis gountry."

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

T. Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

Another thing—a poor umpire is generally the most honest thing in the world.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked. The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

Price beat out his usual bunt. He's a marvel at that.

In the fourth inning Cavet retired the Crackers on four pitched balls.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

STANDING OF THE RIDERS.
Name	1st	2d	3d	T't'l.
Richards	6	2	0	38
Shields	1	2	2	19
Lockner	1	2	2	19
Renel	0	3	2	18
McNeil	2	0	1	13
Graves	0	1	2	10
Lewis	0	0	1	3

IT looks like rather the best program of all out at the Motordrome to-night.

Three features are carded, and each looks a wonder.

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines. Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.
Motordrome Purse.
One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.
No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.
No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.
Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.
Crackers' Sweepstakes.
Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.
No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Eighth Event.
No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Ninth Event.
Seven miles final of the Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Tenth Event.
Four-cornered special match race to be announced later, four miles.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COLumn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed. Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared today that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Doolin and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Joe Tinker, who needs pitchers, probably would part with $10,000 of Garry Herrmann's money right now for Brennan.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

Miner Brown, who pitched for the Reds yesterday and won, is still suffering from an injury to his knee, although his arm is as strong as ever. His running is badly handicapped.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. O." made a big hit up there and will be given a Butte match with one of the star middleweights before long. Walsh likes Butte as a boxing town so well that he is going to take Joe Mandot up there to fight in the fall. Mandot will be here to join Walsh in a few days.

TAGGART DECLARES HE IS NOT "ANGEL" FOR TRACK

FRENCH LICK, IND., July 11.—"What? Me the 'angel' for the Mineral Springs Jockey Club? Quit kidding me!" shouted Thomas Taggart, when interrogated as to the reports printed in Chicago newspapers that he had guaranteed purses offered by the Jockey Club so that the meeting would not "blow up."

Mr. Taggart pronounced the report as "a pure fabrication" or "untruth," declaring he had no connection whatever with the Porter races.

CLARKE WARS ON BRENNAN; ASKED COOPER TO FIGHT

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Manager Clarke, of the Pirates, has filed sworn charges with National League President Lynch, accusing Umpire Brennan of challenging Pitcher Cooper to fight under the Philadelphia grandstand after Tuesday's game with Philadelphia. Cooper is said to have accepted and Brennan was absent.

Clarke wired President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club this information to-day, together with the information that the fine of $25 imposed on Cooper had been paid under protest.

LYNCH NOTIFIES UMPIRES; GAMES TO GO 9 INNINGS

NEW YORK, July 11.—President Lynch, of the National League, to-day notified his umpires that in the future all teams would be required to play nine full innings in each game, or as many as possible unless prevented by rain or darkness. There will be no more early starts and early stops by agreement of managers and umpires.

INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the seasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in a tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he fails in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a little in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., July 11. Pitcher Neihaus and Shortstop Callahan, of the local Southern Michigan League team, have been sold to the St. Louis Nationals. Neihaus is a left-hander who has won 18 games and lost 4 this year.

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State championship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map,
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

A football team was fighting on a bloody battle ground,
And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound.
When suddenly they halted in the middle of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,
"There's nothing doing," they replied; "we've got to catch a train."

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Peploski.

This is one of those rare intervals during which Doc Roller and Charlie Cutler are not matched for an alleged battle on the mat.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

PERFUME.

Motorcyclists all remind us
We can ride o'er hills and dells
And, departing, leave behind us
Forty-seven kinds of smells.

It is rumored that the Yanks are dissatisfied with Frank Chance. If Frank Chance is not dissatisfied with the Yanks he ought to be.

Mr. Chance is a wonderful guy if he can reflect upon the Chase deal without delivering unto himself a swift kick.

Mr. Comiskey has established diplomatic relations with Mr. Bryan, but there is no truth in the rumor that he has taken to unfermented grape juice.

If Mr. Bryan can induce the National Commission to drink grape juice it will be recorded as the greatest diplomatic feat in the archives of history.

The practice of stalling to avoid a beating may be inside baseball, but it has a distinct shade of yellowness.

A motorcyclist in Pittsburg jumped the track and was rendered defunct, thereby making the meet a grand success.

Australia may beat us at cricket, but it will be at least a couple of years before the world's series is held in Melbourne.

We shudder to think of Connie Mack's mental strain as he hesitates between Bender and Plank for the first game of the world's series.

KICKS.

When the game is going badly you can bet your final dollar
That the gent who entered on a pass puts up the loudest holler.

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse. Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

I.-M. LEAGUE WILL FINISH.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., July 11.—The Illinois-Missouri League will be able to finish the season, as Pekin has overcome its financial difficulties. This was announced by President Cline to-day.

Champaign sold Billy Line, outfielder, to Fond du Lac in the Wisconsin-Illinois League for $750.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the middle cushion, is acknowledged by all experts to be the "keystone king" of the American League, but when any authority sets out to prove that the Columbia graduate is the peer of his contemporaries he never rushes to the guide books for statistical information on the subject.

A good way to find out how swift a fielder is, some persons think, is to take the number of double plays a man starts. Up to July 1 the American Leaguers had rid their systems of 330 dual killings, the man who started most of them being Collins. He took the initiative in sixteen of his team's two-ply massacres.

The Johnsonites' swiftest shortstop, according to the performances in the Double Play League, is Ray Chapman, of the Naps. He inaugurated a dozen plays that resulted in the retirement of a pair of runners. In figuring Chapman's speed as an inaugurator of double plays, it should be remembered that he has been often absent from the Naps' line-up because of injuries, and it is possible that had he played all season long, as has Collins, he would have started just as many two-ply killings.

Baker Leads Third-Sackers.

The third basemen who have started the greatest number of double plays are Frank Baker, of the White Elephants, and Ivan Olson, of the Naps. Each man has inaugurated six. George Stovall, of the Browns, shows the way to the first-sackers, having been the pioneer in seven dual massacres.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 10, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

The Browns, just at present, are leading in manufacturing double plays, with the Washingtons a close second, and the World's Champion Red Sox last.

ROUMANIANS ALSO OPEN WAR ON THE BULGARIANS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia, and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

5,000 Roumanians Invade Bulgaria.

PARIS, July 11.—A force of 5,000 Roumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgaria.

King Charles has promulgated a proclamation of war against the Bulgarians but it has not yet been approved by the Roumanian congress, which will assemble next Wednesday.

The occupation of a considerable portion of Bulgarian territory by the Roumanians is imminent.

Bulgars Try to Influence Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Bulgaria is trying to provoke Turkey to reopen the war against the Balkan allies in order to save herself from humiliating defeat by Servia and Greece, according to the belief in official circles here to-day.

Word was received here to-day that Bulgarian troops had set fire to Midia, an important port on the Black Sea. It was said that a number of Turks had been massacred there by the Bulgarians.

Greek Army Sweeps All Before It.

ATHENS, July 11.—All of Southern Macedonia now is in the hands of the Greeks. The important city of Demir Hissar was occupied today.

The Greek army is sweeping all before it on its eastern march, and there is a possibility that it may penetrate as far as Adrianople.

Rake With 40 Teeth Given to President

WINSTED, CONN., July 11.—Following a custom inaugurated by his grandfather, who presented to Abraham Lincoln a hay rake, Marshall W. Stedman, a rake maker, of Tyringham, Mass., has sent a rake with 40 teeth, the whole handsomely grained and varnished, to President Wilson.

President Wilson's rake is smaller than the one which Stedman sent to President Taft.

She may be disfigured for life. Nevertheless, after being treated by a physician, she decided to stay out the game

600 ATLANTA SOLDIERS IN CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Boys of the Fifth Regiment embarking at Brunswick for St. Simons.

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely—Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

SEARCHING SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS IN GEORGIA

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member, and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

Former Representative R. A. Denny, of Rome, one of North Georgia's best-known attorneys, is in Atlanta for a few days.

Mr. Denny does not come to Atlanta often nowadays, but when he does he gets the glad hand, palm up, from many directions!

BEARISH ADVICES DEPRESS COTTON

Lower Temperatures and Weakness of Summer Months Cause General Selling.

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the opening of the cotton market the feeling was generally bearish and prices were unchanged to 4 points lower than Thursday's final. The ring was inclined to sell on favorable weather conditions, rains being fairly well distributed over the central and eastern belt.

The Government records show a temperature average in Oklahoma of 98 degrees, which is 4 degrees lower. Temperature average in Texas was 100 degrees, with five stations 106, four stations reporting 102 degrees, nine stations 104 and four stations 106 degrees.

This, together with favorable reports on the condition of the crop issued by Cordill and Habersham King, resulted in a general selling movement after the call. Before the call, however, July and December rallied 2 to 3 points from the opening range.

The ring, Wall Street and brokers representing spot houses sold the market heavily, resulting in prices losing 8 to 12 points from last night's close. Both July and August touched 12c. Summer positions were given no support. This was in part explained by the fact that late months reflected favorable weather and crop news.

During the late forenoon, prices recovered 2 to 7 points of the early decline through more active buying, which seemed to come mainly from a few scattered shorts. The selling, however, continued general.

At the close the market was steady with prices at a net decline of 3 to 11 points from the final quotations of Thursday.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S DAILY COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Weather developments overnight were again favorable. The map shows fair weather in Texas, cloudy elsewhere; cooler with a fine general precipitation in the Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather in the belt, except fair in the lower half of Texas.

There is a cool wave now heading for the Western States, which should bring general rains and cooler weather on Texas within the next six days, preceded, as usual, by a short heat spell of no consequence.

The market was inclined to open lower on good reports concerning the crops and the favorable weather prospects, but controlling influences in New York at once advanced August prices and by this show of power checked all selling, with the consequence that the market remained idle around last night's closing figures.

The Thurber Crop Bureau, of Memphis, makes the condition 82.5 on July 8. The report says that the great producing area of Texas is practically free from the weevil pest. The market weakened in the second hour on an announcement from Houston of a second new bale from San Benito, shipped for sale on New Orleans, on Government records showing a temperature average for Oklahoma of only 98, against 102 the past two days, a bearish into-sight forecast and small forwardings from Liverpool to the mills, only 37,000, against 62,000 bales last year.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We anticipate no pronounced decline and prefer purchases on moderate recessions.

Sternberger, Sinn & Co.: We do not look for any big change one way or the other for the immediate future.

Logan & Bdyan: We are disposed to the view that the long side on sharp declines will possess the greatest attractions.

Miller & Co.: Sell cotton on the hard spots.

Mill Takings for Week 152,000 Bales

According to Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, the visible suply of American cotton during the past week shows a decrease of 123,500 bales, as compared with a decrease of 96,105 bales for the corresponding week last year, against a decrease of 179,760 bales for the same week the year before.

Other kinds during the week showed a decrease of 11,000 bales against a decrease of 31,060 bales for the same week last year and a decrease of 49,000 bales during the same period of 1911.

The total visible supply of American cotton decreased 134,500 bales, compared with a decrease of 195,000 bales for the corresponding week in 1912 and a decrease of 105,000 bales for the same week the year before.

COTTON GOSSIP

NEW YORK, July 11.—The only feature of the market this morning was the weakness of the summer months, due to scattered selling, some of it on July notices. New crop sympathized to some extent and was also sold moderately on predictions for unsettled weather in Texas, and the favorable Turner and Cordill reports. Business was of small volume, because of the holidays abroad. No important change is probable for the balance of the week. —Anderson.

* * *

J. B. Turner, of Memphis, reports the following condition of the cotton crop as of July 8, by states: North Carolina, 77; South Carolina, 74; Georgia, 76; Alabama, 81; Mississippi, 84; Tennessee, 87; Arkansas, 85; Louisiana, 82; Oklahoma, 85; Texas, 87.

Where declines are shown from the condition of two weks ago, the loss seems due to an imperfect distribution of the moisture supply. In Texas the weevils are more prevalent than at this date last year. East of a line down from Runge to Tyler, weevils are sufficiently numerous to attract notice, but as yet have done little damage. West of that line there are very few or none. It is clear, therefore, that the general production area of the state is practically free from the pest.—J. B. Turner.

* * *

* * *

According to quoted views of members of the Georgia Legislature, the crop outlook for Georgia, which ranks next to Texas, is the largest producer of cotton in the belt. They say that conditions are much better than the previous season, and if the present outlook is fulfilled the yield will rival the record crop of 1911, when Georgia picked 2,794,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Hayward & Clark: The weather map is favorable and shows generally fair to Texas; no change to cloudy test of belt, with local general rains in Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather; also in eastern part of Texas, and cool wave coming on the belt, which should bring general rains on Texas about six days.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "Very hot weather covers the western cotton belt and friends of the staple are exploiting high temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma as good reason why the cotton market should continue steady. Wednesday and Thursday the high temperature average for the State of Oklahoma was 102 degrees. Yesterday twenty-two Texas stations reported high temperatures, ranging between 100 and 106 degrees, seven of which were 104. Such temperatures, if sustained many days, must, of course, do harm both with the crop as well as with the boll weevil, but both States report periods of even higher temperatures practically every year, and for this reason talent and trade alike refused to become excited over the hot temperature talk yesterday.

"After many days of waiting, Houston at last reported the arrival of the season's first new bale. It comes one month later than the first new bale of 1911 and 15 days later than the first new bale of 1912. In this connection, bulls contend that the lateness of the first new bale is proof positive of the all-round lateness of the 1913-1914 cotton crop. Bears, however, contend that while the early producing section of Texas is late, the heavy producing sections are not late at all, and that the Texas movement will be under full swing earlier this year than usual. In the meanwhile, outside influences seem to have combined to reduce contract trading to a minimum. In the first place, the talent, confronted by the threat of prohibitive legislation, is in no mood for enterprise. In the second, the actual cotton trade foresees many complications in the event the prohibitive tax should become a law. In the third, commission men are kept busy explaining the effect of the tax to their clients."

* * *

Cordill wires from Memphis: "Yazoor City to Greenwood good to excellent. Greenwood to Clarksdale, Clarksdale to Memphis plant well developed, fruiting nicely. There is some small cotton, but greater part large and well developed. Locally the crop is excellent, clean and thoroughly worked. No excess or deficiency of moisture. Weather warm and part cloudy. Perfect cotton-growing weather. Good rains and scattered showers have fallen over Arkansas and Mississippi where needed.

* * *

Habersham King says: "Briefly, I would say that I consider the developments of the week as favorable to 85 per cent and a standoff on 15 per cent. Since Monday temperatures moderated favorably in the dry districts and are now around normal so that unfavorable conditions seem checked for the present."

KENTUCKY CROP PROSPECTS RUINED BY LONG DROUTH

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 11.—Drouth during the last month has ruined the prospects for the best crops Kentucky ever produced. The report of the Department of Agriculture of the State said on July 11 that prospects for record crops were splendid.

The report made public to-day said every crop in Kentucky will be short.

DULLNESS CAUSES BREAK IN STOCKS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Considerable irregularity was shown in the price list at the opening of the stock market to-day. The railroad situation in the East, involving a possible strike, caused some selling on account of reports that the general committee, which will meet in this city to-morrow, will probably refuse to entertain Federal intervention. On the other hand, optimistic news came from the Balkans.

Among the losses were Amalgamated Copper, ⅛; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; American Car and Foundry, ½; American Telephone and Telegraph, ¼; Southern Pacific, ⅛; United States Steel common, ⅝; Chino Copper, ⅝; Northern Pacific, ⅜; Union Pacific, ¼.

The advances included Erie ¼, Atchison ⅛, Reading ⅛ and New York Central ⅛. New York Central turned weak, declining ¼.

The curb market was dull and easy. Americans in London were quiet above New York parity.

In the late forenoon trading was sluggish and price movements were almost at a standstill. Atchison yielded ⅛ under small sales and concessions were noted in a few other issues. Slight fractional declines were recorded in Amalgamated Copper, Steel common, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Guggenheim. At noon trading was very dull with prices unchanged. Call money loaned and renewed at 2¼ per cent.

STOCK GOSSIP

The New York Financial Bureau says: "We would buy the standard issues conservatively where good opportunities are offered with the intention to accept moderate profits. Trading movements in the general list will be seen to-day. Information channels are expecting further improvement."

* * *

Look for a profesional traders' market for the present. Would buy the active issues on any fair reaction for moderate profits. There is a good demand for standard dividend-paying stocks on all declines for investment. The odd lot buying by people of moderate means continues, and it looks as if speculative holdings are gradually being taken over by the investors throughout the country.—Potter.

* * *

Estimates of the quantity of Canadian Pacific stock liquidated by European sellers Wednesday ran as high as 20,000 shares. Canadian Pacific is about the highest-priced stock listed on the market and securities of such prices are usually the first ones sold if money is badly needed.

* * *

The weakness in Canadian Pacific stock during the past few days was said to be the result of the rumor that $60,000,000 new stock was to be issued. This, however, was officially denied.

* * *

Although the dullness in the market continues, there are few stocks for sale at the present level. Speculative holdings have decreased and investment holdings have increased considerably within the last thirty days. This is usually a favorable sign, as in the past under these conditions prices have advanced when activity begins.—Potter.

Wool Sales Reflect Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinos. Tariff legislation and the holiday season at the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	5,042,642	11,638,729
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	53,607,375	92,178,305
Foreign	41,550,200	75,104,006

HOGS SELL AT WIDE RANGE.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Hogs sold at a wide range of 8.50@9.20 to-day. Above the 9c line the speculators made a market that was higher than yesterday's close, but a large deal was promised on grades that affected only the packer outlet. There were 65,000 at 11 points against 77,000 a year ago.

Good cattle were strong to 10c higher, owing to the presence of a few urgent orders. Others were neglected. Live muttons were strong, 8.25 being paid freely for good lambs.

MILLER-COTTER COTTON LETTER.

MEMPHIS, July 11.—Good weather and crop accounts were of some influence in the day's decline. A few notices circulated on summer months caused some depression. The market is dull, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to sustain prices in the face of the improvement in the crop, which is reaching a stage of more definite assurance of yield.

Shorts in summer months have been eliminated and further manipulation promises little profit.

MODERN MILLER GRAIN REVIEW.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Weather favorable for winter wheat harvest. Heavy rains, which have prevailed over some areas, did some damage to wheat in shock, but this occurs more or less every year. Cutting is about completed and thrashing well under way. Quality of winter good and hard winter turning out better than expected. Movement to market continues free, yet it is evident that a further decline in price would cause a holding policy.

ALL GRAIN PRICES EASIER AT CLOSE

Losses of More Than Cent Made by Wheat, Corn and Oats. Provisions Off.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Lower prices were seen in all the grain pits at the close to-day. These losses were 1@1⅛ for wheat, 1@1⅝ for corn and 1@1¼ for oats. The provision market was lower in sympathy with the break in grain. The bids sent out on wheat to the country last night were lower than on several previous days and the transactions were smaller in consequence.

On the other hand, the business in cash wheat on export and shipping account was comparatively small, only 130,000 bushels changing hands at Chicago.

Cash corn sales were 330,000 bushels and oats 320,000 bushels. Vessel room was chartered for 400 bushels corn to go to Buffalo. Clearances of breadstuffs from the seaboard for the week were 5,176,000 bushels, compared with 2,495,000 bushels a year ago. Clearances of corn were only 32,000 bushels, against 126,000 bushels last year.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders regarded the rally yesterday as only natural following a four days' decline. Bears are looking for lower prices with a continuation of the liberal hedging sales. One cash handler looks for a free movement, believing tight money will force the grain to terminals and export business will be the best possible thing for the country.

Corn traders were mixed last night, most of them being bearish. Many of the longs have unloaded. The bulls figure that the market is heavily oversold and had reports from Kansas that the crop has been damaged by the recent high temperatures.

There are many bears in oats who believe the rally yesterday was only temporary. Cutting of early oats has commenced in Southern Illinois and yields are said to be light. Chief argument of bears is that stocks of old oats are too large for a big bull movement at present.

* * *

Grand Forks, N. Dak., wires: "Rain fell from four to six hours yesterday and last night on the parched fields throughout almost the entire northern part of North Dakota. The downpour began in the Minot District about noon and struck Red River Valley about 4 o'clock. More than an inch fell in places. Three days of hot winds had left the soil without moisture and caused heavy damage to crops. With the heavy rain, however, the crop is in condition to weather the remainder of the season without serious difficulty."

* * *

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: "Wheat—The weather map shows general rains over the entire spring wheat country, parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The country continues to offer wheat to arrive in liberal quantities and this factor creates a good deal of local bearishness.

"Corn—With the exception of rain in Nebraska and Iowa, there was no rain in the corn belt, with fairly high temperatures again in the southwest. Judging from the strength shown late yesterday, indications point to considerable liquidation having taken place and a fair short interest created. We look for light receipts and a good demand.

"Oats—There seems nothing bullish in the news at the moment, but there has been a pretty good evening up during the recent decline. Covering yesterday brought about a good rally from the low point.

"Provisions—Receipts of hogs considerably under the estimates, with opening prices 5c lower at the yards. Only pork is very strong and a fair outstanding short interest is indicated."

Spot Houses Favor Clarke's Amendment

NEW YORK, July 11.—Advices from telegrams and letters which are current, state that many, if not a majority, of the large spot cotton firms and many mills favor the passage of the Clarke amendment, believing it will enable them to buy their spot cotton from the planter cheaper than at present.

It said that the open competition and broadcast distribution of market information and quotations kept the producer of cotton well posted under ruling prices from hour to hour and day to day. This would not be the case with the adoption of the Clarke amendment, as it would leave the cotton markets in the hands of simply the few spot dealers.

With the adoption of the Clarke amendment there would be a fixed tax of 50 cents a bale for hedging contracts. When the local cotton buyer in

Study to Know the Profitable From the Unprofitable Hen

Follow Advice and Eliminate the Drones From Your Flock.

It seems to me we can not overestimate the importance of finding out whether our hens are paying a good profit or not; and which ones are the drones and cutting down the profit. The only way to do this is to keep a record. Under present conditions, when almost everything that goes to help produce a dozen eggs, comes the necessity for stricter economy and the knowing of what it takes to produce the eggs. We must turn over a new leaf and open an account with the hens. We must charge them with what they consume, and at the same time give them credit for all eggs laid at the market price, whether they are sold or consumed by the family. It is not much work, if you but have a little account book in which to keep it. Five minutes a day will do it. It may pay you to go to the little extra trouble in ascertaining just where you stand.

The owner who has, by the use of the trap-nest, found out the egg-producing abilities of his flock, has taken the first step toward separating the unprofitable hen from the profitable one, a thing that every one who keeps hens should be able to tell or know.

We are often asked the question as to what constitutes a profitable hen? It is one that will pay for her feed, interest on the investment of roosting house, labor taken to care for her, and a profit besides. Of course, the cost of feeding a hen will vary quite a little, owing to the different sections of the country in which it is kept. Feed is quite a little cheaper in some places than others. It is but little trouble to count the cost of feeding ten or twenty hens. If you buy the feed, it is easily put down. If you are raising your own feed, simply measure out a barrel or two of it, putting down the price it is worth, then go to work feeding it.

Farmers are beginning to appreciate the worth of the really laying hen. They are beginning to find out that it does not pay to even harbor one that is too old to lay well or that never did lay much. All such should be cut right out of the game. And there is no way so good to determine that fact as by the trap-nest and the little record book.

With the ever and rapidly-increasing values of farm lands it is but natural that the farmer should look about him for some plan by which he can increase his income without greatly increasing his farm expenses, or investing in more land to do it with. The farmer has this very factor in the hen, if she is a good one. And there are good ones if we will but take the trouble to get acquainted with her. There are but few farms in the country but what have from one to three acres of land going to waste, or rather that are not being utilized. This is about the house and outbuildings. If this could be fenced and subdivided and a lot of good hens located therein it would soon begin to give revenue rather than be an expense to keep free from weeds and trash. I do not think it advisable for the farmer to try to run all to poultry, but just a hint to them that may help them to raise money for the taxes and various odds and ends that take the cash, leaving the regular farm crops in tact for other purposes. Tests show us that hens have made a record of 200 eggs per year; some have done even better than that, but a good many have done that well. Now it is an old saying that what has been done can be done again, so let us not fool away our time keeping hens that will only give us the old farm average of 75 eggs per year. That kind just about pays for its keep, so that if we get rid of them and keep the 150 to 200-egg kind then we get the profit that is due us. A flock of good, thoroughbred hens, say 300, should give us a profit of $400 to $500. Of course, you read of people making $500 from ten hens and a rooster, but that is from real fancy stock in which there is all kinds of possibilities, but on the other hand, there is the chance that you will not make anything from them. We have reference to the commercial kind, well managed; but it can not be done with the hit-or-miss scrub kind. They are too much like the Irishman's flea, you get your finger on them and they are not there.

GRANT PARK COTTAGE

The scarcity of good homes for sale in the Grant Park section is a well-known fact. A great many subdivisions have been made beyond Grant Park to meet the demand for this very desirable section.

When a good home on a good street near Grant Park is offered for sale, it is usually sold right away. We have had listed with us for sale a 7-room cottage at 45 Park Avenue, on a lot 50 by 200 feet. The lot is elevated, has plenty of trees and faces east. The cottage is well built and has all conveniences. This place is located near several churches, public schools and is on one of the few double car-tracked streets in the Grant Park section. Price, $4,750. Very reasonable terms.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Wide Range Is Shown In Realty Transfers

Announcements Include $85,750 Exchange, Sales of Land Lots in Fulton and DeKalb, Peachtree Buys.

An exchange involving 42 North Side city lots, a 1,750-acre farm in South Georgia and $85,750 in money, the purchase of 206 1-4 acres in North Fulton County and 203 acres in DeKalb, a transfer of business property at Buckhead and announcement of a $25,000 building on South Forsyth Street featured Friday's real estate news.

John H. Maddox, of the Smith & Ewing real estate agency, effected an exchange of properties between Dr. Joel T. Daves, of that agency, and George L. Patterson, of Valdosta, whereby the former gave 42 residence lots, beginning at the southeast corner of State and West Tenth Streets, and valued at $42,000, for a 1,750-acre farm in Lowndes County, valued at $43,700, or $25 an acre, and paid the differences, $1,750, in cash.

The North Side lots comprise about four blocks and front on Tenth, Eighth and State Streets, Peachtree Place and Ridge Avenue. Mr. Patterson has placed them with Mr. Maddox for resale, and Dr. Daves will cut his South Georgia farm into 100-acre tracts and offer them to immigrants. The sale indicates that South Georgians are willing to trust Atlanta real estate investments, and that, on the other hand, Atlantans recognize the opportunity in South Georgia colonization.

North Fulton Acreage Bought.

C. C. Foster and S. Y. Stribling, of Cobb County, and G. B. Thomason, of Jeff Davis, have sold to Morris Brandon and Ben J. Conyers three separate acreage tracts, aggregating 206 1-2 acres, in the upper portion of North Fulton County, north of Oak Grove, for $10,312, or at the rate of $50 an acre. This is in land lots 86 and 127 of the Seventeenth District, and is known as lots 1, 2 and 3 of the William E. Brightwell subdivision. A parcel 14 by 16 feet in lot 1 was reserved.

DeKalb Acreage Transfer.

Another large acreage deal has been consummated. Mrs. S. E. L. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to M. W. Reid and others, executors of the estate of the late J. D. Kilpatrick, 40 acres on the east side of land lot 15, Seventeenth District, and also 40 acres in DeKalb County; and W. T. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to same 23 acres in land lot 15, on the north line of said land lot 799 feet west of the east line thereof, and 54 acres in the southeast corner of land lot 16, and 46 acres in DeKalb County.

The total is 203 acres. That conveyed by Mrs. Ivey was sold for $3,800, and that by Mr. Ivey, $5,800.

Buckhead Transfer.

John G. Burckhardt has conveyed to B. F. and A. C. Burdett the triangle at the intersection of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, for $15,000. The transaction was handled by George P. Moore and is understood to have been in the nature of a swap.

The frontage on Peachtree is 152 feet, on Roswell Road 150 and the base line is 72. Mr. Burckhardt bought this some months ago from Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley for about $12,000.

To Erect $25,000 Building.

There will be no nine-story business building for the present on the property of the D. Greenfield estate on South Forsyth Street, between Mitchell and Hunter Streets. A change of plans calls for a one-story and basement building to cost $25,000. Permit to build was issued Friday by Building Inspector Ed R. Hays.

The building has a foundation for nine stories, however, and it is probable that the estate will add to it later. Moise DeLeon is the contractor.

Interesting Loan Deed.

Joseph Loewus has given a loan deed to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts for $37,500, borrowed on the Bass Dry Goods Company property at 18 West Mitchell Street, 48 1-2x140 feet. The Bass concern adjoins the McCroskey property at the northwest corner and was bought from the D. Greenfield estate some months ago by Mr. Loewus.

Lot Sales Total $9,000.

Fitzhugh Knox has announced the sale of six residence lots in his subdivision on South Moreland Avenue at an aggregate of $9,000. These sales have taken place since Mr. Knox started his fourteen bungalows in this section. The subdivision originally contained 41 lots, all but five of which have been sold.

Morris Brandon Sells.

J. B. Thompson has bought from Morris Brandon and others through the Smith & Ewing Real Estate Agency the northeast corner of Pine and Lovejoy Streets for $1,900 cash.

To Sell at Courthouse.

The Greene Realty Company will sell before the courthouse door Tuesday, August 5, the southwest corner of East Fair and Fraser Streets, 68 by 90 feet, for the estate of the late Dominico Gussi. The terms will be half cash and one and two years.

Not in Druid Hills.

In an account Thursday of the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road it was stated that this property was in Druid Hills. Briarcliff Road is in the Druid Hills section, but not in Druid Hills proper.

Buy on Peachtree.

Mrs. R. G. Warner has given E. A. Bancker, Jr., a warranty deed on a Peachtree property 162 feet north of Sixteenth Street for $10,500, 50 by 290 feet, this being lot 11, block 3, of Ansley Park, and Mr. Bancker has placed a $10,000 loan on it through the Home Life Insurance Company of New York. The place is described as 1096 Peachtree.

Interest in Electric Line.

A meeting of people interested in the proposed electric trunk line from Anderson, S. C., to Atlanta is expected to be called soon by the officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which body has received overtures from the Anderson Chamber. This road would connect up Atlanta with Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Anderson and Norfolk, if the plans of the Duke interests and the Anderson officials are carried out.

Real estate men are watching this development because of its possibilities in opening up new territory to the north of Atlanta and bringing in settlers from the other States.

Finish Peachtree in Three Weeks.

Repairs to Peachtree will be completed within three weeks, according to a statement of Shelby Smith, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The convicts have reached Peachtree Creek on their southward tour from Buckhead and have turned back to complete that part of the job. After finishing both sides they will begin at Peachtree Creek and work southward.

Chairman Smith declared that the machines now being used are capable of doing the work of 100 men, and that another labor-saving device, in the shape of a pulverizer, had been bought to break up the soil and road material. Hand labor is now being employed to do the pulverizing, and the work is necessarily slow.

Completing Healey Steel.

United States flags have been run up on the steel frame of the Healey Building, denoting that the first girders of the sixteenth and last above-ground story have been installed. This is a favorite performance among construction gangs—to hold an informal celebration when the last floor is reached.

Not only is the Healey Building going up fast in steel, but Stone Mountain granite has made its appearance at the base and soon will rise above the fences that inclose the structure. It will go 15 feet, where terra cotta will begin. Two stories are under ground.

William T. Healey, the owner, declares that although the building was two months late in starting, he is satisfied with the progress made.

Hurt Building's Arcade.

The unique entrance arcade of the Hurt Building is rapidly taking place. This is to be two stories high and is located in the apex of the triangular lot on which the structure stands, at the junction of Edgewood Avenue and Exchange Place. Handsome stone slabs are being put in place around the sides of the arcade. As for the rest of the building, it is progressing nicely. The exterior is almost completed, and soon the workmen will go inside to put on finishing touches.

Although the Hurt Building is not due to be opened before October 1, it is declared that leases have been signed for most of the space and that there will be no trouble filling the structure. The same is true of the Healey Building, which will not be completed until some time after January 1, 1914.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

And, Like Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, You Will Stand the Heat Well.

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Don't get excited about anything if you can help it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

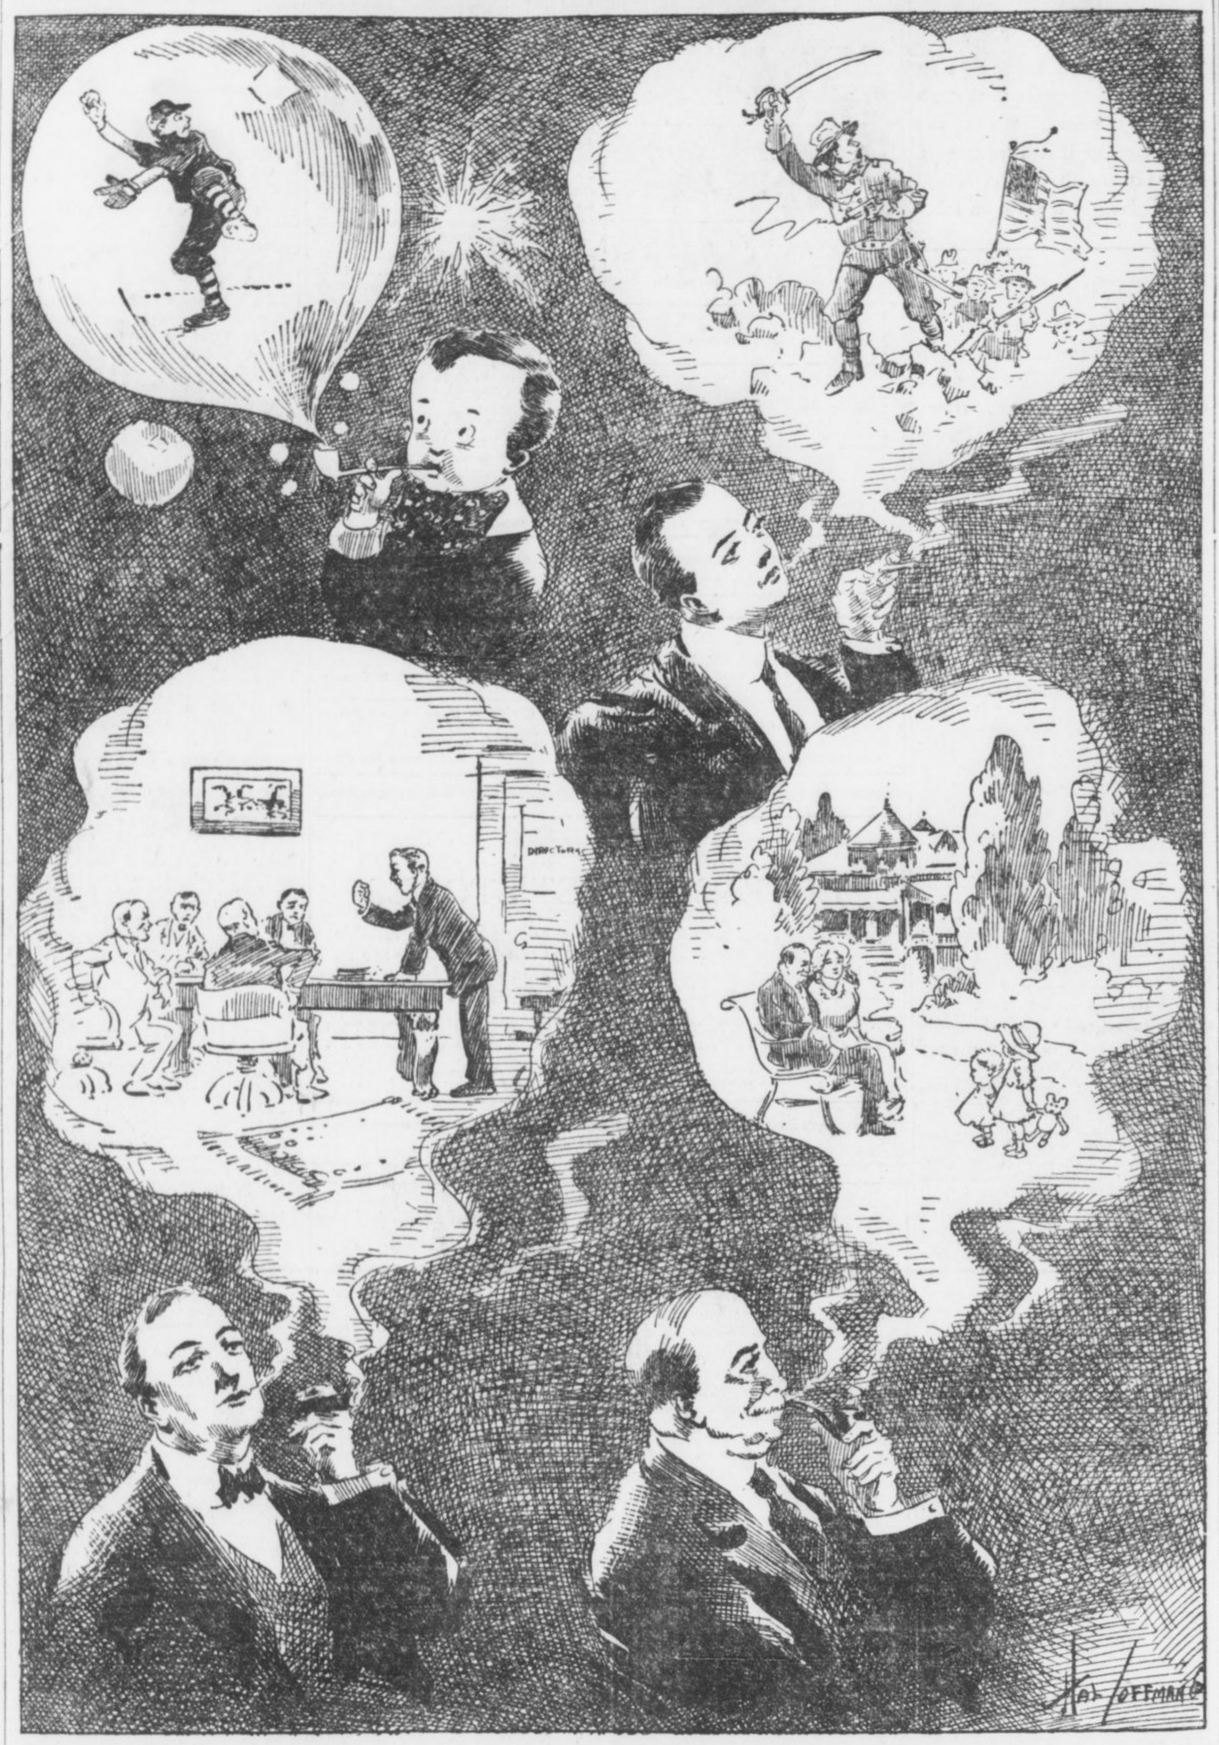
Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Think of the negro in the Gabboon region who is standing a temperature of 140, think of the seal and walrus at the North Pole on a block of ice.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them



Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

This is admirable in a way, yet not an altogether admirable quality.

If you are this type of good neighbor do not take pride in it.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

CONLEY GRILLED BY DORSEY

GEORGIAN'S STORY STIRS OFFICIALS

Mincey Affidavit Leads to Another Cross-Examination of Phagan Case Suspect.

As a result of the publication by The Georgian exclusively Thursday of the sensational affidavit of W. M. Mincey, the insurance agent, which declared that Jim Conley had confessed on the afternoon of the Phagan murder, that he had killed a little girl, the negro sweeper was again put on the grill late Friday afternoon. The cross-examination was conducted by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey personally at the police station and was attended by utmost secrecy.

Conley was taken into the Police Commissioners' room on the second floor of the station house by a circuitous route to avoid being seen. In the room awaiting him were the Solicitor, his assistant, Frank J. Hooper, and Chief of Detectives Lanford. The negro was questioned for more than an hour. The result of the inquiry was not made known.

That Mincey's affidavit is of the utmost importance became obvious with this latest move by the prosecution. Undoubtedly its startling accusations, directing guilt at the negro, have shown themselves to the State to have foundation of more strength than Mr. Dorsey and his colleagues have so far cared to admit.

Police Deny Being Told.

Interviews with the detective heads brought denials that Mincey ever had told them the story that was printed in The Georgian. Attorneys for the defense, however, corroborated the published details of the affidavit.

"It is correct in every detail," said one of the lawyers. "It was not the intention to make any of our important evidence public, but now that Mincey's story has found its way into print, there is nothing to do but admit that we have the affidavit and that it makes the assertions which The Georgian printed yesterday.

"It is only natural that an attempt will be made to discredit Mincey's story. But we are assured of its truth and are confident that it will stand the test of all the investigation that can be made."

J. S. Dukes, manager of the American Insurance Company, by whom Mincey was employed until two weeks ago, was seen Friday and was disposed to discredit Mincey's affidavit.

He declared that Mincey was something of a braggart and that on the Monday following the crime had asserted his belief in the guilt of Newt Lee. When Conley was arrested, said Dukes, Mincey at once became just as certain that Conley had committed the crime.

"Mincey was wondering how much money he might make as a witness and seemed more concerned with this phase of the case than with the identity of the murderer," said Dukes.

Conley Indictment Likely.

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's con-

THREE NEW VICE WAR ARRESTS

Man Prisoner Declares He Will Bare the Whole System if Brought to Trial.

As a result of statements made to Chief Beavers Friday morning by Hattie Smith, the young girl who has been held for the Grand Jury in connection with the vice war, Detective Rosser at noon arrested three persons —two men and a woman—who were named by the Smith girl as contributing to her downfall and being involved in her white slavery charges.

The persons under arrest are Paul Estes, 52 Queen Street; Hoyt Monroe, Edgewood, and Mrs. Lola White, 768 Marietta Street.

The woman is a cousin of Hattie Smith and lives next door, while both Estes and Monroe are in the employ of the Collier Garage at Cone and James Streets, where the Smith girl says she met Lena Barnhardt, who later took her to the Cumberland Hotel.

Says She Went Joy Riding.

In her new statement made Friday morning Hattie Smith declared that she went automobile riding with her cousin, Mrs. White, and Estes and Monroe. The two men were released by Chief Beavers after being giving a copy of charges, and their case set for Tuesday afternoon. The White woman was taken to detective headquarters and will be questioned by Chief Lanford. It was announced by the police that she will be held on heavy bonds.

The arrests of Estes and Monroe are considered by Chief Beavers as the preliminary to the spreading of the dragnet and the arrest of seventeen men, some of them prominent in business, who, it is alleged, are involved. Estes, when arrested, declared that he intends to make a complete confession and throw new light on the situation.

"I'm not going to be the goat," Estes declared. "I am going to open my mouth and tell everything I know about vice, and I'm going to give names. I'm going to name every girl and man I know have taken automobile rides and gone to hotels for immoral purposes.

Promises a Sensation.

"And I know enough names to stir up an awful racket if they are all arrested, and I know a lot about vice in Atlanta that no one else knows."

Chief Beavers stated that every man whom Estes names in his proposed confession will be arrested and brought before Judge Broyles for trial. The Chief declares that the developments of Friday in the vice war have placed him in a position where he can put a speedy end to the immoral operations of men and women in Atlanta, and he stated that he intends to continue his investigation with increased vigor.

Sensational revelations involving two more downtown hotels and seventeen well-known men, one of them a prominent business man, were made to Chief Beavers and Plainclothes Officers Green and McKibben Friday morning by Corrinne Wilson, the 16-year-old girl who was arrested, together with 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, Thursday night.

The confession of the Wilson girl, which Chief Beavers regards as one of the most important developments of the vice crusade, and which is even more sensational than the story of Hattie Smith, came at the close of a long examination of the girl by the police.

Accuses Business Men.

The Wilson girl was definite in her accusations. She furnished the chief with the name of a prominent business man whom she said has contributed to her downfall, and told of three others whose names she does not remember, but whose places of

CRAWFORD'S DEATH LAID TO WIFE

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, widow of J. B. Crawford, on the charge of murdering her husband by giving him poison, was issued late Friday afternoon, signed by the Coroner of Carroll County and returnable to the Fulton Country Grand Jury.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury, which was read at Friday morning's hearing of the famous will case before J. N. Anderson, auditor, recommended that she be arrested and held for a Grand Jury investigation.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from poison administered by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, and recommend that she be held for investigation by the Fulton Grand Jury.

The inquest was held Thursday in Carrollton. It was an adjourned session of the first inquest on June 12, when the body was exhumed. Dr. H. F. Harris, of the State Board of Health, and Miss Viola Whitman, a woman who lived with the Crawfords after the marriage, were the witnesses.

Dr. Harris testified to finding morphine in the stomach, and that in his opinion Crawford did not die of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs.

Saw Medicine Given.

Miss Whitman testified to seeing Mrs. Crawford give her husband medicine from a small vial.

Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford allowed the verdict to be submitted as evidence, but stated to the auditor that they would later file an objection on the grounds of the inquest not having been legal. They stoutly maintained that before the hearing ends they will introduce positive evidence that Crawford died of pneumonia, and that the morphine found in his stomach was administered by his family physician.

J. S. James, attorney for the heirs-at-law stated he, in all probability, would start action along the line outlined in the recommendation of the Coroner's jury, but that he had not yet determined how soon he would do so.

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Doctor Gave Drugs.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel James announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was illegally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

GULLS DRIVE BRADY OFF MOUND

Mobile Scores Five Tuns Off Big Pitcher in Fifth and Dent Goes to Rescue.

PONCE DE LEON BALL PARK, July 11.—Billy Smith's fighting warriors were out after revenge from the Gulls in the second game of their series here this afternoon. Yesterday's defeat left a bad taste in the mouths of the home boys and they were anxious to even the score with today's battle.

King Brady was selected to do the hurling for the Crackers, with Chapman on the receiving end. Hogg was sent to the mound for Mike Finn's crew, while Schmidt was behind the bat. Neither team scored in the opening inning.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Stock popped to Agler. McGill rolled one to Alperman and was out to Agler. Robertson was easy for Brady and Agler. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Long grounded to Stock and was out to Robertson. Welchonce was given free transportation to first. Alperman lofted a tall one to Paulet. Smith sent a roller to Stock, who relayed the pill to Paulet, forcing Welchonce at the midway. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

O'Dell rolled to Bisland, who made a crazy chuck past Agler and the former Cracker anchored safely at the opening peg. Schmidt sent a screaming liner to Bisland who clutched tight to it, thereby drawing much applause. Paulet kindly sent a grasser to Bisland, who handed the ball to Alperman, forcing O'Dell at the keystone. Clark dropped a one-timer into left garden, Paulet moving up a base. Alperman tossed out Campbell. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Stock and Robertson made easy work of Bisland's grounder. Agler went out over the O'Dell-Robertson route. Bailey grounded to Paulet, but Bill was safe at first for Robertson dropped a perfectly good throw. Bailey stole second with neatness and dispatch. Chapman gladdened the hearts of the multitude with a single through short, Bailey pulling up at third. Brady's best was a roller down the first base line that Robertson handled all by his lonesome. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Hogg sent a ballooner to Welchonce. Stock singled to right. McGillsacrificed Stock along to second with a bunt that Brady handed to Agler. Robertson was turned back to Agler. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Long raised to Paulet. Welchonce died. Paulet to Robertson. Alperman went back to work when Paulet and Robertson repeated. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Smith and Agler did all that was necessary with O'Dell's daisy-cutter. Schmidt laced a single to center. Schmidt raced around to third when Paulet dropped a one-timer to right. Clark rolled to Alperman who tossed to Bisland in hopes of forcing Paulet, but the shortstop dropped the ball, and on the error Schmidt tallied. Campbell singled to left, and Paulet scored. Hogg singled to center, scoring Clark and Campbell. Stock beat out a slow roller for a hit. McGill doubled to right, scoring Hogg, while Stock made third. Brady was yanked off the mound here, Dent taking up the unwelcomed burden. Robertson popped to Agler. Stock tried to score on a short passed ball, but died, Chapman to Dent. SIX HITS, FIVE RUNS.

Smith soared high and far to Campbell. Bisland was easy for Stock and Robertson. Agler lifted to Clark. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

O'Dell pushed a grasser to Smith and was out to Agler. Schmidt was out, Smith to Agler. Paulet poled a long triple to the score board. Clarke rolled an easy grounder to Smith, but when Agler dropped Wallie's throw Paulet registered, while Clarke was safe at the initial sack. Clarke stole second. Campbell ended the inning with a high foul to Smith. ONE HIT, ONE RUN.

Robertson handled Bailey's grounder without any assistance. Chapman rolled an easy grounder to Hogg and was out to Robertson. Dent rompedtofirst on four bad ones. Long's best was a pop fly to Paulet. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

Hogg lined to Bailey, but when the latter failed to hold the pill, the Gull twirler was safe. Stock placed his bat against the ball for a single to left and Hogg went to second. McGill bunted to Dent and Hogg was forced on Dent's fast relay to Smith. Robertson hit a grounder to Alperman and McGill was forced at second, to Bisland. Robertson pilfered second. O'Dell was not equal to the occasion and was out, Bisland to Agler. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Welchonce lifted a long fly to Campbell. Alperman was easy for Hogg and Robertson. Smith rolled an easy grounder to Odell and was out to Robertson. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

Alperman and Agler took care of Schmidt. Paulet grounded to Bisland and was out to Agler. Clark smashed a single to center. Campbell filed out to long. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Bisland field to McGill. Agler fouled to Schmidt. Bailey out Robertson to Hogg, who covered first. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

Hogg poped to Bailey. Stock walked. McGill out, Smith to Agler. Robertson filed to Bisland. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Rain Halts Play for Tennessee Net Title

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—Owing to rain here Friday the finals in the State championship tennis tournament between Smith, of Nashville, and Allen, Knoxville, were not finished.

Smith won the first set 6-4 and was leading 3-2 on the second set when rain stopped the match. The match will be played off Saturday morning.

Smith is now favorite over Allen. The winner of of the match will meet C. Y. Smith, Atlanta, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

GIRL PRISONERS TELL MORE OF VICE RING

business she knows. The chief stated that the girl will be taken around the city Friday afternoon to identify the three men, and that they will be arrested at once after being identified.

In addition to the four men named by the Wilson girl against whom charges will be made, she gave the Chief the names of thirteen others with whom she says she and Dora Rothstein have taken auto rides.

These twelve will be subpenaed as witnesses in the trial of the two girls, which has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, and forced to tell all they know about vice. If evidence warranting it develops at the trial, they will be arrested and cases made against them.

Two men named by the Wilson girl as having kept her and the Rothstein girl in the woods for several nights were arrested by the police Friday morning. They are A. C. Dollar, a shoemaker, living at 69 Davis Street, who is held on a charge of disorderly conduct, and W. W. Suttles, assistant yardmaster of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, who is held on a kidnaping charge.

Suttles and Dollar were named also in the statements of the Rothstein girl, who named the Wilson girl as a procurer, and declared she introduced her to the two men.

Wilson Girl Denies Charge.

Corrinne Wilson denies the charges made against her by the Rothstein girl and declares that she was led into a life of shame by the latter girl and the two men.

"I met the Rothstein girl at the White City Park last Fourth of July," said the Wilson girl. "I was skating and fell, and she was among the crowd that gathered around me. That is how I met her. We were together all that evening and night in the woods near the park, and the next day we met Suttles and Dollar. Monday night we stayed all night with men at the baseball park.

"Saturday night and Sunday night we spent somewhere in the woods, and Monday night we stayed at the baseball park with some men. Tuesday and Wednesday night we stayed with Dollar and Suttles in an old mill on the Adamsville Road. Yesterday afternoon we came to Atlanta and were arrested last night.

Accuses Her Accuser.

"Dora Rothstein lied when she says I induced her to go with the men. She told me she had been doing it for a long time and that we could have a good time and make some money. I yielded when she told me we could make money, and she introduced me to the men."

The Wilson girl told Chief Beavers also that eight months ago, before she was married, she stayed at a hotel on Broad Street with a man, registering as his wife. She says she is the wife of Andrew Wilson, who now is working in Marietta. She came to Atlanta four weeks ago to visit her mother, who had burned her foot, she said.

Chief Beavers stated that in addition to involving the hotels and the seventeen men, the Wilson girl has told him a lot of things she had heard from other girls. He said she had given him the names of all the girls she knew who made a practice of going auto riding with men and of staying at the hotels with them, and that all of the girls will be brought to headquarters and questioned.

The Wilson girl also gave the chief the names of a number of alleged assignation houses which, she asserted, she and other girls had visited, and all will be thoroughly investigated.

MORTGAGE LAW REFORM LOSES IN HOUSE

Attempt to Reduce Number of Foreclosure Notices Defeated. Committee Report Ignored.

The effort to reform the mortgage laws of Georgia so that the mortgage holder would be required before foreclosing to advertise once a week for four weeks instead of for four months prior to the next term of the Superior Court, met with defeat in the House Friday, despite the favorable recommendation of General Judiciary Committee No. 1.

Representative Moss, of Cobb, presented a minority report, in which the proposed bill was declared to be too drastic. This drew a debate, in which Representative Wohlwender, chairman of General Judiciary Committee No. 1, and Garlington, of Fulton, and Wright, of Floyd, participated.

The roll call showed 83 yeas and 76 nays on the passage of the bill. This not being a constitutional majority, the bill was declared lost. Representative Barry Wright gave notice that he would move to reconsider the bill.

Davidson, of Putnam, and Sparks, of Toombs, presented the bill. Speaker Pro Tem. E. H. McMichael, of Marion, presided for the first time during the calling of the roll on this bill.

Among the new bills filed were:

By Fulbright, of Burke—Providing for a special tax of 1 mill during 1915 and 1916 to meet deficiencies.

Rhodes, of Clark—Appropriating $50,000 for new buildings at the University of Georgia.

Cheney, of Cobb—Requiring that before the marriage of persons under 18 years of age notice of the marriage license be advertised in the public gazette for at least one week.

Gower, of Crisp—Permitting owners of electric railroad companies, electric power and hydro-electric companies, to own and control gas companies.

Burwell, of Hancock—Providing amendment to the Constitution providing the pro rata ad valorem tax levy for the common schools of Georgia.

Connor, of Spalding—Providing for the county of Lamar.

$600 BACK PAY IS VOTED CLERK BY SENATE

First Expenditure by New Legislature Consummated — Slaton's Appointments Confirmed.

The first measure involving the expenditure of money by the present Legislature was acted on by the Georgia Senate Friday. It was a House resolution providing for payment of the earned salary of the insurance clerk, and made up a deficiency of $600 in the 1913 budget.

Four appointments by the Governor were approved by the Senate in executive session. The appointees were L. D. Shannon to be Judge of the City Court of Jeffersonville and H. J. Griffin to be Solicitor, and Carl Vinson to be Judge of the County Court of Baldwin and J. D. Howard to be Solicitor.

Among the bills reported from committees with recommendation for passage was one to increase the number of senatorial districts to 60. It provides that each of the six counties with the largest population shall be a senatorial district.

Would Regulate Doctors.

The bill regulating the practice of medicine and creating a State Board of Medical Examiners was reported favorably from committee. These two bills were read the second time.

Senator Grant D. Perry, of the Twenty-eighth District, introduced a bill providing for monthly pay of school-teachers. The first section provides that hereafter "teachers in the public schools of Georgia shall be paid monthly." The second section, in part, provides "that the payment of teachers shall be considered of as much importance as that of any other employees of the State, and the Governor shall have as much right to exercise his borrowing power for this purpose as for any other State expense."

Other Bills Are Presented.

New bills were introduced in the Senate and referred to committees as follows:

By Senator L. L. Ford—Amending the code with reference to quarantine against the Mexican boll weevil.

By Senator J. N. Watts—Changing the title of the stenographer in the Department of Commerce and Labor to "stenographer and chief clerk."

By Senator M. E. Rushin and Senator J. R. Anderson—Providing for maintenance of inter-county bridges and causeways.

The usual number of House bills were received and referred to Senate committees. The Senate adjourned to meet at noon Monday.

Engineers to Have Barbecue Saturday

The local branches of the National Architectural and Engineering Societies will have a barbecue Saturday at 2 o'clock at the waterworks pumping station on the Chattahoochee River.

Engineers hope Saturday's meeting will result in an affiliation of the various organizations and a closer association of the more than 200 architects and engineers who are the leaders of their respective lines in the South.

MINCEY'S STORY JOLTS POLICE TO ACTIVITY

nection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Dorsey Makes No Comment.

Solicitor Dorsey Friday morning would make no comment on the new evidence.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Lee Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

Macon Society Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

Frank Hammond Gets Office in T. M. A.

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of The Footlight, a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge and deputy grand president of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

The Footlight, of which Earle E. Griggs is editor, was made the official publication of the T. M. A.

WIDOW ACCUSED IN CRAWFORD WILL CASE

MRS. MARY BELLE CRAWFORD.

GREATER ARMY POST HERE IS CERTAIN

Garrison's Plan to Centralize Regulars Will Result in Enlargement of Fort McPherson.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventeenth Infantry.

VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Mr. Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH ATTACK ON WOMAN

Harris County Community Aroused by Accusation of Planter's Wife. Prisoner Guarded.

COLUMBUS, GA., July 11.—Dr. James Delemar, a well-known physician of Mountain Hill, Harris County, is confined in the Muscogee County jail, charged with attacking the wife of a prominent Harris County farmer.

Feeling between the families and friends of the accuser and accused is tense. Dr. Delemar was lodged in jail here because of threats of violence.

The Delemar family and that of the woman who says she was attacked are among the most prominent in Harris County and the charge against the doctor has caused a sensation.

Dr. Delemar is married and prior to this charge had always borne a splendid reputation.

His preliminary hearing has been set for Saturday morning.

The woman says she was attacked last February, but kept the fact a secret until yesterday.

Trouble between friends of the families is feared when the preliminary hearing is held.

Motorcycle Racer At Macon Is Killed

While going about 50 miles an hour, and turning the first curve from the grandstand, a pedal scraped the ground and struck a rock. O'Brien was hurled against a fence, striking on his head, his neck being broken and his body badly mangled. The motorcycle was wrecked.

ROYAL PARTY IS ASSAILED BY MILITANTS

Gunman, Hired by Suffragists, Fires Shot From Gallery of House of Commons.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Many persons were hurt here to-day in street fighting between men and women which followed an attempt by militant suffragettes to attack the carriage in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the city.

The attack followed a wild scene in Lord Street when Miss Jolly, secretary of the Liverpool branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, made a lone raid, smashing hundreds of dollars' worth of plate-glass windows.

The local militant leaders had laid plans for the biggest suffrage demonstration Liverpool has ever seen, because of the presence here to-day of the King and Queen, who are making a tour of England.

Great Precautions Taken.

Extraordinary police precautions had been taken to guard their majesties from attack, as it was feared that the militants, who have been unusually active here of late, would attempt to interfere with the progress of the royal party and perhaps commit actual assault.

Soldiers co-operated with police and detectives in policing the streets and in protecting the King and Queen from the crowds.

Just before the royal party turned into Lord Street Miss Jolly appeared, dashing into the crowd of spectators, and brandishing a poker above her head, she scattered them right and left. Screaming denunciations of the Government, she sent her weapon crashing into the plate-glass windows, doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

Several policemen overpowered her while she struggled with maniacal fury. She was locked up. This incident alarmed the authorities, for it served as a clew that the women planned an active day.

Royal Carriage Attacked.

Half an hour later the attack upon the royal carriage occurred. From a break in the police lines several women ran into the street. They hurled a quantity of suffrage literature into the carriage and one of them seized the door and tried to wrench it open. Another ran toward the horses' heads to stop them.

An equerry leaped to the street and grappled with one of the women, and in an instant the others were seized by policemen. In the meantime, however, supporters of the militants had swarmed to the aid of their sisters and a fight began.

Women attacked men and men retaliated. Fists, clubs and hatpins were the chief weapons. Many were knocked down and trampled. The police made a number of arrests.

Shot Creates Panic In House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—An evident attempt at assassination occurred in the House of Commons to-day when a man in the gallery for spectators drew a revolver and fired shortly after the session of the House opened. A parliamentary policeman who was nearby grasped the man and wrenched the pistol from his hand before he could fire again.

One sensational report which was circulated was that the man was a fanatic on the topic of suffrage and had attempted to assassinate Premier Asquith because of his opposition to the suffrage propaganda. Another report was that the man had been hired by the militants to make a demonstration, and that the bullet was not intended for any one in particular.

The other spectators in the gallery were thrown into panic by the shooting and a mad scramble for the exits ensued. Many were knocked down and trampled. On the floor of the house there was high excitement. So great was the uproar that all business was suspended.

HEALEY BUILDING WORKMEN OUT ON STRIKE

The Employment of Non-Union Painter Stops Work on 16-Story Structure.

Attempts of the R. M. Walker Company, general contractors, to employ non-union painters and electricians on the Healey Building brought on a general strike Friday afternoon. One non-union painter started to work at 2 o'clock, and his appearance was the signal for a walk-out. Two minutes later not a man was working on the building.

The skeleton of the Healey Building, sixteen stories above ground, had just been constructed by the steel workers, who had flung an American flag to the breezes high in air when the topmost beam was riveted.

None but union men had worked on the building. Electricians and painters were expected to begin their interior work at noon Friday, but when the hour arrived no agreement had been reached between the general contractors and the Painters' and Electricians' Unions.

Business agents of the unions conferred with the R. M. Walker Company between noon and 2 o'clock, but no agreement could be reached. Meanwhile, the contractors had begun negotiations with non-union men.

Federation officers have resumed negotiations with the contractors looking to the employment of union electricians and painters. It is expected the differences will be adjusted and union workmen will return to their jobs Saturday.

Important Reductions in Underwood Bill Made by Upper Branch of Congress

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applies to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or convict labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

SENATE MAKES GREAT CUTS IN SCHEDULES OF HOUSE TARIFF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 3 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000
Income tax	70,000,000	69,625,000
Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per bushel and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

Sues for $2,000 and Obtains Just $27.30

COLUMBUS, July 11.—A jury in the City Court returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $27.30, being the amount of premiums paid in the case of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Richardson's death occurred October 25, 1912, and the investigation of the police led to the announcement that he had committed suicide. When the father of the young man demanded payment of the $2,000 policy the insurance company refused.

At 85, Sees Her First Hobble; Dislikes It

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. John McCafferty, 85, of this city, who has been blind for fifteen years, has just seen an automobile for the first time. She also saw a number of hobble skirts, which met with her instant disapproval.

Although several doctors had declared the condition of her eyes hopeless, an operation for the removal of cataracts was successful.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED.

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—James H. Anderson, referee in bankruptcy, has denied a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, of Dayton, Tenn. Creditors whose claims aggregated more than $1,000,000 were represented.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $50, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

(Affidavit) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Note—Mrs. Garvin has seven children.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all of Jacobs' Drug Stores and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

VINCENT ASTOR'S SWEETHEART, MISS KATHERINE FORCE, TO WED

MISS KATHERINE FORCE AND MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

STATESBORO HAS LIVE UNION OF FARMERS

Bulloch County Town Supports One of State's Best Agricultural Colleges.

STATESBORO, GA., July 11.—Filling the large audiforium of the First District Agricultural College to its capacity Bulloch County farmers rallied to the call of the Farmers' Union and to the standard bearer, Charles S. Barrett.

L. M. Rhodes, of Tennessee, delivered one of the greatest addresses ever heard here. The crowd showed its appreciation by applause.

The Bulloch County Union is one of the best in the State, due largely to the efforts of Professor O. T. Harper, of the Agricultural College, a tireless worker for the farmer.

Another factor is President E. C. J. Dickens, who took charge of the college after it had run down to a handful of students, and built it up until it ranks as a leader. It has an enrolment equal to one-sixth of the total of the eleven district agricultural colleges in the State. Scientific farming, mechanics and domestic science are taught.

A magnificent brick building has been erected. It was designed and built by the students.

The farm of about 120 acres resembles an experiment farm after the experiment has proven a success. Finer corn could not be found anywhere. Other crops are as good. Bulloch farmers call it their school. It will not be long until reservations will have to be made a year in advance.

Bulloch County farmers believe in the Farmers' Union and Charles S. Barrett, who is making their cause his life work.

Statesboro is a progressive and up-to-date little town. On every hand new buildings are going up. Old ones are being remodele.

There is a magnificent three-story office building, covering a quarter of a block, which would be a credit to any town of five times the population.

There are good department stores. One is three stories. It covers a space of about 100 by 150 feet. The other big department store is only two stories high, but covers a space 150 by 150 feet, with a large warehouse in the rear.

An odd feature of this store is that the center, with a frontage of about 25 feet, is the First National Bank, of which the head of the store is president. On either side of the bank are entrances to the store.

Either of these stores would be appreciated in Atlanta or any other city.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

General managers and buyers of the Rhodes Retail Furniture Syndicate are spending several days in Atlanta inspecting Atlanta-made goods, preparatory to visiting Eastern and Western markets to make fall purchases.

They intend to stock their chain of stores with goods manufactured in Atlanta. J. D. Rhodes, of Atlanta, is vice president of the syndicate and chief of the purchasing department.

DEWBERRY PAYS FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Negro Confesses Slaying, Professes Religion and Mounts Gallows Calmly.

Exactly one year to the very day and hour after the death of his victim, Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing 15-year-old Horace Dodson on Decatur Street, May 27, 1912, expiated his crime on the gallows in the county prison Friday morning. The trap was sprung by Deputy Sheriff John Owens at 11:05 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Dewberry confessed his guilt to Sheriff Mangum at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and later dictated a written confession to the Rev. H. H. Proctor. He said he stabbed young Dodson after Dodson and some other boys had brushed against him.

The negro professed religion and prayed fervently just before he was led to the gallows.

Dewberry mounted the scaffold with a firm step. When Sheriff Mangum asked him if he had anything to to say, following the reading of the death warrant, he replied calmly that he did not.

During the hanging, which was attended by about 25 men, including county officials, newspaper men, physicians and deputy sheriffs, the condemned man's sister, who is also in jail charged with burglary, emitted shrieks which could be heard for blocks around.

SPEAKER DENIES CHARGES MADE BY LAMAR

Never Knew Him and Was Unacquainted With Morgan, Champ Clark Declares.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark appeared before the Lobby Committee of the Senate today and made a denial that he ever knew or had anything to do with J. Pierpont Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward Lauterbach or David Lamar. The Speaker's declaration was in answer to the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony before the committee, although Lamar finally admitted he never saw Speaker Clark and never had any direct communication with him.

It was the intention of the committee to call Colonel Martin W. Mulhall, but this action was delayed by lengthy testimony given by W. L. Whitman, of Boston, a wool manufacturer. Whitman testified, among other things, that Simon N. D. North, former Director of the Census, was on the pay roll of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers while he was chief statistician of the Census Bureau and while he was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee.

He was clerk of this committee while the Dingley tariff bill was under consideration. Whitman said North received $4,000 a year from the association up to the time he became Director of the Census.

Clark Defends Himself.

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone," said Speaker Clark. "Lauterbach, who acknowledged that he lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed that the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaimed any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and promptly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale a lie, in which he was entirely correct. He and I never in our lives conversed about or in any way mentioned to each other Morgan & Co. nor the Steel Trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever; never authorized anybody else to do so.

Didn't Know Morgan.

"I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never introduced, even casually, to him or to any of them. To my best knowledge and belief, I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron Club banquet.

"I was introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington several years ago in the presence of several gentlemen and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before or since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever nor about any business matter whatsoever.

"I never had heard of Lamar and knew only by seeing his name in the papers that there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and my name were being bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo Palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

Aid Solicited for Hightower Family

Members of local charitable organizations are soliciting aid for the family of Robert Hightower, the daring Confederate officer, said to be dying of some strange mental disease. The Hightower family, 247 Cooper Street, is said to be in destitute circumstances.

According to physicians, the aged veteran is near death.

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike Riley Rules for Year Over Younger Members of Famous Irish Tribe.

Chief Michael Riley hunched up his shoulders, stuck his finger in his mouth, and tightened his grip on the collar of his dog, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Hara at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Now, for a year, Mike Riley, the 4-year-old son of Pete Riley, one of the leaders of the clan, will guide the destinies of his juvenile subjects.

He is king of the kids and his rich brogue and antics, together with his fascinating countenance, with the map of old Ireland on his face, make him almost adorable even to a stranger.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

Bijou Actors Delight Federal Prisoners

The players at the Bijou Theater this week held the boards Thursday at the Prison Auditorium, where they enacted "Along Broadway," much to the delight of the hundreds of men behind the walls.

Among those who gave the prisoners the benefit of their talents were Will Stanton, Miss Thornton and Miss Rosalind May. The tabloid was given under the direction of Mr. Labridy. The performers were assisted by the Bijou orchestra.

Aerial Liners to Ply From London to Paris

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—The first regular passenger airship service in England is being planned. New semi-rigid dirgibles will be built with a speed of 60 miles an hour.

It is proposed to provide services from London to Brighton, Birmingham and other English cities and also to Paris.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamship companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" asked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Strachan, who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quiz ended.

Saloon Men Plead Guilty; Take Fines

MACON, July 11.—After two had been convicted, fifteen other saloonkeepers pleaded guilty in the Superior Court to conducting their businesses for several months before paying licenses. J. J. Quinlan was fined $100 and J. B. Brooks $75, both going to the jury. The others, who pleaded guilty, paid fines ranging from $20 to $35.

When it was understood that Judge Mathews was imposing only nominal sentences on those who admitted their guilt, there was a rush by the defendants to enter pleas.

Feet Like Ton Weights?

SUFFRAGE MEET ENDS; WOMEN ENCOURAGED

Tilts With Senate and the Civic League Show People Increasing Strength "of Course."

Members of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association closed Thursday night one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The fight started in the Legislature after the action of the Senate in denying the women the right to meet in the Capitol and the dissension with the Atlanta Civic League have served to bring the cause strongly before the people. More interest was manifested by the public generally in the convention than in any suffrage gathering of recent years.

About 50 women attended the business sessions of the convention. Their enthusiasm and willingness to fight to obtain their rights, shown by their stand before the Legislature and in the quarrel within the ranks, has given an impetus to the cause that is expected to aid them to obtain the 1,000 members they have set as their mark for 1914.

Press Bureau Is Indorsed.

Two propositions for spreading the suffrage movement were indorsed at the final session. A press bureau, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was organized, and expects to begin its work of education immediately.

Volunteers will be secured in every town in the State to furnish live, local news of the suffrage movement to the country papers, and a central bureau will be established in Atlanta to handle the suffrage news of the Capitol.

Miss Augusta Howard, of Columbus, proposed the organization of a "Men's Suffrage League," similar to organizations now existing in other States, which met with approval. No official action on the proposition was taken, but it is probable that the executive committee will endeavor to complete the organization of the league.

Reports Show Progress.

The reports of department superintendents showed that the movement has gained in Georgia to a greater extent than is generally supposed. These reports were made by Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. May C. Moore, Mrs. S. C. Osburne, Mrs. Mamie Matthews and Miss Katherine Koch.

Three addresses on suffrage, delivered before a crowd that filled the House of Representatives, brought the convention to a close Thursday night. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. W. A. Felton, of Cartersville, who made her first public appearance as a suffragist. Other speakers were Attorney Leonard Grossman and Miss Augusta Howard, founder of the State association and its president for six years.

On invitation of the DeKalb County Association, the convention voted to meet in Decatur in 1914.

Central Officials at Macon Depot Site

MACON, July 11.—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central and the Central of Georgia, and W. A. Winburn and A. R. Lawton, vice presidents of the latter road, stopped in Macon several hours to inspect the site chosen for the erection of the union station at Cherry and Fifth Streets.

Committees from Council and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the railroad in arranging settlements with owners on Cherry Street who claim their properties will be damaged by the closing of the street.

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

OBITUARY.

John S. Tribble, aged thirty-one, died Thursday night at the family residence on Campbellton Road. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and interment will be at South Bend Cemetery. A wife, three children, six brothers and one sister survive him.

W. D. Short, aged thirty-one, died early Friday morning at the residence of his father, E. P. Short, Church and Spring Streets, East Point. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Westview. The Junior Order of United American Mechanics will have charge of the funeral. The deceased is survived by his wife, two small children, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Short; five brothers, H. E., H. M., D. N., E. T. and Wingfield Short, and three sisters, Miss Mary and Elsie Short, of East Point, and Mrs. T. R. Cheney, of Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTEST FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STIRRING

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

Attempt to Blow Up Barracks Thwarted

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., July 11. An attempt was made here to-day to blow up the King Edward Military Barracks by sympathizers of youths who were imprisoned for refusing to do military service.

Electric wires attached to the explosives were discovered and disconnected, thus saving many lives and the building from destruction.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Barnett Getford, of Brooklyn, withdrew $700 from a savings bank and placed it in the kitchen range in his home. His wife built the fire.

NEW COUNTY OF CANDLER IS LIKELY

House Amendment Committee Indorses Proposal—Three Others Meet With Rejection.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has cleared the new county atmosphere considerably by recommending the creation of Candler County and turning down bills proposing the new counties of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall.

All of the counties proposed cutting into Tattnall County, and all were argued before the committee at the same time. The committee seems to have believed the Hampton, Evans and Stonewall proposals really were more "dummy" proposition set up to defeat Candler.

The throwing out of Evans, Hampton and Stonewell Counties very materially reduces the total number of new counties likely to get favorable action by the present Legislature.

The Constitutional Amendments Committee will go right along disposing of the dozen or so remaining propositions. Within the next week or ten days it should be possible to forecast with a degree of accuracy exactly what other counties besides Barrow and Candler stand any chance of getting through the Legislature.

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

The statement gives correspondence between himself, Senator Smith, Postmaster General Burleson and President Wilson's secretary, J. P. Tumulty.

MID-SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE OF HIGH GRADE SHOES FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

EDWIN CLAPP and LAIRD AND SCHOBER

There is not a pair of "Special Sale" Shoes in our house. We have not bought a single pair for this sale. We are simply overstocked, and make this reduction on our regular line of high class, quality shoes in order to move them and make room.

Every pair is this season's models. There are button or lace Oxfords for the lady, in a variety of materials, including novelty effects in fabrics, as well as the staple styles in patent colt, dull leathers or tan, white buck or brown suede, soft black kid and satins in black. Pumps for every occasion.

For men's wear, in the celebrated Edwin Clapp line are styles and shapes of every leather and last. Smart, snappy shoes for the young man, medium styles for the more conservative, and dignified lasts for the elderly man.

There's a wide range of sizes in every style and leather.

CHILDREN'S SHOES FOR EVERY NEED

Our large and varied line of children's dependable shoes is also included in this sale.

This stock is exceptionally inviting to the mothers who find that the children's supply of summer footwear needs replenishing. Choice goods are shown in all materials and styles, from sandals for the tiny tots, up to the strong sturdy shoes for growing boys and girls to romp in.

BUTTON SLOGAN MUST BE IN BY SATURDAY

Hearst's Sunday American Will Announce Winner—Hundreds of Designs Submitted.

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Here is a good exampre of an out-of-town letter, from John T. Abney, of the Swift Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ga.:

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"A button carrying a photo of a telephone and the words, 'Call Atlanta.'"

H. W. Thorp, 152 West Peachtree Street, sends this one:

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

"Atlanta—always leads, always succeeds—the Half-Million City."—Woodie Hardeman.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"Largest city South—Atlanta, 1920. 500,000 population."—Alvin Samuel, 93 East Georgia Avenue.

"Half million by 1920. Boost Atlanta."—W. C. Meador, 49 Washington Street.

"All the time, every time Atlanta, 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"Atlanta's alive with 500,000 busy bees. 1920. Watch us hum."—Mrs. Albert Sydney Ullman, 483 Washington Street.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city. 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 100, Atlanta.

"Boost, boost, boost. Atlanta 1920. 500,000. Get the habit and come to Atlanta."—R. Speer, 625 Woodward Avenue.

"The Atlanta spirit, we have plenty, which assures half million in 1920."—Robert S. Link, Abbeville, S. C.

"Get 'Em or Bust."

"Half million or bust."—Carl J. Broome, Douglasville, Ga.

"Hearst's Sunday American did it. Atlanta, 500,000."—Mrs. Belle Tyson.

"God helps Atlanta."—H. L. Owen.

"Atlanta's growth and prosperity has no limit. Nineteen-twenty, half million people."—P. B. Rand.

"Hurrah for Atlanta, magic city."—G. Ford, 40 1-2 North Forsyth Street.

"Prosperity, wealth, opportunity, morality. America's Queen City. Watch Atlanta grow. 500,000 by 1920."—J. K. Tippett, Frederick apartments.

All Express Optimism.

"Atlanta, the Pinnacle City."—Jas. F. Saunders, 94 Greenwood Avenue.

"Success is yours in Atlanta. Half-Million Club. 1920."—A. C. Lanier, 595 North Jackson Street.

"Onward to Atlanta, the Half-Million City, 1920."—Mrs. N. E. Love, 633 Woodward Avenue.

"Atlanta, the Gate City,
With a half-million plan,
And whatever has been called for
She has never failed to land."
—Orle King.

476 Whitehall Street.

J. S. Booth, of 12 West Pine Street, suggests a button with the face of Mayor Woodward on it, and these words around it: "Only one Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."

"We push, Atlanta's Half-Million Club."—George A. Latimer.

"We boost Atlanta. Half Million, 1920. Opportunity, location, organization, co-operation. Come!"—W. W. Tommins, 35 Chatham Street.

Bowden Man Enters.

"Half million souls Atlanta needs and half million souls she's going to have. I'm in the fight for them. Are you?"—G. A. Barr, Bowden, Ga.

W. H. Gattis R. F. D. 6, suggests an emblem of a bee on a flower with the slogan: "Everybody get busy. 500,000 for Atlanta 1920."

A "Little Boy Blue," with a horn and the words, "Blow your own horn. Atlanta!" is the offering of Miss Hester Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

"Boost Atlanta. At it all. Always at it. 1913-1920."—Mrs. W. F. Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

Dr. Emmett V. Ball, 700 Austell Building, has sent in a number of slogans. Here is one of his best ones:

Two Suggestions For the Boosters

Booster button designed by A. P. Thompson, Jr., of the Crumley Hardware Company.

MR. DOLPH WALKER, Empire Bldg.

One of the most prominent and successful business men of the city, says: "Dr. Kelly's Nuxcara cured me of dyspepsia in its worst form after I had suffered for years. In spite of the fact that I took every digestive remedy that I could hear of I was almost an invalid, and so discouraged that I had about decided to give up all medicines advertised for stomach troubles, as I had about lost faith in drugs. My case was so bad that I could not see any improvement at all on the first bottle of Nuxcara, but by the time I had taken five bottles I had gained forty-five pounds and was stronger and in better health than I ever was in my life. It is certainly the most wonderful remedy known."

"ASK YOUR DRUGGIST."

The Social World

Mrs. Charles Remsen was hostess at an informal tea of fifteen guests Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Club, in honor of Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, the guest of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel.

The guests were received on the piazza surrounding the ballroom. Later, tea was served at four small tables, each decorated with summer flowers.

Mrs. Remson was lovely in white embroidered crepe, worn with a Panama hat tied with purple streamers.

Bridges-Black.

Miss Julia Caroline Bridges and Mr. Arthur Franklin Black were married Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Bridges, 143 Lawton Street. The bride and bridegroom departed later for Washington, D. C.

The bride wore white embroidered marquisette and carried bride roses. Her traveling costume was of tan ratine, with hat, shoes and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Portsmouth, Va.

Dinner Dance at Country Club.

The dinner dance at the Capital City Country Club Thursday evening was the second in the series inaugurated at the new clubhouse, and was largely attended. Several parties were given.

Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, was the honor guest at a large party given by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser. Invited to meet her were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser and Mr. James M. Nunnally.

Another party was given by Judge and Mrs. J. T. Pendleton in honor of their guests, Misses Mary B. Murphy and Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nunnally and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stewart.

Other hosts of the evening were Mr. Edward Alfriend, Mr. W. R. McBurney, Mr. Dodson, Mr. W. R. Baskerville, Mr. Fleming and Mr. Pool.

Miss Almeta Jackson Entertains.

Miss Almeta Jackson was hostess Thursday afternoon at her home on Myrtle Street, entertaining a number of her young friends. Hearts dice was played, and Miss Kathryn Donely won the prize, gold pins. Miss Helen Nesbit won the second prize, a bottle of extract.

Misses Sarah Roberson and Sarah Eubanks served punch, and Mrs. T. A. Burke and Miss Marguerite Adams, of West Point, assisted in entertaining.

The guests included Misses Katherine and Nedra Turner, Marion Dean, Marie Stoddard, Hallie Crawford, Louise Cooper, Idelia Andrews, Elizabeth Downing, Helen Brown, Evelyn Roberts, Bernice Jackson, Aline Conley, Helen Tucker, Ellen Donnelly, Katherine Donnelly, Alma Boone, Elizabeth Floding, Mary Floding, Ida Brittain, Anne Dow Wurm, Lucile Young, Elizabeth Millard, Cornelia Walker, Virginia Walker, Sarah Robertson, Sarah Eubanks and Marguerite Adams of West Point.

Dancing Party.

Miss Helen Atkisson will entertain at a dancing party Friday evening at her home in Ansley Park for Miss Dorothy Robbins, of Birmingham, and Miss Dodo White's guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle. About 70 young people will dance.

Mrs. Snodgrass Hostess.

Mrs. W. W. Snodgrass entertained at a spend-the-day party Friday at her home in Lawton Street for Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, guest of Misses Mary and Lucile Goodrich.

Miss Pollock Hostess.

Miss Madge Pollock was hostess at a 5-o'clock tea Friday afternoon at her home in North Avenue. The party was for Miss Dodo White's house party guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle.

In the dining room, where the ices were served, there was a Marie Antoinette basket of Shasta daisies adorning the table. Yellow tulle was draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

Miss Pollock wore yellow satin draped in white chiffon and trimmed in seed pearls. Mrs. George Pollock, her mother, assisted her in entertaining. She wore white lace with touches of blue satin. Little Misses Margaret Elder, Mary White and Elizabeth Goldsmith received the callers at the door. Others assisting were Misses Nina Neal, Marion Neal, Louise Dobbs, Ruth Reid, Marie Cobb, Harriet Haynes, Jennie Lou Lindsey Martha Lawshe and Ruth Cocke. Guests numbered 150.

For Miss Lewis.

Miss Laurette Lewis, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Edgar Jones will take place next Wednesday afternoon, was tendered a forty-two party Friday afternoon by Miss Laliah Moncrief. This is the last of a series of affairs for Miss Lewis preceding her marriage.

For Miss Cozart.

Miss Fannie Lou Cozart, of Washington, Ga., who is visiting Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick, is being entertained pleasantly in an informal way. Thursday afternoon Miss Cozart was honor guest at tea at the East Lake Country Club, following a motor ride. Thursday evening she was entertained at an informal party given by the Misses Kirkpatrick.

Birthrday Party.

The guests were Misses Ann Lane Newell and Ellen Newell, Annette, Louise and Elinor Gay, Marcelle Robinson, Inez Fuller and Elizabeth Irwin.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Hodgetts, Mrs. W. A. Byers Clyde Stutesman.

Miss Charlotte Watkins is visiting friends in Brunswick.

Miss Aurelia Speer has recovered from an illness.

Miss Rupert Chapman, of Milledgeville, is the guest of Miss Marian Cook at her home on Angier Avenue.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson has as her guest Mrs. G. W. Blanton, of Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hadeny, of San Diego, Cal., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mickel at 88 Holderness Street, and are being entertained in a pleasant and informal way.

Misses Tommie and Marion Perdue are attending a house party in Murphy, N. C. They will be away two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Greth, who have been at the Imperial for some time, leave on Friday for Detroit, where they will reside.

Mrs. Edmund Winston Jordan left Atlanta Thursday evening for Wrightsville Beach. She was accompanied by Earle Watson, Jr.

Mrs. J. T. Pendleton has as her guests her niece, Miss Mary B. Murphy, of Alexandria, Va., and her great niece, Miss Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. They are being entertained in an informal way.

Miss Katherine Wootton has returned from New York, where she attended the meeting of the Library Association of America, going later to the Catskills for a stay with friends.

Mrs. Edwin Stewart, with her daughters, Misses Mary and Katherine Stewart, Marion Dunson, Dolly Blalock and Grace Bloodworth, left Friday to spend two or three weeks at Warm Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rice, with their granddaughters, Misses Mary and Georgia Rice, visited Lithia Springs the first of the week, returning by way of Marietta.

Miss Janie Allen, of Greenville, S. C., will arrive Friday to visit Mrs. and Mrs. T. E. Byers are at Borden Wheeler Springs.

TAX REFORM IS GEORGIA'S HOPE SAYS SLATON

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Agreed More Money Is Needed.

"Revenues and expenditures of Georgia must balance," declared Governor John M. Slaton Thursday night. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, and W. H. Burwell, Speaker of the House of Representatives, concurred.

Members of the Georgia Legislature and of the Chamber of Commerce, 700 in all, voiced their hearty approval in the great ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club.

The occasion was a reception to the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," said Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the guests applauded noisily.

Governor Slaton and the heads of the legislative arm of the State government seized the chance to express their conviction that Georgia is confronted with one of the most serious problems of its history—a deficit in the State Treasury. It was the unanimous opinion that the Legislature is able to solve the problem.

"The revenue and expenditure of Georgia must square," said Governor Slaton to the diners. "When I tell you that in one of our State institutions, where girls are taught to cook and to sew and to make happy homes for Georgians, it is necessary to put fourteen girls in a room, you will see the need of greater revenues. When I tell you that the Technological School is offered $100,000 worth of the most modern machinery if only we can provide housing for it, and when I tell you that the Agricultural College at Athens is in sore need of funds, you will see the need of greater revenues.

"The man who is paying 10 cents on the dollar while his neighbor is paying 20 cents on the dollar in taxes ought to be made to increase his payments. An increase of only 20 per cent in taxable values in Georgia means $180,000,000, which means $900,000 added revenue—enough to supply all the State institutions and pay all the debts."

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Forsyth Busy This Week.

Attendance this week at the Forsyth is well up to the standard of the busy theater. The house is being well filled at nearly every performance and the several feature acts are winning deserved applause.

Next week's program has already been arranged and includes some delightful acts. The headliner will be Valerie Bergere and company in "Judgment," and among the comedy features will be Britt Wood, an exceptionally clever character comedian.

Grand Pictures Popular.

Motion pictures at the Grand daily from 2:30 until 10:30 have added wonderfully to the popularity of this theater.

The very highest grade of first-run motion pictures is offered, and the program is as good as any that has been exhibited on a screen in the city.

At the Bijou.

"Along Broadway," with Will Stanton and Rosalind May, is filling the Bijou to capacity this week. The performance bristles with breezy action, and the several specialties that stand out with startling distinction are the violin solo by Miss Marguerite Calvert, the juggling of Sam Albertus and the Tango dance by Ingalls and Hite. For next week another snappy and up-to-date attraction is announced, "Hotel a la Carte."

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

Testimony by William Devery, of the New York Imperial Film Exchange, before the special examiner in the Government's suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law brought this out.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

MAYOR'S ROOSTER MUST GO.

BOSTON, July 11.—A neighbor complained anonymously that Mayor Fitzgerald has been violating a city ordinance by keeping a rooster in the henyard at his home, and the Board of Health ordered that he must kill or remove it.

TWO WOMEN IN PERIL OF MOB IN TENNESSEE

Mother and Daughter, Confessed Slayers of Stepchildren, Given Additional Jail Guard.

UNION CITY, TENN., July 11.—Threats of mob violence against Mrs. James Yates and her daughter, Floy Farris, 18, in jail here following the confessed murder of the children of James Yates, caused county officials to-day to place a special guard about the jail. An attempt at lynching is expected to-night.

Mrs. Yates, second wife of James Yates, a prosperous farmer, confessed that she had drowned the two children of Yates' first wife. Her daughter by a former marriage, Floy Farris, was with her, and, according to the story, aided in the crime.

The killing occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Yates found the two children, a boy, 12, and his sister, 10, swimming in a creek that ran through the Yates farm. She ordered them to leave the water. The boy, she said, called her vile names. She became enraged at him, she said, and, seizing him by the throat, held his head under the water until he drowned.

The lad's sister screamed and tried to escape, but was caught by the Farris girl, the woman said, and was drowned as her brother had been.

The children's bodies were found in the creek Wednesday night. Yesterday Mrs. Yates and her daughter were arrested. The woman confessed today.

Her husband to-day declared he would use every effort to see that his wife was hanged for the crime.

Aviator in 900-Mile Air Race Near Record

MACATAWA, MICH., July 11.—A world's hydroaeroplane record for distance was within the grasp of Glenn Martin, of Los Angeles, this afternoon as he closed in upon Beckwith Haven and Roy M. Francis, leaders in the Chicago-to-Detroit airboat race.

Martin maintained a speed of 80 miles an hour for 200 miles to-day after leaving Chicago. He landed for half an hour at Michigan City, and then came on to Macatawa Bay, where he lunched and left for Cralevoix, his third scheduled stop, shortly after 1 o'clock.

Families Fight for Possession of Bride

ANNISTON, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Peel, who were married Wednesday morning, are central figures in a family quarrel to-day.

W. D. Chandler, the girl's father, hurried to the house where the two were stopping and took his daughter home. She now is held a prisoner.

The father of the bridegroom, Samuel Peel, is helping his son in his efforts to recover his bride. He contemplated habeas corpus proceedings, but was advised first to try moral suasion on the father of the bride.

Tifton Man Held as Philadelphia Forger

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Maintaining his innocence even after a merciless cross-examination by detectives, Henry L. Kramer, who was brought back yesterday from Tifton, Ga., charged with forgery and embezzlement, was released under $1,500 bail.

A scene was caused in the courtroom when the accused man's wife denounced her husband's accusers. Later she secured the bondsmen.

Mrs. Kramer is a Tifton girl.

French Scientist Has Wireless Telephone

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, July 11.—Professor d'Arzonval, the eminent scientist, it is reported, has just found a complete and practical solution of the baffling problem of wireless telephony.

How he has accomplished this is at present kept secret, but the report is generally credited here.

Walter E. Willimon, of Greenville, who has been in the employ of the postal service for the past seven years, has been appointed a postoffice inspector and will be retained in the Atlanta division.

Negro's Attempt to Rob Bank Thwarted

CORDELE, July 11.—While L. E. Fenn, assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Cordele, was counting several thousand dollars in cash and currency late last night the electric lights suddenly went out.

Mr. Fenn, fearing robbery, summoned a policeman, who found a negro hiding near the electric switch in the bank building. As the would-be robber was making a quick getaway the policeman fired several shots at him.

Co-Eds Cheer Wilson For His Skill at Golf

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson has so improved in health in the last three days, and likes his summer home so well that he has decided to stay until Sunday.

While golfing yesterday the President putted neatly, almost from the edge of the turf, and a party of co-eds from the Dartmouth Summer School clapped their hands in applause.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value, and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialities with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

Jarvis thought that he detected in the tone in which these last words were uttered something of a warning or a threat, but he ignored it.

"Have either of you seen this?" he inquired.

The Duke shook his head.

"My brother has seen it twice," said the Princess in a low voice. "So had my father and the others when they disappeared. No one has ever seen it three times and lived to tell——"

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

"Oh," smiled the young man, "there's always money where the ghost walks."

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse. I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bull-hound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Jacobs' Pharmacy and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey of two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

Superfluous Hair Truths

De Miracle

The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. "Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated.

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Donner and blitzen, nein! In England—in dis gountry."

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. I vas at der goncert in Berlin, and I hear der great Engleesh soprano sing dot der vas no blace like Ohm, and all der Engleesh beoples in der goncert gry like der leetle babies. Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John O' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

Another thing—a poor umpire is generally the most honest thing in the world.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked.

The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

Price beat out his usual bunt. He's a marvel at that.

In the fourth inning Cavet retired the Crackers on four pitched balls.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

STANDING OF THE RIDERS.
Name	1st	2d	3d	T't'l.
Richards	6	2	0	38
Shields	1	2	2	19
Lockner	1	2	2	19
Renel	0	3	2	18
McNeil	2	0	1	13
Graves	0	1	2	10
Lewis	0	0	1	3

IT looks like rather the best program of all out at the Motordrome to-night.

Three features are carded, and each looks a wonder.

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.
Motordrome Purse.
One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.
No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.
No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.
Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.
Crackers' Sweepstakes.
Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COLumn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared to-day that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Dooln and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Joe Tinker, who needs pitchers, probably would part with $10,000 of Garry Herrmann's money right now for Brennan.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

Miner Brown, who pitched for the Reds yesterday and won, is still suffering from an injury to his knee, although his arm is as strong as ever. His running is badly handicapped.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. O." made a big hit up there and will be given a Butte match with one of the star middleweights before long. Walsh likes Butte as a boxing town so well that he is going to take Joe Mandot up there to fight in the fall. Mandot will be here to join Walsh in a few days.

TAGGART DECLARES HE IS NOT "ANGEL" FOR TRACK

FRENCH LICK, IND., July 11.—"What? Me the 'angel' for the Mineral Springs Jockey Club? Quit kidding me!" shouted Thomas Taggart, when interrogated as to the reports printed in Chicago newspapers that he had guaranteed purses offered by the Jockey Club so that the meeting would not "blow up."

Mr. Taggart pronounced the report as "a pure fabrication" or "untruth," declaring he had no connection whatever with the Porter races.

CLARKE WARS ON BRENNAN; ASKED COOPER TO FIGHT

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Manager Clarke, of the Pirates, has filed sworn charges with National League President Lynch, accusing Umpire Brennan of challenging Pitcher Cooper to fight under the Philadelphia grandstand after Tuesday's game with Philadelphia. Cooper is said to have accepted and Brennan was absent.

Clarke wired President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club this information to-day, together with the information that the fine of $25 imposed on Cooper had been paid under protest.

LYNCH NOTIFIES UMPIRES; GAMES TO GO 9 INNINGS

NEW YORK, July 11.—President Lynch, of the National League, to-day notified his umpires that in the future all teams would be required to play nine full innings in each game, or as many as possible unless prevented by rain or darkness. There will be no more early starts and early stops by agreement of managers and umpires.

INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the seasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he falls in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a little in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., July 11. Pitcher Neihaus and Shortstop Callahan, of the local Southern Michigan League team, have been sold to the St. Louis Nationals. Neihaus is a left-hander who has won 18 games and lost 4 this year.

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State championship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map,
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

A football team was fighting on a bloody battle ground,
And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound,
When suddenly they halted in the middie of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,
"There's nothing doing," they replied; "we've got to catch a train."

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Peploski.

This is one of those rare intervals during which Doc Roller and Charlie Cutler are not matched for an alleged battle on the mat.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

PERFUME.

Motorcyclists all remind us
We can ride o'er hills and dells
And, departing, leave behind us

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse. Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

I.-M. LEAGUE WILL FINISH.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., July 11.—The Illinois-Missouri League will be able to finish the season, as Pekin has overcome its financial difficulties. This was announced by President Cline to-day.

Champaign sold Billy Line, outfielder, to Fond du Lac in the Wisconsin-Illinois League for $750.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the middle cushion, is acknowledged by all experts to be the "keystone king" of the American League, but when any authority sets out to prove that the Columbia graduate is the peer of his contemporaries he never rushes to the guide books for statistical information on the subject.

A good way to find out how swift a fielder is, some persons think, is to take the number of double plays a man starts. Up to July 1 the American Leaguers had rid their systems of 380 dual killings, the man who started most of them being Collins. He took the initiative in sixteen of his team's two-ply massacres.

The Johnsonites' swiftest shortstop, according to the performances in the Double Play League, is Ray Chapman, of the Naps. He inaugurated a dozen plays that resulted in the retirement of a pair of runners. In figuring Chapman's speed as an inaugurator of double plays, it should be remembered that he has been often absent from the Naps' line-up because of injuries, and it is possible that had he played all season long, as has Collins, he would have started just as many two-ply killings.

Baker Leads Third-Sackers.

The third basemen who have started the greatest number of double plays are Frank Baker, of the White Elephants, and Ivan Olson, of the Naps. Each man has inaugurated six. George Stovall, of the Browns, shows the way to the first-sackers, having been the pioneer in seven dual massacres.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 10, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

The Browns, just at present, are leading in manufacturing double plays, with the Washingtons a close second, and the World's Champion Red Sox last.

ROUMANIANS ALSO OPEN WAR ON THE BULGARIANS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia, and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

5,000 Roumanians Invade Bulgaria.

PARIS, July 11.—A force of 5,000 Roumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgaria.

King Charles has promulgated a proclamation of war against the Bulgarians but it has not yet been approved by the Roumanian congress, which will assemble next Wednesday.

The occupation of a considerable portion of Bulgarian territory by the Roumanians is imminent.

Bulgars Try to Influence Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Bulgaria is trying to provoke Turkey to reopen the war against the Balkan allies in order to save herself from humiliating defeat by Servia and Greece, according to the belief in official circles here to-day.

Word was received here to-day that Bulgarian troops had set fire to Midia, an important port on the Black Sea. It was said that a number of Turks had been massacred there by the Bulgarians.

ATHENS, July 11.—All of Southern Macedonia now is in the hands of the Greeks. The important city of Demir Hissar was occupied to-day.

600 ATLANTA SOLDIERS IN CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Boys of the Fifth Regiment embarking at Brunswick for St. Simons.

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely—Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

SEARCHING SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS IN GEORGIA

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member, and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

Former Representative R. A. Denny, of Rome, one of North Georgia's best-known attorneys, is in Atlanta for a few days.

Mr. Denny does not come to Atlanta often nowadays, but when he does he gets the glad hand, palm up, from many directions!

BEARISH ADVICES DEPRESS COTTON

Lower Temperatures and Weakness of Summer Months Cause General Selling.

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the opening of the cotton market the feeling was generally bearish and prices were unchanged to 4 points lower than Thursday's final. The ring was inclined to sell on favorable weather conditions, rains being fairly well distributed over the central and eastern belt.

The Government records show a temperature average in Oklahoma of 98 degrees, which is 4 degrees lower. Temperature average in Texas was 100 degrees, with five stations 100, four stations reporting 102 degrees, nine stations 104 and four stations 106 degrees.

This, together with favorable reports on the condition of the crop issued by Cordill and Habersham King, resulted in a general-selling movement after the call. Before the call, however, July and December rallied 2 to 3 points from the opening range.

The ring, Wall Street and brokers representing spot houses sold the market heavily, resulting in prices losing 8 to 12 points from last night's close. Both July and August touched 12c. Summer positions were given no support. This was in part explained by the fact that late months reflected favorable weather and crop news.

During the late forenoon, prices recovered 2 to 7 points of the early decline through more active buying, which seemed to come mainly from a few scattered shorts. The selling, however, continued general.

At the close the market was steady with prices at a net decline of 3 to 11 points from the final quotations of Thursday.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S DAILY COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Weather developments overnight were again favorable. The map shows fair weather in Texas, cloudy elsewhere; cooler with a fine general precipitation in the Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather in the belt, except fair in the lower half of Texas.

There is a cool wave now heading for the Western States, which should bring general rains and cooler weather on Texas within the next six days, proceeded, as usual, by a short heat spell of no consequence.

The market was inclined to open lower on good reports concerning the crop and the favorable weather prospects, but controlling influences in New York at once advanced August prices and by this show of power checked selling, with the consequence that the market remained idle around last night's closing figures.

The Turner Crop Bureau, of Memphis, makes the condition 82.5 on July 8. The report says that the great producing area of Texas is practically free from the weevil pest. The market weakened in the second hour on an announcement from Houston of a second new bale from San Benito, shipped for sale to New Orleans, on Government records showing a temperature average for Oklahoma of only 98, against 102 the past two days, a bearish into-sight forecast and small forwardings from Liverpool to the mills, only 37,000, against 62,000 bales last year.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We anticipate no pronounced decline and prefer purchases on moderate recessions.

Sternberger, Sinn & Co.: We do not look for any big change one way or the other for the immediate future.

Logan & Bdyan: We are disposed to the view that the long side on sharp declines will possess the greatest attractions.

Miller & Co.: Sell cotton on the hard spots.

Mill Takings for Week 152,000 Bales

According to Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, the visible suply of American cotton during the past week shows a decrease of 123,500 bales, as compared with a decrease of 96,105 bales for the corresponding week last year, against a decrease of 179,760 bales for the same week the year before.

Other kinds during the week showed a decrease of 11,000 bales against a decrease of 31,060 bales for the same week last year and a decrease of 49,000 bales during the same period of 1911.

The total visible supply of American cotton decreased 134,500 bales, compared with a decrease of 195,000 bales for the corresponding week in 1912 and a decrease of 105,000 bales for the same week the year before.

COTTON GOSSIP

NEW YORK, July 11.—The only feature of the market this morning was the weakness of the summer months, due to scattered selling, some of it on July notices. New crop sympathized to some extent and was also sold moderately on predictions for unsettled weather in Texas, and the favorable Turner and Cordill reports. Business was of small volume because of the holidays abroad. No important change is probable for the balance of the week. —Anderson.

* * *

J. B. Turner, of Memphis, reports the following condition of the cotton crop as of July 8, by states: North Carolina, 77; South Carolina, 74; Georgia, 76; Alabama, 81; Mississippi, 84; Tennessee, 87; Arkansas, 85; Louisiana, 82; Oklahoma, 95; Texas, 87.

Where declines are shown from the condition of two weeks ago, the loss seems due to an imperfect distribution of the moisture supply. In Texas boll weevils are more evident than at this date last year. East of a line down from Runge to Tyler, weevils are sufficiently numerous to attract notice, but as yet have done little damage. West of that line there are very few or none. It is clear, therefore, that the general producing area of the state is practically free from the pest.—J. B. Turner.

* * *

* * *

According to quoted views of members of the Georgia Legislature, the crop outlook for Georgia, which ranks next to Texas, is the largest producer of cotton in the belt. They say that conditions are much better than the previous season, and if the present outlook is fulfilled the yield will rival the record crop of 1911, when Georgia picked 2,794,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Hayward & Clark: The weather map is favorable and shows generally fair in Texas; no rain; cloudy rest of the belt, with fine general rains in Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather; also in eastern part of Texas, and cool wave coming on the belt, which should bring general rains on Texas in about six days.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "Very hot weather covers the western cotton belt and friends of the staple are optimistic. The temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma as good reason why the cotton market should continue steady. Wednesday and Thursday the high temperature average for the State of Oklahoma was 102 degrees. Yesterday twenty-four Texas stations reported high temperatures, ranging between 100 and 106 degrees, seven of which were 104. Such temperatures, if sustained many days, would, of course, play havoc with the crop as well as with the boll weevil, but both States report periods of even higher temperatures practically every year, and for this reason talent and trade alike refused to become excited over the hot temperature talk yesterday.

"After many days of waiting, Houston at last reported the arrival of the season's first new bale. It comes one month later than the first new bale of 1911 and eight days later than the first new bale of 1912. In this connection, bulls contend that the lateness of the first new bale is proof positive of the all-round lateness of the 1913-1914 cotton crop. Bears, however, contend that while the early producing section of Texas is late, the heavy producing sections are not late at all, and that the Texas movement will be under full swing earlier this year than usual. In the meanwhile, outside influences seem to have combined to reduce contract trading to a minimum. In the first place the talent, confronted by the threat of prohibitive legislation, is in no mood for enterprise. In the second place the usual caution that leads foresees many complications in the event the prohibitive tax should become a law. In the third, commission men are kept busy explaining the effect of the tax to their clients."

Cordill wires from Memphis: "Yazoor City to Greenwood good to excellent. Greenwood to Clarksdale, Clarksdale to Memphis plant well developed, fruiting nicely. There is some small cotton, but greater part large and well developed. Locally the crop is excellent, clean and thoroughly worked. No excess or deficiency of moisture. Weather warm and part cloudy. Perfect cotton-growing weather. Good rains and scattered showers have fallen over Arkansas and Mississippi where needed.

Habersham King says: "Briefly, I would say that I consider the developments of the week as favorable to 25 per cent and a standoff on 15 per cent. Since Monday temperatures moderated favorably in the dry districts and are now around normal so that unfavorable conditions seem checked for the present."

KENTUCKY CROP PROSPECTS RUINED BY LONG DROUTH

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 11.—Drouth during the last month has ruined the prospects for the best crops Kentucky ever produced. The report of the Department of Agriculture of the State said on July 11 that prospects for record crops were splendid.

The report made public to-day said every crop in Kentucky will be short.

DULLNESS CAUSES BREAK IN STOCKS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Considerable irregularity was shown in the price list at the opening of the stock market to-day. The railroad situation in the East, involving a possible strike, caused some selling on account of reports that the general committee, which will meet in this city to-morrow, will probably refuse to entertain Federal intervention. On the other hand, optimistic news came from the Balkans.

Among the losses were Amalgamated Copper, 1¼; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; American Car and Foundry, ½; American Telephone and Telegraph, ¼; Southern Pacific, ½; United States Steel common, ⅝; Chino Copper, ⅝; Northern Pacific, ⅜; Union Pacific, ¼.

The advances included Erie ¼, Atchison ⅛, Reading ⅛ and New York Central ⅛. New York Central turned weak, declining ¼.

The curb market was dull and easy. Americans in London were quiet above New York parity.

In the late forenoon trading was sluggish and price movements were almost at a standstill. Atchison yielded ½ under small sales and concessions were noted in a few other issues. Slight fractional declines were recorded in Amalgamated Copper, Steel common, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Guggenheim. At noon trading was very dull with prices unchanged. Call money loaned and renewed at 2¼ per cent.

STOCK GOSSIP

The New York Financial Bureau says: "We would buy the standard issues conservatively where good opportunities are offered with the intention to accept moderate profits. Trading movements in the general list will be seen to-day. Information channels are expecting further improvement."

* * *

Look for a profesional traders' market for the present. Would buy the active issues on any fair reaction for moderate profits. There is a good demand for standard dividend-paying stocks on all declines for investment. The odd lot buying by people of moderate means continues, and it looks as if speculative holdings are gradually being taken over by the investors throughout the country.—Potter.

* * *

Estimates of the quantity of Canadian Pacific stock liquidated by European sellers Wednesday ran as high as 20,000 shares. Canadian Pacific is about the highest-priced stock listed on the market and securities of such prices are usually the first ones sold if money is badly needed.

* * *

The weakness in Canadian Pacific stock during the past few days was said to be the result of the rumor that $60,000,000 new stock was to be issued. This, however, was officially denied.

* * *

Although the dullness in the market continues, there are few stocks for sale at the present level. Speculative holdings have decreased and investment holdings have increased considerably within the last thirty days. This is usually a favorable sign, as in the past under these conditions prices have advanced when activity begins.—Potter.

Wool Sales Reflect Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinos. Tariff legislation and the holiday season at the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	5,042,642	11,638,729
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	53,607,375	92,178,205
Foreign	41,550,200	75,104,006

HOGS SELL AT WIDE RANGE.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Hogs sold at a wide range of 8.50@9.20 to-day. Above the 9c line the speculators made a market that was higher than yesterday's close, but a large deal was promised on grades that affected only the packer outlet. There were 68,000 at 11 points against 77,000 a year ago.

Good cattle were strong to 10c higher, owing to the presence of a few urgent orders. Others were neglected.

Live mutton was strong, 8.25 being paid freely for good lambs.

MILLER-COTTER COTTON LETTER.

MEMPHIS, July 11.—Good weather and crop accounts were of some influence in the day's decline. A few notices already on summer months caused some depression. The market is dull, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to sustain prices in the face of the steady improvement in the crop, which is reaching a stage of more definite assurance of yield.

Shorts in summer months have been eliminated and further manipulation promises little profit.

MODERN MILLER GRAIN REVIEW.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Weather favorable for winter wheat harvest. Heavy rains, which have prevailed over some areas, did some damage to wheat in shock, but this occurs more or less every year. Cutting is about completed and thrashing well under way. Quality of winter good and hard winter turning out better than expected. Movement to market continues free, yet it is evident that a further decline in price would cause a holding policy.

ALL GRAIN PRICES EASIER AT CLOSE

Losses of More Than Cent Made by Wheat, Corn and Oats. Provisions Off.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Lower prices were seen in all the grain pits at the close to-day. These losses were 1@1⅛ for wheat, 1@1⅛ for corn and 1@1¼ for oats. The provision market was lower in sympathy with the break in grain. The bids sent out on wheat to the country last night were lower than on several previous days and the transactions were smaller in consequence.

On the other hand, the business in cash wheat on export and shipping account was comparatively small, only 130,000 bushels changing hands at Chicago.

Cash corn sales were 330,000 bushels and oats 320,000 bushels. Vessel room was chartered for 400 bushels corn to go to Buffalo. Clearances of breadstuffs from the seaboard for the week were 5,176,000 bushels, compared with 2,495,000 bushels a year ago. Clearances of corn were only 32,000 bushels, against 126,000 bushels last year.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders regarded the rally yesterday as only natural following a four days' decline. Bears are looking for lower prices with a continuation of the liberal hedging sales. One cash handler looks for a free movement, believing tight money will force the grain to terminals and export business will be the best possible thing for the country.

Corn traders were mixed last night, most of them being bearish. Many of the longs have unloaded. The bulls figure that the market is heavily oversold and had reports from Kansas that the crop has been damaged by the recent high temperatures.

There are many bears in oats who believe that the rally yesterday was only temporary. Cutting of early oats has commenced in Southern Illinois and yields are said to be light. Chief argument of bears is that stocks of old oats are too large for a big bull movement at present.

* * *

Grand Forks, N. Dak., wires: "Rain fell from four to six hours yesterday and last night on the parched fields throughout almost the entire northern part of North Dakota. The downpour began in the Minot District about noon and struck Red River Valley about 4 o'clock. More than an inch fell in places. Three days of hot winds had left the soil without moisture and caused heavy damage to crops. With the heavy rains, however, the crop is in condition to weather the remainder of the season without serious difficulty."

* * *

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: "Wheat—The weather map shows general rains over the entire spring wheat country, parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The country continues to offer wheat to arrive in liberal quantities and this factor creates a good deal of local bearishness.

"Corn—With the exception of rain in Nebraska and Iowa, there was no rain in the corn belt, with fairly high temperatures again in the southwest. Judging from the strength shown late yesterday, indications point to considerable liquidation having taken place and a fair short interest created. We look for light receipts and a good demand.

"Oats—There is nothing bullish in the news at the moment, but there has been a pretty good evening up during the recent decline. Covering yesterday brought about a good rally from the low point.

"Provisions—Receipts of hogs considerably under the estimates, with opening prices 5c lower at the yards. July pork is very strong and a fair outstanding short interest is indicated."

Spot Houses Favor Clarke's Amendment

NEW YORK, July 11.—Advices from telegrams and letters which are current, state that many, if not a majority, of the large spot cotton firms and many mills favor the passage of the Clarke amendment, believing it will enable them to buy their spot cotton from the planter cheaper than at present.

It said that the open competition and broadcast distribution of market information and quotations kept the producer of cotton well posted under ruling prices from hour to hour and day to day. This would not be the case with the adoption of the Clarke amendment, as it would leave the cotton markets in the hands of simply the few spot dealers.

With the adoption of the Clarke amendment there would be a fixed tax of 50 cents a bale for hedging contracts. When the local cotton buyer in interior towns buys his cotton from the farmer his bid price would be low enough to enable him to hedge his contract and pay the 50 cents a bale tax, and the farmer, therefore, would indirectly have to pay this tax. If the head and officials of the Farmers' Union could realize what this amendment means, and would look at it from purely a business standpoint, they would oppose the Clarke amend

Follow Advice and Eliminate the Drones From Your Flock.

It seems to me we can not overestimate the importance of finding out whether our hens are paying a good profit or not; and which ones are the drones and cutting down the profit. The only way to do this is to keep a record. Under present conditions, when almost everything that goes to help produce a dozen eggs, comes the necessity for stricter economy and the knowing of what it takes to produce the eggs. We must turn over a new leaf and open an account with the hens. We must charge them with what they consume, and at the same time give them credit for all eggs laid at the market price, whether they are sold or consumed by the family. It is not much work, if you but have a little account book in which to keep it. Five minutes a day will do it. It may pay you to go to the little extra trouble in ascertaining just where you stand.

The owner who has, by the use of the trap-nest, found out the egg-producing abilities of his flock, has taken the first step toward separating the unprofitable hen from the profitable one, a thing that every one who keeps hens should be able to tell or know.

We are often asked the question as to what constitutes a profitable hen? It is one that will pay for her feed, interest on the investment of roosting house, labor taken to care for her, and a profit besides. Of course, the cost of feeding a hen will vary quite a little, owing to the different sections of the country in which it is kept. Feed is quite a little cheaper in some places than others. It is but little trouble to count the cost of feeding ten or twenty hens. If you buy the feed, it is easily put down. If you are raising your own feed, simply measure out a barrel or two of it, putting down the price it is worth, then go to work feeding it.

Farmers are beginning to appreciate the worth of the really laying hen. They are beginning to find out that it does not pay to even harbor one that is too old to lay well or that never did lay much. All such should be cut right out of the game. And there is no way so good to determine that fact as by the trap-nest and the little record book.

With the ever and rapidly-increasing values of farm lands it is but natural that the farmer should look about him for some plan by which he can increase his income without greatly increasing his farm expenses, or investing in more land to do it with. The farmer has this very factor in the hen, if she is a good one. And there are good ones if we will but take the trouble to get acquainted with her. There are but few farms in the country but what have from one to three acres of land going to waste, or rather that are not being utilized. This is about the house and outbuildings. If this could be fenced and subdivided and a lot of good hens located therein it would soon begin to give revenue rather than be an expense to keep free from weeds and trash. I do not think it advisable for the farmer to try to run all to poultry, but just a hint to them that may help them to raise money for the taxes and various odds and ends that take the cash, leaving the regular farm crops in tact for other purposes. Tests show us that hens have made a record of 200 eggs per year; some have done even better than that, but a good many have done that well. Now it is an old saying that what has been done can be done again, so let us not fool away our time keeping hens that will only give us the old farm average of 75 eggs per year. That kind just about pays for its keep, so that if we get rid of them and keep the 150 to 200-egg kind then we get the profit that is due us. A flock of good, thoroughbred hens, say 300, should give us a profit of $400 to $500. Of course, you read of people making $500 from ten hens and a rooster, but that is from real fancy stock in which there is all kinds of possibilities, but on the other hand, there is the chance that you will not make anything from them. We have reference to the commercial kind, well managed; but it can not be done with the hit-or-miss scrub kind. They are too much like the Irishman's flea, you get your finger on them and they are not there.

GRANT PARK COTTAGE

The scarcity of good homes for sale in the Grant Park section is a well-known fact. A great many subdivisions have been made beyond Grant Park to meet the demand for this very desirable section.

When a good home on a good street near Grant Park is offered for sale, it is usually sold right away. We have had listed with us for sale a 7-room cottage at 45 Park Avenue, on a lot 50 by 200 feet. The lot is elevated, has plenty of trees and faces east. The cottage is well built and has all conveniences. This place is located near several churches, public schools and is on one of the few double car-tracked streets in the Grant Park section. Price, $4,750. Very reasonable terms.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Wide Range Is Shown In Realty Transfers

Announcements Include $85,750 Exchange, Sales of Land Lots in Fulton and DeKalb, Peachtree Buys.

An exchange involving 42 North Side city lots, a 1,750-acre farm in South Georgia and $85,750 in money, the purchase of 206 1-4 acres in North Fulton County and 203 acres in DeKalb, a transfer of business property at Buckhead and announcement of a $25,000 building on South Forsyth Street featured Friday's real estate news.

John H. Maddox, of the Smith & Ewing real estate agency, effected an exchange of properties between Dr. Joel T. Daves, of that agency, and George L. Patterson, of Valdosta, whereby the former gave 42 residence lots, beginning at the southeast corner of State and West Tenth Streets, and valued at $42,000, for a 1,750-acre farm in Lowndes County, valued at $43,700, or $25 an acre, and paid the differences, $1,750, in cash.

The North Side lots comprise about four blocks and front on Tenth, Eighth and State Streets, Peachtree Place and Ridge Avenue. Mr. Patterson has placed them with Mr. Maddox for resale, and Dr. Daves will cut his South Georgia farm into 100-acre tracts and offer them to immigrants. The sale indicates that South Georgians are willing to trust Atlanta real estate investments, and that, on the other hand, Atlantans recognize the opportunity in South Georgia colonization.

North Fulton Acreage Bought.

C. C. Foster and S. Y. Stribling, of Cobb County, and G. B. Thomason, of Jeff Davis, have sold to Morris Brandon and Ben J. Conyers three separate acreage tracts, aggregating 206 1-2 acres, in the upper portion of North Fulton County, north of Oak Grove, for $10,312, or at the rate of $50 an acre. This is in land lots 86 and 127 of the Seventeenth District, and is known as lots 1, 2 and 3 of the William E. Brightwell subdivision. A parcel 14 by 16 feet in lot 1 was reserved.

DeKalb Acreage Transfer.

Another large acreage deal has been consummated. Mrs. S. E. L. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to M. W. Reid and others, executors of the estate of the late J. D. Kilpatrick, 40 acres on the east side of land lot 15, Seventeenth District, and also 40 acres in DeKalb County; and W. T. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to same 23 acres in land lot 15, on the north line of said land lot 799 feet west of the east line thereof, and 54 acres in the southeast corner of land lot 16, and 46 acres in DeKalb County.

The total is 203 acres. That conveyed by Mrs. Ivey was sold for $3,800, and that by Mr. Ivey, $5,800.

Buckhead Transfer.

John G. Burckhardt has conveyed to B. F. and A. C. Burdett the triangle at the intersection of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, for $15,000. The transaction was handled by George P. Moore and is understood to have been in the nature of a swap.

The frontage on Peachtree is 152 feet, on Roswell Road 150 and the base line is 72. Mr. Burckhardt bought this some months ago from Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley for about $12,000.

To Erect $25,000 Building.

There will be no nine-story business building for the present on the property of the D. Greenfield estate on South Forsyth Street, between Mitchell and Hunter Streets. A change of plans calls for a one-story and basement building to cost $25,000. Permit to build was issued Friday by Building Inspector Ed R. Hays.

The building has a foundation for nine stories, however, and it is probable that the estate will add to it later. Moise DeLeon is the contractor.

Interesting Loan Deed.

Joseph Loewus has given a loan deed to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts for $37,500, borrowed on the Bass Dry Goods Company property at 18 West Mitchell Street, 48 1-2x140 feet. The Bass concern adjoins the McCroskey property at the northwest corner and was bought from the D. Greenfield estate some months ago by Mr. Loewus.

Lot Sales Total $9,000.

Fitzhugh Knox has announced the sale of six residence lots in his subdivision on South Moreland Avenue at an aggregate of $9,000. These sales have taken place since Mr. Knox started his fourteen bungalows in this section. The subdivision originally contained 41 lots, all but five of which have been sold.

Morris Brandon Sells.

J. B. Thompson has bought from Morris Brandon and others through the Smith & Ewing Real Estate Agency the northeast corner of Pine and Lovejoy Streets for $1,900 cash.

To Sell at Courthouse.

The Greene Realty Company will sell before the courthouse door Tuesday, August 5, the southwest corner of East Fair and Fraser Streets, 68 by 90 feet, for the estate of the late Dominico Gussi. The terms will be half cash and one and two years.

Not in Druid Hills.

In an account Thursday of the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road it was stated that this property was in Druid Hills. Briarcliff Road is in the Druid Hills section, but not in Druid Hills proper.

Buy on Peachtree.

Mrs. R. G. Warner has given E. A. Bancker, Jr., a warranty deed on a Peachtree property 162 feet north of Sixteenth Street for $10,500, 50 by 290 feet, this being lot 11, block 3, of Ansley Park, and Mr. Bancker has placed a $10,000 loan on it through the Home Life Insurance Company of New York. The place is described as 1096 Peachtree.

Interest in Electric Line.

A meeting of people interested in the proposed electric trunk line from Anderson, S. C., to Atlanta is expected to be called soon by the officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which body has received overtures from the Anderson Chamber. This road would connect up Atlanta with Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Anderson and Norfolk, if the plans of the Duke interests and the Anderson officials are carried out.

Real estate men are watching this development because of its possibilities in opening up new territory to the north of Atlanta and bringing in settlers from the other States.

Finish Peachtree in Three Weeks.

Repairs to Peachtree will be completed within three weeks, according to a statement of Shelby Smith, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The convicts have reached Peachtree Creek on their southward tour from Buckhead and have turned back to complete that part of the job. After finishing both sides they will begin at Peachtree Creek and work southward.

Chairman Smith declared that the machines now being used are capable of doing the work of 100 men, and that another labor-saving device, in the shape of a pulverizer, had been bought to break up the soil and road material. Hand labor is now being employed to do the pulverizing, and the work is necessarily slow.

Completing Healey Steel.

United States flags have been run up on the steel frame of the Healey Building, denoting that the first girders of the sixteenth and last above-ground story have been installed. This is a favorite performance among construction gangs—to hold an informal celebration when the last floor is reached.

Not only is the Healey Building going up fast in steel, but Stone Mountain granite has made its appearance at the base and soon will rise above the fences that inclose the structure. It will go 15 feet, where terra cotta will begin. Two stories are under ground.

William T. Healey, the owner, declares that although the building was two months late in starting, he is satisfied with the progress made.

Hurt Building's Arcade.

The unique entrance arcade of the Hurt Building is rapidly taking place. This is to be two stories high and is located in the apex of the triangular lot on which the structure stands, at the junction of Edgewood Avenue and Exchange Place. Handsome stone slabs are being put in place around the sides of the arcade. As for the rest of the building, it is progressing nicely. The exterior is almost completed, and soon the workmen will go inside to put on finishing touches.

Although the Hurt Building is not due to be opened before October 1, it is declared that leases have been signed for most of the space and that there will be no trouble filling the structure. The same is true of the Healey Building, which will not be completed until some time after January 1, 1914.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

And, Like Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, You Will Stand the Heat Well.

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Don't get excited about anything if you can help it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Think of the negro in the Gabboon region who is standing a temperature of 140, think of the seal and walrus at the North Pole on a block of ice.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Bubbles as We Blow Them

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

This is admirable in a way, yet not an altogether admirable quality.

If you are this type of good neighbor do not take pride in it. It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell;
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.

ARREST OF WIDOW IN POISON CASE URGED

Girl Tells Startling Story of Vice Ring

THREE NEW VICE WAR ARRESTS

Man Prisoner Declares He Will Bare the Whole System if Brought to Trial.

As a result of statements made to Chief Beavers Friday morning by Hattie Smith, the young girl who has been held for the Grand Jury in connection with the vice war, Detective Rosser at noon arrested three persons --two men and a woman--who were named by the Smith girl as contributing to her downfall and being involved in her white slavery charges.

The persons under arrest are Paul Estes, 52 Queen Street; Hoyt Monroe, Edgewood, and Mrs. Lola White, 768 Marietta Street.

The woman is a cousin of Hattie Smith and lives next door, while both Estes and Monroe are in the employ of the Collier Garage at Cone and James Streets, where the Smith girl says she met Lena Barnhardt, who later took her to the Cumberland Hotel.

Says She Went Joy Riding.

In her new statement made Friday morning Hattie Smith declared that she went automobile riding with her cousin, Mrs. White, and Estes and Monroe. The two men were released by Chief Beavers after being giving a copy of charges, and their case set for Tuesday afternoon. The White woman was taken to detective headquarters and will be questioned by Chief Lanford. It was announced by the police that she will be held on heavy bonds.

The arrests of Estes and Monroe are considered by Chief Beavers as the preliminary to the spreading of the dragnet and the arrest of seventeen men, some of them prominent in business, who, it is alleged, are involved. Estes, when arrested, declared that he intends to make a complete confession and throw new light on the situation.

"I'm not going to be the goat," Estes declared. "I am going to open my mouth and tell everything I know about vice, and I'm going to give names. I'm going to name every girl and man that I know have taken automobile rides and gone to hotels for immoral purposes.

Promises a Sensation.

"And I know enough names to stir up an awful racket if they are all arrested, and I know a lot about vice in Atlanta that no one else knows."

Chief Beavers stated that every man whom Estes names in his proposed confession will be arrested and brought before Judge Broyles for trial. The Chief declares that the developments of Friday in the vice war have placed him in a position where he can put a speedy end to the immoral operations of men and women in Atlanta, and he stated that he intends to continue his investigation with increased vigor.

Sensational revelations involving two more downtown hotels and seventeen well-known men, one of them a prominent business man, were made to Chief Beavers and Plain-clothes Officers Green and McKibben Friday morning by Corrinne Wilson, the 16-year-old girl who was arrested, together with 14-year-old Dora Rothstein, Thursday night.

The confession of the Wilson girl, which Chief Beavers regards as one of the most important developments of the vice crusade, and which is even more sensational than the story of Hattie Smith, came at the close of a long examination of the girl by the police.

Accuses Business Men.

The Wilson girl was definite in her accusations. She furnished the chief with the name of a prominent business man whom she said has contributed to her downfall, and told of three others whose names she does not remember, but whose places of

Owner Asks $25,000 For Death in Wreck Of Aristocratic Pig

Premier Longfellow Rival, a blue-blooded Berkshire hog with an ancestry tracing back to the Mayflower, was the subject of a $25,000 litigation in the court of Judge Bell Friday morning.

Rival's owner, J. B. DeBow, late of Nashville and now of Atlanta, sought to recover this amount for the killing of the aristocrat of pigdom.

Attorneys for the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad were on hand to say that the hog was not worth even the $10,000 awarded DeBow by another court and from which award an appeal was taken.

The story told the court was that Premier Longfellow Rival was on his private palace car en route from Montgomery to Vicksburg, where he was to be exhibited at a fair in 1909. There was a collision and Rival was considerably smashed up. About a month later he calmly laid down and died.

BIGGER ARMY POST HERE CERTAIN

Garrison's Plan to Centralize Regulars Will Result in Enlargement of Fort McPherson.

That Secretary of War Garrison's plan to abandon 100 or more "absolutely useless" posts in a move to centralize the army will mean an enlargement of Fort McPherson, making it one of the largest in the country, is the consensus of opinion of army men here, including Colonel VanOrsdale, of the Seventeenth Infantry.

VanOrsdale, of the Seventh Regiment.

Nor is this opinion a haphazard guess. The officers base their knowledge of the matter largely on remarks made by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta.

"If the plan of centralizing the army, which has been under consideration for several years, is put into effect," said General Wood on this occasion, "Fort McPherson will become one of the largest posts in the country."

Wood to Advise Secretary.

As General Wood will be one of the chief advisers of Secretary Garrison, accompanying him on his tour of the posts, there is little doubt, it is pointed out, that the Georgia post will receive favorable consideration. Mr. Garrison, General Wood and Quartermaster General Aleshire, who will make the inspection of the army posts, will begin their tour next week.

Atlanta is too strategic a point for the War Department even to consider its abandonment, according to Colonel VanOrsdale.

"I hardly think it is possible that Fort McPherson is being included in plans for army-post abandonment," said he. "If such a movement is on foot, I would be inclined to believe that it has to do with posts in the West and on the frontier, which are quite a distance from the railroad and which hold but a handful of troops in many cases.

Atlanta a Strategic Point.

"The location of Fort McPherson puts us within twelve hours of the Atlantic and twelve hours of the Gulf coasts, the great number of railroads entering Atlanta making it a central point. There are other big advantages also which make the abandonment of this post out of the question, it seems to me.

"If troops are to be concentrated, Congress must first appropriate money with which to build quarters at the larger posts sufficient to accommodate a much larger number of men. For instance, there has been talk of making Fort McPherson a brigade post, but before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to put up additional buildings. I believe a sufficient appropriation for this will be granted if Secretary Garrison decides to continue the post."

When questioned as to the probable abandonment of Fort Oglethorpe, at Chickamauga Park, Colonel VanOrsdale said he did not believe the War Department would consider its elimination, as it is a splendid strategic point.

Rain Halts Play for Tennessee Net Title

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—Owing to rain here Friday the finals in the State championship tennis tournament between Smith, of Nashville, and Allen, Knoxville, were not finished.

Smith won the first set 6-4 and was leading 3-2 on the second set when rain stopped the match. The match will be played off Saturday morning.

Smith is now favorite over Allen. The winner of of the match will meet C. Y. Smith, Atlanta, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SMITH MEN OUT AFTER REVENGE

Brady and Hogg Hurl Second Game of Series; No Scoring in First.

Score by innings:

MOBILE	000
ATLANTA	000

PONCE DE LEON BALL PARK, July 11.—Billy Smith's fighting warriors were out after revenge from the Gulls in the second game of their series here this afternoon. Yesterday's defeat left a bad taste in the mouths of the home boys and they were anxious to even the score with today's battle.

King Brady was selected to do the hurling for the Crackers, with Chapman on the receiving end. Hogg was sent to the mound for Mike Finn's crew, while Schmidt was behind the bat. Neither team scored in the opening inning.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Stock popped to Agler. McGill rolled one to Alperman and was out to Agler. Robertson was easy for Brady and Agler. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Long grounded to Stock and was out to Robertson. Welchonce was given free transportation to first. Alperman lofted a tall one to Paulet. Smith sent a roller to Stock, who assigned the pill to Paulet, forcing Welchonce at the midway. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

O'Dell rolled to Bisland, who made a crazy chuck past Agler and the former Cracker anchored safely at the opening peg. Schmidt sent a screaming liner to Bisland who clutched tight to it, thereby drawing much applause. Paulet kindly sent a grasser to Bisland, who handed the ball to Alperman, forcing O'Dell at the keystone. Clark dropped a one-timer into left garden, Paulet moving up a base. Alperman tossed out Campbell. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Stock and Robertson made easy work of Bisland's grounder. Agler went out over the O'Dell-Robertson route. Bailey grounded to Paulet, but Bill was safe at first for Robertson dropped a perfectly good throw. Bailey stole second with neatness and dispatch. Chapman gladdened the hearts of the multitude with a single through short. Bailey pulling up at third. Brady's best was a roller down the first base line that Robertson handled all by his lonesome. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Hogg sent a ballooner to Welchonce. Stock singled to right. McGillsacrificed Stock along to second with a bunt that Brady handed to Agler. Robertson was turned back to Agler. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Long raised to Paulet. Welchonce died, Paulet to Robertson. Alperman went back to work when Paulet and Robertson repeated. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

CRAWFORD'S DEATH IS LAID TO WIFE

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, widow of J. B. Crawford, on the charge of murdering her husband by giving him poison, was issued late Friday afternoon, signed by the Coroner of Carroll County and returnable to the Fulton Country Grand Jury.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury, which was read at Friday morning's hearing of the famous will case before J. N. Anderson, auditor, recommended that she be arrested and held for a Grand Jury investigation.

The verdict was:

We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from poison administered by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, and recommend that she be held for investigation by the Fulton Grand Jury.

The inquest was held Thursday in Carrollton. It was an adjourned session of the first inquest on June 12, when the body was exhumed. Dr. H. F. Harris, of the State Board of Health, and Miss Viola Whitman, a woman who lived with the Crawfords after the marriage, were the witnesses.

Dr. Harris testified to finding morphine in the stomach, and that in his opinion Crawford did not die of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs.

Saw Medicine Given.

Miss Whitman testified to seeing Mrs. Crawford give her husband medicine from a small vial.

Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford allowed the verdict to be submitted as evidence, but stated to the auditor that they would later file an objection on the grounds of the inquest not having been legal. They stoutly maintained that before the hearing ends they will introduce positive evidence that Crawford died of pneumonia, and that the morphine found in his stomach was administered by his family physician.

J. S. James, attorney for the heirs-at-law stated he, in all probability, would start action along the line outlined in the recommendation of the Coroner's jury, but that he had not yet determined how soon he would do so.

That the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris would be torn to shreds by the introduction of Dr. J. W. Hurt, Crawford's physician, was the declaration of Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Doctor Gave Drugs.

Dr. Hurt will testify, according to Attorney Arnold, that for several days before the death of Mr. Crawford he gave him small quantities of morphine to allay his suffering, and that it was unquestionably traces of the drug he administered found in the stomach when the body was exhumed last month. More than ten of the most prominent medical experts will be placed on the stand to substantiate the testimony of Dr. Hurt.

Colonel James announced that he would introduce no more witnesses on the poisoning theory, except statements from citizens in Florida, who, according to Colonel James, say that before she married Crawford Mrs. Crawford was heard to make damaging statements to a friend.

Colonel James said he would introduce testimony with a view to having the marriage annulled, and thus automatically have the property revert to the heirs-at-law. He said he would show that Mrs. Crawford was illegally divorced twice before she married Crawford.

The case before an auditor will not be concluded for more than two weeks and it then will go to the Superior Court again.

GIRL PRISONERS TELL MORE OF VICE RING

business she knows. The chief stated that the girl will be taken around the city Friday afternoon to identify the three men, and that they will be arrested at once after being identified.

In addition to the four men named by the Wilson girl against whom charges will be made, she gave the Chief the names of thirteen others with whom she says she and Dora Rothstein have taken auto rides.

These twelve will be subpenaed as witnesses in the trial of the two girls, which has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, and forced to tell all they know about vice. If evidence warranting it develops at the trial, they will be arrested and cases made against them.

Two men named by the Wilson girl as having kept her and the Rothstein girl in the woods for several nights were arrested by the police Friday morning. They are A. C. Dollar, a shoemaker, living at 69 Davis Street, who is held on a charge of disorderly conduct, and W. W. Suttles, assistant yardmaster of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, who is held on a kidnaping charge.

Suttles and Dollar were named also in the statements of the Rothstein girl, who named the Wilson girl as a procurer, and declared she introduced her to the two men.

Wilson Girl Denies Charge.

Corrinne Wilson denies the charges made against her by the Rothstein girl and declares that she was led into a life of shame by the latter girl and the two men.

"I met the Rothstein girl at the White City Park last Fourth of July," said the Wilson girl. "I was skating and fell, and she was among the crowd that gathered around me. That is how I met her. We were together all that evening and night in the woods near the park, and the next day we met Suttles and Dollar. Monday night we stayed all night with men at the baseball park.

"Saturday night and Sunday night we spent somewhere in the woods, and Monday night we stayed at the baseball park with some men. Tuesday and Wednesday night we stayed with Dollar and Suttles in an old mill on the Adamsville Road. Yesterday afternoon we came to Atlanta and were arrested last night.

Accuses Her Accuser.

"Dora Rothstein lied when she says I induced her to go with the men. She told me she had been doing it for a long time and that we could have a good time and make some money. I yielded when she told me we could make money, and she introduced me to the men."

The Wilson girl told Chief Beavers also that eight months ago, before she was married, she stayed at a hotel on Broad Street with a man, registering as his wife. She says she is the wife of Andrew Wilson, who now is working in Marietta. She came to Atlanta four weeks ago to visit her mother, who had burned her foot, she said.

Chief Beavers stated that in addition to involving the hotels and the seventeen men, the Wilson girl has told him a lot of things she had heard from other girls. He said she had given him the names of all the girls she knew who made a practice of going auto riding with men and of staying at the hotels with them, and that all of the girls will be brought to headquarters and questioned.

The Wilson girl also gave the chief the names of a number of alleged assignation houses which, she asserted, she and other girls had visited, and all will be thoroughly investigated.

MORTGAGE LAW REFORM LOSES IN HOUSE

Attempt to Reduce Number of Foreclosure Notices Defeated. Committee Report Ignored.

The effort to reform the mortgage laws of Georgia so that the mortgage holder would be required before foreclosing to advertise once a week for four weeks instead of for four months prior to the next term of the Superior Court, met with defeat in the House Friday, despite the favorable recommendation of General Judiciary Committee No. 1.

Representative Moss, of Cobb, presented a minority report, in which the proposed bill was declared to be too drastic. This drew a debate, in which Representative Wohlwender, chairman of General Judiciary Committee No. 1, and Garlington, of Fulton, and Wright, of Floyd, participated.

The roll call showed 83 yeas and 76 nays on the passage of the bill. This not being a constitutional majority, the bill was declared lost. Representative Barry Wright gave notice that he would move to reconsider the bill.

Davidson, of Putnam, and Sparks, of Toombs, presented the bill. Speaker Pro Tem. E. H. McMichael, of Marion, presided for the first time during the calling of the roll on this bill.

Among the new bills filed were:

By Fulbright, of Burke—Providing for a special tax of 1 mill during 1915 and 1916 to meet deficiencies.

Rhodes, of Clark—Appropriating $50,000 for new buildings at the University of Georgia.

Cheney, of Cobb—Requiring that before the marriage of persons under 18 years of age notice of the marriage license be advertised in the public gazette for at least one week.

Gower, of Crisp—Permitting owners of electric railroad companies, electric power and hydro-electric companies, to own and control gas companies.

Burwell, of Hancock—Providing amendment to the Constitution providing the pro rata ad valorem tax levy for the common schools of Georgia.

Connor, of Spalding—Providing for the county of Lamar.

$600 BACK PAY IS VOTED CLERK BY SENATE

First Expenditure by New Legislature Consummated — Slaton's Appointments Confirmed.

The first measure involving the expenditure of money by the present Legislature was acted on by the Georgia Senate Friday. It was a House resolution providing for payment of the earned salary of the insurance clerk, and made up a deficiency of $600 in the 1913 budget.

Four appointments by the Governor were approved by the Senate in executive session. The appointees were L. D. Shannon to be Judge of the City Court of Jeffersonville and H. J. Griffin to be Solicitor, and Carl Vinson to be Judge of the County Court of Baldwin and J. D. Howard to be Solicitor.

Among the bills reported from committees with recommendation for passage was one to increase the number of senatorial districts to 60. It provides that each of the six counties with the largest population shall be a senatorial district.

Would Regulate Doctors.

The bill regulating the practice of medicine and creating a State Board of Medical Examiners was reported favorably from committee. These two bills were read the second time.

Senator Grant D. Perry, of the Twenty-eighth District, introduced a bill providing for monthly pay of school-teachers. The first section provides that hereafter "teachers in the public schools of Georgia shall be paid monthly." The second section, in part, provides "that the payment of teachers shall be considered of as much importance as that of any other employees of the State, and the Governor shall have as much right to exercise his borrowing power for this purpose as for any other State expense."

Other Bills Are Presented.

New bills were introduced in the Senate and referred to committees as follows:

By Senator L. L. Ford—Amending the code with reference to quarantine against the Mexican boll weevil.

By Senator J. N. Watts—Changing the title of the stenographer in the Department of Commerce and Labor to "stenographer and chief clerk."

By Senator M. E. Rushin and Senator J. R. Anderson—Providing for maintenance of inter-county bridges and causeways.

The usual number of House bills were received and referred to Senate committees. The Senate adjourned to meet at noon Monday.

Engineers to Have Barbecue Saturday

The local branches of the National Architectural and Engineering Societies will have a barbecue Saturday at 2 o'clock at the waterworks pumping station on the Chattahoochee River.

Engineers hope Saturday's meeting will result in an affiliation of the various organizations and a closer association of the more than 200 architects and engineers who are the leaders of their respective lines in the South.

Macon Contracts for $110,000 High School

MACON, July 11.—A contract for the erection of a new Boys' and Girls' High School has been awarded by the Board of Education to a local contractor, the building completely equipped to cost about $110,000.

A. L. Miller, at present arbitrator for the United States in Ecuador, was re-elected president of the board.

MINCEY'S STORY JOLTS POLICE TO ACTIVITY

Steps Taken Immediately to Discredit Affidavit Published Exclusively in The Georgian.

The Georgian's exclusive publication of the sensational details of the W. H. Mincey affidavit, in which Jim Conley was alleged to have confessed to the killing of a girl the afternoon that Mary Phagan was slain, created a big stir Friday in police circles and immediate efforts were made to discredit the accusations against the negro.

Detectives set out at once on a still hunt for Mincey. Lines were thrown out to produce witnesses who would swear that Mincey's word was not to be depended upon. The detective force, which virtually had been resting on its oars in the Phagan case for several weeks, was galvanized into action by the startling charges made in the affidavit of Mincey, which was first made public by The Georgian.

Police Deny Being Told.

Interviews with the detective heads brought denials that Mincey ever had told them the story that was printed in The Georgian. Attorneys for the defense, however, corroborated the published details of the affidavit.

"It is correct in every detail," said one of the lawyers. "It was not the intention to make any of our important evidence public, but now that Mincey's story has found its way into print, there is nothing to do but admit that we have the affidavit and that it makes the assertions which The Georgian printed yesterday.

"It is only natural that an attempt will be made to discredit Mincey's story. But we are assured of its truth and are confident that it will stand the test of all the investigation that can be made."

J. S. Dukes, manager of the American Insurance Company, by whom Mincey was employed until two weeks ago, was seen Friday and was disposed to discredit Mincey's affidavit.

He declared that Mincey was something of a braggart and that on the Monday following the crime had asserted his belief in the guilt of Newt Lee. When Conley was arrested, said Dukes, Mincey at once became just as certain that Conley had committed the crime.

"Mincey was wondering how much money he might make as a witness and seemed more concerned with this phase of the case than with the identity of the murderer," said Dukes.

Conley Indictment Likely.

The speedy indictment of Jim Conley on the charge of murdering Mary Phagan was the strong possibility discussed in court circles Friday following the sensational turn given the strangling mystery.

For nearly two months a self-confessed accessory after the fact of the murder of the little factory girl, Conley has been allowed to go without an attempt at bringing an indictment against him. The startling new evidence which indicates most strongly, if the credibility of the defense's witness can be established, that Conley was not the accessory after the fact, but the actual principal in the crime, is expected to result in a thorough investigation by the Grand Jury of all the rumors and stories which have been in circulation of the negro's connection with the pencil factory tragedy.

Dorsey Makes No Comment.

Solicitor Dorsey Friday morning would make no comment on the new evidence.

The detectives openly declared their disbelief in the statements of Mincey. They said that he told a different story when he was at police headquarters and that he asserted after confronting the negro that Conley was not the man with whom he talked the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

Chief Lanford, of the city detectives, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said that if Mincey had related to them the story told in his sensational affidavit they would have made an immediate investigation in an attempt to verify it and would have sworn out a warrant charging Conley with the murder if a basis for the story could have been found.

Denies Police Assertions.

Mincey's statement, in so far as it provides an answer to the detectives, was that he did tell the same story to them; that he did identify Conley as the man he talked with on Saturday afternoon, and that the detectives told him they didn't care to take his evidence.

"Conley told me Saturday afternoon that he had killed a girl, and didn't want to kill anybody else," Mincey swears he told the detectives.

"This man Mincey never made mention of having heard Conley say that he had killed a girl, and Mincey never even identified Conley," is the reply of Detective Scott to this assertion.

Detective headquarters were thrown into excitement by the publication of the startling developments. Within a few minutes Scott was in conference with Chief Lanford and it was said that it had been decided to make a search for Mincey with a view of bringing him before Solicitor Dorsey for a grilling in regard to his story accusing the negro.

News Disturbs Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was evidently disturbed by the new turn in the mystery, but would make no announcement of his intentions in respect to quizzing Mincey, providing Mincey can be found. The witness is said to be in Chattanooga at present teaching school. Leo Frank's lawyers, if they know Mincey's whereabouts, are keeping it a profound secret. They had not intended even that the contents of his affidavit should be made public. They declared, however, that he would be on hand for the trial prepared to repeat everything he said in the affidavit.

The latest rumor in connection with the Phagan mystery is that the girl's mesh bag pocketbook which she carried to the factory on the day she met her death has been found and has been examined for finger prints. This rumor could not be confirmed at police headquarters.

Lee Hearing Saturday.

The habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Newt Lee, night watchman at the pencil factory, will be fought out Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Judge Ellis. Bernard L. Chappell, representing the negro, said that he would issue subpenas for at least 50 witnesses whose testimony he would rely upon to obtain the freedom of his client.

Among them will be Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley. The appearance of both of these men, the first accused of murder, the second held as a material witness, will be bitterly contested. Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for Frank, has declared that no law on earth can force Frank to appear as a witness at the hearing.

HEALEY BUILDING WORKMEN OUT ON STRIKE

The Employment of Non-Union Painter Stops Work on 16-Story Structure.

Attempts of the R. M. Walker Company, general contractors, to employ non-union painters and electricians on the Healey Building brought on a general strike Friday afternoon. One non-union painter started to work at 2 o'clock, and his appearance was the signal for a walk-out. Two minutes later not a man was working on the building.

The skeleton of the Healey Building, sixteen stories above ground, had just been constructed by the steelworkers, who had flung an American flag to the breezes high in air when the topmost beam was riveted.

None but union men had worked on the building. Electricians and painters were expected to begin their interior work at noon Friday, but when the hour arrived no agreement had been reached between the general contractors and the Painters' and Electricians' Unions.

Business agents of the unions conferred with the R. M. Walker Company between noon and 2 o'clock, but no agreement could be reached. Meanwhile, the contractors had begun negotiations with non-union men.

Federation officers have resumed negotiations with the contractors looking to the employment of union electricians and painters. It is expected the differences will be adjusted and union workmen will return to their jobs Saturday.

CHARGE DOCTOR WITH ATTACK ON WOMAN

Harris County Community Aroused by Accusation of Planter's Wife. Prisoner Guarded.

COLUMBUS, GA., July 11.—Dr. James Delemar, a well-known physician of Mountain Hill, Harris County, is confined in the Muscogee County jail, charged with attacking the wife of a prominent Harris County farmer.

Feeling between the families and friends of the accuser and accused is tense. Dr. Delemar was lodged in jail here because of threats of violence.

The Delemar family and that of the woman who says she was attacked are among the most prominent in Harris County and the charge against the doctor has caused a sensation.

Dr. Delemar is married and prior to this charge had always borne a splendid reputation.

His preliminary hearing has been set for Saturday morning.

The woman says she was attacked last February, but kept the fact a secret until yesterday.

Trouble between friends of the families is feared when the preliminary hearing is held.

Motorcycle Racer At Macon Is Killed

While going about 50 miles an hour, and turning the first curve from the grandstand, a pedal scraped the ground and struck a rock. O'Brien was hurled against a fence, striking on his head, his neck being broken and his body badly mangled. The motorcycle was wrecked.

ROYAL PARTY IS ASSAILED BY MILITANTS

Gunman, Hired by Suffragists, Fires Shot From Gallery of House of Commons.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—Many persons were hurt here to-day in street fighting between men and women which followed an attempt by militant suffragettes to attack the carriage in which King George and Queen Mary were driving through the city.

The attack followed a wild scene in Lord Street when Miss Jolly, secretary of the Liverpool branch of the Women's Social and Political Union, made a lone raid, smashing hundreds of dollars' worth of plate-glass windows.

The local militant leaders had laid plans for the biggest suffrage demonstration Liverpool has ever seen, because of the presence here to-day of the King and Queen, who are making a tour of England.

Great Precautions Taken.

Extraordinary police precautions had been taken to guard their majesties from attack, as it was feared that the militants, who have been unusually active here of late, would attempt to interfere with the progress of the royal party and perhaps commit actual assault.

Soldiers co-operated with police and detectives in policing the streets and in protecting the King and Queen from the crowds.

Just before the royal party turned into Lord Street Miss Jolly appeared, dashing into the crowd of spectators, and brandishing a poker above her head, she scattered them right and left. Screaming denunciations of the Government, she sent her weapon crashing into the plate-glass windows, doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

Several policemen overpowered her while she struggled with maniacal fury. She was locked up. This incident alarmed the authorities, for it served as a clew that the women planned an active day.

Royal Carriage Attacked.

Half an hour later the attack upon the royal carriage occurred. From a break in the police lines several women ran into the street. They hurled a quantity of suffrage literature into the carriage and one of them seized the door and tried to wrench it open. Another ran toward the horses' heads to stop them.

An equerry leaped to the street and grappled with one of the women, and in an instant the others were seized by policemen. In the meantime, however, supporters of the militants had swarmed to the aid of their sisters and a fight began.

Women attacked men and men retaliated. Fists, clubs and hatpins were the chief weapons. Many were knocked down and trampled. The police made a number of arrests.

Shot Creates Panic In House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—An evident attempt at assassination occurred in the House of Commons to-day when a man in the gallery for spectators drew a revolver and fired shortly after the session of the House opened. A parliamentary policeman who was nearby grasped the man and wrenched the pistol from his hand before he could fire again.

One sensational report which was circulated was that the man was a fanatic on the topic of suffrage and had attempted to assassinate Premier Asquith because of his opposition to the suffrage propaganda. Another report was that the man had been hired by the militants to make a demonstration, and that the bullet was not intended for any one in particular.

The other spectators in the gallery were thrown into panic by the shooting and a mad scramble for the exits ensued. Many were knocked down and trampled. On the floor of the house there was high excitement. So great was the uproar that all business was suspended.

Macon Socicty Girl Outwits Parents to Wed Auto Salesman

MACON, July 11.—Despite strenuous efforts of her parents to prevent her elopement, Miss Ruth Hand, the daughter of T. O. Hand, a prominent business man, succeeded in eluding them last night and in marrying Edward H. Guilford, of Tampa, Fla., an automobile salesman. Miss Hand was considered the prettiest member of the younger social set.

The cook aided the young woman to slip a trunk out of the house. Miss Hand and Guilford then hastened to the Rev. R. E. Douglas, who married them. Telephoning a friend to buy him two tickets to Tampa, they hastened to the depot.

The bride's mother was watching the hotel where Guilford had registered, her father was on the lookout at the depot and other relatives had hurried to the minister's.

The young couple entered the depot through the rear way and boarded the train just as it pulled out, the friend handing Guilford the tickets after he had mounted the steps. At that moment Mr. Hand spied his daughter, but too late.

Frank Hammond Gets Office in T. M. A.

Frank Hammond, Secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and owner of The Footlight, a theatrical publication, has been elected chairman of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge and deputy grand president of the Theatrical Mechanical Association.

Mr. Hammond has been one of the big men in the lodge for several years, and it was chiefly through his efforts that Atlanta won the convention of the T. M. A. for 1917, though competing with some of the largest cities in the country.

The Footlight, of which Earle E. Griggs is editor, was made the official publication of the T. M. A.

Important Reductions in Underwood Bill Made by Upper Branch of Congress

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, as it will be reported to the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee, differs from the original House measure in these important particulars:

The free list is amended to include additional food commodities.

The income tax amendment exemption of $4,000 in the House measure is changed to $3,000 where it applies to single men and women, and kept at $4,000 where it applies to persons having either a dependent husband or wife, with a further exemption of $500 for minor children also dependent; this latter provision to be limited to $1,000.

A retaliatory clause permitting the President to declare higher duties upon specified articles exported from countries discriminating against the United States is included.

The exclusion of foreign articles manufactured by child or convict labor is provided for.

The revenue producing taxes are placed upon bananas, brandies used in fortifying wines, and on gambling in cotton futures and "spots" in the exchanges. The revenue so produced is expected to make up for drastic reductions in the rest of the tariff schedules.

SENATE MAKES GREAT CUTS IN SCHEDULES OF HOUSE TARIFF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff bill which, it is expected, will be introduced in the Senate to-day, is unique in the history of American tariff making, in that a Senate committee will recommend even more drastic reductions than the original bill contained when adopted by the House.

The Senate's amended measure will average about 14 per cent under the duties prescribed in the Underwood bill. The still further lowering of duties affects every schedule passed by the House with the exception of the cotton schedule, which was revised in such a manner that the duties to be exacted from the importation of cotton and cotton manufactures remain practically the same as those specified in the bill when it was started on its way to the Senate from the House Democratic caucus.

Democratic Senators, however claim that they have not impaired the revenue producing qualities of the bill through reductions favoring the consumer.

According to their figures this has been obviated by an increase in the internal revenue tax on brandies used in fortifying wines from 3 cents per gallon to $1.10 per gallon, through a tax on so-called spurious wines, fortified with chemicals, and through the imposition of a tax of one-tenth of 1 cent a pound on cotton futures sold in trade and undelivered. A tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound also was placed on bananas, solely for revenue producing purposes.

Estimates of the revenue to be derived from these sources is about $8,000,000 in excess of the $267,000,000 revenue predicted for the Underwood bill. Revised estimates on corporation tax and the income tax amendment, which was redrafted by the Senate, place the revenue from those sections of the bill on about an equal footing with the House estimates.

The exact figures are as follows:

	House Estimates.	Senate Estimates.
Corporation tax	$ 30,000,000	$ 37,000,000
Income tax	70,000,000	69,625,000
Totals	$100,000,000	$106,625,000

An amendment has been made to the income tax as introduced on the floor of the Senate by the Finance Committee, which places the date upon which this tax shall become operative at March 1, 1913, instead of January 1, 1913.

Income Tax Suffers Cut.

This will cut the 1913 revenue from the income tax to about $58,000,000 and slightly decrease the estimated revenue for the current year and that calculated for the original House bill. This in part is counterbalanced by the extension of time granted the wool and sugar schedules, during which the Payne-Aldrich rates shall remain operative.

The extension of time for the Payne-Aldrich bill was the only change made in these schedules. In the sugar schedule the old tariff rates are to be continued until March 1, 1914, and in the wool schedule raw wool is to become free on December 1, 1913, and the Underwood-Simmons rates on wool manufacturings are to become operative on January 1, 1914. The sugar schedule retains May 1, 1916, as the date upon which sugar shall be admitted free of duty.

In the free list the principal additions were raw furs, works of art, gunpowder, Angora goat hair and alpaca, cattle, sheep and other domestic live animals, wheat, steel ingots, photographic and moving picture films, ferromanganese, flax, machinery used in making books for the blind, cement, text books used in the schools, jute bagging, lizarin, cast iron pipe and agricultural implements.

Autos Reclassified.

The chemical schedule was cut from 10 to 5 per cent. The earthenware and glassware schedule suffered a like reduction. In the metal schedule a number of important changes were made beside the free listing of iron and ore products. These included a decrease from 12 per cent to 10 per cent in beams, from 15 to 12 per cent in steel plate and iron forgings and from 10 to 6 per cent in steel castings.

Automobiles were reclassified, those valued up to $1,000 being made dutiable at 15 per cent; those from $1,000 to $1,500 at 30 per cent, and automobiles over $1,500 in value at 45 per cent. Parts remain the same as scheduled in the Houes bill.

In the wood schedule the principal change was the free listing of cedar logs.

In the agricultural schedule horses and mules are taxed at 10 per cent; oats are cut from $.10 to $.06 per bushel and a tax of $.33 per hundredweight on oatmeal and rolled oats, and $.09 per hundredweight on oat feed was added.

Foodstuffs Reduced.

Citrus fruits were left as they stood in the Underwood bill and substantial reductions were made on cheese, seeds, fish, extracts of meats, chocolate and peas.

The wine schedule was amended to increase the duty on brandies used in fortifying wines.

The cotton schedule was completely rewritten and reclassified, the net result being practically the same, from a revenue-producing standpoint, as the Underwood bill. The duties on stockings and some cotton clothes, however, were slightly reduced. The wool schedule was substantially reduced in all those manufactures coming into common use. This includes stockings, blankets, yarns and clothes.

The silk schedule was reclassified from an ad valorem to a specific basis, the general tendency being downward on articles coming into common use.

In the paper schedule a retaliatory clause aimed at Canada was included which permits the levy of a duty upon Canadian paper as high as the tax placed upon the exported American product.

Sues for $2,000 and Obtains Just $27.30

COLUMBUS, July 11.—A jury in the City Court returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $27.30, being the amount of premiums paid in the case of M. L. Richardson, administrator of the estate of F. M. Richardson, against the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Richardson's death occurred October 25, 1912, and the investigation of the police led to the announcement that he had committed suicide. When the father of the young man demanded payment of the $2,000 policy the insurance company refused.

At 85, Sees Her First Hobble; Dislikes It

NEW YORK, July 11.—Mrs. John McCafferty, 85, of this city, who has been blind for fifteen years, has just seen an automobile for the first time. She also saw a number of hobble skirts, which met with her instant disapproval.

Although several doctors had declared the condition of her eyes hopeless, an operation for the removal of cataracts was successful.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED.

CHATTANOOGA, July 11.—James H. Anderson, referee in bankruptcy, has denied a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Dayton Coal and Iron Company, of Dayton, Tenn. Creditors whose claims aggregated more than $1,000,000 were represented.

A Physician's Faith in Eckman's Alterative

"Have used Eckman's Alterative in general cases of tubercular glands of the neck with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $50, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it."

(Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Eckman's Alterative is effective in other forms. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:

Idaho Falls, Idaho.

"Gentlemen: I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February, and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or raise anything at all, so I think I am completely cured of Lung Trouble."

(Affidavit) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Note—Mrs. Garvin has seven children.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. VINCENT ASTOR'S SWEETHEART, MISS KATHERINE FORCE, TO WED

MISS KATHERINE FORCE AND MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

NEW YORK, July 11.—One romance was withered and another made to bloom to-day by the announcement of the engagement of Katherine E. Force and Henri E. Harnickell.

For some time after the marriage of Katherine's beautiful sister, Madeline Force, to Colonel John Jacob Astor the society gossips were busy with the interesting bit of town talk that Katherine was to become the bride of none other than the second Mrs. Astor's stepson, Vincent Astor.

This romantic information spread and grew until it received a sudden blight from the mysterious rumor that another than Vincent Astor was to win the hand of the pretty Katherine. This rumor of another suitor crystallized into the story that Harkinell was the successful swain and that they had been betrothed for some months. This story was confirmed by to-day's formal announcement.

Mr. Harkinell is a son of the late Albert G. A. Harkinell, one of the founders of the New York Metal Exchange. He is about 30 years old. He and Miss Force have been seen together daily lately.

STATESBORO HAS LIVE UNION OF FARMERS

Bulloch County Town Supports One of State's Best Agricultural Colleges.

STATESBORO, GA., July 11.—Filling the large auditorium of the First District Agricultural College to its capacity Bulloch County farmers rallied to the call of the Farmers' Union and to the standard bearer, Charles S. Barrett.

L. M. Rhodes, of Tennessee, delivered one of the greatest addresses ever heard here. The crowd showed its appreciation by applause.

The Bulloch County Union is one of the best in the State, due largely to the efforts of Professor O. T. Harper, of the Agricultural College, a tireless worker for the farmer.

Another factor is President E. C. J. Dickens, who took charge of the college after it had run down to a handful of students, and built it up until it ranks as a leader. It has an enrollment equal to one-sixth of the total of the eleven district agricultural colleges in the State. Scientific farming, mechanics and domestic science are taught.

A magnificent brick building has been erected. It was designed and built by the students.

The farm of about 120 acres resembles an experiment farm after the experiment has proven a success. Finer corn could not be found anywhere. Other crops are as good. Bulloch farmers call it their school. It will not be long until reservations will have to be made a year in advance.

Bulloch County farmers believe in the Farmers' Union and Charles S. Barrett, who is making their cause his life work.

Statesboro is a progressive and up-to-date little town. On every hand new buildings are going up. Old ones are being remodelled.

There is a magnificent three-story office building, covering a quarter of a block, which would be a credit to any town of five times the population.

There are good department stores. One is three stories. It covers a space of about 100 by 150 feet. The other big department store is only two stories high, but covers a space 150 by 150 feet, with a large warehouse in the rear.

An odd feature of this store is that the center, with a frontage of about 25 feet, is the First National Bank, of which the head of the store is president. On either side of the bank are entrances to the store.

Either of these stores would be appreciated in Atlanta or any other city.

Must Remain Widow Or Forfeit $1,400,000

NEW HAVEN, July 11.—The will of "Nick" Hubinger, former turfman and manufacturer, filed to-day, disposed of an estate of $1,400,000. Aside from a few small bequests, the estate goes to the widow, on condition that she remain a widow during the rest of her life.

In case of her remarrying, the property will be divided among Mr. Hubinger's four children. He was a patient of Dr. Friedmann, who injected the turtle serum in New York City several times. He had been ill with tuberculosis for years.

Fancy Stationery Taken From Senate

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of Congress will draw no more embossed stationery at the expense of the Government. Hereafter they will get along with plain, everyday printed letterheads and envelopes.

The Joint Committee on Printing discovered that the Government Printing Office last year turned out 11,000,000 embossed pieces of stationery at an extra cost of $30,000.

Atlanta Furniture To Be Sold Broadcast

General managers and buyers of the Rhodes Retail Furniture Syndicate are spending several days in Atlanta inspecting Atlanta-made goods, preparatory to visiting Eastern and Western markets to make fall purchases.

They intend to stock their chain of stores with goods manufactured in Atlanta. J. D. Rhodes, of Atlanta, is vice president of the syndicate and chief of the purchasing department.

DEWBERRY PAYS FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Negro Confesses Slaying, Professes Religion and Mounts Gallows Calmly.

Exactly one year to the very day and hour after the death of his victim, Oscar Dewberry, the negro convicted of stabbing 15-year-old Horace Dodson on Decatur Street, May 27, 1912, expiated his crime on the gallows in the county prison Friday morning. The trap was sprung by Deputy Sheriff John Owens at 11:05 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Dewberry confessed his guilt to Sheriff Mangum at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and later dictated a written confession to the Rev. H. H. Proctor. He said he stabbed young Dodson after Dodson and some other boys had brushed against him.

The negro professed religion and prayed fervently just before he was led to the gallows.

Dewberry mounted the scaffold with a firm step. When Sheriff Mangum asked him if he had anything to to say, following the reading of the death warrant, he replied calmly that he did not.

During the hanging, which was attended by about 25 men, including county officials, newspaper men, physicians and deputy sheriffs, the condemned man's sister, who is also in jail charged with burglary, emitted shrieks which could be heard for blocks around.

PAY ME FOR CURES ONLY

SPEAKER DENIES CHARGES MADE BY LAMAR

Never Knew Him and Was Unacquainted With Morgan, Champ Clark Declares.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Speaker Champ Clark appeared before the Lobby Committee of the Senate today and made a denial that he ever knew or had anything to do with J. Pierpont Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward Lauterbach or David Lamar. The Speaker's declaration was in answer to the Lamar-Lauterbach testimony before the committee, although Lamar finally admitted he never saw Speaker Clark and never had any direct communication with him.

It was the intention of the committee to call Colonel Martin W. Mulhall, but this action was delayed by lengthy testimony given by W. L. Whitman, of Boston, a wool manufacturer. Whitman testified, among other things, that Simon N. D. North, former Director of the Census, was on the pay roll of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers while he was chief statistician of the Census Bureau and while he was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee.

He was clerk of this committee while the Dingley tariff bill was under consideration. Whitman said North received $4,000 a year from the association up to the time he became Director of the Census.

Clark Defends Himself.

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone," said Speaker Clark. "Lauterbach, who acknowledged that he lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed that the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaimed any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and promptly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale a lie, in which he was entirely correct. He and I never in our lives conversed about or in any way mentioned to each other Morgan & Co. nor the Steel Trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever; never authorized anybody else to do so.

Didn't Know Morgan.

"I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never introduced, even casually, to him or to any of them. To my best knowledge and belief, I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron Club banquet.

"I was introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington several years ago in the presence of several gentlemen and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before or since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever nor about any business matter whatsoever.

"I never had heard of Lamar and knew only by seeing his name in the papers that there was such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and my name were being bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo Palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

Post Stops Wild Auto; Shoppers Imperiled

An electric light post probably saved the lives of a number of women and children at Whitehall and Hunter Streets Thursday afternoon. E. P. Williams was cranking his automobile when it lurched forward and struck the post. A number of women and children were standing on the sidewalk.

Four globes on the post were broken. Jenaro Peggutti, a balloon vender, was cut by falling glass.

Aid Solicited for Hightower Family

Members of local charitable organizations are soliciting aid for the family of Robert Hightower, the daring Confederate officer, said to be dying of some strange mental disease. The Hightower family, 247 Cooper Street, is said to be in destitute circumstances.

According to physicians, the aged veteran is near death.

Chief Mike Riley and his greatest friend, Brigand.

Chief Mike Riley Rules for Year Over Younger Members of Famous Irish Tribe.

Chief Michael Riley hunched up his shoulders, stuck his finger in his mouth, and tightened his grip on the collar of his dog, Brigand.

Chief Mike, despite the fact that he had just been elected to the highest honor which his subjects could pay him, did not want to be photographed. The embarrassment of facing the camera's eye was extreme. Even Brigand showed hesitation. Not until the shutter clicked did Chief Mike and his dog ally resume their composure. The last of the election ceremonies was accomplished.

For be it known that Thursday saw a new chief inducted into chiefdom of the clan of O'Harn at the famous Gypsy camp on Bellwood and Ashby Streets.

Since time immemorial the children of this renowned Irish clan, which roams the county much as nomads, have had their chief just as their elders. There are 40 children in the camp and yearly they elect one among their number to reign over them.

This action has the sanction of the grown folk, whose duties keep them from direct supervision over the camp. They have taught their children to govern themselves while their parents are away on horse trading ventures.

Now, for a year, Mike Riley, the 4-year-old son of Pete Riley, one of the leaders of the clan, will guide the destinies of his juvenile subjects.

He is king of the kids and his rich brogue and antics, together with his fascinating countenance, with the map of old Ireland on his face, make him almost adorable even to a stranger.

Mike and his dog, Brigand, are bosom friends. Mike rides Brigand like a horse and "man handles" him in a manner which would try the patience of a proverbial saint. Notwithstanding this Brigand is faithful to his little master and wherever little Mike trudges Brigand is at his heels.

Mike likes camp life and is the happiest little fellow on earth. He hasn't a care in the world but has a temper any Irishman would envy.

Bijou Actors Delight Federal Prisoners

The players at the Bijou Theater this week held the boards Thursday at the Prison Auditorium, where they enacted "Along Broadway," much to the delight of the hundreds of men behind the walls.

Among those who gave the prisoners the benefit of their talents were Will Stanton, Miss Thornton and Miss Rosalind May. The tabloid was given under the direction of Mr. Labridy. The performers were assisted by the Bijou orchestra.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—The first regular passenger airship service in England is being planned. New semi-rigid dirgibles will be built with a speed of 60 miles an hour.

It is proposed to provide services from London to Brighton, Birmingham and other English cities and also to Paris.

BAGGING IN FUTURE MUST HIDE COTTON

Shipping Agent Explains New Export Rules to Atlanta Dealers and Traffic Men.

"Our rule, effective September 1, is that a bale of cotton must be covered so thoroughly that none of the lint is visible," said F. D. M. Strachan, of the Strachan Steamship Line, explaining new export rules to the assembled traffic men and cotton exporters in the Hotel Ansley Thursday.

"Much of the bagging used is very large mesh. If a bale were covered with this big mesh bagging, so that you could see the white cotton through it, would the steamship companies note on the bill of lading that the cotton was not thoroughly covered?" asked the general freight agent of a big railroad system.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Strachan, who was quizzed at length.

"Mr. Strachan," came a voice from the rear of the hall, "if you were tendered a pretty girl, in good condition, but covered with a large mesh shirtwaist, would you make exception on the bill of lading?"

"You go to blazes," retorted the steamship man, and the quiz ended.

Saloon Men Plead Guilty; Take Fines

MACON, July 11.—After two had been convicted, fifteen other saloonkeepers pleaded guilty in the Superior Court to conducting their businesses for several months before paying licenses. J. J. Quinlan was fined $100 and J. B. Brooks $75, both going to the jury. The others, who pleaded guilty, paid fines ranging from $20 to $35.

When it was understood that Judge Mathews was imposing only nominal sentences on those who admitted their guilt, there was a rush by the defendants to enter pleas.

SUFFRAGE MEET ENDS; WOMEN ENCOURAGED

Tilts With Senate and the Civic League Show People Increasing Strength "of Course."

Members of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association closed Thursday night one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The fight started in the Legislature after the action of the Senate in denying the women the right to meet in the Capitol and the dissension with the Atlanta Civic League have served to bring the cause strongly before the people. More interest was manifested by the public generally in the convention than in any suffrage gathering of recent years.

About 50 women attended the business sessions of the convention. Their enthusiasm and willingness to fight to obtain their rights, shown by their stand before the Legislature and in the quarrel within the ranks, has given an impetus to the cause that is expected to aid them to obtain the 1,000 members they have set as their mark for 1914.

Press Bureau Is Indorsed.

Two propositions for spreading the suffrage movement were indorsed at the final session. A press bureau, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was organized, and expects to begin its work of education immediately.

Volunteers will be secured in every town in the State to furnish live, local news of the suffrage movement to the country papers, and a central bureau will be established in Atlanta to handle the suffrage news of the Capitol.

Miss Augusta Howard, of Columbus, proposed the organization of a "Men's Suffrage League," similar to organizations now existing in other States, which met with approval. No official action on the proposition was taken, but it is probable that the executive committee will endeavor to complete the organization of the league.

Reports Show Progress.

The reports of department superintendents showed that the movement has gained in Georgia to a greater extent than is generally supposed. These reports were made by Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Miss Eugenia Estill, Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Mrs. J. J. Ansley, Mrs. May C. Moore, Mrs. S. C. Osburne, Mrs. Mamie Matthews and Miss Katherine Koch.

Three addresses on suffrage, delivered before a crowd that filled the House of Representatives, brought the convention to a close Thursday night. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. W. A. Felton, of Cartersville, who made her first public appearance as a suffragist. Other speakers were Attorney Leonard Grossman and Miss Augusta Howard, founder of the State association and its president for six years.

On invitation of the DeKalb County Association, the convention voted to meet in Decatur in 1914.

Central Officials at Macon Depot Site

MACON, July 11.—C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central and the Central of Georgia, and W. A. Winburn and A. R. Lawton, vice presidents of the latter road, stopped in Macon several hours to inspect the site chosen for the erection of the union station at Cherry and Fifth Streets.

Committees from Council and the Chamber of Commerce are co-operating with the railroad in arranging settlements with owners on Cherry Street who claim their properties will be damaged by the closing of the street.

Five 'Hofers' in Triple Wedding; Not Related

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., July 11.—The Rosedale Mennonite colony in Hanson County was the scene of a triple wedding with several unique features. The principals in the marriage were John Maendels and Susanna Hofer, Andreas Hofer and Rebecca Hofer, and John Hofer, and Susanna Hofer. The four last are not blood relatives, there being several and distinct families by that name in the colony.

In honor of the triple wedding work in the colony was suspended for the day.

W. T. Preston, aged twenty-four, died Thursday night at the family residence, 124 West Pine Street. Funeral services were held at the residence Friday morning at 10 o'clock, interment being in Atlanta Park.

John S. Tribble, aged thirty-one, died Thursday night at the family residence on Campbellton Road. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and interment will be at South Bend Cemetery. A wife, three children, six brothers and one sister survive him.

W. D. Short, aged thirty-one, died early Friday morning at the residence of his father, E. P. Short, Church and Spring Streets, East Point. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Westview. The Junior Order of United American Mechanics will have charge of the funeral. The deceased is survived by his wife, two small children, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Short; five brothers, H. E., H. M., D. N., E. T. and Wingfield Short, and three sisters, Miss Mary and Elsie Short, of East Point, and Mrs. T. R. Cheney, of Jacksonville, Fla.

CONTEST FOR PONIES OUTSIDE CITY STIRRING

Atlanta Contestants' Enthusiasm Equaled—Eight Days Remain in Extra Vote Offer.

While the boys and girls in Atlanta striving for The Georgian and American ponies are using every effort to get votes, and are making remarkable showings, the boys and girls in Georgia, outside Atlanta, and the contestants in other States are busy also.

For a time it seemed as if the interest in Atlanta would eclipse that in the rest of the State, but there has been a revival of activity in the smaller towns, and every mail brings letters telling of contestants' successful efforts. The race in the State at large is close—it is anyone's race as yet, and no one can pick the winner.

It is hoped that as many of the contestants from out in the State as

Beverly Swanton, 52 Beecher Street.

Lee Bowden, of Athens, Ga.

can will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the ponies Sunday afternoon at Grant Park. They will be assured of a particularly warm welcome, as will their parents.

The ponies are to be at the park Sunday afternoon in charge of the contest department manager and his assistants. Some will be harnessed and some saddled, and there will be rides for all the children.

Eight days only remain in the special bonus offer, which gives liberal extra votes to contestants who turn in clubs of $35, $25 and $15 in subscriptions. This is an especially attractive offer, which no contestant should overlook. One feature of it is that the subscriptions may be for any length of time, from a month up.

Attempt to Blow Up Barracks Thwarted

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., July 11. An attempt was made here to-day to blow up the King Edward Military Barracks by sympathizers of youths who were imprisoned for refusing to do military service.

Electric wires attached to the explosives were discovered and disconnected, thus saving many lives and the building from destruction.

MONEY; STOVE BANK; ALAS!

NEW YORK, July 11.—Barnett Getford, of Brooklyn, withdrew $700 from a savings bank and placed it in the kitchen range in his home. His wife built the fire.

NEW COUNTY OF CANDLER IS LIKELY

House Amendment Committee Indorses Proposal—Three Others Meet With Rejection.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments has cleared the new county atmosphere considerably by recommending the creation of Candler County and turning down bills proposing the new counties of Evans, Hampton and Stonewall.

All of the counties proposed cutting into Tattnall County, and all were argued before the committee at the same time. The committee seems to have believed the Hampton, Evans and Stonewall proposals really were more "dummy" propositions set up to defeat Candler.

The throwing out of Evans, Hampton and Stonewell Counties very materially reduces the total number of new counties likely to get favorable action by the present Legislature.

The Constitutional Amendments Committee will go right along disposing of the dozen or so remaining propositions. Within the next week or ten days it should be possible to forecast with a degree of accuracy exactly what other counties besides Barrow and Candler stand any chance of getting through the Legislature.

SMITH AND BELL IN CLASH OVER PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Following the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham's appointment as postmaster at Gainesville, Thomas M. Bell, Representative from the Ninth District, has made a statement bitterly criticising Senator Hoke Smith for the defeat of A. S. Hardy. He openly charges that the defeat of the man he recommended for the place is directly the result of intense feeling against anti-Smith men.

Mrs. Ham succeeds Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, who lost her position, it is said, through her activities for Roosevelt in the last presidential campaign.

"There seems to be an invisible, secret influence operating in Washington to the exclusion of anti-Smith-Wilson people," reads the statement. "If loyal Democrats are to be disqualified because of their pre-convention view, it is high time the people should know the facts and be given an opportunity at the polls to prevent the wrecking of the Democratic party, which for so many years has held the South together."

Congressman Bell charges that Senator Smith expressed satisfaction when the name of Hardy was first submitted to him. He declares that untrue charges against Hardy were sent from the President's office to the Senate without him being allowed to see him.

The statement gives correspondence between himself, Senator Smith, Postmaster General Burleson and President Wilson's secretary, J. P. Tumulty.

MID-SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE OF HIGH GRADE SHOES FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

EDWIN CLAPP and LAIRD AND SCHOBER

There is not a pair of "Special Sale" Shoes in our house. We have not bought a single pair for this sale. We are simply overstocked, and make this reduction on our regular line of high class, quality shoes in order to move them and make room.

Every pair is this season's models. There are button or lace Oxfords for the lady, in a variety of materials, including novelty effects in fabrics, as well as the staple styles in patent colt, dull leathers or tan, white buck or brown suede, soft black kid and satins in black. Pumps for every occasion.

For men's wear, in the celebrated Edwin Clapp line are styles and shapes of every leather and last. Smart, snappy shoes for the young man, medium styles for the more conservative, and dignified lasts for the elderly man.

There's a wide range of sizes in every style and leather.

CHILDREN'S SHOES FOR EVERY NEED

Our large and varied line of children's dependable shoes is also included in this sale.

This stock is exceptionally inviting to the mothers who find that the children's supply of summer footwear needs replenishing. Choice goods are shown in all materials and styles, from sandals for the tiny tots, up to the strong sturdy shoes for growing boys and girls to romp in.

BUTTON SLOGAN MUST BE IN BY SATURDAY

Hearst's Sunday American Will Announce Winner—Hundreds of Designs Submitted.

All "500,000 Club" button slogans eligible for the $25 prize must be in by Saturday. Hearst's Sunday American will announce the winner selected by the committee of judges Sunday morning.

The mail of the contest editor has swelled to such proportions within the last few days that it seems a 500,000 booster club is already in action. Slogans come from all parts of the State as well as all sections of Atlanta and they bespeak such faith and pride in Atlanta that the judges, John W. Grant, Wilmer L. Moore and Walter C. Taylor, are going to come near bewilderment trying to decide which is the best.

All suggestions that have come in, whether accompanied by designs of buttons or not, will be submitted to the judges. They will name the winner. The Hearst papers will present the winner with a $25 check.

Here is a good example of an out-of-town letter, from John T. Abney, of the Swift Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ga.:

Some Good Ones.

"Editor The Georgian:

"As a regular subscriber of your paper since its first issue, and believing every Georgian should feel proud of Atlanta and every Atlantan should feel proud of The Georgian, I desire to submit the following as a button to be worn by members of your '500,000 club':

"A button carrying a photo of a telephone and the words, 'Call Atlanta.'"

H. W. Thorp, 152 West Peachtree Street, sends this one:

"Atlanta Beautiful. 500,000 by 1920."

Asking that his subscription be entered for The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American, J. O. Bell, of 19 Jefferson Place, submits:

"We can get them if we try. A half-million population for Atlanta by 1920."

Here are slogans in profusion:

Puts Motto in Latin.

"In hoc signo vinces. Atlanta 500,000 1920 Booster Club. All Atlanta members."—H. J. Lanier, 346 Fraser Street.

"We've got to get it. Boost Atlanta—1920."—Charles M. Grist, 44 Inman Building.

"Atlanta—always leads, always succeeds—the Half-Million City."—Woodie Hardeman.

A design of a railroad engine with the caption, "Booster Club. Break the record. Make her the city of cities," is offered by J. D. Braselton, of College Park.

"Largest city South—Atlanta, 1920, 500,000 population."—Alvin Samuel, 93 East Georgia Avenue.

"Half million by 1920. Boost Atlanta."—W. C. Meador, 49 Washington Street.

"All the time, every time Atlanta, 1920, 500,000."—E. J. Saywell, 201 Hopkins Street.

Accompanied by a button design of a drawing of the heart of Atlanta's business district, G. Alfred Harbour, of 41 North Pryor Street, suggests:

"Nothing impossible in Atlanta. 500,000 population by 1920."

Many "Booster" Mottoes.

"Don't boast, just boost. Watch Atlanta grow."—Miss Susie Penny, 147 Whitehall Terrace.

"Atlanta's alive with 500,000 busy bees. 1920. Watch us hum."—Mrs. Albert Sydney Ullman, 488 Washington Street.

"A simple sum in addition. Atlanta, plus 1920, equals 500,000. Ask me how it's done."—J. T. Hamilton, 15 West Mitchell Street.

"Business and clime good all the time. 500,000 Atlanta, 1920."—Miss Pauline Britton, of St. Louis, visiting at 97 Hurt Street.

"Welcome to Atlanta, 1913. A1 city. 500,000 by 1920."—H. N. Maxey, route 2, box 160, Atlanta.

"Boost, boost, boost. Atlanta 1920. 500,000. Get the habit and come to Atlanta."—R. Speer, 635 Woodward Avenue.

"The Atlanta spirit, we have plenty, which assures half million in 1920."—Robert S. Link, Abbeville, S. C.

"Get 'Em or Bust."

"Half million or bust."—Carl J. Broome, Douglasville, Ga.

"Hearst's Sunday American did it. Atlanta, 500,000."—Mrs. Belle Tyson.

"God helps Atlanta."—H. L. Owen.

"Atlanta's growth and prosperity has no limit. Nineteen-twenty, half million people."—P. B. Rand.

"Hurrah for Atlanta, magic city."—G. Ford, 40 1-2 North Forsyth Street.

"Prosperity, wealth, opportunity, morality. America's Queen City. Watch Atlanta grow. 500,000 by 1920."—J. K. Tippett, Frederick apartments.

All Express Optimism.

"Atlanta, the Pinnacle City."—Jas. F. Saunders, 94 Greenwood Avenue.

"Success is yours in Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."—A. C. Lanier, 595 North Jackson Street.

"Onward to Atlanta, the Half-Million City, 1920."—Mrs. N. E. Love, 633 Woodward Avenue.

"Atlanta, the Gate City,
With a half-million plan,
And whatever has been called for
She has never failed to land,"
—Orie King.
476 Whitehall Street.

J. S. Booth, of 12 West Pine Street, suggests a button with the face of Mayor Woodward on it, and these words around it: "Only one Atlanta. Half-Million Club, 1920."

"We push, Atlanta's Half-Million Club."—George A. Latimer.

"We boost Atlanta. Half Million, 1920. Opportunity, location, organization, co-operation. Come!"—W. W. Tommins, 35 Chatham Street.

Bowden Man Enters.

"Half million souls Atlanta needs and half million souls she's going to have. I'm in the fight for them. Are you?"—G. A. Barr, Bowden, Ga.

W. H. Gattis R. F. D. 6, suggests an emblem of a bee on a flower with the slogan: "Everybody get busy. 500,000 for Atlanta 1920."

A "Little Boy Blue," with a horn and the words, "Blow your own horn. Atlanta!" is the offering of Miss Hester Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

"Boost Atlanta. At it all. Always at it. 1913-1920."—Mrs. W. F. Trenary, 488 Courtland Street.

Dr. Emmett V. Ball, 700 Austell Building, has sent in a number of slogans. Here is one of his best ones:

Two Suggestions For the Boosters

Booster button designed by A. P. Thompson, Jr., of the Crumley Hardware Company.

MR. DOLPH WALKER, Empire Bldg.

One of the most prominent and successful business men of the city, says: "Dr. Kelly's Nuxcara cured me of dyspepsia in its worst form after I had suffered for years. In spite of the fact that I took every digestive remedy that I could hear of I was almost an invalid, and so discouraged that I had about decided to give up all medicines advertised for stomach troubles, as I had about lost faith in drugs. My case was so bad that I could not see any improvement at all on the first bottle of Nuxcara, but by the time I had taken five bottles I had gained forty-five pounds and was stronger and in better health than I ever was in my life. It is certainly the most wonderful remedy known."

The Social World

Mrs. Charles Remsen was hostess at an informal tea of fifteen guests Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Club, in honor of Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, the guest of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel.

The guests were received on the piazza surrounding the ballroom. Later, tea was served at four small tables, each decorated with summer flowers.

Mrs. Remson was lovely in white embroidered crepe, worn with a Panama hat tied with purple streamers.

Bridges-Black.

Miss Julia Caroline Bridges and Mr. Arthur Franklin Black were married Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Bridges, 143 Lawton Street. The bride and bridegroom departed later for Washington, D. C.

The bride wore white embroidered marquisette and carried bride roses. Her traveling costume was of tan ratine, with hat, shoes and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Portsmouth, Va.

Dinner Dance at Country Club.

The dinner dance at the Capital City Country Club Thursday evening was the second in the series inaugurated at the new clubhouse, and was largely attended. Several parties were given.

Mrs. William A. Tilt, of New York, was the honor guest at a large party given by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kiser. Invited to meet her were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser and Mr. James M. Nunnally.

Another party was given by Judge and Mrs. J. T. Pendleton in honor of their guests, Misses Mary B. Murphy and Sarah Cox, of Alexandria, Va. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nunnally and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stewart.

Other hosts of the evening were Mr. Edward Alfriend, Mr. W. R. McBurney, Mr. Dodson, Mr. W. R. Baskerville, Mr. Fleming and Mr. Pool.

Miss Almeta Jackson Entertains.

Miss Almeta Jackson was hostess Thursday afternoon at her home on Myrtle Street, entertaining a number of her young friends. Hearts dice was played, and Miss Kathryn Donely won the prize, gold pins. Miss Helen Nesbit won the second prize, a bottle of extract.

Misses Sarah Roberson and Sarah Eubanks served punch, and Mrs. T. A. Burke and Miss Marguerite Adams, of West Point, assisted in entertaining.

The guests included Misses Katherine and Nedra Turner, Marion Dean, Marie Stoddard, Hallie Crawford, Louise Cooper, Idelia Andrews, Elizabeth Downing, Helen Brown, Evelyn Roberts, Bernice Jackson, Aline Conley, Helen Tucker, Ellen Donnelly, Katherine Donnelly, Alma Boone, Elizabeth Floding, Mary Floding, Ida Brittain, Anne Dow Wurm, Lucile Young, Elizabeth Millard, Cornelia Walker, Virginia Walker, Sarah Robertson, Sarah Eubanks and Marguerite Adams of West Point.

Dancing Party.

Miss Helen Atkisson will entertain at a dancing party Friday evening at her home in Ansley Park for Miss Dorothy Robbins, of Birmingham, and Miss Dodo White's guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle. About 70 young people will dance.

Mrs. Snodgrass Hostess.

Mrs. W. W. Snodgrass entertained at a spend-the-day party Friday at her home in Lawton Street for Miss Helen Nowell, of Augusta, guest of Misses Mary and Lucile Goodrich.

Miss Pollock Hostess.

Miss Madge Pollock was hostess at a 5-o'clock tea Friday afternoon at her home in North Avenue. The party was for Miss Dodo White's house party guests, Misses Helen Dunn, Elizabeth Stubbs, Alice Jones and Cleta Slagle.

In the dining room, where the ices were served, there was a Marie Antoinette basket of Shasta daisies adorning the table. Yellow tulle was draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

Miss Pollock wore yellow satin draped in white chiffon and trimmed in seed pearls. Mrs. George Pollock, her mother, assisted her in entertaining. She wore white lace with touches of blue satin. Little Misses Margaret Elder, Mary White and Elizabeth Goldsmith received the callers at the door. Others assisting were Misses Nina Neal, Marion Neal, Louise Dobbs, Ruth Reid, Marie Cobb, Harriet Haynes, Jennie Lou Lindsey Martha Lawshe and Ruth Cocke. Guests numbered 150.

For Miss Lewis.

Miss Laurette Lewis, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Edgar Jones will take place next Wednesday afternoon, was tendered a forty-two party Friday afternoon by Miss Laliah Moncrief. This is the last of a series of affairs for Miss Lewis preceding her marriage.

For Miss Cozart.

Miss Fannie Lou Cozart, of Washington, Ga., who is visiting Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick, is being entertained pleasantly in an informal way. Thursday afternoon Miss Cozart was honor guest at tea at the East Lake Country Club, following a motor ride. Thursday evening she was entertained at an informal party given by the Misses Kirkpatrick.

Birthrday Party.

The guests were Misses Ann Lane Newell and Ellen Newell, Annette, Louise and Elinor Gay, Marcelle Robinson, Inez Fuller and Elizabeth Irwin.

TAX REFORM IS GEORGIA'S HOPE SAYS SLATON

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Banquet Agreed More Money Is Needed.

"Revenues and expenditures of Georgia must balance," declared Governor John M. Slaton Thursday night. Randolph Anderson, President of the Senate, and W. H. Burwell, Speaker of the House of Representatives, concurred.

Members of the Georgia Legislature and of the Chamber of Commerce, 700 in all, voiced their hearty approval in the great ballroom of the Piedmont Driving Club.

The occasion was a reception to the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," said Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the guests applauded noisily.

Governor Slaton and the heads of the legislative arm of the State government seized the chance to express their conviction that Georgia is confronted with one of the most serious problems of its history—a deficit in the State Treasury. It was the unanimous opinion that the Legislature is able to solve the problem.

"The revenue and expenditure of Georgia must square," said Governor Slaton to the diners. "When I tell you that in one of our State institutions, where girls are taught to cook and to sew and to make happy homes for Georgians, it is necessary to put fourteen girls in a room, you will see the need of greater revenues. When I tell you that the Technological School is offered $100,000 worth of the most modern machinery if only we can provide housing for it, and when I tell you that the Agricultural College at Athens is in sore need of funds, you will see the need of greater revenues.

"The man who is paying 10 cents on the dollar while his neighbor is paying 20 cents on the dollar in taxes ought to be made to increase his payments. An increase of only 20 per cent in taxable values in Georgia means $180,000,000, which means $900,000 added revenue—enough to supply all the State institutions and pay all the debts."

Mrs. Charles Gates Denies Family Row

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Charles G. Gates, of Minneapolis, Minn., emphatically denied to-day that she and her husband had quarreled. The report of the quarrel became current last week, when it was published also that Gates' father-in-law knocked him down for buying wine too freely and tipping too liberally in a Minneapolis saloon.

"Charley is the best husabnd in the world, and we love each other as much as we did when we first married," said she. "I'm sorry he isn't here, but he had to go to Canada to examine a mine. He's an awfully good boy."

Trust Controlled T. R. Hunt Movies

NEW YORK, July 11.—Moving pictures of Colonel Roosevelt's big game hunt in Africa were controlled by the Motion Picture Trust and sold for 20 cents a foot.

Testimony by William Devery, of the New York Imperial Film Exchange, before the special examiner in the Government's suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law brought this out.

$1,200 Jewels Stolen From Macon Matron

MACON, July 11.—When Mrs. Harry Popper, of Georgia Avenue, looked on the dresser for her jewels last night, just before retiring, she discovered that they were missing. Match stubs on the floor and an open window, with a ladder leaning against the house outside, indicated that a burglar had previously located the valuables.

Several diamond rings, a bracelet and stick pins, all worth $1,200, were taken.

MAYOR'S ROOSTER MUST GO.

BOSTON, July 11.—A neighbor complained anonymously that Mayor Fitzgerald has been violating a city ordinance by keeping a rooster in the henyard at his home, and the Board of Health ordered that he must kill or remove it.

Boy Scouts to Hike to Tennessee and Back

Troop Three of the Boy Scouts will leave Atlanta Friday on a trip to Chattanooga and return. They will go as far as Dalton on the train, and then they will be entertained by the Dalton Chamber of Commerce.

From Dalton they will hike to Chattanooga, and after a short stay there will hike back to Atlanta. Scoutmaster E. G. Everett is in charge.

THE PLAYS THIS WEEK

Forsyth Busy This Week.

Attendance this week at the Forsyth is well up to the standard of the busy theater. The house is being well filled at nearly every performance and the several feature acts are winning deserved applause.

Next week's program has already been arranged and includes some delightful acts. The headliner will be Valerie Bergere and company in "Judgment," and among the comedy features will be Britt Wood, an exceptionally clever character comedian.

Grand Pictures Popular.

Motion pictures at the Grand daily from 2:30 until 10:30 have added wonderfully to the popularity of this theater.

The very highest grade of first-run motion pictures is offered, and the program is as good as any that has been exhibited on a screen in the city.

At the Bijou.

"Along Broadway," with Will Stanton and Rosalind May, is filling the Bijou to capacity this week. The performance bristles with breezy action, and the several specialties that stand out with startling distinction are the violin solo by Miss Marguerite Calvert, the juggling of Sam Alburtus and the Tango dance by Ingalls and Hite. For next week another snappy and up-to-date attraction is announced, "Hotel a la Carte."

TWO WOMEN IN PERIL OF MOB IN TENNESSEE

Mother and Daughter, Confessed Slayers of Stepchildren, Given Additional Jail Guard.

UNION CITY, TENN., July 11.—Threats of mob violence against Mrs. James Yates and her daughter, Floy Farris, 18, in jail here following the confessed murder of the children of James Yates, caused county officials to-day to place a special guard about the jail. An attempt at lynching is expected to-night.

Mrs. Yates, second wife of James Yates, a prosperous farmer, confessed that she had drowned the two children of Yates' first wife. Her daughter by a former marriage, Floy Farris, was with her, and, according to the story, aided in the crime.

The killing occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Yates found the two children, a boy, 12, and his sister, 10, swimming in a creek that ran through the Yates farm. She ordered them to leave the water. The boy, she said, called her vile names. She became enraged at him, she said, and, seizing him by the throat, held his head under the water until he drowned.

The lad's sister screamed and tried to escape, but was caught by the Farris girl, the woman said, and was drowned as her brother had been.

The children's bodies were found in the creek Wednesday night. Yesterday Mrs. Yates and her daughter were arrested. The woman confessed today.

Her husband to-day declared he would use every effort to see that his wife was hanged for the crime.

Families Fight for Possession of Bride

ANNISTON, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Peel, who were married Wednesday morning, are central figures in a family quarrel to-day.

W. D. Chandler, the girl's father, hurried to the house where the two were stopping and took his daughter home. She now is held a prisoner.

The father of the bridegroom, Samuel Peel, is helping his son in his efforts to recover his bride. He contemplated habeas corpus proceedings, but was advised first to try moral suasion on the father of the bride.

Aviator in 900-Mile Air Race Near Record

MACATAWA, MICH., July 11.—A world's hydroaeroplane record for distance was within the grasp of Glenn Martin, of Los Angeles, this afternoon as he closed in upon Beckwith Haven and Roy M. Francis, leaders in the Chicago-to-Detroit airboat race.

Martin maintained a speed of 80 miles an hour for 200 miles to-day after leaving Chicago. He landed for half an hour at Michigan City, and then came on to Macatawa Bay, where he lunched and left for Cralevoix, his third scheduled stop, shortly after 1 o'clock.

Tifton Man Held as Philadelphia Forger

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Maintaining his innocence even after a merciless cross-examination by detectives, Henry L. Kramer, who was brought back yesterday from Tifton, Ga., charged with forgery and embezzlement, was released under $1,500 bail.

A scene was caused in the courtroom when the accused man's wife denounced her husband's accusers. Later she secured the bondsmen.

Mrs. Kramer is a Tifton girl.

French Scientist Has Wireless Telephone

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, July 11.—Professor d'Arzonval, the eminent scientist, it is reported, has just found a complete and practical solution of the baffling problem of wireless telephony.

How he has accomplished this is at present kept secret, but the report is generally credited here.

Walter E. Willimon, of Greenville, who has been in the employ of the postal service for the past seven years, has been appointed a postoffice inspector and will be retained in the Atlanta division.

Negro's Attempt to Rob Bank Thwarted

CORDELE, July 11.—While L. E. Fenn, assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Cordele, was counting several thousand dollars in cash and currency late last night the electric lights suddenly went out.

Mr. Fenn, fearing robbery, summoned a policeman, who found a negro hiding near the electric switch in the bank building. As the would-be robber was making a quick getaway the policeman fired several shots at him.

Co-Eds Cheer Wilson For His Skill at Golf

CORNISH, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson has so improved in health in the last three days, and likes his summer home so well that he has decided to stay until Sunday.

While golfing yesterday the President putted neatly, almost from the edge of the turf, and a party of co-eds from the Dartmouth Summer School clapped their hands in applause.

A Smart Bathing Costume That, While Stylish, Can Be Made Cheaply.

By OLIVETTE.

MODESTY, suitability and simplicity still hold their own in the bathing costume, in spite of the tendency to introduce into all feminine apparel the suggestive lines that now make for the average ideal of smartness. To-day we are showing you a bathing dress that is practical for the water and charming on the beach. Foulard is the material chosen, and in the case of our model it was developed in silk, whose background of wavy blue and white lines was accented by dots of dark blue. The waist is a simple bebe affair with the fullness laid in three one-inch tucks at the shoulder line. The short puffed sleeves and the neck are edged in two-inch bands of blue wash satin, which also forms the belt and extends down the plain hip-length yoke in the skirt in a line that continues the band at the side of the waist. The effect produced by this trimming is that of a short Russian blouse. From the yoke of the skirt, the material is sun-plaited to some six inches below the knee. The bargain counters of July afford double width washable foulard at a dollar a yard, and cheaper qualities can be had as low as fifty cents. However, it is advisable to purchase good silk that will stand the effect of salt water and midsummer sun. With the addition of a blue bandanna bathing cap, blue silk stockings and sandals, a most effective costume may be made by the home dressmaker for from $5 to $8 for suit and accessories.

Girl's Moods

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

MOODS of various osrts are not so rare in girls as most persons imagine. Girls are supposed to be the brightest, cheeriest, happiest of beings, and many of them are, but the temperaments which are a prey to discouragements have to be reckoned with.

Very likely the girl who is lonely in spirit or discouraged in her efforts fancies she is the only person in the world so afflicted. Experience in life has not yet shown her that we are all of us subject to moods, more or less. Some have the power to dispel disheartening attacks by sheer buoyancy of spirit which rebounds at the least ray of sunshine. Others are plunged in a weary maze of worry by a mere word, or look, or criticism and they fail to cultivate courage and joy, two of the great things in life which may be won by constant determination.

A lack of sympathetic understanding from others is frequently at the root of a girl's moods. For instance: A girl may be in doubt as to her choice of a vocation as a teacher because some one has said, "You are just an ordinary girl and can never do any but ordinary things." If she can tell her thoughts to a friend whose counsel is of value, and get a responsive word of kindness, how quickly the mood which fretted her disappears.

The ordinary people in this world are often doing brave, noble, useful work. A girl may not have extraordinary powers or remarkable intellect, but if her intuition tells her she has chosen the best course for a career she need not be dismayed. To aim high, to take courage and then to pursue a chosen work is a way to happiness.

If a girl loves her work and is well trained for it she will do well; but beyond the capabilities as a teacher for imparting knowledge she must have high standards of truth, faithfulness to duty, responsibility in training the minds and characters of children and helping them to develop what is best in them. Then she will never be a mere machine, but will realize her far-reaching opportunities for influencing others for their good.

Doubts as to her vocation need not assail a girl who has within her the true spirit of the teacher, enthusiasm for her work, love for her pupils and a longing to share and give her talents to those intrusted to her care.

Sometimes a girl is troubled at not seeming to be popular. Perhaps she devotes more time to reading and study than her friends and she may have to bear teasing remarks. A girl is not setting herself up as superior because her tastes are serious, but she should not keep away from the society of others.

It is natural and right for a girl to care for social pleasures, but the nicest girls are discriminating in their friendships and their amusements. They are guided by their intelligence and do not fret about following the ways of others. They take their social pleasures gladly, as they come, and try always to be their very best selves, and so they wield a wholesome, sweet and strong influence.

One Woman's Story

By Virginia T. Van De Water.

MARY DANFORTH had been right when she felt that Gordon Craig would not mention to her father the encounter of the day before. He was one of the men who know how to keep their own counsel, and he appreciated that in a case like this it was the girl, not the man, who should first mention the matter.

He had presented to Mr. Danforth the letter of introduction from his firm—not only with the hope of securing an order, but, it must be confessed, with an equally keen hope of again meeting his acquaintance of the subway train. How this was to be accomplished he did not know. He could hardly ask a man many years older than he to allow him to know him in a social way, and, unless he did meet Mr. Danforth socially, how should he have an opportunity of any closer intercourse with Mr. Danforth's daughter?

He decided to leave this on the knees of the gods and to give his whole thought to the business upon which his employers had sent him to New York. Therefore, putting Mary from his mind for the time, he talked business so well that the girl's father was impressed by his earnestness and his direct manner, and, after promising to give him an order, turned the conversation to the young man's home affairs. He soon learned that he was from Texas, that this was his first visit to New York, and that he had no friends in the great city.

"See here, Mr. Craig," suddenly suggested the hospitable New Yorker, "if you have no engagement for this evening, suppose you come up and dine with my wife and daughter. I know they would be glad to know you."

Mr. Danforth was surprised at the gleam of pleasure that illumined the good-looking face of the young man before him, but he liked him the better for his evident appreciation of the compliment implied in the invitation from a man old enough to be his father.

"Thank you, sir!" was the delighted rejoinder. "I will be mighty glad to come!"

Craig remembered with a sensation of relief that he had brought a dress suit to New York with him, having been advised to do this by the senior member of his firm. "You never know what you will run up against in New York," his employer had said, "and if some big business bug should ask you to dine you would want to look your best."

While Mr. Danforth was not what the Westerner considered "a big business bug," the young man certainly did want to look his best—for reasons of his own. These thoughts ran through his brain while his prospective host was saying:

"Come back here a little after 6 o'clock and we will go uptown together. I shall be detained here later than usual this afternoon, as I have some important letters to get off. But you be back by 6:30."

"Indeed I will, sir," the happy Texan assured him.

Thus it came about that Gordon Craig and Mary Danforth met for the second time. The girl had bestowed more care than usual on her toilet this evening, donning her prettiest little dinner gown, a simple pale blue affair that showed her fair neck and shoulders and intensified the blue of her eyes and the auburn tints in her hair. Her suppressed excitement brought a vivid color to her cheeks. Gordon Craig had thought her a pretty girl when he met her on the train, but he had had only time to take in the general effect of her appearance. She had been tired and wan then, and her hat had cast a shadow over the upper part of her face. He was, therefore, unprepared for the very attractive vision that met his gaze when, responding to her father's call of "Mary, child, where are you? I have a guest here I want you to meet," she came into the drawing room. Her eyes looked straight into those of the tall Texan, and a deeper flush came to her cheeks. As her father said, "Mary, this is Mr. Craig, of Texas," she held out her hand with a frank smile.

"Mr. Craig," she said, softly, "I am happy to meet you."

There was no suggestion in her voice and manner of any former encounter with the stranger, and he thrilled with admiration of her poise and self-possession. He had heard that New York women were mistresses of all situations, and he could believe this as he looked at the young girl.

"It is nice of you," she was saying, "to come and dine with us to-night, when there are so many interesting things in New York for visitors to see."

"On the contrary," he said, as he bent over her hand, "it is Mr. Danforth who is kind to give me the opportunity of meeting the members of his family in his delightful home." He turned with a bright smile to Mrs. Danforth, with whom he had been chatting before Mary's entrance.

"You don't know," he said, "what it means to a fellow far away from home and friends to receive such a cordial welcome as this from people he had not even met 24 hours ago."

Then, as his eyes met Mary's, she saw in them a twinkle of amusement, and remembered that 24 hours ago he had already met one member of the family, and that member was herself. Somehow, this knowledge, possessed only by these two, made a kind of bond between them, and she felt that Craig and she were almost friends already. She had many friends among young men—in fact, was rather popular with the youths in her set—for she was pretty and vivacious. But she had the reputation of being rather cold and distant. Boys bored her at times, and, when they became sentimental, they almost disgusted her, a fact that other girls, more romantic and impressionable than she, could not understand. But she was aware now that she found this Westerner distinctly interesting. He was entirely unlike the young men who talked trivialties with her—thinking that was the sort of thing that a girl liked—and much more interesting than the old men, who, she felt, regarded her as an uninteresting young thing.

"What pretty manners he has," she thought, as he bowed and offered his arm to her mother when dinner was announced. "And how awfully good-looking he is in his evening clothes. I did not suppose that Texans were ever like that."

Her mother, noting the same deferential manner and well-bred bearing, mused to herself, after the manner of matrons all over the world:

"What a nice mother this boy must have to have trained him so well."

"It is not surprising, Your Excellency," returned Jarvis, with the easy assurance of an amateur liar who has just discovered the amount of solid satisfaction that may be obtained from the successful practice of that ancient, if not honorable, art. "We are living in an age of specialists; and, like every other profession, this calls for its own peculiar training."

"Do be seated, gentlemen," interposed the Princess. "If you don't mind," she continued, as the gentlemen obeyed, "we can discuss this matter in this stateroom without fear of being overheard. I am so glad you are here, cousin. You will be able to tell Mr. Warren so much better than I all the circumstances. I have given him only a rough outline of the history up to the time I left my brother in Segura."

"I shall be delighted to throw any light I can on the mystery," replied the Duke, in a tone that implied that the light he would throw would not be of much assistance, "but first—why did you leave your brother and come to America?"

The Princess fixed her eyes on his face with a peculiar expression and slowly held up the locket. The Duke almost exclaimed aloud.

"Here," said the girl, "this is what brought me to America. Like other antiques, this little locket found its way to America soon after my father's death. It was my brother who succeeded in tracing it to New York. The paper that I found inside gives the exact location of the treasure so long supposed to be a myth. See—I had to break the ivory to get it."

A curious little smile played around the girl's lips as she talked and watched her cousin. He became more pronounced when he eagerly held out a hand that trembled slightly and exclaimed: "Let me see it!"

Balked.

"No, Carlos. You may see the locket only."

Jarvis, an interested spectator of this little scene, touched the undercurrent of the talk with his quick understanding. He grinned with enjoyment.

"Quite right—a wise precaution," he declared.

The Duke darted a quick, menacing look at him, and turned his attention instantly to the old trinket, with every appearance of the enjoyment of a connoisseur.

"Curious old piece of work—and you came all the way to America for this? You were fortunate to find it so soon."

"I knew exactly where to go to find it," returned the Princess, still smiling her curious little smile. "And yet I was nearly too late. It almost got away from me. Think of it! After this dear old locket had lain in his store for ten years, suddenly there came two inquiries for it in one day. Mine was the second. A distinguished looking gentleman had been there that morning, described it roughly, and got the old man to hunt for it. He had just found it when I came in. I doubled the distinguished gentleman's offer—and got it. Now"—her eyes were still fixed on her kinsman's face—"who do you suppose wanted that locket?"

The Ghost.

The Duke handed it back, crossed his legs and smiled easily.

"I see it has already occurred to you that I am the distinguished looking gentleman whose offer you doubled," he said drily.

"How did you learn about the memorandum, Carlos?" inquired the girl frankly. Jarvis suppressed a snicker and was rewarded with another look from the exalted cousin.

"I didn't, cousin dear," he replied quietly. "I had not the slightest idea that the locket I described to the old man contained the supposed secret. I was merely following my pet hobby—trying to recover some of those precious heirlooms which were scattered to the four winds. You would be surprised," he went on quickly, "to see the collection I have already rescued—and which shall some day be yours."

Jarvis instantly divined the aim of this turn of the conversation and broke in somewhat brusquely.

"Well, so much for the treasure! Let's hear about the ghost. What's your opinion of this, Your Excellency? Do you take any stock in ghosts?"

The Duke turned slowly in his seat so that he was directly facing the young man, and regarded him with a grave, direct glance.

"Yes, Mr. Warren, I am convinced there are such things."

Jarvis was genuinely astonished and made no effort to conceal it.

"You believe that the castle is haunted?" he demanded, incredulously.

"I know it," was the firm and amazing response.

"You think this ghost is dangerous to encounter—that it is the cause of the deaths and disapearances in the castle?"

"Exactly."

Jarvis whistled softly and was silent for a moment. Then a quick suspicion flashed across his mind, and he was once more calm, good-humored and self-possessed.

"Ghost," he murmured. "That's a pretty broad term, Your Excellency. Can you tell me just what you believe this ghost is?"

The Duke placed the tips of his fingers together and leaned back with the air of a savant.

"There are occult forces in this world, Mr. Warren, that science can not fathom, and some of them are manifesting themselves in that castle now. A priest might call it a demon or a fiend—a psychologist, a returned spirit. I can't say." He shrugged his shoulders lightly. "But I know there is something real—a malignant force which lurks in that castle and, while it haunts those halls, it is madness for any man to expose himself there."

Kidding the Duke.

"In what way," interrupted Jarvis, as if previous tragedies had nothing to do with the case, "in what way do you connect this spook with the treasure?"

"Spook?" frowned the Duke, not understanding. "I see no connection—what do you mean?"

"Oh," smiled the young man, "there's always money where the ghost walks."

The exalted cousin perceived that he was being made game of in some foreign manner, and rose in offended dignity.

"I do not know what your experience may have been, Mr. Warren. You are doubtless a brave man—but you have yet to encounter a real ghost!"

The fun vanished from Jarvis' eyes and left only the ever present disquieting sparkle. If you looked at his eyes and did not consider the good-humored mouth, you would have supposed that he was constantly on the verge of breaking out in a passion.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HE IS NOT THE MAN FOR YOU.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young girl of 18 and am considered very pretty. I met a young man whom I like very much. He has called several times to take me out, and when he called last Sunday I was out, so when we met again he acted very cool. LAURA.

You broke no engagement, and owe him neither explanation nor apology. His unfairness and selfishness make me hope you will conquer any growing love for him.

YOU MIGHT WRITE IT.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 40 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 45. About a week ago he asked me to marry him. I love him dearly, but I am too bashful to say yes. AGNES B.

It is difficult to credit one of your years with such a youthful sentiment, but if what you say is true you might write an acceptance.

Up-to-Date Jokes

A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.

"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a Wrangler."

"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager; "but his missis is."

A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend, and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Exit the Exiled King.

He had once been a writer of novelettes, but now he was a tramp. The imaginative instinct remained with him, however.

"Well?" demanded the cold-visaged lady, as she opened the door.

"Madam," he replied, "I am the exiled King of Calabria. I was hunting in yonder forest, but in some way I became separated from my retainers, likewise from my gun and purse. I am footsore and weary, and I would fain tarry a while and partake of refreshment at your hospitable board."

"We've got nothing in the house fit for a king to eat," said the lady, in the same lofty tone; "but I pray thee tarry while I unchain my bull-hound Tearum. He will escort your majesty with all the ceremony to the gates, and methinks——"

But the King remembered a pressing engagement elsewhere.

THE GEORGIAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"IT seems to me, George," said the Manicure Lady, "that as I journey through life every July seems hotter than the last July through which I have passed. I am that near steaming to death right now that I could go to Greenland's icy mountains and stay there the rest of my life. I never chummed with no Eskimos; but just this minute it seems to me that they would be the cutest little playmates. Why is it that a lot of regular folks like us has to stay in the city, George, and let them society people have all the yachting trips?"

"It's too hot for me to dope it out," said the Head Barber, who looked like an overworked stoker. "I can't see why there has to be any hot weather like this at all. The farmers say that it is too hot for crops, and outside of raising crops what good is such a thing as warm weather. I wish I could just frame it so that I could go somewhere and find a climate that was about 60 degrees all the year around."

"Yes, but then you would get tired of everything staying the same," said the Manicure Lady. "Brother Wilfred was out to Los Angeles once, and he said that he got tired of the sun shining all the time. It got on his nerves so that the poor boy got kind of balmy, like the climate, and they found him one morning trying to make snowballs out of the hot sea beach sand. It was a long time before he forgot that trip to Los Angeles. He wrote a poem called 'Eternal Sunshine' that was so good it was rejected by three or four of the best magazines in America. It went something like this:

"I love the Spring because it is so vernal,
But in some places the sunshine is eternal.
So, travelers dear, I want to hereby warn you,
If you love snow, don't go to California.
I love to watch the mewing seagulls fly
Across the azure California sky,
But oftentimes I long for skies of gray,
Instead of seeing sunshine every day.
I love the Winter and I love the Fall;
Some snow and rain should come for one and all.
Until they have four seasons in that land
I'll not return to that there golden strand."

"Oh, have a heart!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Ain't it hot enough when everything is quiet, without you spieling that awful dope?"

"I know this ain't no time for real art," admitted the Manicure Lady, "but even if it was cool you wouldn't have no soul for poetry, George. It ain't in you. Gee, this is awful, ain't it? Not a single customer since that wall-eyed business man from Herkimer and the hick that just blew in from Atlantic City. Gee, he was a nice pest to come around on a hot day. You heard him, didn't you, George, telling all about his act? Swell costumes for the skirt, and him doing a neat dance in soft shoes that was a riot, and both of them closing with parodies that knocked 'em off their seats. It seems to me if I was a actor I would do my acting on the stage. There ain't much chance of elevating the drama if——"

"Oh, be still, be still!" exclaimed the Head Barber. "Talk into some records when you get home to-night, and I'll listen to them when it gets good and cool. I'm going to toss up a coin now to see whether I go out and get a rickey or two rickeys."

He Knew the Difference.

In a small village lived a gentleman whose name was Peacock, and his great hobby was the breeding of turkeys, of which he always kept a large quantity in a paddock in front of his house adjoining the roadway, which was a great attraction to the public.

One day a traveler passing that way mingled with a little crowd that was watching their antics, and asked:

"Whose turkeys are those?"

A youth replied: "They're Peacock's."

Traveler: "I asked whose turkeys are those?"

Youth (answering again): "They're Peacock's."

Traveler (excited, and boxing the youth's ears): "You young fool, do you think I can't tell peacocks from turkeys?"

Superfluous Hair Truths

De Miracle
The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. Remember, the injury caused by the use of doubtful hair removers will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars because it will take months or possibly years to gain control of hair growths that have been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

"Sitting Out" the Dance

Two Ways the Old Stairs Have Seen It Done:—Then, "The Minuet"—Now, "The Tango"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

Nell Brinkley Says:

THE other night at a pretty dance I came out of the warm, perfumed ballroom, where the sober-garbed men and the girls, like so many brilliantly-hued butterflies, were jerking and spinning about in the mad, fascinating, grotesque antics of the tango and trot.

They looked like an aimless company of bright insects at play, with no longer life than they, and no more care for another day than they. I slipped between the curtains of the big hallway, hunting for an open window and dreaming of all the crystal fountains I had seen in my life and wishing myself under their cool rain. For, let me tell you, this tangoing is lively work! And out on the old stairs that have felt the tread of centuries of light girl-feet—that have heard whispers between a man and a maid that are never told—I saw something that gave me an idea for a picture. Sitting out the dance was a man and a girl on the bottom steps. She and he both sat with knees carelessly crossed, in distinctly masculine attitudes. A foot of sea-green silk stockings thrust from beneath her slashed skirt. Between her white fingers smoked the live end of a cigarette, between his also-white fingers a thin veil of smoke rose, too; between both their careless lips crept a blue veil to mingle above their heads. One of his hands was thrust deep and negligently into a pocket. It was rather a tasteless picture—dry to the taste of a Lover of men and maids and their affairs. If Romance was there, you might not see it! There was no leaning, tender grace about the girl, nothing of the unsure seeker about the boy. They had just come away from a TANGO—they were decidedly nineteen-thirteeny and they were sitting out the dance. And it made me think that perhaps the old stairs stirred and groaned under a memory of other sittings-out—when romance was like a perfume on the air, so tangible was it; when a maid hung her head and a man sought and was tender and had other things for his hands to do than dig into his pockets and hold a cigarette; when the maid's lips were untainted by smoke and the man watched them under cover of dim lights and thought them sweet.

Her Punishment

"WELL!" indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it.

"Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated."

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best.

Very Formal.

Suiting the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say specially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters.

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, for their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there, and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

Much Different.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more, and he'd never get my letter. And I'd sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I thing it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing.

"Oh, what's the use! I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"

Fair, fat, spectacled and big-moustached, it needed not his guttural tones and Teuton accent to acquaint the hotel manager that the new arrival owed allegiance to Europe's inexhaustible surprise-packet, the Kaiser.

"Vrom Potsdammerburg. I vas come, sir," announced the newcomer pleasantly.

"A very fine place, sir," returned the manager, politely.

"Der vas a petter."

"Yes? Berlin?"

"Nein. Ohm."

"Ohm? In—er—Germany, of course?"

"Donner and blitzen, nein! In England—in dis gountry."

"Ohm?" said the manager thoughtfully.

"Ya," growled the German. "I vas come from Potsdammerburg to see Ohm. Der vas no place like Ohm. I vas at der goncert in Berlin, and I hear der great Engleesh soprano sing dot der vas no blace like Ohm, and all der Engleesh beoples in der goncert gry like der leetle babies. Dot must be der vonderful place, Ohm, to make der Engleesh beoples gry, and I dell meinself dot I will go und see dis Ohm vot der vos no blace like. Now, sir, vich is der vay to Ohm?"

Things Worth Remembering

The latest innovation of fashion is to be found in smoking jackets for ladies. The fashion was first started in New York and very soon reached England. A woman's smoking jacket, however, is not the well-worn, musty looking, plush garment so dear to a man's heart. The more elaborate ones are made of gorgeously embroidered crepe de chine, silk broche crepe, or other dainty materials. But there is a severer type also cut like a man's plain coat, more suitable than any of the others for smoking room wear.

Simpson, the Manchester magistrate who last year, though over 70 years of age, accomplished two walking feats, one from Manchester to Land's End and the other from John o' Groats to Manchester, has just added to his laurels. Having been a little indisposed, Mr. Simpson went to the Isle of Man for a "rest," and while there he walked the whole circuit of the island, his tour covering 86 miles, in less than four days.

Making It Worse.

Painter: "How do you like the picture?"

Critic (sardonically): "H'm; it might be worse."

Painter (offended): "Sir, I hope you will withdraw that statement."

Critic: "All right, then; it couldn't be worse."

Her Brother Tom

SHE wore a skirt not more than a yard around at the bottom edge, and the attenuated cerise feather in her hat stood up at least a foot and a half. Just as she swung by the lace counter she caught a glimpse of another girl making a purchase and, after a little pause, she rushed over to the other girl.

"Why, Gertrude!" she exclaimed in a tone of delight, "I'm so glad to see you! It's been a perfect age!"

"It has been a time, Rosa," agreed the young woman, who was buying lace. "How are you?"

"Just fine!" cried the girl with the cerise feather. "Are you getting that perfectly lovely pattern? You're looking so well there's no need to ask about you. By the way, how is your brother?"

"Tom?" said the girl who was buying lace. "Oh, he never was better. He's always well!"

"Yes, he's such a picture of health," agreed the girl with the cerise feather. "If you weren't his sister I'd tell you how perfectly splendid looking he is, though I suppose you know it! And he's not a bit spoiled, like most handsome men."

Too Busy.

"Tom keeps his head pretty well," agreed Tom's sister. "Do you like this piece of lace better than that?"

"They're both perfectly beautiful," the girl with the cerise feather told her. "You can wear anything with your complexion. Is Tom playing any golf these days? I haven't happened to see him out at the links."

"I don't think he is," said his sister. "He's been so busy this spring—"

"Oh, just because he is a valuable man he shouldn't let that old firm monopolize him!" pouted the girl with the cerise feather. "He plays such a splendid game and is such a picture in his flannels. When I see him I shall tell him he just has to come out to the links. If he's been so busy that explains why I've not seen him lately. I'm sure he must have received my card with our change of address—"

"Yes, he got it," said the girl, who was buying lace. "Tom hasn't made many calls lately. His time—"

"Oh, these men!" exclaimed the girl with the cerise feather. "I think it is perfectly dreadful the way they work themselves to death! Just because they have brains and strength they ruin their health! I shouldn't think you'd let him do it! Make him get out doors and enjoy himself more! He—"

"Why, Tom seems to have a pretty good time," protested Tom's sister. And he's perfectly well. Did you know—"

A Shock.

"To think how long he and I have known each other!" sighed the girl with the cerise feather. "Since we were in the sixth grade! A friendship like that is so unique and rare! 'Tom,' I have said to him so many times, 'no matter how long you stay away, when you come to see me it is precisely as though we had parted only yesterday!' That's what real mental affinity is, I think, don't you? If two persons are congenial and suited in every way to each other they can't help but recognize it!"

"I suppose not," said the other young woman. "What are you buying to-day?"

"Not a thing now," said the girl with the cerise feather. "I'm all through and can give all the time you want to helping you select your lace. I'd love to. I've seen so little of you lately, Gertrude. Come over—you and Tom, come over to-morrow night to dinner! Please do!"

"Why—" began the girl who was buying lace.

"Now, I just won't take a refusal!" said the other with pretty sternness. "Think of all we've got to talk about! Tom—"

"I was going to say," interrupted the young woman who was buying lace, "that it will be impossible, because mother gives a dinner to-morrow night for Caroline's people. You know, Tom and Caroline Steele are going to be married next month?"

"Wh—what?" shrieked the girl with the cerise feather. "That pasty Caroline Steele? I—he—why, really! I hadn't heard! How perfectly lovely! Do congratulate him for me! I'm so sorry, but I've got to run along—important engagement—"

"Well, good-by—if you must be going!" said Tom's sister, sweetly. "And I really have enjoyed our little chat!"

UMPIRES HELP CRACKERS LOSE TO GULL CLUB

By Percy H. Whiting.

THE umpires in yesterday's ball game were Wright and Wrong—chiefly the latter. Or, anyhow, that's the way the fans felt as they filed sadly out of Ponce De Leon Park, hooting at Umpire Pat Wright and hurling cat-calls after the Gulls.

Yet, to our own private notion, the poorest time to register a kick against the umpires is after a losing ball game—and especially after one of the most horrible exhibitions of a generally ragged season.

Another thing—a poor umpire is generally the most honest thing in the world.

There was never any deception at all about Umpire Wright, poor soul. He was doing his best, and it was very bad. But he broke it as fair as he could.

And the Crackers, if anybody should happen to ask you, lost the ball game—and they lost it good and proper.

* * *

IT ought to have been a parade. The Gulls are crippled, and they started in the game with the pep of a cart horse. For the Crackers, Gil Price was his bully best and ought to have had a shut-out up to the time the rain fell, wet up the ball and cost him his effectiveness.

The Crackers just refused to win the game. They jammed it down the throats of the Gulls. They firmly insisted that Finn's men MUST win it. And, after displaying the proper reluctance, the Gulls did it. And what was more, they got so much amusement out of the fielding efforts of the Crackers, and so much encouragement over their cinchy victory, that they laid in a stock of enthusiasm and confidence that may last them the rest of the season.

* * *

DON'T let yesterday's game worry you. It was horrible in the extreme. But a team that has been playing as the Crackers have for a couple of weeks are entitled to one real bad one. It's a shame that it has to go against Price. If ever a man pitched winning ball, he pitched it. His own fielding blunders and his own wild pitch looked bad. But in the matter of hurling he was there strong.

* * *

THE crowd does not deserve any especial commendation—that is the part of it who chucked pop bottles at Umpire Wright and later stood around the Gulls' bus and shrieked.

The Crackers lost the game. The best thing to do was to take it calmly.

The incidents yesterday emphasized more than ever the necessity of dressing rooms on all grounds for visiting ball players.

Baseball should be a high-class game. It will never reach the right plane so long as the visiting team returns to its hotel in a bus, the butt of jokes and gibes, and occasionally the target for rocks and sticks. The big leagues have waked up to that. The Southern hasn't—though be it said to Atlanta's credit that the directors of the local club have always been in favor of dressing rooms in every burg in the league for visiting players, and will provide one, if the other cities of the league will.

* * *

THE game had a lot of wild and festive features. The most marvelous was the fact that the Crackers pulled four errors in the first inning.

Here are some more:

For six innings (and until it rained) Gil Price gave up but one hit.

A press box enthusiast propounded this query: "Why not feed Cavet?" He was referred to Mike Finn.

Mobile used a patched-up team, with Robertson at first, Paulette at second and Clark and Campbell in the outfield—and yet it had a game thrust upon it.

Hint: Chain Joe Agler. He mussed up two plays by going after a pop-up that belonged to another player.

Sanitary suggestion: Chain the sewer. It smelled "most awful vile" yesterday.

Price beat out his usual bunt. He's a marvel at that.

In the fourth inning Cavet retired the Crackers on four pitched balls.

7-MILE FINAL WILL BE GRAND RACE AT DROME

STANDING OF THE RIDERS.
Name	1st	2d	3d	T't'l.
Richards	6	2	0	38
Shields	1	2	2	19
Lockner	1	2	2	19
Renel	0	3	2	18
McNeil	2	0	1	13
Graves	0	1	2	10
Lewis	0	0	1	3

IT looks like rather the best program of all out at the Motordrome to-night.

Three features are carded, and each looks a wonder.

The big noise will be the Cracker Sweepstakes, with Bill Smith the starter, at seven miles. This will be the longest and the most dangerous race ever run at the local track and will give the slower machines a chance, for endurance will cut as much figure as speed and daring more than either.

The Motordrome Purse, which will be run first, will give Graves, Richards and Renel a chance to renew their speed quarrel, which was pacified in untimely fashion Tuesday night by accidents to the machines Graves and McNeil had tuned to ride. Each man of the Big Three is in a separate heat to-night, which means, if all goes well, that they will meet in the 4-mile final. Big doings that, sure!

The final number on the card will be a four-cornered match race. The riders will not be picked until after the other races are finished. For there is no use in naming some guy who may be doing time in the hospital tent by the time the last race is called. This is the first four-cornered match race of the season, and, as Manager Noon Hudson is bound to pick four evenly-matched men in this event, it should be a corker.

Here is the program for to-night:

Second Event.
Motordrome Purse.
One mile to qualify; three miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 8, Jock McNeil; No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Harry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Third Event.
No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 7, George Renel; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Fourth Event.
No. 4, George Lockner; No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 2, Harry Schwartz.

Fifth Event.
Final of Motordrome purse, three miles.

Sixth Event.
Crackers' Sweepstakes.
Three miles to qualify and seven miles final. One to qualify in each heat and two in fastest heat.
No. 6, Freddie Luther; No. 9, Henry Lewis; No. 10, Harry Glenn.

Seventh Event.
No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 4, George Lockner; No. 8, Jock McNeil.

Eighth Event.
No. 1, Morty Graves; No. 3, Billy Shields; No. 2, Harry Schwartz; No. 5, Tex Richards.

Ninth Event.
Seven miles final of the Crackers' Sweepstakes.

Tenth Event.
Four-cornered special match race to be announced later, four miles.

VETERAN CUBS TO REUNITE AND BATTLE WHITE SOX

NEW YORK, July 11.—If plans outlined to-day by Managers Evers and Tinker of the Cubs and Reds materialize, Chicago fans may see the "old guard" reassembled and wearing Chicago Cub fighting togs some afternoon late in September.

The idea is to have Tinker, Brown, Kling and Sheckard, now of the Reds; Chance, of the Yankees; Zimmerman, Schulte, Evers and Reulbach, of the present day Cubs, and Artie Hoffman, recently released to Nashville, reunite and battle the White Sox on either the South or West Side grounds. The receipts are to be turned over to the widow of Jimmy Doyle, former Cub third baseman, who died in February, 1912, following an operation for appendicitis.

AS FORECAST IN THIS COLumn, Frank Chance has given First Baseman Borton the well-known rinky-dink, and Jack Knight returns to the big league—a path from the minors he has traveled so often that he can do it at night. Knight played second base in the International League, and he will either be used at that position or shifted to first, a corner to which he is peculiarly fitted because of his great height and agility.

The return of Knight recalls a sad chapter in the past history of the Yankees. Manager Stallings had a deal all framed up the year before he was dropped by which Chase was to go in a three-cornered trade and he was to secure Ed Walsh from the White Sox and he planned to make a first baseman of Knight. The higher powers in the Yankee club objected to parting with Chase. With Walsh, Stallings would unquestionably have won the pennant. He lost it by a smaller margin of games than Walsh would have been certain to win. So Chase was kept—to wreck a fast-coming team—and Knight drifted back to the minors.

According to all reports, he is better than ever this year. He has recovered his speed and is hitting the ball more smartly and with more consistency. At any rate, compared with Borton, he is bound to strengthen the club.

JACK JOHNSON IN PARIS; MAY FIGHT CARPENTER

PARIS, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who fled from the United States following his conviction of white slavery, declared to-day that he would immediately open negotiations with George Carpenter, middleweight champion of France, for a bout in December. In the meantime, Johnson said, he intended traveling through France, Germany and England, giving boxing exhibitions.

TINKER WANTS BRENNAN; $10,000 FOR DISCARD?

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Addison Brennan, the young southpaw, who has been such a big help to Dooin and the Phillies this spring, was traded by the Cincinnati club for the then all-in Bob Ewing in 1911.

Joe Tinker, who needs pitchers, probably would part with $10,000 of Garry Herrmann's money right now for Brennan.

Two members of the Yankees were victims of an exceptional play by the White Sox in which both were put out at the plate. One was out in the sixth, Peckinpaugh was on third and Knight was on second when Smith hit to Pitcher Russell, who threw the ball to Catcher Schalk, tagging Peckinpaugh after a chase toward third. Smith kept on for second and drew a throw. Knight had reached third and sped on toward home, but Rath dashed in, took Weaver's throw and got Knight by a close margin.

Miner Brown, who pitched for the Reds yesterday and won, is still suffering from an injury to his knee, although his arm is as strong as ever. His running is badly handicapped.

M'ALEER DENIES THAT HE AND STAHL HAVE HAD SPLIT

CLEVELAND, July 11.—James McAleer, of the Boston Red Sox, to-day denied a newspaper story that he and Manager Jake Stahl have reached the parting of the ways. McAleer, who is here for a day or so, denies there is any truth in the yarn.

The story said Stahl, jealous of McAleer, had been seeking the undermine the Red Sox president with the majority stockholders, wanting that position himself. McAleer, according to the report, learned of Stahl's action and arranged to meet the minority stockholders in Chicago Saturday, prepared to buy or sell.

WALSH BACK FROM BUTTE; HAS PRAISE FOR BROWN

CHICAGO, July 11.—Tommy Walsh, who handled George "K. O." Brown July 4 in his winning fight with Jimmy Howard, at Butte, returned to town yesterday with the Greek warrior. Walsh allows "K. O." made a big hit up there and will be given a Butte match with one of the star middleweights before long. Walsh likes Butte as a boxing town so well that he is going to take Joe Mandot up there to fight in the fall. Mandot will be here to join Walsh in a few days.

Mr. Taggart pronounced the report as "a pure fabrication" or "untruth," declaring he had no connection whatever with the Porter races.

INEXPERIENCE IN GOLF TOURNEYS ADDS 3 STROKES

By Chick Evans

THE inexperienced player usually plays from two to three strokes poorer in a tournament than in his practice rounds, while the seasoned golfer, as a rule, plays just the least bit better when a tourney makes the extra demand for skill. A tournament "rattles" one player and stimulates the other. Of course, trained players do go to pieces in a tournament, but it is their standing that makes this noticeable.

Formality Unnerves Youngsters.

Generally speaking, players of a certain ability can be depended upon to reach a definite place in a tournament with a certain average of excellence, while the inexperienced player, who is capable of a fine score in informal games, either fails to qualify or makes a very high score. The formality of the occasion and the presence of many first-class golfers destroy the confidence of the novice and ruins his game. The experienced golfer has his troubles, too; has unexpected defeats, but ordinarily, his game is played with clocklike regularity. He has learned his weaknesses in many a tournament, and he knows what to expect. His mental forces are not so easily stampeded, and when he falls in the first round it is before the skill of a fine player.

Experienced Player's Nerves Good.

The experienced player sleeps well before important matches. How essential that is only the golfer who has felt an absolute collapse of his physical energies before the end of the day knows. I well remember that in my early tournament experience I slept not at all before even the smallest events, and lost many of them from sheer lack of strength, and was ill in bed for days after. It took years of training to take that out of me. Now I know that I can only do my best, and it is useless to worry. Training does many things; it is indispensable in every branch of human endeavor, but, alas, it does not enable one to entirely escape his temperament.

APPROACHING IS THE BANE OF GOLFERS

MORE than a decade ago Walter J. Travis declared there was no department in the game of golf that required such a high degree of skill and the exercise of such sound judgment as approaching. As that was years before he even dreamed of annexing the British or world's championship, and had but once won the national, his statement did not attract the attention that it would have later. He added: "Strength must then be supplemented with delicacy and discrimination not called for elsewhere except in the approach shot, which is really an off-shoot."

Then, seemingly as if he were granted by fate prophetic glimpse far ahead, although at that time he had not heard of Jerome D. Travers, he continued: "Approaching is the largest single element in winning a national championship." And further: "No one can rank high who is not a master of lofted approaches."

Probably the best approacher this country ever had, previous to Jerome Travers, was Eben Byers, always a great stylist, who won the National at Englewood in 1906.

Gave Great Exhibition.

In the spring of that year, Byers, as runner-up to Travers in the Metropolitan at St. Andrews, gave an exhibition in the wizardry of serpentine approaching previously unknown in this country.

Getting the green on the next is a far finer achievement than direction and distance from the tee. Almost any club may be used for making an approach, the mashie or midiron being more often brought into requisition. Approaches seldom exceed 150 yards in distance and often less than a third of that stretch. A full stroke with a powerful cleek, however, is occasionally made in order to get well up.

Suppose you have a clear path to the flag. The stroke you would play would naturally depend on the character of the surface. On a firm course, such as that offered by a few seaside links, you would run your shot, which means that you would give it a short pitch and then let trickle along the ground. On a soft course, such as is the rule inland, the pitch would be bold to the green, because it could not run far upon alighting.

"Poached-Egg Shot."

Such a bold stroke, particularly when more or less of a cut has been given to land it dead, is what Harry Fulford onced called a "poached-egg shot." The cut stroke is one of the best of the many surpassing things that Travers does. Harold Hilton's greatest specialty is the back spin he imparts on many of his cut strokes, by which he lands his ball dead, with scarcely any roll. Each club has a range of its own. On the midiron and cleek you would stand and swing practically the same as if you were driving. You will naturally find yourself standing more directly over the ball, a tendency you need not attempt to alter.

Travers and others are well agreed that the mashie should be brought out of the bag, roughly speaking, when about one hundred yards from the hole. The face of the mashie is well laid back in order that the ball may be lofted. Consequently, it is unnecessary to drop the shoulder or knee in an attempt to get under the ball. A full swing with the mashie is almost unknown. For a stroke up to one hundred yards, the left foot should be about fifteen inches behind the right—sometimes designated as the "open stance."

The ball should be on a line with the left heel. Keep a firm grip on the club, for relaxation is sure to end in a jolt. The right elbow should be kept close to the body, no matter if you do feel cramped at first, for otherwise, accuracy is impossible. The face of the club should be turned out a little in order to avoid pulling—that is, deviating to the left of the line play. If you wish to pitch boldly, carry the weight mostly to the left leg. Shift to the right, if you desire to bring the ball lower.

Mandot Praises Willie Ritchie

Discusses Right-Hand Wallop

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Joe Mandot, who at one time threatened to put New Orleans on the lightweight championship map, was one of the interested spectators of the recent Ritchie-Rivers argument. Joe was one of the first to pick Ritchie as a winner and, having fought both, he was well posted on the respective ring merits of the two scrappers. The Southern pride is still a hit with the coast fans, as the following clipping will indicate:

"Young Mandot is a scholarly and clean-cut young fellow. He looks more like a bank clerk than a boxer, and his conduct would pass muster in the inner circles of the '400' or any other set in high society."

Joe Praises Ritchie.

Discussing Ritchie's victory, Mandot says:

"That boy is a terrific hitter and a splendid boxer. And what I like about Ritchie is that he carries his punch with him at all times and can get one over at almost any stage of the going.

"When I boxed Willie Ritchie ten rounds in New Orleans I felt that I had the better of the bout for at least nine and one-half rounds. I was going great against Ritchie, and I felt I had him beaten up to within 30 seconds of the close of the last round. Then something happened to me. Ritchie crossed that right of his over my jaw and I imagined that some one had turned off all the lights. It was the hardest punch I was ever hit in my life, and I guess I've gotten a few tough wallops in my career.

"After Ritchie landed that clout I was through. Of course, I started to duck instinctively, and I managed to avoid a further collision with Ritchie's right, but that one punch almost put me out of business.

Willie a Hard Hitter.

"Some of the local newspapers gave Ritchie that bout, some said that I won, and others called it a draw. Of course, there was no referee's decision, and we could each claim that bout.

"But I'll tell you one thing, I'd as soon have a sour dispositioned mule kick me as have that Ritchie boy hit me that kind of a wallop again. Ritchie hurt me more in the last 30 seconds of our 10-round bout than Rivers hurt me in the two 20-round contests I had with him.

"That right-hand cross of Ritchie's is the toughest proposition that I ever ran up against. Getting hit by Ritchie's right cross is, to my way of looking at it, about the same as being caressed by a policeman's night stick. Of course, I was never caressed by any policeman's night stick, but Ritchie did hit me, and if I were given my choice, I'd rather take a chance on the stick."

Gene Van Court, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and formerly the boxing instructor of the Olympic Athletic Club, was in San Francisco with Mandot.

RITCHIE BRINGS SUIT ON MOVING PICTURE RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie, through his attorney, Edward Lynch, brings suit against Billy Kyne and Laurence Meehan to restrain them from exhibiting moving pictures of the Ritchie-Rivers fight pending adjustment of Ritchie's rights in the proceeds.

Ritchie claims Kyne and Meehan have refused to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement whereby he was to have 50 per cent of the profits. Kyne and Meehan bought the rights of Graney and Rivers.

CARDINALS PURCHASE TWO FROM BATTLE CREEK CLUB

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., July 11. Pitcher Neihaus and Shortstop Callahan, of the local Southern Michigan League team, have been sold to the St. Louis Nationals. Neihaus is a left-hander who has won 18 games and lost 4 this year.

STOCK FOR WOLVERTON.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 11.—Harry Wolverton will probably be given a bunch of stock in the Sacramento Baseball Club next year as a reward for his efficient leadership. This was said yesterday by W. L. Curtin, president of the club, speaking at Sacramento as the representative of Jack Atkin.

SMITH MEETS ALLEN IN SEMI FOR THE TITLE

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 11.—The advance dope was shattered here Thursday when R. Y. Smith, of Nashville, defeated "Peck" Huggins, of Nashville, in the semifinals of the State championship tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Since John Allen, Jr., of Knoxville, defeated Parish, of Nashville, Allen was slated to meet Smith, of Nashville, in the finals Friday.

The match between Allen and Parish was a very pretty affair, and the score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. However, more interest was centered in the Smith-Huggins match. Smith showed superior work all around, his smashing drives down the side lines proving Huggins' stumbling block.

The championship match between Carlton Y. Smith, of Atlanta, present title holder, and the winner of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SAIL CANOES TO-DAY FOR INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Canoe sailing as an international sport has again been revived, and this afternoon the first contest between James A. Newman, of the Winchester Canoe Club, Winchester, Mass., representing the New York Canoe Club, of this city, and Ralph P. Britton, of the Gananoque Canoe Club of Gananoque, Ont., will be sailed.

The races will be held in Gravesend Bay, and the international cup, first put up by the New York Canoe Club in 1887, will go to the winner of the best two out of three races. The second race will be sailed tomorrow, and in case of a tie score on the two races, the third will be sailed on Monday.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL FLOURISHES IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Organized gambling on baseball is flourishing in St. Louis. Reporters have discovered that cigar stores, saloons and other places of business make no secret of the fact that they are selling pools unmolested by the police. Anybody is welcome to buy chances.

BARNES OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 11.—John S. Barnes, formerly a well-known baseball man and owner of several clubs in the Middle West and on the coast, expects to sail to-morrow from Vancouver for Australia to organize a baseball league in that country. He will arrange to take two American teams over there this fall.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A LA BASEBALL.

A pugilist was putting up a gallant little scrap
And placing bumps and bruises on the other fellow's map,
When suddenly he halted in the middle of a swing
And turned around and jumped the ropes and beat it from the ring.
They asked him to return again, but asked him all in vain.
"There's nothing doing," he replied; "I've got to catch a train."

A football team was fighting on a bloody battle ground,
And from the rooters in the stands there came a mighty sound,
When suddenly they halted in the middle of a play
And calmly put their sweaters on and calmly walked away.
The rooters loudly called them back, but called them all in vain,
"There's nothing doing," they replied; "we've got to catch a train."

We hope, for humanity's sake, that the National League will not amputate the Cub owner from that $1,000 without handing him an anaesthetic.

If Mr. Evers were to be suspended for a year and a half we fear that Mr. McGraw would not succumb to excessive grief.

We fail to understand how Hugh Jennings has the heart to release a youth with a name like Peploski.

One scarce can blame Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn if they can not refrain from laughing when they read that they are matched for the world's heavyweight championship.

PERFUME.

Motorcyclists all remind us
We can ride o'er hills and dells
And, departing, leave behind us
Forty-seven kinds of smells.

It is rumored that the Yanks are dissatisfied with Frank Chance. If Frank Chance is not dissatisfied with the Yanks he ought to be.

Mr. Chance is a wonderful guy if he can reflect upon the Chase deal without delivering unto himself a swift kick.

Mr. Comiskey has established diplomatic relations with Mr. Bryan, but there is no truth in the rumor that he has taken to unfermented grape juice.

If Mr. Bryan can induce the National Commission to drink grape juice it will be recorded as the greatest diplomatic feat in the archives of history.

The practice of stalling to avoid a beating may be inside baseball, but it has a distinct shade of yellowness.

A motorcyclist in Pittsburg jumped the track and was rendered defunct, thereby making the meet a grand success.

Australia may beat us at cricket, but it will be at least a couple of years before the world's series is held in Melbourne.

We shudder to think of Connie Mack's mental strain as he hesitates between Bender and Plank for the first game of the world's series.

KICKS.

When the game is going badly you can bet your final dollar
That the gent who entered on a pass puts up the loudest holler.

Reds and Cubs Hold Confab With Fultz

NEW YORK, July 11.—President David Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, held a confab with practically all the members of the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs yesterday. It appears that Fultz has been holding these conferences with all the Western teams of the major leagues as they have visited this city in turn. He has been collecting the annual dues, in addition to laying plans for the future.

The Reds and Cubs at yesterday's meeting were informed that the fraternity would soon be asked to take a firm stand on the question of reduction of salaries of players sent from the major to the minor leagues. It was pointed out that the case of Borton, released by the New York Americans to the Jersey City club, was typical of the so-called abuse. Fultz declared, it is said, that the fraternity should demand legislation from organized baseball that would make it impossible to cut a player's salary in midseason. He argued that if a minor league club refused to pay a major league salary, the club releasing a player to a smaller league be forced to make up the difference for the balance of the playing season.

I.-M. LEAGUE WILL FINISH.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., July 11.—The Illinois-Missouri League will be able to finish the season, as Pekin has overcome its financial difficulties. This was announced by President Cline to-day.

Champaign sold Billy Line, outfielder, to Fond du Lac in the Wisconsin-Illinois League for $750.

CHAPMAN LEADS AMERICAN IN TWO-PLY PLAYS

FANS are not in the habit of ruining their eyesight in studying the fielding records of the major league players, and there are few members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America who build up feature stories regarding the defensive work of the pastimers. Eddie Collins, guardian for the White Elephants of the middle cushion, is acknowledged by all experts to be the "keystone king" of the American League, but when any authority sets out to prove that the Columbia graduate is the peer of his contemporaries he never rushes to the guide books for statistical information on the subject.

A good way to find out how swift a fielder is, some persons think, is to take the number of double plays a man starts. Up to July 1 the American Leaguers had rid their systems of 380 dual killings, the man who started most of them being Collins. He took the initiative in sixteen of his team's two-ply massacres.

The Johnsonites' swiftest shortstop, according to the performances in the Double Play League, is Ray Chapman, of the Naps. He inaugurated a dozen plays that resulted in the retirement of a pair of runners. In figuring Chapman's speed as an inaugurator of double plays, it should be remembered that he has been often absent from the Naps' line-up because of injuries, and it is possible that had he played all season long, as has Collins, he would have started just as many two-ply killings.

Baker Leads Third-Sackers.

The third basemen who have started the greatest number of double plays are Frank Baker, of the White Elephants, and Ivan Olson, of the Naps. Each man has inaugurated six. George Stovall, of the Browns, shows the way to the first-sackers, having been the pioneer in seven dual massacres.

In the battery department there is a tie for the honors, Catchers Schalk, of the White Sox and Agnew, of the Brown Hose, each having started four. So have Pitchers Eddie Cicotte, of Chicago, and Walter Johnson, of Washington.

Shotten Tops Outfielders.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, who won the Chalmers American League trophy in 1912, and Ty Cobb, of Detroit, who secured the car the two previous season, generally are considered the two smartest outfielders in the junior league, but thus far this season neither man has made nearly the number of double plays that Bert Shotten, of the Browns, has to his credit. Shotten has taken the initiative in eight two-ply killings, which would indicate that he has been making as many sensational catches as the high-priced fly-chasers of the Detroit and Boston clubs. Bert started two double plays in the game of June 10, Duffy Lewis, left fielder of the Red Sox, having earlier in the campaign done the same thing. J. Gladstone Graney, of the Naps, is the lone American League outfielder to pull off an unassisted double play, he having accomplished this feat on June 1.

The Browns, just at present, are leading in manufacturing double plays, with the Washingtons a close second, and the World's Champion Red Sox last.

ROUMANIANS ALSO OPEN WAR ON THE BULGARIANS

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, July 11.—Intense anxiety has been caused in diplomatic circles of the European capitals by the action of Roumania in declaring war on Bulgaria. The dispute between the two countries dates back to the end of the war between Turkey and the "allies," when Bulgaria refused to give up territory demanded by Roumania as a price of the latter's neutrality.

Roumania is believed to have nearly half a million men under arms, although some of these have not been concentrated.

The powers will take concerted action, it is believed, to put an end to Bulgarian-Roumanian hostilities before they become general. Czar Ferdinand is anxious for peace for the campaign against Servia and Greece has been disastrous to the Bulgarian nation.

Belief existed in diplomatic quarters that Bulgaria will not offer any armed resistance against Roumania unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

5,000 Roumanians Invade Bulgaria.

PARIS, July 11.—A force of 5,000 Roumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgaria.

King Charles has promulgated a proclamation of war against the Bulgarians but it has not yet been approved by the Roumanian congress, which will assemble next Wednesday.

The occupation of a considerable portion of Bulgarian territory by the Roumanians is imminent.

Bulgars Try to Influence Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11.—Bulgaria is trying to provoke Turkey to reopen the war against the Balkan allies in order to save herself from humiliating defeat by Servia and Greece, according to the belief in official circles here to-day.

Word was received here to-day that Bulgarian troops had set fire to Midia, an important port on the Black Sea. It was said that a number of Turks had been massacred there by the Bulgarians.

Greek Army Sweeps All Before It.

ATHENS, July 11.—All of Southern Macedonia now is in the hands of the Greeks. The important city of Demir Hissar was occupied today.

WINSTED, CONN., July 11.—Following a custom inaugurated by his grandfather, who presented to Abraham Lincoln a hay rake, Marshall W. Stedman, a rake maker, of Tyringham, Mass., has sent a rake with 40 teeth, the whole handsomely grained and varnished, to President Wilson.

600 ATLANTA SOLDIERS IN CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Boys of the Fifth Regiment embarking at Brunswick for St. Simons.

Soldier Boys Are Enjoying Maneuvers Immensely—Eagerly Await Governor's Visit.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, July 11.—Approximately 600 Atlanta boys, members of the Fifth Georgia Regiment, encamped here, entered to-day upon the third day of the annual encampment.

That the soldier boys are enjoying themselves to the utmost, regardless of the fact that the dingy little guardhouse is the scene of much activity, as a result of the appearance of some of the boys in civilian clothes, is evidenced on all sides.

Thursday night the boys had the first big time of the week at the regiment dance at St. Simons Hotel. Colonel Pomeroy and members of the staff were in attendance, in addition to scores of people from Brunswick. The brass buttons and braided uniforms made the usual favorable impression upon the Brunswick belles.

Friday morning the boys were put through a stiff drill, which, however, was offset by the customary plunge in the surf, one of the chief delights of the camp life. Late in the afternoon the usual dress parade will be held, featured by the appearance of Colonel Pomeroy and his full staff.

The boys are all in the best of health and spirits, and as a result the hospital corps has little to do.

The big event of the week will be the visit of Governor John M. Slaton, ex-Governor Brown and United States Army officers Saturday and Sunday. The distinguished party will be met at the Brunswick depot by a committee of citizens, which will act as an escort to the camp of the Fifth.

SEARCHING SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS IN GEORGIA

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Mr. Slater, of Bryan, in explaining his vote in the House Thursday for the new county of Barrow, said he viewed new county propositions as good things rather than undesirable things, and that every time one was mentioned he undertook to find a reason for voting for it rather than against it.

Mr. Slater declared he not only favored the enlargement of the present House of Representatives because of Georgia's growth and progress, but he emphatically believed the Senate membership might well be doubled.

"In the Senate it is possible for a handful of men—fifteen—to block proposed constitutional amendments, even though the entire House of Representatives might favor them, and the remainder of the Senate—a very heavy majority—also might favor them," said Mr. Slater.

"I am not criticising the present Senate—it is, so far as I know, a fair-minded body—but it is too small. The power of individual Senators is too great.

"I favor new counties everywhere in the State where material conditions really justify—and I am satisfied there is more than one such locality in this State now."

Two members of the House—Messrs. Wohlwender, of Muscogee, and Sheppard, of Sumter—voted for Barrow County, each explaining that he did so absolutely on the plain merits of the proposition, although neither heretofore has been an advocate of the new county idea. Indeed, this was Mr. Wohlwender's first vote for a new county in any Legislature.

Candler County, which is to come up soon, generally is looked upon as another good proposition, likely to go through. Beyond these two, however, the guessing gets rather scattering and far between.

It is evident enough, however, from the Barrow vote that the present Legislature is not particularly hostile to the new county idea—and is, at least, willing to give all proposed new counties a fair and open hearing.

Ward Allen, Chatham County's famous Nimrod, who is a candidate for appointment to succeed Jesse Mercer, the incumbent, as State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been in Atlanta for the past week in the interest of his candidacy. He returned to Savannah Thursday to look after some personal business.

Allen had nothing to say before leaving regarding his candidacy, further than that the Governor had not yet taken the matter up officially, and probably would not do so for several weeks, maybe not until as late as September 1.

Allen says he is satisfied with conditions as they are at present, and hopes at least to see a South Georgia man get the place.

Ed Wohlwender, of Muscogee, "the Flying Dutchman" of the House of Representatives, again cinched his right to that title Thursday when he put through the very first general bill of the session of 1913-14.

The act was one amending and perfecting the insurance laws in a minor particular, but Wohlwender made a great speech advocating its passage, nevertheless.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed by 148 to 1.

"Wonder who the blazes that one lonesome party is, anyway," said Wohlwender, after the vote was announced. "Some folks are just too contrary for anything. This is the first general bill to pass, and I would like to have seen it go through unanimously."

Wohlwender was unhappy about that one obstreperous and unruly member, and grieved over that lost vote more than he rejoiced over the passage of his measure.

The committee appointed to draft the commission government bill for the city of Columbus, to be presented to the General Assembly of Georgia for enactment, has completed its labors and has a bill, which it is believed will be entirely satisfactory.

In order to avoid any chance of contest over the act of the Legislature a committee of lawyers will pass on the various phases of the bill. It then will be placed in the hands of the Muscogee County delegation in the General Assembly.

BEARISH ADVICES DEPRESS COTTON

Lower Temperatures and Weakness of Summer Months Cause General Selling.

NEW YORK, July 11.—At the opening of the cotton market the feeling was generally bearish and prices were unchanged to 4 points lower than Thursday's final. The ring was inclined to sell on favorable weather conditions, rains being fairly well distributed over the central and eastern belt.

The Government records show a temperature average in Oklahoma of 98 degrees, which is 4 degrees lower. Temperature average in Texas was 100 degrees, with five stations 100, four stations reporting 102 degees, nine stations 104 and four stations 106 degrees.

This, together with favorable reports on the condition of the crop issued by Cordill and Habersham King, resulted in a general selling movement after the call. Before the call, however, July and December rallied 2 to 3 points from the opening range.

The ring, Wall Street and brokers representing spot houses sold the market heavily, resulting in prices losing 8 to 12 points from last night's close. Both July and August touched 12c. Summer positions were given no support. This was in part explained by the fact that late months reflected favorable weather and crop news.

During the late forenoon, prices recovered 2 to 7 points of the early decline through more active buying, which seemed to come mainly from a few scattered shorts. The selling, however, continued general.

At the close the market was steady with prices at a net decline of 3 to 11 points from the final quotations of Thursday.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S DAILY COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Weather developments overnight were again favorable. The map shows fair weather in Texas, cloudy elsewhere; cooler with a fine general precipitation in the Central and Eastern States. Indications are for partly cloudy and showery weather in the belt, except fair in the lower half of Texas.

There is a cool wave now heading for the Western States, which should bring general rains and cooler weather on Texas within the next six days, preceded, as usual, by a short heat spell of no consequence.

The market was inclined to open lower on good reports concerning the crop and the favorable weather prospects, but controlling influences in New York at once advanced August prices and by this show of power checked all selling, with the consequence that the market remained idle around last night's closing figures.

The Turner Crop Bureau, of Memphis, makes the condition 82.5 on July 8. The report says that the great producing area of Texas is practically free from the weevil pest. The market weakened in the second hour on an announcement from Houston of a second new bale from San Benito, shipped for sale to New Orleans, on Government records showing a temperature average for Oklahoma of only 98, against 102 the past two days, a bearish into-sight forecast and small receipts from Liverpool to the mills, only 37,000, against 62,000 bales last year.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—There will be thundershowers to-night and Saturday in the Central valley and the Upper Lake region and to-night or Saturday in the Lower Lake region, the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. In the Plains States and the Northwest the weather will be generally fair to-night and Saturday. Moderately low temperatures will continue.

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday:

Georgia—Local showers to-night or Saturday.

Virginia—Generally fair to-night and Saturday.

North Carolina—Local thundershowers to-night or Saturday.

South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida—Local showers to-night or Saturday.

Tennessee—Showers to-night and Saturday.

Louisiana—Fair in west; showers in east to-night or Saturday.

Texas—Fair to-night and Saturday in east; fair to-night, except rain and warmer in the Panhandle. Saturday fair and cooler in the Panhandle.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We anticipate no pronounced decline and prefer purchases on moderate recessions.

Sternberger, Sinn & Co.: We do not look for any big change one way or the other for the immediate future.

Logan & Bdyan: We are disposed to the view that the long side on sharp declines will possess the greatest attractions.

Miller & Co.: Sell cotton on the hard spots.

Mill Takings for Week 152,000 Bales

According to Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, the visible suply of American cotton during the past week shows a decrease of 123,500 bales, as compared with a decrease of 96,105 bales for the corresponding week last year, against a decrease of 179,760 bales for the same week the year before.

Other kinds during the week showed a decrease of 11,000 bales against a decrease of 31,060 bales for the same week last year and a decrease of 49,000 bales during the same period of 1911.

The total visible supply of American cotton decreased 134,500 bales, compared with a decrease of 195,000 bales for the corresponding week in 1912 and a decrease of 105,000 bales for the same week the year before.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Hayward & Clark: The weather map is favorable and shows generally fair in Texas; no rain; cloudy rest of the belt, with fine general rains in Central and Eastern States. Indications for partly cloudy and showery weather; also in eastern part of Texas, and cool wave coming on the belt, which should bring general rains on Texas in about six days.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "Very fine weather over the western cotton belt and friends of the staple are exploiting high temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma as good reason why the cotton market should continue steady. Wednesday and Thursday the high temperature average for the State of Oklahoma was 102 degrees. Yesterday twenty-two Texas stations reported high temperatures, ranging between 100 and 106 degrees, seven of which were 104. Such temperatures, if sustained many days, would, of course, play havoc with the crop as well as with the boll weevil, but both States report periods of even higher temperatures practically every year, and for this reason talent and trade alike refused to become excited over the hot temperature talk yesterday.

"After many days of waiting, Houston at last reported the arrival of the season's first new bale. It comes one month later than the first new bale of 1911 and eight days later than the first new bale of 1912. In this connection, bulls contend that the lateness of the first new bale is proof positive of the all-round lateness of the 1913-1914 cotton crop. Bears, however, contend that while the early producing section of Texas is late, the late producing sections are not late at all, and that the Texas movement will be under full swing earlier this year than usual. In the meanwhile, outside influences seem to have combined to reduce contract trading to a minimum. In the first place the alarm confronted by the threat of prohibitive legislation, is in no mood for enterprise. In the second, the actual cotton trade foresees many complications in the event the prohibitive tax should become a law. In the third, commission men are kept busy explaining the effect of the tax to their clients."

Cordill wires from Memphis: "Yazoor City to Greenwood good to excellent. Greenwood to Clarksdale, Clarksdale to Memphis plant well developed, fruiting nicely. There is some small cotton, but greater part large and well developed. Locally the crop is excellent, clean and thoroughly worked. No excess or deficiency of moisture. Weather warm and part cloudy. Perfect cotton-growing weather. Good rains and scattered showers have fallen over Arkansas and Mississippi where needed.

Habersham King says: "Briefly, I would say that I consider the developments of the week as favorable to 85 per cent and a standoff on 15 per cent. Since Monday temperatures moderated favorably in the dry districts and are now around normal so that unfavorable conditions seem checked for the present."

KENTUCKY CROP PROSPECTS RUINED BY LONG DROUTH

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 11.—Drouth during the last month has ruined the prospects for the best crops Kentucky ever produced. The report of the Department of Agriculture of the State said on July 11 that prospects for record crops were splendid.

The report made public to-day said every crop in Kentucky will be short.

DULLNESS CAUSES BREAK IN STOCKS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Considerable irregularity was shown in the price list at the opening of the stock market to-day. The railroad situation in the East, involving a possible strike, caused some selling on account of reports that the general committee, which will meet in this city to-morrow, will probably refuse to entertain Federal intervention. On the other hand, optimistic news came from the Balkans.

Among the losses were Amalgamated Copper, ½; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; American Car and Foundry, ½; American Telephone and Telegraph, ¼; Southern Pacific, ½; United States Steel common, ⅝; Chino Copper, ¾; Northern Pacific, ⅝; Union Pacific, ¼.

The advances included Erie ¼, Atchison ½, Reading ⅛ and New York Central ⅛. New York Central turned weak, declining ¼.

The curb market was dull and easy. Americans in London were quiet above New York parity.

In the late forenoon trading was sluggish and price movements were almost at a standstill. Atchison yielded ½ under small sales and concessions were noted in a few other issues. Slight fractional declines were recorded in Amalgamated Copper, Steel common, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Guggenheim. At noon trading was very dull with prices unchanged. Call money loaned and renewed at 2¼ per cent.

COTTON GOSSIP

NEW YORK, July 11.—The only feature of the market this morning was the weakness of the summer months, due to scattered selling, some of it on July notices. New crop sympathized to some extent and was also sold moderately on predictions for unsettled weather in Texas, and the favorable Turner and Cordill reports. Business was of small volume, because the holidays abroad. No important change is probable for the balance of the week. —Anderson.

J. B. Turner, of Memphis, reports the following condition of the cotton crop as of July 8, by states: North Carolina, 77; South Carolina, 74; Georgia, 76; Alabama, 81; Mississippi, 84; Tennessee, 87; Arkansas, 85; Louisiana, 82; Oklahoma, 85; Texas, 87.

Where declines are shown from the condition of two weks ago, the loss seems due to an imperfect distribution of the moisture supply. In Texas boll weevils are more evident than at this date last year. East of a line down from Sunge to Tyler, weevils are sufficiently numerous to attract notice, but as yet have done little damage. West of that line there are very few or none. It is clear, therefore, that the general producing area of the state is practically free from the pest.—J. B. Turner.

According to quoted views of members of the Georgia Legislature, the crop outlook for Georgia, which ranks next to Texas, is the largest producer of cotton in the belt. They say that conditions are much better than the previous season, and if the present outlook is fulfilled the yield will rival the record crop of 1911, when Georgia picked 2,784,000 bales.

STOCK GOSSIP

The New York Financial Bureau says: "We would buy the standard issues conservatively where good opportunities are offered with the intention to accept moderate profits. Trading movements in the general list will be seen to-day. Information channels are expecting further improvement."

Look for a profesional traders' market for the present. Would buy the active issues on any fair reaction for moderate profits. There is a good demand for standard dividend-paying stocks on all declines for investment. The odd lot buying by people of moderate means continues, and it looks as if speculative holdings are gradually being taken over by the investors throughout the country.—Potter.

Estimates of the quantity of Canadian Pacific stock liquidated by European sellers Wednesday ran as high as 20,000 shares. Canadian Pacific is about the highest-priced stock listed on the market and securities of such prices are usually the first ones sold if money is badly needed.

The weakness in Canadian Pacific stock during the past few days was said to be the result of the rumor that $60,000,000 new stock was to be issued. This, however, was officially denied.

Although the dullness in the market continues, there are few stocks for sale at the present level. Speculative holdings have decreased and investment holdings have increased considerably within the last thirty days. This is usually a favorable sign, as in the past under these conditions prices have advanced when activity begins.—Potter.

Wool Sales Reflect Extended Holiday

BOSTON, July 11.—Holiday week had a depressing effect upon the local wool market and total sales again dropped below a million pounds, with no especial features. Much interest is manifested in the buying in Montana, where higher prices still are being paid than appear justified by market conditions here. Some of the leading houses are holding back a little. The weakness developed by cross breeds at the London sale attracted attention; also the firmness of fine merinoes. Tariff legislation and the holiday season at the mills form a bad combination in the wool trade, and the effect is shown in the falling off in both sales and shipments.

Receipts of wool in pounds for the week ending and including Wednesday were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	5,042,642	11,638,729
Foreign	431,205	2,566,318
Totals	5,473,847	14,205,047

Total receipts of 5,473,847 pounds, compared with 4,716,447 pounds for the preceding week, of which 4,534,887 pounds were domestic wools.

Receipts in pounds from and including January 1, 1913, as compared with the corresponding period in 1912 were as follows:

	1913.	1912.
Domestic	53,607,375	92,178,305

HOGS SELL AT WIDE RANGE.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Hogs sold at a wide range of 8.50@9.25 to-day. Above the 9c line the speculators made a market that was higher than yesterday's close, but a large deal was promised on grades that affected only the packer outlet. There were 68,000 at 11 points against 77,000 a year ago.

Good cattle were strong to 10c higher, owing to the presence of a few urgent orders. Others were neglected. Live muttons were strong, 8.25 being paid freely for good lambs.

MILLER-COTTER COTTON LETTER.

MEMPHIS, July 11.—Good weather and crop accounts were of some influence in the day's decline. A few notices circulated on summer months caused some depression. The market is dull, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to sustain prices in the face of the steady improvement in the crop, which is reaching a stage of more definite assurance of yield.

Shorts in summer months have been eliminated and further manipulation promises little profit.

MODERN MILLER GRAIN REVIEW.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Weather favorable, owing to wheat harvest. Heavy rains, which have prevailed over some areas, did some damage to wheat in shock, but this occurs more or less every year. Cutting is about completed and thrashing well under way. Quality of winter good and hard winter turning out better than expected. Movement to market continues free, yet it is evident that a further decline in price would cause a holding policy.

ALL GRAIN PRICES EASIER AT CLOSE

Losses of More Than Cent Made by Wheat, Corn and Oats. Provisions Off.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Lower prices were seen in all the grain pits at the close to-day. These losses were 1@1⅛ for wheat, 1@1⅛ for corn and 1@1¼ for oats. The provision market was lower in sympathy with the break in grain. The bids sent out on wheat to the country last night were lower than on several previous days and the transactions were smaller in consequence.

On the other hand, the business in cash wheat on export and shipping account was comparatively small, only 130,000 bushels changing hands at Chicago.

Cash corn sales were 330,000 bushels and oats 320,000 bushels. Vessel room was chartered for 400 bushels corn to go to Buffalo. Clearances of breadstuffs from the seaboard for the week were 5,176,000 bushels, compared with 2,495,000 bushels a year ago. Clearances of corn were only 32,000 bushels, against 126,000 bushels last year.

Grain Notes

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders regarded the rally yesterday as only natural following a four days' decline. Bears are looking for lower prices on a continuation of the liberal hedging sales. One cash handler looks for a free movement, believing tight money will force the grain to terminals and export business will be the best possible thing for the country.

Corn traders were mixed last night, one of them being bearish. Many of the longs have unloaded. The bulls figure that the market is heavily oversold and had reports from Kansas that the crop has been damaged by the recent high temperatures.

There are many bears in oats who believe that the rally yesterday was only temporary. Cutting of early oats has commenced in Southern Illinois and yields are said to be light. Chief argument of bears is that stocks of old oats are too large for a big bull movement at present.

Grand Forks, N. Dak., wires: "Rain fell from four to six hours yesterday and last night on the parched fields throughout almost the entire northern part of North Dakota. The downpour began in the Minot District about noon and struck Red River Valley about 4 o'clock. More than an inch fell in places. Three days of hot winds had left the soil without moisture and caused heavy damage to crops. With the heavy rain, however, the crop is in condition to weather the remainder of the season without serious difficulty."

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: "Wheat—The weather map shows general rains over the entire spring wheat country, parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The country continues to offer wheat to arrive in liberal quantities and this fact forecasts a good deal of local bearishness.

"Corn—With the exception of rain in Nebraska and Iowa, there was no rain in the corn belt, with fairly high temperatures again in the southwest. Judging from the strength shown late yesterday, indications point to considerable liquidation having taken place and a fair short interest created. We look for light receipts and a good demand.

"Oats—There seems nothing bullish in the news at the moment, but there has been a pretty good evening up during the recent decline. Covering yesterday brought about a good rally from the low point.

"Provisions—Receipts of hogs considerably under the estimates, with opening prices 5c lower at the yards. July pork is very strong and a fair outstanding short interest is indicated."

Spot Houses Favor Clarke's Amendment

NEW YORK, July 11.—Advices from telegrams and letters which are current, state that many, if not a majority, of the large spot cotton firms and many mills favor the passage of the Clarke amendment, believing it will enable them to buy their spot cotton from the planter cheaper than at present.

It said that the open competition and broadcast distribution of market information and quotations kept the producer of cotton well posted under ruling prices from hour to hour and day to day. This would not be the case with the adoption of the Clarke amendment, as it would leave the cotton markets in the hands of simply the few spot dealers.

With the adoption of the Clarke amendment there would be a fixed tax of 50 cents a bale for hedging contracts. When the local cotton buyer in interior towns buys his cotton from the farmer his bid price would be low enough to enable him to hedge his contract and pay the 50 cents a bale tax, and the farmer, therefore, would indirectly have to pay this tax. Study to Know the Profitable From the Unprofitable Hen

Follow Advice and Eliminate the Drones From Your Flock.

It seems to me we can not overestimate the importance of finding out whether our hens are paying a good profit or not; and which ones are the drones and cutting down the profit. The only way to do this is to keep a record. Under present conditions, when almost everything that goes to help produce a dozen eggs, comes the necessity for stricter economy and the knowing of what it takes to produce the eggs. We must turn over a new leaf and open an account with the hens. We must charge them with what they consume, and at the same time give them credit for all eggs laid at the market price, whether they are sold or consumed by the family. It is not much work, if you but have a little account book in which to keep it. Five minutes a day will do it. It may pay you to go to the little extra trouble in ascertaining just where you stand.

The owner who has, by the use of the trap-nest, found out the egg-producing abilities of his flock, has taken the first step toward separating the unprofitable hen from the profitable one, a thing that every one who keeps hens should be able to tell or know.

We are often asked the question as to what constitutes a profitable hen? It is one that will pay for her feed, interest on the investment of roosting house, labor taken to care for her, and a profit besides. Of course, the cost of feeding a hen will vary quite a little, owing to the different sections of the country in which it is kept. Feed is quite a little cheaper in some places than others. It is but little trouble to count the cost of feeding ten or twenty hens. If you buy the feed, it is easily put down. If you are raising your own feed, simply measure out a barrel or two of it, putting down the price it is worth, then go to work feeding it.

Farmers are beginning to appreciate the worth of the really laying hen. They are beginning to find out that it does not pay to even harbor one that is too old to lay well or that never did lay much. All such should be cut right out of the game. And there is no way so good to determine that fact as by the trap-nest and the little record book.

With the ever and rapidly-increasing values of farm lands it is but natural that the farmer should look about him for some plan by which he can increase his income without greatly increasing his farm expenses, or investing in more land to do it with. The farmer has this very factor in the hen, if she is a good one. And there are good ones if we will but take the trouble to get acquainted with her. There are but few farms in the country but what have from one to three acres of land going to waste, or rather that are not being utilized. This is about the house and outbuildings. If this could be fenced and subdivided and a lot of good hens located therein it would soon begin to give revenue rather than be an expense to keep free from weeds and trash. I do not think it advisable for the farmer to try to run all to poultry, but just a hint to them that may help them to raise money for the taxes and various odds and ends that take the cash, leaving the regular farm crops in tact for other purposes. Tests show us that hens have made a record of 200 eggs per year; some have done even better than that, but a good many have done that well. Now it is an old saying that what has been done can be done again, so let us not fool away our time keeping hens that will only give us the old farm average of 75 eggs per year. That kind just about pays for its keep, so that if we get rid of them and keep the 150 to 200-egg kind then we get the profit that is due us. A flock of good, thoroughbred hens, say 300, should give us a profit of $400 to $500. Of course, you read of people making $500 from ten hens and a rooster, but that is from real fancy stock in which there is all kinds of possibilities, but on the other hand, there is the chance that you will not make anything from them. We have reference to the commercial kind, well managed; but it can not be done with the hit-or-miss scrub kind. They are too much like the Irishman's flea, you get your finger on them and they are not there.

GRANT PARK COTTAGE

The scarcity of good homes for sale in the Grant Park section is a well-known fact. A great many subdivisions have been made beyond Grant Park to meet the demand for this very desirable section.

When a good home on a good street near Grant Park is offered for sale, it is usually sold right away. We have had listed with us for sale a 7-room cottage at 45 Park Avenue, on a lot 50 by 200 feet. The lot is elevated, has plenty of trees and faces east. The cottage is well built and has all conveniences. This place is located near several churches, public schools and is on one of the few double car-tracked streets in the Grant Park section. Price, $4,750. Very reasonable terms.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Wide Range Is Shown In Realty Transfers

Announcements Include $85,750 Exchange, Sales of Land Lots in Fulton and DeKalb, Peachtree Buys.

An exchange involving 42 North Side city lots, a 1,750-acre farm in South Georgia and $85,750 in money, the purchase of 206 1-4 acres in North Fulton County and 203 acres in DeKalb, a transfer of business property at Buckhead and announcement of a $25,000 building on South Forsyth Street featured Friday's real estate news.

John H. Maddox, of the Smith & Ewing real estate agency, effected an exchange of properties between Dr. Joel T. Daves, of that agency, and George L. Patterson, of Valdosta, whereby the former gave 42 residence lots, beginning at the southeast corner of State and West Tenth Streets, and valued at $42,000, for a 1,750-acre farm in Lowndes County, valued at $43,700, or $25 an acre, and paid the differences, $1,750, in cash.

The North Side lots comprise about four blocks and front on Tenth, Eighth and State Streets, Peachtree Place and Ridge Avenue. Mr. Patterson has placed them with Mr. Maddox for resale, and Dr. Daves will cut his South Georgia farm into 100-acre tracts and offer them to immigrants. The sale indicates that South Georgians are willing to trust Atlanta real estate investments, and that, on the other hand, Atlantans recognize the opportunity in South Georgia colonization.

North Fulton Acreage Bought.

C. C. Foster and S. Y. Stribling, of Cobb County, and G. B. Thomason, of Jeff Davis, have sold to Morris Brandon and Ben J. Conyers three separate acreage tracts, aggregating 206 1-2 acres, in the upper portion of North Fulton County, north of Oak Grove, for $10,312, or at the rate of $50 an acre. This is in land lots 86 and 127 of the Seventeenth District, and is known as lots 1, 2 and 3 of the William E. Brightwell subdivision. A parcel 14 by 16 feet in lot 1 was reserved.

DeKalb Acreage Transfer.

Another large acreage deal has been consummated. Mrs. S. E. L. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to M. W. Reid and others, executors of the estate of the late J. D. Kilpatrick, 45 acres on the east side of land lot 15, Seventeenth District, and also 40 acres in DeKalb County; and W. T. Ivey, of DeKalb, has sold to same 23 acres in land lot 15, on the north line of said land lot 799 feet west of the east line thereof, and 54 acres in the southeast corner of land lot 16, and 46 acres in DeKalb County.

The total is 203 acres. That conveyed by Mrs. Ivey was sold for $3,800, and that by Mr. Ivey, $5,800.

Buckhead Transfer.

John G. Burckhardt has conveyed to B. F. and A. C. Burdett the triangle at the intersection of the Peachtree and Roswell Roads, for $15,000. The transaction was handled by George P. Moore and is understood to have been in the nature of a swap.

The frontage on Peachtree is 152 feet, on Roswell Road 150 and the base line is 72. Mr. Burckhardt bought this some months ago from Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley for about $12,000.

To Erect $25,000 Building.

There will be no nine-story business building for the present on the property of the D. Greenfield estate on South Forsyth Street, between Mitchell and Hunter Streets. A change of plans calls for a one-story and basement building to cost $25,000. Permit to build was issued Friday by Building Inspector Ed R. Hays.

The building has a foundation for nine stories, however, and it is probable that the estate will add to it later. Moise DeLeon is the contractor.

Interesting Loan Deed.

Joseph Loewus has given a loan deed to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Massachusetts for $37,500, borrowed on the Bass Dry Goods Company property at 18 West Mitchell Street, 48 1-2x140 feet. The Bass concern adjoins the McCroskey property at the northwest corner and was bought from the D. Greenfield estate some months ago by Mr. Loewus.

Lot Sales Total $9,000.

Fitzhugh Knox has announced the sale of six residence lots in his subdivision on South Moreland Avenue at an aggregate of $9,000. These sales have taken place since Mr. Knox started his fourteen bungalows in this section. The subdivision originally contained 41 lots, all but five of which have been sold.

Morris Brandon Sells.

J. B. Thompson has bought from Morris Brandon and others through the Smith & Ewing Real Estate Agency the northeast corner of Pine and Lovejoy Streets for $1,900 cash.

To Sell at Courthouse.

The Greene Realty Company will sell before the courthouse door Tuesday, August 5, the southwest corner of East Fair and Fraser Streets, 68 by 90 feet, for the estate of the late Dominico Gussi. The terms will be half cash and one and two years.

Not in Druid Hills.

In an account Thursday of the sale of 510 Briarcliff Road it was stated that this property was in Druid Hills. Briarcliff Road is in the Druid Hills section, but not in Druid Hills proper.

Buy on Peachtree.

Mrs. R. G. Warner has given E. A. Bancker, Jr., a warranty deed on a Peachtree property 162 feet north of Sixteenth Street for $10,500, 50 by 290 feet, this being lot 11, block 3, of Ansley Park, and Mr. Bancker has placed a $10,000 loan on it through the Home Life Insurance Company of New York. The place is described as 1096 Peachtree.

Interest in Electric Line.

A meeting of people interested in the proposed electric trunk line from Anderson, S. C., to Atlanta is expected to be called soon by the officials of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which body has received overtures from the Anderson Chamber. This road would connect up Atlanta with Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Anderson and Norfolk, if the plans of the Duke interests and the Anderson officials are carried out.

Real estate men are watching this development because of its possibilities in opening up new territory to the north of Atlanta and bringing in settlers from the other States.

Finish Peachtree in Three Weeks.

Repairs to Peachtree will be completed within three weeks, according to a statement of Shelby Smith, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. The convicts have reached Peachtree Creek on their southward tour from Buckhead and have turned back to complete that part of the job. After finishing both sides they will begin at Peachtree Creek and work southward.

Chairman Smith declared that the machines now being used are capable of doing the work of 100 men, and that another labor-saving device, in the shape of a pulverizer, had been bought to break up the soil and road material. Hand labor is now being employed to do the pulverizing, and the work is necessarily slow.

Completing Healey Steel.

United States flags have been run up on the steel frame of the Healey Building, denoting that the first girders of the sixteenth and last above-ground story have been installed. This is a favorite performance among construction gangs—to hold an informal celebration when the last floor is reached.

Not only is the Healey Building going up fast in steel, but Stone Mountain granite has made its appearance at the base and soon will rise above the fences that inclose the structure. It will go 15 feet, where terra cotta will begin. Two stories are under ground.

William T. Healey, the owner, declares that although the building was two months late in starting, he is satisfied with the progress made.

Hurt Building's Arcade.

The unique entrance arcade of the Hurt Building is rapidly taking place. This is to be two stories high and is located in the apex of the triangular lot on which the structure stands, at the junction of Edgewood Avenue and Exchange Place. Handsome stone slabs are being put in place around the sides of the arcade. As for the rest of the building, it is progressing nicely. The exterior is almost completed, and soon the workmen will go inside to put on finishing touches.

Although the Hurt Building is not due to be opened before October 1, it is declared that leases have been signed for most of the space and that there will be no trouble filling the structure. The same is true of the Healey Building, which will not be completed until some time after January 1, 1914.

Walk Slowly, Keep Your Temper, Trust in Divine Justice---

(Copyright, 1913.)

The weather is about what it always has been at this time of year—do not get excited about it.

Don't get excited about anything if you can help it.

Remember that excitement makes the heart beat, and the heart beating faster makes you hotter, more tired, less able to stand the heat.

Remember that the most wonderful thing in nature is the fact that man living on the crust of this earth, with melted stone and metals under his feet, and absolute zero in the atmosphere a few miles above him, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE TEMPERATURE INSIDE OF HIS OWN BODY IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF NINETY-EIGHT YEAR IN AND OUT, SUMMER AND WINTER.

But always that wonderful machine inside the body keeps the blood and the tissues of the body at a temperature just below one hundred degrees.

If the temperature goes up five or six degrees you die. And if it goes down a few degrees you are dead.

With heat inconceivable below our feet, occasionally spouting out through the tops of volcanoes, and with cold we cannot even imagine in the empty space above our heads just outside our warm, damp atmosphere, we little earthly microbes live miraculously kept forever at just the temperature that we need.

Think of yourself as a wonderful machine, planned by Nature with your extraordinary vaso-motor system always working and your heart and your nerves more wonderful than any machine.

Make up your mind to use your brain to help that machine to keep the temperature at the right point.

In hot weather, so called, begin first of all by remembering that it is much hotter semewhere else.

Remember also that others suffer as you do not suffer.

We are such selfish animals that it makes us cool at once to think of somebody or to see somebody a great deal hotter.

Some genius has written a beautiful poem about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three distinguished gentlemen who walked up and down in the fiery furnace.

Take those gentlemen as models in these days.

Do no hurry—they walked up and down in the furnace very slowly, showing off and proving that there was something in what they had said about their particular religious belief.

Do not get angry, do not curse, do not drink strong drinks—Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego used no strong language and drank no whisky while in the fiery furnace. If they had done either they would probably have been handed down to history as a small shovelful of ashes instead of being handed down as very great heroes.

Walking slowly when you can do so just as well as not is very important. Forget for the moment that you are the hustling citizen of a hustling community, give yourself extra time to catch your train, to get to your office, to get dressed, move slowly, LET THE HEART REST IN HOT WEATHER.

And above all things, don't deceive yourself with the idea that one OUGHT NOT TO WORK IN HOT WEATHER.

Hot weather is just the time for work, if you work sensibly and take care of yourself sensibly.

Drink water not too cold, plenty of it. A lump of sugar in a glass of water, or a little lemon juice, is better than pure water.

Wear everything light AND LOOSE.

Nothing tight around neck. A tight collar is as harmful in hot weather as would be a hot water bag at your feet.

Circulation of the blood inside of your body is as important as circulation of the air around the outside.

Have your collar loose, your clothing loose.

Don't have a tight belt around your waist. If you happen to be thin and can hang the belt on the bones of your hips, all right. Then wear a belt.

But if you are the average American business man, with the back of your head sticking out to show energy and the front of your stomach sticking out to show foolish living, DON'T TRY TO STRAP A BELT AROUND THAT POOR STOMACH SO TIGHTLY AS TO HOLD UP YOUR TROUSERS. You can't do it without hurting everything inside of the stomach. And YOU ARE THE STUFF INSIDE OF THAT STOMACH.

Think slowly, talk slowly, move slowly. Open all the windows. Don't be afraid of a draught.

Bathe twice a day if you can and once a day anyhow.

Think of the negro in the Gabboon region who is standing a temperature of 140, think of the seal and walrus at the North Pole on a block of ice.

Keep your temper and you will keep your health. Don't let the sun strike your bare head.

Keep the sunlight away from the baby, especially out of its eyes.

Stop a Moment! Are You a Good Neighbor?

Be a Good Neighbor in Trouble, but Don't Wait Until Then To Be One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

ARE you a good neighbor?

What is a good neighbor?

Perhaps you are a royal good chum with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice.

That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime.

If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments, you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor, you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender, "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some flaw to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will rush to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulation in his happiness.

This is admirable in a way, yet not an altogether admirable quality.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love.

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrows in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have previously in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than one who is up, if you have not nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or death knocks at a man's door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow after death and disease, and not with the song birds who sing him awake in the sunlit mornings of summer.

A Good Neighbor.

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never fawns; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his comrades; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

The Woman With Empty Hands

A Woman's Greatest Need Is To Be Needed—To Be Consciously a Necessity to Something or Somebody. Her Moral Selfhood Protests Against Empty Hands.

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN

By REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

Pastor Second Baptist Church

THE enlargement of the field of opportunity for women is demanded in the name of Womanhood and not in the interests of a class of women, nor for the individual woman.

The true approach, therefore, for understanding the woman movement is the outlook upon the situation of the sex wholesale—her general status in the modern world. This is a view both narrow and broad, because comprehensive.

It is narrow relating to her single distinction of sex unity and broad with reference to her numerical vastness and her almost universal status of sex subjection.

The woman movement becomes a great moral cause when it is viewed as a challenge in behalf of more than half the human race.

The One Woman.

But this broad outlook upon the subject is precisely the view the average man, who is in opposition to the woman movement, refuses to take.

He thinks he knows all about women, because he knows something about one woman.

He judges the situation of all women by the situation of the one woman whose status is perfectly satisfactory to him.

With respect to her, and with respect to any individual woman in distress, his sympathy is quick and sufficient. Given a concrete case for appeal to him, her complaint becomes his complaint.

If she should happen to be his own daughter who aspires to large life and usefulness, the plea is irresistible—she shall have in the very righteousness of things the fair field and the free opportunity to be all that is in her nature to be.

Perhaps then it may appeal to the average man to consider a feature of the woman movement from this lesser standpoint—the individual fact of "The Woman With Empty Hands."

A Pathetic Commonplace.

Do we observe with understanding the large number of women from whom life has receded and whose contact with life is so slight as to make them feel they are in a world which has no use for them?

Think over the women you know and find one of this class and mark the singular pathos of her experience. Hers is no rare tragedy. She stands for a well-defined strata of population.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of widows whose bereavement sorest is not of food and clothes, but of touch with the world. Her husband and his life was her channel and medium of self-expression.

She stands by the grave as an artist gazing on his broken violin—heart and hands empty. The famous picture of Hope—a woman surmounting the globe, with only one string of her lyre left, which she plays with bowed head—is too hopeful to illustrate the experience of many women who have not so much as one string left to play on.

There are thousands and tens of thousands of women matrimonially superfluous. In the State of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 more women of marriageable age than men.

In the strange mix-up we call Society there are thousands and tens of thousands of women disappointed of girlish ambitions in the misadventures of love. They may have homes for shelter, but a woman wants more than a home.

Why Women Work.

A house is not shelter enough for a woman's life. Ofttimes she has not so much as the shelter of a home, and there is the world. Every fiber of her being challenges it for a chance to wreak her life upon it and win its guerdon-charm against pathetic uselessness.

Now, brave gentlemen, smash your fists on the table and denounce the woman movement which voices the resolution to make it fair for "The Woman With Empty Hands" to vent her life outside the traditional woman's sphere.

The entrance of great multitudes of women into the working world, the educational world, the world of art and literature has been the relief of the enormous pressure of that resolution. It is a sign—but only one—of the modern woman movement.

Who supposes that the streets of our cities are full of women going to stores and offices and factories unless there were some driving necessity in it. The necessity is not always the need for money only, but the deeper passion of women for the fulfillment of their lives in useful labor.

The Cry From Prison.

Woman is by nature an individualist. Her primary instincts are personal. She meets her world always in terms of "you and me." The ideals of personal ministry primarily determine her satisfactions of life.

A woman's greatest conscious need is to be needed—to be a necessity to something—somebody—a cause—a world. Her moral selfhood revolts against isolation. The tendency of civilization more and more to limit her sphere of opportunity is intensely the explanation of the woman movement.

Like the walls of the French prison, which drew together pitilessly, the walls of modern life have narrowed upon woman.

She is making her cry and it is not unnatural that there should be a note of defiance in it, nor strange that men who do not understand should call it unwomanly. The cry is heard. That is important.

If you reply that "The Woman With Empty Hands" may find her opportunity in the Church, the answer is, Good—the woman has a challenge for the Church also.

THE THIEF

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

I SAW them taking him away;
The old judge sentenced him to-day—
Ten years behind the walls of gray.

He did not shudder and implore,
As he had shuddered years before;
He snarled and spat upon the floor.

The prison with its shadows grim
Had been a sort of home for him
Since he was young and starved and slim.

He cursed the great, the roaring town,
Where all he looked for was a frown.
He cursed the hounds who ran him down.

Ten years to mutter in a cell:
Ten years of stripes; ten years of hell—
And yet he whispered "It is well!"

Perchance he had an inkling dim
That in some world less gray and grim
Two thieves would intercede for him.
