BARROW COUNTY INSURANCE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure Approved 136 to 35 Despite the Hardeman Opposition. Crowded Galleries Cheer.

The bill creating the new county of Barrow, to be made up of sections of Walton, Wetzel and Jackson, with Windsor as the county seat, passed the House to-day by a vote of 136 to 35.

The measure came from the Constitutional Amendments Committee with a unanimous recommendation for its passage, but it was not put through the House until after a session display had been indulged in.

The fight against Barrow was led by Hardeman, of Jefferson, who attacked it by moving to postpone action upon it until next session. His motion prevailed, the bill would have been killed, beyond hope of resurrection.

Barrow County has been looked upon generally as apt to win out. The bill was passed by the legislature before, and many members who voted for it to-day explained their vote by saying that they voted on the merits of the proposition entirely without regard to the opposition.

The suppression is that Barrow will pass the Senate and go to the people for ratification in the next general election.

During the voting on the bill, the galleries were packed with citizens from the territory affected, and when the vote was announced the result brought great applause.

The following local bills were favorably reported, placed on a third reading and adopted: By Paulk—Providing a Board of County Commissioners for Jewell County.

Rhodes and Lipscomb—To amend chapter of Acts. Moon and Tines—Providing for a city recorder for LaGrange.

The House Committee on Agriculture, and normal college to be located in South Georgia and to be a branch of the university.

GARRISON PLANS TO ABANDON 100 ARMY POSTS

War Secretary Calls Them Useless, Demoralizing, Wasteful. Ready to Fight Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The most radical and dramatic move in army administration since Ethel Root retired a decade ago has been determined by Secretary of War Garrison. He intends to fight Congress on the question of maintaining 100 or more "absolutely useless" army posts in the interior.

He intends to withdraw troops from at least 50 per cent of them in the interest of economy and efficiency, and next Wednesday will start on a five weeks' tour of the posts to examine the details of the policy he announced today.

General "Pork Barrel" System. The policy of Garrison is dignified with the "waterfall and extravagant way in which the army is being conducted" and lays it all to the system of maintaining army posts as part of the "pork barrel" into which every member of Congress has his finger.

There are at present 157 posts in the country, an average of one post to every 180 soldiers in the army. Every State is represented.

The Secretary of War has made a preliminary investigation, which has proved to him that the maintenance of all these posts, of which he believes that 100 are unnecessary, is not only demoralizing to the army, but the most extravagant way of wasting Government money ever devised.

Plans to Block Congress. If Congress obstructs his policy of unifying the posts, the secretary of War intends to use his executive powers of withdrawing troops from those posts which he believes are unnecessary. He declares he has absolute power in this direction, and with the President's consent, could concentrate the posts in Washington if he so desires.

He intends to use his power in fighting Congress because he believes it is necessary to nullify its policy of post concentration.

Mr. Garrison will be accompanied by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and Quartermaster General Ashmun.

The plan of centralizing the army has been under consideration for several years. General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta, advised that he would never put into effect Postmaster Garrison's plan of the largest posts in the country.

NEW YORK, July 10.—"The public can not stop them—they are here. That is, they are here in Paris, which means that American women of fashion will bring them home with them this fall and winter," said Almo Bernard, Fifth Avenue model, who has just arrived from abroad with the first harem skirt and the silhouette gown.

The former resembles Turkish trousers, which have succeeded the silk skirt, and the latter is a new French creation of lace and pleated tulle, worn with tulle of silk of white or flesh pink, with no suggestion of a petticoat unless it be of filmy tulle.

The skirt has been the most graceful and attractive made for women which has been worn in many years, so all of the great fashion leaders of Paris declared, said Almo Bernard, "the harem skirt is an adaptation of the silk skirt with the tendency to the hip, which is the silhouette skirt."

Turkish trousers, properly adapted, are an ideal costume for the modern woman. It is extremely becoming, it provides the figure is graceful. It is the look of a beautiful woman through a heavy mantle.

CRAWFORD WILL FIGHT HANGS ON EXPERTS

Attorneys for Widow of Civilian Declare Poison Evidence Will Be Shattered.

A positive statement from Dr. F. H. Harris, of the State Board of Health, that Jonathan Crawford died of morphine poisoning instead of pneumonia, the announced cause of his death by the attending physician, Dr. J. W. Hurt, was the sensational development in the Crawford $350,000 Attorney Arnold's statement that Dr. Harris was called to the stand at noon. Attorney Rouben Arnold, for Mrs. Mary Blaine Crawford, the widow, to whom all the estate was left, planned him to the assertion.

For the first time in his career, he said, he deviated from his custom of merely mentioning possibilities or probabilities.

"There was absolutely no trace of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs," said Dr. Harris. "Morphine poisoning was the cause of death." Statement Unshaken.

Dr. Harris was on the stand for very nearly an hour, but his statement was unshaken.

No announcement would be made by the attorneys for the heir-at-law, who number more than thirty, but it was confidently understood they would not rest the case with the introduction of Dr. Harris, but would have other experts, and probably members of the family to take the stand in an effort to substantiate the evidence of Dr. Harris.
