

MINISTER TELLS OF WARS HE SAW WHILE ABROAD

Dr. B. J. W. Graham, Back From Trip Through Europe, Describes Exciting Experiences.

Tanned by the sun's rays in eighteen foreign countries, the Rev. B. J. W. Graham, editor of The Christian Index, business manager of the Index Printing Company, pastor of the Hapeville and Millington Baptist Churches, arrived home Wednesday morning exhausted and refreshingly entertaining from a four-month sojourn abroad.

"We visited Portugal, Spain, Africa, Italy, Greece, Asia Minor, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Roumania, Hungary, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and England," said Dr. Graham. "Our party included Miss Savannah Clark, Miss Letoria Graham, Rev. E. H. Jennings, Mr. H. Kirkland, (Rev. J. N. Hainey, Colonel and Mrs. J. L. Young, of Phoenix), Mr. M. P. Kott, of Boston, and Miss Daisy D. Smith, of Missouri, and we enjoyed every minute of our trip. The only country appeared to you the most." The Doctor was asked to give things blown up.

"Well, I really can't say offend. Each country had its own particular thing, but one or two things stand out clearly in my mind. The Holy Land and Turkey are the most unspicily countries we visited. Hungary and Austria are the richest and most beautiful.

"I had a number of exciting experiences, especially around Turkey. Near the scene of the Balkan and sea routes from Athens to the Dardanelles and Constantinople, we passed through the Bay of Smyrna. There were two large ships were blown up. The two strongest fortifications we saw were Gibraltar and the Dardanelles. If there is any difference in the strength of these two fortresses it is in favor of the Dardanelles. During the negotiations for peace in the Turkish and Bulgarian armies were camped near Jallipoli, Turkey. I visited the trenches, and plainly visible from the ship.

"I traveled the schedule time throughout our entire trip and did not lose a minute anywhere, not even on the morning of our departure from Atlanta at 1:30 o'clock this morning. Our party kept well with the exception of a little sea sickness on our return voyage, in which we encountered a gale that lasted two days and night.

"Entertained by Broughton. In London we had an enjoyable time, for there we were entertained by Dr. Lee O. Broughton, formerly of Atlanta. Dr. Broughton is pastor of the historic Christ Church and has a large congregation and is exceedingly popular. Hundreds of persons line up on the street, that they may see him. He is a very popular man, and passes out of his church, city and country, and is doing splendidly.

BANDITS HOLD UP TRAIN; POSSE, TOO

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., June 18.—Passes are searching to-day for two men who held up the northbound Diamond Special on the Illinois Central at Glenview this morning at 11:30 o'clock and then captured the posse sent out to prevent the robbery.

Officers Maurice O'Leary led a posse which went to the scene in a special car. As he approached the baggage car he was "covered" by one of the bandits, who took his gun from him and held him up.

The Old World is interesting, but what we all enjoyed every minute of our lengthy trip, we are glad to get back to Atlanta.

DO IT NOW IS ADVICE OF PONY CONTEST MAN, AS SPECIAL OFFER ENDS

There is a homey maxim which says that Providence helps those who help themselves. This is true in anything, and in particular in the pony outfit contest the Georgian and The American are holding.

The Georgian and The American are offering notes and watches worth, in the aggregate, several thousands of dollars, as prize which are yours at no cost save the effort of buying for subscription.

The contest manager has gone several steps farther and made a special offer of extra votes which put a premium on subscription brought in at an early date.

"Do it now," therefore, should be the constant slogan. That many of them have adopted this motto is shown by the standing published to-day, wherein great prizes are credited to a number of active contestants.

Complaints will come.

Eleven houses, the so-called segregated district, and more than thirty-three houses scattered over Atlanta have been closed.

An annual rental of fifty thousand and more dollars had been paid the landlords.

The closed doors marked the end. To-day, the white slaver can not sell his "meat ticket," a pitiable girl, in Mechanic Street.

And its former denizens know of no place in Atlanta where under police protection trapped girls can be bought and sold.

Who then is complaining of Atlanta's immorality?

The Underworld—Laugh not! Continuous, concerted clamor is one of the oldest devices of the croak.

By J. JERUSALEM'S CRAFTERS crucified Christ: their clatter convinced Roman Pilate that multitudes desired the release of murderer Barabbas and demanded the death of Jesus, our Saviour.

The Light of the World, they tried to quench, but by the Cross they only raised it higher.

Ever triumphant, the risen Lord to-day moves on. Following in His steps, Paul pitied the Philippian slave girl; men said she was "possessed with a spirit"; to-day, you would probably call her a degenerate.

Her owners, men, made money by her weakness. Per cured, he No longer would he indignantly support able-bodied men. These, her masters, rebuffed. They threw the girl into an uproar with their cries. They said—

"These men trouble our city." Their loss of civility, moneyless doubtless did seem to them a civil catastrophe. Honest men know otherwise. And men have not changed.

ATLANTA'S MORAL DOWNFALL HAS COME IN THE MIND OF THE PIMP, THE PANDERER, THE WHITE SLAYER AND THE LANDLORDS OF FALLEN WOMEN SINCE THERE IS NO LONGER A POLICE PROTECTED PLACE WHERE THEY CAN PREY UPON WEAK WOMEN.

"The hope of their gain" has gone; hence, the clamor. So loud was it in Chicago that her city council appointed nine of its members a committee to consider reopening their recently closed red light district.

To this committee Attorney General Casson, of Iowa, said: "A segregated district—a corrupted police force. "A segregated district is inseparably connected with murder, rapine, lust, and robbery."

Father O'Callahan, protesting against segregation, said: "I do not want to call any city official 'His honor the Chief Pandener of the city.'"

Rabbi Hiram, adding his voice, said: "Every man before he enters—should think of how he would feel if his own sister or his own outward were to be held in such thralldom and slavery as these poor sisters of ours are held."

RECEIVER IS ORDERED TO GUARANTEE FIGHT

Trust Company Loses in Superior Court, but Will Carry the Case Higher.

Judge John T. Pendleton, of the Superior Court, ordered a receiver appointed for the Guarantee Bank and Trust Company Wednesday afternoon. Before this action was taken attorneys for both sides had agreed to draw up a supersedeas order covering the celebrated case to the Supreme Court.

Pending action by the Superior Court, Judge Pendleton ordered that the case remain in statu quo.

Following the Superior Court decision, attorneys in the case began immediately drawing up papers for a rapid execution of the case before the Supreme Court. It is likely that the Guarantee Trust case will go before it in a short time.

Judge Pendleton's decision is sustained in the higher court, and the case will be returned to him for appointment of a receiver for the Trust Company. If the Superior Court decision, however, is overruled, the case will be sent back for a new trial.

Shower Breaks Up Tennis Tourney on Driving Club Court

A driving rain that made the courts a sea of mud interrupted the Georgia State Tennis Tournament at the Piedmont Driving Club Wednesday afternoon about 8:30 o'clock, and caused a postponement of the game until Thursday morning. The rain came in the match between Grant and Mansfield, after each had won a set. Mansfield defeated Grant in the first set, 6-3, and Grant won the second set 6-4. The third and deciding set of the match will be played Thursday morning.

The playing of the match doubles up to the semi-finals is scheduled for Thursday morning, unless more rain makes the courts unfit for play. The scores made Wednesday followed:

Howell defeated Draper, 6-5, 4-1, 8-6.

H. T. Hall defeated A. W. Smith, 8-6, 4-6.

C. Y. Smith defeated T. H. Williams, 7-6, 6-1.

Mansfield defeated Fleet, 61-62.

RUSH PLANS FEDERAL TRIAL OF E. O. FRANK

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

When twelve books of evidence of more than 100 pages each were turned over to the Solicitor of the Interior, Wednesday morning by his stenographer, Assistant Solicitor General B. A. Stephens announced the state could now go to trial on 48 hours notice. No evidence was introduced, and he had already been questioned by the Solicitor.

To bring out the salient points in the evidence of each witness, the Solicitor plans to question them from the books. They will be carried over the same ground by them when they made the statements, and they will be asked no questions further than those they have already answered.

By his plan the Solicitor hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination according to his well arranged books of questions and answers, he thinks the defense will have difficulty in inserting the evidence on cross-examination.

Plans are being pushed to stage the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the absence of ante-rooms to accommodate the scores of witnesses who will in all probability be sequestered, the court in the Throver Building had been adjourned to the State House.

Sugar Lobbyists, Hard Hit, Attempt to Halt U. S. Probe

WASHINGTON, June 18.—With Harry Austin, clerk of the Washington bureau of the best sugar lobby, on the stand, the Overman investigating committee further delved into the latter files of the American Sugar Company to-day. Austin frantically denied the charges, but the resolution introduced by the investigating committee to-day, June 18, was carried by a vote of 17 to 10. The resolution provides for a full investigation of the sugar lobby, and for the appointment of a committee to investigate the lobby.

After two letters had been put in evidence, which were copies of letters from Harry C. Casard, the moving spirit of the Washington sugar lobby, and from C. W. Warren, of Michigan, who also is active in the campaign to beat free sugar.

ROBBERY AT HOME RUMS

Police Now Suspect Man of Chloroforming Head Nurse in Red Cross Sanitarium.

The theory of a woman Ruffley in the mysterious robbery early Wednesday morning at the Red Cross Sanitarium, 18 Cooper Street, was abandoned by the detectives in the afternoon when they were able to get a coherent story of the affair from Miss E. C. Skelton, head nurse, who was choked into insensibility, chloroformed and robbed of nearly $100 and a handsome gold watch.

Other nurses and attendants of the institution told stories corroborating that of Miss Skelton, who was carrying on the robbery, she retained a plimsy of the robbery. She says it was a man she saw.

The prints of small bare feet on the porch on to which Miss Skelton's room opened led to the first startling theory that it was a woman, not a man, who had committed the outrage.

While the burglary is still a mystery, the detectives have a man under strong suspicion and are making a search for him now. He only recently was an inmate of the sanitarium and returned Tuesday for a visit.

Hooper Breaks Long Tennessee Deadlock

NASHVILLE, TENN., June 18.—To save the State of Tennessee from defaulting on its $11,000,000 bonded debt due July 1, Governor Hooper today surrendered to the regular Democrats, calling State members of the Legislature to return to Nashville and break a deadlock they precipitated when they huddled to Kentucky early in April. When the Governor's action became known, regular Democrats recalled their names as members of the Legislature will be full blast to-morrow.

PUT YOUR MONEY IN THE GROUND--Real Estate Has Always Been and Always Will Be a Good Investment.

Some of our friends seem to be needlessly alarmed because of a stringency in the money markets in Europe and America. Money stringencies are nothing new nor startling. They were old in the days of Joseph. They come and go like a frightened bird.

Wall Street may be in the doldrums, but the rest of the country is moving along in its normal way. Of course, the revision of the tariff is causing some uneasiness, but that, too, will pass away.

We bid our friends OHEER UP! And if we were asked for advice we would say to those who have money to invest:

BUY REAL ESTATE! PUT YOUR MONEY IN THE GROUND! ALL WEALTH COMES OUT OF THE EARTH! MORE GREAT FORTUNES HAVE BEEN MADE IN REAL ESTATE THIS WORLD OVER THAN IN ANY OTHER WAY. BUY NOW! BUY IN THE RIGHT PLACE. BUY ON THE LINE OF ADVANCEMENT AND DEVELOPMENT. BUY ONLY AS MUCH AS YOU CAN SAFELY CARRY. THEY IMPROVE YOUR PROPERTY, AND YOU NEED HAVE NO FEAR OF THE FUTURE.

The Hearst newspapers have always urged readers to buy real estate.

If you BUY RIGHT you can not fail to increase the money you invest.

Many people will tell you that this, that or the other time of the year is not the "real estate season."

Good real estate has no season. The ground is always here. The time to buy is when you have the money to carry your purchase--and be sure that you buy only property that is certain to develop and improve as the days go by.

If you do this you need not worry. YOUR FUTURE is assured.

PUSH PLANS FOR TRIAL OF FLECK FRANK

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

When twelve books of evidence of more than 100 pages each were turned over to the collector's office Wednesday morning by his stenographic assistants, the collector, General E. A. Stephens announced to the State could now go to trial on 48 hours notice. No evidence would be introduced, he said, except by witnesses who had already been questioned by the collector.

To bring out the salient points in the evidence of each witness, the collector plans to question them from the books. They will be carried over the same ground they were when they made the statements and they will be asked no questions further than those they have already answered.

By his plan the collector hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination, according to his well arranged notes, he will be able to answer, he thinks the defense will have difficulty in injuring the evidence on cross-examination.

Rush Plans.

Plans are being rushed to stage the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the absence of ante-rooms to accommodate the scores of witnesses who will in all probability be sequestered, the trial in the Thresher Building has been adjourned indefinitely by Judge L. B. Roon and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dewey.

Early moving for New York to New York Judge Roon came here to look for a place where the trial should be held. He has been accompanied and the trial will be held at the Thresher Building.

It is expected that the trial will begin on the 20th inst.

All plans for the trial will be completed before Saturday and the great number of witnesses summoned. The week before June 30 the Superior court officers will be busy with a mass of unimportant criminal cases. They will be unable to spare any time to prepare for the Frank trial and the necessary arrangements will have to be made this week.

Judge Thomas May Preside.

Judge W. C. Thomas, of the Superior Court, Valdosta, Lowndes County, was in a lengthy conference Wednesday with Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens, giving rise to the rumor that he might be asked to preside at the Frank trial, which will be held June 30.

Judge Thomas has presided at several other trials in Fulton County, in which there was considerable local feeling, one of the most notable being the trial of Judge J. B. Roon who was to have presided at the Frank trial, but it is supposed that the intense local interest in the murder mystery will make him willing to turn the case over to an outside Judge of the collector's office suggests the

Wilson Endures Dog Days Minus Iced Air

WASHINGTON, June 18.—An episode of the publicity which attends the last of the White House refrigerator plant, which was designed to cool the executive office during Washington's hottest term. President Wilson to-day announced that he would "take his medicine" as hot as the Senators and Representatives who have to remain in the capital. Accordingly the steady rise of the mercury in the presidential office to-day was unimpeded by any iced chilled air and a single electric fan batted feebly against the wall.

FREE LUNCH PAYS $2,000 FOR ANALYSIS REPORT

Officers Each Night Guard Grave of Dead Jacksonville Fire-Whizzer King.

JACKSONVILLE, June 18.—No poison was found in the stomach of the late "Whizzer" King, according to a report received by the Painter family from Dr. Charles Glasser, the Baltimore chemist who analyzed the stomach of the dead fire-fighter King. This report is supposed to be similar to that in the "Harriet National Bank" awaiting the payment of $2,000 fees by Coroner C. D. Abbott.

A pathological report from Dr. Stanislaus McCleery, of Baltimore, who examined the brain, heart, liver and kidneys, shows King to have been troubled with arterial sclerosis. However, Painter had been examined by Dr. Glasser's report discloses that tests were made for vanishing potassium, arsenic, strychnine, cyanide, alkaloids, phosphorus, tin, lead and bismuth. Some little tin and lead were shown, but not in dangerous quantities. Bismuth, sulphide and metallic sulphur were present in appreciable amounts. There was no arsenic, strychnine, cyanide, alkaloids or phosphorus. No other mineral poisons were detected.

The vessel containing Painter's stomach and other organs was opened by Dr. Glasser in the presence of Dr. P. C. Perry, J. E. Boyd and G. Henry White, of Jacksonville; Dr. Jackson, their attorney; and Dr. E. L. Wilkey, of Baltimore. It was disclosed by Dr. Perry to be the same stomach as that from Jacksonville, and that it had not been examined in transit.

Dr. Glasser's report was given in brief to the jury at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Painter's Grave Guarded.

During the time that Painter's body has been buried five deputy night watchmen guard the grave from being robbed. This fact was learned to-day from William H. Dowling, Sheriff of Duval County.

Coroner Abbott stated to-day that the report assigned to him and now in the Harriet Bank would be taken out. The $2,000 fee will be paid. The Painter family paid the $2,000 attached to their report before receiving it.

Marshall Tells Glass Life Demands 'Punch'

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A book on the life and a boxing glove on the other is the equipment which Vice President Marshall prescribes for graduation.

"If any of you graduates think you can leave school with only your education and make a career you had better put on boxing gloves," he said. "It takes more than book learning to make a successful career; it requires a real man and woman behind the situation."

Mr. Marshall preached this doctrine to the graduating class of Central High School here.

Takes Iodine for Headache; Survives

DUBLIN, June 18.—Mrs. W. R. Smith is gradually recovering from an accidental poisoning caused by taking a dose of iodine, thought to have been capsule.

The dose was brought by her husband, who was not familiar with the two bottles that were together on the dresser in Mrs. Smith's room. The measured out two teaspoonfuls and gave it to Mrs. Smith, who swallowed it before she stopped to ask why it tasted so peculiar. Physicians were immediately summoned and after considerable treatment was administered she was pronounced out of danger.

PRICE AS ROBBER OF HORSE

Footprints Only Clows in Remarkable Mystery at Red Cross Hospital.

Detectives are scouring the city for a woman burglar who they believe committed a daring burglary last night at the Red Cross Sanitarium in which Miss E. O. Skelton, head nurse, was choked into insensibility, chloroformed and robbed of $150 and a handsome gold watch.

If the officers are correct in their surmise and succeed in capturing the petitioner, it will form one of the most remarkable incidents in the history of the Atlanta police department.

Prints of bare feet on the porch of the sanitarium gave the detectives the clue on which they are working. The foot of Miss Skelton opens out to the porch, and it was through a window that the bold intruder obtained entrance. The footprint, the detective say, undoubtedly is those of a woman.

Sure It Was Woman. They are small and could hardly have been made by a boy. The detective was able to distinguish where the night visitor stealthily had come upon the porch and crept into the open window. Other footprints led away from the window and off the porch.

Dr. D. Lingo, the physician in charge of the sanitarium, which is at 25 Cooper Street, was in Baltimore and Miss Skelton was left in charge of the ward.

She retired Tuesday night at about 10 o'clock. Some time during the night the burglar entered, creeping stealthily to the bed where the nurse was sleeping. Miss Skelton awoke to feel for an instant a rough hand about her throat. Then she went into unconsciousness.

The room was opened and ransacked. Drawers were pulled out and their contents scattered about the room. The burglar, however, did not touch Miss Skelton, but concealed in her room and appropriated that. The watch was found as easily.

Release No Alarm. The burglar got away without causing the slightest alarm. It was not until about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning that Miss Skelton's plight was discovered. Miss Helen Rogers, the nurse, came to Miss Skelton's room to awaken her. She saw a handkerchief bound about the head of the woman, but thought at first it was because of a headache.

As she came nearer the bed, however, she detected the lingering odor of the chloroform and was immediately alarmed. She called the other nurses and the physician, and together they worked over the insensible woman for more than an hour before they were able to distinguish signs of returning consciousness.

Miss Skelton was still dazed and in a semi-stupor when Detective Waggoner arrived at the hospital on a hurry call. She could only remember being suddenly awakened in the night and terrified by the sensation of hands gripping her throat, so she could make no outcry. She was not able to describe her assailant in any particular. She could not even tell whether it was a man or a woman. She is in a nervous condition today as a result of her thrilling experience.

Dr. Lingo will return to the sanitarium Wednesday night.

Panama Fair Seeks Name for 'Midway'

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Chicago Fair had its "Midway." They called it "The Fun" at St. Louis. Now the question comes from San Francisco. "What shall we call the 'concession ground' at the Panama-Pacific Exposition?"

Among the names suggested are "The Locks," "The Canal," "The Zone," "The Intermittent" and "The Street."

Chilean With Billion Calls John D. Poor

Imperator Has 4 Captains, 12 Admirals

NEW YORK, June 18.—John D. Rockefeller is a poor man when compared with me. I have so much money that I have never been able to count it, and I don't think Mr. Rockefeller will dispute my word.

Without a suggestion of boasting, Senor Escudero Ouelo of Chile replied when he reached this city to the statement that John D. Rockefeller was the richest man in the world.

"What is the extent of your wealth?"

"I cannot tell. Perhaps it is four or five hundred millions, or most likely a billion dollars. Suffice that I am the richest king, the richest man in the world."

Wilson Endures Dog Days Minus Iced Air

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Anored at the publicity which attended his use of the White House refrigerating plant, which was designed to cool the executive office during Washington's heated term, President Wilson today announced that he would "take his medicine" as hot as the Senators and Representatives who have to remain in the capital.

Accordingly the steady rise of the mercury in the presidential office today was unimpeded by any iced air and a single electric fan rattled restlessly against the wall.

President's Aides May be Next to Go

WASHINGTON, June 18.—If President Wilson persists in the impudent attitude toward the far-flung White House aides from his personal staff he will lose popularity with the public. The burglar, however, did not touch Miss Skelton, but concealed in her room and appropriated that. The watch was found as easily.

Rabbit Serum Cure for Cancer Tested

BOSTON, June 18.—The experiments of Dr. Howard W. Newell of the Boston University Medical School in his treatment of cancer with rabbit serum have been so successful that the governing board of the Evans Memorial Hospital has enlarged his laboratory and appointed two physicians to assist him.

"I shall continue for two or three years along the line I am following, and I do not expect to reach definite conclusions before that time has elapsed," said Dr. Newell.

Paris Society Leaders Divided on 'Tango'

PARIS, June 18.—Paris society leaders are divided as to whether the tango is a dance or a woman. Princess Murat's opinion is that the tango means rope, pleasant sleep and a hot day. And the Parisian quivers find the tango hot, but they do not permit their wife, he had one, to dance it.

Eugenics Course at Harvard Next Year

BOSTON, June 18.—Harvard's course in personal hygiene next year, Professor Eugenics next year. Professor W. E. Castle asked for suggestions as to how the course might be improved.

"Devote it to a study of eugenics, the science of proper marriage," advised the students and Professor Castle, the scene after announced that this would be done.

FRANK

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

When twelve books of evidence more than 100 pages each were turned over to the Solicitor's office Wednesday morning by his stenographers, Assistant Solicitor General E. A. Stephens announced the State could now go to trial on 48 hours' notice. No evidence would be introduced, he said, except by witnesses who had already been questioned by the Solicitor.

To bring out the salient points in the evidence of each witness, the Solicitor plans to question them from the books. They will be carried over the same ground they were when they made the statements and they will be asked no questions further than those they have already answered.

By the plan the Solicitor hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination, according to his well arranged books of questions and answers, he thinks the defense will have difficulty in injuring the evidence on cross-examination.

Rush Plans. Plans are being made to stage the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the large number of witnesses who will be in all probability sequestered, the trial in the Tower Building has been adjourned to the court room of Judge L. B. Roun and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

Before leaving for New York he instructed his deputy to discuss with Judge Roun some new plan to hold the trial where the large crowd could be accommodated and the heat would not be so excessive. The county board will be called upon to furnish a place and Mr. Dorsey will approve the location when he returns from New York Saturday.

All plans for the trial will be completed before Saturday and the great number of witnesses summoned. The week before June 23 the Superior Court officers will be busy with a mass of important criminal cases. They will be unable to spare any time to prepare for the Frank trial and the necessary arrangements will have to be made this week.

Honest Trade Is Not Barred, Bryan Says

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Secretary Bryan discussed with Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, on special missions here, the reason for the abandonment of the Wilson administration of the so-called "dollar diplomacy" policy.

"There is no lack of desire to encourage commercial relations between the United States and Brazil and other nations," Mr. Bryan told his visitor, but the relations must be honorable. "This is to be done, however, said, without having the Government back up intervention by American capital in foreign countries."

Austria Buys Fleet of Armed Zeppelins

VIENNA, June 18.—The visit to Vienna of Count Zeppelin on board the dirigible airship Schachau a few days ago, according to the report here, has impelled the Austrian Government to order six Zeppelins for delivery after 1914.

Dixie Girl Finds New Poem by Stevenson

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, June 18.—Miss Kitty Cheatham, the Tennessee girl, at a recent child song and stories at the late Dr. J. M. G. included in her program an unpublished poem by Robert Burns. The poem was written on the fly leaf of a child's book. Miss Cheatham got it while staying with the author's widow in California last winter.

YOUNG MEN'S GROSSER

Generous Atlanta's Contribution for Slain Officer's Family Nears $500—More Needed.

Before Court, Deputy Dave Yancy's body is laid in its grave Wednesday at noon. Atlanta citizens will have raised more than $500 for his widow and six orphaned children.

Since the death of the brave deputy on Monday, a flow of offers has gone on steadily in an effort to make up to the bereft family for what it has lost. The fund is steadily growing. The responsibility rests with the generous public of this city to take care of its servant's loved ones, now that he is gone.

Atlanta so far has responded splendidly to the call. Yet there is more needed before the future of these children and their mother can be brightened. There is a $300 mortgage to pay off on their father's home. And then there is the future sustenance for the family to take into consideration.

Yancy's future for the future except to live at the little farm it can be paid for. "I don't know what I will do," she said Wednesday morning. "It has been so long since I got along with the help of David that it doesn't seem like we can possibly get along now."

"I want to live here where we have lived the last year. If we were to lose this we would have no place to live to go. There are some poor fellows, and they want to help—poor fellows—but they haven't the means. We will have to make our own way or starve. It's going to be hard to get along with these little children, who are unable to work, but if we owned the place and didn't have to pay so much I expect we could use the money each month we could use the money I expect to make from the farm for other purposes."

"We just started working the farm this year and we didn't do much with it. Next year we will be in better condition and it should produce enough for us to market vegetables to take care of the family. I expect to make some money selling the eggs."

"Working outdoors is out of the question. My two girls are old enough, probably, but they are physically unable to do any work. The boys can be of more use on the farm."

See Only Bitter Struggle. "There is nothing ahead of us but a bitter struggle, but we are accustomed to working and living hard. We have never known any luxuries, and we won't mind doing nothing but work."

"The Sheriff told me the Georgian had already raised a large sum to help pay for this little place. I can't thank you now, but if it wasn't for what the paper has done we would probably be turned out of a home when the next payment is due."

Since her husband was stricken to death Mrs. Yancy and her daughter Lou, a frail young woman who had just been released from a hospital, have been confined to their beds and have been unable to attend the funeral on Wednesday afternoon. A doctor and a nurse have been attending to the bedside constantly.

A telegram received by The Georgian from St. Louis, delegates to the convention of the National Association of Creole Men in Cincinnati shows how far-reaching the Yancy tragedy has been. The telegram reads:

We subscribe $15 to fund for Yancy. (Signed) E. L. Adams, J. Baldwin, R. B. Papp, R. Pringle, H. T. Moore, C. V. Logan.

'Break Class Barriers,' Says Senator J Ham Lewis Urges Political Reforms in Address at Georgia U.

University Commencement Comes to Close With Big Celebration by Graduates.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 18.—With hundreds of the alumni and friends of the school in attendance, the principal exercises of this year's commencement celebration of the University of Georgia are being held here today. Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, of "pink whiskey" fame, is the big feature of the day. He delivered the baccalaureate address to the class of 1913, in what many of his hearers consider one of his most brilliant oratorical efforts.

Senator Lewis' speech was on "The Man and His Government." He declared that since making his own struggle for the supremacy of man the problems of government among men have been the same—varying only in detail. "All the life of man is in government," he said; "the government of man, of himself, within himself, or the government of man around himself. The complaint of man is not of the thing, but of the effects of things. That which he feels or that which he fears is to be over the thing, and it is his despair of his revolt."

"The same great error, which has been expressed in all places, and which has been brought to you in most discouraging aspect, is the announcement as the end statement of society in America that government is divided into two classes—one the prosperous and wholly corrupt, and the other the oppressed and only patriotic. Leaders in every opinion waged before our eyes ceaselessly educate this unjust issue into the hearts of the multitude, and from the environment of life the student draws this false creed to himself, and marvels if there be any ill-motored for him; and if there be, how it is not only in his becoming a member of one or the other of the armies—that which is hopeless for reform or respectability, or that which is helpless in spirit or independence.

Society Not Divided. "Let us be frank and just, and declare as the truth that our society is not divided into two parts, each arrayed against the other. It is not true that one is captioned by rich, vulgar and manly by the texture to liberty and enemies of justice; nor is there the other, as is charged to denigrate, inspired by lawlessness, and directing malicious violence against the prosperous. America has her patriots in every class and division of life.

SMOKE CLUBS SEARCH FOR BROTHER

Mountain Pastor's Daughter Expects Vengeance With Hickory Branch for Slanders.

Always up in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, in the West-Home established of Cherokee County, lives a 15-year-old mountain preacher's daughter who is being acclaimed a heroine and a young woman of surpassing courage.

During the memories of the love she once thought she felt for him, she applied the lash to her sweetheart—Roy Owensby—until his back was covered with welts and he begged for mercy, because he made remarks about her which she considered derogatory to her character and damaging to her reputation.

Now, with a rawhide whip which she has dedicated to the punishment of her wrongdoer, she is striking her sweetheart's back and toward Owensby.

Her name is Belle O'Hair, and she is the daughter of the Rev. E. E. O'Hair, of the New Home Baptist Church, a little town near the foot of a mountain six miles from Woodstock, Ga. in Cherokee County. Her father is a millwright and she is a miller's daughter. She is a fine singer, a good pianist and a good seamstress. She is a very pretty girl, and she is a very good girl.

Her home is the humble cabin of her father, set high on a mountain peak. Her heart is the heart of a long line of good women who have made the Georgia mountains famous for courage and dogged devotion to belief in the right.

She knows little of the workings of the law and she has never read the title of Georgia's law—she might give her legal satisfaction for the crime which she says her lover uttered, she had no thought of the time when the stalwart mountaineer was a Georgia woman—and her character had been attacked. To her mind there was but one thing to do, and that was to barehandedly strike her lover until he was fairly restrained by her father, who feared for the life of young Owensby.

She did it, and in the absence of a horsewhip she took a good, stout hickory stick and five feet long, and pounded her sweetheart on the face and arms and back until he was black and blue and frightened almost out of his senses. She ceased the punishment only when she was forcibly restrained by her father, who feared for the life of young Owensby.

Chief Benvers Dictographed. Chief of Police James L. Benvers was dictographed last week in Washington while attending the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

The Chief admitted it Wednesday. He declared that he didn't mind it a bit—instead, he said, he enjoyed it. Although the dictograph notes have not been transcribed and sworn to, he said, he has nothing to fear. He satisfied the notes were not padded, for the ethereal waves that pounded against the delicate little instrument carried nothing stronger than a big lie for Atlanta.

It is all about when Chief Benvers made a personal test of the dictograph, which was an exhibition in the police convention hall.

The Chief tested the instrument thoroughly—he was dictographed himself, after which he "caught" someone else. Naturally the Chief was much interested in the machine, and he has nothing but words of praise for it. He said it operated perfectly, and added that "it is certainly a gem."

As to whether he will install a dictograph in his office, he said, he had no definite statement. The police association endorsed the dictograph.

Her home is the humble cabin of a hickory branch, set high on a mountain slope. Her heart is the heart of a young girl of good women who have made the Georgia mountains famous for courage and dogged devotion to belief in the right.

She knows little of the workings of the law, but she has a hickory branch which she has used to punish her father's brother, Edw. Owensby.

And she did it, and in the absence of a horsewhip she took a good, stout hickory branch and with it she punished her father's brother, Edw. Owensby.

Chief Beavers Dictographed. Chief of Police James L. Beavers was dictographed last week in Washington while attending the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

The Chief admitted it Wednesday. He declared that he didn't mind it a bit—instead, he said, he enjoyed it. Although the dictograph notes have not been transcribed and sworn to, the Chief says he has nothing to fear. He's satisfied the notes won't be paid for, for the ethical values that pounded against the delicate little instrument carried nothing stronger than a big bluff for Atlanta.

It is all about when Chief Beavers made a personal test of the dictograph, which was an exhibition in the police convention hall.

The Chief tested the instrument thoroughly—after which he "caught himself" after which he "caught someone else." Naturally, the Chief was much interested in the machine, and he has nothing but words of praise for it. He said it operated perfectly, and added that "it is certainly a gem."

As to whether he will install a dictograph in his office, he said he would make no definite statement. The police association indorsed the dictograph.

Miss Orter declares that she does not remember just what happened after she drove up to the Sheriff's office and saw young Owensby sitting in the back of the car.
