Syracuse, N. Y., April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, went on the witness stand in the supreme court here today and testified in an effort to prove his contention that he was justified in causing the publication of a statement on which William Barnes sued him.

Under oath, Colonel Roosevelt said that the former chairman of the republican state committee had urged him not to antagonize men of large business interests who contributed to both the democratic and republican parties so that they would be protected.

not make contributions to the party, failing to protect them, and that without such contributions it was impossible to carry on the organization. Without organization, leaders and bosses, the former president quoted Mr. Barnes as saying, party government would be impossible.

Colonel Roosevelt also quoted Mr. Barnes as telling him that "The people are not fit to govern themselves. They have got to be governed by the party organization, and you cannot run a party organization, you cannot have leaders

Colonel Roosevelt was called to the stand as a witness for the plaintiff after a technical question of proper identification of the plaintiff and defendant had been brought up by the lawyers. He was asked just one question. That was whether he was defendant in the action. He replied the affirmative and was then made witness in his own behalf.

Colonel Sketches Career.

The colonel sketched his political career, and with considerable pride discussed the regiment of Rough Riders he organized for service in the Spanish war. He told where the recruits came from, where they gathered, where they went and just what they did. He even described the first brush with the Spanish forces and would have related orders he had given the men and him had not counsel for the plaintiff objected. Then he gave detailed testimony about his relations with the late Senator Thomas C. Platt, with John Barnes and conversations he had with

Colonel Roosevelt talked to the counsel for both sides, offered suggestions and entered into a discussion of more than one point with Justice William Andrews, presiding, whom he addressed as "Judge." He was entirely at his ease. He cut all his words off shortly, except when he mentioned the name of Mr. Barnes. He drew out the name of his opponent and put a peculiar pronunciation upon the last syllable.

Mr. Barnes himself appeared much interested in the first part of Colonel Roosevelt's testimony. As it progressed, however, the plaintiff in the action seemed to lose interest and

Mr. Barnes' attorneys had rested before Colonel Roosevelt was called to the stand. They completed presentation of their case in twenty minutes.

When the colonel's name was called, he arose from his seat at the table occupied by his counsel and smiling walked to the witness chair.

Mr. Barnes changed his seat so he could watch his opponent while he was telling of the work of the Rough Riders in Cuba.

Lehman on the Press.

At the afternoon session the members were addressed by Frederick W. Lehman, former solicitor general of the United States. Mr. Lehman in his address said:

The original attitude of the law toward the press was one of repression. It was a sovereign, and no printing press in the colony, and no newspaper in the United States, it was the general court of appeal, and its appearance, the first newspaper after a period of silence, was a sign of the new United States.

The eighteenth century brought with it an increasing sense of individualism, and the press, which had been a sovereign, was now a subject, and its appearance, the first newspaper after a period of silence, was a sign of the new United States.

With a membership like yours, distributed throughout all the states of the union, representing every political and every variety of opinion, and with an industrial interest, there is but one thing, of course, possible, and that is, to manage its affairs, and that is a good object approved by substantial members of the association.

There are two possible systems of news gathering, one to deal with it as a purely commercial enterprise, and the other by a co-operative institution, like the Associated Press, in which any element of immediate profit to the association itself is excluded from the account.

FRANK'S ATTORNEYS CONFER ON APPEAL

Thought That No Time Will Be Lost in Taking Last Step in Fight for the Condemned Man's Life.

The first active step toward the appeal in the prison commission and governor to spare the life of Leo Frank, held between the condemned man's lawyers in the office of Leonard Haas in the Fourth National Bank building, Luther Rosser and Heben Arnold, chief counsel for Frank, in the actual conference were Harry A. Alexander, Leonard Haas and Herbert Haas. To appeal to the commission will be drawn up at once and will be taken to the prison organization as early as possible.

It has not definitely been decided whether or not the last firm of the Peoples & Jordan, which introduced the constitutional allegation into the Frank case, carrying it to the supreme court, will take an active part in the appeal. They were concerned only with the federal phase of the case.

The connection of the two Peoples & Jordan firm virtually ended when Henry Peoples concluded his argument several months ago. An additional legal expert has been the case since that time, Louis Marshall, a federal law expert of New York, who gave assistance to Frank's counsel when the case was carried into the Washington court.

Date for Appeal Not Fixed.

The time for filing the prison commission plea has been definitely fixed. Harry A. Alexander, who will direct the fight, said Tuesday that he did not know whether it would be in the next forty-eight hours or within a week or so. It will be filed as soon as possible, however.

It has been definitely decided by counsel that all legal effort will be concentrated upon the plea before the governor and prison board, and that no more will be made to secure a rehearing before the Washington court.

GERMANY IS SILENT ABOUT VON BREITENSTOFF

Washington, April 20.—Secretary Bryan said today that the United States never had been officially informed where the memorandum submitted recently to the state department by Count von Breitenstoff, German ambassador, on the question of the authority of the German government to hold that the United States had not incurred on that point and any reply would be made.

GILLY THE GOPHER BEFORE VICTROLA PINING FOR OPERA

"Canned opera is better than none at all," says Gilly the Gopher, "and when a fellow develops such an appetite for the real thing, he can't wait another minute this sort of a diet helps some."

Since Mr. Gilly arrived in the city for opera week he has been reading and talking and thinking about opera much more than he just could stand it any longer. So last night when the fair ladies would move back the curtains and take up the rug to trip the light fantastic, with Mr. Gilly, he would have had a bit of it.

"Bull the Jack" and "The Memphis Blues" were relegated to outer darkness, and the dust was brushed off the quartet from "Higolito." The old victrola thrilled once more to the strains of the Barcarole, and Mr. Martini, the new Italian tenor, who takes Caruso's place in Atlanta this year, had a trout.

Pretty Young Woman Worked Smooth Game By Hard Luck Story

Police Chief Beavers has issued instructions to his patrolmen to be on the lookout for a pretty young woman who has been playing a cunning game in Atlanta to get citizens to give her large sums of money.

The young woman, according to the police records, will walk into the office of a prominent business man and proceed to tell him of her husband's troubles, saying that her husband is preparing to throw her out of her house that very day unless she can pay her month's rent.

Pleading for help and with tears in her eyes she usually brings forth a $10 or $20 bill from Mr. Business Man and the young woman walks out of his office wiping the tears from her eyes and thanking her benefactor.

One shrewd Atlanta business man, who had handed over $10 in such a

NELSON LEFT FORTUNE FOR PUBLIC BENEFIT

After Death of Widow and Daughter the Estate Is to Be Used for Uplift Purposes.

Kansas City, April 20.—The will of the late William R. Nelson, owner of the Kansas City Star, provided today, makes the widow and Mrs. Laura Nelson Kirkwood, their daughter, trustees for life for the greater part of his property.

The instrument provides that they shall have the income, but the principal is to be kept intact for the creation after their death, of a fund, the proceeds of which, after paying for any children that may be born to Mrs. Kirkwood, are to be used for the public benefit.

A farm of 1,700 acres in Jackson county, Mo., is not said to be a model institution for thirty years in instructing members in stock raising and farming.

On the death of both Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Kirkwood the management of the property is to be placed in the hands of a board of trustees appointed by the president of the University of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The real estate is to be managed by the trustees under the name of "The William R. Nelson Trust."

It is provided that the net income from the property shall be used for the purchase of works and reproductions of the work of fine art, such as paintings, engravings, sculpture, tapestries, rare books, the purpose being to contribute to the employment of the public generally, and also to the work of reproductions of the work of art.

The trustees are to be paid for their services at a rate of $10,000 a year. ## FEARING HYDROPHOBIA, HE HANGED HIMSELF

Trenton, N. J., April 20.—Fearing death from hydrophobia, John Jucka, a gardener of this city, committed suicide yesterday by hanging. Several years ago Jucka saved several school children from the attack of a mad dog, and in so doing was badly bitten himself.

He was treated at the time, but every spring, on the anniversary of the attack, he has acted queerly, and yesterday, thinking he was going mad from the effects of the dog's bite, he ended his life.

Pay a Visit to Muse's To See This English Plaid Suit $35

Audacious is the innovation of plaids this spring season. Strikingly youthful—if we may explain the universal acceptance.

The fires of youth are unquenchable once such an English plaid as this is donned.

The New Suits Came Yesterday They are exquisitely marked in broad English overplaids—delicate shades of gray, with fine overlines of darker shades.

Tailored in the Pink o' Perfection Every line is perfectly matched in seams and collar joinings. English coat and trousers—athletic vest—five buttons—patch pockets throughout. Truly a suit "fit for a king."

"Four L'Opera"

Here Is an Extract From the Paris Fashion Letter Received by Our New York Office Last Week---It Might Well Be Used as a Resume of What We Have Gathered for Opera Week

"AFTERNOON AND EVENING GOWNS— Simplicity is the note for these. Logically the new 'line' had to cause the revival of another style which the dressmakers anyhow were trying to bring back since a couple of seasons ago."

"MATERIALS—laces, laces, and still laces. We cannot emphasize enough how much they are used, in flouncings as well as in narrow widths, in white, cream, black and white, cream and white, in silver and gold, plain and embroidered, flat or draped, for waists and for skirts, veiled or veiling, used alone or in combinations with other tissues. Lace is the material. Then come soft satin, chiffon, faille (plain or brocade) and tulle as the materials mostly used."

"As deserving special mention, we did not want to mix into the above material descriptions the note which we never saw as much used as this season. Whether plain or with metal embroideries, whether shagpled or with spangle and rhinestone motives, not is another fundamental feature of all the nice gowns."

The Ready-to-Wear Section assumes the role of a fashion guide and interpreter. The letter from which the above extract is taken comes with the stamp of Paris on it. It is authoritative; it is accurate. We have printed it because it tells in a general way what you will see here today. But for the particulars, the dresses themselves—we must admit that the real charm, the real glory of this collection of remains for the eyes of women—it is not to be told of.

Our Ready-to-Wear buyer spent the last two weeks in New York. He gathered bountifully, beautifully for Atlanta's opera week. So much so that now we can announce

We are more splendidly ready with correct, elegant fashions suitable for the festivities of opera week than in any season since Atlanta has enjoyed opera. We speak of afternoon and evening dresses priced at $15, $18.50, $25 to $50; of silk suits at $25 and upwards; of evening wraps at $15 and upwards.

Seeing is the thing! So take this as an invitation to spend a half an hour or so in the Ready-to-Wear Section today. See the hundreds of interpretations of the style-ideas mentioned in the above fashion letter.

He was there selecting styles and not picking up things the makers wanted to be rid of. The results are apparent—here are suits that women who follow the fashions want—the tailored styles, with little or no trimming, but so graceful and elegant in line and workmanship—in serges, in poplins, in men's wear materials. Values at $25.00 to $35.00!

"Four L'Opera"

Here Is an Extract From the Paris Fashion Letter Received by Our New York Office Last Week---It Might Well Be Used as a Resume of What We Have Gathered for Opera Week

"AFTERNOON AND EVENING GOWNS— Simplicity is the note for these. Logically the new 'line' had to cause the revival of another style which the dressmakers anyhow were trying to bring back since a couple of seasons ago."

"MATERIALS—laces, laces, and still laces. We cannot emphasize enough how much they are used, in flouncings as well as in narrow widths, in white, cream, black and white, cream and white, in silver and gold, plain and embroidered, flat or draped, for waists and for skirts, veiled or veiling, used alone or in combinations with other tissues. Lace is the material. Then come soft satin, chiffon, faille (plain or brocade) and tulle as the materials mostly used."

"As deserving special mention, we did not want to mix into the above material descriptions the note which we never saw as much used as this season. Whether plain or with metal embroideries, whether shagpled or with spangle and rhinestone motives, not is another fundamental feature of all the nice gowns."

The Ready-to-Wear Section assumes the role of a fashion guide and interpreter. The letter from which the above extract is taken comes with the stamp of Paris on

Bisland and Hiatt Fling Away Another Ball Game; Five Errors Their Quota

WILLIAMS TO GO

Mobile, Ala., April 20.—(Special.) Pitcher Roy Williams did not accompany the Atlanta team to Birmingham, but was sent home, and will, in all probability, be disposed of to some class B team.

By G. J. Plummer

Mobile, Ala., April 20.—(Special.)—Some ball was pitched on the part of the Atlanta team in the early stages of the last game of the series with the Mobile club, in which Shorty Bisland and Hiatt first threw the leading pair, was responsible for the loss of the game to the Braves. The score of the game was 10 to 3 in favor of the Braves.

Hiatt did not look right from the jump, and then the infield began to throw balls in every direction, followed by the big mass up. Mobile scored two runs.

Two more hits in the third and some wisdom on the part of Hiatt, who on the opening day here, looked like big league pitcher, was the cause of three more runs.

Peacock relieved Hiatt in the fifth, and he had only one bad inning, and that was in the seventh, when he hit Perry to start with, and a single and double that followed sent two runs across the plate.

How Localized Scored.
Atlanta scored their first run of the game in the second inning on a double by Moran, a sacrifice by Bisland and a single by Hiatt.

The Cracker did not score again until the eighth, when four hits by Shorty, one run, in this inning the Braves hit twice, but a fast double play clipped them off.

In the ninth, after two were down, Sumner and Tullis stepped in succession, for Southern pulled Jackie off.
