HANG THE GUILTY MAN SAYS FRANK; CONLEY ADG'S PART IN KILLING

"I don't know who is guilty, but I do know that the man I saw in the eye and talked to like an innocent man, who I saw on the day of the prison Friday, Mangum said this was the only statement or reference to the crime Frank had made since he had been in the Tower. He said Frank looked him squarely in the eye and talked like an innocent man." Entire satisfaction with the present status of the Phagan case was expressed by Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford this afternoon.

"I am thoroughly content with the results of our work," said Lanford. "It is now a question for the jury to decide as to whether Leo M. Frank or Jim committed the killing."

As a sensational climax to the confession of his part of the Mary Phagan tragedy, Jim Conley, negro sweeper, was taken to the National coal factory Friday afternoon, where he enacted by movement every detail of the events that took place in the building of mystery after the death of the little girl.

With the detectives noting every sentence that fell from the ready lips of the negro, Conley started from the exact point at the top of the stairs on the second floor where he says Leo Frank met him, and went through the grim drama with a realism that convinced all who listened and watched that he at least was telling the whole truth.

"He reproduced the conversation that passed between him and Frank," he lay down full length at the rear of the metal room to show precisely how the body of the little girl lay when he first saw her. He lay partly on the floor, with his right leg slightly drawn up, to portray the position of the dead girl when he first saw her as he was led to the rear of the building, as he says, by Leo Frank.

He reproduced the conversation that passed between him and Frank. He lay down full length at the rear of the metal room to show precisely how the body of the little girl lay when he first saw her as he was led to the rear of the building, as he says, by Leo Frank.

After in the basement he lay down full length at the rear of the metal room to show precisely how the body of the little girl lay when he first saw her as he was led to the rear of the building, as he says, by Leo Frank.

The arraignment of this spectacular reproduction of the crime was to take place in the court room of the Georgia State House at 10 o'clock Friday afternoon. The negro was put in Chief Deavers' automobile. All the curtains were drawn and the utmost secrecy was maintained. Only those in authority in the factory were aware that the tragedy was to be re-enacted, step by step.

Conley was handcuffed to Chief Deavers' when he stepped from the car. Many of the employees, at least during the noon hour, were congregated at the foot of the stairs protrusion lined up the stairs. The city detectives had dragged on Chief Lanford and Chief Deavers with the negro, arrived a few minutes later.

Some of the employees, curious to learn the latest development in the mystery, attempted to follow the man who turned back with orders not to come inside and the doors were barred against them. Outside by the negro, Hester, Smith and J. F. Hollaway, the party of detectives and newspaper men started on the tour which was to reproduce the tragedy, detail by detail, from the moment Conley declares that he met Frank at the foot of the stairs until he was turned to Frank's office where Conley again wrote the notes, as Mr. Frank's deposition, and repeated the conversation that he hears took place between them.

Deavers, Chief Deavers and Chief Lanford, there were in the party Deavers, Lanford and Chief Lanford. Continued on Page Two, Column Five.

GOUX TAKES SMITH CREW FIND BILL WISHART EASY

By W. S. Fairbrother.
POUNCE ON LEAD BELL PANK, MAY 28--Harold Langover and his eleven men started a dundee race in the morning and they were in for a lot of four to five to the mile of the race on the local ground this afternoon.

Of course the Oakland crew failed to win a local assessment this afternoon, but Johnny Tubbs' start of fingers was on the job and they were in for a lot of four to five to the mile of the race on the local ground this afternoon.

MOTOR SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, May 30--Julius Goux, of France today won the motorcycle championship race from America, winning the 500-mile free for all automobile race on the motor speedway here. Goux drove a Peugeot car.

His time was 1:14:11. It is an average of 114 miles an hour, a trifle slower than last year's mark.

Genevise Wishart in a Mercedes car finished second. His time was 1:14:08.

Mars in a state came third, although his car was able through the lead lap.

Mars in a state finished third. His car caught fire on the last lap and he drove separately to the finish. The machine was blowing when he crossed the tape. Goyt in a Sunbeam, finished fourth.

The victory of Goux was a runaway after the first 100 miles. In addition he won the 250000 mile prize and about 10,000 offered by accessory makers, the winner was also awarded the trophy for the first 500 miles of the race. Goux set a new record for 500 miles of cars of this class. In addition he proved to be the first man to win the race by driving the full 500 miles without the assistance of a relief driver. His victory was clear-cut and due to his wonderfully cool, steady driving from start to finish.

His race is spectacular in the extreme despite the fact that no driver was killed or seriously injured. An accident happened and the hospital car was kept busy with minor injuries.

On the seventy-ninth lap "Bill" Robertson who had been setting the pace was struck and his car was out of the race temporarily by a leak in the gasoline tank. The Scotchman was stopped at the pit and the car repaired. Hughie Hughes' relief driver took "Bill" Robertson's place when the car whizzed out again.

Burman had been driving at the rate of eighty-two miles an hour. The excitement, the continual hand jacks that he encountered and the strain of driving in the face of the torridity of the atmosphere here was too much for him and he was unable to go on with the race.

Chas. Dreag in a Mercedes came to the end of the course where a number of spectators stood. Dreag jammed on the brakes and stopped the car. Anderson in Grand Prix.

The standing at the four hundred thirty-mile mark was as follows:

First, Goux, Peugeot, 1:14:11.
 Second, Genevise Wishart, Mercedes, 1:14:08.
 Third, Mars, Sunbeam, 1:14:05.
 Fourth, Goyt, Sunbeam, 1:14:05.
 Fifth, Robertson, Mercedes, 1:14:05.
 Sixth, Dreag, Mercedes, 1:14:05.
 Seventh, Anderson, Grand Prix, 1:14:05.
 Eighth, Hughes, Mercedes, 1:14:05.
 Ninth, Tubbs, Mercedes, 1:14:05.
 Tenth, Langover, Mercedes, 1:14:05.

Results and score by innings of all morning games played to-day in the American National and International League and American Association will be found on the Sporting Pages.

Half-Breed Negro Arrested in Search For Stevens Slayer

Don Walker, a half-breed negro, was taken into custody late Friday afternoon, in connection with the hunt for the slayer of Mrs. Sallie C. Stevens and her daughter, Nella, on the McAdams Road.

Walker's arrest was caused as a result of the reported connection of him with the reported connection of a half-breed negro with the case. The prisoner declared that he was in any way implicated in the crime, and he was held until it could be determined if he was the slayer.

SWEARS FRANK TOLD HIM GIRL HIT HER HEAD AGAINST SOMETHING

Negro Describes in Affidavit How He Helped to Carry the Body to the Basement; Factory Superintendent Ran the Elevator Down, He Says

The Georgian in its second Extra published exclusively the first REAL confession of James Conley, the negro sweeper at the National Pencil Factory, regarding the part he played in the Mary Phagan mystery.

Conley's testimony to the police and in giving prominence to his statements desires to say that it must not be taken as final until it is examined at the trial of Frank.

Atlanta, Ga., April 29, 1913.

On Saturday, April 26, 1913, when I come back to the pencil factory with Mr. Frank I waited for him downstairs like he told me, and when he whistled for me I went upstairs and he asked me if I wanted to make some money right quick and I told him yes, and he told me that he had picked up a girl back there and had let her fall, and that her head hit against something—he didn't know what it was—and for me to move her and I hollered and told him the girl was dead.

And he told me to pick her up and bring her to the elevator, and I told him I didn't have nothing to pick her up with, and he told me to go and look by the cotton box there and get a piece of cloth and I got a big wide piece of cloth and come back there to the man's toilet, where the girl had died, and I taken her and brought her up there and into the dressing room, carrying her on my right shoulder, and I took her too heavy for me and she slipped off my shoulder and fell on the floor right there in the dressing room and I hollered for Mr. Frank to come there and help me; that she was too heavy for me, and Mr. Frank come down there and told me to pick her up, damn fool, and he run down there to me and he was excited, and he picked her up by the feet. Her feet and head were sticking out of the cloth, and by him being so nervous he let her feet fall, and then we brought her into the elevator, Mr. Frank carrying her by the feet and me by the shoulder, and we brought her to the elevator, and then Mr. Frank says, "Wait, let me get the key," and he went into the office and come back and unlocked the elevator door and started the elevator down.

SAYS FRANK STOOD GUARD

Mr. Frank turned it on himself, and we went down to the basement and Mr. Frank helped me take it off the elevator and he told me to take it back there to the elevator and I picked it up and put it on my shoulder again, and Mr. Frank he went up the ladder and watched the trapdoor to see if anybody was coming, and I taken her back there and I taken the cloth from around her and taken her hat and shoes and I picked up upstairs right where her head was lying and brought them down and untied the cloth and brought them back and I thrown them on the trapdoor in front of the entrance and Mr. Frank was standing at the trapdoor at the head of the ladder.

FRANK WASHED HANDS, HE ASSURES

He didn't tell me where to put the things, I laid her body down with her head toward the elevator, lying on her stomach and the left side of her face was on the ground, the right side of her face was up and both arms were lying down with her body by the side of her body. Mr. Frank looked me back on the first floor. I stepped on the elevator and I stepped on the elevator when it got to where he was, and he said, "Go, that was a tiresome job," and I told him that I was not as "tiresome" as mine was, because I had to take the way from where she was lying to the dressing room and in the basement from the elevator to where I laid her.

FRANK WASHED HANDS, HE ASSURES

Then Mr. Frank hops off the elevator before it gets to the second floor and he makes a stumble and he hits the floor and catches with both hands and he says, "I'm going to sink to wash his hands and I want and out of my hands and I want and waited for Mr. Frank to come from the toilet and washing his hands and then we went into the office and Mr. Frank, he couldn't hardly keep still. He was nervous.

DRAMATIC SCENE AT FACTORY AS CONLEY RE-ENACTS CRIME

Negro, Step by Step, Shows Detectives Part He Says He Had in Slaying.

As a sensational climax to the confession of his part in the Mary Phagan tragedy, Jim Conley, negro sweeper, was taken to the National Pencil Factory Friday afternoon, where he enacted by movement every detail of the events that took place in the building of mystery after the death of the little girl.

With the detectives noting every sentence that fell from the ready lips of the negro, Conley started from the exact point at the top of the stairs on the second floor where he says Leo Frank met him, and went through the grim drama with a realism that convinced all who listened and watched that he at least was telling the whole truth.

HOW CONLEY FOUND BODY OF DEAD GIRL

He (Frank) told me that he had picked up a girl back there and had let her fall and that her head hit against something—he didn't know what it was—and for me to move her and I hollered and told him the girl was dead.

He reproduced the conversation that passed between him and Frank. He lay down full length at the rear of the metal room to show precisely how the body of the little girl lay when he first saw it. He lay partly on his face, with his right leg slightly drawn up, to portray the position of the dead girl when he first saw her as he was led to the rear of the building, as he says, by Leo Frank.

Later in the basement he lay down again to show the detectives just how the body was dropped to the ground as though it had been a sack of mail. The negro lay on his face. His right arm was curled up under his body. The left arm was partly under his body, but straight. His feet pointed toward the rear door of the building.

The announcement that this sensational reproduction of the crime was to take place was made at the end of another third degree session in the office of Chief Landford. The negro was put in Chief Deavers' automobile. All the curtains were drawn and the utmost secrecy was maintained. Only those in authority in the factory were aware that the tragedy was to be re-enacted step by step.

Conley was handcuffed to Chief Deavers when he stepped from the car. The first floor, when the strange procession filed up the stairs. The city detectives had come on foot toward the rear door of the building, with the negro arrived a few minutes before the employees, curious to as the women were gone, Conley told the detectives some of the conversation that he said to have taken place between the woman and Frank.

"Yes, boss, I couldn't have stayed in the room longer," Conley answered, he noted.

Chief Sanford and Detective Scott both declared after the third hearing that they were confident that the negro at last was telling the truth.

Admission of Conley's statements into a court of justice is certain to be fought most bitterly.
