

TRIAL OF LEO M. FRANK ON CHARGE OF MURDER BEGINS; MRS. COLEMAN, GEORGE EPPS AND NEW LEE ON STAND

BATTLE FOR AN HONEST ASSESSMENT OF TAXES BEGINS IN HOUSE TODAY

WATCHMAN TELLS OF FINDING BODY OF MARY PHAGAN

Trial Adjourns for the Day While Lee Is on the Stand, and His Cross-Questioning Will Be Resumed Today.

MOTHER AND THE WIFE OF PRISONER CHEER HIM BY PRESENCE AT TRIAL

Jury Is Quickly Secured and Mrs. Coleman, Mother of the Murdered Girl, Is First Witness to Take Stand.

With a swiftness which was gratifying to counsel for the defense, the solicitor general and a large crowd of interested spectators, the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan on April 26, in the building of the National Pencil factory, was gotten under way Monday.

When the hour of adjournment for the day had arrived, the jury had been selected and three witnesses had been examined. New Lee, the nightwatchman who discovered the dead body of Mary Phagan in the basement of the National Pencil factory, and who gave the first news of the crime to the police, was still on the stand, undergoing a rigid cross-examination by Luther Z. Rosser, attorney for Frank.

Lee Sticks To First Story.

When the trial resumed this morning, New Lee was again placed on the stand. It is not expected that anything new will be added from his testimony. Throughout the grueling cross-examination of Mr. Rosser Monday afternoon Lee stuck to his original story in minutest detail.

Questions that would have confused or befuddled a man of education failed to budge him from the statement he originally made to the police, and has repeated from time to time to reporters and court officials. The first day's proceedings of the Frank trial proved singularly free of the dramatic element or the unexpected in testimony.

There were touches of the pathetic, as, for example, when Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of the dead child, broke down and cried bitterly when she viewed the clothing of her little daughter; and there were touches of humor when the little Epps boy, who had ridden to town with Mary Phagan on the day of her murder, explained to Luther Rosser his method of telling the time of day by the sun, and of New Lee, who amused the courtroom by his quaint allusions and his negro descriptions of a tiny light in the basement of the pencil factory, which he likened to the gleam of a lightning bug, and of his quick return when Mr. Rosser purposely spoke of this insect as a June bug.

"I didn't say June bug—said lightning bug," contradicted New Lee. Careful Attention To Detail.

This brief excerpt is given as is.

DORSEY SATISFIED.

This was Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey's statement made last night. "Results obtained during Monday exceeded even the state's hopeful expectations. Progress was highly satisfactory, and the results achieved predict continued success throughout the case. We have all felt confident of victory, but now feel absolutely assured."

DEFENSE IS PLEASED.

This statement was made last night to a Constitution reporter by Attorney Reuben R. Arnold, associate counsel for the defense. "I am decidedly pleased with the first day's progress. The defense feels that great headway has been made toward victory. We feel assured that the success we experienced Monday will continue throughout the trial."

MINCEY, ON ARRIVAL REAFFIRMS AFFIDAVIT

W. H. Mincey, who made the famous affidavit in which he declared that Jim Conley had told him on April 26 that he had killed a girl, arrived late last night for the Frank trial. In a statement made to the Constitution, Mr. Mincey reaffirmed his affidavit in its entirety and declared that he would tell this story on the witness stand. He was accompanied by Colonel Ben E. Mehl of Kingsport, Ga., a lawyer who has known him for years and who states that he will testify as to Mincey's good character, should he be attacked.

ENGINEER SLAIN IN ROUNDHOUSE

Sam Jackson Shot and Almost Instantly Killed by W. D. Partee on Monday Afternoon. Sam Jackson, aged 40, a locomotive engineer on the Georgia railroad, was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon by W. D. Partee, also an engineer, in the local roundhouse of the railroad. The tragedy is shrouded in mystery, insofar as the cause leading up to it are concerned, all witnesses either being in ignorance of its origin or refusing to make statements. Men employed at the shop, however, admitted that the bullet striking Jackson was fired from a gun for some time, and some are of the opinion that the trouble is the result of differences over some social matter. The shooting took place between 4 o'clock, just after Partee had been on duty, alleged from the latter. He walked into the roundhouse, insofar as the cause leading up to it are concerned, all witnesses either being in ignorance of its origin or refusing to make statements. Men employed at the shop, however, admitted that the bullet striking Jackson was fired from a gun for some time, and some are of the opinion that the trouble is the result of differences over some social matter.

BURGLARS TRY TO ENTER HOME OF FRANK JUROR

But F. V. L. Smith's Wife Calls Police and Intruders Flee. Two big, burly, black negroes who evidently had taken a decided interest in the Frank murder trial, and knew that F. V. L. Smith, of 481 Cherokee avenue, had been chosen for the jury yesterday and would not be home last night, attempted to enter his home. No one was there but Mrs. Smith and her little 4-weeks' old child. Seeing the negroes on the porch, she made a step toward them, and they fled. Within a few minutes they returned, and instead of fainting as most women would have done, she coolly walked to the phone and called the police station.

BODY OF DEAD FISH IS BURIED IN COFFIN

The body of Will Harrison, a 40-year-old Georgia railroad fireman, who was killed yesterday at Kelliston, Ala., was buried in a coffin at the funeral home here this afternoon and carried to his home in Peach City. Two negroes riding on the engine at the time were badly scalded. Harrison was 33 years old, and is survived by a family.

BOMB FROM AEROPLANE TEARS HUERTA WARSHIP

Nogales, Ariz., July 28.—The Mexican federal gunboat Tampoco was destroyed today by a bomb dropped from an aeroplane over Guaymas harbor, declares an official insurgent message. It was said that Aviator Dieter Masson made three flights over the harbor before he succeeded in hitting the boat.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, summoned from Mexico City to inform the Washington administration of conditions in the rebellion-torn republic, talked for an hour with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan today, submitting chiefly recommendations that the United States use its influence to stabilize the Huerta regime.

No policy was evolved—at least none was announced—but it became known that the president's ideas and those of Ambassador Wilson's as to the course to be pursued are so radically different that administration officials here interpreted the day's developments as forecasting the acceptance of Ambassador Wilson's resignation.

President and Ambassador Wilson. Secretary Wilson and the ambassador regarded the future of the Mexican situation, it was learned, from opposite viewpoints. The president is conservative over the morality of the policy adopted by the United States here, and is affected on other Latin-American countries, and is disinclined to strengthen a government that came into being through the questionable events incident to Madero's assassination.

Governor's Message Taken to Indicate Veto of Appropriation Bill Should Equalization Fail.

DEFEAT OF MEASURE MIGHT NECESSITATE EXTRA SESSION CALL

Speaker Burwell Will Probably Take Floor Himself to Lead the Debate for State Board.

Upon the result of the battle for tax equalization, which will begin to be fought out on the floor of the house today, it is considered not unlikely that the calling or not calling of an extraordinary session of the general assembly by the governor this year will depend.

In a special message which Governor Slaton sent to the legislature yesterday he called attention to the fact that the general appropriation bill passed by the house last week for the year 1914 is $260,628 in excess of the estimated revenue for the current year.

The governor has had Comptroller General Wright calculate the amount of the appropriation bill, and he finds it to be $5,553,634. The comptroller's estimate of the total revenue of the state for this year is $5,672,005.

Must Provide Money to Pay. This taken as strongly indicating that the governor will not sign the appropriation bill unless the legislature, at the same time that it passes that measure to him, will have provided a means of raising the revenue which is necessary to meet it.

While it is true that several of the bills amendatory of the general tax act are calculated to make some increase in the appropriation by increasing in addition to the items of special taxation, there is a strong feeling in which there is every indication that the governor shies, that only a courageous and effective measure of tax equalization will save the state from the financial crisis which now threatens it.

That the remedy for the present situation clearly lies in the provision of additional revenue rather than in the reduction of the appropriation bill is indicated by the fact that, under the capable management of Chairman Whitcomb on appropriations, the appropriations had already cut out several items of expense to what they regarded as the "lowest" possible amount. Any further reduction of the appropriation bill would result in a partial paralysis of the state institutions, and it is feared that it might take years to recover from.

Another ominous fact to which the

WATCHMAN TELLS OF FINDING BODY

Witness of the careful attention to detail that Lee gave to his story. When the hour of 9 o'clock arrived, Pryor stood in front of the temporary courtroom building was cluttered with the usual throng of the morbidly curious. They huddled about the walls of the buildings like leathargic leeches, vainly trying to gain admission to the buildings, or buzzed about like bees, gossiping idly of the case.

Perfect order was maintained, however, and few were directly interested in the trial were allowed to enter the courtroom. All day long the crowd remained on the sidewalks gazing intently at the windows to the courtroom, spewing tobacco juice on the street, eagerly questioning every person who left the building.

Interest naturally centered on the appearance in the court of Leo M. Frank, the accused. If Frank had chafed under his confinement, his physical appearance before the fact he looked as fit physically as he did the day he was first arrested. He was dressed with scrupulous neatness in a gray suit of pronounced pattern, which was all the more conspicuous on account of his diminutive form. As he entered the courtroom he smiled cordially at several friends. The first person to whom he spoke was a woman employee of the pencil factory.

Next in interest was Mrs. Leo M. Frank, wife of the accused, who, up to this time, has been seen little in public. Mrs. Frank is an extreme type of attractive-looking young woman. During the progress of the trial she kept her eyes constantly fixed on Solicitor Dorsey. Her gaze was one of calm estimate. She seemed to be attempting to fathom his thoughts and to divine his purposes.

Mrs. Coleman

Efforts to show Mrs. Coleman's attitude toward Leo M. Frank by the state and efforts by the defense to show the dead girl's attitude toward little George Epps, the state's star witness, were testified to riding down town with her on the morning before she was found dead, were the first important items of testimony. At the trial of the state v. Leo M. Frank, charged with the Phagan girl's murder on April 26, was formally opened.

Both efforts were promptly blocked for the present time by the introduction of the testimony was started in regular form by the introduction of Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan, as the first witness for the state. During the preliminaries Attorney Reuben B. Arnold and Luther Z. Rosser, for Frank, tried to conceal the names of their witnesses for the state. Attorney Hugh M. Dorsey's objections were overruled by Trial Judge L. E. Rook, and they called and swore their witnesses as the state had done but a few moments previously.

In a come-back for this the defense asked the court to honor their demand which they previously secured by introducing the court to honor their demand and affidavits made by James Collins, the negro weaver, who made an affidavit incriminating himself and declaring he had aided Frank in disposing of the girl's body.

Solicitor Dorsey, after a conference with Frank A. Hooper, a brilliant criminal lawyer, advised him, outside a statement to the court stenographer in which he agreed to produce these affidavits and statements at the proper time, which he had made material. Defense Attorneys Ready. The case started promptly. A block of the courtroom crowded with witnesses and spectators, with the defense attorneys ready and willing to go to trial. Frank looked quickly about him as he came into the crowded room. He appeared as if he were perfectly unable to take in all at once the scene in the crowded hall. There was a general stir about the room as he entered, and as he made out the straining faces and angry eyes directed down upon him that he was the man for whom the crowd had gathered and at whom eyes were turned.

Frank's Esthetic Barroom. It was a few minutes after 10 o'clock when the veniremen had been divided into six panels and number of them excused on various legal grounds, that Frank was set into the courtroom by a deputy who had stayed with him in the barroom. Frank looked quickly about him as he came into the crowded room. He appeared as if he were perfectly unable to take in all at once the scene in the crowded hall. There was a general stir about the room as he entered, and as he made out the straining faces and angry eyes directed down upon him that he was the man for whom the crowd had gathered and at whom eyes were turned.

A quizzical smile came over his face. His eyes were partly hidden by the thick and slightly darkened glasses he wore, but his expression seemed to indicate that he was telling himself, "I am in appearance as if I had brought this stir and what can those people be thinking about it?"

At the mention of her daughter's fourteenth birthday, the mother broke down for the first time. It was not evident what had happened as she hid her face with her large fan and no one knew that she was gently sobbing until a minute later.

Tells of Girl's Death. Here followed questions and answers in which the mother told that Mary Phagan was a large and well developed girl for her size and that she was fair complexioned and decidedly pretty.

"Was she pretty or ugly?" the solicitor asked directly and yet in the kindly tone and with perfect composure. "She was pretty, mighty pretty," the mother replied.

"Did not she have dimples in her cheeks?" pressed the solicitor. "Yes, a dimple in either cheek," replied the mother.

Mrs. Coleman was then asked to describe the dress her child had worn on the morning when she bade her goodby and told her she was going to the pencil factory to draw her pay. A moment later an attaché of the solicitor's office had appeared out on the floor before the mother and when the jury clothes which the girl wore when her dead body was found.

"How long had it been since the girl had worked at the factory?" the solicitor asked, while his employee was unwrapping the bundle of clothing. "She had not worked there since the previous Monday," Mrs. Coleman replied.

The woman had been shading her eyes from the sun rays during the examination, and suddenly she removed it and applied the clothes. She had previously sobbed when telling of her daughter's age, and of the little personal traits about her, but when she perceived the garments the child had worn when she last kissed her goodby, little thinking it was forever on earth, a great shudder passed over her frame.

A burst of sobbing seemed to give her relief and when the deputy brought her a glass of water she recovered sufficiently to drink it and to thank him so quietly that her voice was again audible only a few feet away.

The mother's agony at the sight of her dead child's clothing was enough proof that she had identified them in the mind of the solicitor, and he declared that he had no more questions to ask.

Cross-Examination by Rosser. Luther Z. Rosser, for the defense, took up the unpleasant task of cross-examination.

"Is that Miss Mary's hat?" he asked in a kindly way as his great voice rugged bearing went permit. "Yes," sobbed the mother.

"How far do you live from a car shop?" asked Mr. Rosser. "About a block," she answered.

"Is there a store near where you live, where you buy your hats?" Mrs. Smith kept a store near her home.

"What time did Miss Mary leave home that Saturday morning?" "About a quarter to seven," the mother replied.

"Do you know whether she started out to walk or to catch a car?" "I think she caught a car," she answered.

"Do you know a boy named Epps?" asked Mr. Rosser, referring to the little newsie later put on the stand. "Yes," she answered.

"Did you not talk to a certain gentleman on May 1st?" began Mr. Rosser. "Yes," she answered.

"Your objection to the solicitor. I object to that as improper. He must give the name of the person and the place where she talked to him."

"I'm trying to find out the relation between Mary Phagan and George Epps," replied Mr. Rosser.

"Well, what this lady had to do to certain gentleman is immaterial to this case, unless the defense wishes to impeach her, and then they must give in detail the time and place of the conversation, as well as the person with whom she talked to."

"I'm not trying to impeach the witness, your honor," replied Mr. Rosser.

"Isn't it true Miss Mary told you she detected the Epps man?" "Yes," she answered.

"What someone said to her about some one else would tell you who killed Mary Phagan?" asked Mr. Rosser.

The attorney, Mr. Rosser, did something that he rarely ever does; he withdrew his question without a fight on it, and put it in another way to the mother.

3 o'clock on Sunday morning, April 27. When Mrs. Coleman was put on as the first witness she was apparently holding herself perfectly composed. She was dressed in a black mourning dress and wore a black hat and heavy veil which she threw back from her face.

The mother talked in a quiet, refined voice, that was at times inaudible to those who were seated far from the Phagan family is above the station in life from which come children of the poor.

Mrs. Coleman's Testimony. After answering the usual questions in regard to her relationship and place of residence, she began her testimony. "When did you last see Mary Phagan alive?" asked the solicitor.

Answer: "On the morning of April 26, at my home." Question: "What did she do that morning?" Answer: "She helped me with the general housework."

Question: "When did she get up on the morning of April 26?" Answer: "She got up about 11 o'clock and had breakfast right afterward."

Question: "What did she eat?" Answer: "She ate some cabbage and some bread."

Question: "Was that all?" Answer: "Yes, I think it was. I know it was."

Question: "What time did she leave home?" Answer: "About a quarter to 12."

Question: "How old was Mary Phagan?" Answer: "She was nearly 14 years on June 1. She would have been 14 on June 1."

"Yes," came the faint reply. "Yes," she answered, then she queried the attorney.

NUMEROUS WITNESSES CALLED IN FRANK CASE

List Indicates That Prisoner Is Prepared to Put Character in Evidence.

Numbers of witnesses were summoned to court by both sides and when the names were called so that all could be sworn it developed that scores of Leo Frank's friends had been called upon. From the fact that there is not a possibility of one in this number knowing anything of the crime, it appears that the defense has made preparation, at least, to put Frank's character in evidence and has secured those of his friends to testify for him.

The number of Frank's close friends who are expected that several will be used to support the claim which it is expected will be made that a party was going on at his house on the night of April 26. By this means an exact number of hours might be proved.

Frank's Fate Rests in Hands of These Twelve Men

"What did he do when you went to the second floor on Saturday, the 25th?" "He came to the door, rubbing his hands and saying he was sorry I had come so early. I told him I needed sleep, and he was sorry too. He said go out in town and buy a good time, because I needed it. I told him again that I needed sleep, and he said I needed a good time."

Possibly the one thing that stands out most prominently in the first day's proceedings of the Leo M. Frank trial was the dispatch with which the jury was selected and the examination of witnesses begun.

At this juncture a courtouse habitue who had followed the Phagan case from the hour of the discovery of the murder up through the last of the many developments, predicted that the selection of a jury would consume at least a day and a half. There were many reasons for this belief, chief of which was the wide-spread publicity the case has received.

The men drawn on the several panels of the jury were for the most part of the intellectual type whose minds were free of bias. Of those rejected, comparatively few were discarded because they had "formed and expressed an opinion."

He pointed toward the back door, and asked me to go with him and see what was in the office. I thought that as it was a holiday, some devilish boys were trying to play a joke on me. When I saw what it was, though, I got out of there."

He weighed the gravity of the situation there, were called upon to confront and their answers to the questions of the solicitor general were prompt and intelligent.

county, none has classed higher in intellectual fitness or physical appearance than the men who make up the Frank jury. The "low brow" is conspicuously absent from among the twelve men in whose hands the fate of Leo M. Frank rests.

"I watched him go across the street into the saloon, then went up and punched the clock." "Do you know where the body is said to have been found?" "Yes, sir—in the machine room."

ASKS TWENTY-DAY TEST FOR NEW CREMATORY

Disinterested Engineer Will Probably Be Secured to Act as Supervisor.

Chief John Jensen, of the sanitary department, declared Monday that he will demand a twenty-day test of the new crematory, and insisted that he will probably ask that a disinterested engineer be secured by the city to supervise the test.

The plant seems to be all that has been claimed by the destructor company. Chief Jensen said, "But it is not possible to tell merely by looking at it whether it is good enough to do what the city demanded in the specifications. It will have to be tested."

TWO SENATORS COME TO SOULE'S DEFENSE

Controversy Between the Solons Arises Over Introduction of Resolution for Prob.

A heated controversy has arisen over the introduction of a resolution in the house several days ago by W. H. Connor, of Spalding county, asking for an investigation of the charges made against President Andrew M. Soule, of the State Agricultural and Mechanical College, by Editor Robert Blackburn in the Southern Farmer-Farmer, published in Atlanta, Ga., on July 17, 1913.

Senator Foster, of the twenty-seventh, and Senator Hixson, of the thirty-seventh, introduced a resolution in the house Monday morning commending the work of President Soule, and deploring the fact that his name is being vilified.

JACKSON IS FORCED AS MINISTER AND MAN

Trustees of Juvenile Protective Association Hear His Side of Court Case.

The trustees of the Juvenile Protective association, meeting in a called session at the office of the secretary, Rev. Crawford Jackson, who is accused of making improper advances toward his young stepdaughter, Miss Louvina Durden, informally issued his character as a minister and a man, according to a statement issued by Rev. Mr. Jackson upon the close of the meeting.

Further than this, nothing could be gained, as the meeting was held in executive session, and each member pledged himself to secrecy.

Rev. Mr. Jackson had carefully prepared a typewritten statement of the facts in his side of the case.

After the meeting Judge Hammond stated that it was possible that another meeting of the trustees might be called, but he could not state definitely.

Public Spirit and Crackers

When you help your town, you help yourself—you make it a better place to live.

You can help Atlanta best by using Atlanta-made goods.

You can show a deal of first-class public spirit in the buying of crackers and biscuits, for instance.

If you could get a better cracker or biscuit by buying one that's made over seas, or a thousand miles from home, of course there would be a reason for patronizing far-away folk.

But, you can't do it. BLOCK'S Atlanta-made are the equal of the best that ever crossed a grocer's counter.

We believe in public spirit. But, we believe in Quality just as much. When you can combine the two, why not do it?

Take Nuxcara 3 Times a Day

One-half hour before each meal. Instant relief. Soon a permanent cure. And, once more, we eat what we want, when we want it and enjoy every morsel of the food.

BATTLE FOR AN HONEST ASSESSMENT

governor calls attention to his special message, and about which Controller General Wright gave warning in his annual report, the possibility of a decrease this year in the aggregate of assessments rather than a big increase—the only thing which has deferred the crisis, which has for several years been impending, to this time. Fifteen counties which had been heard from at the time that the governor wrote his message showed a net decrease of $130,000. Two more counties with increases have since been heard from, but the net loss of the seventeen so far reported still remains at $44,441.

Equal Assessments Desired.

"Equitable tax assessments, both for individuals and counties, should be the foundation of all. I cannot see what there can be any room for divergence of opinion on this. To effect such an equitable adjustment among the various counties of the state, so that all may pay in proportion to property value, a state board of equalizers is essential. Nothing else will meet the requirements and satisfy the reasonable demand for tax reform."

Debate Probably Be Long.

Just how much time will be consumed in the discussion of a vacancy among law makers want to be heard. It is not believed that there will be any early effort made to shut off debate on this subject, as the subject is so thoroughly threshed out on the floor of the house.

Governor Stanton's Message.

The portion of the message dealing with the last named subject is as follows: "The legislature in 1911 submitted a proposition to the voters of this state for the state wide referendum to its taxing power. Which amendment was adopted by the people. This amendment not only substituted the sum of $500,000 for $100,000, but also amended the constitution, and provided for the filling of a vacancy in the United States senate should one occur, in compliance with the federal constitution, making senators eligible for re-election to the office of governor to make a loan to drive over temporary deficiencies in the treasury, and the present condition of the state finances."

"You will observe from the opinion of the attorney general that any money borrowed in pursuance of this amendment of the constitution must be repaid out of the taxes levied for the year in which the loan is made, and further that the deficiency authorized by the amendment must be paid out of the taxes of the year. EDITED BY Dick Jemison

The Cracker's personal chances were checked in a terrific blow yesterday. It was announced that Captain Alpermann was out for the season. Appendicitis is the cause.

WHIFFS

Irreparable Loss.

WHITNEY Alpermann's loss to the Cracker at this stage of the pennant race is one that will most severely be felt. Whitney was to the Cracker what Charlie Stone was to the Gulls.

New Captain.

WALLIE SMITH has been named captain in place of Whitney. Smith has been playing since the season started and has shown a fine record.

Playing Good Ball.

DESPITE the fact that the last five games have been dropped, the team has been playing good ball. The last three games have been dropped by one-run margins.

No Yell Coming.

THE FANS have no yell coming just as long as the team plays up to the kind of ball that they have been playing.

New Pullers.

LOVE and Holz will join the Cracker today and then the Cracker will get some semblance of a batting line-up in the field again.

Still at it.

THE BROWNS of St. Louis may not be good for anything else, but as second-breakers they are doing well.

A Correction.

THE CONTROLLING board of motorcycle racing in the Federation of American Motorcyclists did not object to the running of the Marathon race last Friday night.

Fourteen Homer.

FOURTEEN home runs have been hit by the Cracker since the start of the season. Here are the players who have hit them.

Three in Row.

PAUL RISSER has won his third straight hit in the Cracker line-up. He is the only player who has done this.

Why the Growth?

THE EDITOR of the Rome Tribune has had the following to say about the growth of the Cracker in Atlanta for 1913.

With Rally.

JIT PARRY has been named as the new pitcher for the Cracker. He is a former player of the Atlanta Braves.

Bad News.

PEPPY CENTERIN, the veteran shortstop, around whom so much contention revolved last season when he was with the Cracker, is certainly ill.

Where They Play Today

Southern League: Atlanta vs. New Orleans. Atlantic vs. Memphis. Chicago vs. Boston.

Empire State League.

Albany vs. Utica. Watertown vs. Warren. American vs. Brainerd.

Georgia-Alabama League.

Phenix City vs. Gadsden in Lagrange. Ableson vs. Newnan.

Papps to Pirates.

Spokane, a hard-hitting right-hander, has been traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates for $5,000.

Alpermann Lost to Cracker for Season

Fifth Straight Is Dropped; Third by One-Run Margin; Wallop Hits Over the Fence

By G. J. Flournoy.

Mobile, Ala., July 28.—(Special.)—Atlanta got its afternoon, long-drawn-out game this afternoon, the locals winning out in a ninth-inning play. Coming last at this time, when the club is making a bid for the lead and fighting gamely, the blow is serious.

Fifth Straight Is Dropped; Third by One-Run Margin; Wallop Hits Over the Fence

By G. J. Flournoy.

Mobile, Ala., July 28.—(Special.)—Atlanta got its afternoon, long-drawn-out game this afternoon, the locals winning out in a ninth-inning play. Coming last at this time, when the club is making a bid for the lead and fighting gamely, the blow is serious.

New Captain.

WALLIE SMITH has been named captain in place of Whitney. Smith has been playing since the season started and has shown a fine record.

Playing Good Ball.

DESPITE the fact that the last five games have been dropped, the team has been playing good ball. The last three games have been dropped by one-run margins.

No Yell Coming.

THE FANS have no yell coming just as long as the team plays up to the kind of ball that they have been playing.

New Pullers.

LOVE and Holz will join the Cracker today and then the Cracker will get some semblance of a batting line-up in the field again.

Still at it.

THE BROWNS of St. Louis may not be good for anything else, but as second-breakers they are doing well.

BACON CONGRATULATED AS THE "BABY SENATOR"

Georgan Takes Oath for Fourth Time—First Senator Ever Elected by People.

Washington, July 28.—(Special.)—When Senator Bacon serves out the term on which he formally entered today he will have been in the senate thirty-two years.

Mr. Bacon is not only the first Georgian to be four times elected to the senate, but he is also the first man ever named at a popular election for the United States senate.

Mr. Bacon was escorted to the vice president's desk by his colleague, Senator Hoke Smith.

In presenting Mr. Bacon to be sworn, Senator Smith called attention to the fact that for twenty years the advocates of popular government have sought to have senators elected by the people and that recently a constitution amendment for this purpose was ratified by a sufficient number of states.

"On July 15," said Mr. Smith, "the first election was held under the new amendment and in the state of Georgia the people for the first time selected a United States senator at the ballot box."

"It is with pleasure that I bring to the attention of the senate the fact that without opposition the senior senator from Georgia received all the votes cast in this election, that his credentials are here, and have been read, and that he is here. I ask that an opportunity be given that he may qualify as elected."

A number of colleagues congratulated Mr. Bacon as the "baby senator" and hastened to assure him that if there was any information they could give him about senatorial customs and practices, just to call on them.

The humor of the situation appealed to them since Mr. Bacon is a shrewd senatorial customs and the most indefatigable champion of senatorial dignity and traditions in the chamber.

LEGISLATOR CONVICTED OF ACCEPTING BRIBE

Webster Springs, W. Va., July 28.—U. S. Rhodes, member of the lower branch of the West Virginia legislature, accused of accepting a bribe in connection with the recent contest for the seat of U. State Senator Ben A. Smith and Delegate Hans Deert and Dr. H. P. Ashby have been convicted and are now awaiting sentence.

FALL OF U. S. 2'S BLAMED ON BANKS

McAdoo Says Certain New York Banks Are Working to Depreciate Bonds to Defeat Currency Reform.

Washington, July 28.—Secretary McAdoo issued a statement tonight flatly charging that the decline of government 2 per cent bonds to 94 1/2—a new low record—was due "almost wholly to what appears to be a campaign waged with every indication of concerted action on the part of a number of influential New York city banks to cause apprehension and uneasiness about these bonds in order to help them in their efforts to defeat the currency bill."

Banks throughout the country own almost all the 2 per cent bonds. At the present price, however, the discrepancy between the market value and the issues of notes against the bonds is covered by what is known as the 3 per cent redemption fund, deposited by the banks with the treasury to care for retirements of national bank notes.

Secretary McAdoo announced it was his intention to charge off the present depreciation below par, but that the banks might continue to put in the bonds and in their statements of the comptroller of the currency, at any reducing material change in conditions should compel the adoption of another course.

Statement by McAdoo. In his statement Secretary McAdoo declared two per cent bonds at 94 1/2—notwithstanding their decline in the New York market and continued.

The idea seems to be that the country banks, which hold about two-thirds of the 2 per cent bonds, are using them as the basis for their circulation of the New York city banks in operation of the bill for the 2 per cent bonds and cause losses to the banks.

"I believe it is folly for any bank to sell government 2 per cent bonds at a price below par and to interest all 2 per cent bonds which at that time remain outstanding in view of the fact that it has no more date and are payable in 1915, only at the option of the government, and the depreciation of the market at the end of twenty years is distinctly beneficial to the holders of the 2 per cent bonds."

"The secretary spoke with amusement of the grave statements made out from New York to the effect that if the currency bill should pass and government deposits are put in the federal reserve, banks the 2 per cent bonds now used to secure deposits will be thrown on the market and their value thereby impaired."

"The $100,000,000 are used to secure government deposits in the federal reserve, how trivial this is. If these bonds are not used to secure deposits, they can be used for additional circulation."

Banks Marking Down Price. "Nearly all of the 2s are owned by the banks. If the price is marked down it is because the banks themselves are putting them on the market and depressing the value of their own securities. The banks own them. It would seem the part of good sense and good business not to do it."

The secretary expressed the hope that the process, if continued, will not be carried to a point where the department will have to take action.

"There is and always has been a narrow market for the 2 per cent bonds, just as there is for many other securities. Although the market is tight and everyone knows how easy it is to get out of the market, the banks are not to be faulted for their operations for such bonds, especially when they are favoring them. The market has been skillfully created."

The department has because of its relation to the banks and its necessity important part in the financial affairs of the country, a deep interest in the welfare of the banks. In the stability of the financial situation and in a continuance of the prosperity now attaching to agricultural and industrial enterprises and general business."

No Reason to Restrict Credit. "No reason to restrict credit. The secretary had hoped that the banks would not enter a suggestion from him impugning in many quarters that it is a duty of the government to the banks to restrict legitimate credit. There is nothing in the situation to warrant such a suggestion. The banks should not put undue restraints on business. Should an unusual stringency appear the secretary said that could easily be met by resort to the $500,000,000 emergency reserve now held in reserve which can be issued if the banks need it, or by the resources of the treasury department or both."

Conclusion. The secretary said with emphasis that he did not go to be an interfering party without that the large crops now in prospect going that the powers of the department will be exercised by their broadest amplitude for protection of the business interests of the country."

HOKO SMITH FIGHTS NEGRO'S NOMINATION

Tells President All Southern Senators Oppose—Gore Explains Nomination.

Washington, July 28.—(Special.)—Senator Hoke Smith called at the white house today to protest against the nomination of Adam E. Patterson, the Oklahoma negro, for register of the treasury. Senator Smith told President Wilson that all the senators from the south would vigorously oppose the confirmation.

Senator Hoke Smith reached the white house simultaneously with Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, reported superior for the negro, the erroneous impression got abroad that Senator Smith was supporting Senator Gore in this fight.

"I told the president I would be glad to sign the nomination, but the sole object of my visit was to express my disapproval," said Senator Smith. Gore Explains Nomination.

Senator Gore today set at rest the report that President Wilson did not know Patterson was a negro.

The administration's purpose was to recognize the colored vote of the colored supporters of the democratic ticket. Patterson had the endorsement of Robert S. Hildreth, of New Jersey, chairman of the democratic national committee, who had charged of work among the colored voters. He was also supported by Bishop Alexander Walter, colored, who aided in the work.

Patterson campaigned a number of states in the west and declined to accept renomination or campaign expenses," said Senator Gore today. "I do not believe in the nomination of a colored man, but I do believe that a colored man was to be appointed to this place, which has long been held by a colored man. I endorsed one from my own state."

McAdoo Supporting Negro. Mr. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, is said to be standing pat on Patterson's selection, but the latter faces defeat in the senate. Both Georgian senators and those from other southern states are determined to vote against the nomination. Patterson's nomination is now before the finance committee, of which Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, is chairman. Other members on the committee are Senators Stone, of Missouri; Williams, of Minnesota.

Attitude of Owen. Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, who went to the white house on another matter, said he was mildly in favor of Patterson if he was willing to appoint a negro to that office.

"I am in favor of segregating," he said, "the negro appointments in the registers bureau and thus stimulating their desire to enter that department of the government. This would not offend the most scrupulous of white persons. I am opposed to the appointment of a negro to a position which would give him supervision over white persons."

HARNAGE MURDER CASE TO BE CALLED TUESDAY. Louisville, Ky., July 28.—(Special.)—The second week of superior court opened this morning for the purpose of disposing of criminal business, which is heavier at this season than for years.

Indictments have been returned against Jim and Jerry Hart and two negroes for the murder of J. M. and Hester Harnage, a couple of months ago. The parties will be brought on trial tomorrow morning, and it is expected that a hard legal battle will ensue, as able counsel are representing both sides.

The grand jury indicted J. L. Battle on two counts, one for assault with intent to murder W. P. Brown, and the other for carrying a pistol concealed. This case will not be tried this week on account of the illness of the defendant's leading counsel. Owing to the weight and prominence of Battle much interest is manifested. Brown is well known and prominent.
