W. B. HARRISON
CHAIRMAN POLICE
BOARD WILL MARCH

After Eleven Months' Deadlock, Commission Finally Elects, Winner Getting Seven Votes.

VICE SQUAD IS NO MORE,
SAYS MAYOR WOODWARD

The Plainclothesmen, With Fourteen Detectives, to Don Uniforms and Compose New Watch.

When Commissioner Baskin walked into the police board meeting last night and took his seat, it was the first time a full meeting of the board has been in session since last April. Then, following a vote of 10 to 2, a police board chairman ended in an agreement that no chairman would be elected unless a full board was elected. Commissioner Andy King took advantage of the opportunity to elect, and immediately moved that the election of a chairman be taken up.

The Woodward faction, realizing that defeat was staring it in the face, determined to elect a chairman. King's resolution, but only mustered four votes against it.

Commissioner W. B. Fain on the first and only ballot was named chairman. The vote stood: Fain 7, Commissioner R. T. Pace 4 and Commissioner J. H. Baskin 1. Commissioner Fain was declared elected, having marshaled a majority of the twelve votes.

For eleven months the board has been without a chairman. Mayor Woodward, by virtue of his office, acting chairman.

Last night's ballot was for Fain, King, Dickson, Latham, Smith, Vernon, Baskin and Harrison for Fain, Woodward, Johnson and Clarke; for Vernon, Ganser and Pace.

It was Commissioner Vernon's vote that gave Commissioner Fain the required majority to elect. Commissioner Baskin's right to vote was not questioned, although Thursday afternoon a council meeting Councilman J. M. Baskin took the position that Mr. Baskin was not a member of the police board, as he had moved from the first ward.

Chairman Fain will hold office through the March meeting, when the board again reconvenes. The new faces will be seen on its roster. The winning ballot last night was No. 1.

When Mayor James G. Woodward, with a stroke of his pen, amended the financial sheet Tuesday morning and general council and the aldermen board passed the sheet Tuesday afternoon, that stroke of Mayor Woodward's pen abolished Police Chief James L. Beavers' widely known vice squad.

EMPIRE LIFE PLACED IN HANDS OF WRIGHT

Insurance Commissioner in Charge of Affairs Until Decision by Fulton Court.

Insurance Commissioner William A. Wright, who recently filed an appeal in Fulton superior court admitting the contention in the case of James R. Brown, agent of the Empire Life Insurance company that the principal office of the company was in Atlanta, and not in Augusta, filed up the intervention by filing an independent bill in Fulton superior court.

The bill filed by the insurance commissioner alleged that the condition of the company was such as to constitute a hazard to its policyholders and that for lack of funds the company was unable to pay death claims, cash surrenders, policy loans and other payments in the absence of Judge Ellis, who recently ruled that the plaintiffs in the Brown bill were entitled to a receiver under the allegations of their petition. The insurance commissioner presented his petition to Judge John T. Patterson, who is sitting in the absence of Judge Ellis, and directed the insurance commissioner to file a bill in the case of the Brown bill, which was filed in the name of the insurance commissioner.

The bill was filed by the insurance commissioner, and the case was set for trial on February 12, at which time the insurance commissioner will be heard by the court.

Christobel's Last Moments on Earth Were Very Exciting

Christobel last night was for sale at the Atlanta meat market, her mortal coil having been shuffled off for her by the slaughterer yesterday, but nothing in this life business was so much as the leaving of it. Indeed, her last acts may be said to have been brilliant, as bovine deeds and conduct.

She passed through the heart of the city with a great following, and out Marietta street she seemed to have a premonition of a last chance for excitement slipping from her grasp. She made a trotting automobile her excuse for bolting up the street and down the floor of 572 Marietta street, where she stuck her head out of a window and belched at the maddening throng below.

Three hours elapsed before Christobel was dissected from the world. This was done when Kattlemen Howard, a pulley and rope with which she was lowered to the sidewalk out of the window.

Great Singing Evangelist Puts His Unique Signature On Atlanta Hotel's Register

On the register at the Majestic hotel is this signature:

"Charles M. Alexander, II. Timothy 2:15"

That's how the great "singing evangelist," soon to stir Atlanta with his gospel hymns, always writes his signature. When you see the signature of Charles M. Alexander, II. Timothy 2:15, you will know that he has made a pledge to use the text wherever and whenever he writes his name.

And thereby hangs this story, as told Tuesday by Mr. Alexander himself, soon after his arrival in Atlanta, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Alexander.

"I was spending my holiday with a young man in an American town and we agreed to adopt II. Timothy 2:15 as our year text—a text on which to shape our whole life for the rest of that year. Our bedrooms adjoined, and we were so fond of each other that we slept with the door open between the rooms. When we went to bed, instead of calling out good night, we used to sing out II. Timothy 2:15, and whichever of us awoke first in the morning, would rouse the other with II. Timothy 2:15."

For Aid of Human Derelicts League Asks Better Facilities

Plans are under way by the Christian League for enlarging the scope of the work that has been done and is being done to help men who have lost a grip on life. This league was organized by a small band of Christian men who believed that there were many for whom there seemed to be little hope in life's derelicts, so to speak—who might be redeemed and transformed into useful citizens if they had just a little word of encouragement and a hand held out to them.

The institution, which is located at 105 1/2 North Avenue, can provide beds at night for 40 men, but during the day about 100 can be fed. But it is a "friendly sort of way" that it is daily made upon it. Many men, who are in life's derelicts, are turned over to the league—lost souls, but just a chance to get decent and have hope and courage take the place of despair.

Last year nearly one thousand men were taken care of, many of whom have started out in life again and are making good. The motto of the institution has been: "To help a man to help himself."

Moving Spirit of Proposed Organization.

His parents, residing in French territory occupied by Germans, are anxious of his fate, but relatives in Atlanta have been officially informed that Henri Lordean, former Atlanta youth and graduate of the French National School of Arts, lies in an unmarked grave near the battlefields of Ypres, where he was slain in the great battle which has been given the name of that village.

Because of the lack of mail and communications with native inhabitants of the lower French territory occupied by the Germans, his parents do not know of his death. Charles Lordean, an uncle living at 114 Ponce de Leon avenue, has been officially notified by the French government.

Up until the opening of the European war, the slain youth had been in charge of the Southern Porto Concrete company in construction of plants in Jacksonville and Atlanta. He made his home with the family of Charles Lordean on Ponce de Leon avenue. He had been a resident of Atlanta three years. He was only 22 years of age.

Young Lordean was a native of France and a civil engineering graduate of the National School of Arts at Chalon. He was a very capable and quite popular with a wide circle of friends. Immediately at the beginning of the war across the sea he enlisted with the 43d regiment of infantry on the eastern French battlefields.

He was slain in the trenches on December 8.

Plan Syrup Refinery.

Tifton, Ga., February 9.—(Special.)—Tifton will have a syrup refining plant in the very near future if plans now under way are put through successfully. Three local men are interested.

In the plant, and though they have not perfected their plan, they believe that they will have their plant in operation in time to handle the syrup crop of 1911.

These Are the Flags of France, Belgium and Rumania

Here they are as they appear in black and white. There is absolutely no difference in them. To all intents and purposes they are identical.

But suppose we should add the proper colors to each, the sameness would immediately be lost, and each flag would stand out as an individual, a striking representative of what it stands for.

Now, do you see the analogy to the use of paint in advertising? Color is truly distinctive, gripping, interesting; it possesses a psychological attraction that cannot be eluded.

Color means power in advertising; and Bulletin Boards are the most powerful of all colored display. Augment this Color value of Bulletin Boards with the advantages they possess in Size, Location, Persistency, Lack of Competition and Economy; and you have the ultimate in advertising, a combination of every feature that is best in publicity.

Let us talk to you.

the vote was made a narrow one. The board read into the constitution. Similar action was taken as to the revision of the player limit from 25 to 22, adopted at the December meeting. The New York club representatives tried to have the limit raised to 22, but that was voted down.
