Won't Ask That Nomination for Postmaster at Gainesville Be Withdrawn in Favor of A. S. Hardy

MAY ISSUE FORMAL STATEMENT LATER

Georgia Senators Will Urge Mrs. Ham's Confirmation, Notwithstanding Protest of Mrs. Longstreet, Who Loses

BY ADAM BERRY.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Mrs. M. W. Ham, widow of the late "Whiskey" John Ham, was nominated last Saturday afternoon for postmaster at Gainesville, Fla., by the Senate. Mrs. Ham, whose term of office expired on December 1, 1911, will assume the duties of her office immediately following her confirmation by the Senate. The Georgia senators will urge her confirmation at the next session of the Senate. Mrs. Ham is a native of Georgia and has resided in Gainesville for many years. She is a member of the Episcopal church and is well known in the community. Her husband was a prominent citizen and a member of the same church. Mrs. Ham's nomination has caused some discussion in the Senate, particularly because of the opposition of Mrs. Longstreet, who is a prominent citizen of Gainesville and a member of the same church as Mrs. Ham. Mrs. Longstreet has expressed her opposition to Mrs. Ham's nomination, and has urged the Senate to withdraw the nomination in favor of A. S. Hardy, who is also a native of Georgia and has resided in Gainesville for many years. Mrs. Hardy is a member of the Episcopal church and is well known in the community. Her nomination has also caused some discussion in the Senate, particularly because of the opposition of Mrs. Longstreet. The Senate will issue a formal statement later regarding the nomination of Mrs. Ham and the opposition of Mrs. Longstreet.

Mr. Frank's Manner at the Time He Was Informed of the Tragedy by Officers at His Home on Sunday Morning is Told by Former Policeman—Both Frank and the Negro Night Watchman Are Expected to Testify During Afternoon, When Inquest Will Be Concluded

The coroner's inquest into the mysterious murder of Mary Phagan, which adjourned at 12:30 o'clock Thursday to meet again at 9 A. M. at the last of adjournment, its witnesses had testified. They were "Mollie" Rogers, former co-worker; Lemmie Quinn, foreman of the plant factory; Frank J. L. Wilson and Miss Inez Jones, L. M. Frank and Nevi Lee, the negro night watchman; and several factory employees during the morning session, but neither had been recalled to the stand when the coroner was ordered to adjourn. It is expected that the coroner will make an effort to break down the testimony of the witnesses who were present at the factory on the day of the tragedy shortly after noon just after Mary Phagan is supposed to have received her pay envelope and left. Quinn's story, he declared, that he had recalled his visit to Mr. Frank, and that Mr. Frank told him he was going to communicate the fact to his lawyers.

Suits of Blue and TerraCotta

The ground is blue. One of those rich shades, not too dark nor too light, one that shows luster in the sunlight and goes black at night.

Suited at intervals of a pencil width runs a clay, broken stripe of terra cotta, too indistinct for prominence, but sufficient in a strong light to lend a beautiful tone to the blue.

Imagine this color—blue and terra cotta. The coats are cut after the fashion of the day—natural shoulders with soft, graceful, rolling lapels. Coat, vest and trousers.
