EXTRADITION OF ZACHRY DENIED

Executive's Action Comes as the Supreme Court Reverses Ruling Favoring Father.

The Supreme Court Tuesday reversed the decision of Judge Hammond, of Augusta, awarding the custody of the children to the father, thereby further complicating the sensational case in which the father's attorneys are contending for the custody of the children.

According to the ruling of the Supreme Court, the decision awarding the children to the father is reversed and returned to Judge Hammond's court for further hearing.

The effect of the ruling will be to put the whole matter back in the hands of the court, with the possibility that Mrs. Zachry will be awarded the custody of the two children.

THE WEATHER

Forecast for Atlanta and Georgia—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

FATHER-IN-LAW SAYS FAMILY DID NOT TALK OF CRIME AT FACTORY

Here are the important developments Tuesday in the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan.

It is announced the state will call more than fifty witnesses in rebuttal of the defense's evidence.

State announces its theory that Frank planned a criminal attack upon Mary Phagan the day before she came to the factory for her money.

The court and challenging record of O. B. Dalton, the State's witness who testified that he had seen women in Frank's office, was shown up by the defense and admitted by Dalton.

Four acquaintances of Dalton testify that they would not believe him under oath and that his reputation for truth and veracity is bad.

O. M. Pollard, expert accountant, testified that it required three hours and eleven minutes to compile the financial sheet that the defense claims Frank prepared the afternoon of the murder.

Miss Hattie Hall, stenographer, says that Frank did not work on the financial sheet Saturday morning, the day of the crime.

Jim O'neal's declaration that Lemmie Quinn came into the factory and left before the arrival of Monte Slevin, who came at 12:05 o'clock, is challenged by the testimony of Miss Hall who swears Quinn did not enter the factory before the late A. M. 12:05 o'clock.

Hagood Kennedy, worker at the pencil factory, testified that he had seen Helen Ferguson's shoulder when they were in the factory, but that she did not ask for Mary Phagan's money.

Blister intimations made by Solicitor Dorsey in questioning Will Chambers, a boy in the factory, who denies alleged conversations, are ordered ruled out.

Attorney Arnold threatens to move for a retrial if any further intimations of this sort are allowed to be heard by the jury.

Minola McKeith, cook in the Frank household, gives evidence against that offered by her husband and declares defendants tried to make her swear to lie. She admitted she signed the affidavit reporting alleged conversations between Mrs. Frank and the prisoner, but insisted it was a lie and that she signed because the detectives threatened to lock her up if she did not.

Miss Corintha Hall and Mrs. Emma Clark Freeman testified they saw Frank at the factory at 11:30 and left at 11:45. They seem like a strong blow at Jim O'neal's story that Frank said to him, "Here comes Corintha Hall and Emma Clark. Frank will tell him to hide in the wardrobe after the murder—say about 11:30 o'clock. However, while O'neal swore to this in his third affidavit, the discrepancy had been pointed out, he said on the stand he was sure what Frank said.

Small Bell, Frank's father-in-law, testified in the previous actions at home the day of the murder, and says they were in the unusual. Several discrepancies in his story compared with his evidence before the coroner's jury are shown up.

Small Bell, Leo Frank's father-in-law, was recalled late yesterday morning to testify to the time Frank left and returned home at the various times on April 26, the day Mary Phagan was killed. It was announced Tuesday afternoon that the State had subpoenaed between fifty and sixty witnesses to be on hand Wednesday in readiness to give rebuttal testimony as soon as the defense rests.

Bell was in that of the relatives of the accused to be called. Mrs. Bell followed her husband.

Bell declared that he did not see Frank leave Saturday morning, but said he sat in motion with Frank in the afternoon. Frank arrived home at 1:20, Bell testified, and had on him no red trousers or marks of any kind. According to his recollection, Frank's demeanor was in no way unusual.

He said he ate with Frank, Mrs. Bell, and her father, Frank, on the evening of the murder. The children were called to the women leaving the table a few minutes after Frank finished to attend the Grand Opera matinee.

Bell said that Frank returned at night about 9:30 and remained there the rest of the night, going to bed early Sunday morning.

Solicitor Dorsey gave the witness a grilling cross-examination and sought to impeach the testimony by reference to Bell's previous actions before the coroner's inquest. The children were called to the number of dissemblers. Three witnesses were called to the witness stand Tuesday afternoon, to discredit the story of Helen Ferguson who testified the first week of the trial that she saw Frank come home Saturday night and that she saw him in the factory on the sideboard and then saw him in the factory on the sideboard.

O. W. Barnhart, an architect and contractor, testified that he was in the factory on the sideboard and that he saw Frank come home Saturday night and that he saw him in the factory on the sideboard and then saw him in the factory on the sideboard.

FRANK TRIAL WITNESSES SURE, AT LEAST, OF ONE THING--A 'GOOD RAGGING'

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Reader, proverbially gentle, if not always so, he is glad, and he is filled with exceeding thankfulness that you have not been summoned, you matter which way, as a witness in the Frank trial.

Of course, there is a large, at chance that you have been summoned--most everybody has--but all those nice things afterward, if you have.

And even at that, knock on wood. The trial is young yet--it is not quite three weeks old, then speaks could--and there still is time for somebody or other to remember that you may know something or other about something or other that may have something or other to do with the case.

Anyway, if you can't be glad and all the rest of it, be just as glad and as merry as the rest of it as you can, while the being is good in anywise promising.

If you are a witness in the Frank case, you are shaking up about the thinnest, less ever--it makes no difference whatever who sends you to the witness box.

You are subpoenaed and come on one side and you likewise are sent and worded to the other--he very sure of that!

If your wife will have anything at all to do with you, and if the neighbors love you any more, when you get back home, it will be entirely because one side or the other forgot to mention the fact that once upon a time you were a horse thief, or somebody said you were a horse thief, or that you had an uncle who was a horse thief, or some pleasant little thing like that.

They don't care particularly whether you ever look like anything any more, after they get through, with you down there in the big court nowadays.

Cross-Examining is What Hurts. Always on the direct examination, of course, the leading is asked. The gentlemanly party then seeks you gently questions wouldn't hurt your feelings for the world. He knows you are a law-abiding citizen, and worthy of any trust. He does upon you. He loves you. He is your friend until that thing that then breaks loose in Georgia freese ever.

Mighty fine--but you haven't yet discovered what's coming to you. Well, until the cross-examination attorney gets you in his demonic clutches!

Put on it from him to remember that you have any kind of outside the pentecostal, or that you ever told a truth in your life.

He pleads but pointedly is perfectly willing to bet, right there, that you couldn't tell the truth in three trials, and will bet you big odds on it, moreover!

Now, of course, the following is not precisely a sample of what has been going on in the courthouse of late, ever since the trial began. In fact, but it is about the way it must seem to many witnesses and spectators to have been, after the day is over and they undertake to recall the things that transpired.

"Mr. Witness," begins the cross-examiner, "you told me that you saw an owl (sarcastic smile) upon the other side, I believe, that you saw an owl sitting on the back fence about three minutes and two ticks past 4:31 on the night of the killing?"

"Mr. Witness," doesn't he the least, they bit fooled by that "Mr." business--the cross-examiner would soon be calling a witness "Witness" more than once--after that, it merely is "You, Smith," or "Smith," or "Look here, now," or something snappy and scornful.

Witness: "I said I thought it was an owl. I looked like an owl."

Begin to Shake Finger.

Attorney: "W-H-A-T? Didn't you just now, in the presence of this jury (shaking finger vigorously under witness' nose), swear positively (shake) and without reserve (shake) air (shake, shake, shake), that it WAS (shake) an OWL?"

Witness: "Why-or-unc-ly couldn't I see it was an owl exactly--it has big eyes, anyhow!"

Attorney: "Big eyes? B-A-H! Also B-A-H! B-A-H! Likewise B-A-H! B-A-H! B-A-H! Then (very sarcastically) it might have been a cat, eh?"

Witness: "Well, sir (very apologetically), I don't think it was a cat--I didn't say 'Meow!'"

Attorney: "Come, come, person, I don't want to know what you THINK--how dare you think, anyway?--you didn't hang around there to HEAR the owl say 'Meow,' did you?"

Witness: "No, sir (very much ashamed). I admit I didn't hang around there to hear the owl say 'Meow,' anyway!"

Attorney: "I've no doubt (sarcastic smile) they make you nervous! By the way, please, if one of your honorable ancestors (profound sarcasm) come over to this country with Captain Kidd, the well-known pirate?"

Witness: "Um, oh, I--"

Attorney: "Come, come, now, answer me; speak right out; tell the truth, if you CAN; did he?"

Witness: "I really can not say, sir. You see that's been so long ago, and I wasn't there, either, and--"

Attorney: "Well, you were (more finger shaking under witness' nose) DENY that one of your ancestors may have been a pirate, will you?"

Witness: "I'm sorry, but I can't say, I'll ask my wife when I get home. Maybe she knows."

Attorney: "You'll ask your wife, will you? Is she your OWN wife?"

Here the Pleasant Lawyer gets up and says:

"Your honor, I object to that question. What has a man's own wife got to do with this case?"

His honor doesn't answer right off the reel, so the other lawyer jumps up and withdraws the question.

This makes the witness feel pretty good, for he knew he had a wife when he left home that morning, but he doubts that he can swear positively to any such circumstance now.

Attorney, beginning cross-examination: "Well, you were (more finger shaking under witness' nose) DENY that one of your ancestors may have been a pirate, will you?"

Witness: "I'm sorry, but I can't say, I'll ask my wife when I get home. Maybe she knows."

Attorney, shocked almost speechless, says:

"Well, a screech owl goes screeching and a hoot-owl goes 'hoo, hoo, hoo!'"

Witness: "I am not sure, sir, I don't know much about owls. At all events, I know much about you."

Attorney, shocked almost speechless, says:

"Well, a screech owl goes screeching and a hoot-owl goes 'hoo, hoo, hoo!'"

Witness: "I am not sure, sir, I don't know much about owls. At all events, I know much about you."

PENCIL FACTORY GIRL WHO WILL TESTIFY FOR THE FRANK DEFENSE

Eula May Flowers, Who Will Testify for Frank.

And here you have been telling this poor, unprotected, orphaned jury, these well-dressed gentlemen, ALL about owls, and now you say you don't know anything about them."

Witness: "Well, sir, oh, I suppose I don't know anything about them."

Attorney: "Of the Who-goes-gone?"

Witness: "Come, now, don't get with me, ston. Don't you know the owl is a member of the stidge family?"

Witness: "Never met such a family. It certainly lives on my side of town."

Attorney: "Well, if you saw in the big dictionary that the owl is of the family, would you say it was true?"

Witness, perking up a bit: "I might believe it in the dictionary, I might believe it, but what's the dictionary got to do with it?"

Attorney, waiting appreciatively sarcastic: "Will you speak on the first of questions, kindly permit me to ask that question. All I ask of you is that you answer, if you CAN."

Then the Pleasant Lawyer gets up again.

It is certainly a relief to a witness when the P. L. arises to elucidate a few broken observations. He is the only rainbow in a hell, once things get broken.

Pleasant Lawyer: "Your honor, I submit that the big dictionary itself is the highest evidence of what the big dictionary says. If the learned counsel on the other side really catches clusters and festoons of sarcasm wishes to know WHAT the dictionary says about owls, screech or otherwise, let him tender the BIG DICTIONARY, and stop meaning and hearing all the gentlemanly, talented, honest and exceptionally bright witness?"

The witness thanks the pleasant lawyer for them kind words, all right for they are the first he has heard in many hours.

Mean Attorney: "Well, anyhow, have you a big dictionary at home?"

Witness: "No, sir; the one I use."

Attacks on Dr. Harris Give Defense Good Day

The defense had what was probably its best day on Monday. Medical experts were on the witness stand the larger part of the day. The purpose of the testimony was to knock down, one after another, the sensational statements of Dr. H. H. Harris, secretary of the "State Board of Health. All of the important points in refuting every important theory or conclusion that was reached by the distinguished chemist and pathologist.

Experts for Defense.

These were the medical experts called by the defense to combat the testimony of Dr. Harris:

Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, first president of the Georgia State Board of Health, and president of the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Professor George Boehman, demonstrator in physiology at the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, formerly one of the faculty of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

Dr. T. H. Hancock, a specialist in surgical practice.

Dr. C. C. Overstreet, a graduate of Columbia University, and a practitioner in Atlanta for 35 years.

Dr. Harris, who had testified that he had examined the body of Mary Phagan and the consensus of the four medical experts' opinions in regard to the throat.

How Views Clash.

Mary Phagan came to her death within half or three-quarters of an hour after she ate her meal of cabbage and wheat bread at home. The condition of the stomach shows it had been in the stomach no longer than that when death stopped the digestive process.

"No man in the world could examine those specimens of cabbage and wheat bread under such conditions as those found in the stomach of the murdered girl nine days after death without hours of the time that elapsed between her meal and her death."

The sound on the back of the girl's head indicates that she was knocked unconscious and later strangled to death.

Called Reckless Conjecture.

"From the data at hand, it is absolutely impossible to tell that the wound on the head caused unconsciousness. It is only a rash and reckless conjecture."

Mary Phagan was the victim of criminal violence other than that "superficially apparent."

"This is the most extraordinary surmise that could be imagined. As a matter of fact, he could not have told from the examination within a few hours after death, instead of nine days later."

Dr. Harris not only was buffeted about on account of his startling theories and conclusions, but because of the conduct in the case. Attorney Reuben Arnold asked Dr. Westmoreland what he would think of a physician or chemist who was called into a case like that of the Phagan murder, who made the examinations additively for the reason that he "liked the Solicitor," who conducted all of his analyses and experiments in absolute secrecy, who had not even a collaborator to check up on him, and who saved none of the material for the use of chemists who might be engaged by the defense.

Solicitor Dursey at once made objection to the question.

"I don't know that the question is admissible, but it ought to be," retorted Arnold. "We wish to show that Dr. Harris has violated all of the principles of honesty and decency and fairness. A man's life is at stake. Your honor, his case should not be affected by one man's word who Secretary of the State Board of Health. All of the important points in refuting every important theory or conclusion that was reached by the distinguished chemist and pathologist.

Experts for Defense.

These were the medical experts called by the defense to combat the testimony of Dr. Harris:

Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, first president of the Georgia State Board of Health, and president of the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Professor George Boehman, demonstrator in physiology at the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, formerly one of the faculty of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

Dr. T. H. Hancock, a specialist in surgical practice.

Dr. C. C. Overstreet, a graduate of Columbia University, and a practitioner in Atlanta for 35 years.

Dr. Harris, who had testified that he had examined the body of Mary Phagan and the consensus of the four medical experts' opinions in regard to the throat.

How Views Clash.

Mary Phagan came to her death within half or three-quarters of an hour after she ate her meal of cabbage and wheat bread at home. The condition of the stomach shows it had been in the stomach no longer than that when death stopped the digestive process.

"No man in the world could examine those specimens of cabbage and wheat bread under such conditions as those found in the stomach of the murdered girl nine days after death without hours of the time that elapsed between her meal and her death."

The sound on the back of the girl's head indicates that she was knocked unconscious and later strangled to death.

Called Reckless Conjecture.

"From the data at hand, it is absolutely impossible to tell that the wound on the head caused unconsciousness. It is only a rash and reckless conjecture."

Mary Phagan was the victim of criminal violence other than that "superficially apparent."

"This is the most extraordinary surmise that could be imagined. As a matter of fact, he could not have told from the examination within a few hours after death, instead of nine days later."

Dr. Harris not only was buffeted about on account of his startling theories and conclusions, but because of the conduct in the case. Attorney Reuben Arnold asked Dr. Westmoreland what he would think of a physician or chemist who was called into a case like that of the Phagan murder, who made the examinations additively for the reason that he "liked the Solicitor," who conducted all of his analyses and experiments in absolute secrecy, who had not even a collaborator to check up on him, and who saved none of the material for the use of chemists who might be engaged by the defense.

Solicitor Dursey at once made objection to the question.

"I don't know that the question is admissible, but it ought to be," retorted Arnold. "We wish to show that Dr. Harris has violated all of the principles of honesty and decency and fairness. A man's life is at stake. Your honor, his case should not be affected by one man's word who Secretary of the State Board of Health. All of the important points in refuting every important theory or conclusion that was reached by the distinguished chemist and pathologist.

1134 on these separate counts for stealing in Walton County.

Attorney Arnold showed the witness copies of four indictments and asked if he knew them. He was informed that they were indictments for selling liquor to Tom Tillman and Bob Harris.

Miss Hattie Hall was called to the stand and testified that she knew Dalton and that they would believe him on oath in a court of justice.

Miss Laura Atkinson and Minnie Smith were called and denied Dalton's testimony in regard to being in Dalton's office.

SAT CHARGES PREMEDITATED CRIME Defense Forces Dalton to Admit Jail Record

EXTRADITION AUTO TOURS OF ZACHRY LAUDED BY SLOTON

Executive's Action Comes as the Supreme Court Reverses Ruling Favoring Father.

The Supreme Court Tuesday reversed the action of Judge Hammond, August 8, awarding the two Zachry children to the father, thereby further complicating the sensational case in which reputation papers by Governor Cole Hesse for Zachry were refused by Governor Hilt Tuesday morning.

According to the ruling of the Supreme Court, the decision awarding the children to the father is reversed and remanded to Judge Hammond for further hearing. The ruling further specifies that Judge Hammond may exercise his discretion in awarding the custody of the children, which is contrary to the opinion awarded by Judge Hammond, who held previously that he was forced to award the children to Zachry because of a previous judgment.

The effect of the ruling will be to put the whole matter back in the August courts, with the possibility that Mrs. Zachry will be awarded the custody of the two children.

Governor Hilt has his refusal on the fact that no State law has been violated by Zachry in South Carolina and that the whole case was against the defendant grown out of the desire of Mrs. Zachry to obtain the custody of the two children.

One of the most spectacular fights for the extradition of a citizen was recorded in Georgia occurred in the Governor's office Monday. Charges and counter charges were hurled in turns by counsel for the defense and to the State of South Carolina, and at one time a six-up six-down was played between Attorney Dunbar, representing Mrs. Zachry, and Attorney Phinley, representing Mr. Zachry, who charged that the case had been prosecuted with all the "vindictiveness" that Mr. Dunbar could summon, was narrowly averted by the Governor.

Blatant Draws Lias. "You may be just as enthusiastic as you like," said Governor Hilt to Mr. Phinley, "but you can't say those things. That will not do here."

The hearing was with the Governor sitting as both court and jury. Attorneys for the defense and plaintiffs were allowed to argue their cases to their hearts' content with frequent interruptions by the Governor, who kept close tab on every bit of evidence offered.

In addition to the three attorneys for Zachry, Cohen and Phinley, of Augusta, and West, of Thompson, E. D. Clark, Mayor of Hartem, and Attorney Hilt, of Columbus, E. C. and Dunbar, of Augusta, represented the State of South Carolina.

CALLS HEARST'S SUNDAY AMERICAN PATHFINDER TRIP TO PACIFIC SIGN OF PROGRESS.

Declaring that the promotion of good roads and cross-country highways, such as the proposed trans-continental route from Atlanta to San Francisco, was the best evidence of the progress of the people.

John M. Hiltan Tuesday placed his stamp of approval on the campaign of Hearst Sunday's Appeal to "Pathfinders" an all-Southern coast-to-coast route, which will be inaugurated next Monday.

The Governor declared emphatically that the promotion of a project of this kind meant not only a bigger and better Georgia but a more progressive Southland through the closer communication of the people of different States by means of good roads.

"No better evidence of the progress of a people can be had," said Governor Hiltan, "than promotions of this sort for better road and highway facilities. Obviously, better roads within a State bring the people into closer communication with each other and this makes for increased interchange of both trade and mind products."

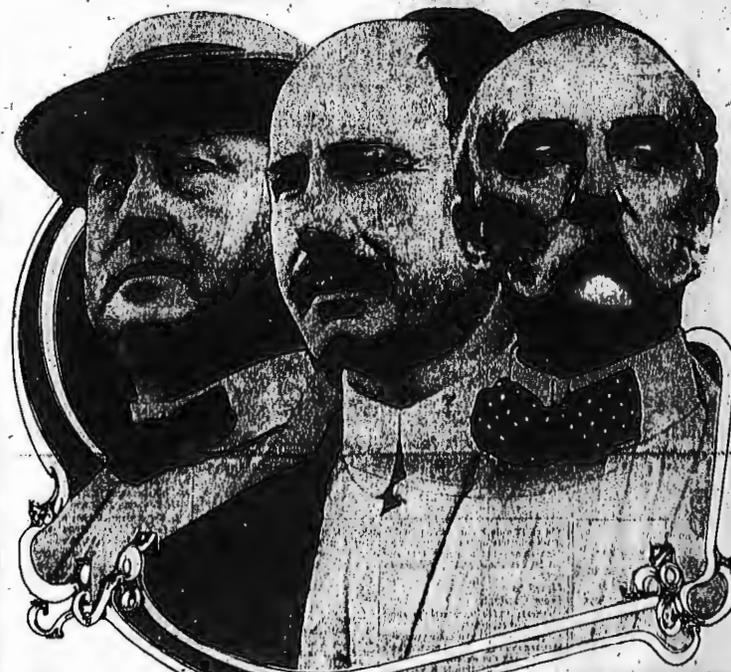

"It can be seen why this project inaugurated by The Sunday American should not go through as planned. Just such things were done by the ancient Romans—witness the great highways which stretched out in all directions from ancient Rome, making it the very hub of the world. Surely we can do as much if not more."

It is especially needed in the South, where the roads are so much of which has as yet been barely touched in development.

He stated Tuesday that he was much pleased with the reception accorded him since arriving in Atlanta, and would leave the city next Monday with deep regret if it was not for the fact that he is engaged in a campaign which means so much to him for Atlanta, but for Georgia and the South.

SULZER BATTLES IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Governor William Sulzer's political life hangs in the balance today. Faced by a hostile Legislature, Governor Sulzer, with his back to the wall, fought with more vigor than he had pressed in any other contest in his long political career.

Before the Assembly convened to vote on the resolution that Sulzer should be impeached for "high crimes and misdemeanors" for the alleged private use of public money in the promotion of Wall Street speculation in Wall Street, opponents of the Governor claimed to have enough votes to pass the resolution.

At least five of the judges of the Court of Appeals most cordial in the impeachment trial, and supporters of Governor Sulzer rely upon the judicial rather than the legislative action of the proposed court of impeachment for a favorable decision in the involved case.

Bill Providing Home For Wayward Girls Is Passed in House

The bill introduced in the House by Representative James C. Harris and title of House County providing for a home for wayward girls is called the "Chicago Industrial Home for Girls," containing with it an appropriation of $200,000, was passed Tuesday after much discussion, by a vote of 118 to 46.

Twenty thousand dollars will be used as a building fund and the remaining $180,000 will be used as a maintenance fund. The bill met with bitter opposition by Fullbright of Burke County, who declared it was of no use, as the Senate would act on the measure.

The resolution of impeachment, whose formulation is based on findings of the Franchise Legislation Committee, was introduced in the Assembly at 12:15 a. m., when 101 of the 150 members were present, but it was predicted that close to full attendance would be on hand to-day. Democrats opposed to Governor Sulzer appointed committees to see that every member was in his seat.

Chamborlain Fills Johnston's Place on War Committee

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of the war committee of the Senate today Senator Chamborlain, of Oregon, was selected as chairman of the Military Affairs Committee to succeed the late Senator Johnston, of Alabama. Other appointments which will be recommended along with this were:

Senator Meyer, of Montana, chairman of the Committee on Public Lands; Senator Smith, of Arizona, chairman of the Committee on Irrigation; and Senator Vandamm, of Mississippi, chairman of the Committee on Conservation.

Dr. R. L. Connally and associates will soon start the construction of a sixteen-story office building on the site of Brown & Allen's drug store, southeast corner of Whitehall and Alabama streets. If plans which are under way are consummated, the announcement was made unofficially at noon Tuesday that Dr. Connally has been in consultation with W. L. Woodard of New York and Atlanta, and other architects, from whom he has received tentative plans.

PLAN 16 STORIES ON BROWN AND ALLEN SITE

In fact, on another representing a local architect surveyed the ground last week and made measurements of the site in the building, Dr. Connally could not be reached for an explanation as to his plans, and his son, Thomas W. Connally, refused to be quoted.

Which a move has been in contemplation for several years. Two years ago Dr. Connally had an architect sketch a twenty-story building, and since then he has had more or less definite intentions to erect a building that will be a credit to the city.

The present building is 10 years old and it must soon be replaced or torn down. About a year ago a brick wall was erected on the site. The structure is three stories and of brick. It is the old building on Whitehall, a sixteen-story office building which was built near this point about 1890. It is estimated that the structure will cost $1,000,000. It is estimated that the structure will be completed in 1914.

GIRL DENIES STATE'S VERSION OF FRANK'S WORK ON FATAL DAY

Here are the important developments Tuesday in the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan:

State announces its theory that Frank planned a criminal attack upon Mary Phagan the day before she came to the factory for her money.

State's witness testified that he had seen woman in Frank's office, was shown up by the defense and admitted by Dalton.

Four acquaintances of Dalton testify that they would not believe him under oath and that his reputation for truth and veracity is bad.

C. E. Pollard, expert accountant, testifies that it required him three hours and eleven minutes to compile the financial sheet that the defense claims Frank prepared the afternoon of the murder.

Miss Hattie Hall, stenographer, says that Frank did no work on the financial sheet Saturday morning, the day of the crime.

Jim Conroy's declaration that Lamine Quinn came into the factory and left before the arrival of Stephen Brown, who came at 12:30 p. m., is challenged by the defense.

State Announces Theory. The State definitely announced Tuesday its theory that Frank deliberately premeditated and planned a criminal attack upon Mary Phagan Friday, April 20, the day before she came to the factory and was slain.

Frank A. Hooper, associated with Solicitor General in the prosecution, made the surprising announcement of the State's attitude during a heated argument over the admissibility of a portion of the testimony of one of the defense's witnesses, Miss Hattie Hall, stenographer at Monte Brice, and occasionally employed at the National Penitentiary.

Dorsey and Hooper were objecting strenuously to the admission of a phone conversation between Frank and Miss Hall in which Frank was reported to have asked Miss Hall to come over to the penitentiary factory to assist in the clerical work, saying: "I've got to do some work to do that it will take me about 6 o'clock to get it done."

Hooper, after the Solicitor had objected to the question on the ground that it was self-serving and proved nothing, declared that the conversation not only was self-serving, but was in deliberate anticipation of Mary Phagan's visit to the factory in the afternoon.

for him at the factory in the afternoon and had asked Henry Thayer to come back to the factory in the afternoon, requests which the defense will claim establish conclusively that Frank was not arranging for the commission of any crime or wrongdoing Saturday afternoon.

The witness said that she left the factory first at 12 o'clock as the whistles were blowing, but that she forgot her umbrella and returned to Frank's office for it, noting that it was 12:02 as she left finally. She declared that she did not see Louise Quinn enter Frank's office. Quinn testified that he saw Quinn enter the factory before the arrival of Montez Stover or Mary Phagan. The Stover girl said she reached the office floor at 12:05 o'clock.

Miss Hall indignantly denied that her salary had been raised as the result of the testimony she was giving. She said that it had been agreed when she entered the employ of Manning Bros. that she was to get an increase of salary August 1, and that she had been unable to get it before this time.

Wade Campbell, an inspector out at the factory, came in for a rigorous grilling at the hands of Solicitor Thayer. Campbell testified that his name, Mrs. Arthur White, had told him she had seen a negro at the post office the afternoon of the 21st when she was on the first floor when she went into the factory at 12:30 o'clock.

On Affidavit.
"Don't you know that what she actually said was that she saw the negro at 12:35 when she left?" inquired the solicitor.

"Campbell denied that this was so. The Solicitor then showed Campbell an affidavit and asked if it was not an affidavit and asked if it was not his signature at the bottom. Campbell said that it looked like his handwriting, but that he would not say positively. He denied that he had made the statement in the affidavit in which he was quoted as saying he saw the negro at the factory.

The witness on his direct examination testified that he had seen Constantly by reading in the factory several times after the crime. Tomley said on the stand that he was unable to read, except for a few simple words.

C. K. Pollard, an expert accountant, was the first witness called on the stand to testify as to the time required to make out the financial sheet. At that time he testified that the defense probably would require his expert testimony with Mr. Pollard, and that Miss Mattie Hall stenographer for Manning Brothers, would be the next witness.

Pollard testified that the minimum time in which Frank could have completed the financial sheet was three hours and seven minutes. This bore out the testimony of Herbert Hunt, Frank's co-worker, and John Hunter, expert accountant.

Over Three Hours.
"What is your business?" A. Certified public accountant.

Q. How long had you been on the stand? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. How many times would a man have to multiply, divide and subtract in making up that sheet? A. Well, 100 multiplications and 100 additions, and I can't guess on the rest.

The witness was excused and Miss Mattie Hall was called. She was questioned by Attorney Arnold.

Q. What is your business? A. Stenographer-bookkeeper at Manning Brothers.

Q. How long have you been on the stand? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. How long have you been on the stand? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. Have you an office here? A. Yes. Q. How long have you been on the stand? A. Sixteen years.

Q. That mistake occurred before you took up the sheet, did it not? A. Yes. Q. How long have you been on the stand? A. Sixteen years.

Q. Are there two telling mistakes—a mistake of 30 cents and a gross and a half of people the only one you found? A. Yes.

Attorney Hooper took the witness on cross-examination.

was fifteen minutes. A. I don't remember.
Q. How long was it after those letters were dictated that you commenced writing? A. Ten minutes.
Q. Can you tell how long you were writing those letters? A. No.
Q. When you were writing those letters, where was Frank? A. In his room.
Q. After you finished, what did he do? A. I took him to him.
Q. Did he say anything? A. He said he would put them in the envelope and mail them.
Q. He said you need not wait? A. Yes.
Q. Did you get anything there Monday? A. I got the time-book and some papers.
Q. The previous Saturday when you were over there, do you remember Frank working on the financial sheet that morning? A. No. I believe him to get up something about gross. I found afterward it was the necessary sheet.
Q. It helped him by transferring some of the things to the sheet? A. Yes, but I thought it was the financial sheet.
Q. Didn't you state at the coroner's inquest that you helped him the Saturday before? A. Yes.
Found Her Error
Herself, She Says.
Q. When was it you discovered it was not the financial sheet? A. I don't know, but I want you to know I discovered the mistake Monday.
Q. Now, were you not at the factory the previous Saturday and helped him? A. Yes.
Q. Did you not have that financial sheet before you at the coroner's inquest, and did you not identify it? A. I don't think so.
Q. Well, you said he was working on the financial sheet that morning? A. He was not.
Q. Did you not tell the coroner's jury that you were in the office the entire time? A. I don't know.
Q. Now explain how your mind underwent this change. You said then you were not in his office and now you say you were? A. I was recalled before the coroner's inquest and never been in a courtroom before.
Q. Now, didn't you say in your answer to the question, "Do you know what a financial sheet is that you did?" A. But I was thinking of the average sheet.
Q. Now, what did you mean by telling the coroner some of those girls came in for their pay and saw saying the only one you know anything about came in for her pay? A. I don't know.
Q. Now, didn't Frank say that morning that he would get up that sheet about the factory? A. Yes, but I don't know what he meant by that.
Q. You do know that Frank said positively he could not make up that sheet until he had gotten up certain data? A. He did not positively say so. He said he did not mind Mr. Smith being off if he had done his work, but that he had not done his work.
Q. Miss Hall didn't you swear before the coroner's jury that you worked on this financial sheet which is written in ink, which is written in pencil? A. I did not.
Q. You said that you were identifying the handwriting on that sheet. A. Yes.
Q. While you were working in Frank's office, didn't you see him very quiet and you did not know what he was doing? A. Yes.
Q. You do not know whether he was working on the financial sheet or not? A. Yes. I saw the papers on his desk that he was working on, and he was working on the financial sheet.
Attorney Arnold took the witness.
Q. Why did you tell Mr. Frank you had to get away at 12 o'clock? A. He said something about wanting me to go with him in the afternoon and I had to get away at 12 o'clock and did get away at 12 o'clock.

DALTON IS FORCED TO ADMIT JAIL RECORD

The State definitely announced Tuesday in court that the Frank trial its theory that Frank deliberately premeditated and planned a criminal attack upon Mary Phagan Friday, April 25, the day before she came to the factory and was slain.

Frank A. Hooper, associated with Solicitor Dorsey in the prosecution, made the surprising announcement of the State's attitude during a heated argument over the admissibility of a portion of the testimony of one of the defense's witnesses, Miss Hattie Hall, stenographer at Montag Bros. and occasionally employed at the National Pencil Factory.

Dorsey and Hooper were objecting strenuously to the admission of a phone conversation between Frank and Miss Hall in which Frank was reported to have asked Miss Hall to come to the pencil factory to assist in the clerical work, saying: "I've got much work to do that it will take me until 6 o'clock to get it done."

Hooper, after the Solicitor had objected to the question, said: "The conversation was not self-serving, but was made to liberate anticipation of Mary Phagan's visit to the factory."

"This remark was made on Saturday morning, the day after Mary Phagan's pay envelope was refused Helen Ferguson, said Mr. Hooper. "It was made in anticipation of her visit to the factory. It is the State's contention that Frank deliberately premeditated circumstances favorable to an attack upon Mary Phagan, and that he was serving to divert any suspicion from himself."

That the State was working upon the theory of premeditation was hinted by the questioning of Helen Ferguson, the stenographer.

but Attorney Hooper's address to the court was the first open declaration.

The court and changing room of C. B. Dalton, a State witness against Frank, was given an airing by Attorney Arnold. Dalton was recalled to the stand and made to admit that he had been seen in the changing room in 1894 on three separate counts for stealing in Walton County.

Dalton also admitted that he had been indicted in 1894 in Walton County for theft and had paid a fine of $141.60.

Attorney Arnold showed the witness copies of four indictments entered against him in Walton County for selling liquor to Don Tillman and Bob Harris. Dalton denied all knowledge of the indictments.

Witnesses Against Dalton's Character.
As soon as Dalton left the stand, W. R. Cooper, J. H. Patrick, W. T. Mitchell and H. Patrick, all residents of Walton County, were called to the stand and testified that they knew Dalton and that they would believe him on oath in a court of justice.

Misses Laura Atkinson and Minnie Smith were called and given Dalton's testimony in regard to being in his company.

Dalton testified, when he was called by the State last week, that he had visited the factory basement with Miss Daisy Hopkins and that he frequently had seen Frank in his office with women.

An unassailable alibi was the object in view when the attorneys for Frank began the questioning of a group of witnesses who were recalled to testify in regard to every known movement of Frank Saturday, April 24, the day that Mary Phagan was slain.

The testimony of Miss Hattie Hall was the first along this line. That of Miss Hattie Hall, office girl, was called. C. E. Pollard, an expert accountant, was the first witness called. He began to testify as to the time required to make out the finance sheet.

Attorney Hooper said that the defendant would testify as to the time required to make out the finance sheet. Attorney Hooper said that the defendant would testify as to the time required to make out the finance sheet.

Over Three Hours To Compile Report.
"Of your business?"—A. Certified public accountant.
Q. How long would it take to compile it?—A. I look each sheet, completed it, and timed myself as to the length of time necessary. I prepared the sheet of the 24th day. It took me ten minutes.

Q. Where there any mistakes?—A. Yes, a little one or two and one-half gross. It was hard to say whether it was my mistake or his.

Q. Now state the total time it took you?—A. A total of 15 minutes, of 3 hours and 15 minutes.

Q. Was that the quickest?—A. Yes. In other words, you took exactly the work that he did?—A. Yes, what I was told he did.

Q. That was already worked without interruption, wasn't it?—A. Yes.
Q. How long have you been an auditor?—A. Sixteen years.

Q. Have you an office here?—A. I am with the American Audit Company.
Q. That mistake occurred before you took up the sheet, did it not?—A. One mistake was made the Saturday before and one on Friday.

Q. Are there two trifling mistakes?—A. One of 60 cents and a gross and a half of pencils—the only mistake you found?—A. Yes.

Attorney Hooper took the witness on cross-examination.
Q. Mr. Pollard, is it rather an unusual assignment for you, is it not, to have over a man's business and to undertake to state how long it takes him to do it?—A. No, I think not.

for the coroner's jury that worked on this financial sheet which he verified on the Saturday previous, and now to-day you swear it was this sheet which is written in pencil?—A. I do not know.
Q. You said lots of people were writing, and it was hard to identify?—A. Yes.
Q. While you were working in Frank's outer office, you said he was very quiet and you did not know what he was doing?—A. Yes.

Q. You do not know whether he was working on the financial sheet or not?—A. Yes; I saw the papers on his desk that he was working on, and the financial sheet was not among them.
Attorney Arnold took the witness.

Dalton's Prison Record Exposed.
The witness testified in the answer, but was overruled.
Miss Hall was excused and C. B. Dalton was recalled to the stand. Attorney Arnold questioned him.
Q. Who is Andrew Dalton?—A. A brother-in-law.
Q. With the same name?—A. Yes.
Q. Who is John Dalton?—A. He is my brother.

Q. Where did you three men go to the changing at the special term of the Walton County Superior Court in 1894?—A. To the penitentiary.
Q. You were not?—A. I was, but the others paid out.
Q. How did you steal?—A. A chop handle was taken from the penitentiary. I did not plead guilty to two more charges?—A. That is the only time I ever went to the penitentiary. I don't know how long I served, but I was pardoned in March.

Attorney Arnold moved that the witness refer to evidence to which he had been referred to in the record.
Q. Did you plead guilty to three charges at all the same time?—A. That the sentence was concurrent on the three charges?—A. All I took was a chop handle. One of the other boys took a power saw.
Q. At the February term of 1892, you were not indicted for stealing a hair of cotton?—A. For stealing.

Q. Where you found guilty?—A. I was fined $14, which I paid.
Q. After that, did you go into Gemmet County and steal?—A. I was indicted for stealing some corn, but I don't recall it.
Q. How long since you were in Gemmet?—A. Eighteen years.

Dorsey to Recall Daisy Hopkins.
Attorney Hooper called the witness.
Q. Is it not a fact that there are now four indictments against you in Walton County for selling liquor?—A. If there are I don't know it.
Q. Is it not a fact that they let you get out of the county and were glad to get rid of you?—A. I have been back there every year.

Dorsey took the witness.
Q. How do you know that Daisy Hopkins knew Leo Frank?—A. I do.
Q. How do you know?—A. She told me she knew him, and then I began talking to him.
Attorney Hooper interrupted: "I object to that." "All right, then," Dorsey replied. "I will recall her."

Dalton was excused and the witness began an attack on his character with witnesses from Dalton County.
R. S. Cooper, the first witness called, was accompanied by a small boy of 8. He held the boy on his lap while he testified on the witness stand. Attorney questioned him.

FRANK TRIAL WITNESS IS SURE, AT LEAST, OF ONE THING--A 'GOOD RAGGING'

Ready, proverbially, gentle, if not always so, he is joyful, and he is filled with exceeding thankfulness that you have not been summoned, no matter which way, as a witness in this trial.

Of course, there is a large fat chance that you have been summoned--most everybody has--but he all those nice things forenoon, if you have.

And even at that, knock on wood. The trial is young yet--it is not quite three weeks old, three weeks could you--and there still is time for somebody or other to remember that you may know something or other about something or other that may have something or other to do with the case.

Anyway, if you can't be glad and all the rest of it, be just as glad and as nearly all the rest of it as you can, while the being in good or in anywise pointing.

Makes Dress Shields Absolutely Unnecessary. Keeps the armpits fresh, dry and natural. No more faded and spoiled dresses and no more odor. Eliminates excessive perspiration from any part of the body.

Attacks on Dr. Harris Give Defense Good Day

The defense had what was probably its best day on Monday. Medical experts were on the witness stand the larger part of the day. The purpose of the day's work was to knock out one after another the general statements of Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the State Board of Health. All of the witnesses joined in ridiculing every important theory or conclusion that was reached by the distinguished chemist and physician.

amine those specimens of change and tell either from the condition or from the conditions found in the stomach of the murdered girl nine days after death within hours of the time that elapsed between her death and her death.

The wound on the back of the girl's head indicates that she was knocked unconscious and later strangled to death.

Called Reclusive Conjecture.

"From the date at hand, it is absolutely impossible to tell that the wound on the head caused unconsciousness. It is only a rash and reckless conjecture."

Mary Phagan was the victim of criminal violence other than that expertly apparent.

"This is the most extraordinary surmise that could be imagined. As a matter of fact, he could not have told from the condition he says were present that she was a victim of criminal violence, even if he had made the examination within a few hours after death. Instead of the date later."

Dr. Harris not only was baffled on account of his starting the case and conclusions, but because of his conduct in the case. Attorney Hubert Arnold asked Dr. Westmoreland what he would think of a physician or chemist who was called into a case like that of the Phagan murder, who made the examinations immediately for the reason that he "knew" the Solicitor, who conducted all of his analyses and experiments in absolute secrecy, who had not even a collaborator to check up on him, and who saved none of the material for the use of chemists who might be engaged by the defense.

Solicitor Dorsey at once made objection to the question.

"I don't know that the question is admisible, but it ought to be" testified Arnold. "We wish to show that Dr. Harris had violated all of the ethics of his profession, as well as the principles of honesty and accuracy and fairness. A man's life is at stake, four lives. His case should not be affected by one man's word who does not literally know the facts of the case, his testimony."

Dr. Westmoreland was permitted to answer. He said:

"It is the ethical rule that a chemist or physician either call in another expert or preserve the specimen of his test."

Solicitor Dorsey endeavored to show that Dr. Westmoreland might be influenced in his testimony by a bunch of professional relations with Dr. Harris which occurred some time ago.

Attorney Hubert Arnold.

"How is he feeling toward Dr. Harris?" he asked. "Is it kindly or unkindly?"

The witness replied that it was neither one nor the other.

Asked by Attorney Arnold to go into the matter to which the Solicitor referred, Dr. Westmoreland said that he had preferred charges of scientific dishonesty against Dr. Harris and charged that he was not regarded as a sufficiently grave to warrant any action. He thereupon resigned from the State Board of Health, Dr. Harris, leaving Dr. Harris in his position of secretary.

Joel Hunter, an expert public accountant, testified that he had authorized Mr. Frank at least three hours to make up the financial sheet and that he saved none of the material for the use of chemists who might be engaged by the defense.

Solicitor Dorsey at once made objection to the question.

BILL PROTECTING HEIFER CALVES IS KILLED

House Wastes Time on Measure That Might Have Been Given Child Labor Act.

That was the burden of the song Monday afternoon in the Georgia House of Representatives—the same House of Representatives that has persistently refused to consider any measure to relieve the condition of the thousands of child-slaves in the State—when the legislature, for two hours discussed solemnly and earnestly a bill designed to protect the heifer calves of the State from the persecutions of the butcher and the farmer by prohibiting the killing of the "innocent, pure-eyed little thing" that in what one member called them—until they have reached the mature age of 3 years.

Theoretical theorists were hated by the champions of the calves at the heads of those who were determined that the best calf should be executed, to be met by bursting bombs of metaphor that shook the rafters and penetrated even to the furthest confines of the gallery.

Mr. Simpson, of Chatham, "He" bill should not pass under any circumstances. We have the bill on our side, for it distinctly ordered that the fattest calf be killed for the profit of man.

Mr. Spruce, of Carroll—"I am outraged and indignant. This bill is the most diabolical bill I have ever seen in my life."

Mr. Wimberly, of Bibb—"To kill this bill means that the slaughter of the innocents will be continued, and that man who has ever so strong, cannot avert the sight of the wild-eyed, bleeding calf being led to the slaughter." "There are 45,000 calves butchered in Georgia every year. If they were saved, think of the number of pounds we would have in four years and the loving beds that would wind slowly over the best. Think of the rivers and lakes of milk, and if we can raise enough strawberries, think of the strawberries and rasp we could have."

Mr. Henry, of Spalding—"I wish to explain that I am not going to explain this bill in five years or so. It will be a scarce as hen's teeth."

Mr. Davis, of Baldwin—"The slaughter of the calves is no laughing matter. If you had seen the slaughter of these innocents...

Goat Dies Trying to Eat Senator's Speech

WILKESBORO, PA., Aug. 12.—State Senator Herring B. Catin has lost his goat—not that kind the farmer like to sell about, but a real one named William.

Catin kept his pet in the barn where he had stored many of the speeches made during his long term of service at Harrisburg.

The Senator went to the barn to admire William, and to his dismay, found the goat loose among his papers. The voluminous budget was protruded from his mouth. Despite all the Senator's efforts William choked to death. The fatal document was one of the most important legislative propositions.

cent little things as I have you would not say." "What about not kill and I applies to calves as well as human beings. It makes my heart bleed to see these innocent little calves so cruelly, brutally slaughtered to provide a veal calf's holiday."

"Frustrated" is provided for. Mr. Simpson, of Chatham—"He" bill should not pass under any circumstances. We have the bill on our side, for it distinctly ordered that the fattest calf be killed for the profit of man.

Mr. Spruce, of Carroll—"I am outraged and indignant. This bill is the most diabolical bill I have ever seen in my life."

Mr. Wimberly, of Bibb—"To kill this bill means that the slaughter of the innocents will be continued, and that man who has ever so strong, cannot avert the sight of the wild-eyed, bleeding calf being led to the slaughter."

Polaris Will Wear A Ring in Her Nose

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Aug. 12.—When Miss Polaris, who boasts that she is the thirteenth actress in the world, although she has never acted, is in the United States, she will wear a large gold ring suspended from her nose to amuse New York's with one more novelty.

She has had a ring skillfully fitted into her nose without plugging the flesh, so that she can remove the trinket when on the stage.

Toughest Town in Wyoming Is Closed

CHEYENNE, WYO., Aug. 12.—Jackpot, the toughest town in Wyoming, has been closed by the State, and the Mayor, Councilmen and inhabitants are under arrest or have been driven out of the country. The town was a sort of half-way place, where whisky was sold to saloons and where gamblers were carried on in open violation of the law.

The authorities left a Deputy Sheriff behind to see that Jackpot was not rehabilitated.

Resents 'Weakling' Wants to Box Hedlin

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—John Hedlin, secretary of the Bronx Men's League for Women Suffrage, has sent a letter to Representative J. Thomas Holt, of Alabama, protesting against the characterization of men who believe in equal suffrage as effeminate and weaklings.

He says perhaps an offer to go into a pugilistic contest with Hedlin would please him, adding that some things have to be whipped into some men.

Car Hits House and Jars Man From Bed

MUNCIE, IND., Aug. 12.—Albert E. Newsham, alone in his big three-story residence, was thrown from his bed and the house was pushed from its foundation by the impact of a heavy automobile car against one corner of the structure's roof. Three men were injured.

The car was being taken to the barn when it jumped the track, curving across the sidewalk and crashed into the house.
