SOUTHRONS PLAN SUPREME EFFORT TO HELP COTTON

Democratic Senators From South Propose to Add Relief Amendment to the War Revenue Measure.

THREE RELIEF PLANS DISCUSSED BY SENATORS

One Plan Proposes Issue of Government Bonds to Buy 5,000,000 Bales of Cotton to Be Held by Government.

Washington, October 12.—Senators and representatives from cotton-growing states determined today to make one more supreme effort to get legislative relief from congress before adjournment for the threatening conditions facing the cotton growers because of the European war.

Democratic senators from southern states blocked an agreement to vote on the war tax bill Thursday when they determined to attempt to add an amendment to the measure calculated to aid the cotton growers. The amendment probably will be submitted tomorrow and will afford an opportunity for a vote on the issue. Southern senators, it was learned tonight, do not propose to filibuster on the revenue bill, but they do want an opportunity to vote on a proposal for relief of their constituents whether it should carry or not.

The Proposals Discussed.

Tonight southern senators met at the home of Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia. Among proposals discussed were the following:

Curtailment of appropriations for the coming fiscal year to the amount of $100,000,000 and utilization of this amount to help carry the cotton crop and to make advances upon cotton.

Sale of undisposed Panama canal bonds to be utilized for the same purpose.

Issue of $225,000,000 of three-year, 2 per cent government bonds, in denominations of $10 and up for the purchase of 5,000,000 bales of cotton, to be held by the government until January 1, 1916.

The bond issue proposal, it was suggested, should be accompanied by an excise tax on cotton producers of $10 a bale on all cotton produced next year in excess of five bales per plow.

Henry Serves Notice.

In the house today Representative Henry, of Texas, served notice that he purposed to try to force a vote tomorrow on the project of southern members for an issue of $250,000,000 in currency based on cotton and tobacco warehouse receipts. He introduced a resolution for a drastic rule to give the plan right-of-way and also sent a reply to the letter of Secretary McAdoo to him against the proposed legislation. Mr. Henry insisted that the secretary had the right to deposit public moneys in southern national banks "in any manner you deem 'equitable' to the extent of the funds in your hands or that may be supplied you by congressional action."

Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, who talked with the president today, introduced a bill proposing the issue and sale of all of the Panama canal bonds heretofore authorized, at 4 per cent, instead of 2 per cent interest, and for the deposit of the proceeds in the national banking associations and state banks in the cotton and tobacco belt.

The Henry Rule.

Mr. Henry's rule, which he wants the rules committee, of which he is chairman, to report favorably, is an omnibus proposal for immediate consideration of the cotton currency bill, the senate bill to license warehouses, the house bill to amend the national banking law and house bills to amend the federal reserve laws, each bill to have ninr hours of debate, thirty minutes for amendment and a final vote.

Mr. Henry's reply to Secretary McAdoo, which he ineffectually sought to have the latter read to the congressional Record, says there is no chance for the government to lose a penny on cotton and tobacco. "You advise us," he says, "and help to get legislation to sell the Panama canal bonds and issue United States notes," he wrote. "Straighten the backs, hold them in leash and prevent their free and full sale of the currency which is not reaching the farmers this year."

Outline of Amendment.

At the conference tonight of southern senators the general outline of the amendment to the war revenue bill which will be offered in the senate was agreed upon but the details will be worked out tomorrow and the amendment probably presented Wednesday. The proposal contemplates an issue of three-year 2 per cent bonds by the government to create a loan fund for cotton growers. Cotton taken as security would be held until 1918. A tax of 1 cent a pound will be levied on the 1915 crop, the proceeds of the tax to be used in retiring bonds then outstanding.

NORTH CAROLINA APPROVES PLAN.

Wilmington, N. C., October 12.—The Wade plan in form a pool of $150,000,000 for additional relief of the cotton situation was approved in a resolution adopted here today at a conference of members of the executive committee of the North Carolina Bankers' association, members of the North Carolina Federal Currency association, local bankers, manufacturers and other business

French Howitzer Train to Fight Germans

FRENCH ARTILLERY ON TRAIN.

One of the developments of the war is an armored train for the transportation of howitzers and other heavy artillery for use in conducting or breaking a siege. One of the howitzers is shown in the picture. To make the car more stable it has arms at the sides which can be extended and made rigid by screws pressing against plates resting on the ground. The entire train carries three cars for heavy guns, an ammunition car and a combination ammunition and observation car. The train was made at the Schneider works at Cresuot, France.

PEACE CONGRESS HELD IN MEXICO

Generals Are in Conference at Aguas Calientes Seeking Settlement of Carranza-Villa Differences.

Washington, October 12.—Hopeful reports reached Washington today of the progress of the first day's work of the military convention being held at Aguas Calientes to determine the personnel of the future government of Mexico. Not only are Generals Carranza and Villa represented but General Zapata has sent three delegates whose credentials have been accepted.

The official report of the meeting transmitted to the American government said the convention formally met and organized last Saturday, adjourning until today. General Antonio Villareal, military governor of the state of Nuevo Leon, was chosen permanent chairman, with Generals Robles and Natera, vice chairmen. The minutes of the previous convention at Mexico City were formally approved.

Basis of Representation.

The basis of representation agreed upon was that each delegate must prove that he had command of at least 1,000 men in the army or must have been identified as a general or governor with the constitutionalist movement before Zacatecas was captured from the Huerta government. It was this point on which General Villa had been insisting from the beginning.

General Eduardo Hay, one of the men who opposed the acceptance of Carranza's resignation at the Mexico City convention, made an impassioned speech, urging the adoption of a resolution calling on General Carranza to release all political prisoners, as General Villa had done. He was enthusiastically applauded as he suggested that the language of the resolution be changed from a "request" to an "order." He said the acts and resolutions of the convention should be regarded as orders upon all chiefs including Carranza.

The convention passed the resolution in that form.

Official reports further state that the prevailing spirit of the meeting is one of harmony and a unanimity of feeling exists against further bloodshed.

Form of Government.

Some delegates had not arrived when the convention organized Saturday and today's meeting was expected to develop a discussion of the form of government to be adopted. One of the plans under discussion would provide for a commission form of government composed of representatives of all factions, more satisfactorily to all under that system.

The constitutionalist agency here re-

TWO ARE HURT WHEN CAR HITS CARRIAGE

Luke and John New Were on Way to Circus When Accident Happened.

While Luke and John New, two country boys living near Lithonia, were driving up DeKalb avenue on their way to attend the evening performances of the Ringling circus, about 7 p. m. yesterday, their carriage collided with an outgoing Decatur street car, injuring the two men, demolishing the vehicle and causing the horse to run away.

At the point of intersection of DeKalb and Clifton street the car track makes a pronounced bend. Luke New, who was driving, did not see the approaching car until it was close upon him, he said. Although the motorman threw on the brakes immediately, the car crashed into the left front wheel, cutting the horse loose and pitching the carriage upon the pavement.

B. F. Webb, of 1466 DeKalb avenue, reached the men first and pulled them from the wreckage. An ambulance was called from the Grady hospital, where it was found that John New was suffering from internal injuries. Luke New, his brother, is painfully bruised.

SECRETARY OF STATE PUTS BULLET IN HEAD

Cause of the Suicide of Harry Woods, of Illinois, Is Unknown.

Springfield, Ill., October 12.—Secretary of State Harry Woods, one of the leaders in the senatorial candidates at the September primary and former operator on the Chicago Board of Trade, killed himself early yesterday. His body, with a bullet wound in the forehead and a pistol in the right hand, was discovered early today in a garage at the rear of his residence.

The find was made by Mrs. Woods and a neighbor, and unanimity of opinion exists against further bloodshed.

No note of explanation was left by Woods and the only clue which would give a possible indication for a cause for the act was a bundle of papers showing extensive dealings with a Chicago brokerage house.

Mrs. Woods could assign no motive for her husband's deed.

John J. Coffey, assistant chief clerk in the auditor's office, was put in charge of the office of the secretary of state.

An examination of the accounts of the office will be started immediately. The last return of fees to the state treasury by Secretary Woods was on June 30, when the total was $870,536 for the quarter. No return had been made for the quarter ending September 30.

Woods' friends attribute his peculiarities to the effects of a blow on the head he received in a political fight in Chicago several years ago in which Representative John McLaughlin was said to have struck him.

Woods fell out with Governor Dunne soon after he assumed office, and he had been violent in his denunciation of the governor ever since. He also had frequent clashes with the state civil service commission, and discharged employees without reference to the commission, though they were under civil service.

AUSTRALIA TO SEND LIGHT HORSE BRIGADE

London, October 12.—The official press bureau tonight announced that the British war office had accepted the offer made by Australia to send over another light horse brigade with a field ambulance corps.

It has been decided that $125,000 of the $225,000 which the women of Canada subscribed for hospital purposes will be devoted to the purchase of motor ambulance cars, and the remainder will be used in equipping a naval hospital with 1,000 beds.

Annual election of board.

Address—William J. Wright, president of board.

Address, "Christian Union"—Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of First Baptist church, Augusta, Ga.

With the withdrawal Monday of Dr. W. H. Book's resolution for the abolition of the general convention, harmony once more reigns in the camp of the Disciples of Christ, in session at the Auditorium, and plans are already being made for making next year's session of the Disciples, which is already definitely agreed upon for Los Angeles, the greatest gathering in the history of the organization. The convention in Atlanta will continue till Wednesday night, when the closing session will be held.

Dr. Book's resolution was eliminated from consideration at his own request, during the business session of Monday. He also received wide commendation among the delegates as being both Christian and wise. Objection was first raised to the withdrawal by Rev. A. R. Moore, of Savannah, Ga., who urged that the convention should vote on it and dispose of it finally instead of just letting it hang over their heads till the next convention. Dr. Book explained, however, that he was through with the resolution for good, and that he would have nothing to do with reintroducing it at the next convention.

Previous to the withdrawal of Dr. Book a spirited discussion of the resolution took place. Rev. H. Lee Bumbarger, of Lebec, Maine, and Rev. S. S. Lappin, of Cincinnati, spoke in favor of the resolution. Rev. Graham Frank, secretary of the convention, defended the convention as at present organized.

Dr. White New President.

Dr. W. M. White, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was chosen president of the general convention at the Monday morning business session, succeeding Dr. Hiff M. Bell, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Rev. I. W. Gill, of Wichita, Kan.,

THOROUGH WORK BY GERMAN SPIES

Invaders Posted as to the Wealth of Towns in Belgium and France—Hardihood of the German Spies Remarkable.

Paris, October 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The discrimination with which the Germans distributed war fines and requisitions in the towns they occupied in Belgium and northern France and the precision with which they chose the most solvent citizens as hostages has been a surprise, but when the details became known the explanation was simple. For instance, the first detachment of Uhlans that entered the city of Lille was guided by a man who had resigned as superintendent of an important factory in the city to rejoin his regiment.

At Soissons, when objections were raised to the exacting proportions of the requisitions, the commanding officer called his aide, who turned out to be a well-known business man of the town, who, of course, knew its resources thoroughly. "You see," said the officer, pointing to the side "there's the case containing, we are posted by some one who knows."

Patience of German Spies.

Similar instances were reported from Belgium showing that the ground had been carefully studied; the ready money in every town estimated; every suitable horse and every ton of hay located, and the plans of every bridge drawn. In France their statistics went so far as to show how many bottles of wine might be exacted in each locality.

The patience, thoroughness and hardihood with which the German spies have worked are worthy of note. The reports of the siege of Maubeuge have demonstrated how the great German mortars could immediately be put into action on arrival, thanks to macadam foundations prepared a month if not years in advance, in the yards of a German factory. The land on which this factory was built was purchased by the Krupps through a go-between. The sale caused some talk at the time, but it has now been forgotten until the fall of Maubeuge recalled the circumstances.

The range of every fort was carefully taken in advance, and the Germans had, in addition, the benefit of a complete underground telephone system by which spies posted at one end could inform the battery at the other exact result of every shot. In connection with the deposits of arms and uniforms established in the houses of German merchants in Antwerp, this confirms how thorough were the preparations.

Topography Studied.

As long ago as 1887 the topography of the region in which the battle of the Marne was fought was carefully studied by a company of spies who presented themselves at the mayor's offices and at the prefectures and engineers studying the ground for new railway lines. They got all the information they wanted. When it was discovered that the projected railway lines were myths it was too late. They supposed certain lines to be strategic fortifications and supposed fishermen to take the depths of streams. There is probably not a fort in France that the Germans don't know as well as the French, and it is quite possible that there are river fords indicated on their maps of which the French general staff is ignorant.

It was recently asserted that the German foreign office possessed a complete list of the inhabitants of France whose fortunes made them eligible hostages, as well as a blacklist of all those who had made themselves obnoxious by their avowed hostility to Germany.

Most of the men employed in the German secret service speak good English and frequently pass themselves off as Americans. One tried it the other day, after having penetrated to General Manoury's headquarters, but his papers were not satisfactory and he was shot.

France Organized by Germans.

It was only when the general mobilization was ordered that the French began to realize how much the enemy country had been organized by the enemy. Then it was remarked that at the end of bridges, and at many bridges having strategic importance there was a German factory.

Many of these have since been torn up by the forts, and the Lambermont-Forget-Mills still is a graver example of their audacity. This factory, while furnishing gun cotton to the government, was in the hands of Germans, and it has even been declared that the powder in the silver of the battleships Iona and Liberte was made of defective gun cotton furnished by this mill.

It is known that more than 5,000 German spies were arrested in Belgium, most of whom have been tried by courtmartial. How many have been arrested in France no one knows, the government having succeeded in throwing an impervious veil over all these proceedings.

PAUL KRUGER'S NEPHEW ARRESTED BY GERMANS

London, October 12.—The Rev. Epha DeWarr, a nephew of Paul Kruger, and at one time secretary of state for Transvaal and a general in the Boer war, arrived in London today after two months' detention in West Phalia.

Mr. DeWarr is a resident of the Boer colony at Hohenwald, Tenn., and is an American citizen, but he was held by the Germans as a British subject. He appealed to the American embassy in Berlin and was released.

More Bombs Dropped On the French Capital By German Birdmen

Missiles Are Dropped Between Crowded Railway Trains, But Do Not Explode—Paris Aviation Corps Reorganized in Order to Stop Attacks by the Kaiser's Airmen—Little News of the Great Battle Between Austro-German and Russian Armies.

Paris, October 12.—The following official statement was given out at 11 o'clock tonight:

"There is nothing in particular to report.

"Violent attacks have occurred along the front. We have gained ground at some points and we have not lost at any place."

Paris, October 12.—The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"First—On our left wing the cavalry engagements continue in the region of La Basse, Estaires and Hazelbrouck. Between Arras and the Oise the enemy endeavored to deliver several attacks which failed, notably between Lassigny and Roye.

"Second—On the center we have made some progress on the plateaux of the right bank of the Aisne, in front of Soissons, and east and southeast of Verdun.

"Third—On our right wing, in the Vosges, the enemy delivered a night attack in the region of Ban De Sapt, to the north of St. Die; they were repulsed.

GERMAN FLAG TAKEN BY FRENCH.

"The flag captured yesterday belongs to the Sixth regiment of active Pomeranion infantry, No. 49, of the Twentieth corps of the Prussian army. The brigade of marine fusileers was engaged during all the day of October 9, and the night of October 9-10, against German forces and repulsed them, and at the same time inflicted heavy losses amounting to 200 men killed and 50 prisoners. The French losses amounted to nine killed, thirty-nine wounded and one missing.

"In the Belgian field: According to the latest information received here concerning the situation at Antwerp, the Germans occupy up to the present time only the suburbs of this city. The twenty-four forts on the two banks of the river Scheut are resisting with energy.

"In Russia the fighting still continues with fierceness on the frontier of East Prussia. To the northwest of Lyck the Germans are retreating, destroying bridges.

"In southern Poland, between Ivangorod and Sandomir, there has been artillery fighting with columns of the

GERMAN SEA "RAT" SENDS TO BOTTOM RUSSIAN CRUISER

The Armored Cruiser Pallada Torpedoed and Sunk in the Baltic by German Submarine.

Petrograd, October 12.—An official communication, issued today, announces that on October 11 the Russian armored cruiser Pallada was torpedoed in the Baltic sea by a German submarine and sank with all her crew.

The text of the communication, which was made public by the marine department, follows:

"October 10—German submarines were sighted in the Baltic sea. The same day, early in the morning, the submarines attacked the cruiser Admiral Makarov, which had stopped to search a suspected bark flying the commercial flag of the Netherlands.

"A submarine of the enemy launched several torpedoes, which, luckily, missed the mark and caused no damage whatsoever to the cruiser.

"On October 11, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the submarines of the enemy again attacked our cruisers, Bayan and Pallada, which were patrolling the Baltic.

"Although the cruisers opened in time a very strong fire, one of the submarines succeeded in launching torpedoes against the Pallada, whereupon an explosion resulted and the cruiser sank with all her crew."

The armored cruiser Pallada carried a complement of 568 men. She measured 468 feet and had a displacement of 7,775 tons. Her speed was 22 knots. With the Admiral Makarov and the Bayan she constituted a group of cruisers known as the "Bayan class."

The Pallada carried two 8-inch guns; eight 6-inch guns; twenty-two 12-pounders and four 3-pounders, in addition to torpedo tubes. She was laid down in 1905.

UNITED STATES TROOPS TO LEAVE COLORADO

Wichita, Kan., October 12.—"I expect the federal troops will leave Colorado by the middle of November and if the strike is not settled by that time the state will be prepared to take charge of the situation.

"The militia probably will not be increased above its normal numbers."

Governor Ammons, of Colorado, who is here attending the International Dry Farming congress, thus summarized the mine strike situation in his state tonight.

That the lockout virtually will be settled by the time the federal troops leave is the opinion of the governor, who said he has assured the president that the state is amply able to maintain order.

GHENT IS OCCUPIED BY GERMAN FORCES

London, October 12.—The Belgian town of Ghent is now occupied by the Germans, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company. Uhlans have arrived at Selzaete, a short distance from Ghent, and the commander announced that 4,000 soldiers must be quartered in the village.

MORE BOMBS DROPPED ON PARIS.

Paris, October 12.—A German aeroplane at 10:15 this morning dropped bombs between two railroad trains pulling out of the Northern railroad station. The missiles did not explode and were later found imbedded 2 feet in the earth. No persons were injured, it was officially announced that a Taube aeroplane had flown over Paris this morning and thrown down six bombs. Five French aviators went up to pursue the German airmen.

A new squadron of air craft has been formed to deal with German aviators.

Another German bomb was dropped today at Soana, a suburb of Paris, but did not explode.

This missile fell within a short distance of a large paint factory, where there is a gasoline tank with a capacity of 15,000 gallons.

The progress of the campaign in northern France and the fall of Antwerp were forgotten for a time today by the people of Paris, who discussed the throwing of bombs on the capital from German aeroplanes, as a result of which two persons were killed yesterday and fourteen wounded. At the same time officials adopted measures looking to the prevention of similar acts in the future.

The first thing done was the appointment of General Hirschauer, an aeronautic expert, to take charge of aerial defense. Later a number of deputies met to consider various means of rendering the city more secure from aeroplane attacks.

The creation of aerial squadrons stationed at cardinal points to be ready to dash after the enemy's aircraft; the arming of fast monoplanes with quick-firing guns and the telephoning of warnings by residents of the capital to the French aero club, were among the suggestions considered. Finally, Deputy Cochin sent a telegram to Bordeaux urging the immediate adoption of precacious measures with the view of reassuring the people.

The news that one of the German bombs yesterday struck the Cathedral of Notre Dame has been communicated to the vatican. It is reported that the pope remarked:

"Providence has prevented an outrage which would have shocked the world."

DEADLY WORK DONE BY BOMBS.

London, October 13.—Telegraphing from Paris Sunday, the Daily Mail's correspondent says eight bombs from German airships fell in Paris during the day.

"As far as I can discover," the correspondent says, "one fell in the garden behind the cathedral, one near the barracks of the Republican guard in the Place de la Republique, one in the Rue du Rocher near the St. Lazare railroad station, one struck a coal depot near the Northern railroad station, one fell near the Magasin Bonagere in the Boulevard Bonne Nouvelles, one in the Rue Bourdaloue near the church of Notre Dame de Loretta, one in the populous Faubourg Antoine, and one in the Rue Faris Daumesnil.

"It was this last bomb that killed three and injured fifteen inoffensive civilians."

The correspondent says the bomb that fell in the Rue Lafayette completely wrecked shop windows and that it was a wonder considering the crowds in the street, that there were no more casualties. One bomb, dropped near Notre Dame, fell in the garden where some nuns and children were being playing until they became frightened at seeing the aeroplane and fled.

Near the Lyons railroad station a bomb that fell caused a great panic. Walls all around the spot where the missile exploded were riddled with bullets and some windows broken on the fifth floors. Had the bomb fallen a few seconds earlier it would have struck a street car containing sixty people.

GREAT SUCCESS FOR THE FRENCH.

London, October 13.—One of the correspondents in France of The Daily Mail, in a message dated Saturday, says:

"A desperate battle was fought yesterday in the district to the north of Arras. It ended in a brilliant success for the French arms, the German forces being driven back 10 to 12 miles.

"This was the decisive conflict in the Arras district, where the tide of battle has ebbed to and fro for days. The German losses yesterday are said to have been approximately 12,000 killed and wounded.

"The fiercest fighting during the last fortnight," says Reuter's Paris correspondent, "centered around Albert, Ypres and Lassigny. Not an inch of ground in this region is without traces of the terrific struggle.

"Albert, which was the first regained from the Germans, is a heap of ruins. Only the gilded clock tower above Notre Dame sustained an uninterrupted bombardment for a fortnight and no longer exists. Ypres was the last stronghold of the enemy, being the point of the wedge which the Germans were endeavoring to drive into the allies.

"The struggle in this region had much of the same character as that on the right bank of the Aisne. The Germans made the most of the quarries, necessitating a regular siege. There, as in many other places, the enemy had prepared his ground in time of peace."

Tobacco Habit Easily Conquered

A well-known New Yorker of wide experience has written a book telling how the tobacco or snuff habit may be easily and completely banished in three days with delightful benefit.

The health improves wonderfully after the nicotine poison is out of the system. Calmness, tranquil sleep, clear eyes, normal appetite, good digestion, manly vigor, strong memory and a general life in harmony are among the many benefits reported. No more of that nervous feeling; no more need of pipe, cigar, cigarette or chewing tobacco to pacify the morbid desire. The author, Edward J. Woods, 155-A, Station W, New York city, will send book free on application to anyone who writes to him.

Gentlemen:

After trying one pound of your wired Butter for the remarkably low price of 32c I feel that I am qualified to make a suggestion for a name for your Butter. I think that "BETTER" BUTTER—is a good suggestion for the following reasons:

That the quality is without a doubt, if I am any judge of Butter, as good as any, and I am sure a large majority of its users will agree with me when I say that it is "Better." Trusting that you will have the same success with your "Better" Butter that you have with all your goods, I beg to remain, a customer of Rogers' 51 Stores,

MOSE E. GARRISON,

Great Battle Will Be Fought To Keep Germans From Ostend

London, October 12.—The news of German movements between Antwerp and Ostend up the Belgian coast is so fragmentary and contradictory as to be almost worthless.

The Germans are maintaining their customary secrecy and reports coming from Belgium and Dutch sources of heavy reprisals to the Germans with losses suspiciously large are looked at askance nowadays.

The capture of Ostend, of course, would be worth the possession of many Antwerps to the German plans, so it may be taken for granted that they will not enter the popular seaside resort without fighting for every foot of it and every man of the enemy's army.

The result of the battle now in progress on the line of Lessigny and Lens to the southward of Ostend, together with and in which the three German army corps released from the siege of Antwerp will try to take part, will be the Retention of Agreement.

The retention of Ostend by the French after fierce fighting, during which the place was lost and retaken, is regarded as important, as it would, in well to the northward of Verdun, where the only condition of the peace is that the civil population of the fort in question shall be clear of a bombardment and no news has been received here of any special hostile movements in that quarter.

The claims by Vienna that Austrian troops have reached Warsaw and threatened its Russian investors is the most striking news from the eastern theater that is asserted to be official. There is nothing here to confirm or deny the claim.

A German report also records a check to the Russian forces on the Prussian frontier and the progress of the German army on the line which seems destined to be the cockpit largely determining the events in this war areas.

Six Russian and five foreign war correspondents left Petrograd under permission to join the Russian forces at the front. They have had a joyous send-off by Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief, but they have been carefully dispatched to a less exciting field of observation than that of Poland, Lemberg, in Galicia, is their destination.

No Comfort in Newspaper Men.

On saying farewell to the correspondents Grand Duke Nicholas emphasized the great utility of the press in expert and worthy hands." but he quickly quenched the rising hopes of his auditors by saying:

"I regret that I shall not be able for short time to be with you, for in this war so specially grandiose absolute silence is necessary in military secrets dealing with the plan of campaign is indispensable. Nevertheless, the Grand Duke then informed the correspondents they were going to Lemberg.

According to Italian sources the Austro-Hungarian government, anticipating the participation in the war, made all arrangements to throw into the interior provinces of Austria the part of Italian birth or descent and, it is asserted, has given orders to shoot without trial all persons participating in pro-Italian demonstrations. If even is said that Trieste will be bombarded in the event of anything in the nature of a demonstration taking place.

A message from Budapest, published in the Hungarian parliament, says the armament with the intention of granting autonomy to Transylvania with a view to averting an insurrection in that country.

Antwerp Defenders Were Routed, According to the German Report

Berlin, October 12.—(By wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—The general staff of the German army announced today that in the beginning a strong garrison defended Antwerp with great energy, but that after the attack by German infantry and marine divisions, the defenders fled in full rout. Among the Antwerp garrison was one British marine brigade.

The complete collapse of the Anglo-Belgian defense of Antwerp was shown by the fact that no military authority could be found with which to treat concerning the surrender of the city. This surrender was finally negotiated with the burgomaster.

It is impossible to give as yet the number of prisoners taken with Antwerp. Many defenders who fled to Holland were interned.

General von Beseler, who has been decorated with the Order of Merit for his capture of Antwerp, has issued a proclamation addressed to the people, saying no one would be harmed unless they committed hostilities upon the German army. "Resistance," he announced, "will cause the destruction of your beautiful city."

FRENCH DEFEATED, SAY THE GERMANS.

London, October 13.—(9:50 a. m.)—A Reuter dispatch from Berlin gives this statement, issued last night by the German general staff:

"Our cavalry on Saturday completely routed a French cavalry division west of Lille, near Hazebrouck and inflicted severe losses on another French cavalry division. Until now the engagements on the front in the western theater did not lead to a decision.

"About the booty at Antwerp, no communications can be made, as information still fails. A considerable number of British and Belgian troops who crossed the Dutch frontier be fixed.

"In the eastern theater we repulsed in the north all attacks of the first and second Russian army corps on October 9 and 10. The Russian outbreaking army (by way of Schirwindt (East Prussia) equally were repulsed and the Russians lost 1,000 prisoners.

"In South Poland the advance guards of our armies have reached the Vistula. Near Grojec, south of Warsaw, we captured 2,000 men of the second Siberian rifle corps.

"The Russian official communication about a great Russian victory at Augustowo (Augustowa Wald) (Russian Poland) are invented. The fact that no Russian official communication has been published about the tremendous defeats at Tannenberg and Insterburg (both in East Prussia) vouches a lack of reliable official information."

LOT OF SUPPLIES TAKEN BY GERMANY.

London, October 12.—The following official statement has been received from Berlin by the Overseas News Telegraph company:

"Enormous quantities of provisions of all kinds were captured in Antwerp. The garrison of the northern forts and the Belgian field army, 33,000 men, they were disarmed. The English themselves say to have blown up ten of the Antwerp forts. The Belgians estimate they lost 20,000 men as prisoners. When the fall of Antwerp was made known to the allies the English naval division and ten small ships was sighted Saturday near Kuxtenghe (a seaport on the Black sea) steaming in a southerly direction."

BRITAIN IS INVOLVED BY BELGIAN DOCUMENTS

Germans Allege They Have Found Documents Showing Britain Planned in 1906.

Berlin, October 13.—(By wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—The German general headquarters has given out the following report:

"German military authorities, searching the archives of the Belgian general staff at Brussels, discovered a portfolio inscribed 'English intervention in Belgium,' which contains important documents.

"One of these is a report to the Belgian minister of war, dated April 19, 1906, which gives the result of detailed negotiations between the chief of the Belgian general staff and the British military attache at Brussels, Lieutenant Colonel Bernardiston. This plan is of English origin and was sanctioned by Lieutenant General Sir James M. Grierson, chief of the British general staff. It sets forth the strength and formation, and designates landing places for an expeditionary force of 100,000 men. Continuing, it gives the details of a plan for the British general staff to transport food, and find billets and quarters for these men in Belgium, and provides for Belgian interpreters. These landing places designated are Dunkirk, Calais and Boulogne.

"Lieutenant Colonel Bernardiston is quoted as having remarked that only the present Holland could not be relied upon.

"Another confidential communication declares the British government, after the destruction of the German navy, would send supplies and provisions by way of Antwerp. There is also the suggestion from the English military attache that a Belgian army of occupation should be organized in the Prussian Rhineland.

"A second document is a map showing the strategical positions of the French army and demonstrating the existence of a Franco-Belgian agreement, and a third is a report from Baron Greindl, the Belgian minister at Berlin, to the Belgian foreign office, dated December 22, 1911."

CURZON, OF KEDLESTON, PREDICTS LONG WAR

The Earl Says Germany Intends to Hold Antwerp and Dominate Holland.

London, October 12.—Earl Curzon, of Kedleston, formerly viceroy of India, in a speech at a war meeting at Harrow school tonight, said:

"Germany has taken Antwerp to fortify it, to keep it, to make a great naval port of it, to use it as a great jumping-off place for her future attempts upon this country. It is no temporary occupation unless we make it so."

The speaker added that by fortifying Antwerp, Germany would secure a grip on the whole of Belgium, make Holland play her will, and then settle down to her main object—the destruction of this country. He said England was in for a long war and declared he was shocked that some people should think the hostilities would be over by Christmas.

In his opinion more than one Christmas would roll by before the ending of hostilities. In conclusion he advised his hearers not to begin to divide up the German empire "before you have got hold of it."

SOUTHRON'S PLAN TO HELP COTTON

ness men called last Saturday by Thomas E. Cooper, president of the Bankers' association.

Further action on the plan was referred to a suggested meeting of the North Carolina Bankers' association to be held by members in Richmond while there for the meeting of the American Bankers' convention. It was believed a much larger number of the members could not be called into a meeting there than were here today. The plan was outlined and indorsed by Joseph G. Brown, president of the North Carolina Currency association. It was left for the proposed Richmond meeting to decide whether the banks of this state should undertake to raise their proportionate part of the pool, estimated at about $8,500,000.

$150,000,000 FUND WILL BE PROVIDED.

St. Louis, October 12.—A prediction that the one hundred and fifty million dollar cotton loan fund, recently approved by the federal administration and its federal reserve board, will be completely subscribed and ready for use by the end of this week was made today by J. S. Slocum, a member of the committee which accompanied Festus J. Wade, author of the plan, to Washington last week.

The statement was made at a conference between officers of the Business Men's league and merchants, manufacturers and railroad men to discuss means of increasing the uses of cotton. The conference was called at the request of R. H. Bowen, of Paris, Texas, chairman of the committee for greater cotton consumption of the Southern States Cotton association.

As a more permanent means of disposing of surplus cotton, Mr. Howen advocated the substitution by railroads and manufacturers of cotton twine and bags in the place of the same products made of East Indian jute. Support of his suggestion was promised by local manufacturers and railroad officers.

BATTLE RAGING ON THE VISTULA

Russian and Austro-German Forces Have Come to Grips—Vienna Reports the Russians Have Been Worsted.

Petrograd, October 12.—The following official statement was issued tonight by the chief of the general staff:

"On October 11, fighting began on the left bank of the Vistula in the direction of Ivangorod and Warsaw. There is no change at other points on our front.

"Detachments of Russian cavalry, having passed through the defile in the Carpathian mountains, have emerged into the plains of Hungary."

RUSSIANS RETREAT, ASSERTS VIENNA.

London, October 12.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Amsterdam says that a telegram received from Vienna states that the Russians in Galicia and north of the Vistula are pursued by Austro-German troops. Many towns, which a few days ago were in the hands of the Russians, are now again under an Austrian administration. The message adds that the Russian bank of the Vistula is safe as the authorities and peasants with the Cossacks conducted themselves humanely.

A Central News dispatch from Rome says that a message to The Messagero, from Petrograd, states that the Russians have abandoned the siege of Przemysl in Austrian Galicia, to put themselves in a strategical position to meet the Austro-German army.

GERMAN LOSSES REPORTED GREAT.

London, October 12.—It is semi-officially announced at Petrograd, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Russian capital, that owing to the great losses sustained by the German armies all officers and non-commissioned officers who over have been in the army are ordered to rejoin the colors without regard to age.

PRZEMYSL RELIEVED, ACCORDING TO VIENNA.

London, October 12.—A dispatch from Amsterdam to Reuter's Telegram company says:

"A telegram from Vienna states it is officially announced that the Austrian rapid advance has relieved Przemysl, Galicia, of the Russians. The Austrians have entered the fortress at all points and where the Russians attempted resistance they were beaten. The Russians fled in the direction of the river San, attempting to cross at Sieniawa and Lezmirsk, where a great number were captured."

GERMAN PLAYED SPY AND FOOLED FRENCH

Berlin, Saturday, October 10.—(By Wireless Telegraph to Sayville, L. I.)—A story has been given out here relating how Count Schwerin, a German officer who spoke English fluently, obtained information from the enemy which resulted in the winning of a battle by the Germans.

While reconnoitering beyond the French lines, Count Schwerin was discovered by a French officer. He posed as an English officer who had lost his way. To the Frenchman he asked directions to reach the English lines. He explained that he had changed his rain-soaked clothes for those of a dead Prussian officer, and was now fearful about returning to the English lines, believing he might be shot as a German.

The French officer hesitated. Count Schwerin offered to take the Frenchman back and show him his discarded English uniform. This evidently convinced the French officer, for he took the count to his mess and the Frenchman entertained him at dinner.

After dinner the count was given a horse and a French soldier was detailed to escort him back to the English lines. Once mounted Count Schwerin put spurs in the horse and made a dash for liberty. He was followed by a volley of revolver shots. Fortunately, his horse stumbled and the bullets sped over his head.

He succeeded in regaining the German lines with certain military information of value.

BOMBARDMENT NEWS BARRED BY WHITLOCK

Washington, October 12.—An official report received here today describes the efforts of German military authorities at Brussels to send word through the American legation at Brussels to Antwerp of the intended bombardment of that city.

German officials asked Minister Whitlock to transmit the notification, which under article 26 of The Hague convention, an invading force is obliged to give to the people of a city about to be bombarded. Mr. Whitlock refused to present the communication, declaring, in accordance with the strict neutrality of the United States, not to be the channel of military messages to any of the belligerents. The Germans insisted, however, that means of communication had fallen. The Spanish minister finally decided to send the Spanish naval attache to Antwerp with the notification. A report from American Consul Diedrich, at Ostend, says when he left Antwerp last Friday, after a frightful night of bombardment, the Spanish attache had not left the city for Sebiaze. He is endeavoring to return to Antwerp to resume his consular work.

Hanan Shoes

Have Found A Welcome In Atlanta for Thirty Years

Ask the "oldest citizen" if he has worn Hanan Shoes and where he goes to buy them.

"For 30 Years at Carlton's" is likely to be the answer—man or woman.

You will also hear a universal story of satisfaction. Ask these wearers why and you will have the answer:

"They have a distinguished appearance and they wear well."

Besides this, is there a luxury which quite equals that of perfectly comfortable shoes? This luxury is HANAN'S.

It is a business asset of real value to us to sell Hanan Shoes.

We're willing that the standard of this of this establishment be judged according to the Hanan schedule of quality.

On the other hand, the shoes sold at Carlton's are chosen with the spirit which zealously guards our own reputation. There is no more emphatic way in which we can state our business principle.

We have found that there are any number of clever shoe manufacturers, but very few who have the necessary experience, initiative and art to make shoes as our customers want them. Hanan Shoes only, completely satisfy our trade—the best people in Atlanta and throughout our state.

EVER SALIVATED BY CALOMEL? HORRIBLE!

Calomel Is Quicksilver and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury, or quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out, and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver working, stirring you up inside, and cannot salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day. It loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

Censor Has Twisted Tourniquet on News From the Battlefields

Important Fighting in Progress in Belgium, but British War Office Gives No Hint of the Outcome—French War Office Reports Little Change in the Situation—Reports Indicate That Russians Have Been Forced to Abandon Investment of the Fortress of Przemysl.

London, October 12.—The finger of the censor having twisted the torniquet on all sources of news from Belgium, just now perhaps the most potentially important scene of the fighting, the British people were forced to content themselves today with the official communication from Paris, and even a close analysis of this showed no marked change in the situation favoring either side.

From the east came tidings of a decided reversal in form, the dispatches both from Vienna and Petrograd indicating that the Austrian army at Przemysl, so often reported surrendered, hopelessly outclassed and on the verge of surrender, had turned on the Russians with the aid of reinforcements and forced them to retreat.

RUSSIAN REVERSES ARE CLAIMED.

The first news of this claim emanated during the morning from the Austrian capital. It was followed later in the day by what purports to be a Petrograd admission that the Russians had abandoned the siege of Przemysl for strategical reasons, with the object of drawing up a new line against the Austro-German army in other points in Galicia.

Whatever may be truth of the situation, the Russians have been claiming an unbroken series of victories in their sweep through Galicia, and the coincidence of today's dispatches, supplemented as they were by more circumstantial accounts from Vienna of a vigorous Austro-German offensive, seemed to presage important news.

The British and Belgian troops who retired from Antwerp before the German occupation, with the exception of those who are now interned on Dutch soil as a result of having had to cross the border, have been swallowed up as completely as if they had been buried under the ruined forts.

For military reasons their positions and the area of hostilities in Belgium must remain obscure until the turn of events bring them sharply to the fore again, as was the case when, after the fall of Antwerp, the British public learned for the first time that the British forces had assisted the garrison.

BRITISH PRESS VERY OPTIMISTIC.

Optimistic, as always, the British press, besides contending that Antwerp is of no importance to Germany as a naval base, finds solace in the argument that the release of the allied troops there more than counterbalances the troops which Germany will send from that point into France. Colonel Frederick N. Maude, a retired army officer and author of several standard military books, writing in today's Evening Standard, says:

"This morning finds the Belgians with five-sixth of the British contingent perfectly ready to renew the fight, with their supplies and reinforcements from where also ample safeguarded. After deducting the necessary garrison for Antwerp, losses and so forth, it is exceedingly improbable that the Germans have more than 40,000 men left to follow them—which gives us a clear gain of 40,000 to our left wing without counting the reinforcements which we shall pick up on the way."

The official communication from Paris indicated that this left wing is stretching daily and nightly further west and north and will soon reach the coast, if the opposing sides continue throwing out cavalry in an endeavor to outflank or break through.

The allies make no claim to victory in the afternoon statement which speaks with the remark that these cavalry operations continue as far north and west as Hazebrouck, a point barely more than a day's walk from Calais.

GERMANS THROW FORCES TO WEST.

When the allies claimed yesterday they had driven the Germans from Aire, London learned for the first time that the Germans had made substantial progress west from Lille, which they reached last week. Presumably the allies still hold the line they claim to have regained, but the Germans are thrusting more men westward and are putting up a hard fight. Communication does not make plain which side holds the initiative at present.

Nowhere along the battle line do the allies say they have made any progress except in the center, on the right bank of the Aisne, below Soissons, and at other points, notably between Arras and the Oise, and on the right. In Belgium, it is said the German attacks have practically ceased. A paragraph near the end of the official communication stating it is understood that the Germans are occupying only the suburbs of Antwerp, while the twenty-four forts along the Scheldt (Escaut) are still holding out, has been received in London with considerable surprise and skepticism, in view of the statement of the British war office that the city had been occupied by the Germans and the Berlin official statement that the invasion took virtually complete possession of the city.

LONDON PREPARES FOR ZEPPELINS.

Probably stirred by the bomb-throwing exploits of German aircraft over Paris, London seems to be on the lookout for such visitors, and official notice has been served on persons living near the mouth of the Thames that they should be ready to seek their cellars at the first sound of firing, as there will be no time to spread the news in any more formal way.

Recruiting through Great Britain, particularly in London, has been booming, it is said, since the fall of Antwerp, the talk of the Germans advancing from there to Ostend having apparently brought the war close home in the minds of the people.

The whereabouts of the Belgian queen is still a matter of conjecture, and the same vagueness surrounds the king's reported wounds.

ANGRY WIFE PLACED UNDER PEACE BOND

She Charges Manicure With Alienating the Affections of Her Husband.

Mrs. Nell Crowell, wife of F. B. Crowell, who lives in the Wellington apartments at Ivy and Houston streets, appeared in the municipal court and signed a written agreement not to kill Mae Entreken, a manicure account by the wife of alienating her husband's affections.

As a consequence, Mrs. Crowell will be required before Judge Ridley this morning at 11 o'clock on a peace warrant issued against her by the manicure. Approximate bond of $300 was fixed by Mrs. Crowell. She was forced to sign the bond, in which was contained the agreement, that she would "not endeavor to kill Mae Entreken between the hours of 3 o'clock Monday and 11 a. m. Tuesday."

Mrs. Crowell alleges that Miss Entreken, who is attached to the manicuring parlors of the Piedmont hotel barber shop, had sought to alienate the affections of her husband, and had caused him to lose his position. She says that she did not threaten to slay her rival or do her physical harm, merely demanding that she cease attentions to Mr. Crowell.

Miss Entreken, in issuing the warrant, averred that Mrs. Crowell had threatened to kill her, and that she feared for her life. Both the wife and manicure have engaged legal counsel, and a strong fight will be waged before Judge Ridley this morning. Mrs. Crowell, accompanied by Deputy Marshall Lasseter from the Wellington apartments when the warrant was served Monday afternoon to Judge Ridley's court.

H. M. DORSEY AT WORK ON THE FRANK CASE

In order that Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey may prepare to combat the move of Leo M. Frank's attorneys to upset the verdict of guilty on constitutional grounds, Judge Hill Monday adjourned his division of superior court for this week.

The arguments over the motion for Frank will come up in the supreme court on October 26. This will make the third time the noted case has been in the state's highest tribunal; having gone up twice before on motions for new trial on grounds of new evidence.

Decision is pending on the second motion—the extraordinary plea on newly discovered evidence—and a decision is pending. In event the supreme court turns down the third plea, it will be carried to the United States supreme court in Washington.

BIG REVIVAL STARTS AT FIRST METHODIST

A series of revival meetings at the First Methodist church, corner Peachtree street and Porter place, which began last night, was attended by a large number of people.

Dr. Boyd, the evangelistic singer, with a choir of trained voices, furnished the meeting with an excellent musical program. Dr. Klein's sermon on the "Vision of Success v. Croakers," was fervent, and greatly impressed the audience.

Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the church, predicts a great success for the revival meetings at his church.

There will be two services today, one at 10 a. m. and one at 7:30 p. m.

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half-pint of water add:

Bay Rum	1 oz.
Barbo Compound	a small box
Glycerine	½ oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half-pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, relieves itching and scalp distress.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

ANTWERP STRUCK BY MANY SHELLS

Estimated That Germans Threw 4,000 Missiles Into the Belgian City—People Thrown Into a Panic.

London, October 13.—Describing the numerous fires in Antwerp during the bombardment of The Daily Mail's Bergen-op-Zoon, Holland, correspondent, in a dispatch dated Sunday, says firemen tried to extinguish the flames, but thirty shells or shrapnel fell among them, killing several and wounding two, discouraging them from further attempts.

"The Antwerp aldermen and some of the city notables gathered every day in the cellars of the town hall with the consuls of neutral countries, who continues the message. "The municipal employes working in the offices in a neighboring street protected by cellars. They sent a deputation to the aldermen, who allowed them to go with their families to the number of 1,000 in the cathedral Thursday at 10 o'clock. The church then was closed. Monsignor Cleyhaus (prior of the cathedral, passed the following night in the cellars of the Anna Byn school with twenty-eight priests and laymen. He said mass and gave holy communion and later having consulted with Cardinal Mercier, he left town. He could hire no vehicle and was obliged to buy a carriage and horse for £120 ($600). He arrived here Sunday morning. The Cardinal left Antwerp for Nine-Guen, Holland."

"On Wednesday morning I went to the palace of justice and found that all cases in the courts had been postponed, and president and public prosecutor, having taken up their abode in cellars, to which the court archives had been removed. On Thursday the postoffice and banks closed.

"Four enormous shells fell on the city. The Germans entered Antwerp Friday noon, with bands playing, the cavalry leading the way to the town hall, and other public buildings which were taken possession of.

"One hundred and fifty houses have been destroyed in Antwerp by the bombardment. Telegraph service from here to Belgium is suspended."

PANIC BEIZED ANTWERP PEOPLE.

London, October 12.—The Daily Chronicle's Antwerp correspondent gives a picture of the panic in the Belgian town and the flight of the populace to safety.

"Before the bombardment had been long in operation," the correspondent says, "Antwerp's civil population fell into panic. Immense crowds gathered along the quay side and at the railroad stations in their efforts to leave the city. Early Thursday morning more than 40,000 had assembled on the long quay in the hope of boarding fifteen tug boats bound for Flushing, Rotterdam and other Dutch ports.

"These were not vessels of any considerable carrying capacity and as no one had made arrangements for a systematic embarkation, a wild struggle followed among the frantic people. The only means of boarding them were narrow planks, tipped at dangerous angles.

"Up these the fugitives struggled, the strong elbowing the weak out of the way in their mad haste to escape. It was inevitable that there was not a terrible death list resulting from the struggle. Many persons were forced over into the water, but their rescue generally was prompt. As far as it was possible to learn the casualty list consisted of two women drowned and one woman suffering from a fractured skull, sustained in a fall from a plank.

"At 2 o'clock in the afternoon all the tugs had gone and the quays still were filled with crowds."

DAMAGE TO ANTWERP NOT VERY SERIOUS.

London, October 12.—(3:55 a. m.)—"Antwerp was not seriously damaged by the German bombardment," says The Chronicle's Amsterdam correspondent. "Only the suburb of Berchem and the southeast quarter of the town suffered badly.

"Long after they had been evacuated the Germans continued firing on the ruins of the blown up forts. They feared mines and hoped thus to destroy them. Near the southern suburbs the ground had been extensively mined by the Belgians, but the Germans were warned by traitors from within the city.

"On Thursday morning the retreating troops from Antwerp passed on their flight to Ostend no fewer than six hundred motor cars filled with soldiers, who had already passed through the town. The intention was to reach Ostend by forced marches, and the soldiers were relieved of their knapsacks, which were carried in the vans. Motor buses from London carried footsore troops who had fallen out of line. Then came columns of machine guns drawn by dogs.

"The procession continued all day and late that night the artillery passed through. They had been in a rear guard action. An officer said that they had accounted for heaps of Germans."

THOUSANDS LOST BY THE GERMANS.

Rotterdam, October 12.—(Via London.)—A correspondent of The Tidi, describing the scenes at Antwerp, says:

"When the outer forts were silenced the Belgians, exhausted and benumbed, their heads swathed in bandages and their clothes smeared with mud, withdrew to the inner line. The commandants blew up their forts and spiked their guns.

"The Germans forced a breach in the inner girdle of forts sooner than was expected. Belgian troops of the inner and outer forts cost the Germans thousands of lives, but a German commander apparently had been ordered to take the city at all costs.

"The siege of Liege was as nothing compared with the last two nights of the bombardment of Antwerp, which was the most terrible of the war. During the bombardment was at its height prisoners began to batter at the doors of their cells because bombs had pierced the roofs of the prison. They howled like mad men until released and then began to plunder. This they continued until suppressed by armed force.

"The Germans sent four different demands to the town to surrender."

BELGIAN SOLDIERS CROSS INTO HOLLAND.

The Hague, October 11.—(Via London.)—A dispatch to The Nieuwe Courant from Hulst, Holland, quotes a Belgian officer as saying the total number of soldiers who have crossed from Belgium into Holland is about 26,000.

Many wounded among the Belgian soldiers who crossed the Dutch line have been taken to Hulst. The rest of the Belgians have been taken to Axel for internment.

45,000 MEN LOST BY THE GERMANS.

London, October 12.—"It is stated that the Germans lost 45,000 men during the attack on fortresses Wasilhem and Wavre-St. Catherine, at Antwerp," says a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam.

FOOTBALL GAME FATAL TO A WISCONSIN BOY

Milwaukee, Wis., October 12.—Milwaukee's first football fatality for the 1914 season occurred today when Carroll Olson, aged 20, died from concussion of the brain, the result of injuries received in a game yesterday.

DEMOCRATS WHO FIGHT NOMINEES ARE SCORED

Judge E. J. Reagan Issues Card Urging a Big Vote on November 3.

Judge E. J. Reagan, chairman of the state democratic committee, has issued a letter to the democrats of Georgia, scoring men who were candidates for office in the democratic primary and who are now running on the progressive or "bull moose" ticket against the democratic candidates. Chairman Reagan urges all democrats to turn out at the general election, November 3, and vote for the democratic candidates:

His letter is as follows:

"To the Democrats of Georgia: I desire to call your attention to the fact that some of the democratic nominees are to have opposition in the November election. Several persons calling themselves progressive democrats are now opposing the democratic nominees. Whether there is real danger in this movement, it will be well for every member of the democratic party to turn out and vote on the third day of November.

"Again, if not all, of those men who are now fighting the nominees voted in the August primary, and some of them were candidates in that primary, which was democratic. How any man can vote in a primary and then fight against the nominees in that primary is hard to understand, but such is the case. I therefore urge upon every democrat in the state the importance of voting in the November election. Even if there should be no danger, they should vote in order to show the strength of the party.

"I desire, also, to call attention to the resolution passed by the state democratic executive committee on the 25th of September, 1914, which provided that persons who took part in the August primary and votes against any of those nominated in that primary in the November election will not be permitted to vote in the democratic primaries hereafter held. This resolution was passed by the committee unanimously, and shows the temper of the committee on this question, and shows that the committee is determined to protect the legal democratic voter at that these men shall no longer be permitted to come into the democratic primaries and help to name the party's candidates and then try to defeat them in the regular election. The democratic party is in great danger of being destroyed if we continue to allow these men to attempt to control our party nominations by voting in the democratic primaries, and failing in that, turn around and vote against and attempt to wreck it in the general election. If they are democrats in August and by November have discovered that their consciences will not permit them to remain with that party longer, they should, at least, not turn voting "progressive" or "bull moosers" until after those they voted against in the August primary, and who were nominated therein, are elected.

"I, therefore, trust that every democrat in the state will turn out and vote for all the nominees in the November election. They are the standard-bearers of the party. It is to the interest of the people of the state to see that they are elected. To give it to them as a party the party to have the party make a good showing, and by spoiling its full strength in the election.

"Very respectfully,

(Signed) "E. J. REAGAN,
"Chairman State Democratic Executive Committee."

JACKSON M'LAIN DENIES PART IN LOVE TANGLE

A. Jackson McLain, the proprietor of a soda and cigar stand at 50 East Georgia avenue, and the third party in the love tangle which came to light when the police investigated a Saturday night shooting at the home of Mrs. Mattie Gilham, of 47 Summit avenue, denied Monday that he was an admirer of Mrs. Gilham, as charged by J. Eugene Oxford. He stated that Oxford attacked him without provocation while in a jealous rage.

"I had only known Mrs. Gilham as a customer at my soda fountain," he said. Oxford had no reason to believe that he would find me with Mrs. Gilham Saturday night. I had only decided a few minutes before to go there for the purpose of seeing Mrs. Gilham's brother, in regard to business matters and business. Mr. Oxford attacked me and shot him in self-defense."

DEALERS IN GRAIN WILL BUY COTTON

President of Association Declares Southern Farmers Best Domestic Customers and Deserve Assistance.

An Associated Press dispatch from Kansas City tells of a movement set on foot yesterday in that city urging the grain dealers to buy cotton.

The dispatch is as follows:

Kansas City, Mo., October 12.—Charles D. Jones, Nashville, Tenn., president of the Grain Dealers' National association, in annual convention here, today urged every farmer and every dealer in grain producing states to join the "buy-a-bale-of-cotton" movement.

Many planters cannot raise enough money on what they have already ginned to pay for picking that part of their crop not already harvested, he said. Joining the "buy-a-bale-of-cotton" movement does not mean giving away $50, but rather investing that sum with an opportunity to make good interest on the investment.

"The southern farmers are the best domestic customers grain men have," he added. "They need more grain this year than for several years past. At present they are not able to meet their requirements. In helping the southern farmer you are helping yourselves, for you are putting your best customer on his feet."

Purchases Are Made.

The cotton buying movement was materially boosted along yesterday by the following purchases:

Colgate & Co., of New York, manufacturers of soap and toilet articles, will buy 100 bales, twenty of which will be purchased through C. J. Fox, manager for Georgia.

Officers of various railroads, at the suggestion of Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, announced to the Atlanta central committee that they will purchase fourteen bales.

The following are the officials who will buy:

Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway; Adolphus Health, president of Southern railway, New York; E. St. Clapham, vice president and general manager Southern railway, Washington, who takes two bales; J. C. Williams, assistant to President Harrison, Washington; John Lyon, secretary, New York; A. W. Mackintosh, secretary, Mobile and Ohio railroad, New York; L. Green, freight traffic manager Southern railway, Washington; E. A. Merrill and C. E. McCarthy, executive officers Southern railway, Washington, who buys a bale jointly; Henry Fonda, general agent Southern railway, Atlanta; W. B. Duncan, 34 Courtlandt street, New York; J. D. McCue, general agent Virginia and Southwestern railway, Atlanta; The Tribune Publishing company, Atlanta, announced that the Fitzhugh Lee company, of Chicago, will buy one bale for each store it operates in southern states handling their products.

EVENING PLANTATION HAS NOT BEEN SOLD

It was erroneously stated in The Constitution recently that E. F. Dupont, the millionaire powder manufacturer, had purchased the Evening plantation in south Georgia for a winter home and shooting preserve. Evening plantation is owned and operated by D. Gilfillan. The property bought by the powder king was the Hopeton and Eliza Field plantations, on which he is erecting a magnificent country home.

BLUFF goes a long way in some things. But you never saw it keep a poor player on a big league team or make a poor tobacco stay put.

Velvet Joe

The way VELVET, The Smoothest Smoking Tobacco, is forging ahead proves one thing—that the public believe what VELVET JOE is telling them, try the tobacco, believe in that, and remain believers. Velvet quality holds the smoker. 10c tins and 5c bags.

Today Brings a New and Fine Exposition of Fall Suits

When the suit question is absorbing the thought of so many women, we would impress this fact as forcibly as we can—

The display of Suits we shall make today represents our most successful efforts of the season.

Yesterday's express brought literally hundreds of suits, and every one is a selected model.

Never believing in bulk buying in order to have an impressive quantity of suits, our buyer went into New York on his second trip this season to take full advantage of every late style development, to select such suits that we could announce as the authentic and authoritative styles of the moment.

The latest shipment is arriving at this writing. It is so fine, made up of so many and such smart, novel styles that we know today's display means genuine pleasure to every woman searching for a suit.

What are they? See!

The elements of their charms, as we would write them, would read as those of hundreds and hundreds of suits that were anything but distinctive—broadcloths, serges, cheviots, gabardines, braid and fur trimmings—but the way these elements are used!

Prices start at $19.75 and go very gradually up to $97.50. But worthy of particular note are these from $25.00 to $55.00.

Announcing an Important Corset-Style Event

Mrs. Margaret Moxon, a Corsetiere of Unusual Ability, Is With Us

Mrs. Moxon comes to us for a two weeks' demonstration of the merits of

La Vida Corsets

She is here to show exactly what the changes in corset-styles are this season and how they impart the new silhouette.

Her visit takes on added importance this season by reason of the fact that new corset styles are, indeed, new. They mark an abrupt change from the tendencies of last season—we speak of the raised bust and the slight curve over the hips—but Mrs. Moxon will tell you and show you all these points.

WOMEN VOLUNTEERS

In stress and trouble the women of a nation are always to be counted upon. In Servia the women went to the front with muskets in their hands; they were as strong and brave as the men on the firing line. In this country few of our women escape the weakening troubles peculiar to their sex.

For every disease or ailment of a womanly character, no matter how recent or how long standing, the one sure, reliable remedy of proved merit is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic. It's not a secret prescription, for its ingredients are printed on the wrapper.

Women are earnestly advised to take it for irregular or painful periods, backache, headache, displacement, catarrhal condition, hot flashes, sallow complexion and nervousness.

For girls about to enter womanhood, women about to become mothers and for the changing days of middle age Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should always be on hand.

Write Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for free 136-page book on woman's diseases. Every woman should have one.

NO CHARGE FOR THIS GRAND HOME MEDICAL BOOK

Every home should have one. Every man and woman who is afraid to read a book so plainly written that anyone can understand it should write today for a revised copy of The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser by Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

This is a large cloth-bound book of 1008 pages; 8 inches long; 1¾ inches thick; brimful of knowledge not found in ordinary books, sent postpaid to any reader who will send this clipping with 50 cents.

Engagement of Miss Beidler And Mr. Sciple Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Warner Beidler, of Chicago, have announced the engagement of their daughter Louise to Mr. Charles Sciple, of Atlanta, the wedding to take place in January.

Miss Beidler is a young woman of distinguished beauty and attraction. Her family represents Virginia's aristocracy, Virginia being her native state.

Mr. Sciple is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sciple, of Atlanta, and is one of the most prominent of the popular younger citizens. His father is one of Atlanta's leading citizens, and his mother one of the most handsome and most beloved of Atlanta women. He is a grandson of the late Anthony Murphy, a pioneer upbuilder, highly esteemed by all.

Mrs. Forrester Entertains At Circus Luncheon

A delightful occasion of yesterday was the luncheon given by Mrs. Cecil Forrester at the Capital City club in compliment to Miss Marie Celeste Villere, of New Orleans, the guest of Miss Virginia Lipscomb and Miss Nellie Phinisy, of Athens, who is visiting Miss Louise Broyles.

The center of the table represented the sawdust ring in a circus, the outer edge of the ring being outlined with a bank of moss. A clown and donkey, elephants, trapeze performers and other features of a real circus were here in miniature. The place cards were tiny horseback riders in tarlatan skirts of various colors, and riding miniature horses.

Bright colored balloons were tied to each guest's chair, making a gay circus suggestion.

Mrs. Forrester wore a gown of white cloth with trimmings of black and her hat was black and white.

The guests were Miss Villere, Miss Phinisy, Miss Broyles, Miss Mamie Ansley, Miss Callie Hoke Smith, Miss Lyda Nash, Miss Theo Floleau, Miss Natalie Campbell, of California.

Many Distinguished Visitors At Meeting of Woman's Club

The first fall meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club, Monday afternoon, was an occasion of unusual interest on account of the distinguished visitors present. Speakers of note who are in attendance at the convention of the Districts of Christ brought greetings from several distant states and from South America.

Owing to the continued illness of the club president, Mrs. P. H. McGovern, and the absence of Miss Alice Baxter, first vice president, Mrs. A. R. Colcord, second vice president, presided.

Following the usual order of business, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson read, most attractively, the spicy current events prepared by Mrs. D. B. Gray of College Park.

This was the afternoon set apart for memorial tributes to Mrs. Robert Zahner, the beloved member who died since the last meeting. Impressive tokens of love and sadness were expressed by Mrs. A. P. Chase, Mrs. W. D. Pattillo and Mrs. C. B. Wilmer, during the feeling of bereavement felt by each woman present. Mrs. Zahner was the first of the past presidents to be taken, but her memory will linger and her influence remembered.

The suggestion that has been made to have a Georgia Products day luncheon was commended, and a motion carried to celebrate this occasion on the day following Thanksgiving. Mrs. John M. Slaton was appointed chairman.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson was elected delegate to the annual meeting of the state federation in Albany, October 27-29.

Announcement was made that there would be an "open meeting" of the public spirited citizens in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, Thursday evening, in the interest of all-the-year-round playgrounds and recreation centers for Atlanta.

Mrs. Thomson, state president of the Montana federation, spoke of the universal work of "service" being done by women everywhere, and how all were working for the same grand endeavors.

Stressing the importance of work among the mountains, Mrs. Frances Miller Black, of Louisville, Ky., told the pioneer work of women's clubs was the conversion of other women to the belief that a woman has a sphere outside her own home.

That the present civilization needs more than ever the strategic point brought out by the remarks of Mr. Peter Alexander, of Baltimore, that her touch of gentleness and patience, woman can insist upon the fundamental principles of civilization, and stand back of the sentiment embodied in President Wilson, who represents to the world the highest type of Christian civilization.

Dr. Flower stated that he had great confidence in woman's influence on the civilization of this country. Mrs. Flower, representing the Woman's club of Austin, Texas, was heartily applauded when she said her city had given a rich gift to the club work in the national president, Mrs. Pennybacker.

Mrs. Maria Reynolds Ford, a member of the Columbia club, of Buenos Aires, said she was a missionary and a club woman and thinks the club is an important factor in the success of her work. The Columbia club is affiliated with the national congress of women of South America.

The president of the National Congress of Mothers and Conventions, Mrs. John McLean, spoke of the importance of all organizations coming together to determine upon the things that are most worth while to meet the vital needs of this country at this time.

A social half hour was enjoyed after the meeting adjourned.

MRS. HARVIE JORDAN,
Press Chairman.

The Official Board.

The full board of the club for 1914-15 as announced Monday follows:

Stockbridge; political science, Mrs. Mrs. Frank T. Akers; literary, Mrs. Joseph H. Hines; lecture, Mrs. Simon C. Connally; music, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton; federation, Mrs. Samuel Inman; Red Cross seals, Mrs. Hugh M. Willet; industrial and social conditions, Mrs. Frank H. Neely; civics, Mrs. Irving Thomas; drama, Mrs. William Claer Spicer; art, Miss Virginia Woolley; crafts, Miss Virginia Westley; household decorations, Mrs. B. F. Webb; civics, Mrs. Lyman J. Amsden; abatement of smoke, Mrs. J. M. van Hartlinger; parks and playgrounds, Mrs. Victor H. Kriegshaber; markets, Mrs. Annie Mays now; health and hygiene, Mrs. J. O. Matthewson; household economics, Mrs. Lois Warren; parliamentary law, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas; current events, Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan; commercial, Mrs. E. Lee Worsham; flowers, Mrs. J. O. Watts and Mrs. George C. Braeden.

Other chairmen of active committees are: Press, Mrs. Harvie Jordan; repairs, Mrs. Hinlly C. McDougald; scrap-book, Mrs. Gulian T. Bailey, legislature, Mrs. Dan Clyle; reserve, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith; notary, Miss Bessie Kempton.

Ex-presidents, members of the executive board, Mrs. W. P. Patillo, Mrs. C. K. Oglesby, Mrs. Edward T. Brown, Mrs. Burton Smith, Mrs. E. G. McCabe, Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. W. Woods White, Mrs. A. P. Coles, honorary committee: The president appoints this committee, which are: Mrs. Joel P. Hurt, Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, Mrs. Benjamin Stress, Mrs. M. M. Davies and Mrs. H. M. Atkinson. Resolutions committee: The president also appoints this committee, which are: Mrs. James Jackson, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. W. P. Patillo and Miss Alice Baxter.

Parent-Teacher Club.

The Parent-Teacher Neighborhood club of Ira Street school will hold its first fall meeting Thursday, October 15, at the schoolhouse. It will be a social meeting, and all mothers and friends are cordially invited.

Miss Gilbert, the first grade teacher, will give an intimate talk on the first month's work, the children's needs and ways to help.

Mrs. Victor Moore will fill the story hour and the usual large attendance is expected.

Executive meeting at 2 p. m. sharp. General meeting opens at 3:30.

Reynolds-Hardin.

Dr. and Mrs. Aristides Reynolds, of Marietta, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Mr. James O. Hardin, the wedding to take place in November at the home of the bride's parents.

Social Service Class.

Dr. David Marx will deliver an interesting lecture on Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 9:20 to the social service training class of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, the meeting to be held in the rooms of the association in the Gould building. On Saturday, October 17, from 9:30 to 9:30, a prominent physician of the medical staff of the association will lecture to the class on the physical signs and symptoms of tuberculosis.

Afternoon Musical.

Mrs. Frederick Hodgson will issue invitations the last of the week for an afternoon musical at her home, her sister, Miss Jennie Passett, of Elmira, N. Y., and Mr. Hugh Hodgson, of Athens, to be the artists. An admission of 10 cents will be charged, the proceeds to go to the Free Kindergartens.

It seems a most appropriate thought that music should be made the means to benefit the little people whose education and care is being given its first impulse by the Kindergarten association, and the fact that the music will be of that most delightful kind, will make the benefit a more than usually happy one.

Mr. Hodgson has been heard in Atlanta under distinguished auspices—the Atlanta Musical association—and the most serious element of music lovers have held him enthusiastic tribute. His second appearance here will be one of musical significance.

Miss Passett has studied under the best masters in New York, and her beautiful singing will complete the value of the musical.

Jennings-Hargrove.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Perry announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Elisabeth Jennings, to Mr. Joseph Allen Hargrove, of Crawford, Ga., the wedding to be in November.

Meeting of Baptist Women.

The fourth annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Missionary union of the Atlanta association held one of the most successful and interesting meetings in its history this week at Capitol Avenue church, the ladies of that church serving lunch both days to all visitors. Mrs. T. L. Lewis, superintendent, presided over the meetings.

This union has raised this year for all purposes $21,237.52. Splendid reports were given by each department. The following officers were elected for the next year: Mrs. T. L. Lewis, superintendent; Mrs. L. E. Barton, assistant superintendent; Mrs. A. E. Bryant, treasurer; Mrs. Kate Dawson, institutional work; Miss Ethel Hills, assistant; Mrs. Roy Kerlin, Sunbeams; Miss Emmie Munns, Y. W. A.; Mrs. W. D. Harwell, recording secretary, District secretaries: District No. 1, Miss Randall; District No. 2, Mrs. W. T. Martin; District No. 3, Mrs. W. O. Mitchell; District No. 4, Mrs. Hampton; District No. 5, Mrs. W. A. Hartman. Advisory board, Mrs. J. J. Gresham, Mrs. W. F. Anderson, Mrs. H. H. Hales, Mrs. A. J. Adair, Mrs. Frank Houston.

Mrs. Codie Laird and Mrs. C. W. King declined re-election as secretaries.

Mrs. Colquitt's Luncheon.

Mrs. Walter Colquitt entertained at luncheon yesterday at home, and the occasion was a pretty and informal one, assembling six young girls to meet Miss Dorothy Arkwright, who leaves this week to spend the winter in Washington.

In the party were Miss Arkwright, Miss Iaoline Campbell, Miss Isabel Robinson, Miss Josephine Mobley, Miss Louise Broyles, Miss Helen McCarty, Miss Julia Murphy.

The table decoration was an artistic plan in pastel colors, the centerpiece a basket of delicate pink roses in delicate shades. The place cards were tied to little trunks and valises.

Mrs. Colquitt wore a smart silk gown in oyster white, embroidered in blue. Of a pretty youthful type, she wore a white silk suit, with a black velvet hat.

Philosophical Lecture.

"Karma or the Law of Cause and Effect" is the subject of the sixth lecture in a series of ten in eclectic philosophy which will be given by Mrs. Rome M. Ashby this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Universalist church. The lecture deals with Oriental psychology, and all interested in metaphysics, psychology and kindred subjects are invited to attend.

MEETINGS

There will be a regular meeting of the Atlanta Pan-Hellenic at the University club Tuesday morning, October 13, at 10:30 o'clock, to meet the girl from Wesleyan, at the Tallulah Falls school. A full attendance is urged.

The first regular meeting of the Forest Avenue Parent-Teacher association for the ensuing year will be held Wednesday, October 14, at 3 o'clock.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Mrs. Louis Gholstin has returned from Augusta.

Miss Alberta Lamb arrived yesterday from Birmingham to visit Miss Martha Crane, and will be the guest of honor at the bridge luncheon Miss Crane gives Wednesday morning. Miss Laura Cole will be the guest of honor at Miss Crane's bridge luncheon this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dunning, of 18 Willow street, announce the birth of a girl, who has been named Eleanor Maria.

Bishop Charles H. Woodcock, of Kentucky, arrived last night and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Withers, upon the occasion of the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Mrs. Joseph Boyd is the guest of Mrs. Willis Westmoreland.

Mr. H. C. Forrester, of Meridian, Miss., is in the city.

Mrs. Stewart Tate and Miss Dian Tate, of New York, who have been at the Georgian Terrace, returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hook, of Augusta, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Spratling.

Miss Caroline Muse and Miss Mary Butler are visiting Miss Agnes Jones in Albany.

Mrs. Gussie Polk is at the Atlanta hospital for treatment. She will be glad to have her friends call.

CAPT. DAN JONES KILLS SELF BY INHALING GAS

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) Captain Daniel Jones, aged 56 years, a conductor on the Georgia railroad for many years, committed suicide Saturday night by inhaling gas. He left a note asking that the body be interred in the family cemetery at Conyers, Ga. About a month ago Jones and his wife had agreed to separate, and he has recently appeared mentally depressed. He left an income to be paid to his wife monthly.

Captain Jones had been employed by the Georgia road for the past thirty-five years. For ten years he had been conductor on the "Peanut" local train out of Augusta, but recently he had been given the night express from Atlanta. The body was taken to Conyers this morning for interment.

The Old Guard Reception A Picturesque Occasion

One of the largest and most brilliant events of October was the annual reception by the Old Guard battalion at the Capital City club last night, several hundred guests enjoying the occasion, which was one of elaborate hospitality.

Dancing was a gay feature of the evening, and a buffet supper was served at 11 o'clock.

The receiving party was grouped at one end of the ballroom—the governor and his staff and Mrs. John M. Slaton; Captain Joseph A. Jones, commander of the Old Guard; Mrs. Burke and Captain Burke's staff, including Major and Mrs. George N. Napier.

Behind them palms were massed effectively, and there was elaborate arrangement of palms and ferns throughout the ballroom and the salon adjoining. The national colors in bunting, as well as handsome silken flags, were draped on the frescoed walls, and the national and battalion insignia made rich decoration. Punch was served in the salon from a table hung with smilax and set in an alcove of smilax and palms. The orchestra in the gallery played the national airs and bright dance music.

The full-dress uniform of the battalion was a picturesque feature, and the entire occasion was one of colorful beauty and enjoyment.

National Congress of Mothers Holds Interesting Meeting

The executive board of the Georgia branch, National Congress of Mothers, will hold an important meeting in Atlanta October 15, at the Ansley hotel at 11 o'clock a. m.

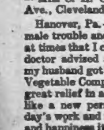
A large attendance is urged, as the winter's work will be outlined and many matters of importance discussed and decided upon.

Mrs. Howard Payne, the president, will preside.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"My left side pained me so for several years that I was expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7005 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.



Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

EMPIRE LIFE REPORT SUBMITTED TO WRIGHT

Report Is Incomplete, Owing to Fact That Books Have Not Been Balanced.

The report of John A. Copeland, appointed by the insurance board of Georgia to investigate the financial condition of the Empire Life Insurance company, on yesterday was submitted to Hon. William A. Wright, insurance commissioner.

The report stated that the books of the company were not posted, on which account it was impossible to obtain a trial balance without some delay, and the entire investigation was not therefore completed.

Mr. Copeland's report as submitted, showed that there were unpaid applications for loans on policies and for cash surrender values in the sum of $46,000 on October 1, 1914, and that on the same date there were unpaid death claims to the amount of $42,000, including a judgment for $12,000 pending on appeal.

The cash on hand in the office of the company and in transmission from agents, amounted to $703.41, and available deposits amounted to $2,300, in addition to a time certificate of $15,000, and the subscription of the Merchants Bank of Augusta, which the bank had rescinded.

The amount of insurance originally outstanding, as shown by the report, was $21,316,000, of which total amount insurance aggregating $4,211,000, had been declined or terminated by death, cash surrender, and by lapse during the present year, leaving the amount of insurance outstanding on October 1, 1914, in the sum of $16,892,

Counsel for the Life Insurance company protested against the filing of the report, on the ground that it was not complete, and urged the insurance board to pass an order protecting the figures of the report from publication.

Atlanta Association Of Baptist Churches To Meet This Morning

The sixth annual session of the Atlanta Association of Baptist Churches will be held in the auditorium of the Gordon Street church, West End, commencing Tuesday morning, continuing until Thursday. Three sessions will be held each day with the moderator, W. M. Gaines, presiding. Each session will be devoted to some special phase of the association's activities.

Tuesday afternoon will report the executive committee, of which Dr. John E. White is chairman, will be made and a discussion held. Speakers on educational topics Tuesday evening will be S. H. C. Jackson and Dr. W. J. Pickard. Benevolent association work will be the feature of Wednesday morning's session. C. W. Hatcher, chairman of the committee, will render a report Wednesday morning.

Other sessions will be: Conventional missions, Wednesday afternoon; education, Wednesday evening; Bible study and training and social service, Thursday morning, and special interest, Thursday evening.

Elaborate preparations have been made for entertaining the association while it is in session.

Young Men "Cough Up" When Woman Treasurer Comes Around for Dues

The treasury of the Kilpatrick Literary and Debating society of the Atlanta Law school has grown with leaps and bounds this week as a result of the election of Miss Agnes Louise Klein, of 134 Forrest avenue, as treasurer of the organization. Miss Klein is the only unmarried woman student in the law school, being in the senior class. She is said to be the best treasurer the debating society ever had, making the young men "cough up the coin."

Other officers elected by the Kilpatrick society were J. W. Lee, president; Paul Mandenhall, vice president, and Hewitt W. Chambers, secretary. Catchings Therrel, of Atlanta, is the new president of the senior class, I. Leonard Crawford being chosen vice president and Frank Guess treasurer.

Augusta Presbytery Meets.

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) The Augusta presbytery of the Presbyterian church will convene tomorrow in the Reid Memorial church of this city. The sessions will continue until after Friday. There are twenty-eight churches and fourteen ministers in this presbytery.

RECREATION WORKERS WILL MEET THURSDAY

For the purpose of hearing the report of the subcommittee appointed for the purpose of making recommendations for an adequate recreation system in Atlanta the entire city will assemble in mass meeting of citizens interested in the plans will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce building.

An illustrated plan of the work proposed will be furnished by T. S. Settle, southern field secretary of the Playground Association of America.

GEORGIA NOW OPPOSES COPPER COMPANY MOVE

Attorney General Grice is now in Washington combating before the United States supreme court the issue of the copper corporation in the Ducktown, Belpbor, Copper and Iron case, which move is to place further without delay before the court to have the trees and crops are not being damaged by sulphur fumes. The evidence, declares the attorney general, would be cumulative and would greatly inconvenience the state, which is the defendant.

Trial of Mrs. Carman.

Minecla, N. Y., October 12.—The trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey will begin here next Monday, it was announced today by District Attorney Smith. Mrs. Carman has recovered from her recent indisposition and was said to be in excellent spirits.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR BROTHERHOOD

Over 500 Delegates, Leaders in the Episcopalian Church, Will Gather in Atlanta Tomorrow.

All preparations for the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which will convene in Atlanta Wednesday, have been completed, and the final meeting of the Atlanta convention committee was held last night at the Hotel Ansley.

Between 500 and 800 delegates will attend the convention from all parts of the United States, among them some of the most prominent business men of the nation, as well as the leaders in the religious world.

The Atlanta convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will mark a departure from the brotherhood conventions of the past, in that it will be more of the nature of a general religious gathering, attended by the delegates of the St. Andrew Brotherhood and conducted by them than a convention of these delegates. To this end, the credentials committee has announced that formal credentials will be unnecessary to obtain recognition in this convention. This step was taken by reason of the fact that Episcopal churchmen not members of the brotherhood and Christian men of all denominations might feel more free to take part in the services of the convention.

Not only will men be welcomed to the services, but women and children as well have been invited to take part.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew was founded in 1883, with the purpose of personal evangelism as its chief feature. Today it is the largest layman's organization in the world, and from it have grown the "Big Brother" movement and numerous others.

The brotherhood is founded upon the example of St. Andrew, who, after he had been brought to the Master, went out and brought his brother. The cross, which is the emblem of the brotherhood, is in the shape of an "X," which is the form of cross upon which St. Andrew is said to have been crucified.

The first service of the convention, which will be held Wednesday night, will be characteristic of the brotherhood. It is the "Quiet Hour," a service which originated with brotherhood conventions, and is the first service in every convention.

Each delegate will go direct from his train to the cathedral, where there will follow a period of prayer and meditation, led by a member of the clergy, for, the coming convention. It was originated by a few of the delegates to former conventions, who, without a leader, began the custom, until it was finally recognized as a service, and became a regular feature of the conventions.

MERCER PRESIDENT TALKS TO BAPTISTS OF ATLANTA TODAY

Macon, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) Dr. W. L. Pickard, president of Mercer university, will leave tonight for Atlanta, where he goes to address the Atlanta Baptist association on the "Redemption of Atlanta and Mercer."

Now that the fall term is well under way Dr. Pickard will begin to devote considerable time to Mercer's interest throughout the state. With Prof. J. F. Sellers, for twenty years member of Mercer's faculty, as dean of the faculty and Dr. D. D. Biggers, as the Mercer man, as business manager, the president can give more attention to the duties of his office.

Besides speaking in Atlanta this week Dr. Pickard will return to Macon Tuesday night and go to Montezuma Wednesday, where he is to take part on the program of the Rehoboth Baptist association, which convenes there tomorrow.

Sets High Standard.

In remarking on the Mercer-Tech football game in Atlanta Saturday Dr. Pickard this morning flung out a challenge for Georgia Baptists to come to his support in its plans to bring to Mercer a crowd of students that will be the equal of either that at Georgia or Tech, in any event, that may be participated in by Georgia boys.

"We shall have 600 young men at Mercer, a million dollar fund on which dent bodies in the south," declared Dr. Pickard. "But of course it will take more than one or two years. We mean to start building right now. Are you with me, young gentlemen?"

With that end in view Georgia Baptists who are closely allied with the institution have determined that Mercer shall rank high. They, however, do not admit that Mercer is artificial, but that in order to cope with other universities of the south more equipment must be added and more students secured.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

GEORGIAN THANKED FOR HIS SUGGESTION FOR RESERVE ARMY

Macon, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Harry W. Freeman, a young cotton dealer of Macon, may be responsible for the formation of a reserve army by the United States, to be called on in time of war for national defense. The suggestion was made by Mr. Freeman in a personal letter to President Wilson, who referred the matter to the war department, and Major G. Crawford, secretary of the war college division, has replied, thanking Mr. Freeman for his patriotic interest and the suggestions made, and announcing that they will be given full consideration by the war department.

Mr. Freeman's plan, roughly drawn, is for the passage of a law making it compulsory for every male American born or reaching the age of 20 years to serve in the state militia for three years, meeting all of the requirements of the service, including field exercises, rifle practice and encampments.

The result of this, Mr. Freeman told the president, would be that thereafter from the ranks of 21 Americans would have some military training, have learned to know how to defend themselves and every man in time would have known something of militarism. In case of war these men would soon fall into line and become pretty good soldiers in a comparatively short time. At once a large army could be mobilized. In addition to this, Mr. Freeman also advocated the regular army of 300,000 men.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair

Shampoo with hot water, rubbing thoroughly into the scalp the the rich, creamy lather of Ten rubber tire companies have put their "O. K." on the L. B. "Automatic Index" method of filing

Three of them are among the biggest in the country, with capitalizations that run into hundreds of millions of dollars.

One order was for guide cards and folders for 900 drawers, in which four and a half million letters can be filed.

Another order was for equipment for 600 drawers.

These concerns did not buy new filing cabinets. They merely changed their method of filing.

The feature of the L. B. "Automatic Index" that impressed them most forcefully is that it provides an automatic check against errors in filing. Then, too, it is wonderfully quick—quick in! quick out!

Atlanta Cotton Movie Draws Great Crowds to the Grand

Have you ever revelled in the fascination of a moving picture that was filled with people and scenes that you know? Isn't there something about it all that makes you marvel at the movie art and causes you to forget the fact that you have an engagement with your wife or somebody else's—sister—at 9 o'clock on the dot?

Atlanta, movie devotees who attended the Grand theater yesterday were given the rare treat of seeing Five Points, Buckhead, the chamber of commerce, Peachtree street and other familiar Atlanta points of interest as the stages for a moving picture play, when the "Buy-a-Bale" picture, produced by J. Garnett Starr, assisted by Mrs. Eloise Davidson, made its debut.

There were packed houses at every performance. There will unquestionably be packed houses today. For the picture is really and truly good—a knockout. You don't have to be acquainted with the people that are in it to enjoy scenes where the stage is to feel a thrill or two with every foot of its filmic beauty.

In the first place, it is offered in behalf of a movement that means so much to Dixie—the "buy-a-bale" campaign. It is the dramatic story of the growth of the plan, written by Mrs. Starr, who was formerly a movie actress under D. W. Griffith and the Lubin directors. It is a well-connected story, cleverly acted under Mrs. Starr's personal direction, and photographed by Carl Rountree, of the Southern Film studios—an Atlanta firm, by the way.

The story is that of a society girl—portrayed by Mrs. Starr—who is spoiled by society's frills and goes horseback riding into the rural regions, seeking new diversions. On her way she meets Louise, a country girl, played by Mrs. Eloise Davidson, whose family is suffering because of the lack of a market for cotton. In order to help her new found friend she enlists the aid of her society friends to pick Dixie's cotton.

Scenes are shown here at the Druid Hills club where a card party is in progress, and the Atlanta girls take part in them, and they are then carried to the cotton field, where they pick the fleecy staple, afterwards using bolls of cotton to powder their noses. The cotton picked is ginned and auctioned off at Five Points, where a splendid mob scene brings some of your best friends—members of the idly curious who had gathered when the picture was made—into the movie.

The cotton is sold with the aid of Mayor James G. Woodward; Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum and the relentless Deputy John Owens are foiled in their efforts to levy on household goods of Eloise, and thus the society girl proves to her sweetheart, played by Newell Sogers (Mrs. Starr's brother, by the way), that she is not the butterfly he once suspected. Then comes a love scene and the film is over.

Inasmuch as the picture has already been booked in many southern cities, and will be taken north by a professional booking agency, it will be an advertising medium for Atlanta.

Those who appear in the picture are Mrs. Starr, Mrs. Eloise Davidson, Harrison Jones, chairman of the "buy-a-bale" committee; Hugh Smith, a leading business man; Sheriff Mangum, John Owens and Mayor Woodward. The Grand management announced last night that there would be a few additional touches added to the picture from day to day. Barring rain, these will be inserted by Wednesday.

Besides the "Buy-a-Bale" picture—which itself worth the price of admission—the Grand offers for the first three days "Atlantis," a stirring six-reel drama, which was filmed at sea by submarine-camera men

HELPING OURSELVES.

There is something definite and substantial in the plan of the bankers to provide a cotton loan fund of $150,000,000, and there is ground for gratifying hope in the fact that the bankers outside the cotton-growing states propose to subscribe two-thirds of this fund; that the bankers of outside states are ready to lend a helping hand where congressmen are not.

Representatives of Georgia banks and Georgia clearing house associations have been called to meet here tomorrow to consider this plan and to arrange for a subscription of $10,000,000 to the fund from this state. Only a few days ago the Atlanta banks alone came promptly forward with their subscription of $500,000 for the $100,000,000 fund raised to protect the credit of the United States abroad.

In the cotton crisis we have an emergency that strikes us closer home: one, too, which is of equal national importance. Since it has been demonstrated that there is no hope in Washington, it has come to be a case of helping ourselves; and Georgia will, in this emergency, measure fully up to expectations.

This cotton loan fund of $150,000,000 will, under the plan proposed, take care of something like 5,000,000 bales, or one-third of the 1914 crop. It will bring $30,000,000 to Georgia to finance something like a million bales. It will remove practically all the distressed cotton from the market, or leave so little of it that the remainder can easily be cared for through local agencies. It will enable the planter to meet his most pressing obligations; it will give him opportunity to renew his supplies and put him in position to get about his next season's work.

It will do more than this. Along with material it will bring mental relief. It will not only tide him over the present crisis, but leave to him the knowledge that he was not forced to sacrifice his crop, but will have something more coming to him when the demand that is bound to come reaches out for the product with the cash to pay the price.

There can be no better insurance against overproduction in 1915 than withholding from the market this 5,000,000 bales of distressed cotton. Each owner of a bale will feel that he has something more coming to him, possibly as much more as he has received in the shape of an advanced loan, that will be wholly dependent upon 1915 production, and that the amount he will really get will depend largely, if not almost altogether, upon what is produced next season.

It will act as an inducement to diversification more powerful even than legislation, for the motive force will be self-interest. The farmer who planted twenty acres this year will the more quickly reduce them to ten when he understands it means a difference between 6 and 13 cents a pound for him. The object lesson will strike home; there is no question as to the difference in value between, for example, twelve bales bringing $360 and eight bales bringing $480, with the opportunity given of raising valuable food supplies on acreage formerly devoted to cotton.

Here is a definite and specific plan of action that promises relief. It is the outgrowth of a suggestion coming from President Festus Wade, of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis; it is a plan which, in the execution, with assistance from friendly sources throughout the country, we can make our own.

It is an opportunity rather than a burden to the Georgia bankers, and we do not question they will be found ready and willing to contribute their full share to its success.

ONE STATE CAN DO NOTHING.

Until there is brought forward some specific plan for legislative enactment for the relief of the cotton crisis, upon which every cotton-producing state can and will unite, or at least the substantial basis for such a plan, there is nothing worth while that can be accomplished by calling together the legislature of a single state simply for talk and possible action that might find no voice of approval in any other general assembly.

This is what The Constitution has maintained all along. State action, without uniformity, or state action through one legislature and an absence of action in the others can accomplish nothing. One state alone is powerless to afford relief, either to itself or to all the rest.

We have no question that if Governor Slaton could have had any assurance of uniformity of action throughout the cotton states, or if there had been presented a plan for relief which, with reasonable certainty, the other states would have adopted, and which would be legal, he would have called an extraordinary session of the Georgia legislature to take cognizance of it.

But with the lights before him, with the doubtful nature of the plans suggested for relief through legislative enactment, from a standpoint of constitutionality, and with the practical certainty, viewed in the light of widely varying opinion, that no two states would adopt the same plan, Governor Slaton could not consistently have taken any other attitude than he did in refusing to convoke the legislature in extraordinary session at this time.

It is possible, of course, that there may be some plan presented upon which all of the states can and will agree, but it has not as yet made its appearance. National action would have solved the problem for all the states in a single measure, which would have been uniform in its application and operative upon all alike; but unfortunately we may no longer hope for assistance from that source from which we had every right to expect it.

We are not unmindful of the fact that each state feels that it has at heart the interests of its producers and its people, but in the absence of any guarantee or assurance of co-operation, what single state can afford to bind itself by iron-clad legal enactment?

ATLANTA'S NEW Y. M. C. A.

Illustrative of Atlanta's splendid progressive spirit is the completion of the new Young Men's Christian Association building on Luckie street to be opened this week to the men and boys of Atlanta.

This well-equipped and magnificent building, the product of the individual investments of Atlanta's citizens, affords an institution unsurpassed for the purpose to which it is devoted by that of any other city in the south. It was Atlanta's duty to build it, her opportunity for its service in returning dividends far and away ahead of the investment it represents.

Atlanta's new Y. M. C. A. proposes to deal with the boy physical, the boy mental and the boy spiritual; in no sense through force or compulsion, but by the far more powerful and effective methods of example and appeal to his reason and understanding, and by making the surroundings and methods of instruction so attractive and so inviting that they will draw and hold his attention.

It will offer very much the same service to the men of Atlanta who desire to take advantage of it; and there can be no question that the wide range of splendid facilities which it offers for physical exercise, for association, for instruction and for wholesome and restful pleasures, together with its many service facilities, will attract hundreds of Atlanta men and boys who have long thought of and wished for just such facilities as Atlanta's new Y. M. C. A. now brings them.

Atlanta has given them this building, and it should be the pride of her men and boys to make the greatest possible success of it. They should not only join it, but they should use it in all of its various departments. In the hours when they are free from work, they should make the Y. M. C. A. the busiest and the most popular place in Atlanta.

We believe they will do it, and that its active membership will speedily grow until, in proportion to population, it surpasses anything in the country. Therein will it return to Atlanta splendid dividends upon her investment—dividends in men of strength and vigor, who will not only know how to bear her burdens, but will be able to carry on the magnificent work of progress and upbuilding in which their fathers have set them so fine an example.

IN A NOBLE CAUSE.

One old and steadfast friend, the dog, breaks the proverbial record by having several distinguished days awarded him in Atlanta at the first dog show to be given here under the auspices of the American Kennel Club of New York.

The show, which opened Monday, will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday, and is in all respects a notable one, there being over 400 entries of the aristocracy of the canine kingdom, the larger percentage of which is local.

There is great interest in the show, at which prizes offered, not only by the merchants of Atlanta and others, but by visitors, will be awarded; but the chief interest centers in the fact that the proceeds will be given to the Home for the Incurables.

It is unnecessary to speak of the benefits conferred by this noble charitable institution, which has housed the homeless and afflicted and ministered to their sufferings so many years. The record of its work for humanity is more than local, and has high place on the lists of like institutions throughout the country.

The mere statement that the institution will be financially benefited by the show should greatly increase the attendance.

October's Gold.

I.

You know you've reached the promised land to which you long were bound,
For here's October, smilin' bright, an' scatterin' gold around;
It's good to glimpse the gleam of it in all the land once more,
I don't care if the gold won't pass there—at the grocery store.

II.

'Pears like you're in a country that's been all made over new;
The chap that counted that he was rich thinks that his dream's come true;
He feels like sayin' to himself: "The trouble-time is past—
The gold the world's been dreamin' of is rainin' down at last!"

III.

Oh, it's great to meet the mornin' in these bright October days;
Though the birds have ceased their singin', all life's a song of praise,
And I, with empty pockets, rich treasures behind me,
An' I'm a lalitime millionaire, rich with October's gold.

"The War Nurse."

The work of the "war nurse" recalls Longfellow's famous tribute to her:

"Lo! in that house of misery
A lady with a lamp I see
Pass through the glimmering gloom,
And flit from room to room.

"And slow, as in a dream of bliss,
The speechless sufferer turns to kiss
Her shadow as it falls
Upon the darkening walls.

"On England's annals, through the long
Hereafter of her speech and song,
A light its rays shall cast
From the portals of the past.

"A lady with a lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land,
A noble type of good
Heroic womanhood."

Good Intentions Gone Wrong.

Uncle Jeff Stone is quoted that "in the second-hand clothing given so generously to the flood sufferers a man six feet tall and three inches wide drew a full-dress suit contributed by a man six feet wide and three feet tall, and when the tall man put it on and approached his mule the mule did not know him and kicked him across two counties and made him sorry that he was born before the flood. Buy good, serviceable garments, and you will soon run out of pecans and toys and wish to send clothing."

In Life's Happy Land.

I think a fiddle's music beats any old brass band
An' ever' time I hear it I'm in life's happy land;
It's then I leave the valley for a high place on the hill;
I throw my troubles to the winds, to blow 'em where they will.

"It's joy-time, my honey!"—
That's the way it's worded;
For a fiddle beats the music
Of any singin'-bird.

Now, sigh an' far you hear 'em, an' a thrill to joy you feel
To git once more a-goin' in a old Virginny reel;
In happy land?—I reckon! An' here's one chap today
That's ready, at a fiddle's call, to dance the world away!

"It's joy-time, my honey!"
So take it by the hand;
You don't have far to travel
To reach life's happy land.

While the trouble-wolves howl,—
Don't git in the way o' the world!

The World-End Prophets.

Philosopher Vance says that all Musket Ridge is agog over the prophecy that the end of time will be in October—of the present year—and he makes this comment:

"Same old prophecy, same old superstition, same old world. Well, I have gone ahead and bought socks and sich like for the whole winter through, and if the prophet does hit it, I have simply paid out money that was unnecessary, that's all."

Baby Valued at 6 Cents.

(From The Detroit Free Press.)

The life of a child 18 months old was estimated at 6 cents by a Detroit jury. John A. McCurdy's child was playing on the lawn when a team became frightened and dashed over the lawn, killing the child. The jury held that the defendant was responsible, but awarded damages of 6 cents.

The Holland Letter

On the last day of September, ten millions in gold was exported in fact to Ottawa, Canada, but so far as international financing was concerned, really to London. For Ottawa has been constituted through one of the banks there an agent or representative of the Bank of England.

In the last week of August, commodities of the money value of twenty millions, round numbers, were exported from the port of New York. What was the money value of exports from other ports of the United States was not known at the time the custom house figures for the port of New York were made public. As soon as reports were made of the export of ten millions in gold to Ottawa and the export for the last week of September of commodities of the money value of twenty millions was made public, it did not fail to occur to leaders in the financial district that these two exports would in the course of time, and very likely speedily, be found to be important relations each to the other.

Report has been made occasionally in this column of negotiations which were in progress between representatives of other nations than our own, particularly those now engaged in war, and American manufacturers and traders. These negotiations have necessarily been confidential. A voluntary censorship has been established so as to protect the transactions or keep them from the public eye. That is due chiefly to the desire that other nations than those interested shall not gain immediate knowledge of these transactions. Of course, the normal and healthful competition between American industries is sheltered in the transactions to some extent. It is certain, however, that sooner or later there would be disclosures of some of the transactions made by the records published by authorities of the custom house in this city. It late in September and throughout October and all the fall the custom house report showed heavy exports, then it could be confidently assumed that England, France, Italy, Russia and Japan were buying heavily in the American markets. In August, however, no one ventured to predict that it would be possible to report on the first of October that the port of New York would have carried in a single week commodities of the value of twenty millions. For, in the first place, twenty millions is of larger money value than that recorded for any export from New York in any preceding last week in September.

In the second place, our exports have been falling off, and there have been none as large as this since the latter part of March of this year. Then, again, exports were blockaded, so to speak, immediately after the war began, and the middle of August reached a seemingly low figure.

A Sea Change.

Suddenly there comes as swift and great a change in our international trade as was ever recorded, for in the first half of September there was a loss of four million dollars in the money value of exports as compared with a like period a week ago, whereas in the last two weeks there was a gain in a like period of approximately seven millions of money value. The aggregate of the exports of the last two weeks of September of last year.

It is not possible to report in detail the various commodities which made up this export whose money value was twenty millions. A good deal of it was food. There were some military supplies and considerable export of iron and steel products.

The encouraging features of this report is found in the fact that the export trade in furnishes of continued heavy exports during the rest of the fall.

Meantime imports are not likely to be greatly increased. We shall have little or no imports from Germany, probably none at all from Belgium. Our trade with England will, so far as imports are concerned, be considerably curtailed. What the international trade with South America will be of something no one can now predict, but the opinion is commonly held here that we shall maintain and increase our large trade with Canada.

There seems to be no doubt that the way will speedily be found to put our cotton trade can recover from the setback which was occasioned by the war. How great that setback was is shown by the report from Washington which states that in August cotton exports were of the money value of less than a million and a half, whereas for the like period last year the money value of cotton exports was nearly seventeen million dollars.

The Gold Pool and Exports.

The ten millions in gold which was shipped from New York city this week on the evening of September 30 furnishes a good supply of coin against which foreign exchange can be drawn. The movement itself represented that unparalleled operation which has made the banks of the national reserve system subscribers, each according to its own strength, to a gold pool. The banks of New York city, in anticipation of the completion of the shipment, advanced the ten millions, as they had already sent to Canada other millions as a basis for the payment of existing obligations of New York city.

If by this artificialized method which has attained nation-wide co-operation it is possible for American merchants and importers and those who have made finance bills and the city of New York to pay their existing debts, then there should be speedily a reflex effect occasioned by the heavy exports of American commodities. The money value of the exports from the port of New York for the last week of September was almost exactly twice the money value of the gold which was sent to Ottawa on the last day of September. In normal times exports of this kind would have indicated the creation of a large credit balance on the other side of the sea or the imports of gold with which to meet a trade balance. It is the demonstration to show that continued exports of the money value each week of the exports of the last week of September will speedily create conditions on the other side of the sea which will make it needless for us to utilize any more gold. Financial conditions across the sea will compel England and probably France so to handle the money market situation that exchange will remain for a time slightly above the gold exporting point. But, with heavy exports such as are now clearly indicated, it will be impracticable for any length of time to maintain this high rate of exchange. The exports forecast a considerable limitation in the amount of gold which will have to be taken from the gold pool of one hundred millions in order to protect our international financial relations.

HOLLAND.

Trees Along the Way.

(From The Plymouth Republican.)

In these days of apples and walnuts and hickory nuts and other good things from the trees it makes one think of the trees along the highways. We have some shade trees, and while it is not possible to shade to much extent the roads, they help to cool the parched earth in the summer, and check the cold blasts in the winter. Trees along the highways are then a nice thing to have. We suggest that when new trees are planted by the road they be trees which will not only produce some shade, but will give fruit also. It would be just as cheap to plant apple trees, or walnut trees, or hickory trees or plums or cherries. Then they would use the now unused ground along the edges of the highway to produce something of value each year. The owner and plantar of these trees might not get much from them, but he would get something, and the traveler would always think happy thoughts when he passed the farm where there were apples or plums or cherries by the roadside.

WHIPPING AUSTRIA.

By GEORGE PITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Whipping Austria has been the pastime of European nations for one thousand years. No country stands so low in the International Cannonball league. France, Italy, Sardinia, Prussia, Spain, Turkey and the Netherlands have all beaten it in the last two centuries. It has been the hoodoo of nations. Whenever it has allied itself with its neighbors, the war has failed. When it has stood on the side lines the allies have won and divided the spoils.

Napoleon took great delight in fighting Austria. It rested and refreshed him after his severer battles. He changed the map of Austria so often that the map makers issued extras like yellow journals and he helped himself to 90,000,000 florins and a new queen at one swoop. France and Sardinia beat it in 1859. Prussia whipped it in a practice war in 1866 before tackling France. From the Dark Ages to the middle of the last century the sound of pain and anger in the European concern meant that Austria was taking something away from Austria.

And yet Austria is larger than ever. This is partly because whenever a slice of territory was taken off by one nation several other jealous nations made it give up another slice in exchange. No nation could afford to let any other nation grab too much. And so Austria throughout history has been a depository for territory which no one else wanted at the time. It has owned Italy, Holland, Alsace, Servia, Bavaria and Switzerland at one time or another—until someone else needed them.

If Austria loses again it will go on the operating table once more, while Italy, Servia and Russia stand over it and mark out upon the unhappy patient the parts they desire to slice off. If Austria wins, she may get back Servia, Montenegro and Venice. But, win or lose, her map will be changed. It always is. An unbroken precedent requires that a treaty of peace in Europe must be accomplished by a revision of Austria to make the balance of power hang true.

"If Austria loses again it will go on the operating table once more."

The Hand That Rules the World.

They say that man is mighty, he governs land and sea;
He wields a mighty sceptre o'er lesser powers that be;
But a mightier power and stronger man from his throne is hurled,
And the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.

Blessings on the hand of woman! Angels guard its strength and grace,
In the palace, cottage, hovel, oh, no matter where the place!
Would that never storms assailed it, rain-bows ever gently curled;
For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.

Infancy's the tender fountain, power may with beauty flow;
Mother's first to guide the streamlets, from them souls unresting grow;
Grow on for the good or evil, sunshine streamed or darkness hurled;
For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.

Woman, how divine your mission here upon our natal sod!
Keep, oh, keep the young heart open always to the breath of God!
All true trophies of the ages are from mother-love implanted;
For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.

Blessings on the hand of woman! fathers, sons and daughters cry,
And the sacred song is mingled with the worship in the sky.
Mingles where no tempest darkens, rainbows evermore are curled;
For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.

Peace.

(By Ben F. Hill, Chipley, Ga.)

I would that I could pour the balm of Gilead
On the heads of those who seek to draw each other's blood,
And thus they drown the waring nations
In a cruel, crimson flood.

Would that I could in each heart of hatred,
love to fellow men instill,
So that they'd heed the words of wisdom spoken by the Master on the sea of Galilee,
He, who said to all those angry, lashing waters,
"Peace be still."

Would that I could follow in the wake of those who tread the gory paths of Blood,
Destroying homes, peace, happiness and all of human joy;
Would that I could gather up from all its
Wanton ruins each dear mother's son,
I'd give him back to her who bore him—
Ah, yes, indeed, the gold without alloy, her hopd and happiness, her loved boy!

Therefore, fly quickly, thou dear "Dove of Peace,"
Though it drooped and weary be thy wings, storm-beaten by the ocean crest,
Haste thee, dear bird, and linger long and near the lands,
Where bleeding soldiers find no welcome joys or peaceful rest.

Go spread the wings o'er Verdun, Aisne, Rheims and Louvain,
Who from their living sorrows find no surcease,
Go hover near the dead and dying and over their untimely mounds
Drop our green olive leaf of peace!

Mississippi Governor Will Not Ask for Ban On State Cotton Crop

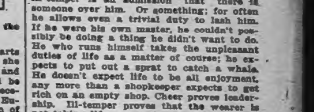
(From The New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

Jackson, Miss., October 9.—Governor Brewer adheres to his former expressed determination not to call the legislature to enact a law preventing farmers from planting cotton next year. Citizens of Holmes county have started up a good deal of enthusiasm in favor of a special session of the legislature, calling members over the telephone to get their ideas on the proposition. The majority of the members of the senate were questioned, and out of thirty who answered, twenty-five favored special session, two were opposed and three noncommittal. The same parties are now interviewing the members of the lower house. They seem to believe that when the governor finds out the sentiment of the lawmakers he will issue a call.

But Governor Brewer stands pat. He states that he has talked to a great many people about this matter and that the great majority of those are opposed; he says further he has talked to a number of the foremost lawyers in the state, and they tell him it would be contrary to the state and federal constitutions. He takes the position that congress is the only lawmaking body that can meet such a case, and suggests that the leaders of the movement go to congress with their demands.

The governor states that there are considerable portions of Mississippi in which there are no boll weevils, and farmers in those districts could easily enjoin the enforcement of such a law as would try to stop the planting of cotton. "If you can pass laws to prohibit the raising of cotton you can pass laws to stop the planting of corn, wheat, potatoes, or other crops, and it is ridiculous to think that could be done without violating the constitutions of the state and nation."

Governor Brewer is decidedly of the opinion that the farmers must be their own judges in this matter, and that they have it in their power to so greatly reduce acreage that it will have effect on the supply. With half a crop of cotton and an abundance of food crops and live stock he thinks Mississippi will be able to weather the storm.



THE ILL-TEMPERED MAN

This is the man who has a master. His ill-temper is an admission that there is someone over him. Or something; for often he allows himself a revival duty to lash him. If he were his own master, he couldn't possibly be doing a thing he didn't want to do. He who turns himself takes the unpleasant duties of life as a matter of course; he expects to put out a sprat to catch a whale. He doesn't expect life to be all enjoyment, any more than a shopkeeper expects to get rich on an empty shop. Cheer proves leadership. He who grows angry that the weaver is not taking life as a serious business. He is too childish for business life; he can only cry out for pleasures. He is in possession of his full health, yet he behaves as in an invalid chair. And inactivity undermines. Soon the ill-tempered man will find his hand too weak to get a grip.

He's a jellyfish.

The Russian Anthem.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

The Russian national hymn, a gradually stirring one, is known here the world over as "All Terrible." It is of more recent origin than the national hymns of other countries—than "God Save the Queen," "Deutschland Uber Alles," England with "God Save the King," Austria with Haydn's "Emperor's Hymn," Belgium with the "Brabanconne" and France with the "Marseillaise." The Russian anthem was the work of the Russian composer Lvoff in response to a request preferred by Emperor Nicholas I. that the Russians possessed no national hymn. When the composer announced that the hymn was ready, both words and music, the emperor signified a desire to hear it, and on November 23, 1833, when to the court chapel, accompanied by the emperor and Grand Duke Michael, where the composer had assembled a large choir supported by two orchestras. "The sovereign," says Lvoff, "on the history of the anthem, "ordered the hymn to be played over several times, and asked to hear it sung without accompaniment; then he had it played by each orchestra in turn, and finally with the united body of performers. His majesty then said to me in French: 'It is really superb,' and there and then he commissioned Count Benkendorf to inform the minister of war that the hymn was adopted for the army. This measure was officially ratified on December 4, 1833. The first public performance took place on December 11 at the Grand theatre in Moscow. The emperor was apparently desirous of submitting my work for the approval of the Moscow public. On receiving it he had it performed there, through the halls of the Winter palace on the occasion of the blessing of the colors."

Doubt Rheims Can Be Restored

(From The New York Tribune.)

Gilbert White, the American artist who decorated the McAlpin lobby, and who also has to his credit the decorations for the Kentucky state capitol, as well as numerous other mural decorations in this country, said yesterday to a newspaper man that it would be almost impossible to restore the cathedral which the German destroyed at Rheims.

"How can they restore it?" asked Mr. White. "When you destroy a sublime structure like that. Remember, will you, that the cathedral was built at a time when architecture expressed the people; that it was built when men were putting their souls into the work they built. How can our men of today, try as they may, restore it?

"It's just the same as trying to reproduce a portrait of a landscape by one of the two masters whose names have made history. Every copy is good, but there is always an elusive something that is not there, something that even the most uneducated observer will see. Art is a thing that is difficult to describe, but when analyzed it is seen to be the soul of the creator that goes into the work and a superb piece of architecture worldling."

Studies Italy's Thrift.

Simon W. Straus, president of the American Society for Thrift, is studying methods of thrift in Italy. He has been surprised to learn that in the last thirty years savings in Italy have more than quadrupled, from a total of 1,000,000 lire to 4,250,000,000 lire. The chief means of inducing thrift are the ordinary savings banks, which number about 300, with nearly 4,000,000 depositors, whose deposits total $500,000,000, and the postoffice savings banks with an average of 6,000,000 depositors, whose savings amount to $450,000,000. The remainder of the savings are held by co-operative societies of credit and by the numerous savings departments attached to the state pawn brokers' establishments.

When Napoleon Died.

(From "A Diary of Jas. Gallatin in Europe," in Scribner's Magazine.)

July 16, 1821—The news has just arrived of the death of Napoleon. He died on the 5th day of May. I was much astonished at the way the news was received. The hero which the whole French nation had worshipped, whom all Europe had trembled before, it might have been an ordinary actor who had died. Really one could feel great disgust. A mighty man indeed he was with all his faults. The first I heard of it was cried about the streets "La Mort de Napoleon a Ste. Helene, Deux Sous." Oh, the irony of it!

FEDERAL AID IS THE ONLY REMEDY

Gov. Slaton Points Out the Futility of State Enacting Legislaton to Curtail the Cotton Crop of the South.

Governor John M. Slaton has written The Constitution a card commending its editorial of Sunday, under the caption of "The Responsibility Fixed."

Governor Slaton sets forth in his card the utter futility and injustice of state legislative action looking to the restriction of cotton production, and declares that the only relief from present financial stringency of the southern farmer lies with the federal government.

Governor Slaton's card follows:

"Editor Constitution—I wish to earnestly commend the editorial in your Sunday's paper, entitled 'The Responsibility Fixed.' Its logic is convincing, and its strong, dignified tone possesses an air of truthful independence which makes it the more impressive, and is now a little rare.

"Of course, congress is the only body which can pass a bill effective alike in all the states and uniform in its operation. The impossibility of attaining uniformity through the action of nine different legislatures is apparent to all, and until it became evident that congress will fail to measure up to its duty, everybody looked to Washington for relief.

Beyond Power of States.

"How unwise for the states to attempt the task beyond their power and give congress the excuse that the states have undertaken a work with which it will not interfere.

"Now through a mistaken sense of loyalty to the administration and to certain officials, some of those who clamored most loudly for government aid are diverting attention from Washington, and without hesitating are criticising state officials for not putting their states to the needless expense of calling their legislatures in session to attempt futile legislation.

"It is well at this time to meet the issue squarely, and if the lesson is well impressed on the people, some good may be extracted from the unhappy situation.

"During a republican administration the legislative branch of the government was minimized and became a rubber stamp to the president. The 'big stick' threatened everyone who dared to utter a protest, and under the prevailing practice, the people could have been spared the expense of congress, and the president could have issued an ukase, as did the czar of Russia, granting power of patronage was never more exemplified.

"This is contrary to our form of constitutional government, wherein the legislative and executive branches are separate. The representatives in congress should be free to express their opinions regardless of the senators, and the senators should unhesitatingly disagree with each other, if beneficial to their constituents, and all should be commended for differing with the president himself, if, in their judgment, the interests of their constituents or the nation should so require. It is pitiable to observe the tremulous fear of official displeasure in Washington.

"The perfect freedom of expression should not be paralyzed by the fear of loss of patronage. The designation of a postmaster or a judge is trivial when compared with the vast interests of a constituency, in a crisis like the present. Freedom of a people can be preserved if their representatives are not free, and under any other interpretation loyalty becomes servility.

President Should Know.

"Maybe the able president himself, occupied as he is with so many vast and mighty questions, does not know the situation. If our senators and representatives clearly and plainly express to him the needs of our southern people, he would likely find in his wonderful resourcefulness some measure to relieve the present distress.

"On Saturday a committee came from south Georgia to ask my officers in obtaining for him a loan of $5,000, backed by land and cotton and other security worth over $500,000, and I have taken the matter up this morning with Atlanta bankers, and find it impossible to get the money, even if government bonds as security. I arranged a similar loan for $500 two weeks ago for a farmer living 300 miles from Atlanta.

"Certainly the government controls the money of the nation, and under sufficient guarantees, could provide means to finance the situation.

"Regarding the curtailment of the crop by law, allow me to quote a native North Carolinian, the present secretary of agriculture, a member of the president's cabinet. Mr. Houston says:

"'The acreage devoted to the next cotton crop ought to be greatly reduced. This is in every section, of course, but the acreage cannot be regulated or restricted by the congress or the state legislatures. They have no authority to legislate upon this subject. It is going to require the earnest, own initiative, or the farmers and merchants and bankers, acting together and for the protection of all, can control the acreage in farming, some planting food crops and making cotton their surplus crop. The merchants and bankers by laying down the rule and sticking to it that they will not extend aid in the way of advances to any farmer who does not reduce the acreage devoted by him to cotton growing, and the bankers by refusing loans to farmers and merchants who will not make such agreement.

"'And the supreme head of agriculture in the nation, agreeing with the attorney general of Georgia, says that we cannot, by law, enforce curtailment and he does not ask it. The National Farmers' union, appearing before congress, does not ask it, but protests against it. And yet, over their heads, I am asked to declare that they are ignorant, and that I and I alone ought to stand for putting the farmers in the changgang for not doing what others think is to their advantage.

No Action in Texas.

"Furthermore, the legislature of Texas, the largest cotton-growing state in the nation, has been in session for weeks without passing any such legislation, and the Associated Press reports that the Texas legislature will pass no such act. If congress has refused to unite on the forcible curtailment of cotton production, this would practically defeat the plan, aside from any constitutional question.

"Some measure of curtailment by prohibitive taxation, and will not listen to the passage of such a bill, which is my duty. I will say that the attitude of a governor with reference to the passage of a statute irrespective of its constitutionality seems to raise a question as to whether or not a real or fancied public necessity warrants a violation of a solemn oath of office.

"The precedents cited for such legislation were all passed during the civil war, when the only law was necessity. Private rights and property should be held their sacredness, and the sole authority was force of arms.

"No legislature should be called into session except with a clearly defined purpose in view. And no governor who does so violates the constitution and in addition imposes a heavy burden of expense upon the taxpayers, simply because the state legislature by psychic influence is not free to exercise its sovereign functions.

Federal Activity Now.

"Since the governors' conference in Washington, which put the question up to the nation's representatives, there seems to be much more activity in congress in behalf of the southern farmers. If the people will continue to press upon their representatives in that body their duty to afford relief, and not permit their attention to be distracted by those who have located elsewhere than in their behalf, they may expect the relief to which they are entitled.

"The congressman who speaks out boldly should be commended by his constituents.

"Many a good men, eager to help, are persuaded in favor of measures which in other times their better judgment would oppose.

"But if not the energies of the people be diverted from bringing pressure where it belongs, if congress and the president will only exercise their powers, there will be relief.

"Governor."

"Atlanta, Ga., October 12, 1914."

Supports Governor.

Here is a letter which has been written to Governor Slaton strongly commending the stand he has taken on the matter of calling a session extraordinary of the legislature.

"Governor John M. Slaton, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: As an individual farmer I wish to enter a respectful protest against the pressure that is being brought to bear upon the governors of the cotton states to call extraordinary sessions of their respective legislatures to consider the cotton question.

"I should be glad to see cotton severely let alone.

"The conventions that some (not all) of the farmers are holding, the resolutions they are adopting and the government aid or interference they are invoking seem to me neither wise nor safe. As I read them, these resolutions seem but movements of the farmers themselves to delegate to the government the dangerous power to enact legislation directed against themselves, namely, to place special taxes upon their own products and special restrictions and curtailments upon their own individual rights to manage their own affairs.

"The bare fact that the farmers should invoke government help in any sort of government interference when they, farm product (except cotton) is bringing an abnormally high price, seems an utter travesty upon the whole system of Georgia farming. Corn, wheat, oats, hay, potatoes, peas, hogs, beef cattle, dairy products, poultry, garden truck, etc., all command the high prices that would not only attract but rejoice any farmer anywhere but here.

"If, under such conditions, government help could be extended anywhere, it would seem, on common principles, at least rather to some poor class of consumers who must of necessity buy and consume these high-priced foodstuffs, but who cannot produce them, and not to the class that can and does produce them and produce them, too, at handsome profit, but who persistently refuse to do so.

"The European war has but suddenly and unexpectedly precipitated the logical effects of this refusal. I only hope there will be no paternal effort on the part of the Georgia state government to stay the wholesome lesson.

Yours very truly,

FRANK W. BARNETT.

U. S. PENSION LIST CUT NEARLY TWO MILLION

Washington, October 12.—Uncle Sam paid out a total of $172,417,546 in pensions in the fiscal year ended June 30 last, according to Commissioner of Pensions Saltzgaber's annual report today. This compares with $174,171,660 in 1913, the largest amount ever paid out. The commissioner points out that a decrease may be expected to continue. The grand total of expenditures for pensions from 1866 up to and including 1914 was $4,423,511,926.

The total number of pensions of all classes on the rolls was 756,228.

The Only Fair Way to Sell Diamonds

The business of selling diamonds is usually shrouded in mystery.

We don't agree with this way of doing business, and have changed it absolutely. There is no mystery about the diamond business. Customers should know exactly what they are buying, and diamonds should be sold on their merits like other great staples.

Our diamonds are tagged with plain figures giving their lowest net price, exact weight, color and whether or not they are perfect. No price is ever cut, for it is not right to make the desirable customer, who trusts you, pay more than the one who takes up time by haggling over prices.

Call or write for booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," and take advantage of our attractive selling plans.

Young People at Convention Entertained at Burns Cottage

An automobile ride through Atlanta, ending with tea at the Burns cottage, which was tendered the young people of the convention, was the pleasant afternoon was one of the most interesting events of the convention so far. Automobiles were loaned to the committee by owners and local dealers for the ride. The tea at the Burns cottage was under the direction of the Young People's hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Jasper Bell is chairman.

Although there were more than enough guests to go around for the automobile ride, there was plenty to go round at the cottage, and the convention visitors had a taste of Atlanta Scotch hospitality, as well as oat cakes and tea. A program had been arranged for the afternoon to assist in the entertainment of the guests of the occasion, but the guests so thoroughly entered into the spirit of the occasion that there was scant room for a program of any sort. Scotch songs, "Annie Laurie," "The Wee Haus Amang the Heather' and others were sung by the company, led by Mr. and Mrs. "Sandy" Cruickshank. Some of the older young people were as thoroughly entertained as the younger ones.

ceived the following telegram today from Mexico City:

"General Ismus Carranza, at the head of the second division of the center and at the head of an army of more than 30,000 men, with sixty cannon and seventy machine guns, has arrived at Tehuantepec, having come from the Isthmus of Tehuantepec where he superintended the marching out of the federal troops located in that region, and he has taken over the garrisons of Salina Cruz and Masatlan."

Firing across the international border at Naco, Ariz., yesterday by American patrol troopers and Mexican soldiers was characterized by President Wilson today as a "local difficulty." Apparently he considered the incident had no bearing on the general situation in Mexico.

The president said that while arrangements were being made to withdraw the United States troops from Vera Cruz "immediately," the details of the transfer of municipal government first must be arranged.

ZAPATA'S FOLLOWERS TO QUIT FIGHTING.

Mexico City, October 12.—An attack made on the night of October 10, on San Angel, Xochimilco and other suburbs of Mexico City by adherents of Emiliano Zapata, caused a reign of terror in the capital until today. The suspense was relieved when it was officially announced today that Zapata's followers had agreed that hostilities fighting until the termination of the peace conference between the northern and southern constitutionalist generals at Aguas Calientes. Peace is also in the suburbs were thus satisfactorily adjusted.

The invaders entered San Angel at 7 o'clock Saturday night and heavy firing was begun. The telephone operators were compelled to flee from the exchanges, making communication between the suburb and the city proper difficult. The government immediately impressed a number of the striking street car motormen into service and rushed 1,500 men with artillery to San Angel to reinforce the garrison there. Severe fighting in the streets between the defenders and the attacking party followed. Xochimilco was completely surrounded by the Zapata men and reinforcements also were rushed to that place on tram cars.

The authorities in Mexico City proper expressed fear of a general attack and families living in Coyoacan and Mixcoac began leaving the city.

The feeling of intense suspense continued in the capital until the official statement gave assurances that Mexico City proper would not be attacked.

Delegates representing Zapata presented a land reform scheme at the Aguas Calientes conference today and the matter was debated at length.

It is reported that a plan calling for a commission form of government will be introduced and voted on in the near future. This plan, which would eliminate the vexing question of the provisional presidency, calls for a commission of seven members, representing all factions.

CARRANZA'S DOWNFALL REQUESTED BY VILLA.

El Paso, Texas, October 12.—Charges that General Villa has published a manifesto inviting the people of the army to join him in overthrowing General Carranza were denied in a telegram received today from the Carranza press bureau in Mexico City.

The message said that Villa had proposed to make Fernando Iglesias Calderon president, but that Calderon previously had declared he would not solicit knowing that the division of the north did not represent the Mexican people.

Papers reaching here mention a speech at the recent convention of constitutionalist chiefs in Mexico City as favoring General Obregon, who was attacked by General Villa at Chihuahua City while seeking to prevent a rebellion of the division of the north.

In this speech Obregon is quoted as saying his life was spared at Chihuahua only "through a miracle."

Douglas, Ariz., October 12.—A second attack on Agua Prieta, Sonora, and the Carranza garrison was made tonight by the Yaqui Indians, who were repulsed last night, and two columns of Maytorena forces from Naco. The garrison successfully resisted.

The garrison has been increased from 100 to 250 Saturday night. Further reinforcements arrived today and more are expected.

Governor Maytorena's object in besieging Agua Prieta, which necessitated weakening his Naco attacking force, was to obtain supplies near-Naco than is Nogales, his present source.

During the attack tonight bullets from both sides fell here and the inhabitants fled to the center of the town for safety.

Orphan Tot Informs Convention Banquet He Wants New Home

Theodore Roosevelt Henry, a self-confident 4-year-old orphan boy, who is an inmate of the Southern Christian home, at 299 Lee street, stood up before the banquet of the National Benevolent association of the Disciples of Christ Monday evening at the Ansley hotel and told the banqueters that he wanted them to give him a new home.

"We ain't got room enough out there, and so we want you to find us a new place to live in," he said. "And before we ain't got any play-room at all now, 'cause we got to sleep in it."

Needless to say, Theodore Roosevelt Henry was assured that just as soon as they had money enough the new and larger home would be bought. The Southern Christian home, which is maintained by the National Benevolent association as its orphanage in the southeastern states, at present accommodates forty children, practically all of whom were brought to the banquet.

Dr. W. Palmer Clarkston, of St. Louis, was toastmaster at the banquet, which is an annual occasion of the benevolent association, held during the Christian convention each year.

The forty orphan children will be brought to the city again Tuesday morning in order to appear before the convention. That afternoon a special car will take the officers and a large number of the members of the benevolent association to West End to inspect the home. F. J. Spratling is president of the home.

WOMEN WILL WEAR GOWNS OF COTTON AT BALL IN MACON

Macon, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Macon society folks are preparing for a cotton ball, to be held on October 23 at the Dempsey hotel ball room, and the indications are it will be one of the most notable events of the coming winter season.

All of the women are to wear gowns made from cotton material and since the announcement was made that the ball was to be held, dressmakers have been almost swamped with orders for cotton dresses. The proceeds of the ball are to be given to charity, but the principal object is to encourage the wearing of cotton dresses more extensively than is now done.

ALLEGED THIEF CAUGHT; BETRAYED BY HIS DOG

When W. H. Baird, of 465 Lee street, was awakened by a racket on the street at 3 o'clock Monday morning he found a negro attempting to chop his way into his drug store, next door, with an axe Baird fired at the thief, but missed. Recognizing the negro because of a dog which continually follows him, he notified the police headquarters. Patrolman Christman Long and chased the boy to his home, 43 Dimmock street.

Here he chased the alleged thief to a corner of the attic. In the ensuing fight Long grew tired and the negro, His pistol was being slowly wrenched from his grasp (when the patrol with a squad of officers arrived. Officer Jones subdued Tilley by a blow over the head.

In the recorder's court Monday evening Tilley was held over for attempted burglary. His bond was fixed at $500.

MANY APPLICANTS FOR TALBOTTON POSTOFFICE

Talbotton, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) Since the removal of Postmaster Dr. Loach, of this city, applications have been pouring in to Congressman W. C. Adamson for this position. About six have applied, according to advices received from him, though he has not been officially asked to nominate a successor.

The following have been mentioned to fill the vacancy: E. H. McGehee, W. K. Kimbrough and Miss Sadie Arrington. It is not anticipated that the appointment will be made soon. At present Miss Arrington has charge of duties of office, being appointed temporarily by Postoffice Inspector M. F. Cole. She will have charge until Mr. DeLoach's successor has been named.

DISCIPLES' CAMP AGAIN IN HARMONY

Rev. A. R. Moore, of Savannah, Ga., and Dr. R. L. Rigdon, of San Francisco, Cal., were elected vice presidents. Colonel Fred W. Fleming, of Kansas City, was chosen treasurer. Rev. Graham Frank, of Liberty, Mo., was re-elected corresponding secretary, and Colby D. Hall, of Fort Worth, Texas, was re-elected recording secretary.

Rev. A. McLean, of Cincinnati, and Rev. E. L. Day, of Indianapolis, were elected new members of the executive committee to serve for four years.

War Not Stop Missions.

The annual report of the Foreign Christian Missionary society was heard with great interest by the convention Monday, being presented by Rev. A. McLean, of Cincinnati, the president. A feature of the report was the declaration that the missionary work would go on undisturbed by the war or by whatever way the tide of battle happened to turn.

"The present world-situation is causing considerable concern in many quarters," read the report. "Whatever the world situation now or in the future it is clear that the Lord's work must go on. Some of our brethren are suffering in their income; others are gaining immensely by the war. The nation is not impoverished and will not be, and the ability of our people has not been seriously impaired. This is the time to sound the heroic note, the note of self-sacrifice.

Supports 181 Missionaries.

The report states that the Foreign Christian Missionary society now supports 181 missionaries in the field, and 305 native workers. The society supports 108 schools and colleges, 9 hospitals and dispensaries, and has property in foreign fields amounting to $500,000. According to the report the income of the society for the past year amounted to $463,748, a gain of $29,585 over 1913. The report announces the conversion of 6,000 persons in the foreign missions supported by the society during the past year.

The report of the Sunday afternoon sessions at the Auditorium were in charge of the Young Christian bible workers' society, with Dr. McLean presiding. The annual election of officers, Dr. McLean was re-elected president, the other officers being re-elected also.

At the morning session addresses were made by Joseph Ely Armistead, of Cynthiana, Ky., on "The Will of God for the Church," and by Miss Montana, missionary to India, on "Urgent Opportunities in India." W. R. Holder, who is a missionary to Africa, and Montana, Africa, on "Work on the Congo," and W. T. Fortune, on "The Will of God for the Investment of Life on the Field."

Mission Drama Presented.

A demonstration of the power of the drama in religious teaching, in addition to plea, was given the convention in the presentation of a dramatic sketch by the Olive Girl and School Girl, from 1 to 2 o'clock, at the Auditorium. Rev. Graham Frank, of Liberty, Mo., to Stauffer, of Norwood, Ohio, a suburb of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Stauffer, supported by his wife and seven members of the congregation, had the leading parts in the sketch to perfection. The scene was laid in a Chinese home, and showed the taking up of prayer by the boys of the natives with the coming of Christianity.

The first address of the Monday afternoon session was delivered by J. H. D. Wells, speaking on "The Will of God for the Minister as a Missionary Leader." He declared that the success of the foreign missionary work depended very largely upon the organization of the forces, and made a strong appeal for greater systematizing of the work in all fields.

Speaking on "The Outlook in the Philippines," Leslie Wolfe, who has spent many years on the islands, said that the Filipinos were more interested than 6,000 converts to Christianity had been made as a result of the Disciples' missionary work on the island of Luzon alone.

The convention then heard a very interesting address from Theodore Jesse Hamlin, of Kansas City, Mo., on "Think Missions a Good Paying Business." He said he would make a strong argument for every business man giving at least a tenth of his income to church work, and more if possible.

F. M. Rains then told a number of humorous stories, and Dr. Gomez, of Cuba, spoke, introducing E. S. Jewett, of Greenville, Ill., Miss Miller, of Toledo, Owen Scott, of St. Louis, and Rev. R. E. L. Moore, of Cincinnati, all of whom spoke briefly on the present aspect of missionary work.

Men and Millions Session.

Monday evening's session of the convention was given over to the Men and Millions Movement, this being led by Dr. R. H. Miller, of Buffalo, and by A. D. Cory, former missionary to China and Korea, now of Kansas City, Mo., who gave $1,000,000 to the movement. And the devotional exercises that opened the meeting.

The address of Dr. Miller was an explanation of the Men and Millions plan of the great movement and discussing it in its relations even in the world-war to the European war.

He said that the war should make the people of America give even more to this movement than they would have done otherwise. The world would come to this country because of the need of extending the work of christianity, and second because of the material prosperity which will eventually come to this country because of the war in Europe, which ought not to be gloated over or even gladdening, but ought to be dedicated to a worthy cause.

DANDRUFF FALLING HAIR ITCHING SCALP

Coat Collar Covered. Ashamed to Go in Company. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Healed.

P. O. Box 3, Wenago, W. Va.—"I was troubled with dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp for two or three years. It was so bad my coat collar would be covered as I was ashamed to go in company. It itched so my head would perspire, and pimples would come on my scalp. My hair came out badly; it became thin and dry, as dry as hay, and it seemed as though there was no life in it.

"Remedies failed to do me any good. About a year ago I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. After the first treatment I discovered I was getting better. I purchased more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and continued using them until I was completely cured." (Signed) Geo. W. King, Jan. 1, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

It is so easy to get rid of skin troubles by using Cuticura Soap exclusively and a little Cuticura Ointment occasionally that it is a pity not to do so for all cases of pimples, redness, roughness, itchings and irritations. A single set is often sufficient when all else fails. Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists everywhere, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Mrs. John M. Glenn Addresses Social Workers of Atlanta

Mrs. John M. Glenn, president-elect of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, who is in Atlanta for the purpose of interesting social workers of this city in the coming Baltimore convention, spoke to a large gathering of the social workers of Atlanta last night at the Central Presbyterian church.

She told the social workers that a people's religious life is expressed in their social effort, and that they were in a way a representation of the religious life of the people. "To gain success," she urged upon her audience that they must co-operate with one another, and that they must enlist the valuable assistance of the church workers of the city.

"There is a great work for social workers ahead. The war is going to cause a lot of distress, and many men, women and children during the coming winter are going to be out of work. You must prepare yourself for this titanic task, and you may count on the financial assistance of the good people of your city," as I firmly believe that those who have will patriotically come to your aid, and help you in your work," said Mrs. Glenn.

Mrs. Glenn spent Monday morning in consultation with the social workers of the Associated Charities. She reviewed in detail the work being done by the Charities under the leadership of Secretary Joe Logan, and highly praised the work of the Atlanta institution.

wishes to thank the good people of Atlanta for the kindly interest they have taken in viewing their displays and for the many courtesies they have extended to them, as well as for their most liberal patronage during the Exposition.

In view of the great interest that has been shown by the local people during the convention, we can safely predict that the religious work of the city and vicinity has received an impetus that will increase as the months go by. Our friends of other cities invariably tell us this happens. We do not doubt that this will be the experience of enterprising and wide-awake Atlants.

But we have only two more days to be with you. We cordially invite you and your friends to come in and see our exhibits AT THE AUDITORIUM at the meeting of

The Annual International Conventions of Disciples of Christ, October 7-14

We will show you a great assortment of books for all classes of Christian Workers.

We will show you the most complete line of Sunday School periodicals published—there are 53 of them.

We will show you the latest and best in Sunday School requisites and accessories.

We will show you a great variety of devices for increasing and maintaining the attendance of both Church and Sunday School.

Your visit with us will be most profitable as well as interesting. Indeed, you will receive a new vision of Church and Sunday School work.

Hank Gowdy Owns Boston Now

Edited By Dick Jemison

Hank Gowdy's Big Hickory Chief Factor in Winning the Third Straight for Braves

He Drove Out Two Doubles and a Homer, All When They Counted—Evers, Murphy and Baker Also Hit Well—Most Thrilling Game Ever Staged in a World's Series.

Boston, October 12.—In one of the most sensational games ever played in a world's series the Boston Braves defeated the Philadelphia Athletics at Fenway park today, 5 runs to 4. Twelve innings of thrilling baseball were necessary before the National league representatives could register their third consecutive victory of the present series.

So bitterly was the struggle contested by both teams that with the possible exception of the final game between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox in 1912, nothing equalling today's play has been recorded since the world's series has been under national commission auspices in 1905.

For three hours and six minutes the two best played games of the season were forged ahead in the score, and the game that began in bright sunlight was won in deep twilight. While not the best played game of the season from the standpoint of technical baseball, it was astounding in dramatic moments, thrilling plays and baseball strategy that the 35,000 spectators who filled the stands were lifted to heights of enthusiasm by the struggle.

SPLENDID GAME TO WIN; TRYING ONE TO LOSE.

New players mounted to niches in the world's series hall of fame and others suffered the temporary censure of the fans, but when the winning run finally crossed the plate in the dusk, the general sentiment was that it was a splendid game to win, and a trying one to lose.

The Braves rushed joyously from the field determined to clinch the championship title of 1914 with another victory tomorrow, while the Athletics, taciturn and grave, filed slowly out of the park still hopeful that the world's champion machine would yet arise to the emergency that faced it. To retain the honors won last fall, the Mackmen must win the next game or lose, and is generally considered impossible by followers of baseball. The odds on the Boston club tonight are three to one, with little Athletic money in sight.

The most striking feature of the play was the fighting spirit shown by the youthful combination that Manager George Stallings has gathered around him. Repeatedly the Philadelphia team would battle its way into the lead only to witness its first draw a struggle again in the same or the succeeding inning. Never once during the heave-racking contest did the Braves cease their attack. Both from an individual and collective standpoint they deserved the victory won.

The American leaguers were the first to score, sending a run across the plate in the opening inning on Murphy's two-base smash and Baker's drive. He moved to third on Oldring's sacrifice fly and scored when Connolly dropped Collins' high fly. The Braves made the score in the second inning on Maranville's walk, steal of second and Whitted's single to right.

Gowdy's double to the left field bleachers.

ONE RUN FOR EACH SIDE IN THE FOURTH.

In the fourth each team added another run. For the Athletics, McInnis doubled and scored on Walsh's single to left.

Schmidt responded for the home team with a single over second, advanced on Deal's out and counted on Maranville's single to right.

With the score two to two, the play continued without advantage one way or the other until the tenth inning. The Mackmen began the extra session by scoring. It was run, when Schang singled to left and was safe on Tyler's late throw over first second on Murphy's grounder to the pitcher. After Oldring's out, Collins was held and Schang and Murphy scored on Baker's single.

Gowdy started the Braves' rally with a home run into the bleachers back of centerfield. Moran got a pass off Bush. Whitted to third on Evers' single over second and came home on Connolly's sacrifice fly. Again the score was tied.

Another inning and a half passed without result, but when Catcher Gowdy came to bat for the Boston club in the twelfth session he opened with a double to left field, his third hit of the game. From the midway bag he sailed for home on a rolled runner, and Mann was sent to his place. Bush purposely passed Gilbert, sent in as a pinch hitter for James.

When Moran bunted half way between third and the pitcher's box, Bush grabbed the ball and attempted to catch Mann at Baker's station. "Bullet Joe's" throw was wild. The ball went into left field, the relief runner rounded third and romped home with the winning run and the Braves' third victory in three games.

HANK GOWDY THE HERO; BIG BAT TURNS TIDE.

Although Gowdy did not cross the plate with the run which his double started, he was the hero of the game. His two doubles and home run in four times at bat were the deciding hits of the contest. Captain Johnny Evers on second with three singles, and Schmidt, Deal and Maranville also contributed opportune hits.

Murphy, with two doubles, and Baker, with a double and a single, were the leading Athletic batters. The batting combination that so clean cut spectacular as in the preceding games in addition to Bush's wild throw that closed the contest. Catcher Schang was charged with an error for the Athletics. Bush in twelve innings struck out four and walked an unusual number of Boston batters. Tyler struck out four and passed three Mackmen in ten innings, while James fanned one and walked three in his two periods on the mound.

Fielding honors were divided by Baker, with two successive stops and throws to the second baseman, and Schmidt, who in the eighth inning got Bush's drive along the base line with one hand and while prone on the ground threw the runner out at first. Connolly contributed the only real error when he dropped Collins' holist in the eighth inning.

A record Boston world's series crowd witnessed the game, 35,520 persons paying $82,748.00 to see the contest. Receipts totaled $124,456.23, and the club owners $11,456.44. Had the capacity of Fenway park been greater these figures would have been considerably increased.

The bleacher gates were opened at 3 o'clock and the long rows of fans, many of whom had stood in line all night, filed through so rapidly that within less than two hours the gates were closed with several thousand still clamoring for admission.

In the reserved sections were many who paid speculators fancy prices in order to gain a place among the cheering class which jammed every foot of space not deadlined by the fire and police authorities.

CROWD'S WATCH GAME FROM OFFICE BUILDINGS.

So great was the crush that several hundred who had no coupons fought their way through the gates. The stands which surrounded the field on all sides except back of deep center were packed with spectators, while the park every high office building and apartment house rear carried a heavy contingent of fans, many of whom were so far away that the ball players must have assumed microscopic proportions. Yet they cheered each play with enthusiastically as the fans in the stands and the boys perched high up in crossarms on the telegraph poles.

Weather conditions were favorable. The sky was partly overcast, and, while a stiff wind blew, the stands cut off a single breath of the field.

The vast crowd had settled back scores before Umpire Hildebrand cried "play ball." Tyler was cheered as he walked to the pitcher's mound, and his first offering to Eddie Murphy, first up for the Athletics, was a ball, and the three-ball strike on the next delivery to the pitcher. After Oldring's out, Collins was held and Schang and Murphy scored on Baker's single.

Pinnacle Beer for those who work with their muscles

Is there any drink, excepting water, that is as pure and wholesome as this sparkling, zestful, home brew?

The New York Sun says:

"Moderation and temperance are not preaching to cease in the use of liquor, cap it be possible that the present admirable sobriety of the American people is due to the brewer?"

Is there any other beverage that exhilarates and refreshes as this beer does and leaves no sting behind?

For brain workers it is good; for those who work with both brain and brawn it is even better.

Drink Pinnacle Beer with your evening meal after the hard day's work.

We say Pinnacle Beer because Pinnacle is a matured beer---freshly tapped, freshly bottled, freshly delivered---as good as beer can be.

HIS BAT DID IT

HANK GOWDY.

Braves' great catcher, whose deadly work with the stick has more to do with the trimming of the Athletics than any one thing. His tremendous drives kept Boston in the running all throughout Monday's game.

was renewed when the little shortstop dropped a hit into right field on which Schmidt tied up the score. He promptly stole second and kept right on to third on Gowdy's throw to the middle bag to head the runner off went wide and rolled into centerfield.

Bush then purposely fired at and on an attempted double steal Maranville was safe at second, Collins to Baker.

The Athletics got a man on the paths in the tenth inning. Schang gave Moran a long fly. Bush then accepted Bush's grounder and tossed him out. Bush then sent Evers to first on Tyler's error. Murphy drove a smashing two-bagger into left field. He got no further, as Oldring struck out.

Boston also got a man on in their half of the fifth. After Tyler was thrown out, Bush to McInnis, and Moran singled to left field. Larry Gardner sent Evers got in his second hit, a single over Collins' head. He got no further, as Connolly failed to respond to the crowd's urging to "hit 'er out," going to Collins to McInnis.

A quick double play by the famous Baker-Barry-Davis route route broke up the Athletics' sixth inning. Collins led off with a single into left field and took the throw to first. Baker pounded a grounder at Evers and Collins was out, Evers to Barry to Maranville, and Baker was out, Maranville to Barry. Meinnis hit weakly to Deal and was thrown out.

DEAL DROPS 2 DOUBLE PLAYS; BOTH FIRST HALF STANDS.

A two-base hit did not help Boston in the sixth. Whitted was thrown out, Bush to McInnis, and Schmidt hit a fly which Oldring gathered in. Deal then slammed the ball into the favored left field bleachers for two bases. He got no further, as Maranville hit a fly straight up in the air which Schang caught in front of the pitcher's box.

Walsh opened the seventh by walking. Collins sacrificed, Evers to Schmidt, advancing Walsh to third. Murphy scored when Collins threw a long fly to Connolly in left field. Connolly dropped the ball, but Walsh was credited with a sacrifice fly.

Collins was held on first on Baker's strong throw to Collins and Baker was until he caught sight of a slow pitch and then stole second. McInnis walked, and a moment later Collins was caught off second on a long throw by Tyler making a quick throw to Evers, ending the inning.

Bush was fanned for the Athletics in the last world's series, when he won in a game against the New York Giants on the Polo Grounds, had trouble in disposing of Moran, Boston's first batter. He pitched nine balls to the first lead-off man; three balls, two strikes, four strikes and then the umpire's call. Moran hit up into the air to Collins. Evers brought the Boston rooters to their feet by dashing a single into left field. Connolly lifted a high foul that Baker caught within inches of the athletics' bench. The ever alert Johnny Evers got to second on the play, but left there, as Whitted fell a victim to strike.

The second inning of the American leaguers was quickly over. Walsh, who was playing in center field, as Strunk the regular man, does not hit well against left-handed pitching, chopped a grounder at Tyler, who threw him out at first. Barry raised a foul, which Bill Schmidt gathered in without effort. Schang put up a fly which Evers had to back out to right field to get.

GOWDY'S TWO-BAGGER TIES UP FIRE SCORE.

The National league champions tied up the score in their half of the inning. Deal opened with a single, Oldring cut out on Bush's slow ball. Deal hoisted a play to Baker, "Rabbit" Maranville worked Bush for a base on balls, then stole second. He wasn't there long though, as Gowdy sent a terrific slashing two-base drive to the deep-left field. Walsh gathered it in and shot Bush's drive along the base line with one hand and while prone on the ground threw the runner out at first. Connolly contributed the only real error when he dropped Collins' holist in the eighth inning.

A record Boston world's series crowd witnessed the game, 35,520 persons paying $82,748.00 to see the contest. Receipts totaled $124,456.23, and the club owners $11,456.44. Had the capacity of Fenway park been greater these figures would have been considerably increased.

The bleacher gates were opened at 3 o'clock and the long rows of fans, many of whom had stood in line all night, filed through so rapidly that within less than two hours the gates were closed with several thousand still clamoring for admission.

In the reserved sections were many who paid speculators fancy prices in order to gain a place among the cheering class which jammed every foot of space not deadlined by the fire and police authorities.

CROWD'S WATCH GAME FROM OFFICE BUILDINGS.

So great was the crush that several hundred who had no coupons fought their way through the gates. The stands which surrounded the field on all sides except back of deep center were packed with spectators, while the park every high office building and apartment house rear carried a heavy contingent of fans, many of whom were so far away that the ball players must have assumed microscopic proportions. Yet they cheered each play with enthusiastically as the fans in the stands and the boys perched high up in crossarms on the telegraph poles.

Weather conditions were favorable. The sky was partly overcast, and, while a stiff wind blew, the stands cut off a single breath of the field.

The vast crowd had settled back scores before Umpire Hildebrand cried "play ball." Tyler was cheered as he walked to the pitcher's mound, and his first offering to Eddie Murphy, first up for the Athletics, was a ball, and the three-ball strike on the next delivery to the pitcher. After Oldring's out, Collins was held and Schang and Murphy scored on Baker's single.

Gowdy started the Braves' rally with a home run into the bleachers back of centerfield. Moran got a pass off Bush. Whitted went to third on Evers' single over second and came home on Connolly's sacrifice fly. Again the score was tied.

Another inning and a half passed without result, but when Catcher Gowdy came to bat for the Boston club in the twelfth session he opened with a double to left field, his third hit of the game. From the midway bag he sailed for home on a rolled runner, and Mann was sent to his place. Bush purposely passed Gilbert, sent in as a pinch hitter for James.

When Moran bunted half way between third and the pitcher's box, Bush grabbed the ball and attempted to catch Mann at Baker's station. "Bullet Joe's" throw was wild. The ball went into left field, the relief runner rounded third and romped home with the winning run and the Braves' third victory in three games.

HANK GOWDY THE HERO; BIG BAT TURNS TIDE.

Although Gowdy did not cross the plate with the run which his double started, he was the hero of the game. His two doubles and home run in four times at bat were the deciding hits of the contest. Captain Johnny Evers on second with three singles, and Schmidt, Deal and Maranville also contributed opportune hits.

Murphy, with two doubles, and Baker, with a double and a single, were the leading Athletic batters. The batting combination that so clean cut spectacular as in the preceding games-in addition to Bush's wild throw that closed the contest. Catcher Schang was charged with an error for the Athletics. Bush in twelve innings struck out four and walked an unusual number of Boston batters. Tyler struck out four and passed three Mackmen in ten innings, while James fanned one and walked three in his two periods on the mound.

Fielding honors were divided by Baker, with two successive stops and throws to the second baseman, and Schmidt, who in the eighth inning got Bush's drive along the base line with one hand and while prone on the ground threw the runner out at first. Connolly contributed the only real error when he dropped Collins' holist in the eighth inning.

G. M. A. ELEVEN WINS FROM DONALD FRASER

In a fast and furious game which was played under a sweltering sun, the G. M. A. eleven defeated the team from Donald Fraser and scored four touchdowns, failing to kick goal from any, and leaving the score 24 to 0.

The first quarter was furious enough, and it was only by the hardest line playing that the G. M. A. managed to keep from scoring 6 to 1, in the championship series. Promise pitched a splendid game. The Yankees now have won three straight to take the series.

Pertyman Hits Homer And Steals Base in Post-Season Series

Manager Billy Smith, of the Crackers, received a clipping of a game that Emmet Key Perryman, the Crackers' big pig preacher, hurled in Miami Saturday.

Perry, pitching for Palm Beach in a post-season game with Miami, for the Florida Coast league team won the game, 8 to 0, striking out nine men and holding the Miami team to six hits.

But the greatest feat of all was noted in the box score which reads "Home run, Perryman; stolen base, Perryman." Can you beat that?

Gowdy's War Club Saved Evers a Bone, Says Howe; Bender vs. Rudolph Today

By IRWIN M. HOWE.
Official Statistician American League.

Boston, Mass., October 12.—(Special.) In the second inning of today's game Hank Gowdy drove the ball into that section of the bleachers reserved for the Royal Rooters in left field, and scored Maranville with the run that tied the score.

In the tenth, after the Athletics had scored two runs, he hit a home run into the right field seats, and coming up first in the twelfth, he again doubled into the rooters' section.

Gilbert, batting for James, walked, and Mann was put on to run for Gowdy, and immediately scored the winning run on Moran's bunt, which Bush threw wild.

With his wonderful work today added to his enviable record in the two preceding games, Gowdy looms up as the largest figure of this series and one of the greatest of any series ever played for the title.

GOWDY'S WAR CLUB SAVED EVERS A BONE.

But for Gowdy's war club John Evers would tonight occupy a niche immediately beside that of Snodgrass, Merkle and Charley Schmidt as the perpetrator of a really prize bone play.

In the tenth, with the bases full, two out and Baker at bat, the latter started a fast drive midway between first and second. Johnny made a good play, but only to knock down the batted hit, Schang scoring.

The ball had taken a bad pop and struck him in the chest and he proceeded to explain the circumstance to Umpire Tyler and Hildebrandt, while Murphy walked in with the second run that scored. Evers looking right at him the while.

The two runs looked like a thousand at that stage, Boston not having made a hit since the sixth off Bush. But the big catcher of the Braves was still to be reckoned with.

This was a game of sensations, of which Gowdy's hitting and Evers' mental lapse were only features. The best play of the game, and one that may have been the crucial turning point of the game despite what comes later, was a throw by Schmidt—of a terrific wallop by Bush to start the eighth inning.

SCHMIDT'S GREAT PLAY ON BUSH'S HOT GROUNDER.

The ball went between Schmidt and the bag and the big fellow actually ran and overtook the ball, made a quick scoop and got it back to Tyler, at first in time to retire the runner.

By winning this game the Braves have clinched the series to all intents and purposes. They had to win this contest—three times—and Evers' awful ball sandwiched in to make the odds greater, yet they were equal to it. It is high to describe the tremendous spirit, the vim, the fight that characterizes the work of the Boston team.

Who is responsible for it is hard to say. Stallings is unquestionably entitled to the major share of the credit, but Eversmust not be overlooked. His work today was not up to what he has done; though he had a share in scoring only one of the five runs, he was great outside of the incident already related.

He got three hits, the last immediately after he awoke in the tenth. Bush had to hit the ball over Evers' head to get that plays as if each member was Griffith, Jones, Jennings, McGraw or Evers.

None of those ever knew when he was beaten, but neither does any member of the Braves.

Rudolph or Bender are picked as opposing twirlers for the game Tuesday. Yet neither may start. This series has been a succession of surprises—why stop now?

Braves Better Ball Club Than Critics Doped Them; Glad We Stayed Neutral

By Dick Jemison.

The Boston Braves are a better ball club than the dopesters around the country have been giving them credit for being.

A few days before the series opened, in answer to banterings from the fans as to who we liked to win the series, we came out with a story with a head that read:

"Who will win?"
"We pass it up.
"It can't be did."

We stated then that we thought the Athletics would win if the Braves didn't, and in the light of subsequent events we are mighty thankful that we straddled the fight this year and did not pick anyone to win.

Didn't Pick Winner.

Sentimentally and from a patriotic standpoint, George Stallings being a Georgia man, we wanted the Braves to win, and we are getting our wish, but we didn't have the nerve to back our sentiment in cold black and white.

We believe that we were the jinx, anyway. For the last three years we picked the National league pennant winners, the Giants, to win the pennant and the American league entry promptly copped the big prize. This year we stayed out. Maybe Stallings and his Braves will give us a little slice of the world's series coin for breaking the jinx.

But reverting back to the dopesters and their choices, in the pre-season series the Athletics were, in advance of the series, ranked the superior to the Braves in seven of the nine positions, with a tie in one of the others and only a slight edge in favor of the Braves in the ninth.

As they have played in the series not a man at a single position has outplayed his opponent on the Braves, unless it is Maranville in right field.

Braves Outclassed Machine.

In fielding the honors have been fairly even, with both sides putting on some sensational stunts, but in batting, base running, pitching, head work and gameness the Braves way overshadow the once wonderful Athletic machine.

Rated as the poorest base stealers in the National league, the Braves have shown up the Athletics by their work on the bases, and even surprised their most ardent supporters.

The general consensus of opinion before the series started was that the Athletics would win, but every one expressed themselves that they would not be surprised if the Braves upset the dope.

Now even the most enthusiastic Brave supporter hardly expected such a wonderful surprise as the Braves have handed out. No one would have been bold enough to predict three straight victories in consecutive games, no matter how strong he had been for the Braves. Had the Braves won one game it would probably have had him arrested as dangerous to the public safety and welfare.

Hats off to the Braves. And if victory greets their efforts today they will be established a world's series record, being the first team to win a world's series in four straight games since the series was established.

Attendance and Receipts For Three Games Played

By Dick Jemison.

Seventy-six thousand six hundred and forty-four fans have paid $158,918 to see the three games between the Athletics and the Braves.

Of this amount, $15,890.60 goes to the national commission for its expenses in handling the series.

Each club will receive $39,355.54 for their end of the first three games.

The players will divide $88,066.32.

There are twenty-six Braves sharing in the players' end to-day and Athletics.

The winners of the series get 75 per cent of this amount and the losers 25 per cent.

Figuring it out, each Brave will receive $3,040.8 of the first three games, and each Athletic $917.34. The players also share in today's receipts.

KIRCHER WILL HELP AT TUESDAY'S GAME

George Kircher, the Crackers' comedian, will be on hand at Dick Jemison's world's series detail on the Viaduct today, and is framing up some comedy that should make a hit with the fan fans.

George arrived Monday just about ten minutes before game time, hopping right off a freight and coming up to the detail parlors. He was not physically fit to start anything Monday, but watch out for him this afternoon.

The awarding of the various prizes that Dick Jemison is giving away this series will be in Kircher's charge. The awards may be made today, it all depending on whether or not the Braves register four straight victories.

Today's game starts at 2 o'clock. The direct leased wire to Boston, the wonderful scoreboard, which records every play instantly; the big hall, comfortable seats, plenty of light and a place to sit down, smoke and enjoy themselves has made the Jemison detail a popular place.

Free cigars, shave and haircut and suit of clothes will be given. Come up and find out how. Don't forget the place—9½ Viaduct place—the big sign across Peachtree street points the way.

WELCHONCE WRITES HE'S MUCH BETTER

George Kircher received a letter from Captain Harry Welchonce yesterday, in which the latter asked Kircher to thank the Atlanta fans for their generous support.

The contents of the letter were called to the fans at Dick Jemison's detail Monday. Harry stated that the benefit game had done him more good than the medicine.

Harry has gained 11 pounds since he went to Asheville for treatment, and says he is going to stay there six months. He also stated that the physicians state that he cannot play ball next season.

STUDENT IS KILLED IN FOOTBALL GAME

Emmitsburg, Md., October 12.—William S. English, of the senior class of Mount St. Mary's college, was so seriously injured in a game of football on the college campus today that he died an hour later without regaining consciousness. He was not a regular player of the varsity team.

While in the act of catching a forward pass he was tackled by a man of his fellow physique, and fell heavily to the ground, sustaining concussion of the brain.

English was the son of William English, of Troy, N. Y. His uncle, Rev. Philip S. English, is a priest in Mobile, Ala.

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

For a short while yesterday afternoon people at the Forsyth theater forgot that the war was waging in Europe and that the Braves were sweeping the Athletics in Boston. It mattered little to them that there was not longer a market for cotton, and that the price of food was traveling upward. During these matters already mentioned, they were feasting their eyes upon a pretty girl, who were for their benefit the most becoming gowns seen at the Forsyth this year, and were listening to this girl and her partner sing the song hits of this and of other seasons.

The girl was Mabel McCane, one of New York's most attractive vaudeville favorites; the man was Joseph Howard, her husband, the first person under her "Who's Kissing Her Now."

Unlike most composers, Howard does not play his own accompaniments. He contents himself with singing the various favorites and letting the members of the orchestra earn their salaries.

Miss McCane was the star part of entertainment, consisting of a song or so, and a comedian among the rest. However, Howard offers to sing any of the songs he has written. The most popular are printed on the program, which by one demand comes he sings them. Monday afternoon he opened with "Who's Kissing Her Now" song, and then came a half a dozen others. And for each one Miss McCane wore a new and more striking costume. Of them all, however, to the eye of the feminine portion within calling distance of the white dress, with the black mantilla, which kept all eyes busy while the singers were telling folks "What's the Use of Dreaming."

Howard and McCane kept the stage so long as they desired, and then after a little longer, too. When they had responded generously to the calls for encores, however, and their voices were hoarse, they retired to give other acts a chance. It's a most popular number, the gowns are gorgeous, and those who can will certainly see the show again. It's a pity, however, that Mr. Howard didn't hear the calls for "Waiting Hoonscoon" on Monday night. There were many who would have liked to hear this selection.

With first place disposed of, it's a toss-up for second with the following entrants:

W. C. Fields, the original juggler, who has been seen here before, and who on this trip is conclusively proven that he is welcome with a great big W. As a juggler, he is all advance notices have advertised him, and as a comedian he had Monday's audience convulsed with laughter time and again.

Henry Lewis offers his original novelty, "A Vaudeville Cocktail," and a scream from start to finish, one of the best of all comedy acts. Lewis does not confine himself to any one line of stage endeavor. He assumes that to be good, tells the audience that he expects to please and lots of it, and they agree with him and give it to him. His "operas" a bit, "singe" a bit, "poems" a bit, and so forth and so forth, until memory forces a pause.

And now comes a balancing act by the Willie Brothers, European equilibrists, who close the show. They present hair-raising feats, which they do well, people down in front wish they had selected seats nearer the doors. From the top of poles and ladders and other apparatus one of the brothers performs daring stunts. As a conclusion the athlete climbs a ladder, which is balanced on the feet of one of the troupe, and while high above the stage he balances himself on his head.

These three acts are equally good in their line. It's merely a matter of personal choice with the audience as to which one gets the decision.

Other acts on the bill are Maurie Madison and Arthur James, in songs and dances; Mario and Duffy, comedy acrobats, and Pitta Pitta Patsy, with her cello and violin virtuoso. All are good, but don't forget Miss McCane and her gowns.

ROBERT MORAN.

David Warfield.

(At the Atlanta.)

This morning at 9 o'clock seats will be placed on sale at the Atlanta for the engagement of David Warfield in "The Music Master." Mr. Warfield will appear in this play Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Saturday afternoon. Judging by the attempts to reserve seats and place orders, he will play to the full capacity of the Atlanta at each performance. Among the largest line in the history of the house is expected this morning when the box office opens. The management of the Chester has been swamped by people determined to get seats in advance of the issue if possible, but as yet no orders are refused, except in the instances where requests were received from all parts of the state, and these will come from out of town to see the play.

Jewell Kelley Stock.

(At the Bijou.)

The Jewell Kelley company played three large audiences yesterday at the Bijou with the splendid four-act melodrama, entitled "The Man of Her Choice." The circus brought large crowds to town who visited the Bijou at the evening performances, adding largely to the regular theatergoers who frequent the Bijou Monday night. The play was especially well presented, every member of the cast filling his or her role in the most acceptable manner.

Miss Rose Morris and Vernon Wallace were seen in the principal roles, as usual, and each scored a distinct hit. Both the other members of the company appeared in congenial roles, and the performance was one of the most enjoyable of the stock season.

"The Man of Her Choice" bids fair to do a splendid business this week. There will be the usual daily matinees at 2:30 and night performances at 8:30.

TARHEELS WIN EASILY FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

Chapel Hill, N. C., October 12.—(Special.)—The University of North Carolina overwhelmed the University of South Carolina today by the score of 55 to 0. From the kick-off to the last whistle North Carolina was master of the Palmetto state in offense and defense, South Carolina not making first down during the entire game.

Two touchdowns and goals were the result of the first half. By the fourth quarter, second and third teams were making touchdowns on the South Carolina varsity.

Tandy kicked six out of seven goals, while Taylor, captain, and Parker, fullback, made long end runs of spectacular line gains.

Three minor touchdowns were called back on account of North Carolina being offside.

North Carolina attempted six forward passes, one of which was successful. Two of South Carolina's attempts at forward passes were intercepted by North Carolina and long gains made.

North Carolina's score of 55 to 0 gives the Georgians some hope. Carolina's strength, when it is recalled that Georgia Tech only defeated the same team on October 3 by a score of 36 to 0.

FITE ADVISES ACTION AGAINST L. & N. LINE

Dalton, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—October term of Whitfield superior court with Judge A. V. Fite presiding met here this morning. In charging the jury, the court directed special attention to the enforcement of prohibition laws and read to the grand jury several protests from local citizens relative to the lax enforcement of the law in Dalton, which communications he turned over to the jury for their information.

Judge Fite said that he considered the rumored attempt to parallel the Western and Atlantic railroad by a competitive line of most serious import, and of vital interest to the public schools of Georgia. His suggested remedy was that if the law were inadequate that it be speedily amended so as to prevent the state's property being "bottled up."

Owing to the present unsettled state of affairs and harvesting of crops, only one week of court will be held now, and an adjourned term will convene the first Monday in December, when all criminal cases will stand for trial.

The grand jury elected Judge Stephen D. Fulton foreman, and immediately proceeded to work. It is expected that the grand jury will not complete its work this week and return in December.

SPOT COTTON AGAIN RECORDS DECLINE

Quarter of Cent Off Reported From Several Points. Exports Were Large on Monday.

New Orleans, October 12.—Further declines in the prices of spot cotton marked the opening of the week. WHITFIELD FARMERS OPEN ANNUAL FAIR

Dalton, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—The twelfth annual event of the Whitfield Farmers' Fair association opened this morning. The exhibits for this year are up to the usual standard and the midway attractions are numerous and noisy.

The farm and live stock exhibits and women's exhibits have been placed in different buildings. Special days have been arranged and daily airship flights will be a feature of the fair.

Large out-of-town crowds are expected to attend the fair.

Stranded Americans.

("We had better take anything they can give us. You may have to go one class, and I another; we may not even be on the same steamer, but that doesn't matter. The important thing is to get home somehow."—Overheard in a London steamship office recently.)

GEORGIA GINNING GIVEN BY COUNTIES

Government Report States Georgia Ginned 768,095 Bales to Sept. 25—Increase 276,584 Over Last Year.

Washington, October 12.—The amount of cotton ginned by counties in Georgia for the crops of 1914 and 1913 is shown in a special report issued today by the department of agriculture. The report shows that Georgia had ginned 768,095 bales thus far this season—to September 25—against 491,511 bales during the corresponding period last year, or an increase of 276,584 bales over those of the previous season.

The following shows the ginnings by counties. Counties not producing cotton, counting round as half bales. Linters are not included:

WIDOW SUES THE CITY FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

The wife of J. T. Lord, who was electrocuted in the Hemphill avenue filling station in April of 1912, has filed suit against the city of Atlanta for $25,000 for loss of her husband. The hearing of witnesses is in progress, court having adjourned Monday afternoon. The dead man was an engineer at the Hemphill plant, and negligence is the allegation of his widow.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF GEORGIA, COUNTY OF FULTON.

To the Superior Court of Said County:

The petition of H. L. Morris, P. C. Robinson and D. D. Martin respectfully shows:

1. That petitioners desire for themselves, their associates and successors to be incorporated under the name of

PUBLIC SECURITIES COMPANY.

2. The amount of capital stock of said corporation shall be $10,000, of which 10 per cent shall be actually paid in before the said corporation commencing business under this charter. Said capital stock shall be divided into 1,000 shares of the par value of $10.00 each, with the rights, power and privileges appertaining the same from time to time up to an aggregate of $1,000,000 by a majority in amount of the capital stock entitled to vote thereon at the time of any such increase, and with the right, power and privileges of preferred stock in such amount or increased capital stock preferred stock, as it may determine at the time of such increase, and with the right, power and privileges of such preferred stock as the resolution creating such preferred stock, and to refix and release said increase. The common or preferred stock may be paid for in money, or in part, in cash or in property, which property is to be taken at a fair valuation to be fixed by the board of directors of said corporation.

3. The principal office and place of residence of said corporation shall be in the county of Fulton, but petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right and power to establish and maintain such branch offices, either within or without the state of Georgia, as it may desire.

4. That the business of said corporation shall be, and the petitioners ask for it the power, right and authority to acquire, receive by, buy, sell and deal in and with any and all interests therein, situated in Georgia, or any other state or territories of the United States, and improve, develop, sell, lease, convey and otherwise dispose of, or use in connection therewith, real estate, and buy and deal in all kinds of personal property and any and all interests therein, and to make notes, bonds, mortgages, stocks of all kinds in any other corporation in the state of Georgia, and any other states and territories of the United States, and to exercise all rights, powers and privileges of ownership, when prohibited by law, and the same, to improve, sell, lease, mortgage, pledge, transfer, assign and otherwise dispose of at pleasure, and generally to do and carry on things in connection with or related to such business as a private person could lawfully do. To acquire by purchase, subscription, or otherwise, and own, hold, sell and otherwise dispose of bonds, debentures, obligations, evidences of indebtedness and securities issued by any government or municipality.

5. That petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right, power and authority to create, and issue such notes, bonds, debentures and other evidences of debt and to secure the payment of the same at will, and to secure any or all of such debts, debentures and other evidences of debt by a deed or deeds, trust mortgage or mortgages, pledges, or deposits of property or in any other lawful ways as it may desire.

6. That said corporation shall have the further right to exercise by proxy or otherwise the good will, business, property rights, franchises and assets of any kind and take over, either wholly or in part, the liabilities of any person, firm, association or corporation, and to take up any business and to engage concern in the sale or purchase of the assets thereof, wholly or in part; by acquisition of the capital stock, or any part thereof, of any other business, and to pay for the same in cash, the stock or bonds of the corporation, or otherwise; to hold, maintain and operate, or in any manner dispose of the whole or any part of the good will, business, rights and property so acquired, and to conduct in any lawful manner the whole, or any part of any business so acquired, and to exercise all the powers necessary or convenient in and about the management of such business not inconsistent with the laws of this state.

7. That said corporation shall have the power and authority to apply for, procure, and accept or acquire or amend any charter to its charter, either in form or substance, and to take such steps and proceedings as its business as may be voted by a two-thirds vote of the amount of stock then outstanding and entitled to vote; and by a like vote to sell out or to dissolve, or in part thereof, and convey the same, or otherwise dispose thereof, and by a like vote to wind up its business or any of it thereof, and to cease to operate or do business under this charter.

8. That said corporation be incorporated for the full period of twenty (20) years, with the rights of renewal at the end of any or hereafter provided by law, and that it have all the other rights, powers, privileges and immunities provided by the Code of Georgia of 1910, section 2822, and all others as are incident to like incorporations under the law.

9. That this petition be filed, published and recorded as provided by law, and that an order be entered granting same, and petitioners will ever pray.

EVINS, SPENCE & MOORE,
Attorneys for Petitioners.

OCTOBER SHEET SIGNED BY MAYOR

The Board of Education Will Meet This Afternoon to Name Teachers to End Double Sessions.

Within a few minutes after it had reached him Monday, Mayor James G. Woodward attached his signature to the October apportionment sheet and thereby released $11,513 apportioned for the use of the school board in breaking up the double sessions.

The action of the mayor practically puts an end to the most serious school problem the board of education faced in years—the problem of teaching more children than Atlanta's schoolhouses can accommodate.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the board will meet and will appoint forty-three additional teachers, and on Wednesday morning the double session menace will be a thing of the past and the school system restored to a more practicable and efficient basis.

Superintendent Slaton stated Monday that just as soon as the school board approves his appointments he will immediately assign the teachers to their classes, and that on Wednesday every class in the city will have an individual instructor, and each class will be composed of not more than forty-five students.

MAY USE SAME BALLOT.

Important Decision Made by Attorney General.

Attorney General Warren Grice has handed down an opinion to the effect that the election to both state and national offices at the same time, in the same polling places and in the same ballot boxes at the coming general election, is legal under the Georgia laws. He states that, if desired, all names may appear on the same ballot.

Raise $1,000 Fund To Buy Text Books For Poor Children

Through the efforts of Major R. J. Guinn and President George M. Hope, of the board of education, a fund of nearly $1,000 has been raised for the purpose of buying school books for poor children, numbering over 400.

This fund assures that no child will be kept out of school because of lack of books.

MRS. EMMA B. AVERY DIES IN SEATTLE HOME

She Was Widow of Col. Avery, at One Time Editor of The Constitution.

Seattle, Wash., October 12.—Mrs. Emma B. Avery, widow of Colonel Isaac Wheeler Avery, one time editor of The Atlanta Constitution and a noted Confederate soldier, died yesterday at her home in this city.

Mrs. Avery was the daughter of a prominent Georgian, who lived at Dalton. Colonel Avery, who has been dead twenty years, was editor of The Constitution for several years, being one of the first editors of the paper.

"400" OF DOGDOM GATHERS FOR SHOW

Blue Ribbon Winners From All Parts of the Country Are Competing for Prizes Today.

More than 250 canine aristocrats are being shown under the auspices of the Atlanta Kennel club today in a show rooms of the Cartercar company.

Experts who visited the show Monday say that the exhibition is one of the finest ever brought together in the south. Not only are Atlanta's best dogs being shown, but there are blue ribbon winners here from all over the country. A majority of the dogs are American-bred, but there are quite a few who have been brought over from other countries in the past.

The judging will begin Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The judges will be James M. Steffin, of Birmingham, judge of terriers and bull dogs, and Dr. J. E. DeMund, of Brooklyn, judge of all other breeds.

Some Famous Dogs.

Among some of the finest dogs shown is Towser London, Winship Nunnally's prize English bulldog, the winner of more than fifty prizes. Mr. Nunnally son is showing his great giant bloodhound, Robinson's Tony, and Mrs. W. L. Peel's Midget, a tiny but black and tan, is attracting attention of the visitors.

Among the out-of-town entries are Manchu Prince Ching, a Pekingese, owned by Mrs. G. L. Heywood, of New York; Governor Sleeper, an Airedale owned by Dr. H. M. Schuffell, and Village Flirt, a bull terrier, owned by Mrs. R. S. Sanford.

There is a strong brace of newly-imported wire-haired Fox terriers, Leada Victoriae and Ivy Queen Victoria. These dogs are probably the most expensive dogs in the show. They are valued at about $2,000 each.

The Nunnally entries, Toxaway Peggy Dorchester, who won two cups at Birmingham; Nansemond, who is being shown for the first time, and Hewlett Redd Orr.

Russian Wolf Hound.

The most picturesque dog of the exhibit is Frank Adair's Russian wolf hound.

Miss Katherine Dickey's toy Boston terrier, Peg o' My Heart, is attracting considerable attention.

The following are serving on the bench committee: Meyer Regenstein, chairman; Winship Nunnally, R. C. Congdon, Dr. Wm. Worth, Dr. Dickey, W. V. Zimmer, L. F. Shelver, Joseph M. Lynch, R. D. Tatum, Martin May, Joe Brown Connally, J. H. Bosman, M. B. Wilkinson, Alf Sterling, D. O. Chestnut, William Dobson, J. R. A. Hobson, C. E. Prichett.

GORDON GRAND JURY OPPOSES A CHARTER FOR L. & N. RAILROAD

Calhoun, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) The grand jury for the adjourned term of Gordon county superior court adjourned here Saturday after returning forty-two presentments. One of the recommendations was the following:

"We respectfully call attention to the efforts now being made by the Louisville and Nashville railroad to secure a charter for a railroad from Chattanooga to Atlanta. Such a railroad would parallel the Western and Atlantic railroad and greatly depreciate its value, and we therefore earnestly recommend that steps be taken by proper authorities to prevent the granting of said charter, and if necessary, that the governor of Georgia call a special session of the legislature for this purpose.

GOOD INFORMATION TO CARRY AROUND

One Thing Which Does Not Become Burdensome, So One Can Always Carry More.

Did you ever stop to think that the more one knows the more he can learn? Learning only prepares one for more learning. Those who know how to learn more, usually stand still, they do not progress.

All of us want to be progressive. We desire to "keep up with the procession." But after we pass what is termed the school age, we are likely to consider that we are through to learn. We should never let such a thought enter our minds. Life would not be worth the living if it were not filled with continuous learning. And by this is not meant merely in its usual sense, but the "art of learning" by reference reading—and surely such reading is not burdensome.

The question arises as to how to enlarge on such learning—how to increase it. The only way possible to do this is by having always at hand People's Cyclopedia, every volume of which is filled with just the information one wants for practical use. It is not necessary to spend years of laborious study to gain the desired learning; in fact it becomes a pleasure instead of a hard task when one forms the habit of consulting these books for information; for one does not need to search through long and weighty volumes, just take up the volume having the index of the topic you wish to know about and you will find exactly the facts you want without reading pages upon pages of irrelative matter. Then you get the information that is easy to carry around with you, for you will not be burdened with meaningless words. Every subject is handled in a simple, matter of fact manner that appeals to all.

DIXIE SEEKS TRADE OF SOUTH AMERICA

Prominent Manufacturers From Georgia and Adjoining States Meet Here Today to Devise Means.

The southern manufacturers are determined to extend their trade into South America, and for the purpose of devising ways and means of accomplishing this all important step in the south's progress prominent manufacturers from all parts of Georgia and adjoining states will gather in Atlanta for the foreign trade conference, which convenes this morning at 10 o'clock at the Atlanta chamber of Commerce building for a two-day session.

This conference was called by the Atlanta chamber of Commerce, which civic body realized that on account of the European war, South American countries would be forced to turn to Uncle Sam to get their manufactured goods.

Orr to Open Conference.

The trade conference will be opened by J. K. Orr, vice chairman of the local committee of the chamber of commerce on foreign trade, in place of James Ashcraft, chairman, who, on account of illness, will be absent.

A number of foreign residents and ex-members of the South American consulate service will attend the meeting, and also a number of manufacturers what class of goods the South American countries have been buying in the past from European countries, and how they should manufacture their goods to sell in South American countries.

Francis H. Bartlett, special representative of the National City bank of New York, has been invited to attend the conference by the chamber of commerce. Mr. Bartlett will explain the method the National City bank followed in handling foreign exchange in the two branch banks established by his bank in Argentina and Brazil. Other banking methods, followed in South America, and the credit organization that has been established by the National City bank in South America, will also be explained by Mr. Bartlett.

W. A. Graham Clark, special agent of the department of commerce, in Atlanta, will also address the conference on trade conditions in South America.

Other speakers will be C. L. Chandler, foreign agent of the Southern railway, and J. H. Hyatt, foreign agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce, makes the announcement that President Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern railway, will arrive in Atlanta on Wednesday to attend the conference.
