Men Henvily Armed.

The men not arrested are heavily armed, and a pitched battle is anticipated when officers attempt to arrest them The swamp is 4 miles across, and it is almost impossible to penetrate to the headquarters of the gang. Robberies recently committed at Penrson are charged to the men now in biding. The cause of the shooting has been assigned to the fact that be gang was caught in the act of entering cars for more loot. At one spot in the caf within a radius of 3 feet.

Hiding Place Located.

Frompt work by special agents of the Coast Line and officers of Coffee county located the hiding place of the gang in a swamp known as Roundabout! One arrest was made this afternoon, that of Edgar Carver, 22-year-old son of Jesse Carver, who was arrested at Douglas. He has had no actual connection with the robberles it appears, but has been with those who have made the raids on the trains and is being held as a suspect. He is expected to aid the officers in their probe of the robberles and today's shooting. Chief G. O. Gobels of Savannah, with bloodhounds secured in Wayne county, went to the scene of the shooting on a special and were joined by W. E. Caley, of Walcross, and Sheriff Gillis and deputies of Coffee county. Officers today found a quantity of booty taken within the past few weeks from through freights A large bunch of keys, containing all kinds of lock-openers, was among the finds of lock-openers, was among the finds of the day.

FOR WIFE'S DEATH

Evidence Brought Out by the Coroner's Investigation Shows That Couple Had Frequently Quarreled.

Valdosta, Ga., June 20 -- (Special)-Norris Newsome ,a well-known farmer of this county, whose wife was found dead under mysterious circumstances last Saturday afternoon, was today ar-rested on a charge of having mur-dered her husband with her murder.

Evidence before the coroner showed that the couple had lived very unhappits, and that Newsome had threatened to turn his wife out of his home they had quarreled on the day of her death A circumstance which excited the suspicion of Mrs Newsome's rekether was the fact that no powder burns were found on her face or person, and that her hands were crossed under her back. The pistol, with an empty chamber, was found by her claiborne, some eighteen miles across tide.

ARCHDEACON STUCK REACHES THE SUMMIT OF MOUNT M'KINLEY

Fairbanks, Alaska, Juno 20.—The ascent of the highest peak of Mount McKinley was accomplished for the first time June 7, when the party led by Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, Episcopal missionary for Alaska, accompanied by Robert C. Tatum, Harry P. Karstens and Walter Harper, reached the top of the south peak of the mountain, the highest on the continent.

The news was received today by a messenger sent by Dr Stuck, who is resting at the base camp. Archdeacen Stuck expects to return to Fairbanks in August and will go to New York in October as delegate for Alaska to the general convention of the Episcopal church.

Archdeacon Stuck confirmed the ascent of the north peak by Thomas Lloyd and three companions in 1910, being able, with field giasses, to see the flagstaff credted by the Lloyd party.

GAS COMPANIES PROFIT BY EXHIBIT IN ATLANTA

Dr. Lyons and Dr. Roberts Tell Head of Convention Bureau of Great Success of Meeting Here.

Opinions of Atlanta as a convention city that come as echoes of the recent ount convention here of the three Presbyterian assemblies, backed by the expressions after the gas show held last fall by the National Commer-cial Gas association, will prove of in-terest to people all over America and of inestimable value to Atlanta.

That Atlanta is an admirable city for conventions and is surpassed not even by New York and Chicago is the sum and substance of statements made by those who have enjoyed the hos-pitality of Atlanta citizens and busi-

II. W. Hunter, president of the Baltimore Gas Appliance and Manufacturing company, also took occasion, to write his apprediction of the way in which the Atlanta was show was handled. That part of his letter to Mr. Rushin referring to this follows:

"I want to take this occasion to thank you for the many courtesies extended to us while in Atlanta, and want to assure you that, in my opinion, the convention was by far the best that has ever been held by the National Commercial Gas association. Of course, I am now speaking from the manufacturers' standpoint, and judging by the results that we have secured as a result of exhibiting our goods in Atlanta."

FINGERS OF NEGRO

Son said, moreover, that the members of the committee seemed all to desire the comtinuation of the bill, so that it might be deliberated upon carefully. The president remarked that he had had no intention of seeking hasty action and conferences as measure satisfactory to the party would be obtailed.

There was no detailed examination of the bill section by section at the conference. It was to urge upon them the useessity of standing by the administration measure, subject to amendments, that the conference was dailed. There will be other conferences at the White House in the near future, but the president felt after tonight's meeting that a start had been made toward unitying sentiment on the administration bill.

Her screams alarmed another lady who was sleeping in the same room, who immediately arqueed the household. The negro made his escape through the window before assistance arrived.

Neighbors gathered rapidly and a searching party was organized with Sheriff L. A. Potts and Chief of Police M. E. Crow at the head. The county bloodhounds were secured and chase was given the fugitive. This, however, has proven fruitless up to noon owing to the long start secured by the fugitive before dogs could be secured from the county camp. The young woman is able to give only a vague description of the general appearance of the negro.

Fifthy Water.

"The water supply consists of an accumulation of surface water in a shallow well about ten foot deep lined with 24-inch sewer pipt. The water is as filthy as surface water could possibly be, countiess dead and ilving bugs were floating on the water surface.

"The odor from these premises could be detected more than 500 yards away. In the immediate vicinity of the slaughter house it is unbearable."

State Supervision Necessary.

Continuing the discussion as to conditions found in other places in the state which had been investigated. Dr. Eahnsen added:

"The slaughter houses being located outside of the incorporate limits of the towns or cities are not under the supervision of the city or town sanitary organizations; even when people file complaint against such existing conditions the owners of such premises ignore their protest. State supervision of the slaughter houses is an absolute necessity."

Following the investigations made, the commissioner of agriculture will summon to a hearing the offending butchers and will order prosecutions instituted in cases where the pure food law of the state has been violated.

EXPERTS RETURN HOME

The "social survey" of Atlanta, made by the experts sent here from the Russell Sage foundation in New York on the invitation of the chamber of commerce committee, has been completed. The last of the experts, Dr. Franz Schneider, Jr., will leave for New York today. Zenas L. Potter returned to the metropolis last night, while Shelby M. Harrison, chief of the "survey," left early in the week. The preliminary investigation having been completed, all that remains now is for the "surveyors" to make up their report, which will probably not be furnished for several weeks. The report of the experts, it is expected, will contain some interesting information as to Atlanta social conditions.

Chairman Smith stated last night that personally he would like to see the county subscribe a substantial sum to the fund, as he believed Deputy Yancey to have been worthy of it, and heartily favored aiding his widow and children, but that it might be possible that the laws controlling the distribution of the public funds would prevent the commissioners acting.

THE STATE ROAD.

Few commonwealths in America own an asset so uniquely valuable as the Western and Atlantic railroad. That is why the action of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in preparing to call a state-wide convention to consider the disposition of this property indicates excellent prevision.

The lease of the state road does not expire until 1919. But six years is none too long a time to dissect and settle the innumerable details inseparable from a problem of such magnitude. Already, several successive legislatures have taken tentative action bearing on the fate of the property. An overwhelming amount of ground remains yet to be covered, however. and the more extensive and thorough the debate on the subject the less likelihood of serious errors.

To a greater degree, perhaps, than at any past time in history, transportation is today the most vital element in civilization. Its availability, cheapness and accessibility determine the fate of industrial empires. The railroad problem is looming larger each year in this country. It is taking on a constantly increasing importance to Georgia. The possession by the state of so valuable a transportation plant gives it a handicap over each other southern state. The chief point is to so handle this plant as to get the greatest good out of it.

The Constitution stands committed at present to no specific plan for disposition of the Western and Atlantic. We incline to the opinion that most of the people of Georgia are also in a receptive attitude. They know that vast changes have come since the latest leasing of the railroad. They know that the property is much more valuable than at that time. They know how intimate a bearing the property has on the educational and fiscal systems of Georgia and how desirable it is that it he so managed as to conserve and utilize its dividend-bearing possibilities.

A state-wide convention will give the people an opportunity for expression. Bringing together the representatives of commercial, civic and other bodies it will assure that the topic will be broached from every angle. Turning full light on the proceedings, it is also likely to farther a policy that will consider the road's disposition not alone from the standpoint of the moment, but also from the standpoint of the wonderful increase in value with which the expanding industry of the next few years is sure to endow it.

A SOUNDER CURRENCY.

The present session of congress will have the opportunity to enact a revision of the currency system. Chairman Carter Glass, of the house committee on banking and currency, has submitted the administration's currency bill to the public. It is to be presented to congress next Monday when President Wilson reads his message to that body.

No bill that might be devised by any party would be criticism-proof. The currency is almost as complicated and baffling as the tariff. Fewer people understand it. infinitely more people are influenced by it. For as the currency system is the lifeblood of the nation, every man, woman and child has a personal stake in its soundness.

The bill now made public is hardly likely to become law as it stands. The president hardly expects that it shall do so. But he is cognizant of the really pressing need of doing away with our present inadequate system, and he is bent upon losing no time in attacking the task.

The Constitution recommends to its readers that they thoroughly study the politics the Culebra Cut slide.

provisions of the bill. One trouble about federal legislation is the difficulty of securing an intelligent public hearing for it. The fact that you have a representative and senator in Washington does not relieve you of the obligation of watching out for your own interests. It is not the banker or the capitalist alone who should familiarize himself with the intricacies of the measure, The humblest man in the street, not to mention the farmer and the business men of all classes, are directly interested in a currency system that is panic-proof; that expands when there is need for expansion and contracts when that need is ended; that discourages speculation: that minimizes the danger of inflation, and that places us upon a par with foreign nations in com peting for the business of the world.

The measure that now goes to congress purports to accomplish all these things in a safe and scientific manner. Whether that assertion is founded on truth can only be finally demonstrated in practice. But much can be established by full and deliberate study and publicity and it is the duty and self-interest of the country-at-large to help supply these two indispensable factors.

TRULY A ROYAL STORK.

From the royal family of Spain comes one of the most wholesome examples of the old-fashioned virtue of child-bearing recorded in our strenuous and militant day, Queen Victoria has just, for the sixth time, become a mother. She was married to Alfonso of Spain in 1906. This is 1913. If the most prolific of bourgeois can exceed this patriotic industry, show them to us.

We are not seriously alarmed by the race suicide pessimists. A few folk may be thwarting nature. That is no occasion for despondency. We thwart nature in a good many directions, nowadays, and quite often with beneficent motives and results. Indeed, nature expects us sometimes to subdue her, or rather to control her; if we don't, she controls us.

And for the one unit of society that sees fit to evade the call of parenthood, there are one or two others willing to more than compensate. It is well to remember this, when we are tempted to gloom about a temporarily receding birth-rate. And it is well to remember the sturdy motherhood of the Queen of Spain, and the fine effect it must have, in an age that is now just awakening to the other splendid functions and rights of womanhood.

A MODEL CITIZEN.

William Howard Taft is giving an excellent illustration of that curlous blend of virtues that go to make up the likable and achieving American citizen. The other day he dropped quietly into Washington, his first visit to the capital since his departure as a newly-made former president. His duties summoned him to Washington as trustee of the Lincoln memorial fund. He seized the occasion to pay his respects to Speaker Champ Clark and other notables. In the evening he was the dinner guest of President and Mrs. Wilson. He had luncheon the same day with Speaker Clark, Leader Underwood and other prominent democrats, republicans and bull moose.

Throughout his intercourse with these men whom he had once so far outranked in official life his attitude was one of frankness, good fellowship and candor. Never once was there an intimation that be remembered the high position he had held and exacted homage because of that memory. Dignified but not stiff, genial and self-respecting, he charmed everyone with whom he came in contact. It is to be doubted if any of our presidents, returning to the scenes of their former glory, were able to carry off the feat as gracefully as did Taft.

The same story is told of him in his new home at New Haven. There where he is a professor at Yale he has entered heartily into the life of the university and the life of the town. Whatever his hand finds to do he does, without vain posing or affectation. He can deliver a lecture criticising some of the more radical tendencles of our day or relax at a social function with equal case. Qualities such as these have led The Athol (Mass.) Transcript to say of him:

The former president is evidently enjoying his freedom from official enjoying his freehold from official cares, and enters into the work-a-day world with that large-heartedness, abounding good nature and optimism that have ever been characteristic of him. He is truly one of our very greatest men, and the kind that people love to honor. The full measure of his qualities and usefulness is not yet reached by any means.

All this is true, even that portion which attributes greatness to Taft. For is not the ability to accept with equal blitheness brilliant victory and crushing defeat a characteristic of real greatness? And achievement, if no other, no one will deny the former president pre-eminence.

DID CAESAR SAY, "ET TU, BRUTE?"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) There is no phrase from the Latin th famous remark attributed to Julius Cacsan at the time of his assassination in the Ro-man senate house, "Et tu Brute" (And thou Brutus), and it has been repeated so often that it has come to be an established facthat these were his dying words. In a grea measure Shakespeare is responsible for this impression, for he has emphasized it with so much force in his tragedy of the same

To the careful reader of history it would appear that Caesar never made this remark. Most of the ancient historians make no menbeen speechless at the discovery of the plo to assassinate him by these whom he had looked upon as friends. One writer, how-ever, credits him with having turned to Brutus, when he stabbed, and said, "And thou, my son," but this appears to be equally unauthentic Undoubtedly the phrase is a pure fabrica tion, though the when and the how of it is a mystery. According to Plutarch, Casea, having struck the first blow, Cassar turned upon him and laid hold of his sword, crying, "Villain Casca, what dost thou mean?" Score by innings: Birmingham. . . .

By Dick Jemison.

The Earons made it two straight from the Crackers yesterday after noon, copping a hotly contested game by the score of 3 to 1.

But the winning came near costing them dearly.

Fitcher hardgrove was struck by a ball from Smith's bet in the seventh liming that cut a gash to the skull and three and a half inches in length. Hardgrove was off his balance at the conclusion of his balance at the conclusion of his delivery, when Smith smashed one back through the box. The ball was driven viclously, striking just in front of the hurler, and hefore he could put up his hands in self-protection the ball caroomed to his head, striking with such terrific force that it bounded back to the catcher.

Smith Plainty Affected.

Play was suspended and Smith, after having touched first, rushed to the aid of the injured Baron. When he saw the big gash, he turned white as a sheet, his agitation being plainly noticeable from the stands, and it was the latter part of the nink inning before the natural color returned to his cheeks.

But by pitched ball, by Brady McBride. Time, 2:10. Umpires, Fifield and Rudderham.

GEORGIA CHAMPION

Defeats Thornton in Challenge Round in Straight Sets-Hallman Consolation Champ—Doubles Today.

By Hal Reynolds. Carleton Smith downed Nat Thornton yesterday afternoon in three straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2, in the final natch for the championship.

The only close set of the match following the tournament closely, as following the tournament closely, as Thornton was thought to be in better shape than Smith, and every set would most likely go into duce.

The first set rocked along with each player winning his serve up until the count stood 5 all in games. Then Smith broke the spell and captured his own serve and also that of Thornton, which gave him the opening set.

Thornton's Scrue Poor.

In the matter of serving Thornton was way below form, serving a great number of doubles, which was one of the main reasons for his defeat. He would pull off several nice shots and seemingly about to strike his stride, when his passion for doubles overcame him and several more would be the result.

With Smith we spreaded to have early when his passion for doubles overcame him and several more would be the result.

With Smith he appeared to have perfect control of his serve, dishing out but a few doubles and putting over the first one in a majority of the cases.

Smith used his old lawford stroke, which he has perfected so well, throughout the entire matches. As usual he played on the back court absolutely, approaching the net but once or twice during the three sets, He put across a number of beautiful shots, placing them exactly in the corners and on the lines. His crosscourt shots also proved rather troublesome for his opponent, as well as his hack-hand strokes.

Thornton used a strong, overhand stroke, sending back some of Smith's shots with riffe-like precision. He approached the net a few times, but finding it rather difficult to handle his opponent's shots there, he retreated into the back court.

Both Men Wild.

Both players were extremely wild at the beginning of play, not being able to control their strokes, each making several shots which were far out of the court.

In the final of the men's consolation singles Harry Hallman trimmed
J. K. (Pr. Jr., in a pretty match 6-4 6-0. Both players used network whenever it was possible for them to do o. Hallman put up a consistent game throughout the entire match, having almost perfect control of his strokes.

It is to be regretted that Hallman was so unlucky as to draw B. M. Grant in the opening round of the men's singles, for had he drawn a sightly more inferior opponent than Grant, he never would have been in the consola-

Miss stanton leatured the play of this match, putting across some swell shots and handling the hard balls of Smith with comparative ease.

Doubles Today.

There is only one more match to be played, which will be this afternoon at 4 o'clock, Mansfield and Smith facing Grant and Thornton in the final in doubles before this year's meet will be a matter of history.

There is very little to choose between the two teams and there will no doubt be a great match pulled off to bring to an end a most successful meet.

The Crackers have a world of confidence in Conzeinan after his first two starts, and there is likely to be a drubbing handed air. Frough, though said drubbings have been few and far between. If our recollection serves us right, the Crackers have beaten Prough ence since he became a Baron.

CRIMSON CREWS

Vanquish Their Great Rivals, Yale, in Varsity Four and

New London, June 20.—For the sixth consecutive time Harvard's 'varsity eight-oared crew triumphed over the Yale oarsmen in the long four-mile race that closed the annual inter-university regath here this afternoon. Preceded by the two crimson victories of the forenoon and the two wins on Thursday, it completed a Harvard sweep that has been equalled only once or twice in the long history of Yale-Harvard rowing. Tonight bands of cambridge students are parading of Cambridge students are parading of Cambridge students new brooms emblematic of the crimson sweep of the Thames river.

The final defeat administered to Yale was so crushing that the English stroke and rowing methods imported from Oxford are being ridiculed.

Sweeping down the river with a stendy and consistent stroke, Harvard crossed the finish line eleven lengths ahead of the blue in 21 minutes and 42 seconds. The Eli eight rolled and spiashed across in Harvard's wake just 38 seconds later.

Except during the first mile the race was merely a procession, with the Crimson steadily increasing the lead. It was not that the Yale oarsmen broke or failed to get speed out of their English stroke, but Harvard surpassed them in every department of rowing.

I am glad to see this action taken."

The grand jury will meet again Tuesday morning, and according to its foreman, will be busied with routine criminal business. Mr. Beck declared that there are yet a number of bills to be acted upon and that there was little probability of further action on the vice probe. He appeared to indicate that the body was ready to make its suggestions when it is discharged by a superior court judge.

Asked about the possibilities of a proba into the dictagraph scandal, the foreman replied by asking if it was a crime to use a dictagraph, Later he

ALTITUDE" Trestly English Frisco to Kansas City 🔚

The cool-off route to Colorado

The Frisco takes the short cut to Colorado—thru the mountains. Soon after crossing the Mississippi your train begins to climb, and quickly gets up into a region of higher altitudes and lower mercury.

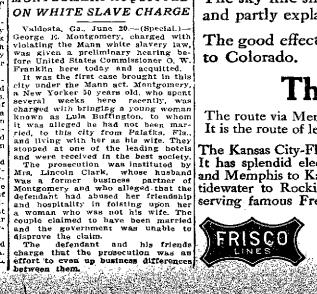

The sky line shows how high your train travels in crossing the Ozarks, and partly explains why you sleep so comfortably on the Frisco.

The good effects of your cool night in the Ozarks will last all the way to Colorado.

Thru Sleepers to Colorado

The route via Memphis and Kansas City is the high-road from the Southeast to Colorado. It is the route of least time and greatest comfort.

The Kansas City-Florida Special is equipped for the comfort of Colorado vacationists. It has splendid electric lighted Pullmans thru from Jacksonville, Atlanta, Birmingham and Memphis to Kansas City, Denver and Colorado Springs. No change of cars from tidewater to Rockies. Also carries modern electric lighted chair cars, and dining cars serving famous Fred Harvey meals.

A vacation in Colorado will be profitable in enjoyment and health, and economical in cost. Railroad fares are low. Hotel and boarding house rates are reasonable. Send for beautiful book on Colorado, and information about low fares,

COTTON WAS FIRMER; \ CLOSED AT ADVANCE

After Early Decline the Market Rallied on Bull Support

New York, June 20—The cotton market showed renewed firmness today, with prices advancing to nearly the best level of the week on active covering and bull support. The close was off from the best, under realizing, but steady and from 5 to 16 points net higher

The market opene deteady at an advance of 2 to 3 points in sympathy

In the south and there was also sost tering liquidation or local bear pressure

After selling off to a net loss of 2 or 3 points, however teh market railied on a renewal of bull support and covering July showed a tendency to lead the advance, as shorts in that position seemed to be narvous over the continued reduction in the local stock and the strength of the near month in New Orleans, while reports that the boil weevil were showing up numerously in Arkansds helped the unward movement in the new crop positions

Realizing caused a moderate reaction after the market had shown a net gain of about 12 to 15 points and the detailed weather reports were published showing lower temperatures in the seastern belt but spinners takings for the week, as reported by the New York cotton exchange were heavy enough to suggest a further strength ening of the old crop situation and prices railied again selling about 17 to 20 points not higher in the late trading This advance carried July contracts up to 1224 or within one point of the high level reached earlier in the month when there had been some selling supposed to be against cotton to be shipped here for contract delivery. There was a little selling said to be for the account about 12 this afternoon and the market eased off some 5 to 6 points from the best in the late trading under realizing Wall street and uptown interests were credited with buying actively on the advance and part of the demand was supposed to come from old shorts.

EASIER FEELING IN-THE WHEAT MARKET

Prices Closed From Three-Offerings Were Sufficient to Eighths Cent Decline to One-Eighth Up

Chicago, June 20—Belief that rains had fallen at the right time for the greater part of the spring crop brought about an easy feeling today in the wheat pit Closing prices varied from % declina to %e gain Corn showed a fail of % to %@Ic and oats a setback of %% to %c There was an irregular finlen in provisions, ranging from 7%c off to an advance of a shade Wheat traders, with few exceptions, inclined to the view that, barring some portions of South Dakota, the spring sown fields are in good shape Timely foisture for the final filling of yinter wheat in Nebraska tended also, to favor the hears The fact that the first car of new wheat arrived here had some sentimental effect. Good support at a moderate decline prevented any decided break Purchasing by seaboard export concerns amounted to 380 000 bushels here and to a generous total at Duluth These transactions helped rally prices, and left the tone in the end fairly steady Primary arrivals of wheat today were again heavy—640,000 bushels Prospects of general rains made corn weak some of the recent large

ances of wheat and hour equates 40s, one bushels

Prospects of general rains made corn weak Some of the recent large longs went over to the short side.

Oats succumbed to heavy selling deu to an expected drenching east of the Mississippi

In provisions the main feature was the course of a leading western pack or changing over considerable holdings of July lard to September Car viers took the nearby delivery and tearing loose the lashings of one of the planes, bound himself fast to a pontoon. Within a few minutes, however, he was taken off by B. L. Bronson and S. Keller, who had watched the aeroplane's movements from a motorboat kept on the bay for use in just such accidents.

Tells Story of Fall.

At the Naval academy hospital Lieutenant Towers almost in a state of nervous collapse, his head wagging piteously, told the tragic story of his fall from the sky.

"Just before the accident," he said, "I looked at the altitude dial and it

"Just before the accident," he said,
"I looked at the altitude dial and it showed that we were running at a heighth of about 1.625 feet. Just then a gust of wind seemed to come up from below. It struck the aeropians underneath the rear planes and the machine lurched violently and took an uncertain dive forward. This threw Billingsley across the steering gear and the lateral rudder planes went out of business.

and the lateral rudder planes went out of business.

"With another forward plungs the biplane dropped down at express train speed. It all happened in a minute. Billingsley went out of his seat and clear of the plane.

"When the ship started to fall I had one hand around the upright, between the planes, and I locked it there. I knew that was my only hope, I was torn lose from the seat, hut held on to the upright. I swung clear of the planes and the gearing. The strain on my arms and fingers was awful, but I clenched my teeth and held on. I tried to kick the steering gear back into working order, but I could not make it go. I looked down and saw Billingsley turning over and over in the air."

The trembling officer halted his story to wipe the sweat from his ashy shock.

Captain John H. Gibbons, in charge of the Naval academy, tonight appointed a naval board of inquiry to investigate the accident.

The trembling officer halted his atory to whee the aweat from his ashy face, but went on immediately:

"When the aeroplane had dropped about 900 feet the front planes went down and under, until the ship had heen turned completely over. When it was half-way over it steadled for a minute and the force of the fall was broken a little, but it gathered momentum again and when it hit the water there was a terrific crash. But I kept clear of the engine and the planes and managed to come to the surface safely."

At the hospital tonight Licutenant Towers was listed as "slightly injured internally," but the surgeons were in doubt as to the exact extent of his injuries. He suffered terribly from shock.

him. His injuries are expected to prove fatal.

Two weeks ago he came to Atlanta suffering from epilepsy, and at that time he prophecied that he did not have long to live. He was then in a melancholy mood, and his neighbors at the Salvation Army Industrial home, 158 Whitehall strict, where he lived, saw but little of him. However, they did see testimonials of his long service as an Indian teacher, and they report that he has no surviving relatives.
