

GEORGIA'S FIRST DUTY--PAY THE STATE SCHOOL TEACHERS THE SIX MONTHS MONEY THEY HAVE EARNED

WILL TAKE VOTE TO SETTLE ISSUE OF SENATE BATTLE

Anderson Claims Certain Victory, But Allen Says Roll Call Must Decide the Contest.

DENIES REPORTS THAT HE WOULD WITHDRAW

Anti-Saloon League Letter to Candidates Depended Upon to Shake Line-Up—Burwell Is Next Speaker.

The impression seemed general in the lobby of the Kimball house last night that J. Randolph Anderson, of the first senatorial district, would be elected president of the state senate today over his rival, John T. Allen, of the twentieth.

It has been a most strongly contested battle on both sides, and it is most probable, despite rumors current last night that Judge Allen would retire from the race, that the battle will be fought out to the end in the senate chamber this morning.

The Anderson contingent were jubilant after caucus held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at which twenty-seven senators pledged to the Savannah man's support were said to have been present. Two other senators, who are known to be supporters of Mr. Anderson, had not arrived at the city at the time of the caucus, but one of them came in later, and both, it is said, will be present and vote for Mr. Anderson when the roll is called today.

The showing would assure Mr. Anderson's election, and the only hope of his rival now seems to be in being able to change some of the Anderson senators before the vote is counted.

Altera Still in Fight

But the Allen forces declare that they have not given up the fight by any means. While they admit that Mr. Anderson seemed to have the advantage as matters stood Tuesday night, they are looking for a break in his phalanx today, and assert that quite a number of his senators are wavering and may come over to their side before the end.

When questioned about the rumors current that he might withdraw from the race, Judge Allen said: "No, I shall not withdraw. The battle will be fought out on the floor of the senate, and it will take the count of the vote to decide between myself and Mr. Anderson. We have not given up the fight, though our opponents say so to the end."

Anti-Saloon League Letter. A bomb was thrown into the camps of both contestants early in the afternoon by a letter from the Rev. H. M. DuBois, secretary of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league, addressed to both candidates, asking how they would vote on a bill to make the provisions of the Webb act, enacted by congress last year, effective in Georgia. The Webb act, it will be remembered, gives the prohibition states the power to prohibit the shipment of intoxicating drinks into their borders.

The letter of Mr. DuBois and the answers received from both Mr. Allen and Mr. Anderson follow: "Dear Sir:—The temperance people of Georgia are greatly interested in the passage of a bill to prohibit common carriers from shipping into and delivering liquor in this state, thus enabling us to profit by the passage of the Webb bill. Will you, if elected president of the senate, support such a measure and assist in every legitimate way to secure its enactment? Respectfully, (Signed) Chairman Headquarters Committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon League, John T. Allen, reply:

"Atlanta, Ga., June 24, 1913. "Dear Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 24, 1913. In reply I beg to say that the legislation referred to therein meets my approval, and would receive my support. Respectfully, (Signed) JOHN T. ALLEN." Randolph Anderson made this answer.

REPORTED HOKE SMITH MAY AID LEO FRANK

Rumor He Will Appear for Defense Emphatically Denied, However, by Senator.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 24.—Reports that Senator Hoke Smith will be associated with Luther Rosser and other lawyers for the defense in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan were current here today.

These reports followed the visit to Washington on last Saturday of Luther Rosser, leading counsel for Frank and Ike Haas, president of the National Pencil company, which employed Frank as superintendent of the factory.

Investigate Early Life. Mr. Rosser and Mr. Haas were on their way to Brooklyn to consult with the parents of Frank and endeavor to learn everything possible of his early life and associates. They called at the capitol to see Senator Hoke Smith, and according to reports later, went to his house and induced him to go to New York with them to talk over the matter further.

It is understood they had great difficulty in inducing Senator Smith even to consider the matter. He stated that his work here would be so engrossing for the next few months he could not think of undertaking any legal employment. It is said a big amount was offered him if he would aid the defense.

When seen today and asked about the matter, Senator Smith made an emphatic denial that he would be associated with Frank's counsel, or even that he had been asked to do so.

Senator Denies Report. "The report is absolutely unfounded," he said. "I have all I can do here for the next few months with the tariff and currency question."

"Did you see Mr. Rosser and Mr. Haas when they were here?" he was asked.

"I heard they were in the senate gallery one day last week, and they sent in cards to me, but I did not see them."

"Will you be connected with the case?"

"No, most certainly not. I am too busy here to undertake any outside work."

BY PUFFING OF DUST DESTRUCTION IS DEALT

Four Men Dead, Four Missing and Sixty Hurt—Explosion Also Destroys Factory.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 24.—Four men are known to be dead, sixty were injured, and four are unaccounted for, as the result of an explosion late today in the elevator and grain storehouse of the Husted Milling company. Fire followed the explosion, and destroyed the wooden section of the elevator.

The known dead are: MICHAEL KING, 41 years old. HENRY VETTER, 48 years old. JOHN CONROY, Nickel Plate engineer, and an unidentified man.

Firemen in searching the ruins of the elevator tonight discovered the body of a man. It was burned so that identification is not considered probable. The finding of this body led to the belief that several others failed to escape, and that their bodies are still in the debris.

Sixty were taken to hospitals, some in a serious condition, from burns and broken legs and arms. That many of the injured cannot survive and that the ultimate death toll may number fifteen is an estimate reached by a canvass of the hospitals.

The explosion was caused by the puffing of dust accumulated in the feedhouse, and was of frightful force, tearing out one wall of the wooden structure and breaking windows for a quarter of a mile around. John Conroy, engineer of a switch engine, was blown from his cab and received internal injuries, which caused his death.

The body of Henry Vetter was blown 50 feet and was found under a box car nearby badly burned. A boy, while running to the fire, was run down by an automobile and killed.

The elevator company employed 169 men and, according to Vice President Husted of the company, four are not accounted for. Employees, who escaped declared, however, that many of their fellow workmen were cut off by the flames and perished.

A dozen box cars loaded with grain were destroyed. The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels. Half was of old wooden construction and with its contents, was destroyed. Officials of the company estimated their loss at $500,000, covered by insurance.

POLICEMAN, AGED 75, WILL LEAD TO ALTAR BLUSHING BRIDE OF 35

Macon, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—"I'm going to Forsyth tomorrow to cut a little caper," said L. M. Avant, a 75-year-old member of the Macon police force, today when he asked his lieutenant, John Davis, for a leave of absence.

"What are you going to do?" asked Davis.

"Well, I'm going to get married," said the veteran policeman. Lieutenant Davis almost fainted from the shock, but soon recovered sufficiently to congratulate Avant and wish him well.

Avant will be married tomorrow to Miss Lizzie Gibson, a member of one of the best known families of Monroe county. She is 35. Avant has several grown children and a number of grandchildren.

RAZOR NOT A WEAPON, SAYS SOUTHERN COURT

Jackson, Miss., June 24.—The supreme court of Mississippi yesterday held that the razor is not a weapon, but an "implement of toilet."

In the case at issue the conviction of Julius Brown, a negro, for carrying concealed weapons, was set aside.

SLATON'S MESSAGE WILL BE ORAL ONE

He Will Follow the Precedent Set by President Wilson in Making His Recommendations to General Assembly.

Governor-elect John M. Slaton will deliver his written message at the opening of the general assembly this year to be read in the two houses in his absence. His inaugural address, which will be delivered by himself when he is inaugurated on Saturday to both branches of the legislature in joint session, will constitute his message.

In this speech, which is said to be a very able public document by those who have seen it, though not a long one as messages generally go, there will be included all or nearly all of the recommendations that the incoming governor will have to make this year.

Simple Ceremonies. The usual simple ceremonies that have obtained in the past in the inauguration of Georgia's governors will be followed this year. If the wishes of Governor-elect Slaton are heeded in the matter, and they probably will be.

The new governor will meet the old governor in the reception room of the executive office, and when notified by a committee of the law houses that their bodies are in joint session and that all is in readiness, they will proceed together to the hall of the house of representatives.

There the oath of office will be administered to Mr. Slaton by Chief Justice Fish, of the supreme court, and Governor Brown will make a formal delivery of the great seal of the state to his successor. Then will follow the inaugural address.

By including in his inaugural address the recommendations set by legislation which he purposes to make, Governor Slaton is in a measure following the example set by President Wilson, who believes that oral messages directed to the houses in person, are of far more effect than written deliverances to an almost empty house.

After the inauguration ceremony, Governor Slaton and Mrs. Slaton will accept an invitation to take dinner at the mansion with Governor Brown and Mrs. Brown. Here formal delivery of the mansion will be made to the new governor by his predecessor.

Will Occupy Mansion. Governor Slaton expects to occupy the mansion as his residence during his term of office, although, as every one knows, he already has a splendid home here in Atlanta. Just when he will move in will, of course, be determined by the convenience of Governor and Mrs. Brown. The latter will retire to his home in Marietta and expects to spend the greater part of the summer on his farm in Cherokee county.

The above outline of the inaugural proceedings is the one that will, in all probability, be followed. Of course the program will not be definitely arranged until the two houses are organized and a joint committee on inaugural arrangements selected. This committee will have entire charge of the details of the inauguration ceremonies.

HE CLIMBED VERY HIGH TO TAKE DEATH LEAP

Cleveland, Ohio, June 24.—Joseph Paoli, 73 years old, of Youngstown, today climbed to the top of the pier of the new high level bridge and committed suicide by leaping to the paving 160 feet below.

MRS. ARMOR PREDICTS SALOONLESS NATION

1920 Is Outside Limit for Liquor Traffic, Declares Temperance Leader.

"The very fact that state-wide prohibition does not prohibit will give us national prohibition," said Mrs. Mary Harris Armor at the First Methodist church last night in a stirring address on a saloonless nation in 1920.

"We have set the time, and 1920 is the outside limit we give the liquor traffic, and by we I mean all the national anti-liquor movements, including the Anti-Saloon league, the Women's Christian Temperance union and the National Christian Endeavor society."

"Public sentiment is strong for prohibition and with the addition of Arkansas ten states are now in the dry column. Ten years ago Roosevelt would not have deemed it necessary to sue for libel on the charge of drunkenness, but there has been a great change in public sentiment, and the colonel has seen the signs of the times, as has William Jennings Bryan, who has stirred two continents with his dry banquets."

Mrs. Armor reached the climax of her speech when she pleaded the fear of the liquor fiend. Reading from an open letter to the trade from the national president of the liquor forces, she quoted the wet chief as follows: "A veritable sword of Damocles is suspended above our heads. It is naked and is suspended by a single hair. We are threatened not only with the confiscation of our property, but with the total annihilation of our business."

"The group of railroads which Mr. Brantley will represent includes 100 of the strongest lines south of the Mason and Dixon line, and the interstate commerce commission has estimated that they will pass upon fifteen billion dollars' worth of railroad property, and the valuation at which they will finally arrive will be the basis for rate making and taxation. This is of tremendous interest to the public as well as to the railroads, and an effort to get at a fair and reasonable valuation of the entire railroad property in the United States is a gigantic task."

There is considerable speculation as to the length of time this work will take, but according to the interstate commerce commission at least five years will be required. Of considerable gratification to the rank and file of the democratic party was the selection of Congressman Brantley as the representative of the railroads in this important work. From 1888 to 1912 he has held public office, being a member of congress from 1899 to 1913.

Choice of Democrats. In all these years he resided in Brunswick, Ga., representing the eleventh congressional district.

BRANTLEY WILL REPRESENT ROADS

Former Congressman Given Big Position by Railways Before Interstate Commerce Commission.

News of the appointment of Congressman William G. Brantley to represent the railroads of the United States before the interstate commerce commission was received in Atlanta yesterday, and a cordial reception was extended him by friends who crowded the Piedmont lobby, awaiting his arrival from Washington last night.

The first tasks which Congressman Brantley will tackle as a consequence of his appointment will be those of advisory counsel for the railroads of the southeast, representing them in the matter of a physical valuation of their property which the government is now making before the interstate commerce commission.

Associated with Mr. Brantley will be two other representatives, one for the eastern states, the other for the western states, according to a special dispatch received Tuesday night, which is authority for the statement that the western representative has a 5-year contract at a salary reported as being between $25,000 and $30,000, and it is understood that a similar arrangement has been made with the other representatives.

Offices in Washington. To facilitate the handling of this added work the Atlanta law firm of Brantley, Jones & Brantley will open offices in Washington, with the congressman in charge there, though he will divide his time between Atlanta and the capital. For the present, until the new work has been definitely outlined, he will spend most of his time in Washington.

Woodrow Wilson Needs No "Props" According to "Uncle Joe" Cannon

Richmond, Ind., June 24.—President Woodrow Wilson is a "justly intendant" who "doesn't need any props," according to the views pronounced here today by Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Cannon was here attending the "homecoming" of Earlham college.

"Mr. Wilson doesn't need any help," the former speaker said, commenting on the president. "He's the whole thing, president, congress, cabinet and party. He's a healthy, lusty infant and can stand entirely alone. Also he can speak for himself. He doesn't need any props."

This (Wayne) county was the only one in the state where the entire progressive ticket was elected last fall. When told of this, "Uncle Joe" tilted his cigar a few degrees higher and exclaimed: "Wayne county will not be a 'bull moose' in 1916. Why, boys, by that time 90 per cent of the bull moosers will have made affidavit that they never did it."

"I'll bet the county is getting over its affliction right now."

$100,000 LEAD PLANT WILL SOON BE BUILT

United Lead Company Will Erect Big Building Near to Atlanta.

The United Lead company, with headquarters in New York city, has completed arrangements for the erection of a $100,000 plant at the corner of East and Bishop streets, on the Southern road, close to the Spalding foundry and Atlanta Steel works. This corporation, recognized as the controlling factor of the country's lead business, has taken out a Georgia charter, and the local branch will be known as the Georgia Lead works.

The plant will be housed in a steel structure, 200 feet long, and work upon the building is to begin at once, under the direction of H. J. Carr & Co., contractors. A gigantic business is contemplated, and according to one of the officials of the corporation, arrangements have already been made for a $60,000 a year payroll.

Still, here are several hints of good things for their seniors: $6.50 Skirts $2.95 Linen Dusters for use in motoring, $5 Misses' $2.50 Middy Blouses $1.45

And you can go on through today's ads and find many other splendid offerings.

Philadelphia, June 24.—Word has gone out to veterans of both armies all over the country not to bring their tattered battle flags to Gettysburg next week for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle, for they cannot be flown to the scene in the encampment. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the stirring up of animosities and feeling on the part of the old soldiers, and this is one of the precautions considered necessary. The only flag which will be allowed in the encampment will be the Stars and Stripes.

Boy scouts will be used as couriers and general aides to the veterans at the encampment. They will be stationed at the railroad terminals to aid the veterans in handling their luggage and give information.

Room and Rations for All. Gettysburg, Pa., June 24.—"There will be ample accommodations and plenty of rations for all veterans who come to Gettysburg for the battle anniversary celebration next week, even though the number exceed by 10,000 the original estimate," was the statement made by officers of the regular army at camp headquarters yesterday.

"Here we have over 5,000 tents, and one officer. Every one is supposed to be large enough to receive eleven men. We have apportioned only eight to each tent. By making it nine you have additional accommodations for 5,000 men and you can increase this by another 5,000 without crowding any one."

"It is true that we based our supplies on an estimate of 40,000 veterans, but the amount is elastic and can be made to serve for many others. For instance, we allow a pound of bread for each man a day. Few men eat this much, or even half this much. Other supplies are based on the same liberal plan, and every veteran who comes here will get shelter and all the food he needs."

WHITE SLAVE CASE ORDERED TO TRIAL BY THE PRESIDENT

Wilson Accepts McNab's Resignation and Will Employ Heney to Prosecute the Accused Californians.

M'REYNOLDS ACQUITTED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

In View of McNab's Charge That Postponement Was Caused by Improper Influences President Thinks There Should Be an Immediate Trial.

Washington, June 24.—President Wilson tonight telegraphed United States District Attorney McNab, of San Francisco, acceptance of the latter's resignation, the form of which the president characterized as "an inexcusable intimation of injustice and wrongdoing" on the part of Attorney General McReynolds.

In a letter to the attorney general, the president exonerated him from blame and adopted Mr. McReynolds' suggestion that the Cammett-Diggs and the Western Fuel company cases be prosecuted immediately by special counsel for the government.

Heney May Be Chosen. White house officials announced that the president would confer with the attorney general tomorrow about the appointment of special prosecutors and that the president had in mind Francis J. Heney, progressive republican, who prosecuted the San Francisco graft trials; Matt J. Sullivan, democrat, who assisted Mr. Heney in the Ruff trial, and Thomas Hayden, democrat, a former assistant city attorney in San Francisco. It was said that at least two of these three men and possibly all would be selected to take charge not only of the Cammett-Diggs white slave cases, but the Western Fuel company cases.

Developments were rapid during the day in the situation which was precipitated by telegrams of Mr. McNab on Saturday to the president and the attorney general, accusing the latter of yielding to "rich and powerful influences" in ordering the postponement of these cases, the father of one of the defendants being Anthony Cammett, commissioner general of immigration. The subject absorbed the cabinet meeting today and tonight the president came to his office to make public the full correspondence. First the president telegraphed Mr. McNab as follows: "Washington, D. C., June 24, 1913.—John L. McNab, San Francisco, Cal.—I greatly regret that you should have acted so hastily and under so complete misapprehension of the actual circumstances, but since you have chosen such a course and have given your resignation, I have no alternative but to accept it."

CONFLICTING TALES TOLD BY SUSPECTED NEGRO

Statements Made by Black Held for Killing of Hewell and Wife Prove False.

Dublin, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—All of the statements of Jim Lewis, one of the fourteen negroes held for the murder of T. J. Hewell and his wife, as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder have been proven false by officers investigating the case. The black has told several conflicting tales. When arrested at Scott, a few small bloodstains were plainly visible on his overalls, but on being taken out of the calaboose to be brought to this city the stains were just barely discernable, as Lewis had evidently been rubbing them so as to obliterate them as much as possible.

Investigation is still going on, and other arrests may follow. Although officers have refused to make known the names of the other suspects, it has been learned that three arrested near Long Branch were Sam Irwin, Tom Green and one known as 'Little Joe.'

Jim Kellam, one of the negroes arrested Sunday, is still in custody, but the other two have been released, as the evidence against them was not strong enough to warrant their being held.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hewell have been sent to Griffin for interment.

The coroner's jury held another star chamber session last night, examining six witnesses. Another session will be held tomorrow night.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE WHILE TAKING SWIM

Augusta, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—While in bathing at Linker's pond near this city, Frank Hughes died suddenly of heart failure yesterday afternoon. Dr. C. J. Montgomery, coroner's physician, examined the body and questioned a number of witnesses, but no inquest was held.

Thinking his death was the result of drowning, a number of men worked for him for more than two hours, but ineffectually. Hughes had complained of pains in the region of his heart during the afternoon and it is said he had been rescued twice recently from drowning when attacked by a fainting spell while in swimming.

HE REFUSED TO EAT AND WAS RELEASED

London, June 24.—Edwy Clayton, the chemist sentenced to twenty-one months' imprisonment on June 17 for conspiracy in conjunction with the militant suffragette leaders, was released from jail today in a very weak condition as the result of a "hunger strike."

It appears from statements made by released prisoners that many convicts who are not suffragettes have followed the example of the suffragettes. Three men in one of the prisons have for some weeks declined to eat and are being forcibly fed.

FOR KILLING HER LOVER WOMAN GETS FIVE DAYS

Mrs. Dotson, Wife of Tennessee Physician, Tells of Relations With Cobb.

Nashville, Tenn., June 24.—Guilty of involuntary manslaughter with punishment fixed at five days in jail was the verdict rendered against Mrs. Anna Dotson, aged 33, wife of Dr. Walter Dotson, a Gallatin, Tenn., physician, rendered in the criminal court here today. She was charged with the murder of Charles Cobb, 31 and married, whom she shot down at his chair in a shop here March 15. On the stand Mrs. Dotson stated that she had had illicit relations with Cobb, who formerly lived in Gallatin. Of these relations she finally told her husband and a minister. She told of a vow she had made to God that if he would not separate her from her husband and would forgive her, she would kill the man who wrecked her life and ruined her husband's happiness. The defense also offered testimony to sustain the insanity theory.

'08 HIGH SCHOOL CLASS WILL BANQUET FRIDAY

The Boys' High school class of 1908 will hold its annual banquet Friday night at the Cafe Durand. Members of the class who have been separated since the night of their graduation except for the meeting at the annual reunion and banquet, plan to renew their old friendships, and a good time is promised to all the men present. The details of the affair are in charge of Willis Miner, H. G. Bedingfield, William Candler, George Osborne and Paul Carpenter.

CREMATORY DISPUTE WILL SOON BE ENDED

Mayor Woodward Declares He Will Make No Further Objection to Price.

The dispute over the new contract under which the city will purchase the crematory for $250,000 will be settled within the next three or four days, according to statements made by Mayor James G. Woodward and W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales manager of the Destructor company, Tuesday afternoon. Mayor Woodward stated positively that he will raise no further objection to the price, although he still adheres to the belief that the city is paying at least $18,000 too much under the new agreement. He says that the settlement of the dispute depends entirely upon the wording of the contract.

"I am willing to agree to any contract that does not change the design of the plant which has been built in strict accordance with the specifications," Manager Dowd said. As for giving the city a bond under the new contract, it has never been the intention of the company to evade that function. We paid out a little more than $1,800 on the old bond, and will give a new bond to insure the city in the event the guarantees are not fulfilled. The city should have paid us $125,000 on June 22," he says. "But instead we are being held back because of technicalities in the contract. We have done everything possible to hasten the work, and have agreed to make the same guarantees as we made under the old contract. We are losing 7 per cent interest on $125,000, which amounts to $29 a day for every day the money is being held back."

Manager Dowd says that in so far as Mayor Woodward's demand that the company state specifically in the contract the date for completing the plant is concerned, the company will guarantee that the plant will be finished on August 20 and will be burning garbage. Manager Dowd does not charge that Mayor Woodward is treating his company unfairly. He said Tuesday that the unfair treatment was coming from men who have professed to be friendly to the project.

DISPOSITION OF W. & A. CONSIDERED BY CHAMBER

The committee of the chamber of commerce on considering the disposition of the Western and Atlantic railroad at the end of its lease in 1919 met Tuesday afternoon in the Atlanta chamber and after thoroughly discussing the matter decided to await further developments and make inquiries before taking any definite stand on the question.

A call meeting will be held some time in the earlier part of August, at which representatives from each county will be present. It is thought when the desire of the citizens will be heard.

There are four methods by which the state may dispose of this question—sell the property, lease it for a short or long term, run it by the state or extend it to the sea.

W. A. Wimlish is chairman of the committee of the Atlanta chamber which is working on the problem.

MORE THUNDERSHOWERS DUE IN ATLANTA TODAY

"More thunder showers ahead," says the weather man. Otherwise he predicts nothing more nor less than the same hot and sultry weather of the past week or so. The highest temperature registered on Tuesday was 89 degrees, which lasted from 1 o'clock until 3 o'clock. About the same temperature is due today, unless the predicted thunder showers should appear and cool off the atmosphere.

The weather has been continuously at a high mark for many days past and the lowest it reached in the past twenty-four hours was 70 degrees. At 7 o'clock Tuesday morning the thermometer registered 72 degrees and the mercury gradually rose until it reach-

DR. HOLLEY TO WED HIS OLD SWEETHEART

Yonkers, N. Y., June 24.—Rev. Dr. Byron Holley, rector of St. George's Episcopal church, New Orleans, has won the girl he wooed and lost through a misunderstanding forty years ago. At the commencement exercises of public school number 12, just concluded, the engagement of its principal, Mrs. Elizabeth Sanborn Knapp to Rev. Dr. Holley was announced.

Mrs. Knapp, a widow and now a grandmother, is retiring on a pension after more than a quarter of a century at work in the school room. She and Mr. Holley were sweethearts in Rochester, N. Y., two score years ago, when a misunderstanding interrupted their plans to wed.

The marriage will be celebrated soon at the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

You Will Find It on Nearly Every Piece of Furniture in the Store

Is the Sign of a Saving

At one time it shows that $250.00 has been boldly clipped from the price of a bedroom set, at another time it shows that $1.00 has been clipped from the price of a chair. In both instances a rare value has been created!

It would be an easy matter to fill this page with the reductions that come to between these extremes, and they would all point to the same fact—housekeepers in need of furniture, whether for bedroom, dining room or living room, have now their opportunity to buy it at a sure saving. And it will be the kind of furniture a housekeeper will joy in owning!

Every piece of it from our own good stocks, chosen with as much care as you will exercise in the selection of your own.

But visit the store and let the little Blue Tags tell their own message!

REFORMS DEMANDED IN HANDLING COTTON

Subject Is Taken Up By House Committee on Interstate Commerce

Washington, June 24.—(Special)—Legislation looking to better methods of handling and packing cotton for shipment in interstate commerce to prohibit wasteful methods of sampling and unfair deductions for cotton tare as well as regulations for deductions for country damage was taken up today by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Representative Adam J. B. Gledhill, chairman of the committee, declared that congress undoubtedly has power to regulate this subject where the cotton is to be shipped outside of the state. Innumerable complaints have been made by farmers that the arbitrary 8 per cent tare deduction is unjust. This is decided by the cotton merchants and exporters who fix that thirty pounds of bagging and ties is the average.

To settle the long continued controversy between the producer and the buyer several bills have been introduced to regulate the trade customs by law. Hearings on these bills in senate today before the house committee.

SHE THREATENS TO CUT THROAT OF THE BRIDE

Sensational Charge Is Made Against Daughter of Tichborne Claimant

London, June 24.—A sensational charge was made today at Bow street police court against the daughter of Arthur Orton, the claimant to the estates of the Tichborne family about whose identity the world was divided into two camps for many years. The woman was accused of the terrible murder Miss Dennie Greville who is to marry Sir Joseph Douglas Tichborne the young baronet at Brighton tomorrow.

The charge was contained in a letter to the Earl of Granard who married in 1913 Beatrice, the daughter of Ogden Mills of New York.

Mr. George Lewis spoke for the prosecution and declared that the accused had intended to bring her to the attention of the public. The letter to the Earl of Granard referred to the approaching marriage of her cousin Joseph Tichborne. It said she had asked you to use your influence to make them give me some of the money they have stolen from you.

GIRL'S DEATH CAUSED BY ILLEGAL OPERATION

Salisbury, Md., June 24.—Despite the efforts being made by the authorities to keep secret the developments in the investigation into the death of Miss Florence Wainwright, the young woman in a bookkeeper found dead in the office of the home gas company yesterday night, it is now known that the young woman did not die of poison as at first believed, but from a minimal operation performed it is thought Friday afternoon in the yard back of the gas company office.

As there is a God in heaven, I am going to do it. The woman was sent to jail to await further action.

PLANS TO ORGANIZE STATE TRADE BOARD

Active Work for Georgia State Chamber of Commerce Begun Tuesday Afternoon

Active work in organizing the Georgia state chamber of commerce was entered into Tuesday afternoon when some of Georgia's most prominent citizens composing the committee met in the state chamber and issued a call for citizens from all parts of Georgia to meet in Atlanta July 23 and put the state chamber actively on foot.

This state chamber will be organized for the specific purpose of encouraging better health conditions, development of state schools, better roads, diversity of crops, promotion of the live stock and dairy industry to create a fund to keep the name of Georgia in the large northern and north western corporations and numerous other objects for the betterment of the state.

The Retail Merchants association of Georgia will cooperate with the movement through its numerous local organizations over the state to improve farming and marketing conditions.

DOLEFUL HUSBAND IN DIVORCE COURT

Paterson, N. J., June 24.—In a suit to divorce his wife, one of the grounds alleged by Peter K. Hicks is his desertion. Hicks has gone on record in chancery court here as a most doleful husband. He testified yesterday that the alleged desertion of his wife made him so despondent that he got a job in a powder store in the hope that the plant would blow up. His prayer was answered a few months later when he was sent to the hospital with five serious injuries in an explosion. However by the time he recovered he ceased to worry over his domestic troubles and decided that life was worth living.

Crossland Bank Re-Opens

The affairs of the Bank of Crossland, at Crossland, Ga., which about 60 days ago voluntarily placed itself in the hands of the state bank examiner on account of the $3,000 embezzlement of former Cashier J. H. Cason have been adjusted and the bank has resumed business.

It was stated in the bank examiner's report Tuesday that the affairs of the bank are now in first class shape. Public confidence has been restored and business is good.

The directors of the bank made a 25 per cent draw upon the institution's capital stock thus supplying $1,300 to make good the deficit. Former Cashier Cason deeded property to the bank valued at $1,365 and the balance was made up by applying a part of the undivided profits of the institution.

The directors have elected F. E. Clark of Crossland who assisted the state bank examiner in adjusting the bank's affairs, cashier to succeed Cason. Former Cashier Cason is held in the Moultrie jail awaiting trial.

L. R. Akin Working for Funds For Survey of Swamp Lands

One of the leading representatives in the house this year is L. R. Akin, of Glynn. Mr. Akin served in the senate of 1909-10 and he is one of the most influential political leaders as well as business men in south Georgia.

Like most men who succeed in accomplishing things Mr. Akin has a hobby and his faith in it is unlimited. His hobby is the reclamation of the waste swamp lands of south Georgia.

When in the senate several years ago, Mr. Akin got through a measure looking to the drainage of these lands and it is now on the statute book. His sole object in coming to the legislature this year is to get an appropriation which he does not think need be a large one to maintain the government engineers in making preliminary surveys for the purpose of draining the low lands. Mr. Akin grows enthusiastic when speaking of the great things that may be accomplished for Georgia in the reclamation of the swamp lands.

"We have now an area of 4,500 square miles of the best lands for the purposes of agriculture that there are in the state," he said Monday, "but which are unavailable for any practicable use on account of their flooded condition. Not only that but as they now are they are a menace to the health of the people in all our section of southeast Georgia. I believe that money spent on the reclamation of these lands will do more for the prosperity of the whole state than anything else that could be done."

It would add millions of dollars to the taxable values of the state. In that way it would go further towards solving the much vexed question of finance than any legislation we could pass.

It would rid our south Georgia section of malaria the greatest peril to the health of our people. It would add great value not only to the lands immediately reclaimed but to the farming lands of the entire section. As president of the Georgia drainage session congress, Mr. Akin has labored in season and out of season for the completion of this project. He has recently secured the meeting of the Georgia drainage congress for Brunswick this year and what is much more important the meeting of the national drainage congress for Savannah in 1914. By this last he hopes to have the eyes of experts from all over the nation turned next year to the waste lands of Georgia.

Schlitz Brown Bottle Is Making History

Two years ago, Schlitz adopted the Brown Bottle.

Scientists, world famous, had rendered opinions that beer exposed to light cannot remain pure.

One year ago, Schlitz corroborated its claims by reprinting such parts of these opinions as were pertinent.

Today, the last link in this long chain of incontrovertible evidence is complete.

We reproduce herewith in miniature the printed matter on covers or caution cards taken from cases of beer sold by brewers using the light bottle.

A STATE DEMANDS ACTION.

The paramount duty of the legislature that assemblies today is the reformation from top to bottom of the scandalous fiscal system of the state of Georgia. That is to be done primarily by making every man, every county, every interest pay their fair share of taxation. It is a notorious fact that under our mossback system of taxation a great many of them have not been doing so for years. The issue has recurred and been evaded from year to year. The time has come for action. If the state's credit and honor are to be preserved intact, and if the state's functions are to be nourished and not paralyzed, an immediate way must be found out of this long-standing embarrassment. No legislator who regards seriously his oath of office will care to go home without making his earnest contribution to the solution of the problem.

What is the situation? Georgia has, year after year, been spending more than she received. To cover these annual deficits, the state government has been compelled, year after year, to "kite" and borrow emergency money in a fashion that would disgrace the high financiers of Wall street. Even with these disreputable makeshifts every branch of the state's educational system and each of its eleemosynary institutions have been penalized.

One feature alone—that of the indefensible delay in paying the school teachers of Georgia—is enough to indict the system. These men and women are equipping the Georgians who shall rule tomorrow. At best their pay is meager and insufficient. Yet under the patchwork method for so many years in operation these teachers must wait months and months, after their salaries are earned before receiving them. It is now nearing the end of the first half of the year 1913. Not a penny has been paid out on the 1913 accounts due these hard-worked and underpaid men and women. The consequence is they are driven, by the exigencies of bread and meat, to shylock their small salaries where the counties do not themselves borrow the money and take the interest charges out of the first allotment paid them by the state. If Georgia were a poor state or a state without resources, these oppressive and archaic measures might be tolerated in the name of education. Georgia is not poor, and her resources set her singularly above most states in the union from the standpoint of revenue-raising power.

With regard to the branches of the state university, the university itself, the district agricultural colleges and the eleemosynary institutions, the conditions are relatively as bad. The university at Athens has a smaller maintenance and expansion fund than that of the university of any other state of the union of similar standing. It is cramped in every direction. The same condition applies to the state college of agriculture. It is even aggravated at the Georgia School of Technology which, with smaller resources than any similar institution in the south, has been forced to keep pace with the important task of supplying builders to this commonwealth. The purely eleemosynary institutions of the state are each year compelled to trim and trim their budgets and threaten their usefulness because of an alleged public "poverty" which is simply the result of cowardice.

Here and there the cry has been up that this evil is to be met by smaller appropriations. That is the dreariest ban-combe. In an admirable analysis of Georgia's financial system, published elsewhere, Walter McElreath, chairman of the house appropriations committee for 1911-12, effectually disposes of this argument. We commend his statement, as that of one speaking with authority, to the incoming legislature. He shows that the great growth of appropriations is simply a register of the great expansion of the state and the assumption on its part of new and vital functions. Beginning with the year, approximately, 1855, he shows that Georgia entered a new era in which it encouraged common schools, acted more fairly by pensioners, dealt more liberally with the university, established branches to it, broadened the facilities of eleemosynary institutions and begun the discharge of other obvious duties. Financing the state in 1880 was a simple matter. Georgia had not then assumed to the same extent its obligations to its citizens. No wonder it was possible to reduce the tax rate. It is different—vastly different—today. For not only must the state find funds for these expanded activities, but it must do so out of decreased sources of revenue. For instance, the abolition of the convict lease system, which was constructive legislation of the highest order, cut what would now be more than half a million dollars a year from the state's income. The repeal of the dog tax took, approximately, $140,000. The prohibition law wiped out hundreds of thousands of revenue annually. No one quarrels with these reforms. But every left a deficit which must be met if every institution that spells progress is not to be sacrificed. Had these old revenue-makers been left undisturbed we would not be faced by the disparity between income and appropriations. Since they are no longer available, new avenues must be found.

If legislatures heed the advice to hold down appropriations they will surely paralyze some one or more of the state's functions. No Georgian would endure a reactionary policy in this regard. It is as sensible for the growing state of Georgia to talk of cutting down appropriations as it would be for a grown man to try to subsist on the food and with the clothes of a child.

As with any individual, as with any business house, it is with Georgia a case of making income adapt itself to needs and not of pruning down needs to make them conform to income. That way lies positive stagnation. Perennially, our ancient tax system, devised for a simple civilization, makes the state appear as a pauper. Georgia is not a pauper state. Take the one potential asset of the state road. That property will not, of course, ever be sold. But it affords an illustration of Georgia's wealth. According to returns made recently to Comptroller General Wright, the road is now making a net return equal to 5 per cent on a capital of $20,000,000. In other words, the $20,000,000 represented in the state road would, were the state's affairs liquidated, clear Georgia's slate absolutely clear of indebtedness and leave a margin of from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000.

In taxable assets Georgia is particularly rich. The state compares favorably with any other in the country. Logically, and if taxation were scientific, not only should there be ample funds each year to decently provide for the state's needs, but also to accumulate a surplus. Why is this not done? For the simple reason that taxpayers in Georgia pay what they please and not what they ought. If a man is minded to return his property at the same figure as that of last year, he is free to do so, even though that property may have doubled in value. This system means that counties of equal wealth are making unequal returns; that individuals make the same compromise with their conscience. It means that where two dollars should have been added to taxable values, only one dollar has been added. It means the state has to skirrnish to keep its business going, when it should have a great and easy working balance.

THIS THING WILL CONTINUE INDEFINITELY. IT WILL STEADILY GROW WORSE, THE STATE'S INSTI-

TUTIONS WILL BE INCREASINGLY THREATENED, THE STATE'S CREDIT WILL ULTIMATELY BE IMPAIRED UNTIL TAXES ARE EQUALIZED IN GEORGIA. There is no other way out of it. We have played with the problem for years. Now we must master it or it will master us.

The state is alive as never before to the need and the justice of tax equalization. It is demanding that steps be taken. Out of this situation grow many suggestions. Among them is one to the effect that a commission be appointed to "inquire and report." If that suggestion is adopted, the people may as well abandon hope of action from this legislature. The pigeon-holes are full of reports of tax commissions. Commissions are fine—as mortuaries. As far as data and information goes—there is enough already at hand to begin work. In the comptroller's office alone is a wealth of detail that will amaze the man who thinks people are paying taxes as they should in this state.

Let this legislature get busy! We commend to them, in this connection, the plan of Mr. McElreath to catch up with the perennial teachers' deficit. He would offer, as did Mr. Ashley, of Lowndes, a constitutional amendment for a slight increase in the tax rate, for a year or two only, to be used for this purpose. His other suggestions for science instead of confusion in administering the school and pension funds is excellent. His suggestion for an inheritance tax is one primarily advocated for Georgia by The Constitution.

There are plans in abundance. There is information to spare. What is needed is action. The Constitution proposes to hammer this issue from this time forward, without fear and without favor, until the present general assembly takes action. The rich state of Georgia has long enough been cramped in its growth. It has long enough tolerated the spectacle of tax-dodgers letting others bear their burdens. It has long enough been saddled with a system that threatens disastrous financial complications. The day is gone for cowardice and timidity. Georgia expects that every legislator shall disregard political expediency or personal pressure and do his duty by the whole state. No legislature since reconstruction has so great an opportunity as has this one for splendid, non-partisan statesmanship.

"IMMEDIATE" MEANS—NOW!

Two weeks ago the entire community halted with relief the announcement that the Fulton county commissioners would "immediately" repair Peachtree street between Fifteenth street and Buckhead, with the assurance that next year the work of permanent repaving would be undertaken. Already a third of the summer is passed. If the repair work thus promised is to be of any avail at all it should be undertaken at once and pushed to completion. Delay means that by the time it is completed summer will be over and the most imperative need of a safe thoroughfare left behind.

We are well enough acquainted with the ability and intentions of the commissioners to know they meant what they said when they agreed to repair the road "immediately." But we are just a trifle afraid they are in danger of taking issue with the dictionary-makers on the definition of that word. "Immediate" means—NOW! And if the evils which caused the whole county to clamor originally for quick action are to be remedied, that is the definition that must be observed.

It is not as though the repairing of this dangerous stretch affected just Peachtree. That avenue is more used than any other in Fulton county. South siders use it almost as much as north siders. From all portions of the county and of counties beyond, the strain on it is steady and terrific. From all the collateral streets the tax is heavy. No one denies the disreputable condition of the street. From Fifteenth to Buckhead it is really unsafe to traffic. It is criss-crossed by newly-laid pipes and sewers, and gullied by frequent repavings until the toll it takes from vehicles of every nature is almost inestimable.

A few men and a little material and a week or ten days' work will put the stretch in such shape that it will be at least passable for the remainder of the year. But unless action is taken quickly it will be too late to be of service this summer. We therefore sincerely hope that the county commissioners will permit nothing to interfere with the immediate redemption of their promise. But where a street affecting so vitally every part of the county is concerned, every day's delay brings definite penalty.

CAUSE OF AND CURE FOR GEORGIA'S FISCAL TROUBLES

(Walter McElreath, of Fulton county, was chairman of the appropriations committee of the Georgia house of representatives of 1911-12. He is intimately familiar with the state's financial affairs. He commends The Constitution's campaign for tax reform, points out fiscal evils and suggests remedies.)

Editor Constitution: Your timely and statesman-like editorial, "The Cause of the Trouble," in which you take issue with the annual and perennial howl about "legislative extravagance," hits the bull's-eye. This annual clamor is partly habit, largely insincere and mainly demagoguery. The people do not wish small appropriations, and they will not stand for them. Small appropriations mean limited performance of state functions, contrary to the spirit of the age. President Woodrow Wilson, in a recent article in World's Work, says: "It is perfectly clear to every man who has any vision of the immediate future . . . that we are just upon the threshold of a time when the systematic life of this country will be sustained or at least supplemented at every point by governmental activity."

But we do not need to take the dictum of any student of political history outside of our own observation, and do not need to look beyond our own state to see the amazing change that has, in recent years, transformed the character of government.

In 1880 the taxable property of the state was $251,424,651 and the tax rate was 2 1/2 mills. In 1883 the value of the property of the state had increased to $306,921,355, and the rate was lowered to 2 1/2 mills. But at this period, no pensions were paid except a provision, in the nature of a pension, for the furnishing of artificial limbs to maimed soldiers; there was no appropriation to the public schools except the funds set apart by the constitution, amounting to $282,721, and the school population was 431,444, according to the last preceding school census, the appropriation being considerably less than $1 to each child; the University of Georgia consisted only of the college at Athens, the school at Dahlonega, the experiment station and a few other unimportant branch schools.

Increasing State Functions. Soon the era of increased state functions began. In 1895 the university was enlarged by the establishment of the School for Colored Youths; in 1889, by the establishment of the Georgia Normal and Industrial school; in 1885, by the establishment of the School of Technology; in 1896, by the establishment of the State Normal school; in 1906, by the establishment of the State College of Agriculture; in 1906, by the establishment of the eleven district agricultural schools; in 1911, by the establishment of the Agricultural, Normal and Industrial school, at Valdosta. In 1897 the department of agriculture was enlarged by the creation of the department of horticulture and pomology; in 1889, by the creation of the department of geology, and, at various other times, the department was enlarged by increasing the functions of the department. In 1903 the state board of health was created. By numerous constitutional amendments, additional classes of pensioners have been created until these two funds have reached the great sum carried by the present general appropriation act. From an institution conferring little direct benefit on the citizen, except peace and safety (which are the greatest of all benefits of government), the state has grown, within a generation, into a great institution of social co-operation and of material benefit. Great highways are being built by the state through the labor of convicts, the cost of which, estimating the labor of the convicts at the amount received during the last year of the operation of the lease system, plus the cost of maintenance of the prison department, amounts to an appropriation by the state of approximately a half million dollars annually; every needy soldier receives some assistance from the state; instruction in the public schools has constantly increased in quantity and in grade; secondary education is afforded at the state's expense in every congressional district; opportunities of industrial and technical education are afforded in great institutions; education in the pure sciences is given at a university which stands high among state universities; agricultural education is afforded by a school of agriculture and valuable extension work is done among the farmers; development of the mineral resources of the state is fostered by a competent department of geology; the public health is protected by the agencies of the state board of health; the scourge of diphtheria is guarded against by the keeping of anti-toxin within the reach of every citizen; rabies is prevented by the furnishing of preventive serum; sources of typhoid are discovered by the free analysis of drinking water; animal industry is protected by measures for the prevention of disease and for the eradication of cattle pests; agriculture, horticulture and pomology are encouraged and protected by the dissemination of information by analysis of fertilizer and by the expenditure of the public moneys for the destruction of vermin and the prevention of plant diseases.

A realization of the value of these agencies has created a public sentiment in favor of this enlarged character of state government. The increase of the functions of government is the irresistible law behind the political and social evolution of the age and it will continue.

Expensive Parimony. The civil establishment of Georgia is run upon the least cost upon which it can be run, with reasonable efficiency, and any decrease of appropriations must be at the expense of the agencies of direct benefit to the citizen, and the statesman who has no other remedy for the improvement of the state's finances but a decrease of appropriations has a remedy against the spirit of the age and one so destructive of the public welfare that no ambitious and growing state will adopt it.

In 1909 the chairman of the committee on appropriations, Hon. W. R. Jones, undertook to hold the appropriations for the years 1910 and 1911 within the revenues. Under his strong influence this was done for the year 1910 and a small surplus was created for that year. For the year 1911 the irresistible demand for a larger state function increased the appropriations to a sum more than $680,000 greater than they were the year previous, and a deficit was created.

When the committee on appropriations for the years 1911 and 1912, whose duty it was to prepare the bill making appropriations for the years 1912 and 1913, undertook that task, it was confronted with an enlarged budget, and the problem, before it was whether or not it would reduce the budget or attempt to maintain it as it inherited it, with the necessary normal increases to certain of the public institutions for which the public welfare seemed to demand slightly increased appropriations. The latter plan was adopted, and when the general appropriation bill of 1911, making appropriations for 1912 and 1913, came from the committee, the chairman stated that the bill, as reported, would, if the taxable values should continue to increase as they were then increasing, at the end of the year 1912 leave a small surplus, if no increase were made in the items of the general bill and no special appropriations should be made, and he advised the house not to make special appropriations for the two years amounting to more than $100,000. An addition of $100,000 was made in the house to the common school fund, and other small increases were made. In the general bill, 80 great and irrevocable was the demand for special appropriations that, in round numbers, $150,000 of special appropriations were made for the year 1912 and $100,000 for the year 1913. When the general appropriation bill was passed in 1911 the receipts from the dog tax were about $150,000 per year. By reason of the Tarver bill, passed in 1912, the preliminary report of the comptroller general estimated that the receipts from the dog tax for the year 1913 will be only about $10,000.

It will be seen from the above figures that the appropriations were about $200,000 more than was advised by the chairman of the appropriation committee for the years 1912 and 1913, and that the total amount has been cut off for the year 1913. The comptroller's estimate of the deficit for the two years is $34,000, agreeing almost exactly with the estimate of the writer made two years ago.

Answering your question, "Why are we disgraced by the recurring spectacle of spending more than we receive?" the answer is, because the people of the state demand that their state shall be run upon an efficient plan, performing reasonably all the functions of government, and the legislature has not had the nerve to raise a corresponding amount of revenue.

Every well-informed member of the legislature realized the situation two years ago. What should the legislators have done? Putting aside the question of a revision of the tax system at that time, the legislature did exactly what it should have done; that is, maintain the institutions of the state at the existing standard of efficiency until the present time, giving the legislature an opportunity to solve the financial difficulty.

Just Two Ways. There are only two ways in which the legislature could have prevented the present deficit, by reducing the common school fund. One was to reduce the common school fund or pensions, and the other was to reduce the maintenance of the institutions of higher learning, or the eleemosynary institutions of the state. Public sentiment would not stand for a reduction of the common school fund or of the pension fund. The man who would have proposed such a reduction would not have gotten twenty-five votes. There could be no reduction in the civil establishment, because the offices of the state are poorly paid now and their salaries could not be reduced. To have taken away the money from the deaf, the dumb, the blind or the insane is unthinkable. To have taken away $400,000 from the higher educational institutions of the state would have closed every such institution in the state. The slight increases made to the higher educational institutions of the state did not amount to more than about $30,000.

These are the reasons for the present deficit of appropriations. For the year 1911, the amount of appropriations for the common school fund or of the pension fund, the man who would have proposed such a reduction would not have gotten twenty-five votes. There could be no reduction in the civil establishment, because the offices of the state are poorly paid now and their salaries could not be reduced. To have taken away the money from the deaf, the dumb, the blind or the insane is unthinkable. To have taken away $400,000 from the higher educational institutions of the state would have closed every such institution in the state. The slight increases made to the higher educational institutions of the state did not amount to more than about $30,000.

These are the reasons for the present deficit of appropriations. For the year 1911, the amount of appropriations for the common school fund or of the pension fund, the man who would have proposed such a reduction would not have gotten twenty-five votes. There could be no reduction in the civil establishment, because the offices of the state are poorly paid now and their salaries could not be reduced. To have taken away the money from the deaf, the dumb, the blind or the insane is unthinkable. To have taken away $400,000 from the higher educational institutions of the state would have closed every such institution in the state. The slight increases made to the higher educational institutions of the state did not amount to more than about $30,000.

Notwithstanding the tremendous financial problem presented by the cutting off of sources of revenue, the institutions of the state have been taken care of by the appropriation bill of 1911. The common school fund has not, up to this time, been impaired, and the preliminary report of the comptroller general says:

"That, notwithstanding the large increase of appropriations for the support of the state government, the institutions of the year 1911, the demands on the state treasury have been met, though it was found necessary to make a temporary loan of $200,000. This was only made possible by the abnormal increase in the taxable values of the state for the last four years, amounting to $136,976,517, thus increasing the revenue of the state $684,882, as well as an increase from the special and occupations taxes and from other sources."

There is a relation between the proper maintenance of the functions of government and the public prosperity, and appropriations duly apportioned to the common benefits obtained therefrom are in the nature of an investment, rather than an expense, and statesmanship in the administration of the public finances consists in determining the due proportion of his earnings which the citizen should contribute in taxes for common distribution in the support of the agencies of government, maintaining at that degree of efficiency which will make the highest common contribution to the public comfort and welfare.

It does not require statesmanship to merely reduce appropriations. The institutions of the state passed through a crisis in 1911 and they stand today, by reason of the action of the legislature of 1911, unimpaired. They are not maintained upon as high a degree of efficiency as the public welfare demands. No man, who has ever done the state or its finances, The legislature is now just meeting and has the remedy in its power. This is the advantage of annual sessions of the legislature; that any condition may be cured so soon as it becomes urgent.

The Remedy. In the writer's opinion, the necessary legislation and constitutional changes to meet the needs of the situation are the following: The provision, by constitutional amendment, for an additional tax levy for one or two years, supplementing the common school fund sufficiently to pay the salaries of the teachers as they are earned, said fund to be either or both of the following: (1) The provision, by constitutional amendment, for a maximum tax levy of a certain number of mills for the support of the common schools, with the provision that no other funds, except those set apart by the constitution, shall be appropriated for this purpose. (2) A provision similar to the preceding for the payment of pensions. (3) The enactment of a law providing a reasonable graduated inheritance tax. (4) The adoption of a thorough system for the assessment and equalization of taxes.

MRS. LANIER ACQUITTED OF MURDERING INFANT

Verdict May Effect Case of Husband, Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Waycross, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—Mrs. W. C. Lanier was tonight declared not guilty of the murder of her infant son. The jury returned this verdict exactly five hours after the case reached them. Owing to the report that the jury had earlier stood about unanimously in favor of acquittal the verdict was not a surprise.

Mrs. Lanier received the verdict without any emotion beyond a quickening of her breath and flushed cheeks. Her mother, Mrs. Damon, did not take the verdict so quietly, as she immediately flung her arms around her daughter and kissed her passionately, declaring that she knew her girl had not done what the indictment charged. For some time after the reading of the verdict the acquitted woman was surrounded by relatives and friends, who congratulated her on the verdict and assured her of their faith in her.

To these remarks the woman had nothing to say, but smiled happily. The news was rushed to her husband, who is in jail pending motion for a new trial. His sentence is life imprisonment. In view of the acquittal of Mrs. Lanier there is much speculation as to what effect this will have on the husband's case.

Mrs. Lanier left the courtroom accompanied by her parents, and is spending the night with them. It is just somewhat doubtful if the jury could convict any one of a crime they did not commit, she is said to have told her mother as they left the courtroom.

With the court room packed as it has never been packed before, the trial of the woman was resumed this morning, and within an hour and a half both state and defense had concluded their examination of witnesses.

Deafening Killing. Mrs. Lanier took the stand and in a statement was frequently interrupted by her crying. She told the jury that she had nothing to do with the killing of the infant and that her husband had either shot or strangled the child shortly after the birth of the child she had felt drowsy and had gone to sleep, awakening when a noise in the room disturbed her. She said when she opened her eyes her husband was sitting on the bed by her and that he first looked at her and then at the baby, having a distressed look on his face.

Doctors on Stand. Referring to the statement by Dr. J. H. Latimer that she asked him to stop the child's breathing, she said she did not remember saying anything of the sort to the physician, but did not deny that she had talked with him. Much of the testimony by Dr. M. M. Johnson and Dr. A. Fleming today was of a technical nature. Dr. M. Bradley, health officer, told of his investigations of the case and of Lanier's arrest by city police on the charge of violating the ordinance covering the removal of dead bodies from Waycross. A motion by the attorneys for the defense to strike out the testimony submitted by M. L. Moore and a negro nurse who testified that they were one of the buggy used by Lanier to take the remains to Pierce county, where the body was buried in a sand hill, and the testimony of Dr. Latimer relative to the statement of him, was overruled by Judge Parker.

During the solicitor general's summary of the evidence against Mrs. Lanier the defense was represented by M. E. Dickerson, solicitor general. All made strong arguments before the jury.

AS ATTORNEY ARGUES JURYMAN TAKES SNOOZE

Macon, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—J. S. Raley, a juror in the city court, was literally talked to sleep this afternoon while sitting in a damage suit case. Attorney George S. Jones had been arguing the case for about an hour, when Judge Hodges happened to notice that Raley was taking a snooze. The court was rightly so indignant and at once sent a bailiff to awaken the sleeping juror. It took several good shakes to arouse him. Judge Hodges promptly excused Raley as a juror for the term and fined him $1 a minute for each of the fifteen minutes he had been asleep.

NO WOMEN TOOK PART IN AMERICUS LYNCHING

Sensational Reports Printed in Some State Papers Denounced at Mass Meeting.

Americus, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—A mass meeting of representative citizens was held this afternoon at which resolutions were adopted regarding erroneous and sensational articles in several state papers yesterday to the effect that young ladies in their teens participated in the lynching here Saturday night. The error was in the use of the words "young ladies," when it should have been "young men." The mass meeting adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, there has been published in several state papers under a special news service from Americus that young ladies took part in the hideous lynching of Will Redding on last Saturday night, and whereas, the error grew out of reading 'lads in their teens' as sent by the local correspondent for 'ladies in their teens';

"Be it further resolved, That we especially condemn the reckless, sensational spirit which inclined The Macon News to 'play up' the story in the glaring headlines, 'Young Women in Circle at Americus,' as not in keeping with the high regard which many men show women everywhere. There is not a more refined and more noble womanhood anywhere than in Americus and the men of Americus deplore this great injustice done them by the public press, recklessly and without any effort to know the truth."

W. W. O'DONNELL SLAIN

J. B. Deason Held In Connection With Death.

Lumpkin, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—Jim Ben Deason has been arrested in connection with the killing at Louville early yesterday morning of W. W. O'Donnell, who was shot while returning home after accompanying a friend to the train. O'Donnell was shot several times, several people being awakened by the firing. Some claim to have seen a man riding rapidly away on horseback by the roadside. Deason was arrested at the instance of the victim's father and placed in the Lumpkin jail. O'Donnell had been in the community for several weeks, engaged in boring a well. He was regarded as an orderly citizen.

Athens, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—Twenty more volumes in the litigation to the hundred recently drawn, were yesterday selected for the hearing of the now famous cases of J. W. Griffin and R. H. McCrary, president and cashier of the Athens Trust and Banking company, charged with both misdemeanors and felonies in connection with the bank's failure. The cases will be called for the ninth time in court tomorrow morning. This new hearing, in pursuance to the ruling of the court of appeals, which granted a new trial after Griffin and McCrary had plead guilty and been sentenced to five years each in the penitentiary.

JUDGE NORWOOD'S WILL TO BE PROBATED TODAY

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—The will of Judge Thomas M. Norwood, who died at his country estate, Hadcock Hall, Thursday, was made public today. It will be probated tomorrow at a meeting of the board of directors of the Citizens and Southern bank. At this meeting the board will formally accept for the bank the position of executor to trustee for the Norwood estate. The instrument expressing Judge Norwood's desire for this bank to act in this capacity.

The value of the Norwood estate is estimated at $300,000. The will provides that Mrs. J. T. McFarley, Judge Norwood's daughter; Lucy M. Norwood, his son, and George M. Norwood, his grandson, shall each get an equal share of the property, but their interests shall consist of a life estate. By a system of remainders the one-third shares of the estate left in life tenures to the three legatees shall descend to the children of the legatees.

BITE OF RATTLESNAKE FATAL FOR YOUNG BOY

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—In terrible agony from the bite of a rattlesnake inflicted near Bethesda yesterday, Edward, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Jackson, died today. The boy had been picking huckleberries with his brother in the fields near his father's home, which is near Bethesda, when the snake bit him on the leg. The boy ran home to his parents, screaming, and Mr. Jackson, who was suffering with a cut in his mouth, realizing that it would mean death to him to suck the wound, rushed the boy to Bethesda in a wheelbarrow. Here Superintendent Chaplin applied all the first-aid remedies, but the poison got in its work before they sucked the blood.

Large Barn Burned

Canton, Ga., June 24.—(Special).—Guy Collins, owner, located on his large farm near Canton, was do destroyed by fire this afternoon. This was the largest barn in north Georgia, and the loss was heavy, as the barn was only partially covered by insurance. About 2,000 bushels of corn, farming implements and a beautiful oat crop just harvested were stored in the building. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CHANGES TO BE MADE IN CURRENCY MEASURE

It Will Not Be Pushed for Action Until It Has Been Amended.

Washington, June 24.—The administration currency bill is to undergo some important changes before it is pushed for action in either house of senate, although the measure will be introduced in both houses virtually in the same form in which it was recently made public by Representative Glass.

The provision for the retirement of national bank notes and the refunding of 2 per cent government bonds with a 3 per cent issue is to be put back into the measure later, it is understood, with the consent of the administration. This provision was in the bill before the final conference at the white house, but was taken out because of the opposition of Secretary Bryan and others.

Much of the criticism against the measure among members of both houses, since its terms became public, has been directed at the proposal to create a new kind of paper currency without withdrawing the national bank notes or providing against a depreciation in value of the 2 per cent government bonds that secure these notes. It is said now that this objection has become so strong as to convince administration leaders the provision must be restored if the bill is to pass.

Chairman Glass and democratic members of the house currency committee, at a conference today, agreed to undertake individually to "sound out" impartial bankers, business men, experts and students of financial affairs, to ascertain how the provisions of the Glass bill are regarded by that part of the public which will be most directly affected by monetary changes. Members of the senate committee on banking and currency, democrats and republicans will meet President Wilson at the white house tomorrow night for their first discussion of the new measure with him.

Representative Lindbergh, of Minnesota, progressive member of the house banking and currency committee and originator of the "money trust" investigation, criticized the new bill in a statement today. "If enacted in its present form," he said, "the bill would deal with the banking interests only. It has no direct relation to the people except in the creation of a national reserve board."

BALL WILL BE GIVEN FOR YANCEY FAMILY

With the funds for the family of Deputy Dave Yancey, who was killed ten days ago by a negro thief, whom he was trying to arrest, still coming in slowly, the members of the Owl's club are laying plans for an elaborate entertainment Friday night in their roof garden, from the proceeds of which it is hoped to raise several hundred dollars for the cause. The use of the clubrooms and dance floor on the roof garden have been given by the members of the club, and tickets are being sold daily. The tickets will cost only 25 cents for men, and ladies will be admitted free.

"BOSS" COX OBJECTED TO LOANS BY THE BANK

Cincinnati, June 24.—That George B. Cox, former president of the defunct Cincinnati Trust company, had strenuously objected to repeated loans by the bank to the Ford & Johnson Chair company, of which he was a director, was testified to here today by George E. Powell, of New York, former treasurer of the chair company. Mr. Cox is the first of eight former officials of the bank on trial for alleged misapplication of $115,000 of the funds of the bank which was lent to the Ford & Johnson company after that firm was in an insolvent condition, the state charges.

Mr. Powell testified that it had been the custom of the directors of the bank to loan $15,000 each week to the Ford & Johnson company to meet its pay roll. On his application for a renewal of this loan when the affairs of the Ford & Johnson company were declared to be hazardous, Mr. Powell said that Mr. Cox arose and said: "Not another dirty dime will you get."

Other witnesses during the day testified as to the condition of the chair company when it was receiving loans from the Cincinnati Trust company. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

RESINOL HEALS BABY'S SUMMER SKIN TROUBLES

If baby is suffering with summer eczema, prickly heat, heat rash, chafing, insect bites or any of the other distressing hot weather skin irritations, give him a warm bath with Resinol Soap and put a little Resinol Ointment in the sore places. The itching and smarting stop at once, sleep becomes possible, and under this gentle, easy treatment, the trouble soon disappears.

After that, a daily bath with Resinol Soap is usually enough to keep baby's delicate, easily irritated skin clear and healthy through the hottest summer weather.

You need never hesitate to use Resinol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for 18 years in the treatment of all sorts of skin affections. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. Practically every drug-gist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at our expense if you prefer. Send to Dept. 42-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for liberal samples.—(Adv.)

SOCIETY

Society Assembles Thursday At the New Country Club

The formal opening of the country home of the Capital City Country Club Thursday afternoon and evening will be a brilliant occasion socially in which Atlanta society ever appreciative of the social leadership of the Capital City club will assemble there to bid welcome to the department of the club in its career for pleasure.

Like the good citizen who has served well in that capacity to his duty, a successful business and fulfilled his every obligation finds his spirit seeking rest and quiet and nature's beauties in the country. The membership of the club found its answer in looking for a country home for the summer months. They wanted their own golf links, their own lake, their own retreats for summer pastimes and like everything else the club reaches for, they wanted the best.

They have it. Having leased the Brookhaven club the club house proper occupies a site which commands the most beautiful views in the city. The lake is large, the scenery is new and the taste of the club is in keeping with the club's complete spirit and convenience. The name of Brookhaven has given way to that of Capital City Country club and plans are now made which will insure the country life of the Capital City Club measuring in brilliancy with that of the town house and affording thereby a place of continued recreation and pleasure during the summer months.

The afternoon end of the event in Thursday will begin at 5 o'clock when the entire club house will be opened for the pleasure of the guests. There will be music and refreshments while in the evening there will be dancing. The living room main reception hall and dining room can be converted into a ballroom opening on the three porches which surround the club building.

The Thursday afternoon dances will be continued during the summer months and provision is being made for the daily service of guests at the tea hour when the golf players will assemble after that all popular game. Mr. Robert I. Maddox the president of the club and Mrs. Maddox and the officers of the club and directors and their wives will compose the receiving party Thursday afternoon and evening.

STANFIELD-MAY.
 Rome, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—This evening at 8 o'clock the marriage of Miss Frances Stanfield and Mr. Hoyt May was impressively solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stanfield, parents of the bride. The bride party entered the parlor by two entrances, the bridesmaids, Miss Letha Watson and Miss Lillian Cowdan, of Rockmart, advancing simultaneously as Messrs. Walter Ballow, of Atlanta, and Charles May, groomsmen, came in from the hallway.

The dainty bride was attended to the artistic altar of ferns and flowers by her sister, Miss Louise Stanfield, and they met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Dan McClain. Rev. G. G. Snyder performed the impressive rites. An informal reception followed, after which the happy young couple left on a brief trip.

A number of pretty pre-nuptial courtesies were tendered the betrothed and a wealth of handsome presents attest their popularity.

PARTY AT TALBOTTON.
 Talbotton, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—During the past few days Miss Ruth Arnold has been the lovely hostess of a house party composed of the most attractive young ladies that have ever visited Talbotton. Her guests were Misses Cornelia Bell of Gainesville, Missa Carter of Perry, Julia Dickey of Oxford, Marguerite Walton of Columbus and Blouise Walker of Atlanta.

Tuesday evening the visitors were given a reception by Miss Arnold at her home on College street. Delicious refreshments were served.

Miss Lucy Kimbro's party Wednesday morning was a beautiful one of the series given in their honor. Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

Thursday evening the guests were complimented by an enjoyable party given at Warm Springs by a number of young men. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton P. Westmore and a dinner given by the young men at the Hotel De Graham Monday evening.

CHARTER REFORM WILL BE ISSUE THIS FALL

Mayor Woodward Will Lead the Fight and the Issue Will Be Clean Cut.

That charter reform will be one of the biggest issues in the council elections next March, has been clearly indicated by Mayor James G. Woodward, Atlanta's charter reform leader.

When Mayor Woodward made his strongest plank in his entire political career was charter reform. His first serious effort with council was over a bill to have the Candler-McClelland-Hopkins charter adopted by council and submitted to the legislature and then voted on by the people. Council ignored the demand of 5,000 voters to submit back the mayor's charter and the instrument framed by council and the people. Mayor Woodward declared war on council and council's policies. He now intimates that unless the people of Atlanta return a council favorable to the politics he will propose the $1,500,000 bond issue.

Mayor Woodward sounded the opening of the fall campaign Tuesday afternoon, when he declared:

"Want Charter Reform.

"The votes of 5,000 citizens show plainly that the people of Atlanta were charter reformers. More than were returned by postal ballot than were returned when I was elected mayor. Council has discriminated against the people, and now I ask the same people to support a bond issue of $1,500,000.

"I am not opposed to a bond issue. I would like to see the city issue more than a million and a half, but I want to see a people's right before I'll support the money right before I'll support a council, and I'll undertake to get Atlanta out of the hole before my term expires. Then, if the people still think that a bond issue is necessary, I'll take the stump and urge. All I want to see is an administration that will look after the interests of the people."

There will be four aldermen and ten councilmen to go before the people in March for election. In the event the Alderman John E. McClelland, of the Second ward, insists on Mayor Woodward accepting his resignation, it will make fifteen in all. Alderman McClelland was the mayor's floor leader in the charter reform fight.

The retiring members are Councilman A. H. Baskin, First ward; Councilman C. D. Knight, Second and Councilman James E. Warren and Councilman Orville H. Hall, Third ward; Alderman James B. Everett and Councilman Albert Thomson, Fourth ward; Councilman J. J. Greer, Fifth ward; Jesse M. Wood, Sixth ward; Alderman F. J. Sprattling and Councilman Roy Abernathy, Seventh ward; Alderman Arthur B. Van Dyke and Councilman Clarence Hart, Eighth ward; Councilman Charles W. Smith, Ninth ward, and Councilman Claude L. Mason, Tenth ward.

Will Seek Re-Election.

Several retiring members of council will seek re-election, and thus far no opposition has sprung up. They are Alderman James E. Warren and Councilman Orville H. Hall, Third ward; Councilman Albert Thomson will seek re-election. He has no opposition to date. Councilman Charles Whiteford, Councilman Jesse M. Wood will seek re-election. Councilman Charles Whiteford will ask for re-election from the Ninth ward, and it is expected that Councilman Claude L. Mason will be returned from the Tenth.

Here are some of the candidates who have either announced their intentions of participating in the fall elections, or who have been put into the field by their friends: Guy Meyers, First ward, to succeed Councilman A. H. Baskin; C. H. Kelley and Harvey Hatcher, in the second ward, to succeed Alderman James B. Everett; Councilman C. D. Knight is being urged by friends to seek the higher place, and W. L. Parker will probably seek Councilman Knight's place.

R. E. George is being put forward to succeed Councilman Albert Thomson, in the Fourth ward. Councilman Thomson is regarded as the most likely candidate for the place which Alderman Everett will vacate.

It is understood that Alderman Everett will aspire to a place on one of the boards at the expiration of his term.

A three-cornered race is on in the Fifth ward over the place to be vacated by Councilman J. J. Greer who was regarded as the Fifth's most formidable representative in council. Jesse E. Lee has announced his candidacy against Judge Russell Shirley and Dr. B. E. Pearce.

A race in the Seventh ward over Alderman Sprattling's place will be spirited. Councilman Roy Abernathy has declared that at the end of the present term he will drop out of politics. He says he is thoroughly disgusted with the continual harassment between the mayor and council. For the two places in the Seventh ward Dan Walraven, Dr. J. C. White, Marcelus Anderson and Jesse Armistead have been suggested.

Hancock a Candidate.

Alderman Arthur Van Dyke's retirement has described as "undesirable." An intimate friend tells me the senator regularly uses on her face what druggists know as mercurized wax. This is suited at night in the manner cold cream is used, and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead particles of skin which daily press and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish complexion is always in evidence.

Horse hair is not marred by a single wrinkle, not even the finest line. She wards these off by daily bathing the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered sassafras in a half-pint witch hazel. As your drug stores keep these ingredients, as well as mercurized wax (one ounce of wax is sufficient), no doubt your readers will welcome this information.

WILL LAY CORNERSTONE FOR OLD WOMAN'S HOME

AMERICANS WINNERS IN ENGLISH TENNIS

Wimbledon, June 24.—In the English lawn tennis championships here today Craig Biddle, of Philadelphia, won three straight sets from G. H. Maves, a member of the Canadian team which meets Belgium in the next round of the Davis cup tournament. Wallace F. Johnson, of Philadelphia, easily beat H. B. Webb, of Cambridge University. E. Norris Williams, of the American Davis team, disposed of R. M. K. Turnbull in easy style and Maurice McLoughlin beat A. H. Glendening in three straight sets.

Sterling form shown by McLoughlin, Johnson, Williams and Biddle has caused nervousness among the home talent.

Twenty-Seven Mayors Favor Sunday Baseball In State of New York

New York, June 24.—A referendum vote taken among the mayors of fifty cities in New York state shows an overwhelming majority in favor of Sunday baseball, according to figures of the conference of mayors of the state of New York. Out of thirty-two mayors voting, twenty-seven endorsed Sunday baseball. Five were against it. A resolution has been sent to Governor Sulzer requesting that he place the matter before the legislature with a view to repealing statutes which prohibit professional ball on Sunday.

Basketball Title.

New York, June 24.—Amateur Athletic union officials announced today that the national basketball championship would be decided in Chicago. The titular games will be played early next month in connection with the International Athletic carnival sponsored by the Chicago Athletic association. The tournament, which will be without weight classification, is open to all registered fives of the United States and Canada.

Ennis Sick.

Stamford, Conn., June 24.—John Ennis, a pedestrian of local fame who was laid out several days ago to defeat Edward P. Weston, the veteran walker, on a "hike" from New York to Minneapolis is seriously ill of stomach trouble at his home here. Physicians fear he may not recover. Ennis is 70 years old. Although Ennis started a day after Weston, he was several miles ahead of him when he was taken ill near Millville, Pa.

RAILROADS OBEYING U. S. SUPREME COURT

Kansas City, June 24.—Railroads in Missouri affected by the recent decision of the United States supreme court upholding the Missouri 2-cent passenger and maximum freight rate laws will, without waiting for the mandate of the supreme court, put the new rates in effect at the earliest practical date, according to a statement by attorneys representing the railroads after a meeting here today.

St. Paul, Minn., June 24.—Seven railroads operating in Minnesota tonight agreed to abide by the terms of the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota rate cases, and announcement was made that the new rates probably would be placed in effect by July 10, and that refunds of overcharges would be made in all cases where proper proofs of such overcharges were produced.

FOR A FUNERAL FUND TRAVELERS PROVIDE

Columbus, Ohio, June 24.—Providing for the creation of a funeral fund and payment of a $200 funeral benefit to the families of members, an amendment to the constitution of the National Secretaries-Treasurers Association of the United Commercial Travelers was adopted by that organization at its annual meeting here today.

The following officers were elected: Claude C. King, of Sioux City, president; George F. Brown, of Lexington, Ky., first vice president; H. T. McCrea, of Alton, Ill., secretary; J. M. Berry, of Dallas, Texas, re-elected treasurer.

Members of the supreme council will begin their annual meetings here Wednesday morning. The Imperial Guild, Mystic Order of Bagnmen, a side degree, will hold its annual session Thursday evening.

Dividend Cut in Half.

Boston, June 24.—The Arlington Mills, of Lawrence, section 1 size to the American Woolen company, cut its dividend in half today, declaring a rate of 2 per cent for six months. This is the lowest rate since 1921. Poor business, impending tariff changes and the garment workers' strike of last winter are given as the only causes of the reduction. The mills are now employing only a little more than half the normal force of 5,000 hands.

TROOPERS WILL FIGHT SHAM BATTLE TODAY

Blanks Have Been Furnished the Soldiers and an Exciting Affray Is Anticipated.

By Ogle Grice.

Brunswick Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—Maneuvers are now on in earnest at Camp Brown. The company of the Third battalion, under Major Hunter, advanced as skirmishers in battle line across the end of the island, and finally ended the mock fighting with a bayonet charge.

The troops of the Second squadron maneuvered extensively. The squadron advanced up the island in battle formation and all movements were skillfully executed.

Pistol firing by the officers of the Second squadron was held on the beach at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, under the direction of Major Seaman. A number of excellent scores were made. All officers are qualifying as expert pistol shots.

Guard Mount Impressive.

The guard is mounted at 9:30 every morning. One troop is on guard duty at a time. The guard mount is very impressive and is always watched by interested persons.

The band of the First Georgia and the troopers' squad of the Second squadron furnished the music. Adjutant McCollum and Sergeant Major Oxford participate as principals in this.

Troop A was relieved Tuesday by troop B. Troop F performs guard duty on Wednesday, troop E on Thursday and troop K on Friday.

Sham Battle Wednesday.

Much interest is centered here in the sham battle, which will occur early Wednesday morning. The nature of the sham battle will be absolutely new to Georgia cavalry. At 8:15 the troops of the squadron assemble in heavy marching order and march out of Camp Brown towards the beach. At selected spots the troopers will halt and go into light camp.

They are supposed to be anticipating a battle. Later trenches will be thrown up. Out-posts will, of course, be placed. The squadron out-posts will be heard to fire as the enemy approaches, and the entire squadron will be formed and hurry to meet the enemy. As blanks have been furnished an exciting affray is anticipated.

NEW TRADE TREATY SUGGESTED BY RUSSIA

Washington, June 24.—Responding to a suggestion made some time ago by the Russian government, Secretary Bryan has informed Ambassador Bakmeteff that he would be glad to enter into negotiations for a new treaty of trade and commerce between America and Russia. No attempt has been made actually to open negotiations as yet, and it is understood that the ambassador, who has communicated Secretary Bryan's message to his government, is awaiting instructions from St. Petersburg.

Secretary Bryan stated today that the exchanges had not passed beyond the expression of a mutual desire to have a new treaty and that there had been no attempt to outline the basis of a new convention.

It has been reported from St. Petersburg that President Wilson had notified the Russian government his administration would be willing to enter into a new treaty only upon the condition that American citizens be "freely admitted" to Russia.

Since the abrogation of the old commercial treaty, as a result of feeling against restrictions imposed by Russia upon the entry of American Jews, the necessity for a new convention has been demonstrated in various ways. However, there has been no indication that either government is prepared to recede from its attitude toward the question at issue before.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF IN A JEALOUS RAGE

Three Little Children of H. Clay Mills—Spectators of the Double Tragedy.

Mobile, Ala., June 24.—H. Clay Mills, a prominent naval stores operator of Atmore, Ala., early this morning shot his wife to death with an automatic shotgun, then blew out his own brains with the same weapon. It is said the deed was the result of a fit of jealous rage. Three little children of the couple were in the house at the time of the tragedy. Mills and his wife were both prominently connected in south Alabama and Mississippi.

Mills fired three charges from an automatic shotgun into the body of his wife, killing her instantly. He then placed the muzzle of the weapon against his throat and fired a shot which tore off the entire top of his head.

A Word or Two of Cheer To Those in Search of Work

Columbus Was About Ready to Turn His Ships

—and go back to Europe when a lookout saw seaweed floating near the ship. A short time, and America was discovered.

Don't give up. Keep right at it—reading the Help Wanted columns of this paper and using the Situations Wanted columns. Many a man has stopped just short of success. A step or two farther; a day or two more and his dream would have been realized.

You may not believe it, but the demand for trained men and women has never been so great before. And, employers whose time is precious, scan the Situations Wanted column of the Constitution's Classified daily in search of competent men and women to help them push their business ahead.

Surely 15 cents is a small sum to spend to meet these men who seek you there. If you don't connect today, there's tomorrow and the next day. Your ad runs three times for 15 cents.
