TECHNICALITY DELAYS FINAL TARIFF ACTION

Democrats Seek to Avoid Going on Record on Scientific Non-Partisan Commission.

WHAT MEASURE PROVIDES Repeals Duties of the Payne Act and Provides for Levying Tax on Incomes.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The final roll call on the tariff bill will not be held today until the speaker disposes of a lengthy point of order against the Republican motion to reconvene the bill.

The speaker's order is designed to avoid putting the Democrats on record on the question of the creation of a scientific non-partisan tariff commission.

The Underwood tariff measure repeals the duties of the Payne act, which was passed by a Republican Congress in 1906. It provides for an income tax on all incomes over $4,000 a year.

Manufacturers Meet To Fight Tariff Bill. WASHINGTON, May 8.—A conference of manufacturers and producers called by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association met here today to talk over the tariff situation and formulate plans for presenting formal amendments when the Senate considers the Underwood bill.

JAP DIPLOMAT TAKES PROTEST TO BRYAN HOME

Ambassador Shatters All Court Crowds in Small, Smoke-Filled Room Breathlessly Follows the Phagan Slaying Inquiry.

SECRETARY SEES WILSON FATHER WEEPS SILENTLY Jurors, Officials and Detectives Manifest Intense Interest in Replies of Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Dismissing the customary usage of diplomatic etiquette which provides that representatives of foreign powers shall call upon the Secretary of State at his office, Viscount Okuma, Japanese Ambassador, today visited Secretary Bryan at the latter's residence, and there presented to him a formal protest from Tokyo against the passage of the Webb alien law in California.

The Secretary for State returned from California shortly before noon, 10:45 minutes after he had arrived at his upstairs residence the Japanese Ambassador called and asked to see Mr. Bryan.

The representatives of the Washington and the Tokyo Governments were seated together for more than an hour, and while neither would discuss the interview, it became known that the Japanese protest against the alien land laws had been made.

The Japanese representative also was assured that everything possible will be done from Washington to prevent the enactment of any law contrary to the treaty obligations of the United States, even were it necessary to carry the matter to the Supreme Court.

Secretary of State Bryan, fresh from his trip to California, where he said in vain against the passage of the Webb alien law bill, conferred with President Wilson today over the international aspect of the matter.

The Secretary informed the President that he does not think there is any use in appealing to Governor Johnson not to sign the bill or in depending upon a referendum to nullify its provisions.

Quinn's Story Unchanged. An effort was made without avail to break down the story of Lemmie Quinn that he was at the factory and talked to Frank between 10:10 and 11:10 the Saturday afternoon of the tragedy.

Quinn absolutely refused to admit that he had made a statement of the sort. He supported Frank's testimony of last Monday by insisting that he visited the factory for a few minutes and went into Frank's office.

Mrs. Phagan, the stenographer who was at the factory office Saturday until noon, was another of the witnesses called to the stand during the "forenoon." She testified as to Frank's movements while she was there.

Frank was brought into the Commission's Room in the police station before the inquest began. He later was excused and Rogers called.

The factory superintendent was called, but when called, he was excused. He was later questioned by a few words to his assistant, Luther Z. Rosser, and excused.

NEW EVIDENCE IN PHAGAN CASE NOT YET BROUGHT OUT, BUT CAREFULLY FOR FACTS

He asked if anything had happened at the factory and when Black did not reply he asked if the watchman had found anything unusual. Black did not answer then, and he asked if the watchman had called him and when he did not answer he said that he had not seen anything.

Q. What did you talk about on the way to town? A. Black asked him if he knew Mary Phagan and he asked if she worked at the factory. Black did not know whether he knew her or not.

GRAND JURY TO SIFT THE EVIDENCE IN THE PHAGAN CASE WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

LATE this afternoon the police and detectives engaged on the Phagan case said they were satisfied with the progress being made before the Coroner's Jury.

Apparently all other clues have been abandoned, and the present line of police activity would seem to center around Lee and Frank. Whatever evidence the police have they refuse to disclose.

Stenographer in Factory Office on Witness Stand

INQUEST SCENE IS DRAMATIC IN ITS TENSENESS

Crowd in, Small, Smoke-Filled Room Breathlessly Follows the Phagan Slaying Inquiry.

In a small, crowded and smoke-filled room at police headquarters, Coroner Doneho on Thursday morning began what it is thought will be the investigation of the jury inquest to inquire into the death of Max Phagan, strangled to death in the basement of the National Paper Factory April 21.

The inquest was tense and dramatic with possibilities. The fact that the investigation of the case is now being treated as a close, coupled with the admissions of officials that no and important evidence would develop from the examination of the witnesses to-day, brought out a large and excited crowd.

At 10 o'clock of the long table, beset with books and typewriters, sat Coroner Doneho, flanked on each side by members of the jury. At the foot of the table sat the newspaper reporters and the official stenographer, four in number. Facing Coroner Doneho and the jury sat the witnesses. Ranged along the wall were curious spectators, relatives of the dead girl and friends of the witnesses. Before the inquest was called every available chair in the room was taken, and the court was crowded to the window ledges.

The attorneys for Phagan, Frank Pinkerton, James H. Gowan and Tom Dorsey sat behind Coroner Doneho, and took an active part in the questioning of the witnesses. While Mr. Dorsey asked no questions himself, several times he conferred with the other attorneys. One of the attorneys, Attorney Luther Ross, also occupied a place on the witness stand. He interested in the proceedings of the inquest. He did not object to any of the questions asked by the witnesses, but he had an eye on the Coroner as he sat on the witness stand.

Phagan, who was called first, testified that he was with the witnesses at the time of the murder.

The other witnesses were Detective H. C. Black, in charge of the city investigating squad; Detective Jerome; and Detective Harry Scott of the Pinkertons. All of the officers paid close attention to the examination of the witnesses. To the left of the Coroner sat Dr. J. W. Hurt, County Physician, who examined the body, and whose testimony is awaited with considerable interest by a Catholic figure.

J. W. Coleman, father of the dead girl, stood against the wall to the right of Coroner Doneho, a pallid figure in his array.

Mr. Coleman evinced keen interest in what was transpiring. He kept his eye fixed constantly on the witness who sat at the foot of the long table, and his eyes filled with tears as the tragic details of the ending of the child's body were related.

The attitudes of the individual members of the jury showed their realization of the responsibility that rests upon them. Each of the six questions were asked by the Coroner, but now and then a juror would interrupt to ask the witness to make some point clearer.

The air of tense eagerness with which the jurors awaited the replies of the witnesses was communicated to those who only interest in the case was the satisfaction of curiosity.

Crowd Tense and Quiet.

The crowd in the room was one of the quietest that has ever attended a session of the inquest. Save for the occasional remark of a juror or the dragging of a chair across the floor, there was not a word or a sound on the stand more than an hour.

One of the witnesses brought in was subjected to a close examination by the jury. "Blood" Rogers, one of the witnesses, was asked by the Coroner to stand on the stand more than an hour.

LEO FRANK'S AGAIN QUIZZED BY COOPER

New Lee Called to Stand for Further Examination—Coroner Will Put Case in Hands of Jury by 7 o'Clock, It is Predicted.

Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Penitentiary, and New Lee, night watchman, both of whom are being held in connection with inquiry into the death of Mary Phagan, were recalled to the witness stand late Thursday afternoon at the inquest.

Frank was given a more searching examination as to movements on the day of the tragedy than he underwent his first day on the stand and an apparent endeavor was made to show that he was not at home at the times he had stated in his previous testimony.

Frank, however, answered the questions readily and Coroner Doneho was not able to trip him.

In Frank's previous testimony he failed to mention several persons who were at his home when he said he was there Saturday night. But when he was questioned in regard to this point Thursday afternoon he gave their names at once.

NEW LEE PROCEEDED FRANK ON THE STAND.

Lee's testimony was in regard to the private conversation he had with Frank when Lee was first arrested. He declared that Frank had told him that they would "both go to hell" if they were not careful, but the effect of this testimony was largely nullified by Frank's earlier statement that the remark or a remark to the same effect was suggested by one of the detectives in the hope of getting some information from the night watchman.

The morning session was not profligate. Nothing of consequence was developed.

Miss Hattie Hall and Herbert Schiff, chief clerk in the penitentiary, were the first witnesses at the afternoon session.

Coroner Doneho called for Lee immediately after Detective John Black had testified, supplementing the important testimony given by Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons.

W. W. ("Boots") Rogers, former county policeman, and Lemmie Cole, foreman in the tipping department at the National Penitentiary, were the principal witnesses this morning. Neither gave testimony that was materially damaging to either Leo M. Frank or New Lee, who are being held in connection with the crime.

Rogers was questioned closely as to the events of the morning the crime was discovered, and told that he had made a statement of the sort. He supported Frank's testimony at a Monday by testifying that he visited the factory for five minutes and went into Frank's office.

Miss Hattie Hall, the stenographer who was at the factory office Saturday night, was another of the witnesses called to the stand during the forenoon. She testified as to Frank's movements while she was there.

Frank Pale, but Calm.

Frank was brought into the Commission's Room in the police station before the inquest began, but later was accused and Rogers called. The factory superintendent was pale but calm and collected. He whispered a few words to his counsel, Luther Z. Rogers, and looked fairly at a public trial, but said nothing. He appeared to know the state of the days since he had been arrested.

He was not admitted to the room at the beginning of the hearing, but was detained in a nearby office. The night watchman seemed almost indifferently at the hearing.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The directors of the Philadelphia-Chicago Overland Company paid Andreas Dippel $25,000 cash to stay out of grand jury for this city and Chicago for the next three years.

This represents but a part of the settlement with the former general manager, but what more he received in the form of agreement could not be learned. Charles Champani admitted that Mr. Dippel had received the $25,000.

"See is Just Like Hammerstein," Said Champani, who Succeeded Him.

GRAND JURY TO SIFT THE EVIDENCE IN THE PHAGAN CASE WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

THEY this afternoon—the police and detectives engaged on the Phagan case said they were satisfied with the progress being made before the Coroner's Jury. Apparently all other clews have been abandoned and the present line of police activity would seem to center around Lee and Frank. Whatever evidence the police have they refuse to disclose. The entire mystery will be taken up by the Grand Jury within the next few days.

Frank of Nervous Nature; Says Superintendent Aide

The inquest was resumed at 2:30 P. M. at a small crowd of spectators. Miss Hattie Hill, stenographer for the Phagan Company, was called. She was asked to read a letter connected with the company since December 4. From a pile of papers taken from the factory records, she read a letter written by herself. She said she did not think she could identify Frank's handwriting. Miss Hill selected eight letters that she had written. She said she didn't know how long it had taken her to write the letters. She said she didn't look at the 24th book and the book containing the musical notes and said there was nothing in them she had done on April 23. Couldn't identify writing. Coroner Denboch did not explain the interrogation of the witness along these lines. He appeared very anxious to know just what work she had done on the day of the murder, and instructed her to go to the factory and identify her own writing. Several questions were asked her regarding the handwriting of Frank. She said she could not identify it. She said she had seen Frank at the factory on the day of the murder. She said she had seen him at the factory on the day of the murder. She said she had seen him at the factory on the day of the murder.

Testimony at Early Session of Phagan Inquest

Rogers Tells What Police Found at the Factory

Frank's Stenographer and Girl Employee of Pencil Company Also on Stand

Following is the testimony of the party witnesses at the Phagan inquest today:

W. W. Rogers was the first witness. He lives at 104 McDonough road, and operates an automobile for himself. He said he took a party of officers to the National Peace bureau meeting, April 27.

You just when the stenographer and office boy left at 11 o'clock and she came in here—let me see, I can tell you the exact time—let me see, Frank looked around and asked if anyone had found the envelope; that it must be around there somewhere.

Q. Did you take Frank into the basement?—A. Yes, we went down. Q. Did he say anything about the envelope being the envelope?—A. Yes, he was asked if the negro ever ran in, he said no. Q. Had you noticed the elevator, he said, except when we first went into the basement. Q. Where was it?—A. Above us.

Who telephoned Frank at the murder?—A. Starobin hired him and asked him to come to the factory. How long were you in the plant before you were let in?—A. About three or four minutes. Q. Did you ever hear him coming?—A. I saw him coming down the stairs with a suitcase. Q. What did he say?—A. She's in the basement, white folks. Q. Was he excited?—A. No, he answered questions calmly. Q. What did he say when you went downstairs?—A. He thought a first time something the boys had placed there in the basement. Q. How did you find it?—A. On the floor. Q. Do you remember any other questions asked him?—A. Yes, but he and Anderson after that were placed under arrest. A. No one else. Q. Where did they go?—A. Into office where Anderson attempted to get Frank over the phone. Q. Was Leo excited then?—A. No, he looked into the place for her hat and asked when she came back and what she did. When she came back, she said she had a suitcase. I brought her to town about 12:30. Q. Did you ever get in touch with the young lady?—A. I saw her in the street called Frank and she said, "That was a little after 8." I saw him in the street. Q. How did you find it?—A. On the floor. Q. Do you remember any other questions asked him?—A. Yes, but he and Anderson after that were placed under arrest. A. No one else.

Boots Rogers, former county policeman who drove the police to the pencil factory where the first news of the Phagan slaying reached headquarters.

Q. Did you inspect the shaft then?—A. Yes, I did. Q. Did you see anything?—A. No, but I saw a hole in the wall. Q. Was anything found there?—A. Yes, a bullet. Q. Did you make a close inspection when Frank went into the basement?—A. No, I did not. Q. When did you see the parcel hat and shoe?—A. I did not see them until nearly 10 o'clock. The officers had them upstairs. Q. Did Frank inspect the rest of the building?—A. Yes, and Chief Landford and Frank, with several officers, went to the other floors and left the negro with me. Q. Did Frank come back into the office?—A. Yes, he came in twice while I was there with the negro. He spoke to me once, shook his head and said "Too bad." Q. Did you notice the clock?—A. Yes, Frank and Darley were out there by the clock and Frank said "I saw a hole better check the clock." He opened it, took out the slip and placed it by the clock while he went into the office to get another slip. He then called to one of us and had the lever up and drew a pencil sticking in the hole. Frank asked Leo what the pencil was doing there. Leo said that it had been there for some time. Q. How did you find it?—A. On the floor. Q. How do you know he was nervous?—A. By the way he acted. He asked if anything had happened at the factory. I replied that I had not. He replied that if the watchman had found anything unusual. Black did not know whether he had or not. Q. Where did you go?—A. To the undertaking establishment. Q. Did Frank see the body?—A. No. Q. Where did he go?—A. When we went into the room and Frank returned the child's head and Frank telephoned in a call. Q. Was Frank trembling?—A. I did not notice that he was. Q. What questions were asked?—A. He asked the girl's name and told him Mary Phagan and asked if he knew her. He said he would have to look on the payroll to find out. We went around to the factory. He opened the safe and got out his book. Q. Who was in the factory?—A. Several officers and Mr. Darley, the foreman, went in just ahead of us. Q. What did you see?—A. I saw a man who looked like Leo. Q. What did you see?—A. He looked in his book, then his finger down a column and said: "Yes, she was here." Then he said: "Yes, she was dead yesterday morning."

WHITEHALL STREET GRADING ASSURED CLOSING OF SHOPS

Committee of Property Owners Declares Opposition to Plan Is Fast Vagabonding.
Opposition to grading Whitehall Street between Trinity Avenue and Forsyth Street is fast vanishing and the success of the big undertaking is now assured, according to a report from the committee of property owners.
Robert R. Olin, chairman, who with others has made an inventory of the street, said Thursday: "We now have everything in good shape for the grading of Whitehall Street. It is certain that the plan will be carried out in full because the plan is not only soundly understood but is fast disappearing."

A Modern Invention— A Recipe for Happiness

Would you like my recipe for happiness here it is:
When weary, when anxious, when almost desperate because of the trials of life, I do not sit down and bewail my fate—I go to a morning picture show.
Because I often teach the little ones of anxiety and fear, to the most efficient remedy I have grown gradually and unconsciously to be quite a critic. It has become a real responsibility for me, I feel, if I say that a certain picture show is good, that a certain number of my friends immediately plan to visit it.

Inquest Dramatic In Intensity
 Crowd Jams Small, Smoky Room
 Slain Girl's Father Weeps Softly

Miss Mattie Hall, Superintendent Leo M. Frank's stenographer, who testified to-day at the Phagan inquest.

black, in charge of the city investigating corps; Detective J. J. Quinn, and Detective Harry Scott of the Pinkerton Agency, were present. All of the officers paid close attention to the examination of the witness. To the left of the Coroner sat Dr. Z. W. Kerr, County Physician, who examined the body, and whose testimony is awaited with considerable curiosity. The attitude of the individual members of the jury showed their realization of the responsibility that rested upon them. Each of the six sat with his arms on the table, paying the closest attention to the statements of the witnesses. Most of the questions were asked by the Coroner, but now and then a juror would interrupt to ask the witness to make some point clearer. The six of intense eagerness with which the jurors awaited the replies of the witnesses was communicated to those who only interest in the case was the satisfaction of curiosity.

THE WEATHER
 Forecast—Fair, not quite so warm Thursday; Friday, probably fair.

PHAGAN INQUEST IS NEAR END; LIKELY TO GO TO JURY BY 7 P.M.

Witnesses Are Quizzed in Detail, but Nothing Important Brought Out. Officials Say They Are Satisfied With Case as It Is Being Developed.

Leo M. Frank was ready to take the witness stand in the Phagan case when the Coroner continued the afternoon session on Thursday. The morning session was not profligate. Nothing of consequence was developed. Miss Mattie Hall and Herbert Schiff, chief clerk in the pencil factory, were the first witnesses at the afternoon session. Newt Lee, the night watchman, was to follow Frank on the stand, and officials asserted that Lee would doubtless begin his concluding testimony by 4 o'clock.

It was expected that not more than six witnesses would be put up, the authorities declared, and that the inquest would be concluded before night. The case will probably be placed in the hands of the Coroner's jury for a verdict by 7 o'clock.

Testimony along a new line will be given, it is understood, by Miss Nellie Wood, 8 Corput Street, Miss Nellie Pettis, 9 Olive Street, and Mrs. Lillie Pettis, 2 Oliver Street. All three young women will assert that Frank sought to treat them in a familiar manner. Another witness, a young woman, whose name the authorities refuse to divulge, will conclude the testimony. She is sick, it is asserted, but will be present with her physician.

Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, took the stand at 4:10 o'clock. Coroner Donohoe called for Leo immediately after Detective John Black had testified, supplementing the important testimony given by Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons.

W. W. ("Boots") Rogers, former county policeman, and Lemmie Quinn, foreman in the typing department at the National Pencil Factory, were the principal witnesses this morning. Neither gave testimony that was materially damaging to either Leo M. Frank or Newt Lee, who are being held in connection with this crime.

Rogers was questioned closely in five events of the morning the crime was discovered, and told of taking the officers to the scene in his automobile. Beyond his belief that Frank appeared nervous when he was visited at his home by the detectives, Rogers had no information that appeared to point suspicion in one direction more than another.

He was sure, however, that the time clock tape on which Newt Lee, the night watchman, registered his half-hour rounds of the factory had no "misses" when it was taken from the clock by Frank that morning. Three misses were found on a tape subsequently brought to Police Headquarters.

Frank of Nervous Nature; Says Superintendent Aide
 The inquest was resumed at 3:45. Only a small crowd was present. Miss Mattie Hall, stenographer for the Pencil Company, was called. Coroner Donohoe did not expiate his interrogation of the witness along these lines. He appeared very anxious to know just what work she had done on the day of the murder. From a pile of papers taken from the factory records, Miss Hall selected a number that she was written by herself. She said she did not know how long it had taken her to write the letter.

Miss Hall looked at the cash book and the book containing the financial sheets and said there she testified that she had done so on April 11.

GRAND JURY TO SIFT THE EVIDENCE IN THE PHAGAN CASE WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

ALTHOUGH this afternoon the police and 'detectives engaged' on the Phagan case said they were satisfied with the progress being made before the coroner's jury. Apparently all other clues have been abandoned, and the present line of police activity would seem to center around Lee and Frank. Whatever evidence the police have they refuse to disclose. The entire mystery will be taken up by the Grand Jury within the next few days.

ANOTHER CLUE IN PHAGAN CASE IS WORTHLESS

Pinkertons Find No Foundation for Report of Lunch Room Halper's Disappearance. Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, said Thursday that the information obtained by his agency to the effect that a Greek helper in a restaurant had disappeared following the killing of Mary Phagan had proved baseless so far as he was able to determine. "It was a blind alley," he said. "We were unable to find that any one was missing from that restaurant. Neither were we able to locate the supposedly missing person in Amphibious Ala., where our information said he was."

Pinkerton Detective Tells of Call From Factory Head

Harry Scott, the Pinkerton detective who has been working on the case since the day of the crime, took the stand when Behlitz concluded his testimony. Scott testified that Frank called him up Sunday afternoon before he was any talk of his arrest and asked the Pinkertons to begin work on the case and find the slayer. Scott testified as follows: Q. How are you interested in the Phagan case? A. I was retained by the National Penny Company to find the guilty man. Q. Who retained you? A. I was retained by a call from Mr. Frank and he told me he knew about the case. Q. Where did Frank talk to you?

A. Mr. Frank, Mr. Dallen, Mr. Behlitz and I went into the private office. Q. What did Frank say? A. He said: "I guess you have read of the crime. We feel an interest in the matter and desire to retain the Pinkertons and try to locate the murderer." Q. Tell me it is supposed. Q. What else did he say? A. He said he had been down to the police headquarters, and that Mr. Hlack seemed to suspect him of the crime. He told me of his movements on the day of the crime. He told me that about 12:30 Mary Phagan came to the factory. He told me that he saw her go into the building and saw Mr. Frank talking to Harry Behlitz and Arthur White. He said he left at 1:30 and about 1:40, leaving him alone in the building. New Lee reported at 2:15 that he saw Mr. Frank in the building about 8:15, and on the way out saw New Lee talking to Mr. Frank. Mr. Frank allowed that to go on and called Lee to go with him. He said he became worried over the presence of Frank. Frank called Lee and called Lee to go with him. Frank called Lee and called Lee to go with him. Frank called Lee and called Lee to go with him.
