he could get over to the factory during the forenoon and told Frank so.

"Well, if you can't get over this forenoon, be sure to come over this afternoon," Frank replied, according to Getthamer. The witness said that Miss Hattie Hall, the office stenographer, overheard the conversation.

The defense brought out the salesman's testimony to raise the question in the minds of the jurors if Frank, contemplating an attack on Mary Phagan when she arrived, would ask Getthamer to come to the factory in the afternoon. Miss Hall previously testified that Frank had asked her to stay at the factory to work in the afternoon.

State Strongly Objects.

Attorney Hooper objected strongly to this line of testimony, characterizing it as self-serving and improper. Attorneys Rossor and Arnold defended it on the ground that it was the record of an actual engagement which Frank had made for the afternoon, something he would have been unlikely to do had he been planning any crime or wrongdoing.

Truman McCrary, a negro dryman, testified that he frequently was at the factory Saturday afternoons and that he never saw Jim Conley watching at the entrance on the lower floor.

That Davey Howell, a 14-year-old boy who had been brought from the scene to the good shop in connection with the case, was especially testily against the young factory superintendent, and by one of the state's most important witnesses, was treated fairly by the jury.

After he had testified to the general good character of Frank, he told Attorney Arnold that he had been at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon last January, times when Frank was said to have had women in his office.

Solicitor Dorsey inquired of the witness how he happened to be sure of the days he was at the factory and the time in the afternoon when he visited there. Bauer said there were three reasons which recalled the time on the last occasion, but could not give an explanation that satisfied the Solicitor about the other times he was there.

Closely Guarded.

The Howell girl formerly lived in Atlanta before her commitment to the reform institution in Cincinnati, Ohio. She testified shortly after the arrival of the girl that she does not know what her testimony will be. He testified that the girl's connection with the case had developed since the trial began, and that the Solicitor was only aware of what she had said in the trial. Mrs. Howell also testified that she had been at the factory on the day of the murder, but could not give an explanation that satisfied the Solicitor about the other times he was there.

Frank's statement on the stand unquestionably will throw a question on the features of the trial. He is said to not content himself with explaining his movements on the day he believes are the substance of the crime, but to have been anxious for his attention to be directed to the question of allowing him to go through the ordeal after the strain of the last few months.

W. H. Minney distinguished, Africa the insurance collector who swore that he talked to Conley on the night of the murder of Mary Phagan, and that Conley told him of killing a girl. The attorneys for Frank did not attempt to bring out his intentions in respect to Minney or with what evidence they looked upon his story.

Gasoline Is a Necessity of Life Because--

Industry and Farming Are Necessary to Life, and GASOLINE is Necessary to Industry and Farming--When Will Government Investigate the Gasoline Question?

Every day in some part of the country the price of gasoline is increased.

Men that used to buy it for six and seven cents a gallon now buy it for twenty cents, twenty-five cents, and even more.

The gentlemen that control the gasoline supply need not worry about business or prosperity.

They simply make up their minds just how much robbery the public will stand--and raise the price of gasoline accordingly.

They can say to themselves, "With gasoline at eighteen cents we're getting so many millions. Let us sell gasoline at twenty cents and make so many millions more. Then gasoline at twenty-two cents, and make still more millions."

Only this question interests them: "Had we better take it all in a lump and run the risk of trouble, or take it slowly and cautiously?"

How many farmers after buying agricultural implements requiring the use of gasoline find themselves unable to use them economically because of the excessive price?

One trouble with the big Rambley Company, maker of agricultural implements, was the fact that not allowing for the thievish inclination of those that control the price of gasoline, the company built a great number of gasoline tractors--and has them on the hands unable to sell them, BECAUSE THE FARMERS FIND THAT THEY CAN'T AFFORD TO USE THE GASOLINE TRACTORS BECAUSE OF THE PRESENT PRICE OF GASOLINE.

What is this gasoline that gives tens of millions a year to a few, through extortion from many?

It is a product very simply made, of crude oil pumped out of the earth.

If this country had been properly managed from the start that oil WOULD BE THE PROPERTY OF THE PEOPLE, PAYING REVENUE AND PROFIT ONLY TO THE PEOPLE.

This gasoline is part of the wealth stored up in the earth millions of years ago, now monopolized for a few and used as a means of extortion.

This country pays out millions annually to prevent robbery on a SMALL scale.

Who to the man who takes a pair of shoes, a loaf of bread or an overcoat.

We are willing to spend millions to catch and punish him.

Why shouldn't we have a national police to stop thievery on a big scale, as well as the municipal police to stop the thievery on a small scale?

Why worry so much about the poor devil who steals ten dollars occasionally, and ignore only the very rich devil who steals ten millions or more at regular intervals?

The necessities of life, the necessities of industry, should not be agents of extortion.

The prices of necessities should be investigated by government, regulated by government.

And the gigantic organizations that are able to produce cheaply by combination and are permitted to rob wholesale should be compelled to give to the public their fair share of the economics and to sell AT A FAIR PRICE that which costs them nothing in comparison to the price asked.

The gasoline stealing has gone on about long enough. Government should do something more drastic about it than, loudly with the beating of drums, bring about so-called "disolution" of the trust, which has simply put up the price of stocks, put up the price of gasoline and increased the prosperity of the smiling individuals who laugh at government and laugh at law.

EVERYWHERE YOU GO : : : : : By Bert Green

be kept there until she is called to the witness stand. Chief Beavers has issued orders that no one is to be allowed to see her but himself and Mr. Bohnefeld.

As the last witnesses were being called by the defense, Frank, his wife and his mother viewed the proceedings with the same calmness that has marked their demeanor since the trial began, with the exception of the outburst of the mother two days before. On Friday she looked steadfastly downward and slightly toward the judge's bench as though she might be having some difficulty in maintaining her attitude of confidence and calmness.

As the defense neared the close of its case, the probability of the calling of W. H. Mincoy diminished. Mincoy is the insurance solicitor who swore that he talked to Conley the afternoon of the murder of Mary Phagan, and that Conley boasted to him of killing a girl. The attorneys for Frank would not announce definitely their intentions in respect to Mincoy or with what credence they looked upon his story.

Solicitor Dorsey brought before the jury for the first time, Friday the intimation that Frank might have sought to have disguised his handwriting when he was asked to write the test notes by the police and detectives.

M. O. Mix, a credit man at Montag Bros., was called to the stand to identify Frank's handwriting on the financial sheet. When Dorsey took the witness over cross-examination he showed photographic copies of the notes Frank wrote and asked Mix if it was Frank's writing. The witness was unable to say. The Solicitor did not suggest any motive in disguising his hand.

The Solicitor endeavored to get Joseph Stelker, one of the factory foremen, to testify that Frank did not go in to view the body of Mary Phagan when he was taken down to identify the girl. Stelker testified for the defense that some of the red varnish blood spots found on the factory floor.

The defense continued calling character witnesses at intervals throughout the forenoon. None were cross-examined yesterday and all said Frank's character was good.

When the case was resumed, Prizes was very problematical when the witness was called. According to Arthur Rosser, the defense man, before evening with Leo Frank having told his story on the stand, but neither Arnold was of the opinion that the defense still would be putting in evidence to-morrow.

Frank's statement on the stand unquestionably will be one of the striking features of the trial. He has studied the State's case carefully, and it is said will not content himself with merely denying his guilt and explaining his movements on the fact day, but will go somewhat into what he believes are the weaknesses of the State's chain of circumstances.

Girl's Testimony Mainstay Of Defense Alibi for Frank

In the presentation of its alibi for Leo M. Frank, the defense probably accomplished more Thursday than in any of its previous cases since the prosecution rested its case. Frank's lawyers had promised that they would show where Frank was practically every minute on the day the murder of Mary Phagan was committed and would demonstrate that it would have been impossible to carry out the disposal of the state girl's body and the writing of the notes as the negro, Jim Conley, described them.

It is their alibi witnesses who have believed, the lawyers appear to have fairly well accomplished this. Of the twelve minutes were spent by Conley in a closed in Frank's office according to the jury's testimony. Of the remaining four minutes were spent in writing the notes.

Witness Who Helped Build Alibi. Mrs. Albert B. Levy, No. 63 East Georgia avenue, swore she saw Frank get out of a car at about 1:20 o'clock and walk to the Bell home, No. 68 East Georgia avenue.

Mrs. and Mrs. Sallie already had testified he arrived home at 1:20 and ate luncheon. Mrs. M. C. Michael of Athens, Ga., said she saw Frank at about 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. Wolfshelmer, No. 323 Washington street, where she was visiting. She said he walked on to Glenn street and caught his car for town.

Julian Loebl, No. 330 Washington street, said that from across the street he saw Frank stop at No. 112 West Lexington and then go on to his car. J. C. Loebl, No. 445 Washington street, said he saw Frank at the Washington street car for town at Georgia avenue at about 2 o'clock. Frank got on his car at about 2:15 and drove to Glenn street and down town.

As the defense has done, and it will be up to the defense to see about particular incidents on the cross-examination or rest content with allowing the opinions of the State's witnesses to go unchallenged. In that event it would be merely one group saying Frank's character is good against another saying it is bad, with the jury to decide which it prefers to believe.

Q. What time did you leave on the Saturday you worked?—A. Usually I worked until 4 or 6 o'clock. Q. Do you recall missing any Saturdays when you were supposed to work?—A. No. Q. Did you ever know Frank to have any woman there drinking with him?—A. No.

Dorsey took the witness on cross-examination. Q. When they were working on that building on Forsyth street, what time you leave?—A. About 6 o'clock. Q. You don't know whether Frank had those women there when you worked there?—A. No. The witness was excused and H. D. Greenfield was called.

Q. Are you one of the owners of the Venable Building in which the pencil company has its factory?—A. Yes. Q. How long have you been with Montag Brothers?—A. Seven or eight years. Q. How long have you known Frank to be in the office?—A. About 10 years. Q. How long have you known him?—A. No.

This particular spot if Christopher Columbus Barrett had not pointed it out to you?—A. I don't think I would.

Q. Were you at the undertaking establishment Sunday afternoon?—A. Yes.

Q. What impression were you and Frank under about the coroner's inquest?

Dorsey objected and was sustained.

Q. Do you know whether Frank saw the body of little Mary Phagan?—A. No.

Q. Did you understand the coroner's inquest was to be held there?—A. I heard it was there.

The witness was offered as a character witness and declared that Frank's character was good. He further said that Jim Conley's character was bad and that he would not believe the negro under oath.

Dorsey took the witness on cross-examination.

Q. What wages do you get?—A. $10 a week.

Q. How long have you been getting that?—A. A year and a half.

Q. Where are you from?—A. New York.

Q. Did you know Frank there?—A. No.

Q. When did you discuss Conley's character with?—A. No one.

Q. Then you don't mean to tell me that you are giving just an opinion?—A. I was talking about what he had done to me.

"Then I move to rule it out," said Dorsey. "It is nothing but this man's personal opinion."

Q. Did you ever hear anyone say anything about Conley's character?—A. I heard it.—A. I saw him myself.

Q. Frank took him back when he came out of the changing, didn't he?—A. Don't you know that a negro is much better when he comes out of the changing than he was before?

Q. Well, what did Conley do to you?—A. I sent him out for 35 cents worth of beer, and when he brought it back it was half water. I said, "Didn't you put water in here?" and he said, "No, I wouldn't do anything like that."

Q. How do you know he put water in the beer?—A. By the taste.

Q. When was that?—A. Last summer.

Q. What time was it?—A. At 10:30.

Q. How do you know the time?—A. I went to get that bucket full every day at the time.—A. Yes.

Q. What did you do with that beer?—A. I threw it out.

Q. Did you see him again?—A. No.

Q. What time did Frank come to the undertaker's?—A. A little after 1 o'clock.

Q. How was he dressed?—A. In a blue or brown suit.

Q. Who came with Frank?—A. He came alone.

Q. How big was the room in which the body was?—A. Fifteen by fifteen.

Q. It was a great big room?—A. Not very.

Q. What kind of a room?—A. I never noticed it. I just looked at the body and walked out.

Q. How was the door located?—A. On the right side of the passageway.

Q. How far did you go into this room?—A. Just to the door.

Q. Describe the body?—One eye was badly discolored. There was a scar on the right of the face. The hair was hanging loose.

Q. Well, so on.—A. I didn't look so close.

Q. Who suggested you going to look at the body?—A. Fella Yankee.

Q. Didn't you say a white ago that you sat there two minutes and got up and looked at the body, and that the body?—A. Later.

Q. How much later?—A. It might have been twenty minutes.

Q. How far did you have to go back to see the body?—A. You could stand in the door.

Q. Did the seeing of that body have any effect on Frank's appearance?—A. No, he looked just like he does now.

Q. You don't know whether Frank went into that room or not?—A. No.

Q. You felt unassured?—A. Yes.

Went to Morgue

Q. Was there anybody connected with the factory who went back with the undertaking establishment with Frank?—A. No.

Q. Can you name anyone else from the factory who was there?—A. Let me think.

Q. Now, why did you go there?—A. I wanted to see who she was.

Q. Didn't you know it was Mary Phagan?—A. I heard it when I got there.

Q. Well, why did you go there when it would fear you all to piece?—A. I wanted to see the business.

Arnold has already gone into that.

Q. Your honor, I want to test this witness's recollection.

Arnold's objection was sustained, and he took the witness.

Q. You are a German, aren't you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You like to drink your beer, don't you?—A. Yes.

Q. You sent Jim Conley after beer and he brought it back half water, didn't he?—A. Yes, and I asked him if he had put his black mouth, which a white man was to drink. He said no, and I asked him.

The witness was excused and P. D. McCortley, of No. 24 Hampton street, now has charge of the cotton seed oil business of Leo M. Frank, the wealthy uncle of Leo M. Frank, was placed on the stand.

McCortley testified to Frank's character as being good.

Mrs. M. W. Meyer, followed McCortley, and said she had known Leo Frank for five years and that his character was good.

Mrs. David Marx, No. 355 Washington street, the wife of Rabbi Marx, followed Mrs. Meyer. Mrs. Marx said that Frank's character was very good.

Mrs. Arthur I. Harris, A. L. Guldberg, No. 118 Washington street, and H. S. Rice, of No. 14 Washington street, followed each other in rapid succession on the witness stand as character witnesses for Frank. They each declared that they knew the accused very well, and that his character was good.

Mrs. E. Ologowski, who has a boarding house at No. 479 Washington street, testified that Frank boarded with her for several months prior to his marriage and that his character was very good.

Mrs. J. E. Bumpstead, a physician, and Mrs. L. H. Moore, Mrs. Joseph G. Brown, William Bauer, No. 28 Washington street; Miss Helen Leeb and Emil Dittler, who he stated as character witnesses in behalf of Frank.

E. E. Fitzpatrick, of 105 Sinclair avenue, Inman Park, foreman of the shipping department of Montag Bros., testified that he had known Frank for several years, and that his character was good.

Now, why did you go there?—A. I wanted to see who she was.

Q. Didn't you know it was Mary Phagan?—A. I heard it when I got there.

Q. You like to drink your beer, don't you?—A. Yes.

Q. You sent Jim Conley after beer and he brought it back half water, didn't he?—A. Yes, and I asked him if he had put his black mouth, which a white man was to drink. He said no, and I asked him.

The witness was excused and P. D. McCortley, of No. 24 Hampton street, now has charge of the cotton seed oil business of Leo M. Frank, the wealthy uncle of Leo M. Frank, was placed on the stand.

McCortley testified to Frank's character as being good.

Mrs. M. W. Meyer, followed McCortley, and said she had known Leo Frank for five years and that his character was good.

Mrs. David Marx, No. 355 Washington street, the wife of Rabbi Marx, followed Mrs. Meyer. Mrs. Marx said that Frank's character was very good.

Mrs. Arthur I. Harris, A. L. Guldberg, No. 118 Washington street, and H. S. Rice, of No. 14 Washington street, followed each other in rapid succession on the witness stand as

Mrs. George Brown Given Pen That Made Mothers' Bill a Law

Mrs. George Brown, wife of the doctor who has been working hard in behalf of reform measures in the legislature, received her reward for the vigorous fight for the mothers' bill by bill prize money when Governor Clayton presented her with the pen with which he signed the bill.

Mrs. Brown was visibly excited when she walked into the Governor's study and saw the bill. "The pen which I signed the mothers' bill," she said, "is now in my hands. The Governor scanned the bill for a moment then reached for the pen which Mrs. Brown handed him. "There it is," said the Governor as he put the finishing touches on his signature.

SLATION DELUGED WITH BILLS AS SESSION ENDS

Tax Reform Act Only Important Measure Signed—Assembly Musically Adjourns.

With the Legislature adjourned after 60 days of hard work, in which some of the best laws in the history of the State were enacted, the work of transmitting the measures to Governor Bligh for his signature will begin to-day, and the Executive Office will be swamped with the bills. More than 100 have already been introduced and sent to the Governor, but there still remain between 200 and 300 local and general bills.

Of the 100 or more that are already in the Governor's office, but of general importance has been signed. That is the tax reform bill, which was signed by the Governor and became a law at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The pen with which Governor Bligh signed the bill is that which is expected to revolutionize the taxation system of the State, and will be given to Representative C. C. Clarke, who introduced the original tax equalization bill, and who has been one of the reform leaders throughout the session.

Though the Governor has signed several local bills which Representatives and Senators will have become operative immediately. It is hardly probable that many of the general bills will reach the Governor until next week, when they will all be in his office.

Adjourns at 10:12 O'clock.

The Legislature adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock last night. Speaker Burwell brought his gavel down for the last time this year at 10:12 o'clock, and President Anderson, of the Senate, adjourned that body three minutes later. Two minutes after the gavel rang out the House was in the throng of song. Representative Blumhagen climbed upon a seat and led the Representatives in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Practically the only work the House had to do at night was to adjourn, which was done at 10:12 o'clock. The House adjourned at 10:12 o'clock, and the Senate adjourned at 10:15 o'clock. The House adjourned at 10:12 o'clock, and the Senate adjourned at 10:15 o'clock. The House adjourned at 10:12 o'clock, and the Senate adjourned at 10:15 o'clock.

During the week on the Senate the House took a recess and the members proceeded to kill the time by putting on stunts that eclipsed the usual frolic. In the afternoon the only Legislature are brought to a close. The House adjourned at 10:12 o'clock, and the Senate adjourned at 10:15 o'clock.

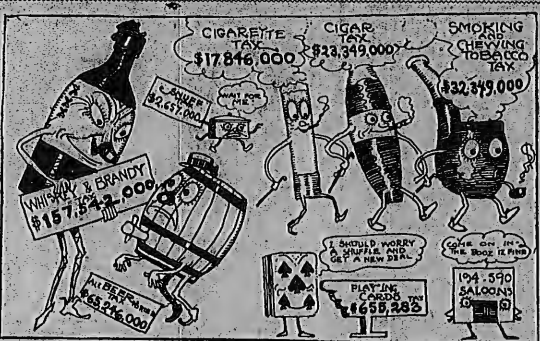

James Keppes Song Going. Representative James Keppes, of the 10th district, was surrounded by a group of vocalists and near-vocalists, all of whom were singing in honor of him. The House adjourned at 10:12 o'clock, and the Senate adjourned at 10:15 o'clock.

Clearest Faced Boy Falls From Grace. DARY, IND., Aug. 16.—"Andy" Hall, the 13-year-old Italian boy who won the red necktie and world-wide fame in the clean-face contest in the Gary schools, has fallen from grace. Neither "Andy" nor his father, who is a prominent business man in Gary, has been heard from since school let out for the summer vacation and Miss Laura Knapp, his teacher, left Gary, Ind. He has played at summer with other children, but his face and necktie resemble those of a better still, of one family.

ROAN LEADS ALL IN JUDICIAL RACE

Even in Atlanta Sentiment Turns Toward Jurist of the Stone Mountain Circuit.

Notwithstanding the fact that several members of the Atlanta bar have committed themselves to "an Atlanta lawyer" unnamed for the newly created Atlanta Superior Court Judge, and that this movement is considered generally to be directed against Judge L. E. Roan, the probable appointee, the impression prevails that Governor Bligh will undoubtedly name Judge Roan for the place.

Judge Roan, although nominally the judge of the Stone Mountain Circuit, has presided for several years as judge of the criminal division of the Atlanta Circuit, and has given very great satisfaction. Inasmuch as the new judgeship is to be a criminal judgeship, many members of the Atlanta bar think Judge Roan is the logical man for the honor, and they are backing him accordingly.

During his service as judge of the criminal division in Atlanta, he has tried many of the most important cases before the court, and his reputation for fairness and justice is well established. Already a large number of Atlanta attorneys have indicated to Judge Roan that they would support him if appointed to the position. It is thought will be announced within a few days.

This Big Sum Went for Liquor, Tobacco and Cards, Says Government Report.

Uncle Sam collected $344,424,453 from vice during the year which ended June 30, according to figures just made public.

If you play a friendly game of cards, if you drink if you smoke, if you chew or if you use snuff, you contributed to this enormous sum. This amount which was collected in internal revenue taxes, is the greatest in the history of the country.

The report submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. C. O. Conroy, shows that the heaviest tax was paid on whiskey and brandy. The amount collected on the 14,000 gallons consumed during the fiscal year was $19,844,000. For the $3,348,000 paid on beer, porter and ale, a tax of $5,458,000 was paid.

The 14,716,710,000 cigarettes which were smoked brought in $17,846,000 in taxes and $23,349,000 was collected on 749,934,000 cigars. The tax on the chewing and smoking of 14,282,000 pounds of tobacco was $23,349,000. About users paid $2,657,000 on 2,322,000 pounds of cigars. The tax on 27,741,185 pounds of cards was over $1,655,232. The tax on the number of saloons decreased 2,184, to 104,590. The increased consumption of intoxicants.

lumbus Harrett had not pointed it out to you?—A. I don't think I would.

Q. Were you at the undertaking establishment Sunday afternoon?—A. Yes.

Q. What impression were you and Frank under about the coroner's inquest?—A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know whether Frank saw the body of little Mary Phagan?—A. No.

Q. Did you understand the Coroner's inquest was to be held there?—A. I heard it was there.

Q. Did you see any character as a character witness and declared that Frank's character was good. He further said that Jim Conley's character was bad and that he would not believe the negro under oath.

Dorsey took the witness on cross-examination.

Q. What was do you get?—A. $10 a week.

Q. How long have you been getting that?—A. A year and a half.

Q. Where are you from?—A. New York.

Q. Did you know Frank there?—A. No.

Q. Whom did you discuss Conley's character with?—A. No one.

Q. Then you don't mean to tell me that you are giving just an opinion?—A. I was talking about what he had done to me.

Q. When I move to ride it out?—A. Said Dorsey: "It is nothing but this man's personal opinion."

Says Conley Mixed Water With Beer.

Judge Ross—I sustain you under those circumstances.

Q. Did you ever hear anyone say anything about Conley's character?—A. I heard he was in the challenge.

Q. Who said it?—A. I saw him myself.

Q. Frank took him back when he came out of the challenge, didn't he?—A. Don't you know that a negro is much better when he comes out of the challenge than he was before?

Q. Well, what did Conley do to you?—A. I sent him out for 35 cents worth of beer, and when he brought it back it was half water. I said, "Didn't you put water in here?" and he said, "No, it wouldn't do anything like that."

Q. How do you know he put water in the beer?—A. By the taste.

Q. When was this?—A. Last summer.

Q. What time was it?—A. At 10:30.

Q. How do you know the time?—A. Was it your habit to get that bucket full every day at this time?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you do with this beer?—A. I threw it out.

Q. Did you send him again?—A. No.

Q. Why?—A. Because the waiter at the undertaker's?—A. A little after 2 o'clock.

Q. How was he dressed?—A. In a blue or brown suit.

Q. Who came with Frank?—A. He came alone.

Q. How big was the room in which the body was kept?—A. Fifteen by fifteen.

Q. Was it a street room?—A. Not very.

Q. What kind of a room?—A. I

His Sweetheart's Hair

Copyright, 1912, by International News Service.

By Nell Binkley

HERE is some lover's glorification, the song of his enamored heart, his "Beata Mea Domina," in praise of his sweetheart's hair. I do not even know who wrote it. It was sent to me.

Lovers have always longed and yearned over the skins of silk on the heads of the women they loved. Sometimes her hair is short, gypsy-dark, tangled in curls, metallic and crisp.

Sometimes it is brown and fine and long and sleek. Sometimes it is violet-black and Indian-straight, shadowy as a night-cloud and dusty-fine to the touch.

Sometimes it is red, glittering hair by hair in the sun, plenteous, stiff to touch, thick and deeply wavy.

Sometimes it is deep-gold, like an autumn leaf, heavy and silky and ripply.

Sometimes it is pale-gold, fine as thistle-down, like a veil of sunshine, spreading wide and generous when shaken out, but crushing to nothing in the hands.

Whatever of these sorts it is, some lover twirls in its sure snare and sends up his grateful chant.

Here, I think, it must have been the deep-gold sort, heavy and silky and ripply, and colored like an autumn leaf. Listen!

She braids it in two heavy braids That reach the carpet high, And winds them crosswise, napè to crown, To cross again and then come down, And cross again on high. I watch with joy that never fades; A fortunate man am I.

"She twirls it from a silken twist Into a coil instead, Each side rasts against her ear; Its weight is on her collar clear, Heavy it seems as her good will, A rope thick as her good wrist, She fastens it to her head.

"To styles not blond, She can not bind, as other women do, That scented mass, that smells of wheat, And lavender and apples sweet. She plies the great combs through, More lovely than all maiden kind, A woman twenty—"

About Introducing People

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED.

Author of "The Etiquette of New York To-day."

There are many sorts of introductions, the ceremonious and the unceremonious, the pre-arranged and unpre-arranged, the dictated by under circumstances, and the spontaneous. There should be some knowledge of the part of anyone making an introduction that it will be agreeable to the person concerned. Harshness and good judgment must be used in deciding the question of introducing people to one another, or of not doing so.

The general rule to be remembered is that when an introduction is pre-arranged, the wishes of both persons should be consulted. A man should not be introduced to a woman unless her consent is asked. The custom is for a man to ask a friend in common to introduce him to a lady at any social gathering. It is usually proper for the person making the introduction to do so unobtrusively. A request of the sort is very good reason for a refusal. The formal reason for introducing is "Miss B. is going to introduce Mr. C." In a very informal introduction, the mention of the names is sufficient, thus: "A man is introduced to a woman, never the reverse."

I heard a young mother talking to her little son about his teeth—telling him how important it is that the teeth be kept clean.

"If you want to be a big, strong boy," she said, "and then be big and strong, you must have good teeth. And to keep your teeth strong you must remember now, while you are a little boy, to brush them twice every day."

"The young mother told me that the young boy liked the taste of Ribbon Dental Cream and that this had helped her in introducing him to form the important daily habit. Of course, she talked with him about it now and then to impress on him the great advantage to his health and comfort that comes with this daily care. This, before a year," she added, "I have the dentist look him over."

You too should use COLGATE'S RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

Dr. Cameron's courtesy had by this time returned. He pushed forward a chair and invited his visitor to sit down. "I shall be happy to hear," said he, and then he turned to the doctor, who drew from a window recess near by. "I am Julius Moleworth. If you do not remember me as your former associate and fellow-practitioner, you probably will as one of the leading witnesses in an incident which has aroused considerable attention of late."

Dr. Cameron's countenance changed. For reasons that we know, he had taken a great interest in this incident, although he had said nothing about it to his wife.

"Fardon me," he replied, "I do recollect. I read of the death of your affianced wife with the utmost sympathy. For—"

"For she died upon the same night that you were married," broke in Dr. Moleworth, completing the doctor's sentence.

Dr. Cameron bowed. "It is of Miss Parry and her unaccountable death that I have first to speak," continued the intruder calmly. "If you have read the proceedings, you know what the verdict was and what general opinion was given me at the inquest. You will therefore be surprised to hear that for some reason unknown to the police authorities have been to discover the evidence given by the doctor at that time, and that I stated before you in this character of an accused man, who had been charged with the murder of a woman."

A Conundrum.

"I am sure," Dr. Cameron murmured, glancing with some embarrassment at the tall and immovable figure of his wife, "that you are mistaken as to the date of the evening case."

"Do not think you must express surprise or sympathy," interrupted Dr. Moleworth coolly. "I am innocent, but be fortified, 'that has nothing to do with the fact that my prospects are ruined by this episode and my career at an end. Whether I am committed to trial or not, my name must suffer and my practice receive a shock from which it will be some time to recover. It is a great misfortune to me, I acknowledge, but you may make it a less serious one if you will."

"It is a conundrum which I have pronounced to you," he observed, in calm response to what he had before said.

Curiosity or Interest?

THAN anything there was a great ball in Washington, and the woman who alone the most remarkable and received the most prizes was our young bride, Genevieve Cameron. Even her husband, who had begun to expect greatness from her, was amazed. Words in which she was somewhat lacking came freely from her lips, and she was laughing and happy as the palm of knowledge glittered in her eyes and with that enigmatical smile.

The paper was handed to him, and the doctor's two heads, so dissimilar in appearance and yet so like in their expression of intellectual superiority, came together over it.

The consultation which followed will not interest the reader. It was purely professional and of a sort which is not to be read by the general public. It was in fact to save me from any attempt to reproduce it. Dr. Cameron's look of respect and possible judgment gave way to one of unbridled admiration, and he asked, without any sense of envy in his voice:

"How did you come by this, Moleworth? It had the appearance of a positive discovery to me."

"It is hard to say," he observed, in the other's reply. "I got nothing by intuition, as you do."

Do You Know—

The deepest collyry in the world is at Lambert, in No. 300-2500 first deep. Naturalists say that a single drop will cure 6,000 cases in a day.

The Case is a clever whistler and claims to win the most intricate variations on national air. He entertains intimate friends in this way:

Charles W. Rockefeller, a professional criminal, during his imprisonment in the Ohio Penitentiary became prominent in the knowledge of electricity. He invented an electrical stenograph machine and several other useful appliances.

Back to Mother.

It was a trifling incident—almost too trifling to record—but it worried her, and it was not long before she felt that she had to return home. In the early morning they started for New York.

It had been Dr. Cameron's intention to carry his wife direct to the home he had prepared for her. But their unexpected return made this inadvisable, and accordingly he took her to St. Nicholas place. She had not wished to go there, but she did not know how to make objections, so she said nothing, and by a check of that same day she found herself in her mother's arms.

"My dear child," said her mother's grateful salutation as she turned her cold cheek formally to her daughter's lips. "What a delightful surprise! And this what an unkind child you have been not to write to me! I don't believe a word about the rumormongers, who say you are in your sole care. You were married, you have simply been away or unwell to show your power over your good husband. If he writes to you regularly, good for nothing girl that you are!"

VOL. XII. NO. 12

ATLANTA, GA., SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1915.

ONLY ONE OF FACTORY WOMEN FAILS TO AID CASE OF THEIR CHIEF

Two factory girls, one of them defending Leo M. Frank with all the eloquence at her command, and the other admitting that she had known of the factory superintendent opening the door to the girls' dressing room on three different occasions and looking in, formed the center of interest among the scores of witnesses who were called Saturday by the defense. They were Miss Irene Jackson and Miss Sarah Barnes.

Miss Jackson, daughter of County Policeman Jackson, testified on direct examination that she never had known of any improper conduct on the part of Frank, and that his character was good. Cross-questioned by Solicitor Dorsey she admitted that she had been in the room where the girls change from their street to their working clothes and had witnessed Frank open the door, look in and then turn around and leave. Once, she said, Miss Emmeline Mayfield was in the room with her. On another time her sister was there, and on a third occasion, she said Miss Mamie Kitchens was the other girl in the room.

She said that her sister had started to quit at the time Frank opened the door when she was in the dressing room. The witness was asked by N. V. Darley, general manager of the factory, whether she had made the remark at the time several girls were thinking of quitting the factory directly after the murder, that "if the girls talk by us through this, they won't lose anything by it." Miss Jackson said she had heard Darley say this. Miss Jackson quit work the day after the body was found.

Frank's Mother Again on Stand

Another long string of character witnesses occupied most of the session which was adjourned shortly after 3 o'clock for the day. Mrs. Max Frank, the defendant's mother, was placed on the stand at the beginning of court, but remained there only long enough to be questioned somewhat in detail as to the means of Frank's relatives.

One of the sensations of the day came during the testimony of W. D. McWorth, Pinkerton operative, who testified to the findings on the first floor of the pencil factory a paper envelope with Mary Phagan's initials and number on it, a bloody club, part of a whip, a piece of rope and spots near the trapdoor leading into the basement resembling bloodstains. Exactly the value of his findings did not develop either from the examination by the defense or the prosecution. Dorsey, however, sought to show that the Phagans dealt in had faith with the city detective department by reporting their discoveries as soon as made.

Court adjourned with the testimony of Charles Branch, an Atlanta Journal reporter, who estimated the time it required Jim Conley to re-narrate his version of the disposal of Mary Phagan's body, up to the writing of the notes as 47 minutes.

Mr. Vahemently Defends Frank

Miss Sarah Barnes was Frank's vehement defender. The first question asked her was the signal for a torrent of words that neither Attorney Arnold nor the Solicitor was able to stop until she paused for breath.

"Do you know Leo M. Frank, the defendant in this case?" was asked.

She replied that she not only knew him, but that she knew he was a good man; a perfect gentleman, always good to the girls and everyone else in the factory, never attempting any familiarities or talking to the girls except in regard to their work and never being guilty of any of the charges that have been made against him by the State.

"I know Mr. Frank couldn't have committed that murder," she cried positively, emphasizing her words with a vigorous brandishing of her fan.

"I'd be willing to die in his place. I'd be willing to fight for him. I'd be willing they'd give me any sort of death they wanted to. I just wish I could make everybody believe in his innocence!"

Judge Reed, just before court adjourned, made this statement to the jury:

"A number of reasons we won't hold a session this afternoon. I am sorry, but I believe this will be the last Sabbath you will be seen."

Autos Block Fire Engines at Blaze Near Five Points

A lighted cigar, cigarette, dropped from a room in the Empire Building, set fire to the roof of the building, near Five Points, about noon Saturday, and a crowd of several thousand people quickly gathered.

On account of the great number of automobiles and other vehicles parked in front of the building and all along Marilla street the fire department had some difficulty in getting the trucks near enough to be effective. Quick work of the firemen stopped the spread of the flames, but virtually no damage being done.

Chief Cummings stated after the fire that it was only Providence that enabled the firemen to get near the fire before it gained dangerous proportions, and that the practice of allowing automobiles to block the streets is continued, it is only a matter of time until a serious fire results.

Shoots Man in Court As Jury Frees Him

MONTGOMERY, Aug. 15.—As a jury in the City Court returned a verdict acquitting Will Smith, a negro, of the charge of shooting Robert Sears, a constable and former deputy sheriff, the officer drew his revolver and fired several shots in the courtroom before he was overpowered. One shot broke Smith's arm, another wounded him in a shoulder and a third struck him in the cheek.

Judge Armstrong Brown ordered Sears to jail for contempt of court and summoned the grand jury to meet Monday and investigate the shooting.

Physically Perfect Girl Is College Athlete

PUEBLO, COLO., Aug. 15.—"Booie," a white bulldog pet of the family of Alonso Hunt, was the hero of an exciting fight with a rattlesnake. To save his year-old mistress, Lucille, he fought between her and the reptile. Receiving the full force of the snake's bite, the dog succumbed in a struggle before he succumbed to the snake's venom.

DEADLOCK IN FIGHT ON SULZER

Violence Not Expected—Impassioned Governor, Surrounded by Guards, Works at Capitol

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Neither drastic nor violent steps will be taken by Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn to force William Sulzer, the impeached Governor of New York, from office—at least not to-day. Owing to the fact that this was a half holiday at the State office, Mr. Glynn spent but a few minutes at the Capitol, and, while both Sulzer and Glynn refused to budge an inch, matters were at a deadlock.

Accompanied by his bodyguard, Governor Sulzer walked from the executive mansion to the Capitol, where he planned into State business, just as though his right to exercise the gubernatorial prerogatives were not contested.

Lieutenant Governor Glynn, who claims the power of Article 15, Section 1, of the Constitution, will not assert against Sulzer's power to hold office from the Capitol to the State House No. 3 on Marilla street, near Five Points, about noon Saturday, and a crowd of several thousand people quickly gathered.

Absence of an actual outbreak today was a surprise to many who expected to see the executive chamber a battleground for the Sulzer and Tammany forces.

Both sides are taking elaborate precautions to guard against a riot. Throughout the night armed guards stood watch over each State department, while lawyers and legislators involved in the situation were strictly in retirement, planning a new legal move with their counsel.

Messages City telegrams could not find the Governor, but members of the dispatches saying they would find the Governor. Leaders of the anti-Sulzer faction made the threat that Mr. Glynn now having control of the State Military Department, would actually invade the executive chamber.

"He will get a mighty warm reception," declared the Sulzer adherents, who are few, but courageous.

Some residents of the city, realizing the intense seriousness of the situation, fear that conditions may become so grave that martial law will have to be declared.

It was assumed that Governor Sulzer to-day would reply to the second note from Lieutenant Governor Glynn, demanding an unconditional surrender of all prerogatives by Mr. Sulzer and the abolition of the Governor's Council were with the Governor at the instigation of the official day, and it was reported that the governor was urged to take a flight at Tammany Hall.

The First National Bank to-day refused to honor checks cashed for by Martin H. Glynn as Acting Governor. The checks were not the payment of salaries of the Department of the Adjutant General.
