

The Bal Masque

THIS Columbine borrowed a sash of blue to match her pompons; and wears her heart—not on her sleeve, for obvious reasons, but on the front of her snug fitting yellow satin cut-away.

Who could resist the "allure" of a sea-blue gown of charmeuse which girdles its wearer in amethyst chiffon velvet, and drapes her shoulders in a scarf of deeper blue, touched with amethyst embroidery? Mlle. "Louis Quinze"—with a difference! One-half portion of skirt, and a bit of fur about the neck—into which a pink rose has been tucked!

German premier, Count Karl Stuehring, is expected and that he is to be succeeded by Herr von Bismarck, the Austro-Hungarian minister.

The presence of the Austrian fleet, Admiral Cauter's presence and the minister of foreign affairs, at German headquarters had also led to the speculation among the German allies, but this is not seriously considered. It is, however, "a case of special interest" differentiated for the first time in a German newspaper, which has been the same "great" respecting Austria.

Our Tallulah Falls Schools

No thoughtful club woman can fail to appreciate the potent value of the Tallulah Falls Industrial School to the federation. It needs no argument to convince us of the value of this possession. Most of us know it is all ours and what the investment represents, but too few of us think enough about its upkeep and development. Together with the splendid record and glorious possibilities of our school, we must know the grave needs that must be met.

Let every club woman read carefully all Mrs. Willet says, and tell others about it. This school belongs to each of us as much as it does to Mrs. Willet, and if she can give so freely of her strength, her time and her money, can we not do a small part to help take care of what is our own?

Only 30 clubs out of the 246 in the federation have pledged anything toward the support of Tallulah school, and only 100 have paid the amount subscribed. In your opinion, is it not, won't you see that it gives something? Others appreciate the priceless value of this school to the community and to the state. Miss Lola Allen, the principal, urges Mrs. Willet to use her February salary toward making the class rooms more comfortable. She says the children cannot study when they are shivering with cold, and would you know how three feet is almost impossible to provide on hand. She wants her salary to be applied to the work necessary to provide what seemed the impossible in order that we can help at this crisis?

Our business men, too, have recognized the wonderful work of this school, and their gifts and contributions are most generous. Mrs. Willet does all the buying, and the manufacturers and merchants give her the most reasonable prices possible. Often the hidden savings of action have been touched and what seemed the impossible has become a fact.

Let us use our imaginations and estimate what it would be worth to our school if we should consecrate our gifts at this time to this worthy work, each one doing her full duty. What a miracle of progress might be wrought. The executive board meets on January 28. Let each member come prepared to pledge for herself or from her club something for Tallulah.

VICE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It gives me great pleasure to welcome through these columns the three new clubs which have recently joined the Georgia Federation. These are the Marshville Woman's club, Mrs. F. J. Frederick, president, the Georgia Study club, Mrs. J. B. Shipes, president, and the Marshville Woman's club, Mrs. J. B. Shipes, president.

The time approaches for the district meetings, and all the hostess clubs are planning for the success of their respective clubs. The meetings are very near the club heart, for it is there that the most important work has been done. The reports which have been necessarily submitted to the state convention are of great length, and the club members can make the state convention a most profitable and interesting one.

Let all Georgia women come into this federation, for in co-operation there is greatest strength. The federation is the best thing that has ever happened to the woman of this country.

Needs of the School.
A car of coal and three heating stoves must be provided before winter is over. These will cost $100.00. Miss Allen, the principal, urges Mrs. Willet to use her February salary toward making the class rooms more comfortable.

Let every club woman read carefully all Mrs. Willet says, and tell others about it. This school belongs to each of us as much as it does to Mrs. Willet, and if she can give so freely of her strength, her time and her money, can we not do a small part to help take care of what is our own?

Appeal of Mrs. Bankston Deserves Hasty Response

A notice of Georgia day is being sent this week to the presidents of the United Daughters of the Confederacy chapter in the state.

The beauty of this living memorial, the unusual fact that Mrs. Helen Plans lives to see the halo of glory that is around her, and that it is of more vital importance to show our young boys, a check were necessary. The girls are the future home-makers and character-builders, and such work is the greatest of all.

Georgia Flags on Georgia Day

The following card has been sent to the president of each United Daughters of the Confederacy chapter in Georgia:

SIGNAL MOTOR TRUCKS AGAIN TRIUMPH

After Exhaustive Investigation and Demonstration

AGAINST ALL COMPETITION

The L. W. Rogers Co., the South's Largest Retail Grocers, Users of Motor Trucks for Over Five Years, after a most careful demonstration, adopt the SIGNAL WORM DRIVEN MOTOR TRUCKS

From Points of Economy, Cost, Maintenance and Efficiency

A Convincing Testimonial

L. W. ROGERS COMPANY

GROCERS AND COFFEE ROASTERS

ATLANTA, GA. Jan. 23, 1915

Mr. C. C. Dugas,
Sou. Distributor Signal Motor Truck Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Dear Sir:

Pursuant to our conversation of this date regarding the Signal Motor Trucks I recently purchased from you, I wish to confirm same by letter, and to state my reasons for doing so. Five years ago we began using what was then known as power wagons. We have used several makes, but the experience has proved costly to us. However, we now feel that the motor truck has passed through the experimental stage, and in keeping abreast of the times, we feel that the time has come when we must adopt the new era of transportation--standardized motor trucks.

This decision has brought to our attention many demonstrations of the leading trucks now on the market. We have given careful attention to the claims of all, but have finally decided to adopt the Signal Worm-Driven Motor Truck because in our opinion it is the best truck on the market. We reached this decision after a careful estimate of the cost of maintenance and operation of your truck, figuring the cost to us per ton to deliver and stock our fifty-four stores. This cost has been reduced to a minimum and will assist us to further reduce our already reduced prices to our patrons.

We believe your truck gives the greatest dollar-for-dollar value of any offered on the market. We purchased one of your ton trucks with a view of giving it about six months test, and then purchase another, but owing to the remarkable saving in delivery cost, though having used your truck only a short time, you are hereby authorized to enter our order for a one and one-half ton truck for immediate delivery.

I wish to thank you for the prompt manner in which you handle our business. It will give me pleasure to answer any and all inquiries from the trade pertaining to Signal trucks.

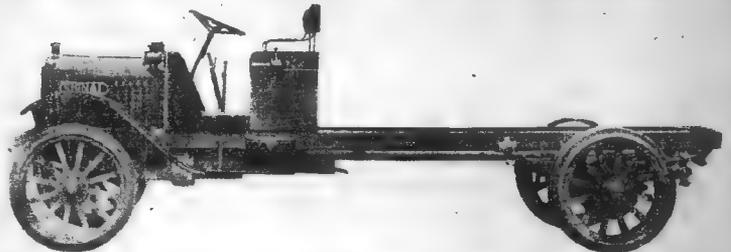

Yours very truly,
L. W. ROGERS CO.

General Manager.

It Behooves all First Class Automobile Dealers to Investigate the Merits of the Signal Truck. Some Valuable Territory NOW Open.

THIS TRUCK IS A BUSINESS BUILDER

This is a mighty important factor to the dealer who is building for permanence. It is more important than immediate profits. A truck may sell because of low price or some fancied advantage only to fall down in the test of hard usage. The immediate profits are lost in giving free service and repairs while the task of living down the bad feelings and bad reputation is even more costly. There is no such danger with the SIGNAL. It is a different kind of truck. It is not only built to sell, but is also built to serve. That is important, for a truck that serves faithfully and well is one that creates business for you. Every one on the road is a moving advertisement of SIGNAL quality and efficiency. This is mighty valuable, and the records these trucks make serve to bring new business to your doors. Therefore, a SIGNAL agency means a signal success. Why is the SIGNAL so successful? First of all—because it is built right. The standard parts used are typical of the construction throughout. Such names as Timken Axles and Bearings, Continental Motor, Brown-Lipe Transmission, Detroit Springs, Timken David Brown Worm-Drive Rear Axle, Gemmer Steering Gear, Eisemann Magneto, Stromberg Carburetor tell an indisputable story of quality. Then the capacities—one ton and one and one-half ton, two ton and three ton—are the easiest to sell. They have the widest application to delivery conditions. The worm-drive and two lengths of wheel-base meet practically all requirements. The SIGNAL sells because its quality and value are readily apparent and its adaptability is the greatest. It builds business because it gives such service that repeat orders and new business are inevitable. The agency for such a truck is profitable now and in the future. Surely you are sufficiently interested to write us now asking for proof. Write for agency proposition and catalogue.

Mann Accuses Wilson of Being a Machine

With such eminent oligarchs as Judge Polk and Mr. Davies, commissioner of corporations and minister for the foreign trade commission, in promoting his position, mainly engaged in trying to build up a personal organization for the president, with the president quarreling with the joint opposition from the other end of the Capitol and constantly refusing to listen to advice from democratic members of this house unless they agree to do what he wants, I ask you gentlemen whether you think he is following the path of the democratic convention in respect to the principle of one term."

Mr. Mann said he called attention to the platform because it is almost an offense to not believe the platform. He said he had a platform in good faith, because it is almost an offense to not believe the platform.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

By Jema Dooly.

"Efficiency is the keynote to real progress," say the wise ones who are looking about to see what shortcuts they can apply to advance everybody in the onward direction. This efficiency must be the class that has done everything, inclusive of the infant class in dancing.

The most interesting class in Atlanta's social playground when Atlanta business hours are over, good citizens apply the philosophy of a "little more haste, less speed" to the instruction of the infant class in dancing. Dr. W. S. Elkins, John K. Otley, Harry M. Atkinson, Albert Howell, Hollins Randall, J. W. Conway, William H. Kiser, John E. Murphy, J. D. Robinson and several others who, unlike those named, have not yet demonstrated in public.

The class, H. M. Atkinson so far has won the prize for faithful work. His practice making rapidly the best perfection. Though there are stipulated hours for classes, Miss Monticelli herself busy with her interested pupils on all occasions when dancing is in vogue. There are very many and, although they are so far taking the simpler conservative ballroom now and then, one of the two are ambitious enough to wish in time to essay the more advanced steps. The class is the music and the high grace required in that artistic dancing, the classical, classical.

MISS ROGERS WEDS A PRINCE.
An international marriage which will be of interest to many Atlanta people is that of Miss Elizabeth Reed Rogers, of Kentucky, and Prince Christian of Philadelphia-Barchfeld-Hesse. The marriage took place in Berlin, Germany, on the 12th inst. Mrs. Rogers visited Atlanta two years ago as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Johnson, Mr. Jackson, her kinsman. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat carried a story about the marriage as follows:

The marriage in Berlin Thursday was an auspicious event. Prince Christian, of Philadelphia-Barchfeld-Hesse, has an ancestral home in the fact that the bride is a cousin of Mrs. Forrest Ferguson, who has resided in Berlin through her mother, who was Miss Eunice Tomlin, of Tennessee.

The bride is a Kentucky belle, and has resided in New York, at the Plaza, with her parents, but made her debut into society in Washington, D. C. The Red Cross organization is always to the fore both during famines and epidemics. Between 1897 and 1899 when there were a series of terrible famines, his society spent more than 1,000,000 rubles (about $200,000) for relief, and another 7,000,000 in medical aid, and yet their work is not only not forgotten but is being increased so numerous were the cases of need. The Russian Red Cross was, by the way, founded by two women, Mrs. Salina and Madame Frolskaya, the latter of whom is a Russian woman bearing a German name.

The spirit of self-sacrifice and the purest of a personal ideal will be shown by the Princess Evgenia, who has left her life still in Russia. It is day after day in front of some of the young girls of the family, leaving distant homes, even against the wishes of their parents, and coming to the universities to study. They live most a life of two or three together, very modest, sharing what they have with other students. They will work as well as the best lot of students for some poorer friends' fees or perhaps dinners.

In every university town there are small restaurants for students. These are run on unique lines. A great deal of the work is voluntary, and the food is extremely cheap owing to the aid of the students of the university interested in the concern. The hotel work, cooking, &c., is, of course, ordinary paid labor, but when the waiting is done by the students themselves, and the entire electrical and organizing work is undertaken by the

These are innumerable young women who are already veterans in this kind of self-sacrifice, and who with such training are likely to be of the greatest service when they undertake real Red Cross work. There are numbers of other societies also founded by women, and working more or less on the same lines as the Red Cross. They all have permanent hospitals and staffs, and attached to them are convalescent houses, almshouses and often schools. The best known of these societies is the one founded by Princess Shabovskaya. Four sisters of this society, with the founder herself, went through the war in Serbia in 1876. During the Russo-Turkish war there were already 118 of them caring for the wounded. And since then in every war in which Russia has taken part and in most of the big epidemics there have been sisters of this society. Many of them have received medals for their "valuable help and acted when all or most of the men are withdrawn from it. In Russia women fill so many posts which in other countries are the privilege of men that they are still there to carry on the work when the men are gone—and in any case they are willing to take up a variety of occupations from which they are barred at ordinary times. It is true that they are welcomed and are given all kinds of jobs. Women act as clerks in banks and they occupy every kind of position in the municipal organization, even in times of peace. In certain villages they are occasionally elected as "desiatniki"—that is, a kind of policeman—among whose duties is that of collecting the young men whose time has come to serve in the army.

During the Napoleonic wars there was even a woman "razzouk" (elder of a village) Nastasia—that was her name—led her villagers, armed with scythes and pitchforks, against the French invaders and took a great number of prisoners.

The Cossack women for many years fought side by side with their men, going into battle armed with anything they could lay hands on. This tradition—for it became a tradition that the women should take an active part in any battle—seems to have originated in 1774, when the Cossack town of Nizhny was being besieged by the Tartars. The Cossack women helped by pouring not only boiling water and tar on the besiegers, but also the soup which they were cooking. Finally they became so brilliant that they called forth from the town dressed in their best red sarafans, armed and angry, and attacked the Tartars with great success.

And the Russian peasant women of today seem capable of living up to these traditions. Only a few days ago, when a German airplane fell in a village near the frontier, the women who were bringing in the harvest rushed to the spot and smashed the machine, halting the two aviators with their fists and hay forks. They overcame them, although the Germans endeavored to defend themselves with revolvers, and held them until some soldiers arrived and rescued the prisoners.

The women are ready, however, to show their energy in more peaceful ways as well, and we hear they are conducting almost the entire tram and postal service in both the capitals.

Emancipation Has Been Our Worst Foe, Says Negro Leader

Declares It Alienated the Southern White Man—Address in Little Rock Creates Widespread Comment

Little Rock, Ark., January 22. (Special)—In a notable address delivered here to negroes, Dr. Watkins a negro leader, told them that the matter of alienating the southern white man from the negro, emancipation had been the negro's worst foe.

His address at "coming the rounds" of the court. Among other things, he said: "I say here now, on, for all, if we are to celebrate this occasion (Emancipation day), we cannot in any sense forget those who, in anguish and pain, still held out to us a hand without which we must have perished from the earth—our freedom is free, easy, and Lincoln's proclamation would have had no place except as an epitaph of what might have been."

He said that Lincoln was more than a great man; he was a great man who had the good sense to prove our worthiness of their benefactions by not resorting to torch and sword. And with a host of others...

EVERETT ENTERS RACE FOR RECORDER PRO TEM.

Friends of Latest Entrant into Contest Are Optimistic as to His Success. A surprise has been sprung in city political circles by the announcement that James B. Everett, ex-councilman and ex-councilman, has been in the race for recorder pro tem. for the next three months and is claimed by his friends to be a certain winner.

It is to be feared that the people know what he is doing upon the ground. Already many have heard from him who have changed their minds. The exhibit will be an ever-day all-year-round exposition of the products of the state. Horse collars or hair oil, bread or bricks, stoves or furniture, hickory or pine, will be found in it. It is made in Georgia. It will find cordial welcome and desirable display.

The Lyceum means a much to every community, as does the chautauqu, says Parlette. "It is the great aid to the very heart of the business center of the city and is convenient to all the hotels and railroad stations. The enterprise is under the management of the Manufacturer and Builder, which has offices in the Empire Building."

The Master Key

A Thrilling Story of Mystery and Romance

John Dorr and Ruth

An arrangement made with the Universal Film company, it is not only possible to read "The Master Key" each week but also afterward to see moving pictures illustrating it.

8TH INSTALLMENT

(Copyright, 1914, by John Fleming Wilson)
ST. PAUL, Dec. 24.—The man who has been locked down here in this world, how many people are there trying to find "The Master Key"? One found gold in the desert of things his daughter, Ruth, had gone for. She had in her pocket a key which she had stolen in a moment of weakness and demanded a share of it and the money she was going to use for the sake of a woman, John Dorr, the mining engineer to whom she had been married. It was also fitting to find the secret which Thomas Drake apparently told him to be grave.

The morning brought John Dorr, Ruth Gallon and Thomas Kane together to discuss the problems before them. The papers so necessary for the consummation of the deed that Everett had proposed were again lost; where they were gone, whether they had indeed fallen into Wilkerson's hands, none could tell. But more immediate was the fact that the man who had been in the plain clothes already at hand, ready to take him to prison on a charge of killing Henry Pell.

"It really only a formality," said the manager of the hotel. "The man was a robber and Mr. Dorr tried to capture him, as he had every right to do, and the man was killed."

This failed to comfort Ruth. To her mind the presence of the man who had been arrested in a strange city made her feel that her husband's death was too great to bear. She sat holding the old cook's hand till Everett should come. He had already telephoned and she tried to be brave till he should come.

Everett arrived and the moment she saw him she heard a sigh of relief. He was so capable looking, so cool, so seemingly content to John that even Tom Kane softened his grim visage a little.

"I'm under arrest," John told him. "The officers were good enough to let me stay here till you came. Now I must be off. Let me introduce you all around."

This done, John Dorr went on, "You can tell you all about things, and when you've learned the worst come down and get me out, if you can. I'm under arrest," John told him. "The officers were good enough to let me stay here till you came. Now I must be off. Let me introduce you all around."

either hung or fell to the street below. He was instantly killed. Shortly afterward the body was identified by the police as that of Samuel Price, alias Henry Pell, an ex-convict and drug fiend.

Wilkerson rode no further. He turned his ghastly face on Mrs. Darnell and said huskily, "He's dead!"

"Well, he won't tell any tales," was the cold response. "The question is, did he get the papers?" To this question there was no satisfactory answer until Wilkerson rode down further and learned that nothing of value had been found on Pell's body.

"So he didn't get the deeds and Ruth still has them," Mrs. Darnell said bitterly. "That is the way all your plans succeed."

Wilkerson nodded. "There is one comfort," he said in an ugly tone. "Dorr is to be held for killing him."

"For how long?" sneered Jean. "Doll his friends get him out? And meanwhile you do nothing?"

Wilkerson was thinking quickly. Suddenly he interrupted Jean to ask for pen and ink. She got them and he sat down at the table to write. Drake and Mrs. Darnell kept up a desultory conversation until he had finished.

There was a queer look in Jean's eyes as she looked at the sheet he handed her and glanced at the writing. "I see you still can do it," she murmured.

"Read," he growled.

Mrs. Darnell read it through silently and then aloud: "Dear Ruth,"

"I hate to ask you to come down and see me in the jail, but I have something very important to tell you. Bring the papers, too. JOHN DORR."

"Are you sure he is in jail?" demanded the woman who she had flinched. "And what is the idea of getting the papers into his hands?"

"He'll just turn them over to Everett," muttered Drake.

Wilkerson smiled slyly. "The idea is that Drake here will disguise himself as a chauffeur, take this note to the hotel, see that it reaches Ruth and then drive her surreptitiously to the jail, but really to where I'll get them."

"They discussed the plan and at last agreed that it was feasible."

It was an hour later that Drake with his rented car up before the hotel and delivered his note. It found Ruth still deep in conversation with Tom Kane and yet anxious for the return of Dorr and Everett.

On the presentation of the note, which Wilkerson had forged, she instantly took alarm.

"John must be in trouble and Mr. Everett can't get him out," she said. "He's written for me to come down to the jail and see him and bring the papers."

"Humph!" said Kane. "That sounds funny to me."

Ruth nodded, looking at the note. Then she said, more cheerfully, "I'll drive anyway. Maybe he needs a car for me," she added.

"The one that brought the note," he said. "He says he was told to wait."

"Oh," she exclaimed. "Tell him I'll be right down."

When the boy had gone she called Tom Kane on the telephone and told him that she was going. "John sent a car for me," she added.

"All right," came back the answer. "I'll just travel along. Maybe I might help John myself!"

So it was agreed and they met in the lobby, where Ruth showed the note to the clerk in her impulsive way. Something in that official's expression made the old cook unconsciously take out his revolver and saw that it was in good condition.

He followed Ruth to the street and into the waiting machine.

This more disconcerted Drake. He had not intended to have two passengers, but he saw no help for it and merely nodded when Ruth offered him to take her to the city prison. He started his engine and they sped off up the hill.

They rode for some time and as neither of them was acquainted with the city it did not occur to them that they were being rapidly followed into a part of town only partly built up and now veiled in dense clouds of swirling fog.

"It's a long way," Ruth remarked several times, but Kane merely grunted. He was busily pondering some method of extricating John Dorr.

Suddenly the car swerved around a corner, dived down a steep hill and came to a stop before a big gray building—the boarded-up residence of an absentee. Reaching back Drake opened the door and Ruth sprang out. A figure darted across the sidewalk and she felt herself clutched by the arm.

She looked into the gleaming cruel eyes of Wilkerson.

"I've got you now!" he said triumphantly. "Oh!" moaned Ruth, striking back in terror.

"Yes, indeed," Wilkerson teased her. But at that moment he heard another voice, stern, commanding and familiar. He looked around into the muzzle of Tom Kane's revolver.

For the moment they faced each other, while Ruth shrank back still farther. The old man's eyes gleamed and his trigger finger seemed to rest on the trigger with a precise and delicate touch.

"You here!" said Wilkerson with an oath. Suddenly the old man's temper flared up. The other saw death in his eyes, turned on his heel and ran as fast as he could up the hill.

Without a second's hesitation Kane swung his weapon round till it covered Drake, cowering at his wheel.

"Now you drive us back to the hotel," he thundered. "And if you make a false move I'll drill you as sure as God gave me good shooting eyes."

Drake saw that he was helpless and sulkily waited till they were in and then turned his car back toward the center of the city. Tom Kane sat grimly just behind him with his gun ready. And his mind was piecing things together. Suddenly he saw a policeman on his beat and realized that luck was playing his cards for him. He ordered Drake to halt and balled the officers. To that moment what astonished individual the cook explained briefly that he had just fulfilled an abduction plot and that the chauffeur was in it. Though Drake strenuously denied the charge the policeman decided that it was a case for the captain.

"I'll just ride in front here and we'll go to headquarters," he remarked. "You can put up that gun, old fellow, for I'll see that young fellow doesn't cut up any monkeybusiness."

In the meantime Everett had successfully managed Dorr's business and he had been released on nominal bail for a hearing. "And I guess you won't find us very anxious to make it hard for you," said the prosecuting attorney.

Free again, John insisted on taking the quickest way back to the hotel. Everett, sympathetic in this, agreed and in a few moments they were at the hotel inquiring for Ruth.

"Why, she left only a little while ago to see you in the prison," said the clerk. "She had a note from you."

"I wrote no note," said John.

"Here it is," was the response. "She left it on the table in her hurry."

Eagerly John snatched the sheet of paper, but the instant his eyes lit on it he turned a furious face to Everett.

"That's a forgery—a trick," he said. "I never wrote it!"

Together they went outside and from the starter learned that a car had driven up, that the chauffeur had delivered a note and later Ruth Gallon had come down and been driven off. "There was an old gentleman with her, Mr. Kane, I believe," the starter added.

"John heaved a sigh of relief. "At any rate, Tom will see that she doesn't come to harm," he said.

After a few more questions, which showed them the futility of trying to find Ruth, they re-entered the hotel, sitting out a tremendous odor of garlic and cheese. She surveyed her caller with suspicion and then beamed.

"Oh, you come look at these papers!" she demanded. Estelle merely showed a copy of the advertisement.

"Yes, my husband, he put that in de paper," the woman said, losing her smile.

For some moments Estelle tried to get a glimpse of the documents. The Italian himself came on the scene and demanded a full description. When Estelle said that they had been lost from the Maxx and that she had explained that he had been reported as having stolen them, when his eye had been caught by the forged papers, but he still insisted on an accurate description, which the maid refused to give. At last she said quietly, "The papers are of no value to you, and I am authorized to pay a good reward for them."

At the word reward there was a change, and the woman demanded to know how much it would be. Estelle thought rapidly. It had been impressed on her that haste was necessary. She decided on offering a goodly sum, yet not enough to make the

The Papers. Wilkerson's last failure had driven him furious. He did not know what to do, and he especially dreaded returning to Jean Darnell with the news. He walked the streets for a long time, lunched in a cheap house and then doggedly started downtown. On the way he bought an evening paper and read of Drake's arrest.

As he expected, she flew into a towering rage; but her heart melted when she saw that Drake must be paid, and she managed to control herself at last. She read the account carefully and then looked through the rest of the paper for some item about John Dorr. Her eyes lit upon an advertisement, which she read twice before speaking, then she pointed it out to Wilkerson. He, too, read it; "FOUND—Deeds to certain mining property. On proof of ownership same will be returned. Reward expected. S. J. C. 201 Hill street."

"They must be the papers," he acknowledged. "I'll probably throw them away for fear of their being used as evidence against him, and someone pick them up."

"This time I shall see to the matter," Jean said sharply. "Whether they are the papers or not we must be sure."

"Other people will see that," he suggested. "All the more reason for hurry," she snapped. Then she called her maid.

"Let's see!" she exclaimed. "They're gone! They're gone!"

"Impossible!" said Dorr. "They must be somewhere here."

"No," she mourned. "The looked everywhere." Everett was the first to suggest that no time should be lost in locating the missing property. He sent for the evening paper and delved into the "Lost and Found" columns, with the result that he very soon discovered a paper to which he pointed out the advertisement which had attracted Wilkerson's attention.

Half an hour later John Dorr turned away from the newspaper and said to Everett, "I'll get that was one of Wilkerson's crowd. We must notify the police before he can get away."

They had soon told their difficulties to the sympathetic car at headquarters and started back for the hotel. John was in the dumps when he saw that it seemed as if everything was wrong when I try to do something for that little woman," he growled.

"I begin to think myself that you are playing too hard luck," was the reply. "But I always did like a good fight, and this promises to be one. I'll stick, John."

"They found Ruth and Tom Kane anxiously awaiting them. John simply stated the case and then turned to comfort Ruth. He was started to see how white she was.

"Ruth! Ruth!" he cried in alarm. "What is the matter?"

"There was no answer. She had fainted away. All this was forgotten for the time being. A maid ran for the doctor and quickly summoned and presently Ruth revived. Old Tom Kane was seated beside her patting her hand.

"The papers!" she moaned. "What are the papers?" he said promptly. "Well, look after them."

"But the folks at the mine—who will look after them," she pleaded.

"The doctor took care that he would do so himself with John's help. At this point the doctor interfered with orders that she was to be perfectly quiet.

In another room they had a consultation. The physician listened to their explanation of what the girl had been through and then said gravely, "She must have an absolute change of scene for a time. Get her away from here instantly."

"But where?" Dorr demanded.

"Why not take her to the southern part of the state for a little while?" he suggested. "But whatever you do, do it quickly. Her nerves won't stand much more."

"I know just the place," Everett said. "Take her to Los Angeles and then out into the hills to some quiet hotel. You can catch the night train."

"All of you go with her. I'll look after matters here for a week. If need be, I'll go down to the mine myself."

"The Escape. With the papers safely in her possession at last, Jean Darnell became once more the guiding spirit, and told Wilkerson that there was only one thing for them to do: get out of town immediately.

"Drake is in the jail, so we'll have to bail him out through some third party. We haven't trust our nerves in the hands of the police. You can trust Dorr to be looking for those papers right this minute."

"I promised Drake by a messenger that we would have him out before night," he responded.

"We must save ourselves first," she said angrily. "And we must be disguised."

After some argument, Wilkerson agreed, and they decided to go south.

"It will give us time to plan things out and you can work things out at your leisure," Jean told him.

"But how shall I disguise myself?" he demanded. Mrs. Darnell's eyes gleamed maliciously. "You must go as an old man," she told him. "My father, you see."

He rebelled, but finally acquiesced, and within a short time Jean and the maid had transformed him into a very respectable old man.

"Now go and buy our tickets," she ordered. "Estelle and I will pack up while you are gone."

"Tickets to where?"

"Tickets to Los Angeles," she snapped. "So be disguised, to return in an hour with the tickets and an expressman."

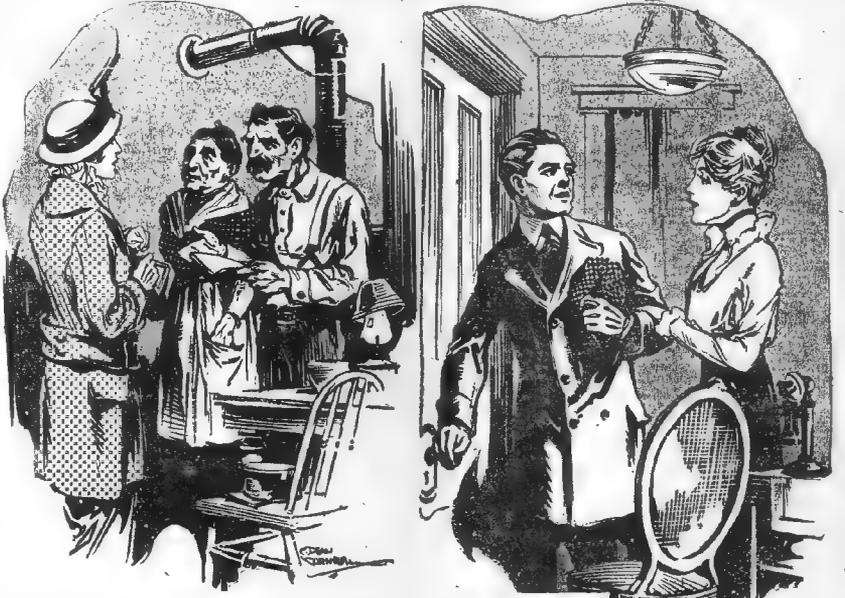

When the trunks were gone, Mrs. Darnell sat down with Wilkerson and they went over the situation again, with the result that she took his advice and disguised herself and made Estelle also do the same.

After a hasty supper, they called a taxi and went to the station. Mrs. Darnell and her maid immediately entered the drawing room reserved for them and Wilkerson fed the porter to make up his berth in the body of the car immediately.

"Estelle" he muttered to himself, as the wheels began to turn and he saw the faces of several plainclothesmen on the platform.

Neither he nor Mrs. Darnell was aware that in another car Ruth and her maid and John Dorr and Tom Kane were also heading for the south.

Guests of the Maxx Hotel Have Fierce Struggle with Hotel Robber.

Shortly before midnight last night, Miss Ruth Gallon, a guest at the Hotel Maxx, entered her room to find a masked man looting her desk. Mr. Dorr pursued the man to the roof and in the ensuing struggle, the desperado was

SURRENDERS

By RICHARD G. CONOVER.

SURRENDER OF BURGOWNE TO GATES OCT. 17th 1777. FROM "THE STORY OF THE REVOLUTION," BY HENRY BRADY. ILLUSTRATED BY CHARLES SCHLESINGER, CHICAGO.

FATE has set a date in the calendar of the new year for the surrender of one or more of the big armies of Europe now in a death struggle. It may not be the entire force of either the Allies or the Germans that will lay down arms. Perhaps it will be a wing or a division of soldiers.

It has been a week or so since the first and most important of the year's military operations. The British reason because they are the victors in the one campaign and maps to a civil war at some particular spot. It is possible to go on with a war plan in an army so that the troops are not in the same fortune of conflict. Surrender must have a certain percentage of the force as the battle, the result and the present mood and the number of the victors. Sections of them are bound to be caught in the "net" and "prisoners" (German).

He at once reversed the marching order of Duerst and led his army nicely and tightly within the last square of the circle left by the Germans. Then, with more than seven hundred guns, he died from the heights, north, east, south and west. The Emperor ordered the white flag raised.

During the morning of September 2 Napoleon sent to King William of Prussia the following historic message—

SURRENDER OF THE AUSTRIAN GENERAL MACK TO NAPOLEON, OCTOBER 18th 1805, OUTSIDE THE WALLS OF ULM, WHERE 30,000 MEN WERE TAKEN. FROM "HISTORY OF THE WORLD," BY HENRY BRADY. ILLUSTRATED BY CHARLES SCHLESINGER, CHICAGO.

A vast amount of time is devoted to the study of the military art. It is the study of the art of war. It is the study of the art of the soldier. It is the study of the art of the general. It is the study of the art of the statesman. It is the study of the art of the philosopher. It is the study of the art of the poet. It is the study of the art of the artist. It is the study of the art of the scientist. It is the study of the art of the craftsman. It is the study of the art of the laborer. It is the study of the art of the farmer. It is the study of the art of the merchant. It is the study of the art of the sailor. It is the study of the art of the soldier.

While the large of the phibic last and the small of the steel ring the vi and a greater part, nevertheless the ing of a surrender—a feat of arms, beyond the most famous of the great captains of history. The great Napoleon deemed the Austrian surrender at Ulm without the firing of a shot and the loss of a life one of his most brilliant performances. War should not reveal an exact duplicate of the result, although surrender approximates it in results with the least bloodshed. It has always frustrated the victors as much as a field triumph and added an irritant to the foe.

Some have been surprised following a pitched battle, or following a siege, or following an assault on a fortress too frailly occupied to be deemed a siege, or following a bombing in by a larger army that there is no chance of escape. The surrender was of the latter kind. Measured by the things the surrender of the French to the Germans at Sedan, September 2, 1870, is the greatest field feat of the kind in history. The surrender of Metz and other fortresses that were its complement, during the same war, were the most noted fortress events in history. Sedan is still a fruitful source of study to military students.

The battle of Sedan that forced the French surrender was fought September 1, 1870. Bad generalship placed the defeated army in a position where finally a complete ring of belching canons, instead of being able to combine with the other French army, already bottled up in Metz, the troops of Napoleon III were completely surrounded. The French army was opposed by 154,000 of the German allies, who had 710 guns to 468 in service by the French. Eight thousand killed and wounded were the French loss, seventeen thousand the German. Twenty thousand prisoners were taken by the victors—among them Emperor Napoleon III. This was the status of affairs at the close of the day.

Marshal MacMahon, the French commander, was badly wounded by a bursting shell early in the day. The command devolved on General Duerst, the only one of the French leaders who seemed what a good way of escape that was the dashed. He at once set his army in motion toward the only route traversable to the west. At this critical time General de Wimpffen received a command from the Regency left by Napoleon in Paris directing him to take over the command in case MacMahon was killed or wounded. He at once reversed the marching order of Duerst and led his army nicely and tightly within the last square of the circle left by the Germans. Then, with more than seven hundred guns, he died from the heights, north, east, south and west. The Emperor ordered the white flag raised.

During the morning of September 2 Napoleon sent to King William of Prussia the following historic message—across the York River to Gloucester. Cornwallis opened negotiations for a surrender. The prisoners numbered 7,157 soldiers, 840 seamen, 80 camp followers, or 8,077 in all. In addition there were 144 cannon, 6,638 muskets, great quantities of ammunition, supplies and clothing belonging to the army and four frigates, 20 transports, 15 galleys and several smaller vessels. During the siege, which began September 22 and lasted twenty-one days, the British lost 150 killed and 320 wounded; the allies 75 killed and 190 wounded. A naval battle between the British and French was fought in the Chesapeake while the siege was being the British vessels retiring to New York. The French vessels, remaining in adjacent waters, aided immeasurably in the successful prosecution of operations. So this great field surrender went down to history.

Another surrender outside a fortress that marked a decided military epoch in the War of the Revolution was that of General Burgoyne to General Gates at Saratoga October 17, 1777. At Benes-heights on October 7 Burgoyne had been defeated, with a loss of 600 men. He retreated to Saratoga and began the construction of defenses. Gates followed and surrounded him. The British and Hessians marched out of their camp after the papers were signed, and laid down their arms to the number of 341 officers, 690 non-commissioned officers, 4,838 privates—a total of 5,733 men. Gates failed to say the men should be prisoners of war. They were used against the Americans later in consequence of this omission. The principal cause of the British surrender was the foolish attempt to operate an army in a hostile country when separated 150 miles of wilderness from its base of supplies. Of course, the American army outnumbered the British nearly two to one in order to surround it so effectively.

The surrender of Ulm October 20, 1805, was the climax of a series of rapid maneuvers of Napoleon against the Austrian General Mack. On September 7 Mack, with an army of 80,000 men, crossed the Inn and moved on Munich. Bonaparte crossed the Rhine, and by a bold and rapid movement gained Mack's rear, cutting off his communication with Vienna. In a series of engagements fought for the recovery of the Vienna roads Mack was routed and retired within the walls of Ulm. Two weeks later, without any intervening casualties, Mack surrendered his army of 20,000 men and sixty pieces of cannon. The remainder of his force, which had been justly commanded by the Archduke Charles, had either been made prisoners previously or retreated to Jola two other Austrian armies that had been sent against the power of Napoleon. Thus in the short space of three weeks Napoleon's masterly movements had completely overwhelmed his enemy without a real battle.

The surrender of Robert E. Lee to U. S. Grant, at Appomattox, April 9, 1865, was perhaps one of the saddest sights in the history of warfare. The Confederate troops, measured by the entrance of all soldiers since the first armed force was ever arrayed, would have been justified in surrendering months before. They were half starved, in rags, barefooted and bareheaded. But they did not give up because of this. They were content to fight on with all these handicaps so long as there was a use in fighting. It was not even starvation that beat them. It was the overwhelming force of a foe outnumbering them five to one. To continue would have not been battle, but mere massacre. So they were surrendered. There were 5,000 officers and 25,494 enlisted men, a total of 30,336, in the heroic band of fighters. Fewer than 8,000 had rifles.

The mention of Fort Ticonderoga will always bring to the American memory the brilliant capture of this place at the beginning of May, 1775, by Colonel Ethan Allen and two hundred "Green Mountain Boys." Benedict Arnold, a captain at the time, had been authorized to raise four hundred men for the purpose, but when he reached the vicinity of Lake Champlain and found Allen already under way, he joined the expedition. They arrived before the fort while it was still within ten hours of the British and gained admittance through the Sally-port by a ruse. Allen relied upon the commander, Captain Delancey, to show himself and make a surrender. Out came the British officer, breeches not yet slipped on, and inquired by what authority he was asked to yield the place.

The city of Paris has had severe experiences in the way of surrenders to invading armies. On March 31, 1814, the allied armies that had besieged in Napoleon entered the French capital and occupied it with a force of 200,000 troops. After Napoleon's escape from Elba and his defeat at Waterloo the armies of the allies again entered Paris July 7, 1815. Thus the great city had to surrender to its enemies twice within sixteen months. Fifty-five years later—January 29, 1871, the city surrendered again, this time to the victors in the Franco-German war, after a brief bombardment. The death rate had risen to 5,900 a week and the food supply was exhausted before capitulation was made. Another city surrender of the campaign was that of Orleans, December 4, 1870. This municipality endured two occupations before the war ended.

The surrender of the city of Peking by a traitor Chinaman October 6, 1900 was a memorable occasion in the history attempt made by European and American Powers to break into the privacy of the Celestial Kingdom. The city was taken as the final act in the operations conducted by France and England during 1857 to obtain reparation for attacks made on their shipping. Canton was taken. Russia and the United States joined in the attempt to force treaties recognizing Western Powers. China finally agreed to the reception of residential Ministers of all four countries in Peking. But all sorts of impediments were placed in the way of the Ministers entering the city. The war was renewed. Following the surrender of one of the gates the allies rushed into the city. The imperial government was forced to yield and the treaties were ratified.

The battle may be the cause of conflict, but the surrender is certainly the plum of war. A capitulation is the pining of the sword—the proof of the soldier's fighting. The assault and the volley are the motions of the weak performed; the surrender is the proof of the endurance of substance. Napoleon's crack corps said:—"The Old Guard dies but never surrenders." This evidence the possession of trained martial purposes in the field, coupled with a wise determination never to let the possible victory obtain the material rewards of war. It is the ideal shibboleth of battle.

Ten Tons of Food Shipped To Belgium as Result of Flag Day in Georgia

Ten tons of food purchased in Atlanta with the proceeds of the sale of Belgian flags, on Belgian Relief day, were shipped by Dr. P. E. Wray, executive secretary, to Charleston, where these shipments will be a part of the cargo of the Georgia-Carolina steamship which will sail this week for Belgium...

The total receipts from the flag day are now slightly over $2,000, with one or two other cities yet to report. Among the supplies purchased in Atlanta there were 1,000 cans of condensed milk, 1,000 cans of pork and beans, 1 1/2 tons of rice, 2 1/2 tons of flour, 1 ton of peas, 1 ton of beans and 1 ton of assorted vegetables...

An amount equal to that contributed in each other city will be spent there for supplies. The following are the amounts raised by the committee in various Georgia points: Cordele, $29; Coker, $14; Milledgeville, $15; Americus, $40; Rome, $20; Athens, $14; Dalton, $10; Columbus, $10; Valdosta, $10; Macon, $10; Savannah, $10; Brunswick, $10; Milledgeville, $10.

100 WORKING GIRLS HAVE BIG BANQUET AT ANSLY HOTEL

Proof that the Atlanta working girl enjoys better conditions than those of the bigger northern cities, in which investigations have revealed trying circumstances, was had last night when a banquet to 100 working girls was given at the Anslay hotel by Mrs. George M. Brown and Mrs. W. C. Whitman, officers of the Young Women's Christian association.

Short talks made by a number of the guests explained that working and living conditions in the city were not made bad by the contrary of their respective. The 100 guests were members of the Y. W. conference of last living in the association dormitory. The banquet was staged in elaborate style with souper and a sumptuous luncheon.

Dr. May has sent out a warning to those making shipments that no writing or message other than the address should be made on the packages, and particularly should no reference be made to officials of any country now at war lest they be suspected to be code messengers, thus causing the entire cargo to be held up.

100 MILES OF MUD ROAD NO HINDRANCE TO CUPID

Lovely, Ga., January 23.—(Special.)—Dan Dugid cannot be outwitted. It was this way. VICTIM OF PELLAGRA TRIES TO END LIFE

In despair because ill health was compelling her to give her three children a look of both privacy and freedom in a boarding house, Mrs. H. H. Baggett, of Washington, D. C., attempted to end her life last night.

Mrs. Baggett, 45, was found in the bathroom of the boarding house, where she had been for several days. She was taken to the hospital, where she is now recovering.

"I'm the Happiest Man in Atlanta" Said a Well-Known Citizen, Yesterday, "For Haverly's Showed Me How to Live Better and Cheaper"

"One year ago we were married and went to live in a boarding house. We had a pleasant room and our landlady did everything in her power to make things agreeable. You know, however, there are a lot of things that are not agreeable in a boarding house. These and other disadvantages soon caused us to have visions of a home of our own.

"Profiting by the experience of a good friend of mine, who was emancipated from boarding house life, we decided to follow his plan, investigate Haverly's Convenient Credit System, with the result that we started housekeeping, buying at Haverly's a complete three-room outfit of furniture and having it delivered at once upon a small cash payment.

"We are now just as happy as can be—and if you're a young couple who, like us, hesitated to go into debt, go to Haverly's and find out how easy it is to have a HOME OF YOUR OWN, even if you have little ready cash and can spare but small amounts of your wages.

The Atlanta Constitution Makes It Possible For You To Visit the Two Great Inexpensive and Exquisite This Year Held at San Francisco and San Diego

DESCRIPTION OF CONSTITUTION TOUR NO. 3, AND ITINERARY, GIVEN IN DETAIL BELOW

HOW YOU CAN OBTAIN A TRIP

The plan evolved by The Atlanta Constitution whereby you can take one of these wonderful trips as outlined is as simple in understanding as it is easy of execution. Although The Constitution has a large circulation, there are some who at present are not subscribers. They want the Daily and Sunday Constitution, but have put off ordering from day to day. The Constitution desires your assistance in locating and placing these people on its subscription list, and for this favor you are to be liberally rewarded.

Points will be given on each new subscription payment to The Atlanta Constitution according to the schedule given below and after you have obtained the required number of points a wonderful trip to the greatest of all expositions will be yours.

You may nominate yourself or a friend as a candidate for one of these trips. The names of all candidates nominated will be published in The Daily Constitution from time to time, giving their respective standing.

Each candidate on nomination will be credited with 100 points free, and will be provided with an authorized Constitution receipt book. These receipt books may be had by applying to the Circulation Department of The Constitution. Each candidate obtaining one of these free tours may take the trip to San Francisco any time during 1915 he or she may desire. The exposition opens on February 20, and closes December 4, 1915.

Special arrangements have been made with the McFarland Tourist Agency to furnish the various trips we are offering and the starting point of all of the successful candidates will be Atlanta. If you want to go to the exposition this is your opportunity. Send in your nomination at once and request The Constitution Receipt Book.

NOTICE—Only one entry blank will be allowed and credited to each candidate.

In each one of the trip offers, Numbers 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, we have tried to state clearly, yet briefly, just exactly what a candidate may depend upon.

Trip No. 5, in our opinion, is the most desirable, and we have put it first. Trips Numbers 1 and 2 are practically the same—No. 2 giving stop-overs and furnishing meals, as stated therein. No. 1, however, being a direct route to San Francisco with six or seven days there and back direct to Atlanta.

Trip Numbers 3 and 4 are really one and the same. No. 4 is for inside rooms, No. 5 being for outside rooms. Outside rooms being most desirable, cost considerably more. We make it in two offers, however, so that a person can decide which he most desires to work for.

In order that the participants may be able to earn extra spending money, the following offer is made:

Anyone who has secured enough points to win any one trip may earn spending money on the following basis:

For an additional 800 points . . . $25.00 cash
 For an additional 1,700 points . . . $50.00 cash
 For an additional 2,550 points . . . $75.00 cash
 For an additional 3,400 points . . . $100.00 cash
 And additional cash payments on the same basis.

For this sail we will use the new Pacific steamer "GREAT NORTHERN," the finest ocean-going steamer ever built in the United States. This ship is 515 feet in length, with a tonnage of 12,000 and accommodations for 1,000 people. Passengers will have dinner at sea or sail between Portland and San Francisco, where coffee is given five days in advance of leaving time.

The grandeur and magnificence of the huge exhibition palaces and the Grand Court of Honor stand as the "University of Delicacies." Unlimited food, first class, heavy, splendid. Life Art, Grandeur—everywhere. Including Golden Gate Park, established for eight miles at the renowned Argonaut Hotel, where you will be made to feel "at home" in every way. We give our party following set of services: side trips while here: "Muir Woods" via the crooked, ancient railway in the world's "Big Trees" in California. After seeing trip of San Francisco, including Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Seal Rocks, Trip to Oakland, University of California and Berkeley.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, the land of perpetual sunshine and flowers, will be visited from our luxurious train of reclining chair cars, with stops at many points of interest, including Santa Cruz and San Marcos, during a daylight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The route of our train will include the Pacific Coast line, parallel the ocean for twenty-five miles, and in some instances perched on the edge of a cliff. This route will include the most picturesque scenery of California, as well as the great fruit growing section.

LOS ANGELES, the "City of the Angels" will have our party for three days, giving a complete tour of the many interesting places in this section. No city in the West offers more in a variety of things, which are varied, historical and beautiful. Lodging for our party will be furnished at the famous Hotel Beverly.

One day will be spent on a driver of surprising beauty, and a visit to the mountains from Los Angeles.

ARRIVE IN THE MEX, then 25 miles along the ocean shore, visiting ten beaches and eight cities, with free admissions to many attractions at these places. We have selected this trip together with the Catalina Island sail, which is taken from this city, as two of the most delightful side trips that we give the members of our parties.

CATALINA ISLAND, one of the famous resorts of the world, will be included as part of our tour, and will be a trip of surpassing interest. One entire day will be spent on this island and will be taken into a land of perfect enchantment. Here is located the famous resorting gardens of the Pacific coast, which may be viewed from the Catalina boat.

SAN DIEGO—Two days will be spent here at the "Emporium of the West." This exposition has been building since six years, every building will be covered with a wealth of flowers, vines and tropical plants. Huge palms, weighing 70 tons will decorate the grounds. Nearly three million specimens of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers will beautify in harmonious variegated colors. Buildings of the latest design, San Diego is the oldest city in California, and many traces of its Spanish origin still remain in its streets and ruins. The party will be given lodging at the newly named San Diego Hotel. The trip to Mexico will be made from here.

MEXICO will naturally be a point of great interest to our tourists, and we have arranged to furnish our entire party with a special trip to Tijuana Mexico, where many points of interest will be seen, including Revolucion Monument. For some of recent battles, curio shops, customs, etc.

SALT LAKE CITY—One day will be spent in Salt Lake City, applying at the Knott Hotel. Here, beside a dead sea, is a variety of many attractions. In Temple Square, which is surrounded by a great stone wall, is the great Temple of the Salt Lake City, the finest building in the world. In the temple is the greatest pipe organ built by man. The organ is arranged for visitors.

YELLOWSTONE PARK TOURS—SPECIAL TOURS may be made as a side trip on any of our tours. For a five-day tour of the park, which will include all necessary expenses from Salt Lake City, add $46 to the cost of any of our tours, or $160 extra points.

PIKE'S PEAK AND CRYSTAL PARK—Two famous side trips at Colorado Springs are Pike's Peak and Crystal Park. The Pike's Peak trip is made by cog railway at a cost of $5 for the round trip, or 200 points extra.

The Crystal Park trip is via automobile at an altitude of a mile and a half, giving a 30-mile ride into the Rockies. Like a glimpse of Switzerland, for only $3, or 150 points extra.

All are desirable trips, but space will not permit description of each tour. Anyone interested can obtain the desired information by calling on or writing to the Circulation Department of The Atlanta Constitution.

The greater part of all the expenses of all the trips offered by The Constitution are paid with the exception of No. 1. This is a great opportunity for you to secure almost wholly an expense-paid trip to San Francisco and return. It is an opportunity that you should not neglect, and it is one that may never be presented to you again under like circumstances.

We want to have it understood that our guests who like the Northern trip may have an opportunity to visit Yellowstone Park on their return trip. It is not included in our offer. This side trip will cost $65.00 extra, or 1,800 additional points, as fully explained in the description of trip No. 2.

Pike's Peak will cost $5.00 extra, or 300 extra points, and Crystal Park will cost $2.00 extra or 150 extra points.

Candidates are to understand that this is not a contest and the winning of a trip by one candidate in no way involves the winning of another candidate. There are enough trips for all, and any person who obtains enough points, as outlined above, will receive a trip regardless of the work accomplished by other candidates.

Any candidate who secures one-half of the required number of points to earn one of these trips and who is unable to continue the work, will be given credit for that number of his or her points registered, and can, by paying the difference in cash, receive the trip offered; or any candidate who fails to win a trip will be paid a cash bonus of 10 per cent if the amount of new business is under $100.00, and 20 per cent if the amount of new business exceeds $100.00 of his or her total collections on new subscriptions.

The Constitution does not expect anything for nothing, nor does it desire to involve the good people of this vicinity in any plan resulting in remuneration for some and loss for others. By this plan the candidate is at least sure of the consolation, although one of the trips is easily within his or her reach.

This subscription proposition is based purely on new subscriptions. Points will not be given on old subscriptions. Any combination of circumstances by which The Constitution does not gain a new subscription will be classed as old. Any candidate who has already been a subscriber, or who has discontinued his paper and sent to a different member of the family or a different person entirely, and the paper sent to the family, yet at the same time taking the place of the old subscriber in order to receive the points, will be considered as old. Points will be continued for the first offense and barred from being a participant for the second offense.

The Constitution is making this most liberal offer for new subscriptions, and new subscriptions only. Send in your nomination at once and request a Panama Canal or Yellowstone Park opportunity from the Circulation Department of The Constitution, and two expositions and the many other points of interest as outlined above.

FOUR AMERICAN STARS THIS WEEK AT GRAND

Dainty Marguerite Clark in "The Goose Girl" Starts a Good Week's Program.

The program at the Grand this week will feature four star American players—Marguerite Clark, Max Fierman, Lolita Robertson and Edward Abeles. Monday and Tuesday will be featured Miss Clark in "The Goose Girl," from the famous novel of the same name by Harold McGraw. This is a romantic story of love and adventure with a kidnapped princess as the heroine and the king of a neighboring country as the hero. Miss Clark plays the stolen princess brought up by peasants to tend their flock of geese.

Miss Fierman, supported by Lolita Robertson, in "The Truth Wagon," will be the Grand's feature Wednesday and Thursday. This is a story of love and politics and newspapers in which there are many startling climaxes and spectacular incidents.

Edward Abeles in an American story almost universally known. He will be featured at the Grand Friday and Saturday in a new Paramount production, "After Five." This is a play of unusual merit and the combination makes a photo-drama that is destined to induce such much comment.

B. LEE SMITH MADE GENERAL MANAGER

Directors of The Strand Unanimously Select Him for Responsible Position.

B. Lee Smith was elected secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Strand theater at a meeting of the stockholders held Friday. Mr. Smith has had charge of the "House of Quality" for the past month as manager, and has made such a splendid showing that he was unanimously elected to the responsible position by the stockholders. The entire management and operation of Atlanta's handsome movie house has been placed in his hands, and the public is assured of the best to be had in the movie line at this house.

"I believed the people wanted a program of high-class character," said Mr. Smith in discussing the management of the house. "and I am satisfied that the public, which, in my opinion, is the peerless, will have eliminated features to a great extent, giving instead a variety of subjects of the highest type of production."

"I am striving to give each day at least one picture that will appeal especially to children, but which will be of the same high class as the well-known pictures that will carry a lesson that will tend to make the youngsters think and act on the thought."

LILLIAN RUSSELL

Celebrated star will be presented in film version of "Wildfire" at the Montgomery Thursday and Friday, January 28 and 29.

The five-part photo-drama, "Wildfire," wherein Lillian Russell plays the leading role of Henrietta, is a production of the highest quality. It gives the celebrated actress the opportunity of making a phenomenal success on the screen.

Miss Russell's popularity with the amusement-going public is hardly to be overestimated in wood. Her stage successes and her beauty for a period of thirty years have made her one of the greatest box office attractions in the world. "Wildfire" is a picture of the greatest box office attractions in the world. "Wildfire" is a picture of the greatest box office attractions in the world.

On Thursday of this week the Savoy will present a special three-reel L-KO comedy entitled "After Her Millions," with Billie Richa, Gertrude Selby and H. Pathe Lehman in the cast. This is said to be one of the funniest comedies ever produced.

Gertrude Selby, as the little million-airess rolls into the picture in her big automobile with her arms full of money. Henry (Pathe) Lehman and Billie Richa both seek the acquaintance of the little millionairess. Henry falls in love with her approval, but Billie remains loyal to an altruistic feeling from the big automobile. Henry comes himself with a beautiful picture of the little millionairess again.

Exciting Auto Chase In "The Master Key" At Alpha Monday

The eighth episode of the "Master Key" to be shown Monday at The Alpha, is full of interesting scenes. While Kane is telling Ruth of affairs at the mine, Willerson and his associates send her a coded note and induce her to go with Kane in an automobile. Kane leaves her from their clutches. She is released on bail after being held for Pell's death. An exciting auto chase follows, caused by the fact that the missing deeds to the mountains are found by an Indian in an alley.

On Tuesday the management will present "The Island of Happiness," a five-reel number, featuring Dolma Matson and Ray Gallagher as a young married couple. He becomes attracted to a neighbor, and his wife leaves him to become a nurse in a leper colony. Their meeting later is very dramatic, his wife planning to expose him to the disease as a matter of revenge, and then rethinking, in the end, both return to the island. This picture is a good example of the best that is sometimes made under the love of man and wife. The presentation is a strong one, and the photography is good.

VIOLANO-VIRTUOSO GRAND INSTRUMENT

One of the most wonderful instruments of this age is the Violano-Virtuoso which will be exhibited at the Montgomery theater all this week.

One of the most wonderful instruments of this age is the Violano-Virtuoso which will be exhibited at the Montgomery theater all this week. The instrument is an automatic violin with piano accompaniment which plays the most difficult music with the same ease and beautiful expression. Many representative pieces of music are included. The instrument this week at the Montgomery theater is a concert model and plays equally well the classic or popular music of the day.

ANSWERS TO MOVIE FANS

Owing to the number of queries received and the somewhat limited space allowed for answers, it is not always possible to print information as rapidly as the writers desire, as the letters must be answered in turn. All, however, receive careful attention.

Address all queries to Moving Picture Editor. Questions considered as ridiculous will not be answered. Questions regarding responsibility will be answered to the best of our knowledge, but we are not responsible if mistakes are made.

Susan: No, it was not her child. She hasn't any children.

Miss L. Thornely: Clark was not playing a part when hit by the auto. Listen to "The Champion for Bachelors," which is shown at the Grand.

Bill: Florence LaBadie is 31; Marguerite Clark is 24; Grace in "The Grand Parade" is with the Universal company.

Lois: You are much mistaken regarding Leah Baird. She is not King Beckett's wife. None of the others you mention are married. Yes, I think Cleo Madison is a very clever actress.

Fan: The scenes in the picture were filmed in California. Alice Joyce is married to Thomas Moore.

Mrs. B. H. M. Miss Lillian Russell is not married. James Crane is married to Marguerite Snow. Florence Lawrence has left the Universal company.

John K.: George Larkin is now probably with the Halton company. You probably know the name of the picture.

M. H. H.: Part of the time Mary Pickford lives in New York, and part of the time in California. I know nothing about the company you mention.

Larry: No, Flora Finch is not the wife of John Bunny. Pearl White is not married. James Crane is with the Essanay company.

D. T.: Herold Lockwood is with the Famous Players company and at the present time in California. Mary Pickford is married to Owen Moore.

NEW RELIANCE SERIAL CONTINUES TO PLEASE

"Runaway June," the new Reliance serial, continues to please the patrons of the Strand, where it is shown in Atlanta, the second installment being stronger and more interesting than the first, which was commended to be the best serial screen drama ever shown in an Atlanta movie house.

In the mad chase after the escaped convict, there are many opportunities for action and thrills and every one seems to have been taken into the picture by the producers. New characters have been added and the plot grows more exciting as each foot of film is unrolled. The bride continues to change her gown on the occasions required. Each change lends an added charm to the warner and a thrill of delight to the feminine spectators. The "Runaway June" will prove decidedly the most popular serial ever run in Atlanta.

"Runaway June," the mysterious, has shown a remarkable transformation, the mystery having been eliminated to a certain extent, while the action is more thrilling than ever. The picture followed until it is a battle of wills between the two characters, the race track possession of fabulous wealth.

"Runaway June" is the center of attraction on Fridays at the Strand.
