

LEE TELLS HIS STORY ON STAND

Little Mary Phagan's Mother Weeps Testifying

RICH GEORGIA GIRL LOST 3 WEEKS

Lynette Awtrey, Acworth Heiress, Strangely Missing, Wires Plea for Help From Utah.

A dramatic story behind the mysterious disappearance of Miss Lynette Awtrey, 18-year-old daughter of wealthy Orlando Awtrey, one of the leading citizens of Acworth, Ga., and a member of one of Cobb County's most prominent families, who, after a tour of Europe, boarded a train in New York for Atlanta and then vanished as utterly as though she had left the earth, is expected to be bared this week when the girl arrives home from Ogden, Utah, where she has been located.

Miss Awtrey has been missing for nearly two weeks. Becoming homesick during her European trip, she returned to New York and wired her father to send her money to come home. Mr. Awtrey wired her $200 and the same day received a telegram asking him to meet her in Atlanta. Her trunk came on the train on which she was supposed to come, but there was no trace of the girl.

Since then her family has exhausted every means to locate the missing girl. The aid of the William J. Burns Detective Agency was enlisted and the operatives of the famous sleuth scoured the cities of the United States; the aid of police departments all over the country was invoked—but with no result. For all the detectives were able to ascertain to the contrary the girl had dissolved into thin air. After she boarded the train in New York absolutely no trace could be found of her.

Sends Mysterious Telegram.
With constant reports of failure being filed by America's most noted sleuths, Mr. Awtrey redoubled his efforts to find his missing daughter. More appeals were made to police departments, private detective agencies were enlisted in the search, and photographs of the young girl were sent out secretly by the Burns men in the hope that someone could be found who had seen her.

Sunday morning Miss Awtrey broke her silence of two weeks with a telegram from Ogden that intensified the mystery. It contained no explanation of her disappearance. The telegram was a piteous appeal for aid—a cry that she was alone and penniless in a strange land.

"Please help me," the telegram said. "I have no money. I am sorry I left home, but can't explain now. I will tell you about it when I get home."

The message was signed "Lynette," with no address in Ogden save the Western Union. Mr. Awtrey immediately wired his daughter money and a ticket to Acworth by way of the Union Pacific. It is probable that either he or one of the girl's brothers will meet her at Nashville or Chattanooga.

The disappearance of Miss Awtrey is almost identical with the case of Dorothy Arnold, the missing New York heiress, who still is being sought by detectives after a disappearance of more than a year, and has stirred and perplexed Cobb County more than any mystery of recent years.

Comes From Leading Family.
The fact that the girl comes from one of the leading families of North Georgia makes the interest in the mystery all the greater. Her father is president of the Acworth Cotton Mills Manufacturing Company of Acworth, and is interested largely in the commercial life of the town. She is a niece of Mrs. D. F. McClatchy, wife of the reading clerk of the Georgia House of Representatives, and a niece of John Awtrey, a prominent attorney of Marietta, and of Bernard Awtrey, editor of The Marietta News. She is also related to Mrs. R. M. Moon and a number of other prominent Marietta and Cobb County people.

Miss Awtrey is prominent in Acworth.

ENGINEERS QUARREL; 1 KILLED

Sam Jackson Is Fatally Shot by Grover Cleveland Partee.

Sam Jackson, a freight engineer on the Georgia Railroad, was shot and fatally wounded by Grover Cleveland Partee, also an engineer, at the roundhouse in Inman Park about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

According to witnesses of the shooting, Jackson had just come in from a run, and on leaving his engine met Partee. It is said that there had been bad feeling between the two men for some time, and after a few words, Partee drew a revolver and fired one time, the bullet striking Jackson in the neck.

The Grady ambulance was at once called, and the wounded man rushed to the hospital, but he died on the operating table without ever regaining consciousness.

Men at the roundhouse held Partee until the arrival of the police, when he was taken to the station. The cause of the murder is not yet known.

Conduct of Chipley Marshal Questioned

CHIPLEY, FLA., July 28.—City Council to-day appointed a committee of three to ascertain whether charges should be preferred against the town Marshal, with instructions to institute impeachment proceedings if deemed necessary.

It is alleged that on Saturday the Marshal arrested a negro woman dressed in men's clothing, but failed to arrest a white man who furnished her with the clothes and was following her. Council Saturday night demanded the Marshal's resignation, but, acting on advice of his attorney, he refused to resign.

Two Men Drowned in Jacksonville Region

JACKSONVILLE, July 28.—Jesse Kramer, a newcomer to this city, was drowned at Pablo Beach to-day. His cries for help were not heard and his body floated ashore shortly afterward. The life savers and physicians who were summoned were unable to restore respiration, although they worked over him for two hours.

The body of J. B. Reynolds, of this city, who was drowned at James Point, in the St. Johns River, yesterday afternoon, was found to-day. Efforts to locate his wife have not been successful.

Speeding Auto Turns Turtle; Four Injured

JACKSONVILLE, July 28.—While speeding on Atlantic Boulevard Sunday afternoon Conrad and John Mangel, L. H. Guest and William Hicks, a negro chauffeur, were injured when the car left the highway and turned turtle.

The big machine turned over twice and was badly damaged. The four occupants of the car escaped with minor injuries, although all were badly shaken up.

Miss Painter Sues Insurance Company

JACKSONVILLE, July 28.—Miss Opel Painter, daughter of the late E. O. Painter, filed suit this morning against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, of Baltimore, for $50,000.

Only the declaration was filed and the counts of the action are not known, although it is supposed that she is attempting to collect the insurance carried by her father.

FRANK SKETCHED IN COURT

The prisoner is apparently the calmest and most collected person in the crowded courtroom. He is in the best of health and is keenly alive to every proceeding in the trial.

The accused appeared to figure largely in the defense's acceptance or rejection of jurymen.

NEGRO WATCHMAN SWEARS FRANK ACTED ODDLY DAY OF CRIME

Here are the important developments in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Jury chosen at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Coleman, girl's mother, takes stand after recess, at 3:15, and tells of Mary leaving for the factory 11:45 a. m. on April 26.

George W. Epps, boy companion of Mary Phagan, repeats his story that he had an engagement to meet her on the afternoon of the fatal day.

Newt Lee, night watchman at the factory, tells his story of the finding of the body and subsequent developments. He says Frank acted queerly the day of the crime, and is cross-examined by Luther Rosser.

Court adjourned at 5:15 after an interesting session.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of murdered Mary Phagan, was the first witness for the prosecution at the trial of Leo Frank Monday afternoon. After answering several questions she broke down completely when the solicitor exhibited the little lavender skirt worn by her daughter when she last saw her alive. She covered her face with a fan and for several minutes could not answer a question.

The first question asked her was:

"What is your name?"

"Mrs. J. W. Coleman."

"When did you last see Mary Phagan alive?"

"April 26 at 11:45."

"What was she going to do when she left home?"

"She was going to the pencil factory to draw her pay."

Not Yet 14 Years Old.

Q. What did she eat before leaving?
—A. Cabbage and bread.

Q. What was the age?—A. Nearly 14 years.

Q. Was she pretty or an ugly girl?
—She was very pretty.

At this point Mrs. Coleman's voice began faltering.

Q. Did she have dimples in her cheeks?—A. Two pretty ones.

Q. What did she wear when you saw her the last time?—A. A lavender dress trimmed in lace.

Shows Victim's Dress.

Here Solicitor Dorsey took a large suitcase from the floor and opened it, and laid before the witness the clothes taken from Mary Phagan's body. It was then that Mrs. Coleman broke down and no more questions were asked for several minutes.

Between sobs, Mrs. Coleman, identified the clothes of Mary Phagan, which were laid at her feet. Deputy Miner gave her a glass of water. Solicitor Dorsey closed his questioning and Mr. Rosser took up the cross-examination.

Q. What trimming was on Mary's hat?—A. Pale blue ribbon and some small pink flowers.

Q. How far do you live from the car line?—A. Two blocks.

Boy Accompanied Her.

Q. Is there a store there?—A. Yes.

Q. Who kept the store?—A. Mrs. Smith.

Q. Do you know that Mary caught a car immediately leaving home at 11:45 o'clock?—A. Yes, she caught a car in five or seven minutes.

Q. Do you know the boy who was with her?—A. Yes, Epps.

Solicitor Dorsey objected, desiring to know who the boy was and what about him.

"It is necessary for me to know the relation between little Mary Phagan and this boy," answered Mr. Rosser.

"I don't know what's on his mind," declared Dorsey. "We ought to know if he intends to endeavor to impeach this witness."

"We are simply trying to find how Mary Phagan regarded this boy."

The cross-examination was resumed.

State Objects Again.

Q. Isn't it true that Mary told you that she detested Epps—that she didn't like him?

Dorsey objected again and Attorney Rosser withdrew his question.

Q. Didn't you tell L. P. Whitfield before exhibiting Mary Phagan's

FRANK JURY.

Here is the Frank jury complete:

A. H. Henslee, 74 Oak street, salesman.

F. V. L. Smith, 481 Cherokee avenue, manufacturers' agent.

J. F. Higdon, 108 Ormewood avenue.

F. E. Winburn, 213 Lucile avenue, claim agent.

A. L. Wisbey, 31 Hood street, cashier of the Buckeye Oil Company.

W. M. Jeffries, a real estate man, with offices at 318 Empire building.

Marcellus Johemming, 161 James street, a machine shop foreman with offices at 281 Marietta street.

J. T. Osburn, an optician for A. K. Hawkes, was chosen from the fifth panel to be the ninth juror.

D. Townsend, 84 Whitehall Terrace, cashier Central Bank and Trust Corporation, tenth juror.

W. S. Medcalf, 136 Kirkwood avenue, circulation man.

C. J. Bosshardt, pressman, employed by Foote & Davies, 216 Bryan street.

that Mary told you she detested Epps?

Objection again by the State, claiming that the question was immaterial and was mere hearsay.

Rosser said: "I am going to show the improbability of Mary Phagan making an engagement to meet this boy Epps."

Objection was overruled.

Says Girl Made Remark.

Mrs. Coleman finally replied that she thought Mary had made that remark.

Mrs. Coleman was excused with the intimation that she might again be called to testify.

Following Mrs. Coleman, George Epps was called to the witness stand. Solicitor Dorsey opened the questioning.

Q. Where do you live?—A. No. 246 Ross street.

Q. How old are you?—A. Fourteen.

Q. How long have you known Mary Phagan?—One year.

Q. When did you see her last alive?—A. Saturday morning, April 26.

Q. Where were you?—A. I came to town with her.

Q. Where did you catch the car?—A. At Lindsey street.

Q. What time?—A. Ten to twelve, before exhibiting Mary Phagan's

REUBEN R. ARNOLD.

FRANK A. HOOPER.

E. A. STEPHENS.

Q. What time did you leave her?—A. Seven minutes past twelve.

Q. Did you ever see these clothes (clothes)?—A. She had them on when I left her.

Q. Where did she say she was going?—A. Right to the factory to draw her pay.

Q. Did you expect to meet her again?—A. She said she would meet me at 2 o'clock to see the parade. I left her at Forsyth and Marietta streets at 7 minutes past 12. She was going to the factory then.

Rosser Takes Up Quizzing.

Q. What did she say about Frank?—A. She said she would meet me at 2 o'clock to see the parade. I left her at Forsyth and Marietta streets at 7 minutes past 12. She was going to the factory then.

Q. How do you know the time?—A. I saw a clock at Oliver street, right after I got on the car. It was about 10 minutes to 12.

Q. Where did your mind first get on the clock?—A. They kept asking me about it, and I finally recalled it when I testified at the Coroner's inquest.

Got Off Car Where He Did.

Q. Where were you at about 12 o'clock?—A. I don't know exactly where the car was.

Q. How do you tell the time when you can't see a clock?—A. I tell by the sun.

Q. Can you come pretty close?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you sure Mary Phagan got off the car with you?—A. I am certain. She got off when I did.

Q. What were you doing between 2 and 4 o'clock?—A. I waited for Mary Phagan to meet me at the Elkin Drug Company.

Waited for Her Until 4 p. m.

Q. You said she was going to meet you at 2 o'clock?—A. Yes, but I hadn't finished selling my papers and kept waiting for her.

Q. You waited at that corner all this time?—A. I never left there until 4 o'clock.

Q. What did you do then?—A. I went to the ball game and finished selling my papers there.

Q. When did you see Mary Phagan again?—A. The next morning at the pencil factory.

Epps was then excused and Newt Lee called to the stand.

Lee Begins His Story.

Lee is the negro night watchman at the pencil factory who discovered the body of Mary Phagan in the basement of the building. After being sworn, Solicitor Dorsey questioned him:

Q. What is your name?—A. Newt Lee.

Q. What was your business?—A. Night watchman at the National Pencil Factory.

Q. How long were you there?—A. Three weeks.

Q. Where were you night watchman before?—A. At the other place.

Q. Do you know Mr. Frank?—A. Yes.

Calls Frank "Head Foreman."

Q. What was his position?—He was head foreman.

Q. You mean superintendent?—A. Yes, something like that.

Q. What instructions did Mr. Frank give you?—A. He told me Friday to come back at 4 o'clock on Saturday. He said he wanted to get away.

Q. What time did you get there?—A. A few minutes before 4 o'clock.

Q. What time were you accustomed to coming on Saturday?—A. Five o'clock. Saturday at 12 o'clock he always gave me a key and I returned the key on Monday morning.

Door Was Locked.

Q. How did you find the door on the Saturday afternoon of April 26?—A. It was locked on that Saturday.

Q. How did you know it?—A. I took my key and unlocked it.

Q. What did you do after that?—A. I went up to the second floor with a sack of bananas.

Q. What else did you do?—A. I sat my bananas down and said: "All right, Mr. Frank."

Q. What did he do?—A. He hustled out of the office.

Q. Did he ever come out that way before?—A. No, when I went in he always hollered to me from his office.

Q. What was he doing when you day was my shortest day, but I agreed to come back early.

Q. What was Mr. Frank's manner when you came in that Saturday afternoon?—A. Well, I never noticed his face, but he was rubbing his hands like he was worried.

Rosser Takes Witness.

At this point the State rested the examination of Lee and he was turned over to the defense for cross-examination. Mr. Rosser lead with the questioning for counsel for Frank.

Q. Did you testify at the Coroner's inquest?—A. I testified before something.

Q. How many times have you told this to Mr. Dorsey?—A. One time.

Has "Good Recollection."

Q. How many times did Mr. Black go over this statement with you?—A. I don't know; there have been so many I don't know them all.

Q. You have told this story many times haven't you?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you always told it the same way?—A. Yes, sir; I got a good recollection.

Mr. Rosser was here insistent to know if Lee told about Frank appearing frightened when he met Gantt. He asked the negro if he didn't say Frank had said he gave the pair of shoes to a boy. Lee maintained that there were no contradictions in his statement.

"No, sir," he said, "you got that wrong."

Q. How many Saturdays were you at the pencil factory?—A. Four.

Q. What time did you usually get there on Saturday?—A. At 12 o'clock, to get paid.

Q. Did you stay there after that?

little while to look after the fires.

Q. Mr. Frank thought you went there every half hour?

When Lee did not answer, Solicitor Dorsey interrupted, saying that he did not want the negro committed by silence.

Lawyers in Clash.

"We want silence some times," said Mr. Rosser, "sometimes I am asking these questions and silence is one of my privileges. For the prosecution to interrupt is deliberately obstructing the testimony without intending to."

"I will make him answer," said Solicitor Dorsey, "when I get him."

"Yes," said Mr. Rosser, "I know you will. Probably you can get him to answer better than I can."

"I want the truth," rejoined Solicitor Dorsey.

"Yes, we all do in our partisan way," replied Rosser.

Q. You watched Gantt get away and you knew Mr. Frank was uneasy about him being there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. They had had a difficulty, hadn't they?—A. Mr. Frank told me he had discharged Mr. Gantt and he didn't want him around.

Q. That is why you thought Mr. Frank was frightened when you met him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Gantt is a big fellow, isn't he?—A. Yes, about 7 feet.

Q. You went over the building every half hour and into the basement a few times from the ladder?—A. Yes, sir, except in the basement. I went there every hour.

Q. If you wanted to find whether the door at the rear was closed, you would have passed the body?—A. It was shut when I found the body.

Q. Did the police find it open?—A. They said they did.

Solicitor Dorsey objected to the form of Mr. Rosser's questions and was sustained.

Q. The police got there in about eight minutes?—A. I don't know. I said all the time I didn't know how long it took them.

Light in Alley, He Says.

Q. You didn't get any closer to the basement door than the body was?—A. No, sir.

Q. Could you have seen out of the back door?—A. Yes, if it was open.

Q. Are you positive about the door being closed?—A. Yes. There was a light in the alley and I could have seen if the door had been open.

Q. Are you positive about the door being closed?—A. Yes; there was a light in the alley and I could have seen it if the door had been open.

Q. Did you go as far as the body before you found it that night?—A. Not until 3 o'clock, when I found the body.

Q. Why didn't you see the hat and shoes as you went along?—A. I don't know. I just didn't see them.

Court was then adjourned at 5:12 with Newt Lee still on the witness stand. He will be placed on the stand again when court opens at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Leo M. Frank was back in the county jail twenty minutes after the conclusion of the first day's hearing in his trial. The calmness which had characterized his appearance all day was still with him and he smiled as he said good-bye to the friends who accompanied him to the Tower in company with Sheriff Mangum.

Newt Lee was returned to the county jail a few minutes before Frank. The negro has been a model prisoner and while kept under the eyes of a special guard all day consideration was shown him in many little things.

All the force of attorneys at the table for the defense watched with keen eyes every man examined for the jury, and frequently referred to a voluminous record containing the names of all the veniremen and detailed statements of their history and associations so far as these might have a bearing on their desirability as jurors to pass on Leo Frank's guilt or innocence.

The keenest interest was manifested by those in the crowded little courtroom as the strategies of the brilliant lawyers were revealed during the examination.

State Had Veniremen's Records.

The thoroughness with which the Solicitor and his assistants had canvassed the history of every venireman and had investigated whether or not he had ever expressed an opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused was demonstrated when W. W. Hemmett, a salesman for the Kingbury Shoe Company, was being examined as to his qualifications.

"Have you ever said you thought Frank was guilty?" Mr. Dorsey inquired.

"No, I never have," replied Hemmett.

Here the Solicitor referred to some notes at hand and proceeded to call to Hemmett's recollection a certain talk he had had with acquaintances at a certain time. Hemmett was forced to admit that he had talked of the case at that time, but declared that he had not expressed a definite opinion.

"I only said I would have to hear some evidence before I would believe Frank was guilty," he told Judge Roan.

He was rejected for cause.

Defense Equally Alert.

The defense showed that it was exactly as vigilant when the next venireman was examined. As soon as A. L. Bellingrath, of No. 91 Milledge avenue, arose from his seat, Attorney Arnold was on his feet, prepared to state the objection of the defense. He pointed out that Bellingrath was the brother of Henry Bellingrath who has been employed in the Solicitor's office during the Phagan investigation and that he was reported to have expressed an opinion on the guilt of Frank.

A shrewd bit of strategy was used by Solicitor Dorsey and Attorney Hooper in accepting the two negroes whose names were among the veniremen.

By doing this they forced the defense to use up two of their twenty challenges if they did not desire to have negroes on the jury. With Jim Conley, a negro, likely to be indicted for the murder in the event that Frank is cleared, the defense had no intention of allowing them to pass on Frank's guilt and promptly struck them. The two negroes were Earl Davis and E. E. Hawkins.

May Summon Reporters.

When court opened for the afternoon session, Attorney Arnold announced:

"We may want to use some of the members of the press as witnesses. I don't want to put them under the court rule which would exclude them from the courtroom."

Solicitor Dorsey hereupon arose and said:

"All right, but I want to reserve the right to do so at a later date if necessary."

Defense Loses First Clash.

The attorneys for Leo M. Frank lost out in their first skirmish with the prosecution, being compelled to read their list of witnesses against their wishes and their vigorous protests.

They evened up matters by obtaining from Solicitor Dorsey the concession of honoring the subpoenas issued by the defense and demanding the production in court of all the affidavits of Jim Conley. After a short passage between Attorney Arnold for Frank and Solicitor Dorsey, the list must be read, the judge ruled, and the list was read by Attorney Stiles Hopkins.

The list included employees of the National Pencil Factory, where the murdered girl worked; members of Frank's immediate family, and other relatives and associates of the accused man, members of the same fraternal orders, acquaintances who saw Frank on the day of the crime and classmates in college.

Juryman Chosen.

The reading of the list of names came as a complete surprise. It developed that the defense had scoured the country for persons who had known Frank when he was a student at Cornell. They were subpoenaed to bring the character testimony in his behalf up to the time he began his business career.

The picking of the jury proved less difficult than anticipated, twelve men being obtained before 1:30.

List of Jurors.

Here are the jurors chosen:

A. H. Henkle, No. 74 Oak street, a traveling salesman for the Franklin Buggy Company; F. V. L. Smith, No. 481 Cherokee avenue, manufacturer's agent, with offices on the Empire Building; J. F. Higdon, a contractor, No. 108 Ormewood avenue; P. E. Winburn, No. 213 Lucile avenue, claim agent Atlanta and West Park avenue; J. T. Osburn, an oculician for Hawkes, was chosen from the fifth panel to be the ninth juror.

DAINGEROUS CALOMEL GOING OUT OF USE

A Safer, More Reliable Remedy
Has Taken Its Place in the Drug Store and in the Home.

A few years ago, men, women and children took calomel for a sluggish liver and for constipation. They took risks when they did so, for calomel is a dangerous drug. Your family doctor will be the first to tell this if he discovers you dosing yourself with calomel.

But the drug trade has found a safer, more pleasant remedy than calomel in Dodson's Liver Tone.

Dealers tell us that their drug store sells Dodson's Liver Tone in practically every case of biliousness and liver trouble where calomel used to be taken.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a vegetable liver tonic that is absolutely harmless for children and grown people. It sells for 50 cents a bottle and is guaranteed to be entirely satisfactory by all druggists who will refund your money with a smile if it does not give quick, gentle relief without any of calomel's unpleasant after-effects.

time did he do it slower or quicker than before?—A. He sort of fumbled it.

Q. Do you know how to fix a time slip?—A. No, I never fixed one in my life.

Tells of Seeing Gantt.

Q. Did you see Mr. Gantt that day?—A. Yes, I saw him down at the door a little after 6 o'clock. He said he wanted to get some old clothes.

Q. Did you see Mr. Frank?—A. Yes, Mr. Gantt went in. Mr. Frank came bustling out and run into Mr. Gantt. He looked like he was surprised and jumped back.

Q. What did they say to each other?—A. Mr. Gantt said he wanted to get his shoes. Mr. Frank said he thought the boy had thrown them into the trash basket. Mr. Gantt asked what color they were. Mr. Frank said they were tan. Mr. Gantt said his were black.

Q. What did Mr. Frank do then?—A. He dropped his head and said for me to go up with Mr. Gantt to get the shoes.

Q. What did you find?—A. We found black shoes and tan shoes.

Frank Called Him.

Q. Did Mr. Frank call you over the phone that night?—A. Yes, he called me about 7 o'clock.

Q. What did he say?—A. He said: "How is everything?" I said everything was all right. He said "Good-bye."

Q. Did you hear from him any more?—A. Not until Sunday morning.

Solicitor Dorsey then exhibited a diagram of the scene of the crime, drawn by Bert Green, the Georgian staff artist. By this diagram Lee explained the lightning system of the building.

Veniremen Keenly Watched.

Q. What did Frank tell you about the lights?—A. Frank told me to keep the lights on the street floor burning bright so that officers could see in. I always lighted up on Saturday at 5 o'clock.

Q. What did he tell you about the basement lights?—A. He told me to keep it burning bright all the time.

Left Lights Burning Brightly.

Q. How did you leave it Saturday morning when you left the factory?—A. It was burning bright.

Q. How was it when you saw it again Saturday evening?—A. Have you ever seen a lightning bug when you knock him down in the grass? Well, it was just about like that.

Q. What did you do?—A. I went down and turned it up.

Q. What time did you make your rounds?—A. Regular on the hour and half hour.

Q. Did you make them regularly Saturday evening and night?—A. I never missed a one. I had a peg I put in the hole and I am sure I never missed a punch.

Knows Nothing of Elevator.

Q. What about the elevator?—A. I didn't know nothing about that.

Q. What about the street door and the office door?—A. They were closed.

Q. What kind of doors were they?—A. The kind you pull down.

Q. Was it your duty to close those doors?—A. Yes, I put it there the second Sunday night I come to work there so that I could punch right.

Q. Was the time slip all right?—A. I don't know.

Q. You have never been in liberty since, have you?—A. No, sir; they grabbed me and said I did it as soon as I showed them the body.

Q. When did you see Frank again after that?—A. We went to the station in the same automobile.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him the next Thursday night?—A. I don't know what night it was, but they took me out of my cell and said they were going to let me and Mr. Frank have it out. They nannucced me to a chair before he came.

THROUGH AT THE COURTHOUSE DOORS AS THE TRIAL OPENED

FRANK, FEELING TIPTOP, SMILING AND CONFIDENT, IS UP LONG BEFORE TRIAL

Frank was escorted from the Tower to the courthouse shortly after 6 o'clock in the morning, nearly three hours before the trial was scheduled to begin. This was done to avoid the curious crowd which it was expected would be about the courthouse and thronging the corridors at 9 o'clock.

Frank was up and dressed and freshly shaven when Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor appeared before him at the early hour.

"How are you feeling this morning, Mr. Frank?" the deputy inquired.

"Tip top, only I'm mighty hungry," replied Frank.

Exhibiting the same poised confidence that has characterized him through three months since he was locked in a cell in the county jail, the young factory superintendent chatted freely with Minor on the way to the courthouse.

Sure He Will Be Freed.

He was attired in a natty light gray mohair suit and wore a fancy gray tie. His face was fuller and he appeared slightly heavier than when he was arrested shortly after the murder of the Phagan girl. He seemed cheerful and in the best of health.

"I am very sure of acquittal," he said, as he arrived at the courthouse. "I am glad that the trial is about to begin after this long wait. I have no fear of the outcome. I am not only innocent of the terrible crime but I am innocent of any knowledge of it, save as the information has come to me since the officers came to my house that morning three months ago."

At this moment E. C. Eisenbach, a relative of Frank, appeared with a tempting breakfast which was spread in the prisoners' room at the courthouse. Frank gave ocular proof that his appetite had not suffered from his long confinement as he proceeded to make way with the delicacies prepared for him.

Frank greeted his relative cheerfully and conversed with him for more than an hour. The topic seldom was on the crime or the trial which was about to begin. Long before the time set for the judge to take the bench other friends and relatives of the prisoner had appeared and some of them were permitted to talk to him.

Conley Ready For The Stand.

Jim Conley, Frank's accuser, was made ready for the trial early in the morning, although it was not probable that he would be called during the day.

He was given a shave and a new suit of clothes, as he had worn for the last three months the same shabby garments that he had on at the time he was arrested while washing a shirt at the National Pencil Factory.

Conley said that he was ready to go on the witness stand at an instant's notice. He declared that he would stick to the same story that he told in his last affidavit and which he has since repeated many times for the benefit of Solicitor Dorsey.

"If they had just let me face Mr. Frank, I could have made him tell the truth long before this," he asserted.

Less than half a hundred persons were waiting about the courthouse at 8 o'clock, an hour before the time set for the beginning of the trial. It was thought that not a large crowd would be clamoring for admission to the courtroom as it had become quite generally known that the small room would accommodate hardly more than the witnesses and the veniremen and that it would be necessary to exclude practically all spectators.

Much Preparation Made.

For no trial in the history of Georgia have such elaborate arrangements been made for the comfort of the comparatively small number of spectators who will gain admission, the attorneys who will handle the case, the jury and the newspaper men.

Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor has received much praise for the splendid preparations made.

Electric fans have been installed at every window and on the railing separating the spectators' seats from the bar, oxonators have been placed to keep the air purified. It probably will be the coolest and best ventilated place in Atlanta.

Not more than 250 spectators will be admitted. Approximately that number of chairs have been placed outside the inclosure. When they are filled the doors will be closed and no one else will be allowed in. No one will be permitted to occupy standing room.

The usual custom of permitting

Venire Whipped Into Shape Rapidly; Negro Is Eligible

Within a minute or two after Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor had called the court to order the examination process was applied to the venire panel of 144 men. From each panel of twelve one or more men were excused after being asked the formal questions and furnished a sufficient reason to bar them.

J. H. Jones, Deputy Clerk, called the names. F. W. Stone, No. 82 East Linden street, was excused on account of illness. R. F. Shedden was refused on an excuse of military exemption. Only one man was excused from the first twelve men.

H. R. Calloway, No. 691 Piedmont avenue, first of the second panel, was not served. F. A. Hull, No. 189 Grant street, was excused on account of his age, 20 years. T. J. Henderson, No. 25 Woodson street, was excused as opposed to capital punishment. J. A. McCreary, No. 78 East North street, was excused because of his residence in DeKalb County. J. F. Patterson, of College Park, was excused on account of deafness. Five were excused from the second panel.

Negro Declared Eligible.

W. H. Scott, No. 215 Gordon street, was excused on account of ill health. He had a doctor's certificate. W. H. Abbott, Record Clerk of the court, was refused excusal. Only one man was excused from the third panel.

The first surprise came with the questioning of the fourth panel, when Earl Davis, a negro, was not excused. He was ruled eligible to jury duty. There is little prospect that he will be drawn as one of the jurors.

George Mathieson, Assistant Chief of County Police, was excused on account of his duties. John W. Alexander, capitalist, of No. 439 South Pryor street, was excused because of illness. W. M. Donehue, of Buckhead, was let out on account of the death of his mother. E. A. Massa, of No. 305 East Fair street, was over age. J. H. Gilbert, of South Bend, was let out because of illness. The jury panels were thus being revised and made into a compact venire by this process of elimination.

Joel Hurt Out of Town.

The following men were excused in the selection of the fifth panel: George R. Wall, No. 139 Hill street, on account of illness; F. M. York, No. 221 Cooper street, on account of the illness of his wife; W. L. Brooks, No. 224 East Fair street, on account of having removed from Fulton County.

The following were excused in the selection of the sixth panel: H. Maness, No. 112 Jefferson street, account of deafness; Joel Hurt was out of town.

called they will be brought from the floor above to the court.

It is probable some rule will be made to keep the witnesses for the State and the defense separated, in which event the third floor of the building would have to be used.

The jury room was selected with a great deal of care. It is almost inaccessible from the outside and large and airy. Its windows are about twenty feet above an alleyway that runs on either side. Deputies will be kept in the alley to keep anyone from getting this close to the room.

From the time a juror is acceptable to both sides until the conclusion of the case he will not be allowed to go to his home or communicate with anyone except a fellow juror.

The least of the deputies' troubles will not be in handling the crowd that will gain admission to the court, but in handling the crowd that will daily congregate on the outside and wait through the day for news of the proceedings in the trial. Ten deputies and as many members of the county police will be on duty on the streets around the building.

Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor, who will have charge of the crowd and keeping order in court, will also have charge of the prisoners. Long before any crowd congregated around the courthouse Frank and Lee were brought from the Tower and placed in the room reserved for them. When court opened Frank took his place at the table reserved for his attorneys.

The court rule to segregate the witnesses will, of course, be enforced, but it may not be until twelve men have qualified as jurors, which will hardly be before the middle of the week.

When the witnesses are segregated they will be kept in the large courtroom on the floor above the trial room. A bailiff will be placed in the hall and one on the door of the witness chamber, and as the names are worth and Marietta society, and is considered one of the most beautiful girls in the former town.

The circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the young girl are shrouded in mystery, owing to the unwillingness of her relatives to discuss the matter. According to her friends, however, this is all that is known of the case:

Early in June Miss Awtrey left New York to tour Europe under the care of Miss Olive Faw, of Marietta, who takes parties of Cobb County girls across the Atlantic each year. There were a number of Miss Awtrey's friends in the party, and she had been viewing the trip with pleasure.

Her first letters from abroad were optimistic in tone. She declared she was having a glorious time. Suddenly there was a change. In her letters the girl reflected the homesickness that she declared, was making Europe distasteful to her. She said she wanted to return home and see her friends.

Miss Faw conducts two tours during the summer, and Miss Awtrey had arranged to take both of them. When she reached London, on the second tour, however, she wrote to her parents that she was coming home. She was next heard of in New York, about two weeks ago. She wired her father that she was homesick and wanted to come home, and asked him to send her some money and a ticket.

He wired her the $200. That same evening Mr. Awtrey received a telegram asking him to meet her in Atlanta a few days later.

Found Trunk—Not Daughter.

On the day mentioned Mr. Awtrey was at the Terminal Station to greet his daughter. The train pulled in, the father waited, but the girl did not appear. Thinking perhaps she had missed her train and would come on a later one, he stayed in Atlanta all day and met every train from New York. Miss Awtrey still did not come.

Mr. Awtrey investigated and found that her baggage had been checked through from New York to Atlanta and had arrived on the first train he had seen.

Mr. Awtrey then returned to his

Giant Negro Hunted For White Slavery

WINCHESTER, VA., July 28.—Despite the fact that several hundred regulars of the various cavalry regiments camped near town at the maneuver grounds have searched for him, the giant negro Franklin, who, it is alleged, was engaged in a white slave traffic and whose place near the campgrounds was raided on Thursday night by the Sheriff, so far has eluded capture.

The white women who were found in the company of a number of negro troopers of the Tenth Cavalry at 2 o'clock in the morning, when Franklin's tent was surrounded, are still in jail.

home. He waited several days, and when his daughter still failed to appear, he asked the aid and advice of his brother, John Awtrey, of Marietta, and his brother-in-law, D. F. McClatchy. A few days later Mr. McClatchy came to Atlanta and enlisted the services of the Burns agency. Detective Chatham, attached to the Atlanta office, went to Marietta and Acworth to determine if any clues could be developed there. His quest was fruitless. The Burns agency then obtained a photograph from a photographer in Marietta, a relative of the missing girl, and it was scattered broadcast over the country.

Miss Awtrey's family has made every effort to keep the fact of her disappearance a secret, and her relatives and intimate friends have been sworn to secrecy. None of them will discuss the mystery, nor advance any theories to account for her disappearance.

"I'm sure I do not know what caused Lynette to run away," said Mrs. R. M. Moon, a distant relative of the girl. "It is as great a mystery to me as it is to anyone."

Eloignement Is Rumored.

John Awtrey, missing girl's uncle, refused to make any comment whatever on his niece's unexplained absence.

"All I know is that she started home from New York and didn't get here," he said.

The girl's father could not be seen when a Georgian reporter visited Acworth Sunday night. One of her brothers declared that the members of her family entertain no theories of foul play or of a love affair.

"We are satisfied with the situation," he said. "She has been located."

Despite the assertions of the members of the girl's family that her disappearance is not the culmination of a love affair, several of Miss Awtrey's friends, in discussing the case, persist in mentioning the name of a young man, whose home is in Atlanta, who has been an ardent suitor of Miss Awtrey's for the past year.

The suit of the young Atlanta, it is said, has not met with the approval of the girl's family, and it is intimated that he has been forbidden to call on her. The theory evolved out of these facts by Miss Awtrey's friends is that the girl really came to Atlanta from New York and that her admirer met her here and persuaded her to elope with him.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Rest, fresh air and well-cooked, nourishing food do help many persons suffering with Lung Trouble. But in many cases the disease is only temporarily "arrested," and something more is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles and has brought about many complete recoveries—in many cases where the surroundings were not ideal. Judging by the many reports of recoveries received, we believe it should be used in every case of Lung Trouble. A remarkable case follows:

Weldon, Ill.

"My Dear Sir: Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia which developed into Consumption. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 135 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive."

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. To-day I weigh 158 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

DECEASED; FRANK'S LAST TRIAL OF LEO FRANK

DEFENSE; FORCE A START TO MAKE ITS WITNESSES

At 9:58 o'clock Solicitor Dorsey announced that he was ready to open the case of the State against Leo M. Frank, charged with having killed Mary Phagan by strangulation. This was followed by the request of the defense that the State's witnesses be called, sworn and put under the rule.

The prosecution opened by announcing its readiness to go on with the trial and called the list of witnesses. Bailiffs brought them down from the second floor. In regular order called, their names were: Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan; J. W. Coleman, the girl's stepfather; George Epps, newsboy; L. S. Dobbs, policeman; W. S. Rogers, bailiff for constable; L. S. Starnes, detective and also prosecutor on the indictment; Pat Campbell, detective; Harry Scott, the Pinkerton detective; R. P. Barrett, pencil factory employee; B. P. Haslett, policeman; M. V. Darley, factory employee; W. A. Cheeseling, undertaker who cared for the girl's body; Dr. Claude Smith, City Bacteriologist; Dr. H. F. Harris, member of the State Board of Health; Dr. J. W. Hurt, Coroner's physician; E. S. Parry, court stenographer; E. S. Smith, Monteen Stover, girl employee at pencil factory; Minnie McKnight, cook at Frank's home; Albert McKnight, Minnie's husband (McKnight did not appear in court); Helen Ferguson, Mrs. Arthur White, wife of factory employee, and L. Stanford.

Attorney Reuben Arnold asked concerning the duces tecum that he had served on the State's attorneys for the affidavits of Jim Conley and others. On the promise of Solicitor Dorsey that he would produce the affidavits whenever needed the duces tecum was waived.

Solicitor Dorsey said he did not concede the right of the defense to force a production of the affidavits. He, however, at the request of Mr. Arnold, dictated the affidavits, giving the dates of each of the affidavits signed by Conley, saying they were all of the affidavits Conley had made and that he would produce them whenever necessary.

The Solicitor asked then that the defense's witnesses be called and sworn. This was met by strenuous objection on the part of the attorneys Rosser and Arnold, who claimed their list was fragmentary.

Solicitor Dorsey protested vehemently, declaring that it would be extremely unfair to the State not to swear the defense's witnesses at this time. Attorney Rosser said it would delay the trial to complete their list at this time.

Judge Roan ruled that he would give the defense time to get up the list. The defense capitulated and it took but five minutes for the list to be made up.

Witnesses for Defense.

Attorney Stiles Hopkins, at the table for the defense, called the names of the witnesses by whom they expect to clear Frank. They were Mary Burke, Dora Small, Ella Thomas, C. P. Gilbert, P. Payne, Eula Flowers, Josephine Stoker, Mattie Thompson, Mrs. L. J. Cohen, J. C. Lowe, M. H. Liebman, Miss Bessie White, Joe Williams, Fred Howell, Wade Campbell, J. A. Price, J. E. Lyon, Cora Lander, M. O. Nix, J. C. Matthews, F. Jenkins, Mrs. Josephine Selig, E. Selig, J. H. Haas, W. H. Minney, J. B. Spier, E. L. Skipper, E. L. Sentell, May Barrett, Rebecca Carson, C. H. Carson, Harry Denham, Corintha Hall, Mattie Hall, J. L. Holloway, Marshall Jefferson, Jerome Mitchell, George W. Morrow, Rabi David Marx, A. E. Mayo, Fred Weller, A. E. Marcus, Ed Montag, L. H. Haas, W. H. Owens, T. Y. Brent and Ossie W. W. These were all of the witnesses whose names were called, but at least 100 more, who will be used mostly as character witnesses, were in the room on the second floor waiting to be called.

First Talesman Too Old.

After the venire had been sifted and many excused, W. S. Copeland was the first talesman examined. He was excused when he said that he had passed the 60-year mark. Solicitor Dorsey put the questions, using the formal ones asked in murder trials.

Being conscientiously opposed to capital punishment or conviction by circumstantial evidence was held not to disqualify a juror by Judge Roan. This was in connection with O. T. Camp, the second talesman.

"I am conscientiously opposed to capital punishment on certain grounds," said Camp.

"What are those grounds," asked Solicitor Dorsey.

"Circumstantial evidence," he replied.

Judge Sustains Defense.

"That disqualifies him, then," said Solicitor Dorsey.

Attorney Rosser objected, saying that such belief did not disqualify the juror. Judge Roan sustained the defense, but Solicitor Dorsey struck him.

A. W. Brewerton was disqualified because he was opposed to capital punishment.

W. H. Winn was struck, Solicitor Dorsey taking this action after looking over his record.

R. G. Elliott was struck by the defense.

L. A. Smith was struck for cause.

T. H. Hopkins, Jr., struck by State.

C. W. E. Cates, disqualified because opposed to capital punishment.

T. G. Young, struck by defense.

D. D. Hecy, struck because he did not believe in capital punishment.

That ended the first panel of talesmen and not a single juror was obtained. The State struck three and the defense two. Seven were disqualified for cause.

Four Jurymen Obtained.

Four jurors were obtained from the second panel. They are:

A. H. Henslee, No. 74 Oak street, a salesman.

F. V. L. Smith, No. 481 Cherokee avenue, a manufacturers agent.

J. P. Higdon, 108 Ormewood avenue, a contractor.

F. E. Winburn, No. 21 Lucile avenue, a claim agent.

On the second panel the following men were struck:

Howard Oliver, by the defense.

H. E. Luckey, for cause.

O. L. Spurlin, No. 156 Lawton street, struck by defense.

H. A. Skide, for cause.

E. E. Hawkins, No. 369 Edgewood avenue, a negro, who was accepted by the prosecution, but struck by the defense.

L. F. Davis, for cause.

David Woodward, for cause.

M. J. Sowell, for cause.

Third and Fourth Panels Go.

The following men were struck on the third panel: Charles Witherspoon, by defense; H. J. Kuglar, for cause.

On the fourth panel the following men were struck:

C. J. Hale, for cause; J. B. Hays, by defense; E. L. Winn, for cause; W. H. Abbott, for cause; K. P. Mayson, for cause; Boyd Perry, for cause.

The entire fourth panel was struck: Samuel Schoen, by the State; W. S. Singleton, by defense; Earle Davis, a negro, was accepted by the State, but struck by the defense; C. S. Cantrell, for cause; John W. Collier, for cause; W. W. Hammett, by the State; A. F. Bellingrath, by defense, on grounds that he was a brother to an employee of the State's attorney and that he had expressed the opinion that Frank was guilty.

"I said it looked like he was guilty from what the newspapers said," declared Mr. Bellingrath. Solicitor Dorsey urged that the talesman was not disqualified by this. However, Judge Roan disqualified him for cause.

"I think he should be set aside for his own sake," ruled the judge.

D. Berger, for cause.

Two More Panels Struck.

The following men were struck from the fifth panel: W. C. Willis, for cause; H. C. Haas, prejudice; C. H. Cook, by defense; C. H. Candler, in answer to a question from Solicitor Dorsey if he was impartial, said "No." George R. Low, by the State; S. E. Owens, for cause; J. C. Henderson, for cause; C. M. Brown, opposed to capital punishment; C. A. Vaughn, prejudice.

The following men, comprising the entire sixth panel, were struck: Ben F. Willis, by defense; C. M. Petton, prejudice; W. H. Hudson, not impartial; J. Miller, by defense; John Head, age; Robert Smith, opposed to capital punishment; V. N. Carroll, not impartial; C. H. Allen, opposed to capital punishment; P. F. Barber, opposed to capital punishment; O. W. Wingo, for cause; T. E. Winsow, by State; A. W. Wofford, by defense.

Every man on the seventh panel was struck, including H. H. Kelly, prejudice; N. A. Long, biased; C. W. Gittens, by defense; H. D. Ferguson, opposed to capital punishment; W. L. Merk, by defense; F. E. Walker, prejudice; P. B. Skiff, prejudice; W. S. Gaston, biased; C. L. Asbury, biased; J. W. Chatham, prejudice; C. W. Seagraves, prejudice; Carl Weinmeister, opposed to capital punishment.

The last panel, from which the last juror was secured, was Panel No. 9. The following men were struck: S. L. Millie, by defense; H. L. Solomonson, biased; O. Hendon, by defense; H. C. Ashford, for cause; E. E. Woolendoff, prejudice; Nicholas Itner, age; Bud Watts, prejudice; W. W. Sorrell, by defense; Solomon Benjamin, member of Grand Jury.

The buzz of conversation in the little courtroom instantly was hushed when Judge Roan appeared and Deputy Sheriff Minner called the court to order. The impaneling of jurors was begun at once.

Luther Z. Rosser, chief of counsel for Frank, pressed his way to the defense's table. Deputy Sheriff Minner rapped for order. Solicitor Dorsey and his associates were at their table busily arranging papers and documents several minutes before the swearing of the veniremen began.

An imposing array of legal talent was presented when the case was called. Heading the counsel for Frank were Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold, two of the foremost lawyers of the South. At their table were Herbert J. Haas, a civil attorney, who has been engaged in looking up character witnesses in behalf of Frank; Styles Hopkins, of the Rosser & Brandon law firm; Oscar Simmons and Paul Carson, engaged especially to assist in picking the jury; George Cox, of Arnold & Arnold law firm, and Luther Z. Rosser, Jr.

Life at Frank's Side.

With Solicitor Dorsey were Frank A. Hooper, the Atlanta attorney who made his reputation as a prosecutor in criminal cases; E. A. Stephens, Assistant Solicitor, and detectives who have been working on the case. Jim Conley's lawyer, W. M. Smith, also was in court.

A stir was created when Mrs. Frank, wife of the accused, made her way to the courtroom. She was escorted by the rows of spectators into the anteroom where her husband was confined. She bore herself bravely, and when she reached Frank, was seen to converse cheerfully with him.

The loyal woman, who insisted on being by the side of her husband until he was called into the courtroom with his attorney, drew the attention away from the routine proceedings several minutes.

Judge Roan in Good Humor.

Judge Roan appeared in unusually radiant humor and enlivened the dull routine of the early proceedings with facetious remarks directed at the jurors who sought to evade duty on various pretexts.

To one who claimed deafness, Judge Roan said that he had heard his own name readily enough when it was called.

Another juror, Dr. E. L. Connally, well known as a tall tale teller and a haired veteran of the war, remarked, smiling rather slyly, that he thought he was over age.

"How do you know that?" inquired the judge.

"My mother says I am," was Dr. Connally's reply.

"Do you ask exemption on that account?" inquired the judge.

"I guess I do, judge," admitted the capitalist.

"Well, then, I guess I will excuse you," said the judge.

WHOLE OF SOUTH ENTANGLED BY PRAGMATIC CASE TRIAL INTEREST SETS RECORD FOR COUNTY

Story of Pretty Little Girl's Death Gripped Public, Eager to Discover Her Slayer.

As Leo Frank faces to-day the ordeal decreed by law that for man's life, man's life shall pay, interest in his case that has held Atlanta, Georgia and the South enthralled for three months has diminished not a whit since the Sunday morning the body of the little factory girl was found.

Wise judges of news, men who are paid thousands of dollars each year for their knowledge of the fickleness of the public, men who can time to the second the period when interest dies in one thing before the public eye to be born anew in another, have for years contended that no single item of news can sustain its interest longer than one brief week.

And yet for three months the public has read of Mary Phagan's death and the quest for her slayer and their demand for this news has been insatiable.

That the vaulted insight of these news experts is as shallow as the mirror reflection of the beauty of the stage is the thought that common logic first presents.

Insight of Experts Borne Out.

The insight of these experts has not been at fault. On the contrary, it has been sustained. For in the mystery veiling the death of Mary Phagan and the trial of Leo Frank as her slayer, a more varied array of things that interest, thrill, horrify, shock and make men think is presented than in any one case developed since typesetting machinery made the modern newspaper possible.

Harry Thaw's case comes to mind, that tragedy of romance that presented in the same cast of characters the brilliant Lothario, the man of millions, and a woman as fair as the dawn. But there was never the element of mystery in the slaying of Stanford White. District Attorney Jerome described it pretty well as a commonplace tragedy of the tenderloin.

The only question that confronted the public was whether there was a law decreed by God that a man should take up arms and avenge his family honor that should nullify the law made by man that decreed that the courts of the country and the judgment of heaven could alone mete out reparation for personal injury.

But in the Phagan case, there is a mystery so deep, so impenetrable, that there are thousands in Atlanta who believe that Mary Phagan's slayer walks about to-day a free man and another battles for his life accused of his crime.

Victim Only a Child.

There was mystery in the famous case of Henry Clay Beattie, the Virginia aristocrat who met death in the electric chair for slaying his wife after his infatuation for Beulah Bland.

But again, we have a feature of the Phagan case which makes the Atlanta mystery as grippingly pitiful as the Virginia problem was sordid. For in the Phagan case a child is one of the principals. All the world loves a lover, but all the world loves a child more. And when the innocent, wistful, appealing face of the little factory girl first appeared in the public prints more heart-strings were touched than there were thrills caused in all the sinister revelations of the Virginia trial.

The child interest has made many a case appeal to the public interest more than struggles of statesmen, ravages of nature, or even the love of man for woman. The entire United States waited breathlessly for news of the capture of the kidnapers of little Billy Whitla, the sturdy Pennsylvania lad, in 1909.

But when the kidnapers were taken and Billy Whitla returned safe and sound and maybe a little happier from his thrilling experience to the home of his parents, the public forgot all about little Billy and to-day, in four short years, there are few who remember his case at all. Billy Whitla lived. Mary Phagan died.

Lamarna Case Was Absorbing.

In 1907 the hearts of every mother and father in the Southland and beyond were captured by the case of the little Lamarna boy, who was taken from their New Orleans home by members of the Crescent City Mafia. Interest was intense at every period of the search and public sentiment was kindled near to the blazing point when the beheaded body of the boy was found in a Louisiana swamp.

As thrilling as was the Lamarna case, it did not have that quality that is so essential to make a case universally absorbing. The Lamarna case was a case of a child who was kidnapped by foreigners. And Americans want an American in their news stories.

And so on and on. Recall any case of thrilling interest to your mind, analyze it, and you will discover that the Phagan case has features which that case does not possess and any one of those features would make a story of breathless interest in itself.

Committee Ready For Currency Bill

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Wilson having withdrawn his demand that the Glass currency bill be sent immediately to the Senate, the House, the Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee prepared to consider the bill to-day, with the expectation that it is expected these will be voted down.

The committee planned to take up the Ragsdale amendments to the bill providing for an industrial and agricultural currency. It is expected these will be voted down.

Defense Not to Ask Delay.

Luther Z. Rosser, of counsel for the defense, stated to a Georgian reporter as he left his office for the scene of the trial that he would make no move for delay.

"We will not seek a change of venue or make any move of any kind to delay the trial for our client," he said.

"We are entirely confident that justice and truth will prevail, as it always must."

Reuben R. Arnold, of the defense, made the same kind of a statement.

"We will announce ready as soon as the case is called," he said.

One important witness for the defense was reported to be missing. He is a traveling salesman, and the defense was said to be confident of locating him.

A great crowd gathered in front of the courthouse as the hour of the trial drew near, and when 9 o'clock arrived, Pryor street at Hunter was almost impassable. The corridors of the courthouse were a mass of humanity, through which a lane had to be cut by deputies to allow the passage of witnesses and lawyers and newspaper men.

The crowd was tense with curiosity, but to all appearances inclined to be orderly and apparently was moved easily by the commonest of human motives—curiosity.

Judge Andrew Calhoun entered the courtroom when the court was about midway in its forenoon session and took a seat by Judge Roan. In the intervals when the proceedings were interrupted by conferences of the attorneys, he conversed with Judge Roan.

New Lee, who found Mary Phagan's body, was brought from the Tower in the middle of the forenoon in the custody of a deputy sheriff. He was placed in an anteroom adjoining the courtroom. It was expected that he would be one of the early witnesses, but he has not yet been called by the State.

Lee testified before the Coroner's inquest that he found the body of the slain factory girl in the Arctic Pictures at Grand.

The wonderful series of motion pictures taken in the Arctic regions by the Carnegie Museum Alaska-Siberia expedition will be placed on view at the Grand this week.

Aside from the educational and scientific value of the pictures, they are rich in human interest.

There will be daily matinees at 2:30, 10 cents for all seats, and at night at 8:30 the prices will be 10, 15 and 20 cents. All seats are reserved and in addition to the feature pictures there will be the best first-run scenes from the greatest producers.

New Bill at Forsyth.

Joe Welch and a host of other star vaudeville features will be the attraction this week at the Forsyth. The popularity of the Forsyth has never been greater. The excellence of the shows has helped to make the theater more than a success.

As a Hebrew Welch is in the class with Warfield as a German. Robert L. Tansley and company will make their first appearance in Atlanta in their best sketch, "Our Bob." The Dolan-Leonard company will be another of the real sure enough hits of the season.

Other features include Cunningham and head of the Italian music trust. The prettiest and best drilled in musical comedy tableau.

DIDN'T EXCITE DALTON A BIT.

At the Bijou.

"The Girl from Dublin," this week's attraction at the Bijou, promises to eclipse many of the best offerings that the Bijou has presented. The company numbers some twenty people, including a cast of principals especially chosen for the various characters portrayed, and a chorus that is said to be one of the prettiest and best drilled in musical comedy tableau.

Brilliant Array of Lawyers and the Dramatic Features of the Case Make Spectacular Clash.

No murder trial in Fulton County ever has approached the spectacular interest which is in prospect in the Frank case from the first, sharp skirmish between the opposing attorneys, through the long, bitter legal battle, and to the final pleas of the prosecution and the defense.

The presence of Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold in the brilliant array of legal talent at once made certain that the trial would be out of the ordinary. Neither has the reputation of making a half-hearted fight when there is anything at stake. This time it is a man's life that is depending upon their legal ability, their shrewdness and their eloquence.

Both have a disconcerting habit of carrying the fight to their opponents. In ring parlance, they do not give their courtroom rivals a chance to "get set." This is going to keep the spectators constantly on the edge of expectation, and will furnish a series of exciting incidents that will give the Frank trial a place by itself in the criminal annals of Georgia.

Crisis When Conley is Grilled.

To describe Rosser's tactics as aggressive is expressing it euphemistically. If he were only aggressive, his name would not inspire the trepidation that now is felt by persons who have to face him in the news box or by young lawyers who have to pit their strength against him.

Rosser and Arnold are at their best when they are cross-examining the witnesses called by the other side. This fact is expected to bring about the most thrilling situation of the entire trial in the witness box grilling of the negro Jim Conley. Not satisfied with seeking to prove the entire innocence of their client, the two lawyers propose to show that Conley himself is the man who attacked Mary Phagan in the Nation's Pencil Factory and flung her dead body upon the trash heap in the basement.

From whom are they to get testimony of this startling nature?

Certainly from no one else than the negro, and from him they intend to get it. It is a bold plan, but one characterized by the two-handed fighting methods of Rosser. Anyone who has seen a witness made the object of Rosser's attack knows that Jim Conley in for a bad day when he is called to the stand to testify that Leo Frank had him assist in the disposal of Mary Phagan's body.

Chance Seen for Confession.

Only a Rosser would have the courage of his convictions to expect to break down the negro after he repeatedly had told the remarkable story of finding the girl's dead body on the second floor of the pencil factory and carrying her, at Frank's direction and with Frank's assistance, down the elevator into the basement. Rosser's plan opens up the dramatic possibility of a courtroom confession from Conley. In the opinion of those who are convinced of Frank's innocence and the negro's guilt, it would not be a matter of great surprise if Conley, under the fire of questions directed at him by Rosser and Arnold, should collapse and confess he alone was concerned in the crime.

The cross-examination of Conley is certain to be one of the spectacular features of the trial. His vivid tale, told under the lead of questions by Solicitor Dorsey and Attorney Frank A. Hooper, will be repeated to the courtroom full of spectators. It will lose none of its dramatic elements, in that its essential features already are well known to the public. They are waiting to hear it first hand from the negro's lips.

Raked Up His Past Life.

Then Conley will be turned over to the scarcely tender mercies of counsel for Frank. He probably will be on the rack for hours. Whether he will be able to stand the grill he cannot tell. No point in his history that could have any possible bearing on the case will be overlooked. The defense is in possession of a mass of information relating to Conley's conduct for years. He will be asked in regard to every one of these circumstances.

Before the events of the day of the tragedy are reached the negro will have undergone a searching examination of significant incidents in his past life. Then his story of his part in the crime will be heard. The discrepancies will be brought out in the glare of the cross-examination. The falsehoods that he told for days after he was arrested will be resurrected. All of his affidavits will be ridiculed. The two attorneys will join in an effort to break down and utterly discredit the story to which he now sticks. Whether or not they are successful, their attempt will be a dramatic feature of the trial.

A fight, scarcely less spectacular, will develop over the story of William H. Minney. This time the attorneys for the prosecution will be in the role of scoffers. Minney has declared that he heard Conley boasting of killing a girl.

Minney, a quiet—almost diffident—type of the country pedagogue, will be made the target for the Solicitor's and Attorney Rosser's fire of questions. They will seek to show that Minney never saw Conley the afternoon of April 26, when Minney asserted he had the conversation with the negro.

Climax When Frank is Called.

A hot fight also will be precipitated by the demand of the defense that the State make known the identity of the beginning of the trial, of all the witnesses against Frank. Solicitor Dorsey has said that he will fight any demand that the State make known the identity of the beginning of the trial, of all the witnesses against Frank.

The subpoena duces tecum issued by the defense will form another case bell that is expected to provide a spirited skirmish between the attorneys at the beginning of the trial. The defense insists on having in court, for the purpose of comparison, all of the affidavits taken from Jim Conley, Nat Lee, Monteen Stover, W. M. Matthews and others. Dorsey declares this is a flimsy trick to discredit the State's witnesses, and proposes to resist to the extent of his ability any move to compel him to comply with the demand.

STREET CAR HITS WAGON, KILLING DAIRYMAN

R. R. Gresham, Father of Ten, Dies Three Hours After Crash. Thrown Forty Feet.

R. R. Gresham, a dairyman residing in Wyman street, Kirkwood, was struck by an outbound Kirkwood car at Whiteford avenue early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died three hours later with out regaining consciousness.

Gresham's skull was fractured, his throat gashed and his ankle broken. The accident occurred when the dairyman, driving his wagon into Atlanta, attempted to cross the car tracks in front of an approaching car. The wagon was smashed into splinters by the speeding car and its driver thrown 40 feet into a ditch. The horse was knocked over on its side amid the debris of the vehicle.

Gresham was picked up unconscious and hurried in an ambulance to the Atlanta Hospital. Physicians were called in to attend to him, but he died three hours later.

Mr. Gresham was 52 years old, married and the father of ten children. He was a member of the family. Herman Gresham, a son, reached the injured man before he died.

TRIAL OF FRANK MOVING WITH SWITNESS

Negro Lee on Stand as First Day's Sessions End—His Testimony Hits Prisoner.

D. Townsend, No. 84 Whitehall terrace, cashier Central Bank and Trust Corporation.

W. S. Medcalf, No. 136 Kirkwood avenue, circulation department of The Atlanta Journal.

C. J. Bosshardt, No. 216 Bryn street, pressman Foote & Davies.

Bosshardt, the twelfth juror chosen, was the last venireman in the last panel that had been called before the court at the opening of court in the morning. He was picked at exactly 1:25 o'clock and at 1:30 the recess was taken until 3 o'clock.

Attorney Rosser took very little part in the selection of the jury, except to interject a suggestion now and then. He evidently was reserving his strength for the real struggle to come.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Leo Frank was taken into a room adjoining the juryroom, where he was served with a special dinner provided for him by his relatives. Frank's mother and wife were allowed to converse with him while he ate the dinner. He will remain in this room until the court reconvenes at 3 o'clock.

Frank and Mother With Frank. Frank, accompanied by his wife and his mother, was brought into the courtroom at 12:30 o'clock. The striking of the jury was begun at once.

A half dozen of Frank's friends interrupted the order of the court for several minutes by clustering about him and shaking hands with him.

If there was any fear in the heart of the young prisoner it did not show in his calm features. He seemed perfectly assured and self-possessed. He nodded pleasantly to the judge and greeted his friends with a smile.

After the stir had subsided, covering the entrance of Frank, his wife and mother, the trio took seats in a semi-circle just behind the jury. Frank and his mother took a good look at the jurors in the first panel that was brought in. The prisoner scrutinized each one closely as he was quizzed by the prosecutor to determine his qualifications.

Wife Fixes Gaze on Dorsey. Mrs. Frank displayed no sign of emotion until she suddenly found that she was facing Solicitor Dorsey. Then anger appeared to blaze from her eyes. She seldom removed her gaze from the Solicitor's face during the forenoon. If Dorsey was aware of the young woman's scrutiny, he made no sign and proceeded with the case in rapid fashion.

Occasionally Mrs. Frank would turn to her husband and nod toward the Solicitor as the latter showed the evidencing efforts to convict Frank. Mrs. Frank was attired in a becoming suit of black and wore a black hat trimmed with black chiffon; also a black veil was drawn up over her hair. A black and white ribbon led to her watch in the pocket of her white silk vest. Two brilliant diamonds shone on the engagement finger of her left hand.

Frank occupied a seat between his wife and mother. He conversed with them alternately, at no time appearing nervous or the least apprehensive. His attitude was noticeably even more calm than at the time when he appeared before the Coroner's jury.

Frank Aids Attorneys. Frank spoke frequently to his attorneys, whom he was near, and made suggestions while the jurors were being qualified. When each new panel was brought in he looked intently into the face of each man, beginning at the upper row and shifting his gaze from man to man until he had scrutinized them all.

Not infrequently, when the Solicitor had closed up over her hat, Mrs. Frank would look on prisoner, look on juror, Frank would turn to Attorney Arnold and an instant later the announcement would be made, "Storuck by the defense." Frank evidently was playing a large part in the striking of jurors by the defense.

The dagger-like gaze of Mrs. Frank seldom was removed from the Solicitor's face. Frequently she embraced all those at Dorsey's table in her scornful glance.

Wife Carresses Prisoner. Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford, whose department unearthed much of the evidence, happened to be sitting at her right. She turned to him while he was glancing over papers as if she were about to speak her mind to him, but thought better of it.

Once in a while she took her eyes from the Solicitor's table to lay her hand affectionately upon her husband's shoulder and draw him toward her to whisper in his ear. Once when she discovered the reporters eyeing her, she smiled mischievously and immediately whispered the information to Frank.

Frank's mother sat quietly through the routine of examining the veniremen. She spoke to her son frequently, directing her glance at the prospective jurors as though commenting on their fitness.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS.

By JAMES B. NEVIN

There seems to be little, if any, doubt that the Legislature is to hurry along the general tax act, just as it has hurried along the general appropriations bill.

There are, counting to-day, exactly fourteen working days left to the Legislature's credit. This does not include two Saturdays and two Sundays, however.

In the future, may be seen that the Legislature, if it will, place both the appropriations bill and the tax act—the general tax act, at least—in the hands of the Executive ten days ahead of adjournment, as he has requested.

If this is done—and it likely will be done—the present Legislature will have accomplished a record of speed never before equaled in the history of the State.

Despite all the complaining and criticism to the contrary, the present Legislature has been the most prompt, efficient and successful in the history of the State in the matter of passing the two vitally big and necessary measures of the session—the general appropriations bill and the general tax act.

Credit must be awarded the committee heads, the committees and the Speaker for this remarkable achievement, and President Anderson has given his assurance that the promptness of the Legislature will be duplicated in the Senate this week and next.

Taken altogether, the record of the Legislature as made up for this session is all right and credit.

It is, indeed, far better than usual.

Mr. Shuptrine, of Chatham, is very much opposed to the measure permitting the addition of a kindergarten system to the public schools of the State.

Mr. Shuptrine does not believe the Constitution of the State contemplates anything of the kind, and, moreover, he thinks it would be to the detriment of the State to expand the school fund, already smaller than the necessities of the State seem to warrant.

Mr. Shuptrine's innovation, notwithstanding the fundamental law at variance, he will have application made within the life of the present Legislature, perhaps, for more funds to cover the kindergarten requirements.

Mr. Shuptrine, to-day, said "I know that it is proposed to add this feature to the school system without additional appropriations to cover it, but that is merely a stop gap measure. We must get the bill on the statute books. Once we inaugurate this system, we shall have to take care of it, and it will be argued that funds as now appropriated are not sufficient to handle the new department.

Georgia already is dealing most generously with her schools—she is straining the limit to take care of them—and I am not complaining so much about that. But I do think it would be a sad mistake to add any further burdens to her budget and certainly along the line of providing public education to tots from 4 to 6 years of age."

Senator M. C. Tarver has abandoned for the present his effort to get the Representatives and Senators of the various counties affected, interested in the proposed Chickamauga judicial circuit.

"The bill could not be passed at this session," said Mr. Tarver, "for several of the Representatives of the counties proposed for the new circuit are opposed to any change of the present arrangement. Others, while desiring a change, couldn't get together on an arrangement of counties that was mutually satisfactory."

Mr. Searcy's bill to make the buyer and the seller equally guilty in "blind tiger" cases, was killed in the Senate, upon the theory that it afforded the "blind tiger" exactly the protection he desires, rather than regards him in the operation of his business.

"The one thing a 'blind tiger' dreads above all other things," said a Senator, discussing the bill, "is that among his numerous customers may be one who will tell."

"This bill removes that dread, for anybody who reported a 'tiger' under this measure would become a criminal himself. Besides, because of the law which excuses a man from incriminating himself in testifying, this man would become immediately incompetent as a witness."

"It is hard enough now to convict 'blind tigers,' and it would be a thousand times harder under this law."

"Prohibitionists who seek to go the limit this bill proposes are to be commended for their zeal, perhaps, but surely not for their common sense. This bill is sound enough in theory, if you view it from a certain angle, but it falls to pieces as a practical measure and would defeat the very object its author had in mind when he framed it."

The Senate defeated the measure by a vote of 18 to 22, which was not such a wide margin of defeat, after all.

MAILS MAN FOR TALKING TO WIFE

W. M. Sexton, No. 18 Gaskill street, Monday morning remarked to Recorder Broyles that he had "cautioned this guy about talking to his wife," in explaining why he attacked W. L. Patterson, of No. 57 Powell street, Sunday night at the close of services in St. Luke's Methodist Church in Powell street.

Patterson told the court that Sexton is "insanely jealous."

Sexton, who is separated from his wife, attacked Patterson a short distance from the church after he had seen him talking to Mrs. Sexton inside of the church. Patterson said Mrs. Sexton called to him after the congregation had been dismissed, and that he meant no harm by conversing with her. He said Sexton lay in wait for him in a dark spot in Powell street and assailed him with metal knuckles. Sexton denied this.

The two men were pummeling one another vigorously when interrupted by Detective Coker and Policeman Boggs, who were on their way home from the church service. Metal knuckles were found on the ground. Patterson displayed an abrasion on his head, which he said was made by the knuckles.

When Sexton told Judge Broyles he had warned his wife not to talk to other men, the Recorder informed him that as he was separated from his wife he had no right to beat up every person he saw talking to her.

The jealous husband was fined $25.75 and the case of Patterson was dismissed.

SEARCY'S LIQUOR BILL REVIVED IN SENATE

Resolution Providing for Its Re-consideration Adopted—White-washing of Soule Opposed.

The adoption of a resolution calling for the reconsideration of the Searcy prohibition bill, making the selling of liquor purchased from a "blind tiger" a misdemeanor, which was defeated in the Georgia Senate Friday, featured the session Monday. The bill probably will come up again this week under special order rule. A hot fight is expected.

Sensors Foster and Hixon offered a resolution "whitewashing" the charges against President A. M. Soule, of the State Agricultural College. It sets forth that President Soule has rendered valuable service which should be recognized by the withdrawal of the charges now pending in the House. The resolution will be considered Tuesday.

That a bitter contest will take place when it is presented for adoption was indicated Monday by Senator McGregor, who declared he would fight the measure to the last ditch, on the grounds that it is a "complete 'whitewash' without any sort of investigation."

The most important new bill introduced in the Senate Monday was that by Senator McGregor, limiting the power of the Governor in calling out troops in case of disorder. The bill aims to take the State militia out of the so-called police jurisdiction, and requires affidavits by civil authorities before the Governor may call out troops.

Senator Tarver's bill providing for the appointment of a State commission to investigate conditions as regards drug users, with a view to establishing a State sanitarium for them, was passed by the Senate.

Senator Bush's bill making the State Superintendent of Education an ex-officio member of the eleven agricultural schools of the State was lost after President Randolph Anderson made a fight on the measure.

Senator McNeill's bill providing for a new Great Seal of State, changing the date 1789 to 1776, commemorating the Declaration of Independence, was sent back to the committee.

DR. STARNES BIDS ATLANTA GOODBYE

One-third of the seats in the Auditorium were filled Sunday afternoon for the farewell concert given by Dr. Percy Starnes and Mrs. Starnes.

A program in which Mozart's "Magic Flute" predominated, and which contained two compositions by the organist himself, was well received. The overture to Wagner's "Tannhauser," which was to have been the final number, was omitted because the organ got out of order. In its place, Dr. Starnes made a little speech of farewell. He said he would take away with him the pleasant recollection that his Atlanta audiences have been uniformly attentive and cordial.

Dr. Starnes' two compositions were "Improvisations Upon a Scotch Melody," the air being "Auld Lang Syne," and a song, "A Lake and a Fairy Boat," which Mrs. Starnes sang.

Berlin Bars Organ Grinders; Must Toil

BERLIN, July 28.—The Berlin police have barred organ grinders, declaring that the majority of them are strong enough to work, and that there is too much good music to be heard to have one's nerves racked by hand organs.

Balkan Allies Meet To Sign Peace Pact

ATHENS, July 28.—The terms of the armistice and peace between the other Balkan States and Bulgaria will be arranged at Bucharest. To-day the delegates left Nish for the Roumanian capital to begin their deliberations.

Clarence H. Mackay Sued for $2,000,000

NEW YORK, July 28.—That Clarence H. Mackay, to keep up the pace of a millionaire's son, borrowed heavily in Wall Street and failed to pay back after he had inherited $40,000,000 from the estate of his father, is charged in a suit brought by W. L. Stow, a broker, for an accounting of more than $2,000,000.

The plaintiff was at the head of the firm of W. L. Stow & Co., which failed for $5,000,000 some years ago. He charges that Mr. Mackay is directly responsible for that failure by failing to meet obligations contracted in a pool organized to buy and control stocks and bonds of the Mexican Central Railway.

Kings to Send Costly Gifts to Miss Wilson

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Despite President Wilson's attitude in discouraging the gift of Baltimore Democrats to his daughter, Jessie, at her wedding next November to Francis B. Sayre, kings and princes of foreign nations will flood the White House with costly gifts.

The marriage of a President's son or daughter is the only occasion on which foreign governments can get around the American constitution, which forbids the President accepting personal gifts from rulers of foreign nations.

The gifts from foreign potentates, naturally, cannot be discouraged.

Panama Has 'Noah,' Believers Build Ark

PANAMA, July 28.—Word has been received from Penonomé, a town in the interior of the republic, that Segundo Sanchez, a native, has proclaimed himself the Messiah and has issued a "prophecy" of the destruction of the world by a deluge in a short time.

Some of his 80 adherents are building an ark, while others are collecting pairs of animals of all species found in the region.

Gabrielle Ray Wins Suit Against Loder

LONDON, July 28.—Gabrielle Ray, the famous Gaiety beauty, to-day won her suit against her husband, Eric Loder, for the restoration of her conjugal rights. Loder made no defense.

The actress and Loder, who is the son of the late Alfred Loder and grandson of the late Sir Robert Loder, were married March 1, 1912. The marriage was to have taken place the previous day, but Miss Ray kept Loder "waiting at the church."

Berlin Bars Organ Grinders; Must Toil

BERLIN, July 28.—The Berlin police have barred organ grinders, declaring that the majority of them are strong enough to work, and that there is too much good music to be heard to have one's nerves racked by hand organs.

Removal of U. S. Consul Asked By Texans

American Envoy at Juarez Charged With Neglecting to Protect His Countrymen.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The removal from office of Thomas Edwards, the American Consul at Juarez, Mex., was requested of the State Department to-day by Representative Smith, of Texas, who charges that Edwards has been negligent in relieving American refugees at Madera. Representative Smith acted on complaint of his constituents in the El Paso district.

The Congressman also urged Secretary Bryan to stop the shipments of arms and ammunition from this country to the Huerta administration.

"I informed the Secretary of State," said Representative Smith, "that so long as we do not recognize the Huerta Government we should not favor it by allowing it to secure arms from this country. We deny that they have a constitutional government and yet they are allowed to get arms and ammunition. We ought to allow both factions to have war supplies or we ought to give the privilege to neither of them."

Smith says Bryan did not indicate what action would be taken regarding his complaints.

Smith received telegrams to-day from his constituents saying that 35 Americans are in peril at Madera, among them a number of women and children.

U. S. to Hunt Down Dixon's Assailant.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—"Ambassador Wilson—2:30 o'clock."

This simple announcement, placed at the bottom of President Wilson's official list of callers to-day, was the only indication at the White House that the most momentous conference at the White House scheduled since President Roosevelt maneuvered the Russian-Japanese peace conference was due to take place.

For the past 36 hours the President has had before him the lengthy report dictated by Ambassador Wilson detailing all the events of importance which have happened in Mexico from the time the Diaz regime first began to topple down to the attempted murder of Charles B. Dixon, the American immigration official, at Juarez on Saturday.

Bryan Studies Report.

Secretary Bryan, the first caller at the White House to-day, was closed with the President for more than an hour, while he discussed the details of the Wilson report.

In discussing the Mexican situation with the newspaper cabinet to-day the President authorized the statement that nothing has happened within the past ten days to make matters better or worse.

The President further said that, as he has not yet conferred with Ambassador Wilson, he can not announce any future policy with respect to President Huerta or Mexico for the reason that he has not decided upon one.

Marriage Ties Odd Relationship Knot

FRANKLIN, PA., July 28.—A relationship mix up occurred in Venango County when Elizabeth Gertrude Jones, whose father married a second time, wedded Lee McClimal, a brother of the girl's stepmother. This made the bride's father, who was McClimal's brother-in-law, also his father-in-law.

McClimal's father, who was father-in-law of the bride's father, became the father-in-law of the bride. The bridegroom, who was an uncle of a half-sister of the bride, became her brother-in-law. The girl's stepmother became her sister-in-law.

MEN WELCOME
MOTHER'S FRIEND
A Duty That Every Man Owes to Those Who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering, pain and distress incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful penetrating, external application that relieves all tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without the painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided all those nervous spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright, sunny, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the character and temperament of the little one soon to open his eyes in bewilderment at the joy of his arrival. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00, and it will be the best dollar's worth you ever obtained. It preserves the mother's health, enables her to make a quick and complete recovery, and thus renewed strength she will eagerly devote herself to the care and attention which mean so much to the welfare of the child. Write to the Bradford Regulator Co., 129 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable and instructive book of guidance for expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend to-day.

mington, the guest of Mrs. J. B. Allan; Carolyn King, Nancy Prince, Elsie Brown, Passie May Otley, Mary Lucy Turner, Nell Prince, Mary Hines, Jennie Lindsey, Nellie Kiser Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Prade, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Rosser, Jr., Messrs. Hugh Hackney, Boyce Worth, Moultrie Hitt, Curry Moon, Andrew Nicolson, George McCarty, Dr. Charles Hodge, Thomas Monroe, Hal Miller, Ches Halle, Eugene Kelly, Will Henry, Al Wynn, Thomas Callaway, of LaGrange; Eugene Harrington, Frank Sprattling and Hughes Roberts.

Miss Murphy's Dance.
Miss Mary Murphy will entertain at a dancing party at East Lake Monday evening for her guests, Miss Lura Swift and Miss Edna Crawford, of Columbus.

About 200 young people will be her guests.

For Miss Pike.
Mrs. G. A. Terry entertained her bridge club Saturday afternoon for Miss Mildred Pike, of Thomasville, who is visiting Mrs. Hal Morrison, Jr., of Atlanta. The guests of Mrs. J. F. Clarke, of Chattahoochee, the guest of Mrs. T. S. Carroll.

Urges Bathing Skirts For 'Unshapely' Men
CHICAGO, July 28.—A legal fight was started to-day by Dr. Rosalie M. Ladova, who was arrested at a park bathing beach because she appeared in a Sunday afternoon crowd of swimmers in bloomers.

"Women can not swim well in skirts," said Dr. Ladova to-day. "Their figures are rounded so that they do not need as thorough covering as men. Men bathers go about almost naked. Their hideous figures should be covered from their necks to their toes. They should be compelled to wear the skirts."

AMERICA DAVIS TENNIS TROPHY

McLaughlin Brings Cup Back Home by Victory Over Dickson of England.

Special Cable to The Georgian.
WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND, July 28. The Davis trophy, the most sought-for cup in the tennis world, which has been away from the United States since 1903, will come back to America.

The United States team, after beating the Australians in the preliminary games in New York last June and working their way up to the challenge round by defeating the German and Canadian teams in England, today won the trophy for the United States by defeating the English defenders.

Maureen E. McLoughlin, the young Californian, brought victory to his country by defeating C. P. Dixon in three straight sets in the single match to-day. Although his service was faulty at the beginning of the match to-day, McLoughlin soon got into his stride.

He won the first set after a hard-fought set-to, the score being 8-6. From then on the issue was never in doubt, the American proving himself the master of the Englishman at all stages of the second and third sets, winning the former 6-3 and the latter 6-2.

The match for the trophy began on Friday, when McLoughlin was defeated by J. C. Parke, the Irish champion. On Saturday, of Philadelphia, evened up matters when he defeated Dixon in the other single match that day.

Saturday the Americans jumped into the foreground, when McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett, the double team, defeated Dixon and H. Roper Barrett.

McLoughlin's play, which was a little off color on Friday, was much improved Saturday and to-day. His individual skill did much to bring the cup back to America.

The semi-final game between Parke and Williams, the Englishman won after a hard match of five sets. The score: 6-2, 5-7, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. This defeat did not have any bearing on the general result.

"Three days remain, after Monday, the strain soon will be over. There is not a boy or girl in the race who can not well afford to put every effort into the work for this brief final spurt."

Some May Be Disappointed.
When the contestants come into the office, the contest manager gets an excellent line on their ideas. Sometimes they are amusing. There are several boys and girls who were leading a week ago by good margins. Strangely enough, in spite of repeated warnings, these youngsters will not believe that they are behind now.

This is the attitude which will bring bitter disappointment when the final standings are published next Sunday, and the winners announced.

One feature of the contest upon which little stress has been put is the fact that the boy or girl who gets the greatest total of votes has first choice of all twenty-two ponies, and so on down the list. For the ambitious lad it is not enough to win in his district. He wants also to get one of the first selections from the herd of twenty-two Shetlands.

True, it may happen that the very last pony may suit the very last contestant to perfection. But, again, the chances are it will not.

There is no apathy in the country districts. The work done by the contestants outside of Atlanta is remarkable.

The ponies were to have been paraded Sunday, but the weather was not propitious. If the weather does not again interfere the ponies will be shown in the business section of Atlanta Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Wife Swallows 100 Grains of Bichloride
ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Physicians to-day said there was no chance of recovery for Mrs. Carrie Dubois, 21, who swallowed 100 grains of bichloride of mercury.

She attempted suicide because her husband refused to allow her to accompany him on a picnic trip, which was a stag affair.

PONY RIVALS ARE HUSTLING IN 3 LAST DAYS

Standing Changes Fast—County Contestants Redouble Efforts. Shetlands To Be Exhibited.

Four yearly subscriptions, with Red Letter Ballots, counting in all 8,000 votes—were brought in by one contestant in The Georgian and American pony contest.

"Was it a rival in your district?" the contest manager asks the boys and girls. "You don't know. Very likely it was. Nothing is more treacherous nowadays than over-confidence."

Leo Bowden, Athens, Ga.

VICTIM OF NEGRO REGRETS HANGING

Wounded Dunbar Merchant Not in Sympathy With Houston County Mob's Action.

MACON, July 28.—When G. F. Hammock, a merchant of Dunbar, was told at a private hospital here to-day that John Shake, the negro who shot him Saturday night, had been lynched by a Houston County mob, he said:

"I am sorry the boys did that. Shake was a bad negro, all right, but it wasn't right to hang him."

Hammock is not seriously injured, though weak from loss of blood. He expects to return to his home this week.

Hammock detected the negro burglarizing his store about midnight. When he called on Shake to surrender, the negro fired a shotgun. The shot fractured Hammock's left wrist and also caused a painful wound in the chest.

The negro escaped and took refuge in the swamps below Weillston. A mob caught him late Sunday afternoon. After confessing that he did the shooting, the negro was hanged to a tree on the outskirts of Dunbar.

Swats 'Skeeter and Wrecks Car; 3 Hurt
ATLANTIC CITY, July 28.—Raising his hand to swat a mosquito, A. K. Siler, of Narbleth, Pa., who was driving an automobile around a curve near here, lost control of his machine.

The machine went over an embankment and the party of five were pinned beneath it. Three were seriously hurt.

AUGUSTA BILL'S AUTHORS LOSE FIRST CLASH

Commission Government Act Denied to Friendly Committee. Lipscomb Act Up Tuesday

A fight for the reference of the bill giving Augusta the commission form of government, by members of the Richmond County delegation, featured Monday's session of the House, Judge Picquet winning in his efforts to have it referred to the Committee on Municipal Government, of which he is chairman.

The authors of the bill, Olive and Garlington, sought to have the bill referred to the General Judiciary Committee No. 1, of which both are members.

The Lipscomb taxation bill was set as a continuing order beginning Tuesday. This provides a tax of $50 on lobbyists; doubles the occupation tax of corporations; increases the tax on bottling plants; places an annual tax of $5 on automobiles; levies an inheritance tax and various other taxes to increase the revenue of 1915.

It is expected that this bill will occupy the House for several days. If it passes within this time limit it will be a record time for Georgia lawmakers to dispose of so important a matter.

Senator Kelley, of the Eighteenth District, introduced a bill in the Senate last Friday covering the same matter. This has not as yet been acted upon.

Considerable discussion resulted when the optometrist bill, providing for a board to examine opticians in Georgia before they be allowed to practice, was read. This bill previously had been adversely reported. Its author, Wallace Miller, of Bibb, urged that the bill be considered seriously.

Blacks Avenge Death Of One of Their Race
WAYCROSS, July 28.—Angered at the killing of John Davis, a negro employee of the Hebard Cypress Company, a crowd of negro laborers to-day endeavored to kill Ike Beals, alias Charles Johnson, a negro, whose home is at Donaldsonville. Beals was shot a dozen times and is probably fatally wounded. He was brought to jail.

Before Beals was captured by deputies he wounded two negroes.

Puts Ice in Bonnet And Goes to Church
ALTON, ILL., July 28.—Mrs. E. B. Clarkson, aged 28, of Alton, is using ice on her head to make the trip to and from the First Presbyterian Sunday School weekly, to keep up her record of fourteen years' consecutive attendance.

Mrs. Clarkson puts a small chunk of ice under her old-fashioned bonnet to prevent being overcome by the heat. In a paper carried at her side with her Bible she puts another piece. When the first piece melts, the second piece is substituted.

Rich Man a Negro; Death Bares Secret

CHICAGO, July 28.—William Henry Lee, wealthy publisher whose $200,000 estate will be taken by the State of Illinois because there were no relatives to claim it, was a negro. For nearly 50 years he kept the secret.

The secret of his being of negro blood was admitted by Fred C. Laird, for ten years his partner. Lee never married, Mr. Laird said, because he feared that in his children the secret of his negro ancestry might be revealed.

Appendix All Alone In London, Said Jack

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Here is the latest joke Jack London, the famous author, is telling on himself.

London was operated on recently for appendicitis. After the ordeal the surgeon held up the severed appendix in his fingers for the patient to see. The author looked at it thoughtfully, then grinned and said: "It was a case of all alone in London, wasn't it, doc?"

Constitution Paramount.
Martial rule is employed when force may expel the civil authorities from a part of the State, or when the civil law is unable to perform its functions, the military being on the spot to execute it where no civil authority exists. When it does exist the Constitution is imperative that it shall be paramount to the military.

The power of arrest in this case would have secured the alleged disturbers and law-breakers until the State was prepared for their trial and the courts were ready to try them.

The men responsible for this atrocity were tried by a court-martial and acquitted, but as the military was without jurisdiction, the conclusion reached is not binding upon the State. Courts-martial may try offenses committed in violation of the military law, as above defined, but acts done in the caprice of tyranny under martial rule make the military commander and his subordinates accountable to the law of the land, both by prosecution in the criminal courts and by civil action at the instance of the parties aggrieved.

TRIES TO SHOOT HIS WIFE; KILLS AN OFFICER

Reward Offered for Clem Poole, Slayer of Dalton Policeman. Posse Loses Trail.

DALTON, July 28.—At an early hour this morning the posse organized to hunt down Clem Poole, who near midnight shot and killed Policeman Harry Cook while the officer was attempting to arrest him, disbanded, the search being fruitless.

Poole last night shot twice at his wife as he followed her to the home of her parents on First avenue. There Policeman Cook met him. As the officer advanced, Poole fired, the bullet piercing the policeman's heart and bringing instant death. Henry Mitchell, accompanying the officer, grabbed the weapon from Poole, but he escaped. Bloodhounds trailed the fugitive for a time and then lost the scent.

The murder has greatly aroused Dalton, for Policeman Cook was a popular member of the force. He is survived by his wife. A reward of $100 has been offered by the city for Poole's capture.

FIVE TEAMS TO BATTLE IN RACE FOR 30 MINUTES

Big Thriller Slated for Motor Bugs at Prince's Saucer on Tuesday Night.

A HALF-HOUR team race is to be the big feature at the Motor-drome to-morrow night, and for the really jammy excitement this should top anything that has been staged yet at Jack Prince's saucer.

Five teams will be in the long grind. And what a wrangle the ten riders had trying to get matched up! Finally Mory Graves suggested that the partners be found by a drawing. Manager Noon Hudson put all the numbers in his new straw lid and the result was:

Graves and McNeil, Schwartz and Lockner, Shields and Richards, Luther and Lewis, Renel and Glenn.

These teams appear to be very evenly matched. Graves and McNeil will probably rule favorites, with Richards and Shields second choice.

No rider will be allowed to remain on the track over twenty successive minutes. But each rider can call for his partner as often as he desires.

The partners who are not racing will remain in front of the paddock. The partner riding must drop off the track and touch his teammate on the shoulder before the latter can take up the racing.

It sure will be a thrilling event if all goes well.

The Motordrome Sweepstakes is the second feature event. The riders will start five in each qualifying heat. The qualifying heats will be over a one-mile course, while the final will be two miles.

Harry Glenn, who defeated Schwartz the other night, will meet Luther in a match race. It will be the two best heats in three over a two-mile circuit. Glenn is a local boy and he will be backed heavily to down his worthy opponent.

Following is the complete card for Tuesday night:

First Event.
First heat of Motordrome Sweepstakes (One mile to qualify and two-mile final). Starters—Graves, Shields, Richards, Renel, Lewis.

Second Event.
First heat of a match race between Glenn and Luther. (Race to be two best heats in three.) Distance—two miles.

Third Event.
Second heat of Motordrome Sweepstakes. Starters—Schwartz, Lockner, Luther, McNeil, Glenn.

Fourth Event.
Second heat of match race between Glenn and Luther.

Fifth Event.
Final heat of Motordrome Sweepstakes. (Winners of first and second heats and second man in fastest heat to start.)

Sixth Event.
Third heat of match race between Glenn and Luther, if necessary.

Seventh Event.
Half-hour team race. Teams—Graves and McNeil; Schwartz and Lockner; Shields and Richards; Luther and Lewis; Renel and Glenn. (No rider can remain on track over twenty consecutive minutes.)

Wolgast and Ritchie May Sign Articles

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Eager to nail down Ad Wolgast to his offer—a $25,000 side bet for the right to fight Willie Ritchie to-day is making a desperate effort to get the former titleholder to meet him to-day and sign articles. On Saturday, Wolgast posted with James J. Jeffries $1,000, part of a $25,000 side bet. Wolgast specified that half is to go to that he will win from the titleholder in twenty rounds, the other half that he knocks out or forces Ritchie to quit within the limit.

Ritchie lost no time in accepting the offer when he learned that there was seriousness to Ad's movements, and he asked Jeffries to effect a meeting between he and Ad for this afternoon in the hope that articles might be signed.

Ritchie leaves here for "Pisces" Wednesday afternoon and he would like to close the match before starting. Should the pair come together they will clash either September 1 or 2.

Pelky in No Hurry to Fight Theatrical Tour Awaits Champ

By W. W. Naughton.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Arthur Pelky, the new white heavyweight champion, poses most of the facial characteristics of the professional pugilist, but it can scarcely be said that he has a fighting eye.

Now, do not misunderstand me. There is nothing in Pelky's look to suggest that he is lacking in courage, but, sizing him up as he sat in my den yesterday, I could not help thinking how different he was from other brand-new champions I had known.

In most cases the eye of a freshly-fledged champion glints with a mixture of pride and defiance. If looks could be construed into words the look which I refer would read: "I can lick anything that walks in two shoes."

Pelky's eyes are large and dark—the eyes of a man who broods. To me it almost seemed as if the shadow of that fearful experience he had in the ring at Calgary was still upon him. The suspicion was confirmed by his evident reluctance to talk about the recent past and his palpable inclination to talk about ringmen other than himself. To the majority of champions the recital of how they won their spurs gives unbounded pleasure. To Pelky the recollection brings a shudder.

Pelky is tall, squarely built and has a strong jaw and large, firmly-knit hands. He is big enough to tackle anything in human shape. He is here with Tommy Burns, once world's champion in his own right, but now fallen into flesh and quite content to be known as a connoisseur.

Tommy is Pelky's manager, and the manner in which Burns discovered that Pelky was worth managing was not the least interesting thing he had to tell. Pelky went to Calgary to box six rounds with Burns. While the affair was in progress the beauty of Pelky's character as a fighter unfolded to Tommy. At the end of the bout Tommy was all in, and an hour later Tommy was Pelky's manager.

"We are in no hurry to make matches," said Burns. "We have twelve weeks' work in the theater, beginning at Pantheon next week, and in the meantime the Gunboat Smith-Jim Flynn match will be decided and the winner will stand forth as a challenge of Pelky. If Smith wins, and I think he will, 'Pardon me,' said Pelky in a soft-voiced way. "I think Flynn will defeat Smith."

"Well, anyway, you'll be ready to

In Cleveland he was cornered by

My full conclusions at this time—I must investigate."

SEVENTH DAY.

At last he makes his lakeside home;

And now the crushing sentence comes—

With quite some "pshaw" and "pish!"

But Joe Tinker, new manager of the Reds, thought different. Joe was

FANS REMEMBER HOLIDAY IN HOT DASH FOR VOTES

Waycross Player Is Now Second in Popularity Contest—Manchester Still Holds Lead.

"GOAT HOLIDAY. The Waycross first baseman, had his day in The Hearst's Sunday American and Atlanta Georgian's contest to decide the most popular player in the Empire State League and is now second in the mad dash for votes.

The Waycross player is trailing Dick Manchester, of Brunswick, and if his supporters continue their great work it would not surprise the Baseball Popularity Editor to see Holiday in the lead by Wednesday if not sooner.

Otto Jordan, Valdosta's manager, dropped to third position, topping "Pat" Murphy by a few votes.

Holiday's spurt is due to his great playing around the initial cast. He is a great favorite with the Waycross fans and they are now pulling hard for him to capture the beautiful loving cup that goes to the winner.

Manchester Holds Lead. Manchester, the leader of the contest at the present time, now holds the distinction of holding the lead longer than any one player, with the exception of Otto Jordan. Dick had a busy day yesterday and coupons pouring in for him in large batches.

Pat Murphy and H. Champlin continue to put up their dogged fight, with Dudley, the Thomasville manager, slowly coming to the front. When it is taken into consideration that three Thomasville players are entered in this contest it is certainly wonderful the support Thomasville fans are giving their players. All of them are close up and might out the leaders at any time.

Others Play in Race. Whitey Morse, Eubanks, Baby Wilder, Franks and Rube Zellers were also remembered by their friends yesterday in the votes sent in.

Get Busy Now. Fans wishing to help their favorite player win the loving cup and honor of being the most popular player in this league can do so by clipping the coupon that appears in today's paper, fill it in and mail it to the Baseball Popularity Editor, Atlanta Georgian, Atlanta, Ga. The time to do it is now. Don't wait until to-morrow. Vote to-day.

CLABBY VS. PAPKE.

NVER, COLO., July 25.—Articles been signed for a ten-round bout between Jimmy Clabby, the Milwauwaukee, and Billy Papke, of ne, Ill., to be held at the Denver on August 11.

OHNE WINS RACE.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Paul Ohne, of Brooklyn, won the three-cornered match at Brighton Motodrome last night, by earning the right to meet Arthur Chappelle, the champion motorcyclist.

ALPERMAN HAS APPENDIX CUT; OUT FOR A YEAR

MOBILE, ALA., July 28.—Whitely Alperman, field captain and second baseman of the Crackers, was operated on this noon in a local hospital for appendicitis.

As a result of the operation, Alperman will not be able to play again this season. This is a severe blow to Manager Billy Smith, as it practically kills whatever chance the Atlanta team has of winning the pennant.

Alperman was out of the game yesterday. He complained of severe pains in his right side. Last night a local physician was called, but was unable to diagnose the case until this morning.

Manush will probably cover the keystone sack the remainder of the season.

POOR ABIE IS THROUGH; HAS LITTLE CLASS LEFT

NEW YORK, July 28.—Abie Attell had better give up the Queensbury pastime. Abie has something left in the ducking and the nodding of the head in getting away from some wicked punches, but that is about all.

His latest opponent was Willie Beecher, the well-known mitt man of the East Side, and the contest took place at the Atlantic Athletic Club of Rockaway. There was a rather good gathering of the fight fans. They were of the opinion that Abe would hand out some of that old championship stuff that made him famous in the days of long ago. The person who suffered the most was the bout was Referee Draycott. Abe's judgment of distance was bad in the fifth, sixth and eighth rounds, and he whanged the judge three times.

The winner of the bout was Beecher. The latter, after finding out that Attell was not there any more, chased Abe around the ring, and Beecher had a difficult time in catching his opponent. Beecher did his best work in the sixth and seventh rounds. From the fifth round to the finish, Beecher was the busy man and he had enough lead in the first five to give him the fight. All that Abe had was a bad lip as he came out of the ring.

Dunn Fined $5 for "Cussing" Umpire

MOBILE, ALA., July 27.—Joe Dunn, the heavy backstop of the Crackers, who was arrested yesterday at the ball park during the game between Atlanta and Mobile clubs, on a charge of using profane language was fined $5 in the Recorder's Court here this morning. Joseph paid.

The Recorder gave Dunn the preference of spending ten days in the workhouse or paying $5. "It is too hot these days to stay indoors so long," said the catcher, as he passed the "five iron men" over. "But I guess the judge wanted me to coach the rock-pile team at that," added Joe.

DODGE MAY GO TO VOLTS; INDIANS SECURE NELSON

CINCINNATI, July 27.—Pitcher Albert Nelson, who was sold by the Reds to Nashville, but refused to report there, has been dispensed of by Indianapolis. The Cincinnati club will send Nashville another player in place of Nelson, possibly infielder Dodge, recently secured from the Phillies in exchange for Becker.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Total of $131,000 In New Dwellings

Druid Hills for Carroll Payne. Peachtree and Ansley Park Homes. West End Church.

Plans for three handsome dwellings in Druid Hills, costing more than $40,000, are in course of preparation by Hentz & Reid, architects in the Candler Building. These are for houses to be built in the spring by J. Carroll Payne, Alex W. Smith, Jr., and Charles T. Hopkins, Jr., on adjoining lots on Ponce DeLeon avenue east of the bridge near Lullwater road. They will be handsomely done in the New England colonial style.

Jobs now in the hands of the above firm of architects total $131,000, including, among a number of dwellings, a structure for the West End Presbyterian Church on Gordon street, to cost $20,000; a refreshment pavilion in Grant Park, $10,000, and additions to the dining room of the Piedmont Driving Club. Plans are being drawn for the following other residences:

Edgar Dunlap, Druid Hills, two-story brick veneer house of New England colonial style, $17,000.

E. W. More, Peachtree road, near Lakeview avenue, two-story Dutch colonial and shingle, $10,000.

E. Lee, Wesley avenue, near Clark Howell's country place, one-story English type of plaster and stone, $10,000.

E. L. Bishop, Peachtree road, at Brookhaven, two-story plaster house, $7,000.

Fred Stone, Fairview road, Druid Hills, two-story brick veneer colonial frame or brick veneer, $3,000.

W. White, Prado, Asley Park, two-story Dutch colonial frame and stone, $9,000.

Ivy Street Car Tracks.

Work has been in progress several days laying the old car tracks on Ivy street preparatory to the resumption of trolley traffic on that street. There was a plan to put these tracks on Piedmont avenue, but objection on the part of property owners caused the project to be abandoned. The idea was to relieve Peachtree congestion as much as possible by having all trucks and heavy wagons use Ivy street.

To Start on West Peachtree.

Materials for repaving West Peachtree and building retaining walls are being gathered together for work that will begin within a few days. The walls will go up first and then regrading will start. A number of interesting improvements are expected to be made as soon as the work has assumed definite shape.

Mr. Cochran's Measure.

Ralph O. Cochran, the well-known real estate man, introduced in the Legislature Monday a bill intended to make equities in property subject to levy and sale as well as deeds.

Mr. Cochran said that the bill was introduced in the Legislature Monday a bill intended to make equities in property subject to levy and sale as well as deeds.

It is also sought to repeal existing legislation which makes real estate men take out a license in every county where a sale is made.

Marietta Street Barbecue.

Marietta street property owners are beginning to whet their appetites for a barbecue which they will give next month or in September commemorating the completion of the Marietta street widening and repaving.

This barbecue was first set for July 4, but a delay in the work made a postponement necessary.

It is now planned that a very short time, and Marietta street will take its place as the best cross-town street in the city.

New Apartment Houses.

The Lawrence, a new apartment house at 122 and 54 West Peachtree place, will be ready for occupancy September 1. J. L. Turner & Co. are the owners. Each room is outside the two-room apartment, which have only a wall space and a bath.

Recently come to Atlanta, The Maryland, corner of Peachtree Circle and Seventeenth street, Ansley Park, will also be ready September 1. This contains four, five and six-room apartments.

Seeking More Floor Space.

A move for more floor space has been made by two Atlanta concerns located in the Empire Building. The Royal Insurance Company will soon leave the eleventh floor to take the entire fourth floor of the Hurt building.

The P. Bottenfield Real Estate Agency will take the offices of the insurance company, moving from the tenth floor.

Agencies have leased this half floor for five years at a price which approximates $4,000 a year. This is the third move of the company. First in small office, then to larger offices on the tenth, and now finds it necessary again to seek more floor space.

For Public Market.

Householders of Atlanta have revived the interest of several years ago which was displayed in a public market. Committees are being formed and it is thought that within a comparatively short time there will be a place where women can buy direct and save half a dozen profits of middlemen. Should the Plaza project ever become a reality, it is probable that the market will be placed on the site of the Union Depot. It has been suggested that $250,000 be invested in

STOCK MARKET

Erratic Trading Holds Market in

Narrow Rut—Cables Weak and Weather Good.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Weakness in Liverpool cables as a result of South African and Continental selling, coupled with private reports of rains over Sunday in Texas and Oklahoma, resulted in the local cotton market opening barely steady to-day with first prices unchanged to 10 points from Saturday's final. At the end of 15 minutes the new crop positions were fairly steady.

The detailed weather reports did not disclose as much rainfall as earlier advice had suggested and the covering movement followed the establishment of new low levels. Losses were wiped out. Besides covering of shorts there was what observers thought was buying for fresh long account. Offerings became scarce and the market recovered.

Traders continuing to fight the bullish tendency caused slight recessions at intervals, but on the whole the market was steady and slight upticks during the forenoon were recorded. A gain of 1½ by Chesapeake and Ohio was the largest gain of the day with Union Pacific and United States Steel both advancing. Southern Pacific declined.

Trading became dull in the afternoon, although the supply showed no increase. Call money loaned at 2½.

Highest Government Officials
Protecting the Vilest Form of Crime

President Wilson and Mr. Bryan May Permit This—BUT THEY CAN'T EXCUSE IT.

(Copyright, 1913.)

This is "The Caminetti Story":

A man in California was accused of a serious crime against a young woman. There was no apparent hope of his escaping if properly and promptly tried. His chief hope was in delay, subterfuge and waning public interest, and, above all, DISHONEST OR INDIFFERENT PROSECUTION.

The man accused and guilty, Caminetti, happened to have a father who held public office under the Federal Government.

And this father was a friend of the Attorney General, McReynolds, appointed by Mr. Wilson to ENFORCE THE LAWS THAT CAMINETTI WAS SEEKING TO EVADE, AND TO PUNISH THE CRIME OF WHICH CAMINETTI WAS ACCUSED.

There was delay in the Caminetti matter, and McNab, representing the Government as a prosecutor in California, resented the delay and denounced it.

He showed that the Attorney General, McReynolds, sworn to enforce the law and punish violators of law, had, at the request of the criminal's father, ACTUALLY DIRECTED THAT THE PROSECUTION BE PUT OFF. That is to say, that every opportunity be given to the criminal to escape the consequences of his crime.

This is a most shameful act on the part of McReynolds. It makes his dismissal from office a duty.

If a man, to oblige a friend whose son is accused of a serious crime, interferes with justice, what will that man do when bigger and other crimes are committed, not by individuals against individuals, but by corporations against the entire people?

If McReynolds, to oblige the father of Caminetti, interferes with justice, what will he do to oblige the father of some trust when the time comes?

Is such a man fit for office?

The amazing thing is that Mr. Wilson, instead of praising and thanking McNab, an honest official, who denounced the infamous delay and favoritism, actually rebuked that man and accepted his resignation from office.

And now, as Senator Ashurst earnestly and justly points out, comes the culminating outrage—THE APPOINTMENT OF HAYDEN, A FRIEND OF CAMINETTI'S TO ACT AS PROSECUTOR IN THE PLACE OF McNAB, THE CONSCIENTIOUS OFFICIAL.

Senator Ashurst is to be thanked for his timely and vigorous protest against a shameful miscarriage of justice.

In the first place, we have Caminetti, who should long since have been tried, gaining delay, at the request of his father, who is a friend of McReynolds.

And now, when McNab, an honest man, is removed from the case, we have another friend of Caminetti, Hayden, put in as prosecutor.

No collection of fine words or platitudes from McReynolds, President Wilson or anybody else will explain away an action such as this.

It is not a matter of politics, as Senator Ashurst proves. He is a Democrat, but he knows that there is nothing to be gained for any party by leaving such an outrageous state of affairs untouched. As well talk of helping a living body by leaving a cancer free from molestation in that body as to talk of helping a political party by leaving unrebuked such a shameful Government crime in the Caminetti case.

It is bad enough when "friends in the Government" are used by men of the Archbold type, with the aid of their checkbooks, to permit extortion and robbery of the public.

It is inconceivable and infamous that Government pull, the friendship of a papa Caminetti for an Attorney General McReynolds, should be used to delay and perhaps frustrate the prosecution of a man accused of an infamous crime against a young woman.

Such conduct by McReynolds and Caminetti, condoned apparently by President Wilson, does not fit in very well with the protestations that preceded the recent election.

BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Editor The Georgian: Our thoughtful statesman introduces a bill to require or allow the Bible to be read in the public schools. Some have suggested that there are six different "Bibles," or six different versions of the Bible, and the law would have to specify the one to be read in the schools. This being the case we might expect differences of opinion. I for one think best of King James' version. "The State legislating righteousness into the child." The parent giving over his duty of teaching his children the Scriptures and other such expressions we see given as reasons against enacting such a law. We naturally expected opposition to such a law, but not from orthodox ministers of any church, and I am very much inclined to believe that their opposition to such a law will greatly weaken their claim before their church and the world of mankind that the Bible is the Book of Books and its teachings of the greatest moment. It is no use to say to the world, the church and to your children that the Bible is the greatest book, its teachings the most important of all, that it should be first in importance to all other books and then say to the child, "Read the Bible." This is simply contradicting yourself. This very spirit of dissension and disagreement among Christian ministers and laymen is the greatest hindrance to the success of Christianity.

When the Wife's Away

Courtesy a Virtue All Should Cultivate

It Is a Valuable Asset, No Matter What Position One Occupies in Life, and It Is One of the Greatest Factors in Success

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

A YOUNG man employed in one of the many places which contribute to the welfare of the public, in the great new railroad station at Forty-second street and Park avenue, New York, was asked by a patron of his department whether the trains to New Haven went from the upper or lower level.

He answered brusquely that he did not know; that she could find out by going to the inquiry bureau on the floor above.

His department was separate from that, he said.

The patron turned and found an official within a few feet of the young man, who indicated the way.

"If I answered all the questions asked me in a day," the young man said, "I would have no time to attend to my own business."

But the man had taken more time and breath and energy in being disagreeable than he would have required in obtaining information about all the trains in the Grand Central Station.

There are two levels in that station, the upper and the lower.

A Correct Reply. The New Haven and Hartford trains and those passing on to Boston are an important line, and almost any youth of ordinary intellect, or less than ordinary, would naturally learn in a few days' time from which level they started, especially if his business was in sight of these trains.

Not to possess such information in his position betokened a lack of observation and interest in occurrences continually taking place about him that bespeaks failure for the young man in anything he undertakes; and if he knew and refused the information because he did not like to be questioned on subjects not pertaining to his business, then his disposition is one to attract failure, not success.

It took many words for him to tell the lady that he did not know and that it was not his business to know what she wished to know. It would have required just two words to answer her question, had he known, "upper level" or "lower level," and, with a smile added, the lady would have gone her way, thinking what a pleasant youth he was, instead of thinking what she did think about him.

In ten years' time this youth will be a man in his full prime—somewhere in his thirties—and he will be wondering why he has not got on in the world; and he will say he has had no "influence," no "pull," and that others have been advanced over him through "favoritism," and he will make a hundred excuses for his failure to arrive, when the real fault will lie entirely with himself.

He Had No Excuse.

The work this youth was doing required no great concentration. He was not absorbed in some difficult mathematical problem, and he had many moments when he was doing nothing at all save waiting for people to serve. Therefore he had no excuse for not using his eyes and ears to learn a small yet important fact about the big station; and he had no excuse for not imparting the information asked save a lack of development of kindness and courtesy.

Courtesy a Great Factor.

No matter what may be one's position in life, from the most menial to the most lofty place, kindness and courtesy are most valuable assets for human beings to possess. They are great factors in success.

Observation is another factor; and the habit of using odd, uncoupled moments in learning something that will be of value to one's self or others later—that, too, is a habit which leads to the road of success.

It is a better habit than that of watching the clock for fear of working five minutes overtime.

And still another habit is of vast value on that road—the habit of smiling and speaking in an agreeable tone of voice in the small daily occurrences of life.

Each one of us is subject to annoyance by having people ask questions which it is not our province to answer; but when we fail to give the information desired we can give something better oftentimes by the bestowal of a pleasant look and manner.

The Song of Joy and Pain

By LILIAN LAUFERTY.

O H, I tasted of pleasure—and liked it,
For the flavor was sweet to my lip.
"Life is joy," then I cried, "and my sea's at full tide;
Life's a garden—each flower I'll sip."
But a sting lurked in every bright flower,
And the waves of Joy's sea broke in foam.
While the lure of gay Pleasure's fleet hour
Bore me wandering—far from my home.

Then I tasted of sorrow—'twas bitter,
And the talons of pain tore my heart.
"Life is torture," I cried. "Must I linger and bide
All my losses in Cruelty's mart?"
But a message was hid in the tangle
Of these noisome and bitter dark weeds;
From the sound of harsh bells all a-jangle
Pealed a chime for the deer of deeds.

"There's pleasure to taste, and there's sorrow—
Take from one, from the other you borrow;
Sun to-day may mean storm-clouds to-morrow;
All your life you must mark the measure
Of sorrow attuned unto pleasure—
The heart that is wise still will treasure
Its joys the more dear, for its sorrow,
Its pain as a wonderful measure
When joy brighter radiance shall borrow."

Mysteries of Science and Nature

The Mysterious Properties of Steel, Tin and Glass.
If Cooled Slowly Steel
Will Not Take a Cutting
Edge; Cooled Suddenly
It Becomes Hard and Tempered—Tin Will
Crumble in Severely
Cold Weather.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

HERE is a fact, known to everybody, which is as mysterious as would be the actual appearance of a ghost, by which I mean that the fundamental explanation of the phenomenon is about as far beyond our reach in the one case as in the other.

The fact to which I refer is the production of tempered steel by quenching in cold water. If hot steel is cooled very slowly it becomes soft and can not take a cutting edge, but if it is cooled suddenly it becomes very hard and can be ground into keen swords, knives and cutting tools.

Now why the difference? Have you ever thought about that question? If you have not, many a man of science has, and has been greatly puzzled over it.

Here is another related mystery. If you heat an old Japanese sword, which for centuries has retained its capacity to slice off a head at a blow, or to open a swift passage for the soul of the victim of the hari-kari mania, to the temperature of boiling water it gradually softens and loses the keenness that once made it so formidable.

It Is the Same Steel.

It is the same steel, but it, too, seems to have lost its soul. At a temperature of 150 degrees Centigrade the hardened steel commits hari-kari in a few minutes. Surely there is something strange in that.

Then consider this: At zero temperature water changes from a liquid and suddenly becomes solid. But if you put the water in a vase and carefully protect it from dust, you may cool it as much as twenty degrees below zero, and yet it will not freeze! But now shake the vase or drop in a bit of ice, and the water immediately solidifies!

I owe the collection of these facts to a paper by Professor James H. Walton, Jr., of Wisconsin University. The explanation which he gives is that substances like the hardened steel and the unfreezing water are in a state of "suspended change." That accounts for the phenomena, but, in a certain sense, they remain mysterious, just as life is mysterious.

Many substances possess the same curious characteristics. Professor Walton says that if a flask containing sodium acetate, which has been cooled below its natural freezing point without solidifying, is opened in a room containing dust of the solid acetate, the fine particles of the latter dropping into the flask will cause the whole contents to solidify.

Tin is a very strange metal with regard to this state of suspended change or "metastability." A severe winter cold will sometimes cause it to lose its hardness and crumble.

Suffer From "Tin Discourtesy."

Objects made of tin often undergo such change and are then said to be suffering from "the tin disease." The contact of "discourteous" tin with bright, hard tin is capable of setting up the transformation.

Glass, Professor Walton informs us, is "an under-cooled substance"—that is, it is in a metastable condition. If old glass tubes through which water has frequently passed are heated, the glass crystallizes and loses its transparency.

All substances in this state are liable to change, and the change, under proper conditions, may be sudden. Hardened steel is in a similar category. If it were as perishable as tin, it could not be safely used for many purposes for which it is habitually employed. Fortunately, steel exhibits great resistance to change of state after it has been tempered. Transformation is retarded or arrested.

"Does steel slowly return to the stable form and thus grow softer?" asks Professor Walton, and then answers: "That we do not know; we can only say that if such a change does take place, hundreds of years are necessary to bring it about."

Heated Japanese Swords.

The same ancient Japanese swords, which, when heated, as before described, become soft, retain all their hardness if carefully preserved.

It is evidently of the highest importance to the practical world that science is investigating these things and discovering the way and the circumstances in which the changes come about, even if it has not unveiled the underlying mystery of their cause.

Peter the Great's Widow

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

TWO hundred and ten years ago Peter the Great began building the city of St. Petersburg, a piece of work that perhaps stands second to none as an illustration of what can be accomplished by indomitable Will Power.

The building of a city upon the miry delta of the Neva involved the overcoming of tremendous natural difficulties. Peter's engineers said it could not be done, but Peter said it could, and with characteristic grit the czar went to work building his city, which, he said, should be the "Window from which he could look out upon Europe."

Thousands of peasants were ordered to the field of operations, and great piles were driven down into the marsh for a foundation. Masons were scarce, but Peter met the difficulty by an order forbidding the erection of stone buildings throughout the Empire. The imperial strong box ran low, but the indefatigable man taxed everything he could think of for the raising of the requisite funds. The men died like sheep at the shambles, but with a determination remorseless as fate the czar kept at the task. Dividing the supervision of the work between himself and his lieutenants, he toiled away with the energy of a demon, and by 1712 sufficient advance had been made to permit of the transfer of the Court from Moscow.

But an Imperial capital and a royal court required a considerable amount of polish in its setting, and so Peter issued a decree that all Russian proprietors who owned five hundred serfs or over should build residences in the new capital and spend at least the winters there. By 1800 the population was 220,000; by 1864, 500,000; by 1900, 1,200,000; and today it is 2,000,000—a wonderful monument to the will power and dogged resolution of one man—a man who never in his life took "no" for an answer. A giant in stature and in intellect, the founder of St. Petersburg and of modern Russia must always rank among the very greatest of the sons of men, a miracle of will power, one of the most amazing instances we have of the energy that does things.
