HUFF FOUND GUILTY ON CONTEMPT CASE

Judge Grubb Rules Against the Former Major Mayor in the Spear Controversy.

Colonel W. A. Huff, former mayor of Macon, has been found guilty of contempt of court for writing Emory Spear in the famous Macon controversy. In the latter Colonel Huff expressed unfavorable opinion of the way Judge Spear had conducted a bankruptcy case in which Colonel Huff was interested.

Following receipt of the letters, Judge Spear filed charges, and Judge W. L. Grubb announced a decision today, holding Colonel Huff in contempt. Colonel Huff will take the case to a higher court.

Colonel Huff was formerly mayor of Macon. He is 53 years old. At his home in Macon this morning after receiving notice from his lawyer, Attorney General T. B. Felzer, that he was held guilty of contempt, Colonel Huff made the following statement:

"It is what I expected, at the time I wrote Judge Spear those letters last summer. I had a vague notion that perhaps I was committing contempt of court. However, I was not as familiar with the law on contempt simply and solely to let Judge Spear know what I thought about him and about the way he had handled my bankruptcy case. He knows and the public know, and on that score I am satisfied. There was never any intention on my part to attack the judiciary. I was aiming exclusively at Judge Spear. But if another court, which I consider an absolutely fair and impartial tribunal, holds that I am guilty, then that settles it, and I have no protest to make. I will take whatever punishment is meted out to me without a murmur."

Judge Grubb will be in Atlanta tomorrow for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Felzer in regard to passing the order of sentence.

CONLEY BEGS CHIEF TO LET HIM REPEAT STORY BEFORE FRANK

Negro Declares He Could Make Accused Slayer of Mary Phagan Tell All—Meeting Between Two Depends Upon Advice of Attorney

James Conley, accused of Leo Frank in the murder of Mary Phagan, made a personal request of Chief of Detectives Lanford Monday morning to be taken to confront the factory superintendent.

"I think I could make him tell everything if I could just get there to his cell and tell my story again," said the Negro, Conley repeatedly urged upon Chief Lanford that he be allowed to face Frank. He declared he thought his presence would break Frank down.

The chief regarded Conley's request in his request, but said that he would make no further effort to bring the negro and the factory superintendent together. All rested in the hands of Lanford or Z. Rosser, Frank's attorney, Lanford announced.

"I have made several attempts to take Conley to Frank's cell since the Negro began making his demands," explained Chief Lanford. "All these have been unsuccessful. Frank says he has been talking to Conley and that he will advise with anyone who will help him to break down Frank's story."

Conley has refused to talk with the Negro and says that the department has tried it.

Conley has to be indicted before he can be taken to the cell. If it is innocent, he may think it would be no harm to Conley's attorney to let the Negro and Conley talk. Chief Lanford said that he would not be indicted as a person on the fact of his refusal to talk. Frank says he will be indicted if he is not indicted. He says he will be indicted if he is not indicted. He says he will be indicted if he is not indicted.

Stop the Hold-Up Shipowners

If the Titanic Had Been Provided With Boats and Men to Handle Them There Would Have Been No Loss of Life

The last Congress, taking counsel of the shipowners' fears, spotted the Democratic seamen's bill passed by the House. As it came from the sub-committee of the Senate it was calculated to strip from the traveler and shipper the last remaining liability yet resting upon the owners of vessels.

Congress should meet the issue fairly by enacting the bill which passed the House. The one fact clearly established in the loss of the City of Rio de Janeiro, General Bloom, Titanic and several others was that the vessels were undermanned both as to numbers and skill.

The shipowners' lobby persuaded some of the Senators that, if it became law, the seamen would be able to compel the shipowners to grant such improvements as would be a serious drawback upon the shipping, because the bill provided that a few of the men should have such experience as would give some guarantee that they would be able to do their duty in an emergency.

President Taft refused to sign the bill finally passed, and so far no really effective legislation has been enacted to meet the condition uncovered by the Titanic disaster.

Congress should remember that the sea is as dangerous this year as it was last; that we may at any time be compelled to contemplate another Titanic disaster, and that we are no more prepared and therefore more guilty than last year.

A Breath of Clean Air From Alaska

It is interesting to learn that in Alaska at least the "turkey trot" and the "bunny hug" and the "lango" are not permitted. Time was, in the infancy of these perverted terpsichorean revels, that they flourished in San Francisco on what was known as "The Barbary Coast."

No "Vindications" for Lorimer

Writes on Daughter's Social Pleasures Investigate, She Says, as It Is Unwise to Take Too Much for Granted

Written For The Atlanta Georgian By Ella Wheeler Wilcox Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

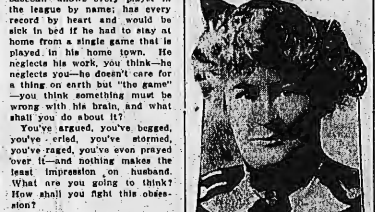

Do you know all about your daughter's friends? About her social pleasures? Your daughter may be attending school, she may be employed in an office, or in a factory, and she may tell you some morning that she will stay all night with one of her girl friends.

How About Her Friends? You say you trust your daughter. But can you also trust every friend the daughter makes? The very innocence of your child may lead her to place her confidence in those who are seeking her downfall.

But Mollie has lost her standard of right living, she has become obsessed with the demons of extravagance and excitement, and she has decided that it is her old duty to work day in and out, and earn only a small wage and spend her earnings in a cheap hotel or cheap boarding house.

Husband Who Forgets Wife for Baseball

By WINIFRED BLACK. So he's a baseball fan, is he, that husband of yours? Goes crazy when the ball season opens and stays crazy till it closes--takes baseball, eats baseball, thinks baseball, dreams baseball--knows every player in the league by name, has every record by heart and would be sick in bed if he had to stop at home from a single game that is played in his home town.

How Can You Care? How can you care for a man who such a strange madness? You feel as if you were in love with a lunatic--or something. Well, well, child, so you are, so you are in love with a lunatic; most of us have been, some time or other; and will be again as long as we live.

Washington's Inauguration

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

THE United States Government is 124 years old. On April 30, 1789, at Federal Hall, George Washington was duly inaugurated first President of the United States, and the great experiment of self-government on these Western shores was inaugurated.

The beginning was most auspicious. Then Washington no fiercer man ever stood at the forefront of a nation's life. Of Washington America is eminently proud, and of Washington America has the right to be proud, for the "Father of His Country" was, in every sense of the word, a whole man.

CONFRONT FRANK AND NEGRO IS POLICE PLAN

Anxious to See if Conley Will Stick to Latest Confession Under Dramatic Test

Continued From Page 1. A mystery no longer—this negro without every attempt to shake the remarkable story he unfolded to the detectives in the startling confession and repeated at the scene of the crime itself.

Like an unending panorama, he laid before the questioners the details of the most incriminating, harrowing scene in the crime tragedy which reached its great climax Friday, when in the greatest battle yet fought in the courts of Fulton County.

One thing is certain: Those who have thought that it will be easy for a skillful lawyer to tear the negro story into tatters must revise their judgment. From careful rehearsal, and a full and complete knowledge of the facts, the negro has been able to tell the story in a way that has made the police believe his story.

It may be he has learned his tale as a child learns a fairy story until he grows the habit of playing it in the street. It may be that some turning over of them in his mind as he lay in police cell for three weeks, that constant regimen has made the details come readily to his lips. The lesson is learned, there is no doubt that he will stick to his story.

UNDERWOOD CAG COULEY STAR IN RULE WILL BE PUT TO TEST

Democrats Resist Effort to Bind Their Not to Enact Laws Leader Opposes

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Majority House Underwood control of the bill will be put to a test Monday in the Democratic caucus. House Democrats today declared that while Underwood was able to apply the test when the tariff bill was being put through, it was not at all certain he would be able to do this time.

Underwood proposed, it was learned here, the caucus was a resolution that all Democratic members refrain from enacting any legislation during the present session except a bill of reorganization which Underwood will introduce.

The resolution will not forth that there is no legislation except the final enactment of the tariff bill to be introduced. It may be that some turning over of them in his mind as he lay in police cell for three weeks, that constant regimen has made the details come readily to his lips. FORCED TRAITOR TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Austrian Officers Gave Disgraced Colonel a Loaded Pistol and a Book of Instructions

VINKNA, June 1.—Extraordinary conditions of treachery carried on for years by a colonel of the Austrian General staff, who sold secrets of vital importance to Russia, are made in the Military Gazette.

Colonel Redl, one of the chiefs of the military secret service department, was summoned to Vienna from Prague at the end of last week. During his absence his desk was searched and a number of incriminating documents were found. Some of them showed that he had given to the Russian Government the plans of the Austrian and German armies against Russia in case of war.

The War Office here receiving full contribution of the report sent to Redl two of his fellow-officers. During the night they informed him of the charges against him and he was unable to clear himself, they warned him that they would return to Austria and arrest him.

NEGROES ARE SAVED BY DETECTIVES' POSTOLS

With the ropes around their necks, Ernest Maynard and Walter Wilkes, the negroes suspected of the murder of Mrs. William Stevens and her daughter, Nellie, who were found in the ruins of their home near Constitution, were saved from lynching late this afternoon at the point of detective's guns.

The negroes had been taken to the scene of the crime by Sheriff McCurdy and Detective Roark and were tied to a tree while the officers scoured the neighborhood for clues.

A party of about twenty framers, determined on vengeance cut the suspects from the tree while the detectives were away and rushed them to a nearby barn. The two ropes were slung over a tree and the ends slipped about the negro's necks.

Chief of Detectives Lanford, heading another party arrived in an automobile just as the proposed lynching was about to be consummated. At the point of a revolver he held the would-be lynchers at bay and aided by Deputy Sheriff P. H. Lilvey, Sheriff McCurdy and Detective Roark saved the two men, rushing them back to Atlanta in an automobile.

The men will be sheltered at police headquarters where they have been since their arrest Monday.

COUNCIL TO BUY CITY PLANT NOW

City Council Monday afternoon served in the progress of the finance committee to buy the crematory for $250,000 and pay for it this year. The resolutions submitted by the committee were adopted with only one dissenting vote, that of Councilman O. H. Hill.

The resolutions provided that such appropriation as may be necessary to pay for the crematory in 1913 be made by a saving of $15,000 will be the proposition, as ratified by the finance committee and the destructor company, of New York, is that the city buy the plant for $250,000, paying $125,000 of the amount at once and holding back $125,000 until the plant has demonstrated that it will burn garbage for 25 cents a ton and fulfill its other guarantees.

Provision is made also that if any of these payments be delayed the destructor company is to be paid 7 per cent from the time the payments should have been made.

Councilman W. G. Humphrey, who submitted the resolutions to council, said that the city would be saved several thousand dollars by the new contract. A saving of $15,000 will be made, he said, on the face value of the contract, he said, the old one calling for a price of $275,000, and the new one for a price of $250,000.

Miss Alice Ormond Weds in Paris
 Bride of Theatrical Producer
 Atlanta Girl Won Fame as Writer

Will Spend Her Honey-moon in South Africa, the Wife of James Campbell.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Alice Ormond, society favorite of Atlanta and a writer of note, to James Campbell, of Paris, France, on May 25, has come as a great surprise to Atlanta friends of the young bride.

Equally as interesting are the plans of the couple for a honeymoon in South Africa and other remote travels.

The marriage has been made known by the bride's mother, Mrs. Florence Ormond, who, with her daughter, has been spending the last three months in Paris.

Mr. Campbell is an American who has lived the past two years in Paris. He is connected there with Archie Selwyn, who owns the production rights to "The Blue Bird" and "With the Law."

While at present the young couple are in London, they will travel shortly for South Africa, where Mr. Campbell will present the Matrimonial Protection Bill.

A corollary interest will center in this marriage, the bride having lived in Atlanta until a few years ago, when with her mother, she went to New York to develop her time for Henry Work, in which, through her dramatic activities, she has made a name for herself.

She is a sister of Mrs. Hutton Hobbins and of Sidney Ormond, of Atlanta.

Wilkes and Maynard Taken to Scene of the Crime for 'Third-Degree' Ordeal.

Walter Wilkes and Ernest Maynard, the suspects in the Stevens murder, were taken to the office of Chief Lanford Monday to be questioned in regard to their whereabouts the night the Stevens home was burned to the ground and Mrs. Stevens and her foster daughter were slain and left in the building.

Sheriff McCurdy came from DeKalb County and prepared to take the two negroes back to the scene of the crime, to put them through the third degree.

Both of the suspects, who were taken up Saturday afternoon on the identification of Wade Stevens, son of the murdered woman, have denied any knowledge of the crime.

If there is any hope of breaking them down, the officers believe it will come when the two men are taken to the burned building in which the charred bodies of the two women were found.

Revolver Taken by Son.

The detective hunt for Mrs. Stevens' missing diamond ring, gold watch and other valuables which were supposed to have been taken by the murderer, came to a sudden halt Monday morning when young Wade Stevens explained their disappearance.

Stevens said that he sold the diamond ring and the watch in Chattanooga two years ago, getting the ring for $10. He said he took the revolver away with him when he went to Chattanooga last Tuesday night, the date of the murder, and sold it there for 10 cents.

Despite the clearing of this phase of the mystery, however, the officers still are of the opinion that the motive for the crime may have been robbery, as the murderer may have had an idea that Mrs. Stevens kept a large sum of money in her home.

Wilkes and Maynard were kept in solitary confinement over Sunday. No one was allowed to question them. It was thought that a day of almost absolute isolation would put them in a frame of mind where they would be the more easily worked upon Monday.

After they have been taken to the scene of the murder, it is probable that they will be removed to the DeKalb County Jail in Decatur.

Caught in Act, Says Sheriff.

"The prisoners have said that they didn't have anything to do with the killing of Mrs. Stevens and the girl," said Sheriff McCurdy, "but they already have been trapped in several misstatements or lies."

"It looks suspicious that they were together when caught. They were in a hurry to say that they had just happened to meet a few minutes before the murder, when he was first taken away, and are in the crowd getting away from the scene of the crime, which was witnessed by a large number of people, and that they were together when caught. They were in a hurry to say that they had just happened to meet a few minutes before the murder, when he was first taken away, and are in the crowd getting away from the scene of the crime, which was witnessed by a large number of people, and that they were together when caught."

NEGRO COOK AT HOME WHERE FRANK LIVED HELD BY THE POLICE

Woman Questioned by Dorsey, Becomes Hysterical; Solicitor Refuses to Tell Whether She Gave Important Information; Alibi for Defense.

Minola McKnight, the negro cook in the household of Mrs. and Mrs. Emil Belg, 68 Georgia Avenue, with whom Leo M. Frank lived, was put through the severest sort of grilling in the office of Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey Monday in an effort to break down Frank's alibi which tends to show that he was at home about the time James Conley swore the notes found by Mary Phagan's body were written.

The negro woman grew hysterical and her shrieks and protestations could be heard through the closed door. She maintained to the end of the two hours of rapid-fire questioning, however, that Frank had arrived had arrived home by 1:30 o'clock the Saturday afternoon of the crime.

She was taken into custody on information said to have been furnished by her husband. She later was taken to the police station to be held under suspicion. The details of her statement to the solicitor and the full subject of the information said to have been disclosed by her husband have been shrouded with the utmost secrecy by Solicitor Dorsey. It is said, however, that she declared to the last that Frank had arrived home by 1:30 o'clock to her husband's knowledge.

Her sob and hysterical cries were heard soon after she entered the office of the solicitor. Mr. Dorsey was able to quiet her for a few minutes at a time, when it is supposed he obtained her statement of Frank's whereabouts about on Saturday night and as she knew. At detective headquarters, the officers were not very much satisfied as to the nature or value of the testimony that this negro woman had given.

It was on the negro cook that the defense had relied to assist in proving an alibi for Frank when he was arrested on Saturday night. It was said that she had been called to the last that Frank had arrived home by 1:30 o'clock to her husband's knowledge.

Four other persons will be brought to testify at the trial of Leo M. Frank after a conversation of a few minutes which would have been an impossibility, the defense will assert, if Frank had directed the disposal of the body and delivered its note at the time the negro alleged.

Testimony before the Coleman jury by Frank and others indicated strongly that he was at home by 1:30 the afternoon of the crime. Conley in his affidavit declared that he went into Frank's office at 2:30 miles before 1 o'clock. He said that after a conversation of a few minutes Frank heard voices and opened the door to find Mrs. Emma Clark entering. Conley said he said for eight or ten minutes.

It was said that after this time Conley asked him if he could testify. Conley swore in his affidavit that he was at home by 1:30 o'clock. He was directed to write an affidavit, the most of which began "Dear Mr. Conley, I am full of sin, negro, I am a sinner."

After this, followed the story of the murder, as well as the killing of the 100 which later was taken back by the police.

All of the incidents that the negro has detailed in the minds of many here in the case of Leo M. Frank, kept Frank at the factory, and that he was at home by 1:30 o'clock. He was directed to write an affidavit, the most of which began "Dear Mr. Conley, I am full of sin, negro, I am a sinner."

After this, followed the story of the murder, as well as the killing of the 100 which later was taken back by the police.

DETECTIVES FIND STEVENS SUSPECTS HANGING IN THE AIR

Chief Newport Lanford Arrives at Scene of Tragedy Just in Time to Cut Negroes Down From Rafters of Barn.

A lynching horror, in which Walter Wilkes and Ernest Maynard, the two negro suspects in the Stevens murders near Constitution were to be the victims, was averted by the narrowest of margins Monday afternoon.

Hopes had been noosed about the necks of the terror-stricken blacks and a dozen enraged farmers were in the act of pulling them into the air, when Chief of Detectives Lanford, of Atlanta, dashed upon the scene in a Georgian automobile and at the point of the gun cowed the would-be lynchers.

The negroes, their faces already distorted by the brief period that their bodies had been swinging in the air, were taken in charge for the moment by Deputy Sheriff Livsey, of DeKalb county.

An instant later Sheriff McCurdy, of DeKalb county and Detective Roemer, of Atlanta, rushed up with drawers, weapons and while Lanford and Livsey held the mob at bay, they whisked the two suspects away.

The near-lynching was the result of a plan to confront the two suspects with the scenes about the Stevens home which was burned down last Tuesday night after the skulls of Mrs. Stevens and her young foster son had been recovered.

Chief of Detectives Lanford, Deputy Sheriff Livsey and a Georgian reporter started for the scene.

The automobile with the negroes arrived at the Stevens home first. Roemer and McCurdy had the two negroes to a tree while they secured the burned ruins of the house for clues.

While the searches, who were picked up Saturday afternoon on the identification of Wade Stevens, son of the murdered woman, have denied any knowledge of the crime.

The detective hunt for Mrs. Stevens' missing diamond ring, gold watch and revolver, which were supposed to have been taken by the murderer, came to a sudden halt Monday morning when young Wade Stevens explained their disappearance.

Stevens said that he hid the diamond ring and the watch in Chattanooga two years ago, letting the rings go for $10. He said he took the revolver away with him when he went to Chattanooga last Tuesday night, when he was 16 years of age.

Despite the clearing of this phase of the mystery, however, the officers still are of the opinion that the motive for the crime may have been robbery, as the murdered man may have had an idea that Mrs. Stevens kept a large sum of money in her home.

Walter Wilkes and Ernest Maynard were kept in military confinement over Sunday. No one was near them to question them, but it was thought that a few minutes' absolute isolation would not harm them in a frame of mind which they would be more easily worked upon Monday.

After they had been taken to the scene of the murder, it is probable that they will be removed to the DeKalb County Jail here.

Caught in Liza, says Sheriff McCurdy, the prisoners were taken to the killing of Mrs. Stevens and the girl, and that they were taken to the scene of the crime in several instances or less.

NEUROCOK AT HOME WHERE FRANK WELDED BY THE POLICE

Woman Questioned by Dorsey, Becomes Hysterical; Solicitor Refuses to Tell Whether She Gave Important Information; Alibi for Defense.

Minola McKnight, the negro cook in the household of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Solig, 68 Georgia Avenue, with whom Leo M. Frank lived, was put through the severest sort of grilling in the office of Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey Monday in an effort to break down Frank's alibi, which tends to show that he was at home about the time James Conley was the motor found by Mary Phagan's body were written.

The negro woman grew hysterical and her shrieks and protestations could be heard through the closed door. She maintained to the end of the two hours of rapid-fire questioning, however, that Frank had arrived home by 1:30 o'clock the Saturday afternoon of the crime.

She was taken into custody on information said to have been furnished by her husband. She later was taken to the Police Station, 137½ West Peachtree Street. The details of her statements to the solicitor and the full import of the information said to have been disclosed by her husband have been shrouded with the utmost secrecy by Solicitor Dorsey. It is said, however, that she declared to the last that Frank had arrived home by 1:30 o'clock to her positive knowledge.

Her sobs and hysterical cries were heard soon after she entered the office of the solicitor. Mr. Dorsey was able to question her for a few minutes at a time, when it is supposed he obtained a statement from her husband, James Conley, that she was at home on Saturday, April 26, as far as the date of the crime is concerned. The officers were non-committal as to the nature or value of the testimony that the negro woman had given.

It was on the negro cook's testimony that the police had relied to a great extent in their search for a woman who was supposed to have been the motorist who had driven the car in which Frank was shot. It is not known whether she is still in the hands of the police.

FRANK DEFENSE TO ATTEMPT

Five Persons to Swear Defendant was Home at Hour Conley Says He Aided Him.

Hall before the coroner's jury, Miss Hall testified that she left the building about 11:45 Saturday forenoon, Conley described her as coming to Frank's office more than an hour later.

"Frank is no more to me than Conley, no far as the law is concerned. The law tells me to protect all my prisoners without fear or favor. This I have done, and this I shall continue to do." Conley was treated exactly as Frank has been, or as anyone else awaiting trial or the action of the court.

"I have nothing to say against Chief Landford," would only suggest that he try his case in the court and not attempt to settle the whole case and hang one man or another before the twelve men the law prescribes have had a chance to pass on the prisoner's guilt or innocence.

"I think I could make him tell everything I could see as there to his cell and tell my story again," said the negro. Conley repeatedly urged upon Chief Landford that he be allowed to see Frank. He declared he thought his presence would break Frank down, and Chief Landford promised him as much care in his request, but said that he would make no further effort to bring the negro and the factory boys superintendant together. All rested in the hands of Luther Z. Houser, Frank's attorney.

"I have made several attempts to take Conley to Frank's cell since the negro began making his disclosures," explained Chief Landford. "All efforts have been unavailing. Frank steadfastly refused to talk with the detectives or with anyone, whom the detectives may bring to see him. Attorney Houser may arrange for a meeting of this sort, but the detective department has given it up."

"Conley has no interest in the case," Chief Landford said. "If Houser is confident that Frank is innocent, he may think it will help his client's case to give him a chance to see the negro and say his tale."

"Chief Landford said that there would be no trial on Conley's testimony at the trial of Frank. Conley, he said, would be indicted as an accessory after the fact at the present time, but that he would not be indicted after Frank's fate was determined in one way or another. He said that he would be held as a material witness like Negro Lee, the negro night watchman at the factory."

AUSTIN, ENGLISH HOUSE POET LAUREATE, DEAD AT 78 SOUTH; 3 FOR GEORGIANS

Succeeded Tenby as Official National Bard—He Penned Much Worthy Verse.

LONDON, June 2.—Alfred Austin, poet laureate of England, died at his home, 22, Bedford St. Manor, in Ashford, Kent, to-day.

Mr. Austin, who succeeded Lord Alfred Tenby as poet laureate of England, was 78 years of age on May 10, just two days before his death.

Mr. Austin became poet laureate at University of London in 1896, and soon thereafter entered upon the practice of law. He abandoned that profession early in life, however, for the more congenial one of literature.

After writing much for the periodicals he became editor of The National Review in 1893 and continued in that position until it was named post-lucretia or the trash.

Among Mr. Austin's better known productions in verse are "The Fisherman's Boy" (1881), "Bavonator" (1881), "The English Lyric" (1880), "The Conversion of Winifred" (1887), "The Life of John Ruskin" (1889) and "A Tale of True Love" (1889). The latter were dedicated to President Roosevelt.

Although severely lambasted by the critics of the period in which he worked, particularly after he became poet laureate, Mr. Austin produced much work well worth while. As a critic he was original and interesting, if not spectacular. While he was not possessed apparently of a very original imagination, he wrote, nevertheless, some very graceful and acceptable verse.

5 TO TESTIFY FRANK WAS AT HOME AT HOUR NEGRO SAYS HE AIDED

Defense to Cite Discrepancies in Time to Disprove Conley's Affidavit—Sheriff Denies Friends of Superintendent Approached Sweeper in Cell.

After a two-hour grilling by Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey Monday night, a negro woman about 21 years old, was taken to police headquarters and is held under suspicion in connection with the murder of Mary Phagan.

She is believed to have made sensational disclosures to the solicitor. "At the police station she was in hysterics, shouting: 'I am going to hang, but I didn't do it.'"

Five persons will be prepared to testify at the trial of Frank Phelan that he arrived at home for luncheon at 1:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon that Mary Phagan was killed, which would have been an impossibility, the defense will assert, if Frank had directed the disposal of the body and dictated the notes of the time the negro aided.
