DORSEY AIDE SAYS FRANK WAS FAST NET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and was ready for presentation in court at any time.

Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorney interested in the prosecution had investigated every angle of the mystery so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any defense that Frank will present, that practically nothing remains to be done until the case was called for trial.

The departure of Solicitor Dorsey for a week's vacation, he said, was an indication of the preparedness of the prosecution.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hooper. All of the stories and rumors have been run down to their original source. The defense, in his opinion, will be able to spring no surprise that has not been anticipated by the prosecution.

Mr. Frank's Diva Interview. The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Mrs. Frank, whose husband, Leo M. Frank, is under indictment charged with the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan.

It was the first time that Mrs. Frank had permitted herself to be interviewed since the coroner's jury a month ago recommended that the Grand Jury hold her husband for trial.

She broke her silence, to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable murder mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed.

She made no plea for sympathy, but expressed herself as fully reconciled to the processes of the law, although she temporarily caused her the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars as a man suspected of one of the most brutal crimes thinkable. The loyal wife said that she was able to bear the present belief because of the assurance of Frank's ultimate and complete vindication.

Why She Believes Husband. On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in the entire innocence.

She said, in part: "In all the year and a half of our engagement, in the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, it was Leo's best gift that he was my one and only love. If I went to a party, it was conceded that I should go with Leo, and he, in turn, invariably went with me. You know, the people of my faith do those things in that way--with me, betrothed to all but as sacred as marriage itself."

"Leo Frank and myself have been man and wife for two years and a half. I state it as a circumstance showing how honest and true I am, that my own life has been, and not as a thing I should mention ordinarily, that during all the two and a half years we were together, I never saw Leo been away from me at night, save when once a month he attended the meetings of the Jewish Order of B'nai B'rith, which was the president in Atlanta until he was arrested."

He Preferred Blazing Home. "It might have gone out in the evening, perhaps without my knowledge, to places he should not have gone, so far as my free consent may have figured as a factor in his going. I merely cite it as a truthful circumstance that he has not acted to my liking, but he seemed rather to prefer staying home with me. Naturally, that made me very nervous in Atlanta, and I felt that in the next issue will see good."

Beavers Seeks to Add Four Women To His Vice Squad

Women will be added to the vice squad of the Atlanta Police Department as made in his report to Chief Beavers, as made in his report to the police board on his meeting with the police chiefs in Washington, are adopted.

From the paper read by the Chief of Police of Los Angeles in regard to women detectives and the effect in that city, Chief Beavers is firmly convinced they would be of help here. The women--four in number--would be used to ferret out and report to the Chief the names of women and men who are engaged in the vice traffic in Atlanta, and in this way, the Chief believes, the department would be able to completely break up the business in this city.

Leading Citizens Urge Tracks on Ivy

Leading citizens called at the office of Mayor Woodruff Monday to protest against the proposed plan not to replace the trolley car tracks on Ivy Street. V. H. Kriegerhofer filed a petition against a property owner in which he urged that the tracks be put down on the regressed street. Others in the group were Judge and Mr. Atkinson, Logan Blackley, E. C. Peters and H. M. Williamson.

Painter Analysis Mailed to Coroner

JACKSONVILLE, June 16--Coroner C. D. Abbott has received word from Baltimore that the report of the analysis of E. O. Painter's slowness has been mailed. He expects to get it today.

Upon receipt of the report the coroner will reassemble his jury and continue the trial into the death of the wealthy fertilizer manufacturer, who was killed in the St. Johns River on May 22.

She broke her silence, to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable murder mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed.

She made no plea for sympathy, but expressed herself as fully reconciled to the processes of the law, although she temporarily caused her the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars as a man suspected of one of the most brutal crimes thinkable. PRESIDENT IN PERSON TO SPUR HOUSE

Wilson Will Read Message Urging His 'Hobbesian' Currency Reform Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 16--President Wilson will read his currency message to Congress in person, it was announced at the White House prior to the newspaper conference at which the President discussed the bill at length with the Washington correspondents.

The President believes that his plan of personally placing before the national Legislature the views on important topics, such as currency and the tariff, insures greater attention and more marked interest from the country at large than did the former custom of sending messages to Congress and having them read by a clerk.

General Principles Are His. Therefore, as soon as the currency

Carl Brown, 23 years old, of Stone Mountain, was struck by a switch engine of the Georgia Railroad early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died an hour later. He attempted to board a moving passenger train in the Atlanta yards.

C. B. Bishop, of Scotland, Brown's companion, had boarded the train and turned on the coach steps to call to his friend.

Brown, running across the yards in the darkness, failed to see the approaching switch engine. He was struck by the engine's cowcatcher and buried fifteen feet. He was picked up unconscious and hurried to the Elkin-Goldsmith Sanitarium.

Risque Books Most Sought by Readers

CHICAGO, June 16--Books that twenty years ago were considered unfit for public circulation now are most eagerly sought, according to employees in the Chicago Public Library.

"The reading public has become broadened in its attitude toward discussions of problems of life until now these discussions are eagerly sought," one said.

Explorer Pauses on Lecture Tour to See Atlanta.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of polar fame, was in Atlanta Monday, and, like girls--he's had over heels in love with you, already, for he says so himself.

"They're simply got me," he says in the way the Doctor put it when seen in his room at the Hotel Aragon Monday morning.

In fact, Dr. Cook says he's fallen in love with all the Southern girls because they're so charming--and the Doctor is by no means a bad authority, for he is making a considerable tour of the Southland in the interest of what he terms a "fair play campaign" to show he discovered as much North as Admiral Peary ever did.

Miss Helen Coleman, of Columbus, who was driving the car, was caught under the steering wheel. Dr. Young's two children were pinned underneath the car. Dr. Young was thrown clear of the car. It is thought all will recover.

Atlanta, he wanted to know all about the big city. When informed that legal prohibition existed here he expressed surprise. Prohibition he believes to be a good thing, he says, although he is not a teetotaler himself, as a guest of beer "once-in-while" isn't exactly his favorite drink, however, said the Doctor, smiling, "for it is both nourishing and refreshing."

"But how about Mr. Bryan's grape juice program?" interrupted the reporter.

"Oh, that's going too far," replied the Doctor. "I suppose" and this with a shy wink--"the grape juice people like it pretty well--so well that they probably will contribute a neat little sum to the next Democratic campaign fund."

Of course, Dr. Cook was still most seriously concerned with his campaign for "fair play" in the North-South controversy, which, the Doctor says, is by no means a dead issue. He says, he has appeared before 2,000,000 people in America and Europe. His present tour will include Alabama, Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Oklahoma. After winding up the Southern tour, he will go to the big cities of the West and North.

"All I want is fair play," Dr. Cook repeated, "and I will get it at the hands of the middle classes of the United States, which have always been friendly to me."

DESPERATE AT DRY UNDER NOISE, FIES UNTIL NEARLY DEAD

Patrolman Paul West Braves Death in Darkness to Club Slayer Inseparable and Drag Him From Refuge--Crowd Becomes Menacing.

Court Deputy David Yancey was hocked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amok and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Inawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to lay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold on longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

FUND STARTED FOR YANCEY'S FAMILY

After he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold on longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynching was averted only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and held the unobedient negro to the police station in an automobile.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to ribbons. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched $10 from Jesse Wins, an aged negro, on Whitehall Street. Watson ran after the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

Robert Starnes, aged 16, of 13 Fitzgerald Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"Damn you, you've got to kill me before you can take me!" Watson shouted as he rushed upon the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

With this he drew the knife and plunged it, time and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

By Rush to Aid. Young Starkey, who had hastened to the scene, picked up one brick after another and hurled them at the negro, but the latter paid no attention to the blows.

When Watson had mated his prearranged body of Yancey and ran up bloody passion, he leaped from the street, taking refuge, when not by grassed, in the cellar of the vacant house at 23 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers. Throwing their weapons toward the house they commenced a fusillade upon the negro who failed to yelp. His wife, who was almost blind with rage, several bullets took effect on the leg and arm of the negro, but the bullet struck downward, and the grain and still others in the night side. In spite of the many wounds it is thought that he might live. None of them appear to have been fatal. Watson has been wanted for some time at Fayetteville for escaping from the chain gang, and Warden Harris has been in Atlanta several times trying to locate the negro. Finally, he detailed a negro to stay in the city in an effort to find him. It was known that Watson lived in the rear of Orange Street, but he was almost enough to go near the home.

No Hobbie Skirt Bill. The president concluded his discussion of the proposed legislation by stating that "the principle must be judged by the clothes it wears--and they certainly will not be of the hobbie skirt variety."

The President declined to discuss any of the details of this bill, saying they had not all been decided on finally.

Weather Man Declares Mercury Will Hit High Places—Hot Monday Morning.

Soft-collar and linen-suit weather is forecast for the current week by Government Weatherman VonHerrmann. Monday the maximum temperature will approximate Sunday's, when the mercury registered 93 degrees as the maximum. At 8 o'clock Monday morning the thermometer registered 71, which is exceptionally high for Atlanta during the month of June for that hour. "What makes it so hot?" the weather man was asked. "The beautiful sunshine," answered Mr. VonHerrmann. "But while it is actually the case, the real reason for the hot day is that at present there is high pressure over the State of Georgia and no movement of wind. If there were a brisk wind movement the sun's rays would be cooled. Consequently, this week we will get hot weather that is not due to."

He Is Fatal In North Miami West.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Several more days of intense heat are in prospect to-day, following a blazing 24 hours. The only north central part of the country was hot yesterday. Eight deaths were reported. In Chicago the mercury reached 84. The same maximum was reported at St. Louis, Montgomery, Jacksonville, Kansas City and North Platte. That was 10 degrees hotter than the maximum for the day at New Orleans, San Antonio and St. Paul. The temperature at 8 o'clock this morning, 84, indicated that a new record for the season would be reached this afternoon.

Fear for Babies as Heat Makes Cleveland Record.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, June 16.—At 10 o'clock this morning the thermometer had risen to 84 and indications pointed to the local June day in the history of the health bureau. Several cases were reported by the heat and an epidemic of illness among babies caused fear of a new mark in infant mortality.

Risque Books Most Sought by Readers

CHICAGO, June 16.—Books that twenty years ago were considered unbecomingly risqué are now the most sought after by readers, according to employees in the Chicago Public Library. The reading public has become more liberal in its attitude toward discussions of problems of sex and love. "Risque" classifications are eagerly sought," one said.

"September Morn"

HAND-PAINTED water color photograph of Paul Chabre nude painting "September Morn". All eye-drawn of the City Book Company, and instead of harsh criticism excited only pity, which was due to the fact that the manager of the store took occasion to select about the oldest June day in the history of the city's weather for the art exhibition.
The original painting excited no end of comment when brought to this country for exhibition purposes. It was first placed in one of the windows of a Fifth Avenue art gallery, and was promptly applied by one of Anthony Knickerbocker's agents who demanded that it be taken out or he would go to the courts. Mr. Edward Comstock himself decided the picture was nothing to discuss. The picture was nothing to discuss. The picture was nothing to discuss. The picture was nothing to discuss.

There IS a Conspiracy Against This Man

Reprinted From the New York Evening Journal.

A Mother's Work and Her Hopes

An Editorial Written Especially for Men and Boys.

This editorial is not written for women. It is written for MEN, and for boys; for the millions who fail to appreciate the work that mothers do, for the millions that ignore the self-sacrifice and devotion upon which society is based.

On a hot night, in the dusty streets of a dirty city, you see hundreds of women sitting on porches, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In lonesome farm houses, far out on monotonous plains, with the late sun setting on a long day of hard work, you find women, cheerful and persevering, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In the middle of the night, in earliest morning, when MEN sleep, all over the world, in ice huts North, in Southern tents, in big houses and in dingy tenements, you find women awake, cheerfully and gladly TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

We respect and praise the man selfishly working for himself.

If he builds up a great industry and a great personal fortune, we praise him.

If he risks his life for personal glory and for praise, we praise him.

If he shows courage even in saving his own carcass from destruction, we praise him.

There was never a man whose courage, or devotion, could be compared with that of a woman caring for her baby.

The mother's love is unselfish, and it has no limit this side of the grave.

You will find ONE man in a thousand who will risk his life for a cause.

You will find a THOUSAND women in a thousand who will risk their lives for their babies.

Everything that a man has and is he owes to his mother. From her he gets health, brain, encouragement, moral character, and ALL his chances of success.

How poorly the mother's service is repaid by men individually, and by society as a whole!

The individual man feels that he has done much if he gives sufficient money and a LITTLE attention to her who brought him from nothingness into life and sacrificed her sleep and youth and strength for his sake.

Society, the aggregate of human beings, feels that its duty is done when a few hospitals are opened for poor mothers, and a little medicine doled out in cold-hearted fashion to the sick child.

Fortunately, it may truly be said that the great man is almost always appreciative of his greater mother.

Napoleon was cold, jealous of other men, monumentally egotistical when comparing himself with other sons of women.

But he revered and appreciated the noble woman who bore him, lived for him, and watched over him to the end. He said:

"It is to my mother, to her good principles, that I owe my success and all I have that is worth while. I do not hesitate to say that the future of the child depends on the mother."

The future of the individual child depends on the individual mother, and the future of the race depends on the mothers of the race.

Think what has been done for mankind by thousands of millions of perfectly devoted mothers.

Every mother is entirely DEVOTED, entirely HOPEFUL, entirely CONFIDENT that no future is too great for her baby's deserts.

The little head—often hopelessly ill-shaped—rolls about feebly on the thin neck devoid of muscles. The toothless gums show whatever comes along. The wondering eyes look feebly, aimlessly about, without focus or concentration. The future human being, to the cold-blooded onlooker, is a "useless little atom" added to the human sea of nonentity.

But to the mother that baby is the marvel of all time. There is endless meaning in the first mumbblings, endless soul in the gentle, baby smile, unlimited possibilities in the knobby forehead and round, hairless head. She sees in the future of the baby responsibilities of government, and feels that one so perfectly lovely must eventually be acclaimed ruler by mankind.

As a result of perfect confidence in the future, the mother gives to every baby perfect devotion, perfect and affectionate moral education. Each child begins life inspired by the most beautiful example of altruism and self-sacrifice.

Kindness has gradually taken the place of brutality among human beings, because every baby at its birth has found itself surrounded by absolute kindness.

The mother's kindness forms moral character.

The mother's confidence and encouragement stimulate ambition and inspire courage.

The mother's patient watchfulness gives good health, and fights disease when it comes.

Truly, a man may and should be judged by his feeling toward his own mother, and toward the mothers of other men—of ALL MEN.

In the character of Christ, whose last earthly thought on Golgotha was for His Mother, as in the character of the hard-working, ignorant man whose earnings go to make his mother comfortable, the most beautiful trait is devotion to the mother who suffers and works for her children, from the hours that precede their birth through all the years that they spend on earth together.

Honor thy father and THY MOTHER.

And honor the mothers of other men. Make their task easier through fair payment of the man who support the children, through good public schools for their children, through respectful treatment of ALL women.

The mother is happy. For she knows "the deep joy of loving one else more than herself."

Many a time you hear a young man say there's a conspiracy in his office to keep him from advancing. Usually he's right. There IS a conspiracy, and the conspirators are his baser selves. When the young man in the picture loafs at his work; when he drinks; when he stays up all night gambling—he's heading the conspiracy against his own success. And that's the only sort of conspiracy that can ever keep a man from his goal.

Mr. Suburbs Merely Forgot the Gasoline

The Progress and Prosperity of Los Angeles a Triumph of Intelligence and Independence

NEWS articles have been circulated in the East concerning the late election in Los Angeles, containing statements which are not justified by the facts.

These misstatements have emanated from the newspapers of a certain political leader or boss of Los Angeles, who was defeated in the late election and who has attempted to excuse himself and explain his own defeat by an attack upon the electorate of Los Angeles.

As a matter of fact, Los Angeles has voted in this election with its usual good sense and good judgment, with its customary progressive spirit and high morality.

Mr. Rose, the newly elected Mayor, has had an excellent career as a judge, is a man of experience in politics and of sterling character as a citizen. He will give Los Angeles the efficient, honest, progressive administration that the intelligent and public-spirited citizens of that city demand, and Los Angeles in its choice for Mayor is a subject for congratulation.

The high character of the politics of Los Angeles and the tremendous advantage of such clean and conscientious politics, in contributing to the wonderful growth and attractiveness of that city, are things which the citizens of New York should study and imitate.

In this late election, and in previous elections, party prejudice and national political partisanship played no part whatever. There was no candidate of the Democratic party and no candidate of the Republican party in the local field. The Socialist party, to be sure, was in evidence and ran third in the race, but the two leading parties in numerical strength were two absolutely independent parties, with independent citizens as candidates on each of their tickets.

The whole election was fought out upon the mere matter of the availability and the capability of the candidates.

The decision in favor of Mr. Rose was reached mainly because of the belief of the people in his special fitness and his unexceptionable qualities as a man and a citizen.

One other influence of importance, however, entered into the campaign, and that was a declaration in favor of Mr. Shenk, the independent candidate opposing Mr. Rose, by Mr. Edwin T. Earl, a political leader, or rather boss, in Los Angeles politics. Even though Mr. Earl is a boss, he is not a scoundrel one of the kind that dominate so many of our Eastern cities. He is a man of ability and of wealth, but he is considered a boss and he had been accused of using his political power to the advantage of his private interests.

The independent citizens of Los Angeles refused to tolerate a boss or the candidate of a boss. Mr. Shenk had been the leading candidate, and the betting stood at 2 to 1 in his favor. But when Mr. Shenk refused to repudiate satisfactorily the boss and the attempted association of the boss, the public-spirited citizens of Los Angeles turned from Mr. Shenk to Mr. Rose, and elected Mr. Rose by a handsome plurality.

What an inspiring action like this is to the cause of independence, clean politics and good government everywhere! What could not New York accomplish if the citizens of New York had the independence and the courage and the public spirit of the citizens of Los Angeles! How long would the people of New York be betrayed by their parties and their public officials if the citizens of New York would support no party in municipal matters except an independent party, and no candidate except a candidate that was wholly free from boss dictation and domination?

The citizens of Los Angeles regard the conduct of their municipal government as a great business enterprise, and they approach the question from a sound business point of view, free from personal selfishness or party prejudices.

They have put into operation direct primaries, the initiative, the referendum and the recall. They select candidates with the one consideration of the fitness of the candidates. They elect them without bias or prejudice. They instruct them through the initiative. They review their acts through the referendum, and they retire them, if unfaithful or incompetent, through the recall.

Los Angeles is far ahead of New York in progressive principles, in public spirit and in the efficient conduct of its government. The result is a public administration which is as clean and wholesome as a private household.

Los Angeles has the beauty of its site, a matchless climate, an intellectual and enterprising people, attractive and distinctive architecture, delightful homes surrounded with parks and gardens. It is the center of a great petroleum trade and an extensive citrus fruit industry, an entrepot for the maritime trade of the world and the metropolis of the expanding empire of the great Southwest.

But who shall say that the wonderful growth in population and prosperity of Los Angeles, which is one of the marvels of this marvelous land, is not due as much to its wholesome political condition as to the wonderful climate of this favored section and the varied resources of its farms and orchards, its oil wells, its manufactures and its mines?

Would not New York confer upon itself an immeasurable material as well as a moral benefit if it would learn, like Los Angeles, to conduct its government cleanly and competently in the control of the whole people and in the best interests of the whole people?

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS

America, people 180,000,000 a year for itself. We should say the country was created 1789. '89, '89.

The initiative and referendum is a great victory for the people. It is a great victory.

The "gangs" may be a "gangs" since it is a "gangs" in weather with clouds.

Any one doubting what was the wind-blown in Washington need only to glance at the side of Mr. Secretary Hedges.

Peace may have been victorious, but they are usually won by the nation with the most satisfaction, really for action.

It is a law of nature for a boss to be a boss. Friction the "corruptive" business interests in Wall Street.

COURT DEPUTY OUT TO DEATH IN FURGE BATTLE WITH NEGRO

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynching was averted only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and hurried the unconscious negro to the police station in an automobile.

Cries of "lynch him!" were heard on every hand. The crowd was wild and excited and thronged about the negro as he was being taken from the basement. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry man away.

Until he was hurried into the automobile, the danger of violence was not passed, the crowd at one time threatening to take him from the officers.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast, toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to the bone. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson attacked Yancey from Jesse Wilson, an aged negro, on Whitehall Street. Watson ran after getting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

As he was running up Rawson Street, Deputy Yancey, who happened to be in that vicinity to serve some papers, took up the chase. Watson shouted as he rushed upon the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

With this he drew his knife and plunged it time and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

Young Starnes, who had hastened to the officer's assistance, picked up the knife after another had hurled it at him at the scene, but he paid no attention to the blow.

When Watson had raved his bloody passion, he turned to the prostrate body of Yancey and ran up the street, taking refuge when shot at by a patrolman in the vacant house at 33 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers. Thrusting his weapons under the house they commenced a futile search for the man who failed to subdue him until he was almost strangled with bullets.

Several bullets took effect in his left leg and shattered the bones about the hip and below the hip. Another bullet found lodgment in the chest.

"September Morn" May Shiver On Chief "Has Seen Worse"

Police Chief Beavers, just back from Washington, D. C., has granted a new lease on life to dainty "September Morn," following an "unofficial" call at a local book store Monday morning.

The chief took a leisurely stroll along Whitehall, stopped for several minutes before the big window which protects some 45 of the maidens, scanned each of them most carefully, and then nodded his head in a semi-approval sort of manner, as much as to say that "he's seen much worse pictures than Cole's present work."

In fact, the chief actually said as much in substance. However, he hasn't delivered any opinion as yet—he is going to think it over—and in the meantime, so far as the chief is concerned, "September Morn" may shiver on.

Carl Brown, 23 years old, of Stone Mountain, was struck by a switch engine of the Georgia Railroad early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died in an hour later.

While running to board a moving passenger train in the Atlanta yard, C. B. Bishop, of Scotts, Brown's companion, had boarded the train and turned on the coach steps to call to his friend.

Brown, running across the yards in the darkness, failed to see the approaching switch engine. He was struck by the engine's cowcatcher and hurled fifteen feet. He was picked up unconscious and hurried to the St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Brown and Bishop had been in Atlanta visiting young ladies. They were returning to their time and had tried to make a short cut to the train.

Leading Citizens Urge Tracks on Ivy

V. H. Krieshaber, head of the formal protest as a property owner who in his regard that the tracks be laid down on expanded streets. Others in the party were Judge Eugene Atkinson, Logan Blecker, E. C. Peters and J. C. Williamson.

They declared the change of route would inconvenience persons using North Side cars.

Mary Garden Tells Of Her Breakdown

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, June 16.—A letter has been received from Mary Garden, confirming the news of her temporary breakdown. She says:

"I am absolutely well and in good form. I came from America after my long and tiresome season very tired, and thought perhaps a month's rest would be enough to permit me to create 'The Jewels' here."

Beavers Seeks to Add Four Women To His Vice Squad

Women will be added to the vice squad of the Atlanta Police Department if the recommendations of Chief Beavers, as made in his report to the police board on his meeting with the police chiefs in Washington, are adopted.

From the paper read by the Chief of Police of Los Angeles in regard to women detectives and the report in that city, Chief Beavers is firmly convinced they could be of great use.

The women—four in number—would be used to ferret out and register the names of women and men who are engaged in the vice traffic in Atlanta, said in this way, Chief Beavers, the department would be able to completely break up the business in this city.

Slim Figure, Birds In Cages, Paris Fads

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, June 16.—The slim figure for women was in its ascendancy at Chantilly race course yesterday and among the other things noted in the great fashionable parks were displays of wigs, small hats, orange tree ferns, golden shoe buckles, anklets with watches set therein, embroidered skirts and corsettes more appropriate for grand opera than outdoor sports.

Two women carried canaries in gold cages. There will be another fashionable race meet at Auteuil next week, when further degrees of fashion are expected.

4 Hurt in Wreck of Auto Near Midland

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 16.—According to a long distance telephone message received here today, four persons were painfully hurt late Sunday afternoon when the automobile of Dr. E. B. Young, of Midland, turned turtle down an eight-foot embankment.

Miss Helen Coleman, of Columbus, who was driving the car, was caught between the wheel and the embankment and two children were pinned underneath the car. Dr. Young was thrown clear of the car. It is thought all will recover.

Secretary, Walter G. Cooper, of the Chamber of Commerce, Monday proposed a way to meet the $27,000,000 deficit in the food supply of Georgia. He urged organization of 100,000 boys in the corn clubs and thereby increasing the work which already has done 25,000,000 bushels of corn to the annual crop.

Mr. Cooper urges an immediate and active interest in the 1913 Georgia Corn Show as the most important step. He said that the authorities on the food supply of Georgia agree in the estimate that the crop will be 172,444,000 for corn, but that the crop will be 172,444,000 for corn, but that the crop will be 172,444,000 for corn.

Weather Man Declares Mercury Will Hit High Places—Hot Monday Morning.

Soft-collar and linen-suit weather is forecast for the current week by Government weatherman VonHerrmann. Monday the maximum temperature will approximate Sunday's, when the mercury registered 94 degrees as the maximum.

What makes it so hot? The weather man was asked. "The beautiful sunshine," answered Mr. VonHerrmann. "But while this is actually the case, the real reason for the hot days is that at present the easterly wind movement of the sun's rays would be cooled. Cool weather is not due."

In Chicago the mercury reached 94, the same maximum was reported at St. Louis, Montgomery, Jacksonville, Kansas City and North Platte. That was 10 degrees hotter than the heat in Atlanta during the month of June for that hour.

GOING TO DENY HIS PROMISES SEISATION

A. B. Colyer is in Atlanta again, promising to bring some more action. The investigator who engineered the dictographing of Thomas B. Frazier and Mayor Woodward has been in Washington. He sent a letter to Atlanta before him, saying he objected to being made a gawk.

It is believed Colyer saw George W. Peers in Washington and got from him an affidavit. This is said to be much the same as the one printed admitting that the dictograph records had been prepared by Colyer in Georgia's recent affidavit, but that the general charges were before the Honorable Henry L. Carter, Colyer's lawyer.

Colyer's lawyer called before he left Washington as follows: "He thought that he might have been publishing all of the lies the grand political crook was publishing on Laddford and myself. It may be able to give you a story that will make some people to sit up and take notice."

This is said to be much the same as the one printed admitting that the dictograph records had been prepared by Colyer in Georgia's recent affidavit, but that the general charges were before the Honorable Henry L. Carter, Colyer's lawyer.

Colyer's lawyer called before he left Washington as follows: "He thought that he might have been publishing all of the lies the grand political crook was publishing on Laddford and myself. It may be able to give you a story that will make some people to sit up and take notice."

It is believed Colyer saw George W. Peers in Washington and got from him an affidavit. This is said to be much the same as the one printed admitting that the dictograph records had been prepared by Colyer in Georgia's recent affidavit, but that the general charges were before the Honorable Henry L. Carter, Colyer's lawyer.

WIFE HOUSES FIVE YEARS, SAYS CHIEF

"In less than five years every recognized house of vice in the United States will be closed." This was the statement made today by James L. Weaver, chief of police of Atlanta, who returned last night from Washington and the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

More time was allotted to discussion of the social evil than in any previous convention of the police chiefs. Weaver said that he had seen great progress in the closing of houses of vice in the United States.

"There has been a wonderful increase of sentiment among police chiefs in favor of closing these houses of vice," Weaver said. "This feeling was demonstrated at the convention last week."

At the convention Weaver said that he had seen great progress in the closing of houses of vice in the United States. He said that he had seen great progress in the closing of houses of vice in the United States.

COURT DEPUTY OUT TO DEATH IN HEROIC BATTLE WITH NEGRO

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

FUND IS STARTED FOR YANCEY'S FAMILY

First subscriptions to The Georgian's fund for Deputy Yancey's family:

Atlanta Georgian	$10.00
Sheriff's Office	5.00
Red Cross Hospital	10.00
Frank Harrison	5.00
Harry Latham	5.00
Newly Garner	5.00
John W. Moore	5.00

Court Deputy David Yancey is dead. He met a horrible fate. He was stabbed and hacked to death while endeavoring to arrest a wild beast toward Yancey, who had reportedly in the arms and back and smashed one of his arms almost to pieces. Yancey probably was slain long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson smashed 14 from James Wilson, a negro, on a sidewalk street. Watson ran after getting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

As he was running up Rawson Street, Deputy Yancey, who happened to be in that vicinity to serve some papers, took up the chase. Watson ran into the yard at the rear of 33 Rawson Street, the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, with Yancey in close pursuit.

Robert Starnes, aged 16, of 11 Fitzgerald Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"When you see me, you've got to kill me before you can take me," Watson shouted as he rushed upon the deputy and smashed the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

With this he drew the knife and plunged it time and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

Young Starnes, who had hastened to the officer's assistance, picked up one brick after another and hurled them at the negro, but the latter paid no attention to the blows.

When Watson had used his bloody passion, he leaped from the prostrate body of Yancey and ran up the street, taking refuge when he was pressed in the cellar of the vacant house at 33 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers. Throwing their weapons in under the house, they searched a fertilizer bin, but the negro who fled to hide himself in the bin, and the police took effect in his left leg and shattered the bone. He was then taken to the hospital and held in the cell.

"September Morn" May Shiver On; Chief "Has Seen Worst"

Police Chief Beavers, just back from Washington, D. C., has graciously had his own day to daily "September Morn," following an "unofficial" call at a local book store Monday morning.

The chief took a leisurely stroll along Whitehall, stopped for several minutes before the big window which protects some 48 of the maidens, scanned each of them most carefully, and then nodded his head in a semi-approval sort of manner, as much as to say that "he's seen much worse pictures than Cole's present leader."

In fact, the chief actually said as much in substance. However, he hasn't formed any opinion as yet -- he is going to think it over -- and in the meantime, so far as the chief is concerned, "September Morn" may shiver on.

Carl Brown, 31 years old, of Stone Mountain, was struck by a switch engine of the Georgia Railroad early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died an hour later. He attempted to board a moving passenger train in the Atlanta yard.

C. B. Bishop, of Scottdale, Brown's companion, had boarded the train and turned on the coach steps to catch his friend.

Brown, remaining alone on the tracks in the darkness, failed to see the approaching switch engine. He was struck by the engine and hurled 100 feet and hurled fifty feet. He was picked up unconscious and hurried to the Edwin-Goldsmith Hospital.

Mr. Frank G. Hopper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and was ready for presentation in court at any time.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hopper. All of the stories and rumors have been run down to their original source. The defense, in his opinion, will be able to spring no surprises that will be met and anticipated by the prosecution.

Mr. Frank G. Hopper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and was ready for presentation in court at any time.

The American printed Sunday was the first time that Mr. Frank had permitted, he said, to be interviewed since the coroner's jury a month ago recommended that the Grand Jury hold her husband for trial.

She broke her silence to tell the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars as a man suspected of one of the most brutal crimes in this state.

On the fact that the boy lives from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in his entire innocence.

"In all the year and a half of our engagement, the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, I was Leo's best friend and he was my best friend. I would have died with him if he had been a man."

She said, in part: "I would have died with him if he had been a man. I would have died with him if he had been a man. I would have died with him if he had been a man."

She said, in part: "I would have died with him if he had been a man. I would have died with him if he had been a man. I would have died with him if he had been a man."

DR. COOK OF BOLE NAME GEES' TOWN

Well, well, here's old Doctor Cook and his hot weather fit at the same time. There will be no hot air anywhere here. There was great commotion at the Argonne Hotel when a medium-sized man, of quite raiment, came in and registered.

The clerk looked up at the new guest in a startled manner. The guest smiled back at him invitingly. "Is he the real article?" everybody asked.

Whatever significance there may have been in that, it was at any rate, Dr. Cook's. The Polar explorer kept late Monday morning and could not be interviewed by the brigade of reporters and photographers who storm his door before breakfast. But when he did arise he spoke freely.

"I am on a tour of the South," declared the famous polar explorer. "I am appearing in the middle class and find that the people of the South are for me. At present I am en route to Madison, Ga., where I will lecture on the Arctic region.

FARMERS LEAD CRIES FOR REFORMS

Charles S. Barrett Declares Papers Helped in Awakening Dixie Farmers to Call of Progress.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—"The Hearst newspapers have been steadfast friends of the Farmers' Union, and have given us invaluable assistance. The personal interest of Mr. Hearst and the splendid editorial and other help of John Temple Graves have done much to enable us to accomplish what we have done."

Mr. Barrett is the leading genius of the Farmers' Educational and Operative Union, which has 38,000 local lodges and 3,000,000 members.

"Our organization is built on the principle of education and co-operation among farmers," said Mr. Barrett yesterday. "The South has been backward in agricultural development, but there has been great awakening and the Farmers' Union, in many ways, has been the greatest benefactor in the change. The Union was first mainly a Southern organization, but our greatest strength now is in the mountain regions."

"We try to educate the farmers and to bring them into co-operation in any direction feasible. We have not started many stores. In the South the farmer is poor and has few luxuries. In the West, packing plants and elevators."

SEPTEMBER MORNING EDITOR BY POLICE REFUSED

H. S. Cole Refuses to Take Copies of Famous Nude Painting From Store Window.

"September Morn," the famous painting which caused New York and Chicago to blush and finally had to be draped with transparencies, stirred up a tempest in Atlanta Saturday night. H. S. Cole, of the Cole Book Company, 171 Peach Street, defied the sudden dicta of the police that should be removed from the store window. For some days now, the Atlanta dailies have been the eyes of passers-by to the nude figures of women in more than one place, it should be said, for copies hung everywhere make of the window a regular bower of beauty unadorned.

Reverend and untrodden the charming young woman, brought into a trouble life by the magic brush of M. Paul Chabon, the famous French artist, whose gaudy through her fifty or there years into the hush and bustle of Atlanta with a positive gas that seemed to express longing for some good book in placid Brittany.

Woman Gasp, Tels Police. The woman, brought into a trouble life by the magic brush of M. Paul Chabon, the famous French artist, whose gaudy through her fifty or there years into the hush and bustle of Atlanta with a positive gas that seemed to express longing for some good book in placid Brittany.

Detective Shaw, who has an eye for an eye well other things, was dispatched to the scene. He viewed the canvas with cold, calculating eye. Yes, it was very beautiful, but the "but" veiled the lady's fate as far as the police were concerned. He showed nothing to her superior, Artie "Chief" Jett.

For vulgar? Never! He said in a formal way to Miss September and branded her an undesirable citizen--just as undesirable in Atlanta as in Chicago, New York, Washington and other places.

"I assuredly shall resist any order to remove 'September Morn' from the window," said Mr. Cole. "There was a glint of determination in his eyes."

"That is a beautiful piece of art, of aggressive about it. I do not understand how it can be so beautiful, which can prevent me from displaying it in the window. If there is, I will have to turn it in to the police."

MOB FIRES CABIN TO GET A NEGRO SLAYER

GREENWOOD, MISS., June 15.—A mob of more than 1,000 men, who attempted to capture and lynch Jim Williams, a negro, first fire to the negro where he had barricaded himself to-day and watched him shoot himself with the fastest rifle in his hands. His body was raked from the burning embers and hanged.

Williams killed the cook of a white family of Greenwood and threw her baby out of a second-story window. He raked and bloodhounds were kept on his trail. For more than 48 hours, through the Yazoo River swamp, the dogs followed the negro's trail, finally leading the mob to a deserted cabin.

PROSPERITY SHOWN BY JEWELRY SALES

Were there any slowing down of business in Atlanta, jewelry would be the first to feel the change. Jewelry certainly is to be classed as a luxury—something the public can dispense with in any pinch of circumstances. But sales of diamonds, jewelry and pianos are heavier than in 1917.

"Sales of diamonds are on the gain," says H. W. Anderson, of Miler & Barlow, jewelers. "Our diamond business has increased about 50 per cent a year. In general, the volume of our sales has advanced over the first six months of the year. May showed a gain. June will show a greater gain from indications. This is comparing sales with 1917, which in itself was the greatest of 35 consecutive years."

DAD EATEN BY PRESIDENT INTEREST INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Over the protest of Senator Reed, F. R. Halsey, Sr., secretary of the Michigan Beet Sugar Company, made public the following letter from A. J. Douglas, treasurer of the company, to W. H. Wallace, general manager, following an address by Woodrow Wilson in Detroit during the presidential campaign.

"After Mr. Wilson's address in the Assembly last evening I had the opportunity of writing to him. The object of Michigan interested in the beet sugar industry stood ready to invest millions of dollars more in this industry, but before doing so wasted his resistance toward this legitimate industry."

"You need not be one bit afraid of me, sir." "I don't believe that Mr. Wilson will take any steps that will jeopardize the beet sugar industry as you are so anxious to protect a legitimate industry as ours."

Mr. Halsey testified that since the free sugar bill had been offered the preferred stock of his company had declined from par to 90, and the common from 90 to 30, with no purchases.

Senator Nelson, who insisted that the letter be read, said that he merely wanted to show that the sugar interests had been led to believe that they had nothing to fear before the bill was drafted.

John H. Carroll of St. Louis, general attorney for the Hill railroad system, testified that his only activity in tariff matters was the filing of a brief with Senator Stone against placing a duty on creosote oil, which is used largely by railroads as a wood preservative.

"I stood on the curb with the common people and made an interesting observation," Murdoch told Bryan. "What was that?" asked Bryan. "I noticed that every man in the party wore his plug hat at a different angle."

"That is a sign of our spirit," said Bryan. "You know, this administration is different from all others."

DORSEY AIDE SAIS FRANK IS FAST NET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and ready for presentation in court at any time.

Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorney interested in the case had investigated every angle of the mystery so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any lines that Frank will present, that practically nothing remained to be done until the case was called for trial.

Mr. Frank gives interview. The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Mrs. Frank, whose husband, Leo M. Frank, is under indictment charged with the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan.

She broke her silence to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable murder mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed.

Why She Believes Vindicated. On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in his entire innocence.

DESPERADO, AT BAY UNDER HOUSE, FRES UNTIL NEARLY DEAD

Patrolman Paul West Braves Death in Darkness to Club Slayer Insensible and Drag Him From Refuge--Crowd Becomes Menacing.

Court Deputy David Yanney was backed and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Dawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagnold of a policeman who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of blueshirts who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A trooping was alerted only after the large force of officers who rushed to the house and found an unresponsive negro to the police station to an automobile.

Yanney's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Watson then began to rush like a wild beast toward Yanney, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and stabbed one of his arms almost to the elbow.
