Gov. Slaton Delivers Address at Graduation Exercises of Atlanta Medical College.

The graduation exercises of the Atlanta Medical college were held last night in the Atlanta theater. This is the third year of the commencement program of the institution. A large audience was in attendance.

The Atlanta Medical college was opened before the war, and is one of the city's most successful institutions.

Tom Y. Young, a Chinaman claiming to be a physician and in charge of the Oriental Herb company at 45 Houston street, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having, following on a recent return from the federal grand jury, made which he was charged with violating the United States laws to defraud. He was held for trial in the state prison. He had no trouble in making the bond.

Shortly after coming to Atlanta Young located at 45 Houston street, within a short time converted the former a veritable Oriental palace, making it both for offices and residence.

Through the newspapers and with clever and inviting advertising cards Young has been advertising his services for that purpose. Dr. Young advertised that he could cure all diseases, many chronic troubles of disease; that physicians had been saved and the sick restored to health by his skill.

Young's accomplishments against the doctor reached the postoffice department, Inspector E. P. Smith of the office of Dr. Young, who is Dr. C. M. Nelson. Certificates of pro motion were awarded by John T. Givens, who is now in the service of the state by Governor John M. Slaton, and the benediction by Dr. Holdery.

Comments on the trial were that this has been the most progressive year of its history. Four hundred and thirty students have been matriculated during the year. There were graduates last night.

Graduates were awarded by Rev. A. R. Holdery, Dr. John M. Slaton, Dr. C. M. Nelson, Dr. W. A. Elkin. The first, second and third sections of the Dr. D. B. Holmes Institute, Dr. C. M. Nelson, Dr. C. M. Nelson. Certificates of pro

AKERMAN LOSES AGAIN.

There are only two federal district attorneys for Georgia.Alexander Akerman, a hidebound republican, offensively partisan, holds the office for the southern district of Georgia, nearly two years after the election of a democratic administration.The excuse given for retaining him in office is against a score of good south Georgia democratic abler lawyers than he, has been his alleged indispensability in prosecuting the government's case against the so-called "naval stores trust."The federal court at Savannah has, for the second time, handed down a decision throwing the prosecution out, thus placing its disapproval upon each of the contentions of Akerman and acquitting each of the four defendants. If the government was predicted to lose this case, why is not it just as well for a democratic district attorney to have lost it as a republican?We know the case is lost by Akerman.
We do not know that it would have been lost by a democratic district attorney.What gain has there been, then, in retaining Akerman against the protests of all south Georgia?Isn't it time for the department of justice to wake up to the fact that it hasn't been giving the southern district of Georgia, and its democratic population, a square deal?If there is, or ever has been, a republican who deserves no consideration from a democratic administration, it is Akerman, an offensively partisan, rock-ribbed republican.If the only count against Akerman were rank partisanship, it would be bad enough.

That is the smallest part of it.

He has been so personally offensive, pettily obnoxious and systematically tyrannical that it is no wonder he is resented by the average Georgia jury.He has lost no opportunity to bait bu-ness, and the best proof of his malice is that not one of his important prosecutions has "stuck."He is the most cordially despised prosecuting official that has represented the federal government in Georgia since reconstruction.This is the federal prosecuting attorney who, nearly two years after a democratic administration is chosen, is retained in office, though his district teams with democrats who are infinitely better lawyers than he is.What is the matter with our senators, with our congressional delegation, that they do not bluster the authorities with protests against this narrow, malignant, inefficient and venegatious partisans? Every day he remains in office is an indictment against our delegation in congress. Will the Georgia members never wake up to that fact?

THE MAYOR IS RIGHT.

Major Woodward is in favor of women having representation on city boards. He does not believe the membership of the boards should be increased from twelve to seventeen, as contemplated in the charter amendment, adding two members, but increasing the size of the board to fifteen. He thinks a membership of twelve is ample for a city board. As terms of members expire, he would have no objection to the election of women, but he would not increase the size of the boards. That is why he vetoed the amendment in its present shape. When the amendment is modified to admit women and yet to restrict the membership to twelve, he will approve it. On the principle of representation for women he is favorable. But he says some means must be found to give them representation without making the boards unwieldy.

The mayor is right. One of the deficiencies in the municipal machinery against which the people of Atlanta have been most decidedly in protest is the clumsiness of the board, the difficulty of getting things done by them.

Increasing the size of the boards from twelve to seventeen members would simply intensify this condition, obtrude board work and complicate a situation already difficult enough.

The remedy, as the mayor points out, is to leave the charter size of the boards at twelve members, as at present, but qualify quality for service.

The plan has the advantage of simplicity and of ultimately affording the women of the city representation in the city's deliberative machinery to which they are entitled.

WHAT EVERYBODY KNOWS.

The flaws in Atlanta's fire-fighting facilities pointed out by the committee on fire prevention of the National Board of Fire Underwriters will convey nothing new to the citizen who has kept fairly well informed as to municipal conditions. Time and again The Constitution has pointed out the need for additions to the waterworks plant and for more engine houses in the outlying districts. The committee emphasizes these deficiencies, while intimating that Chief Cummings has done the best he can with the limited means at his disposal.

The trouble is, the inadequate fire department is only an illustration of the insufficient municipal facilities that constitute a problem in Atlanta. The city has totally outgrown its municipal clothes and is bursting at the seams. Whether with regard to sewage and sanitary facilities, fire fighting facilities, water facilities, imperfect street concrete and grades, a cramped school system, an inadequate public hospital service, or whatnot, the note everywhere is insufficiency.

The Constitution has had these conditions in mind while pleading, at regular intervals, that Atlanta put its idle credit to work. The work of rehabilitation cannot be much longer delayed. Postponement means additional expense, further deterioration.

The insufficient fire department is only the symptom of a general disease. Deferring treatment of the whole situation is folly.

YOU CAN'T BLAME CARRANZA.

It is not surprising that representatives of Carranza have manifested a reluctance toward entering the mediation negotiations at Niagara, and that they also express astonishment at the rather minor importance the mediators appear to attach to the constitutionalists.

Already the armies of the constitutionalists, under Villa, have broken the backbone of Huerta's power. That fact speaks in the adversary's favor. In the mediation negotiations, however, were forced to confirm the claims of Carranza. Carranza is probably right, too, when he says that if railroad communication with Mexico City were intact his armies would be in possession of the capital within a week.

In the face of these constitutionalists, the constitutionalists would be shallow reasoners and unnatural beings if they mildly fell in with the mediation program, and ran the risk of forfeiting the fruits of their hard campaign against the Huertistas. Right now they dominate the situation. So far as outward appearances go, they will occupy all of Mexico within a short while and there is no reason to believe they cannot make a better job of governing than Huerta.

The mediation will have to take cognition of this situation. If they do not subdue Huerta, Huerta now is a decidedly adverse figure. Carranza and Villa, and to forget the persistent Zapata, are the individuals upon whom most pressure must be brought to bear.

"I must preserve my dignity," says Huerta. If he consumes as many gallons as they say he does, it must be pretty well "picked" now.

The river the Colonel is preparing to navigate at home has more salt in it than that Brazilian stream.

"I'm here for a rest," says Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, as he gives out twenty interviews a day.

Villa has parted with his mustache, but still looks fierce enough to hang Huerta.

Like his party, the Colonel has thinned down.

The Carranza way is to transform the Dove of Peace into a hot tamale.

Hueria would have us believe that he doesn't care how Niagara Falls.

The Colonel says the Elephant must eat out of his hand, but Professor Bill says it isn't hungry enough for that.

It's hot enough in Vera Cruz to make the boys fighting mad.

And after all, they may have to mediate the mediators.

The cattle in a panting Cruising in a shady place; I wish the wind would push the clouds Across the hot sun's face.
And yet there's still good news to tell;
The melon's cooling in the well!

All I really run
Their drivers break along; Twould be a meeting song!
Let us let us up a spell;
The melon's cooling in the well!

Praised by the sun-seeker ways, Though cool winds seldom pass; Even while red fire consumes the days
The bright sun's glad like glass.
The bright sun's glad like glass.

Editor Constitution: I notice in Monday's paper you say in reference to the Court's clearing up the decker that "the case is not simple." I am the progressive bull moose and G. O. P. elephant will be the clearest that the "devil is to pay" in this red weather.

The moose is a bigger thing, I say, than the elephant, politically speaking. At three years old he is 4,000,000 and odd odds, while the elephant, born in 1858, now nearly three-score years old.

The moose party beat the Jolly Taff and elected the Solom Wilson, a minority candidate.

The mouse vote and the elephant vote

Trouble climbs the ladder for a night's

So Don't Worry!

Editor Constitution: You seemed in your Sunday's editorial to have been surprised at the recent action of the Southern Presbyterians and Southern Methodists against the proposed constitutional amendment. They are really belated in their movement. More than twenty years ago a resolution was introduced in the Southern Presbyterians prohibiting the sale of tobacco in any form.
An amendment was offered to the new amendment and not of their own motion, to prohibit the sale of tobacco in any form. A. B. C. Howell

COTTON DECLINED UNDER REALIZING

The Failure of Liverpool to Meet Monday's Advance Caused Profit-Taking by Traders.

New York, June 2.—The cotton market opened with a heavy realization today, losing about half of yesterday's big advance and closing barely steady at 13.75. The market was very bullish weekly yesterday, but the decline on the day, but failed to inspire any marked readjusting of fresh demand, the price ranges were limited by the late trading.

The market opened barely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 10 points, but closed at 13.75. Cotton sold about 8 to 12 points net lower during the middle of the morning, but was held steady by the market, which was doubtless promoted by the failure of Liverpool to meet Monday's advance in local advance, and the official forecast for the week, which was some addition to realizing, there was some selling of the market, but following of such a character as was indicated by the private crop advices and following of the market's own course.

Foreign buying of wheat futures was the main factor in the market's recent reaction in prices. Notwithstanding a good market for wheat, the foreign market was not able to hold its own.

AMERICAN ARMS FOR MEXIC REBELS

Shipment Leaves New York for Tampico Despite Orders From Washington. Shipment May Be Stopped at Mexican Port.

Washington, June 1.—American arms and supplies left American shores from New York today, bound for Tampico, while Mexican mediation is still in progress at San Francisco. The attitude of the constitutionalists a stumbling block in the negotiations.

It is believed that the steamer Antille, which recently was fired on by constitutionalists outside Tampico, had left New York on May 27 and had reached considerable time in Washington. The vessel was cleared without interference by the U. S. government, but the United States, greatly to the surprise of Secretary Bryan and other members of the administration, did not take steps to prevent the order to prevent clearance of such vessels had been delayed and that the order was issued only after the steamer Antille had been fired on while Washington believed sufficient steps had been taken to prevent her.

Up to the present Tampico has been regarded as an open port. The United States has not yet sent a naval force to make an embargo on arms to Tampico. The American government has been enforcing an embargo on arms to Mexico.

No embargo from American ports was issued by the American port authorities until the port of Tampico. Then it became apparent that the government was not going to stop the importations of ammunition to the revolutionaries. The American port authorities, between the Huerta and Carranza factions, whether the United States will attempt to prevent the landing of arms to the revolutionaries is a problem. Army and navy officials were consulted and there were reports current that the American government had been way for several months.

Mediator's Developments at Carranza Falls. The American government has been a prominent factor in the development of the situation.

It was reported that the American port authorities captured the port of Tampico.

Then it became apparent that the government was going to stop the importations of ammunition to the revolutionaries.

It was reported that the American port authorities were to be bound to prevent shipment of arms to Carranza's forces.
