Bleese Pardons 1,500 Persons By One Sweep of His Pen

South Carolina Breaks All
Clemency Records—Special
Decree Signed in Red Ink.

Columbia, S. C., January 9.—Full pardon to about 1,500 persons convicted in this state of various crimes and pardoned since January 1, 1911, was granted today by Governor Blease.

With one stroke of his pen he restored citizenship to the approximate number of men and women who have collectively violated all the laws of the state. This action, though it did not give liberty to any prisoners now in the state penitentiary nor upon the public works of the counties, places the pardon record of Governor Blease above that established by any person enjoying that power as a governor of any state, according to best information obtainable here.

In addition to this number, who were included in a blanket pardon, the governor also today granted clemency to thirty-four convicts in the state prisons and engaged on public works in the various counties. Of this latter number, sixteen were pardoned, ten paroled and six were given commutations of sentence; seven had been convicted of murder and ten of manslaughter.

The governor had prepared a special decree granting full pardons to those pardoned since January 1, 1911. Governor Blease signed the blanket pardon in red ink. He accepted as the estimate of the pardons of his office that his action today would increase to 3,105 the total number of pardons, paroles and commutations of sentence which he has granted since he assumed the office of governor four years ago.

Governor Blease will retire from office January 10 next.

NO MONEY IS ALLOWED MISSISSIPPI CHOCTAWS

Washington, January 9.—Secretary Lane reported adversely today on claims of the Choctaw Indians in Mississippi in recognition as citizens of the United States. The secretary said that a share in $7,000,000 of the latter's funds for distribution.

Secretary Lane's report, submitted to the house indian committee, stated he believed that no legislation should be enacted for the reopening of the rolls of the Choctaw nation for the benefit of the Mississippi Choctaws. In view of the large amount of tribal property yet to be disposed of and of matters affecting the tribes, he said, "it would be inadvisable to include the Choctaw nations at this time." The Mississippi Choctaws, who refused to emigrate with the tribe to the new country west and who never shared in the benefits of the pioneer life incident to the establishment of the Mississippi Choctaw reservation in the state of Mississippi, he contended, at this time should be considered as the Choctaw nation and that the tribal property of the Choctaw nation should be divided per capita among the Choctaw Indians of the nation, have no equitable right to share in the proceeds of the Choctaw nation.

STRINGER KILLS SELF WHEN FIRM SUSPENDS

Member of New York Stock Exchange Company Unable to Face Failure.

New York, January 9.—G. F. Stringer, Jr., junior member of the stock exchange firm of Stringer & Co., shot himself and died instantly in his office shortly after the suspension of the firm was announced today on the floor of the stock exchange.

To the sensational rise in wheat within the past few days was attributed the failure of the firm by C. A. Decker, its counsel. Mr. Decker said that Stringer & Co. had been badly caught on the short side of the market and had failed for about $100,000. The firm of Stringer & Co. was organized May 21, 1912. It consisted of G. F. Stringer, Jr., and his son of the same name. At the time of its organization the younger Stringer had not attained his majority. Recently, after he had reached the age of 21 he was admitted as a partner. He was married.

Body on the Floor.
A few minutes before the opening of the stock exchange today, Stringer, Jr., left his own office and entered that of the Quinsigamond Development company, in which the firm of Stringer & Co. had an interest. Then the exchange opened, the failure was announced. Soon afterward the body of Mr. Stringer was found lying on the floor under a desk in the development company's office with a revolver a few feet away. For more than an hour no announcement was made of Mr. Stringer's death. He had shot himself in the mouth.

The firm had a commission business of small proportions. For some years it had been interested in Mexican properties, especially mining companies. Disturbed conditions in Mexico, it was said, embarrassed the firm financially and its suspension was attributed primarily to that.

Used Money of Customers.

Mr. Decker issued later a statement in which he said that Mr. Stringer and the failure of the firm are due to the fact that the young man for the past month had been using the money of his friends and his customers. When the firm failed, he said, he was heavily indebted to his friends and customers. He said that he had told his father of his financial situation.

Young Stringer was an ideal young man. He was well liked and was firmly believed that he was a young man of high character. He was only twenty-one years of age and his customers' money so poured on him that he became a very rich man.

PARAGUAY PRESIDENT CAPTURED BY REBELS

Washington, January 9.—Details of the capture of the Paraguayan president by rebels at Asuncion, Paraguay, where rebels captured the president and held him prisoner for twelve hours, were before the senate today. A telegram today in a delayed cablegram from Asuncion summarized by the department as follows:

The advice states that the outbreak of the revolution in Paraguay is the result of the capture of the president by rebels. It is stated that at 10 o'clock in the morning the president was captured. The rebels were armed with rifles and machine guns. The president was held in a room in the capital. The rebels demanded a ransom of $100,000 for his release. The government refused to pay the ransom. The president was released after twelve hours. The rebels were then defeated. The president returned to his office. The revolution was suppressed.

SALE OF THE DACIA NOT LIKED BY BRITAIN

Washington, January 9.—The status of the former Hamburg-American steamer Dacia, loading at Port Arthur, Texas, with cotton for Bremen, Germany, in receiving official attention here, it was learned today, because of an attempt to subject the British government to a question of great importance not only to American shipping, but also to southern cotton interests, now exerting every effort to prevent the sale of the Dacia to the British.

It is understood the British embassy has required information indicating that the sale of the Dacia was not bona fide. This fact, if established, would be regarded as sufficient grounds for the British government to raise the question of the right of the American government to confer registry on a merchant ship belonging to a belligerent after the outbreak of hostilities.

SOARING WHEAT PRICES NOT HELPING GROWER

Washington, January 9.—Smaller loads of bread or an increase in the price of wheat, the result of the rise in wheat, in the opinion of Charles J. Decker, chief of the Texas cotton interests, would do more harm than good to the grower. Mr. Decker believes a major factor in the high price of wheat is the fact that the farmer, but not the grower, is the one who is benefited. He said that the grower is the one who is benefited. He said that the grower is the one who is benefited.

Memphis, Tenn., January 9.—An announcement of the absorption of the Memphis National bank by the Mercantile National bank was made today. The merger was said to be a consolidation of the two banks. The Mercantile National bank had $100,000 in deposits. The Memphis National bank had $200,000 in deposits. The consolidation would result in a bank with $300,000 in deposits. The merger was said to be a consolidation of the two banks.

To Parent-Teacher associations and Mothers' clubs.
February 17, is Founders day and it is like for it to be observed in every association and circle that find it possible to observe this day. This great national and international organization was founded by a Georgia woman. I hope that every club will read a short history of the organization which was founded in 1890, for its purpose and call special attention to the different departments of our organization. In this way each club will become acquainted with the broad purposes of our organization. As our founder, Mrs. Birney, said, "The study of ourselves and our consciousness, freshens our ideas, increases our aspirations, and brings us in touch with the eternal values as nothing else can do."
Let us make our aim for the new year one of vital interest in our work to reach some mother that has not already joined our forces, all work together for our organization that in this way we may be able to reach to those who are striving through our efforts to accomplish things for child welfare, "United we stand" and by the support of the state and nation, we are going to be able to hear from an earnest mother, who every good wish for the success of our club may be the one influence in the city or country that stands ever ready to help one of these little ones.

scope. When Mrs. Theodore Birney gave her call to the mothers of the land to assemble in Washington in 1890, to perfect the plans for this organization, it was to be able to reach every mother of our country, to tell them that child study is a science; that the possibility of the race is in the child.
For over a century the science of child life has been unimpaired, or, rather, it has been growing out with new life with just the individual mothers club, and it was the desire of Mrs. Birney to see hundreds of mothers club for child study—this was definite idea was characteristic of the woman. The direct effect of the organization was to wipe out the idea of the woman in the home, by educating the mother in the art of multiplying its pleasures and creating more ideal surroundings for the child.
Founders day is to be a national day, wouldn't it be well for every parent-teacher association and Mothers' club to decide on a program for their mothers' day? The direct effect of the national will supply you with these special programs.

Cochran, Ga., Baines Center.
Cochran has held most successful Mothers' day celebration and health exhibit. The exhibit used in Atlanta last year had cost and health exhibit were supplied with valuable material. Cochran state board of health, in a letter to the department of labor in Washington, sent much literature to be used.
Printed health posters were secured from Chicago. The whole exhibit was in the hands of health exhibit from the health exhibit, which is being held in a room for the women of the county.
Mrs. Dugan, district vice president, is the reading of the first fifteen verses of the fourth chapter of Esther. This chapter has been read over seventy times by Dr. Jacobs in his presentation of the Oglethorpe story in various public places in Georgia. It contains the text on which the Southern Presbyterians have based their fight for their university. "And so will I go in under the flag which is not according to the law, and if I perish, I perish."

Following this, Major J. O. Varnado, class-mate of Sidney Lanier, will call the roll of the names of the Oglethorpe, of whom it is hoped that there will be a considerable number present and each will give a minute message saluting their new-born alma mater.

A message from President Wilson will then be read, after which Dr. William Owens, president of the Oglethorpe, will bring a five-minute message from the other denominations of the city of Atlanta.
The Oglethorpe is the name of an organization of men who raised the Atlanta bonds of $250,000 for the location of the university in their city. These men, although members of every denomination and creed, are all enthusiastically devoted to the institution in the founding of which they played so large a part. Dr. Owens is also the president of the Silver Lake company and was largely instrumental in the securing of the magnificent campus which Oglethorpe was given.

Reading of Odes.
Thereafter will follow one of the most unique and interesting numbers of the program, and in fact one of the most interesting events ever connected with the laying of a cornerstone. An American delegate, lecturer of Sidney Lanier, and Sidney Lanier, the only Oglethorpe, who ranks with the seven immortal literary figures of the world, will read the ode to the university. Lanier attended Oglethorpe for four years and was a tutor there for the fifth year. Between the states he marched out with the Oglethorpe cadets to join the Confederate army. It seemed particularly fitting therefore that the new Oglethorpe should dedicate the new building and literary from the very beginning of its career. To this end it was suggested that the executive committee of the university should cause to be written a cornucopia of odes to the present occasion.

Benjamin C. McGowan, of Virginia; W. H. Hayne, of Georgia; C. W. Diller, of Georgia; Carl Holliday, of Georgia; Samuel M. Cowan, of Kentucky; Starke Young, of Texas; Samuel M. Brown, of Alabama; Henry R. Harman, of Georgia; William H. Miller, of Georgia; Robert L. Brown, of Georgia.
Most of these odes have already been received by the committee and are marked with brilliant execution. One of the most brilliant writers of modern literature, the late Mr. Mark Twain, has written an ode to the university. His Oglethorpe ode was written in the last place of work to come from his hand and heart.

Address by Dr. Vance.
Following the reading of the ode will come the address of Dr. James I. Vance, vice president of the board of directors, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Nashville, Tenn., and thereafter the dedicatory prayer offered by Dr. E. M. Green, class of 1882, ex-moderator of the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, and now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Nashville, Tenn.
The exercises will be held in the North Avenue Presbyterian church of Atlanta, and will be presided over by Dr. W. J. Martin, president of David W. College and moderator of the general assembly.
Immediately after the conclusion of the exercises in the church the members of the board and their guests will motor out to the campus, where the actual setting of the cornerstone will take place, with appropriate music and prayer and occasion.

Friends of the institution are cordially invited to be present.
On the afternoon of the same day will be held the first meeting of the board of directors of the Lee street school building to hear a report from a joint committee from both organizations looking to uniting.
The joint committee submitted a unanimous report in favor of the union, which was adopted and now under the name of the Seventh Ward Improvement club will present a united front.

The officers are: Dr. T. D. Longino, president; Hon. J. H. Andrews, vice president and treasurer.
The president of this meeting appointed the following executive committee: R. A. Burgess, chairman; R. E. Pearce, Hon. Burgess Smith, Hon. J. L. Kurfess and E. F. Childress.
The publicity committee is composed of E. F. Childress, R. M. Cross and Zep. Burgess Smith.

The organization has on hand the task of securing for the West End Park section a new school building, sanitation, improved drainage, and the new light for the $5,000 unexpended bond money by a unanimous vote.

Councilmen Dallas and White were present, and the former, who is a member of the street committee, submitted a list of improvements for the consideration of the county commissioners. The list as presented was endorsed by the club and urged a very necessary.

The club will meet again next Thursday evening at the same place at 8 p. m. and hear reports from all outstanding committees.

"IS GOD ON TRIAL?"
TO BE LINE'S TOPIC
Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. Fred L. Lutz, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, 11 East Harris street, will preach to the subject, "Is God On Trial?" in the subject of the European conflict, on the subject of the European conflict, on the subject of the European conflict.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public, Sunday school and public club meeting at 9:45.

MRS. BANERJEE WILL SPEAK AT DECATUR
Mrs. S. Banerjee, of Calcutta, India, will address the Christian Endeavor society at Inman Park Congregational church, at the corner of Stewart and Inman avenues, next evening at 8 o'clock. Audiences on three continents have been thrilled with her story of personal experience in building up a school for the orphaned and abandoned child widows of India.

IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

THE gowns and hats for Southern wear will be modeled principally on the lines of those we have been using during the Fall and early Winter. The adoption of the full, short skirt will be universal, and the proportion of large and small hats about equal.

The quaint frock on the semi-invalid is made of fine organdie, untrimmed. It has a skirt composed of a full, narrow hemmed ruffle and a little black satin bodice worn over a long-elevated, V-necked guimpe of organdie. The large, flat leghorn hat has a wreath of brown roses against a background of old blue.

The long, Roman-striped scarf is of knitted silk.

The gown of russet brown foulard has a chemise tunic of futurist figured silk crepe, falling straight from the neck, under a little bolero of brown. The high Bernhardt choker and the bottom of the tunic are faced with tango yellow. A close hat of yellow straw with flaring brown wings, completes this costume.

The third dress is of old blue chiffon cloth. The full gathered skirt is bordered with five graduated bands of taffeta ribbon. The moyen age bodice of old blue taffeta fastens under the arm. The upstanding neck ruche is of moisture-proof maline. A French sash of black satin trimmed with a band of blue taffeta ribbon and a row of yellow primroses and a russet brown parasol lend the needed color notes.

Wedding of Miss Agnes Jones And Mr. Elliott Hunter Muse

ALBANY, Ga., January 9.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Agnes Jones and Mr. Elliott Hunter Muse, solemnized at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Paul's church and followed by a brilliant reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Jones, was an event of unusual interest not only in Albany and Atlanta, but in other Georgia cities where both bride and groom are well known. Rarely has St. Paul's, the scene of many beautiful weddings, been so elaborately decorated as on this occasion. The altar was a mass of Easter lilies with background of amaranth and southern hams. The wedding party entered by way of the central aisle, and in the following order. First the mothers, W. M. Baldwin, Henry Lanier J. D. Weston, Jr., Youth Williams of Albany. The groomsmen in couples alternating with the bridesmaids, were: John Armistead and Carl Ridley, Miss Della Lindsey and Miss Theodora Williamson, Frank Butler and Charles Meadows, Miss Carolyn Muse and Miss Emma Kate Amorous, William Draper and Chaucer Butler, Miss Mary Butler and Miss Kate (Cousins) Miss Lindsey and Miss Ouburn are from Savannah the others from Atlanta.

Mrs. H. F. Ray, matron of honor, followed by Miss Miriam Jones, the bride's sister and maid of honor, after whom came the flower girls, little Misses Agnes Davis and de Courcy Jones. Preceding the bride were the bridesmaids, Miss Della Lindsey, Thomas Henshaw Williams. The bride entered with her father, and as they approached the altar the groom, with the best man, George Muse, Jr., came from the vestry room. The bride and groom were married by Rev. J. H. May, French consul, and as they left the church the wedding march was played. The marriage service of the Episcopal church was read by Rev. Gerald Corbett, rector of St. Paul's, as the notes of Schubert's "Benedictus" were played. Before the arrival of the bride, the new John Deere motor, "The Fair So Sweet, So Holy," was on display. There were two hundred and fifty guests attending the reception at the palatial Jones home, immediately following the service at the church. The elaborate decorations here included a color scheme of pink and white. The table round which the bride party gathered was covered with white satin and the centerpieces were a mass of white Killarney roses, a shower of lilies and the sparkling, rare the chandelier, and scintillating streamers to each place. At each place were the gifts of bride and groom to members of the bride party—photographs of the bride in silver frame, with the name of the recipient engraved thereon. For the bridesmaids, and gold pocketknives similarly engraved for the groomsmen, glassware supplied by the groom, and slices of the bride's cake were at each place.

The bride's gown was of white tulle embroidered with pearls, over which she wore a long, flowing veil. The veil was caught with orange blossoms, and the only ornament was a circlet of diamonds. The groom's gift, a pair of wristlets of lilac of the valley, Mrs. Miriam Jones wore white satin with sleeves of georgette crepe and waist of silver-embroidered tulle. The bride was dressed in white, with silver gloves. They carried silver baskets of Killarney roses.

The bride's church beloved young woman of stately beauty. She has been educated in the United States and in Europe and to those fine qualities of mind and character which are the attributes of gentle womanhood have been added the grace and accomplishments with which unusual opportunity has blessed her.

Mr. Muse, who is a well-known real estate man of Albany, has an extensive family connection in Albany, and many friends in this community. The wedding was a very happy occasion, and many friends of the bride and groom were present, who will reside in Atlanta after returning from their honeymoon.

Mrs. DeGivie Issues Appeal For the Belgian Sufferers

Once more Atlanta women have been called upon to rally for the relief of the Belgian sufferers, to rally and work for a fund on the same day that their sisters of all America will be working for the same cause.

May, French consul, to rally the forces of the various Atlanta women who have already worked for the cause, and those who have not yet responded, that all may assist in making Belgian flag day January 15 a success. It is planned to sell flags on that day in every city

Miss Margaret Northern Weds Mr. Roy T. Dorsey

The marriage of Miss Margaret Northern and Mr. Roy T. Dorsey took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Davis, in the home of Mr. Northern, of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the families of both parties.

The bride's gown of white satin and duchess lace was the same worn by her mother at the latter's wedding. A veil of tulle was combined to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms, and she carried garlands and vases of lilies.

Mrs. Charles A. Davis and William McCarty, uncle of the bride and groom, were the best man and groomsmen. When they entered the drawing room where the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of roses and lilies. Throughout the hour beautiful flowers were in the room, and the bride's gown was a masterpiece of beauty and grace.

Shuffling Out "Cakes" to Mr. Hungry Business Man Has Cotton Factory Beat Forty Ways, Says Mamie

White Apron Brigade Marches on South, But Not Like Sherman's Army

Cheerful, Buxom, Smiling Waitresses, Who Swoop Down on Atlanta From the North, Show How Happy and Healthy a Working Girl Can Be—"Why Don't the Southern Girls Join Us?" They Ask; "It's Better Than Working in Anybody's Mill, and There's More Money in It."

"Pride? Foolish! We're Proud As Anybody! Come on in, Girls; the Waiting's Fine!"

By Britt Grant.

Just as Sherman and his mighty tribe bombarded fort and farmhouse alike, another Yankee legion has marched down upon us from the north and is smothering "haze's" morbid traditions with a sweeping force that is crumbling them as fast as they come under range of the guns.

But this host is welcome. They come bearing with them a host of pleasures and a host of pains. They are cheerful, buxom, smiling waitresses, who swoop down on Atlanta from the north, show how happy and healthy a working girl can be—"Why don't the southern girls join us?" they ask; "It's better than working in anybody's mill, and there's more money in it."

THEY'RE RIGHT THERE WITH REPARTÉE.

They are cheerful, buxom, smiling waitresses, who swoop down on Atlanta from the north, show how happy and healthy a working girl can be—"Why don't the southern girls join us?" they ask; "It's better than working in anybody's mill, and there's more money in it."

It is the old story of smiling waitresses that is teaching the working girl class of Dixie that its traditions of manual labor are all wrong, and that domestic service is not only profitable, but is respectable and, by all means, utterly advisable alongside a number of kinds of service in which a majority of the servant girl class emulate themselves. The servant girl problem has long been an acute one in the south—more so than in the north, simply for the reason that it was difficult to get worthy white girls into the service. In the north the immigrant type is available. And the American girl of the north was not above it. She had no "troubled-laced" tradition to say he had no false pride to throttle. The south it had always been different. Only the neg o had been considered as a servant, due to the antebellum days of slavery, when Dixie lived on the milk of the land, and the white girl was as prevalent as the cotton flower nowdays. No white girl worked as these days she was "white trash," said it.

SENT MENT LIVED AFTER WAR CEASED

That sentiment outlived the war. It existed until now when it is doing a perfect natural and welcomed death. But girls for the good of the white race, the good of the south, the good of the nation, they are departing homes that are with the servant girl problem.

Perhaps you have frequented this same restaurant I have in mind. And I might say you could help, but give attention to the way of waitresses, so immaculate in white, literally "as pink as a rose," the mansion if you have used of elegant and worthless servant girls, you wished you had one of these in your home.

In that case the odds are you would have felt like taking her in the house of your family, in her radiant smile and cleanliness and systematic service.

Or words to that effect. And that's the secret of it. The Yankee girl has no ante-bellum code to turn her from this particular line of endeavor. Naturally, she chooses manual labor in preference to the cotton mill, or sweatshop.

Then, too, it is more attractive, less envying, more profitable. MAMIE IS TALKATIVE—AND ELOQUENT. A few nights ago I had a talk with Mamie. Mamie is a sensible woman, who has been in domestic service since childhood. She is a jolly Irish sort, good-natured and robust. The pink in her cheeks and a laugh in her eye say she has had but few sick days in her life.

She is a head waitress, or something of that kind. She calls the girls under her "her biddens." They call her "Mother Mamie." They all came down from the north together. When they first arrived there was an epidemic of homesickness among them, and they all looked to "Mother Mamie" for comfort. Some of them came from Philadelphia some New York, some from Boston some from Atlantic City.

They are Irish, Swedish, American, Scandinavian and there is a homely Scotch lass or two. To hear Mother Mamie speak of them you would think they were the most lovely girls on earth.

Some of them have the native brogue. They all have the characteristic northern tongue, curt, expressive, indifferent. Some of them are slinky too, but real slinky is eloquent.

MAMIE AND HER "GIRLS"

Mamie brought me butter, cakes and conversation. All around her white-aproned girls were swarming their dishes with an agility that drew admiration, not to mention memoranda. A smile here, a sign of assent there, a rebuke yonder, a greeting thence, they had many things to dispense.

"Why it is that southern working girls who come from the country to the city invariably go into the cotton mill or factory instead of household service is something that vexes me," said Mamie when we approached the servant girl subject. "They slave in these mills for scandalous wages, endure lives as abject as the animal world, and yet most of them pride on a banner pole whenever anybody suggests a servant's job."

"Now, mind you, I'm not attempting to reproduce Mamie's exact language. To do that would require a dictaphone. If I were only capable of transcribing Mamie's naive eloquence, and to describe her articulated punctuation, every working girl who reads this story would apply without delay to the employment bureau for a job in Mr. Somebody's household as maid, waitress or cook."

Mamie missed her calling when she overtook the lecture platform. "It isn't a question of pride," Mamie told me. "It's just inherent aversion. Southern folks seem to have inherited the idea that nobody can be a servant but a negro. It's no disgrace—it's an art. A good servant girl is one of the most indispensable factors in the successful household."

"A competent servant girl is an art. THE FACTORY VERSUS THE RESTAURANT."

"Many of our factory girls come fresh from the country to the city looking for employment. They have to go to work at something. They are all capable of some phase of household duty. Yet they scorn it when it's offered them. They give it that 'I might be had off, but not that low' attitude and back away from it like it was contagious. "But when they're forced to go to something that will serve them, they enter the cotton mills sweatshops, any sort of factory in which they can find employment. This from 'Pride.' That isn't pride! No! It's a sin and a shame."

"Once this sort of life claims them they are done for. They lose all hope and what little ambition they had when they first came to the city. They make empty shells out of them. She would have taken to the river before she'd have got a job as a waitress, but she took her honor and went into mill slavery."

"The country girl makes an excellent domestic. She is thorough, strong, clear-minded and usually conscientious. They come from the woods and hills, with blooms on their cheeks and clear eyes, ready for anything but carrying hot cakes and sweeping out. They wouldn't even nurse children, because it's a negro's job."

"How they can tolerate life in the mills and factories is a mystery. I never see a girl in a mill. The honest they live in frequently. They also, the atmosphere of it, surroundings, dirt, their work a drudgery. I guess they think it's honorable. Well, they can be all the martyr to that sort of honor they want. Give me the coffee cups and pennies every time."

"Domestic service is highly honorable. To the unacquainted country girl coming into a strange city, I could recommend nothing more beneficial to her. Now, suppose, for the instance, we draw a character. Say her name is Lillian and she comes from the mountains, or anywhere in the rural districts."

THE AVERAGE CASE OF LILLIAN. "If she renounces the prospects for a position in some home, well and good—let her go on to the cotton mill or her factory. But just suppose she accepted the offer from Mrs. Jones as servant girl. Mrs. Jones has the average home and a young child."

"Lillian goes into the Jones home to live as long as she stays on the job and is faithful. She occupies a clean, well-ventilated room, wears neat and cleanly clothing and sleeps in good surroundings. She uses the servant's bathtub, which is at her disposal as often as she wants it."

"Mrs. Jones, if she can get white help, has no negroes around the place. Whites are more reliable, more dependable. Lillian eats the same food that is set at Mrs. Jones table. Her hours are good and regular, and she has a certain amount of time to herself. She stays in the family a good while. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and the little Joneses begin to take a personal interest in her. She becomes an institution in the Jones home."

servant girl head. But look what she gets in compensation: Clean, helpful living, good food and clothing and a salary of $5 a week or more. "Compare that with the cotton factory existence, then see where Lillian belongs."

"The uplifting association with the Joneses alone would be inducement enough. "You'll find, though, that most of the girls who feed the factories and mills are either those who are born into the life, or the girl from the country. The country girl doesn't have to come to the city alone to be swallowed up by the mills. Their parents make the mistake of ever leaving the country, and, once in the city, force her to go to work."

"Then, again, it isn't so much a question of pride that prevents any number of them from going into domestic service. They just don't realize that it's there for them. The old southern codes have never recognized anybody but negroes as servants. Therefore, the Lillians can't figure that a white girl has the domestic opportunity."

"DON'T WE LOOK CHEERFUL ENOUGH?"

"I don't think it will take long for the southern girl to see from our example the value of manual employment in preference to an unlimited list of others. I could call to mind if that gentleman over there didn't want his coffee and sinkers—in such a hurry. You will observe how healthy we look, how well dressed we are both at work and on the street, and how cheerful we take life. See—"

Mamie pointed out a trim young woman coming from the rear of the restaurant and making her eager voice toward the front entrance.

"That's a specimen of us." The young woman was tastefully clothed in a black skirt and blue coat with a touch of color at the throat. A white little bonnet, plain, simple, cheap, sat on her hair at a saucy angle. She wore sturdy shoes with high heels. From the little bonnet, waitress, you had been reading about you'd never in the world have recognized her.

"We make a pretty good salary to begin with," Mamie continued, recovering my attention from the fetching little figure that had just trotted past. "But you have to consider the tips. We eat in the restaurant and have the best on the program. We all have good living quarters, cheap but adequate, and we generally band together. None of us has found waitresses a handicap, socially, financially or otherwise."

"Since I've been here, three of the girls have married men they met in Atlanta, and—"

"Ah, there he comes, now! Shall I see you later?"

"Oh, hello, John, you look mighty good tonight!"

"To require Mamie—"

"—socially or otherwise," the Yankee host is teaching Dixie's working class that domestic service is not a curse, but an avenue to a worthy future.

Any combination of circumstances by which The Constitution does not gain a new subscription will be classed as old. Any candidate who deliberately tries to have old subscribers discontinue the paper and the paper sent to a different member of the family or a different person entirely, not connected with the family, yet at the same time taking the place of the old subscriber in order that the candidate may be given points, will be cautioned for the first offense and barred from being a participant for the second offense.

GRICE AND DORSEY NAMED FOR STATE

Will Argue Frank Case Appeal Before United States Supreme Court—Both Designated by Slaton.

Governor John M. Slaton on Saturday afternoon designated Attorney General Warren Grice and Solicitor Hugh Dorsey to represent the state before the United States supreme court against the appeal of Lew M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Marc Phagan, from the adverse decision of Judge William C. Newman, of the federal court in Atlanta, in Frank's recent habeas corpus petition.

In making these designations Governor Slaton followed the precedent set by Governor Terrell in the famous Rawlins case of Valdosta, when he appointed Judge W. F. Thomas, chief solicitor, and Judge John R. Hart, then attorney general, to represent the state in a hearing outside of Georgia.

Attorney General Grice Saturday held a consultation with Attorney Harry Alexander, who appears for Frank, and was informed by Mr. Alexander that the records were mailed Saturday afternoon to the United States supreme court by the clerk of the federal court in Atlanta. Mr. Alexander also stated that the records will be filed at once.

Under the rules of the United States supreme court, no motion for a writ of habeas corpus can be made to have a case advanced on the docket until the records have been printed as soon as the records have been printed, a motion to move the case up for an early hearing as possible will be made, he said.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question and "How to Prevent Colds" is asked a thousand times every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but due to a disordered condition of the blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the body better able to withstand the varying elements.

This is the underlying reason why the medicinal fats in Scott's Emulsion quickly overcome colds and build strength to prevent more serious sickness. It contains nature's medicinal fats, so skillfully prepared that the blood profits from every drop, and it is free from harmful drugs or alcohol.

Former Atlanta Dancing Master Back in Old Home To Conduct Big Revival

A former Atlanta dancing master, well-known back in the 1890s for his athletic interpretations of the famous dances that preceded the "modern" steps, has returned to the city of his younger days after touring the north and west, and returned to introduce a new dancing series. He has come back to tell the story of Christ—and in a way that has made him a "much-talked-of" evangelist west of the Mississippi river.

Charles M. Dunaway, the pride of Atlanta dancing circles when the stately minuet and Old Virginia reel were adroitly making their exit, preaches his first sermon to be heard by his friends of this city this morning at 11 o'clock at the Baptist Tabernacle on Luckie street.

Rev. Dunaway is now considered one of the top preachers of the country. He was ordained to come back to his native city to do his work by a strong evangelistic committee from the various churches in the city, who have been striving toward this end for the last several months. He will deliver two other sermons today—at 4 o'clock this afternoon and 7:30 tonight. The meetings will possibly continue through January 12, Rev. Dunaway preaching twice each day during the week, at the morning and evening hours. He is hardly 50 years of age and a strong, virile speaker.

Charles Dunaway was born near Cartersville, Ga. He came to Atlanta and engaged in the dancing profession until about 1895, when an adventurous disposition took him into the west. He was converted in Kullaville, Texas, in 1897, and became an evangelist in 1905 since that time he has held meetings all over the United States.

TO REDUCE EFFORTS FOR BELIEF FOR BELIEF FOR BELIEF

Georgia Committee Reports
Slow Response to Appeal for Fund.

Atlanta are responding to the appeal sent out over 100 days by the Belgian relief fund for money to be used in the purchase of milk for the Belgian babies and a number of contributions have been received. The committee at the headquarters of the committee, 101 Grand Opera House building.

According to the headquarters, however, the need is still urgent and contributions already received are far from being sufficient for more than merely temporary relief.

The efforts of those in charge of the fund have been redoubled by the receipt of the most urgent calls for assistance from the relief committee in Belgium. The most urgent need, according to the committee, is milk for the young babies, of which there are estimated to be 2,000,000.

The invading Germans to supply military necessity, killed all available cattle when they first entered the country. The stores of condensed milk were exhausted almost immediately. The following card from Mrs. E. B. D'Orr, of Decatur, Ga., has been addressed to the mothers in Georgia:

"Thirty thousand babies will be born in Belgium this winter. Their heritage is starvation. Their mothers will never touch their father's cheek and be pressed to his breast. And 4,000,000 babies are already starving in Belgium. The pitiful wall of their little voices is heard from every corner of the land. The ocean and the land are full of babies who are always crying for food."

"If you live in the presence of one of those mothers, who, forgetting their own hunger, with lips too numb and dry to kiss and eyes too heavy for tears, tried to quiet and comfort the little pleading baby, who has been born into the valley of sorrow, you will never forget the mother who is giving life, but for whom you are now all that she has."

Much Cheaper to "Build Now" According to Figures Secured By the Chamber of Commerce

That a possible higher rate of interest to be paid for money to be used in building purposes is not a disadvantage to the "Build Now" campaign of the chamber of commerce, but that the reduced cost of building more than offsets even a far more than normal rate of interest, was the chief declaration of V. H. Kriegerhaber, chairman of the "Build Now" committee, in a statement to the effect that builders were deterred from entering into any considerable project at the present time because, they declared, that they were asked to pay one-half or one per cent higher for loans than they possibly would at the end of six months, brought the very definite answer from the committee that one could afford to pay from 1 to 2 per cent higher interest for money, and still make a saving on construction work, get better results and more satisfaction.

"If a man makes a saving of from 10 to 15 per cent on construction work, as has been the case in any number of instances, it would certainly be good business for him to pay 1 per cent more for money in order to take advantage of the greater saving," declared Mr. Kriegerhaber.

As Example. "A concrete example. Suppose you have a building which you want to build for $100,000 a year ago. You pay 1 per cent for the money, an increase of 1 per cent in the cost of money. Your loan is for five years, an increase in cost of $500. You effect a saving in your building of 30 per cent—a conservative estimate—which will amount to $30,000 at the end of the five years you have."

Encouragement to the movement was given Friday by the statement from the office of the city building inspector that building for the first week of 1915 was $5,000 ahead of that for the first week in 1914, and that practically all of the permits were for small enterprises including a health increase. Ed Hayes, inspector, stated that the cost of construction will remain at its present low figure that year.

THREE DAYS' LIMIT GIVEN TO THE "D. T. S." AT NEW INSTITUTE

The Wesley Institute, of Atlanta, well-known institution for the treatment of alcoholism and drug addiction, became on Saturday a branch of the Neal Institute, of Chicago, retaining, however, the same local management.

The name was changed to the Neal Institute, and the famous three-day treatment will be installed at the institution in place of the Kriegerhaber treatment, which required five or six days. The new treatment guarantees cure in three days.

Dr. Neal's treatment is based on late discoveries in medical science. The Atlanta branch is the sixtieth branch of the Neal Institute. The Neal Institute has adopted the treatment through legislative enactment, this being the first time that a government ever officially adopted a treatment for alcoholism or drug addiction. The Atlanta branch is located at 1151 Broadway.

Dr. B. Bruce, former surgeon and head of the medical department of the Neal Institute, sold his half share in the institution five years ago to finance the project. He spent the last year in Atlanta inaugurating the new branch of the Neal Institute.

One of the most interesting projects that will come before the finance committee of city council next week will be the appropriation necessary to complete Boulevard into DeKalb, forcing the citizens of Atlanta northward and westward through the city.

The boulevard will be about three miles long, running from Moreland avenue, near the Georgia railroad, through Kirkwood to the East Lake Drive, coming out near the residence of Col. W. T. Gentry. It will shorten the distance from the center of Atlanta to East Lake by over three miles as against the present DeKalb route.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This alkali makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Just plain mulberry coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing. This oil can positively injure the hair, simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an excellent dressing of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The coconut oil makes the hair soft and remove every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and is left soft and silky, bright and fluffy and easy to manage. You can get this oil in every drug store, and it is very cheap, and a few drops will last everyone in the family for months.

HAVE HEALTH TO YOUR CREDIT

Don't be a debtor to a weak stomach, lazy liver, bad digestion or clogged bowels. These ailments only drag you down—undermine your health—make you feel miserable. Nature intended that you should be strong and robust—that the digestion should be perfect—the appetite keen and the entire "inner man" working harmoniously. Any deviation from this condition needs immediate attention. This suggests a trial of

San Francisco Chinese Offer Opposition When "Master Key" is Filmed

In the filming of the sixth installment of "The Master Key," John Fleming Wilson, the author of the series and Robert Leonard, the producing director, encountered much opposition from the San Francisco Chinese, who feared that white slave investigators were about to take pictures of a motion picture for the purpose of securing the expulsion of the colony.

When the first company arrived in San Francisco from the Hollywood studios they made their way to Chinatown and started to work. Almost immediately scores of Chinamen gathered about the camera operators and a to-do ensued. None of them offered the slightest opposition to Director Leonard, but all seemed gathered close and close until it was impossible for the cameramen to film the scenes.

It was finally discovered through an interpreter, that the Chinese had gathered to prevent any pictures of the Chinese being taken. It was found that a short time before a moving picture was being taken in a Chinese house, the beautiful Chinese actress, who was the heroine of the film, was seen in a white slave trap. The Chinese, who are so much interested in the film, came out and arrested her.

Leonard was advised to see the Chinese consul. Accompanied by his son, Charles Nelson, Leonard and his secretary, who sent his secretary, a Chinese, to explain matters to the Chinese consul. The consul, who is a Chinese, explained the situation to the Chinese consul. The consul, who is a Chinese, explained the situation to the Chinese consul.

ANSWERS TO MOVIE FANS

Owing to the number of queries received and the somewhat limited space allowed for answers, it is not always possible to print information as rapidly as the writers desire it, as the letters must be answered in turn. Address all queries to Moving Picture Editor.

Questions considered as ridiculous will not be answered. Questions regarding relationship will be answered to the best of our knowledge, but we are not responsible if mistakes are made.

Lillian. The Thanet House Kidlet belongs to James Crase and Marguerite Snow. I understand now that King Baggett has married. He is a professional. Do not think visitors are allowed in the Thanet House studio. You can obtain a letter from some one of prominence in the moving picture business. Ethel Grandin appears in the Grandin film manufactured by the Smulwood Film Company.

W. W. There are many studios in California and all sort good. I would not attempt to tell you which one is the best.

Dorothy Phillips is not married. Neither is Herbert Lawton. Neither is Pearl White. Don't blame you for being crazy about Pearl White, everybody is.

ZUDORA GROWS MORE MYSTIFYING EACH WEEK

More thrilling, mystifying and interesting than any previous episode, "Zudora" will be seen at the Strand Monday in the eighth episode, "The Case of the Chang House," a decidedly interesting one and with just enough pathos to make it appealing.

This great Thanet House serial is growing better and better with each episode, and interest is increasing in proportion. Marguerite Snow is making reputation in this great serial, and is fast becoming the idol of the movie fans.

In addition to "Zudora," "Restitution," a great heart-touching drama, and a live Keystone will be shown.

Florence La Badie.

The million admirers of Florence La Badie will find her playing in "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be delighted to learn of an opportunity to see her.

PROGRAM AT ALPHA AN ATTRACTIVE ONE

Monday is a busy day at the Alpha, as that is the day upon which "The Master Key" is shown. Tomorrow to exception to the rule is expected to be a big business day, as the series is so popular. The scenes are taken in San Francisco Chinatown, and furnish an interesting background to the picture. In addition to a riotous comedy, "For the Good of the Cause," will be presented. Tuesday, the first of the new big "U" releases will be shown.

"On the Desert Sands" is a two-reeler, with Sidney Ayres, Doris Parn and Mary Benson in the cast. The story is based on the familiar theme of the child found on the desert after the parents have been massacred by the Indians. She grows up and eventually marries the hero, who saved her from the Indians. The action and photography are good. The most interesting situation is in the second reel where the men gather for possession of the child.

BUSINESS IS GOOD, SAYS ARTHUR HYMAN

Arthur H. Hyman, president and general manager of the Hyman Film Corporation, which has its headquarters in Atlanta, returned last week from a tour of the principal cities in the south, and brought back with him considerable business for Hyman releases aggregating $125,000.

Mr. Hyman was much impressed with the signs because of returning business. He declared that new motion picture theaters are being built in nearly all of the twelve cities he visited, and the owners of those already in operation are so anxious to secure attendance records since the first of the new year. All of which, Mr. Hyman declared, portends a general resumption of normal conditions in the motion picture business.

J. Warren Kerrigan.

In view of his success as an actor in the silent drama, and as a help to beginners, J. Warren Kerrigan, who is starring in "The House of the Living Dead," is publishing a 100-page book.

A screen serial story that will appeal to every woman and help every husband is that of "Runaway June," which begins at the Strand next Friday.

The story is by George Randolph Chester, author of "Not Rich Quick Wallingford," and has a vein of love and pathos interwoven that is interesting and appealing.

The drama is produced by the Reliance Motion Picture Corporation, and every detail is carefully looked after. That portion of the picture that will appeal especially to women is the portrayal of the latest fashions in gowns and hats, and shows every modern thought in dress design.

The wedding scene with a wedding scene that is charming and gorgeous, and the wedding scene is all dressed in the latest fashions and the picture is of the most pleasing seen on any screen.

In addition to the fashion plates represented in the great serial, there is something in the story that has been seen before, and a theme that is interesting. It is the opinion of those who have seen the first installment that it will eclipse anything in the line of serials that has ever been produced.

Alamo No. 2.

The management of Alamo No. 2 have secured for this week "The Doctor's Wife," which will entertain every afternoon and evening with a selected list of classic, popular and ragtime songs. This act is sure to add to the popularity of the Alamo, and the management of the three is a solid.

For Monday two especially good pictures have been secured, "The Adventure of the Blue Room," an interesting serial, and an exceedingly funny comedy, entitled "Patsy at College."

The program for the balance of the week is a good one, and includes all the pictures from the best producers.

Charles Chaplin has joined the Eassey, and is now working on the silent drama, and as a help to beginners, J. Warren Kerrigan, who is starring in "The House of the Living Dead," is publishing a 100-page book.

TO LECTURE THURSDAY

Dr. W. E. Taylor Will Speak on Soil Culture and Modern Farm Methods.

Under the auspices of the Mohamads Ad Men's club, Dr. W. E. Taylor will deliver a lecture in the Chamber of Commerce building, at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, January 14. Dr. Taylor is the director of the Department of Agriculture, located at Moline, Ill. His lecture will be on "The future of the cultivation of the soil and modern methods of farming."

Through St. Elmo Masengale, president of the Chamber of Commerce, the lecture for the organization, a special arrangement has been made. A circular has been sent out to members of the Chamber of Commerce, and to the various local organizations, and to a large territory. A big attendance is expected.

Dr. Taylor has been connected with the John Deere Plow company for a number of years. He is an expert in soil cultivation and up-to-date methods of farming. He is a very capable, intelligent and interesting, and the speaker will talk a genuine treat to his hearers. He is a man who knows his own business and men who own and superintend at least one farm. It is figured that his lecture will be one of the best of the year.

This will be the first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for the year. The members are working to make the lecture a success.

Ad. Men for the New Year, and the members are working to make the lecture Thursday night a success in every way.
