FELDER EXONERATES BEAVERS, BUT SAYS LANFORD IS CORRUPT

Witnesses Summoned in Dictograph Controversy, Although Foreman Says Vice Probe Is Not Complete

BEAVERS AND FELDER ASK INVESTIGATION

Felder's Charges Against Lanford to Be Heard With Dictograph Case—Felder Says the Records Are Forged

Four witnesses were called Wednesday morning by the Fulton county grand jury to testify in the dictograph case against the late Mayor Lanford. They were Chief Thomas B. Pridor, who was on the stand last week; Tuesday, A. J. Young, a real estate man; J. C. Hester, agent of the South Express company; and Police Chief Henry Beavers.

COUNCILMEN AGREE THAT CITY MUST HAVE MORE MONEY

Bond Issue, Special School Tax and Amendment to State Constitution Are Among the Plans Discussed

MAYOR WILL OPPOSE ISSUANCE OF BONDS

Declares He Doesn't Think the "People Will Vote Any More Bonds to Be Spent by That Gang Now in Council"

That the supreme court's decision in the dictograph case puts the city of Atlanta in a position where it is obliged either to raise bonds or raise the tax rate to meet the new requirements of the state is the opinion of the members of the council. They say the city's current revenue is not and never will be sufficient to meet the new requirements for which there is a need.

THE PRIDE OF ATLANTA

SENATE PROBE CALLS DR. JAMESON QUILTS AS HEAD OF MERCER IN LOBBYISTS TO BE GRILLED NEXT WEEK

His Resignation, Alleged to Have Been Accepted, Followed Resolutions of Trustees Calling for His Retirement as President

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The senate was agreed today in the passage of a resolution to probe the activities of Mercer university, one of the best-known denominational institutions in the south. The resolution, introduced by the committee on education, calls for a full investigation of the university, with the exception of the committee members who resigned. The resolutions were requested in resolutions adopted by the trustees at a meeting held last night.

ATLANTA'S FOOD MEN BEGIN HOLIDAYS IN 3-MILE LONG PARADE

Scattered Souvenirs, Novelty and Confetti Along the City's Downtown Streets

The grocers and butchers of Atlanta are taking a half holiday and celebrating the same with a great parade. Starting from the state capital shortly after 1 o'clock, the procession stretched a length of three miles—the longest ever held in Atlanta and the first of its kind in the city's history.

MILITANT TRAMPLED BENEATH KING'S STEED

Suffragist Grapples Reins of King George's Race Horse, Anmer, at Espom

By Associated Press. ATLANTA, June 4.—The most tragic race ever on the historic course at Espom was accompanied today by an act of startling character. A militant suffragist, while riding a race horse named King George, trampled a woman under his hooves.

SENSATIONAL AFFIDAVIT MADE BY MINOLA McKNIGHT, NEGRO COOK, HOME OF L. M. FRANK

In This Affidavit Minola Tells of Conversation That Occurred Between Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Sellig, in Which Mrs. Frank is Alleged to Have Said Frank Was Drinking on Night of Tragedy, and That He Wanted a Pistol to Kill Himself

MRS. FRANK SAID, SO NEGRO COOK SWEARS, THAT FRANK MADE HER SLEEP ON THE FLOOR THAT NIGHT. NEGRO SAYS FURTHER THAT FRANK CAME HOME AT 1:30 O'CLOCK ON FATAL SATURDAY, BUT REMAINED ONLY TEN MINUTES, AND THAT HE LEFT WITHOUT EATING HIS DINNER—AFFIDAVIT IS VAGUE AND CONFUSED—IT IS GIVEN HERE IN FULL

An affidavit sworn to by Minola McKnight, the negro servant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sellig, where Leo M. Frank and his wife were made a victim by Chief Detective Henry Lanford Wednesday afternoon, in the affidavit Minola McKnight tells of alleged conversations at a Sellig home in which Mrs. Frank is quoted as saying that Frank was drunk on Saturday night, April 20, and that he made her sleep on the floor that night.

WANTED TO KILL HIMSELF. Minola McKnight said that she had seen Mrs. Frank on the night of the tragedy, and that she had seen her talking to a man who she said was a doctor. She said that she had seen Mrs. Frank on the night of the tragedy, and that she had seen her talking to a man who she said was a doctor.

This Declaration Made by General R. K. Evans—Ho Gives Reasons Why

That the entire assembly army of the United States is equipped with the latest and most effective arms and equipment, and that the Japanese are inferior to them in every respect, is the opinion of General R. K. Evans, commanding the Second Brigade of the First Cavalry Division.

General Evans has just returned from an extended tour which included Washington, D. C., and the various military posts in the United States. He has been in the United States for several months and has seen the latest and most effective arms and equipment of the United States Army. He has also seen the arms and equipment of the Japanese Army.

General Evans has seen the arms and equipment of the Japanese Army in the Philippines and in the island of Formosa. 'We've Started a General Housecleaning,' Says Felder

What if we were doing nothing else but housecleaning, would you be any more interested in the job? That is the question that Chief of Police James J. Connelley asks in a speech before the grand jury today.

Chief Connelley's speech was a scathing indictment of the city's police force. He accused the police of being inefficient and corrupt. He said that the police were not doing their job and that they were not interested in the city's welfare.
