WOODWARD 'FAXES' IN QUARTER DRAFT

Noting, in Scorching Statement, Calls Woodward "Hard Head" and Scoffs "Ring" Charge.

Mayor Woodward Monday made another attack on the new charter, no blither than any of his former attacks.

Though it was reported that the new charter campaign committee would issue a statement Monday afternoon in reply to the Mayor's charges that were published Sunday, Mayor Woodward said the time before the election Wednesday was too short to wait on it. He said he felt it his imperative duty to answer the people to the dangers they faced in that election.

"Reading that new charter is like reading a play of Shakespeare," began the Mayor. "Every time I read it I discover some new meaning. In the case of the charter I have discovered villainousness that was almost unbelievable from a casual reading. I have just discovered the worst of the whole thing, but as the others I have called attention to are 'Real Issues Cleared'."

"The charter advocates are harping on the fact that the adoption of it would abolish the $3 sanitary tax that is imposed on every dwelling in the city. By reading the old charter you will find that if Council wanted to abolish this tax it could do so by an ordinance. They put the section abolishing it in the new charter purely as a vote catcher and to cloud the real issue.

"Abolishing that tax would cut off $115,000 income from the city. Everyone knows how hard the city is pressed for money with that tax. They would make it appear that each little dwelling in the city is paying as much tax as the Kimball House. No dwelling pays more than $5 a year, and the sanitary tax of the Kimball House is $6 a year. The downtown sanitary tax rate is $5 for every 25 feet of frontage of a building.

"The people will recall that last fall they voted down a proposition to lease Lakewood to an exposition company. The new charter contains a provision to allow Council to 'sell, lease or exchange' it for a period of five years. I don't know how in the world they would sell it for five years.

"See Plot of Realty Agents. It is a scheme to turn over that property to a bunch of real estate sharks. Last year when Marletta, Deshaire and other sharks were turning everyone in town was complaining that there was no one with authority to whom they could appeal and get redress. It is a fine scheme the new charter provides for reform in this department.

"The people now elect the Chief of Construction. Under the new charter Council elects a board to have charge of this department. The board elects the Chief and all the assistants in the department. A Committee during a term of office would not have the privilege of voting on but two or three members of the board and only two of three are to be elected each year.

"What I want to know is where the people come in? The whole plan of that charter is to give the ring more complete control of the board. The ringsters will get the board jobs and be independent of both the Council and the people.

"If the people don't wake up to the viciousness of that charter now I can assure them that they will up to three years from now.
Meeting Scores Mayor.
The Mayor's charges have aroused the feelings of the citizens and an interview given out by Alexander James R. Whittier, one of their number, Monday morning, was as follows:

RISKS LIFE IN SAVING BABY FROM FIRE

Boy Burned Badly in Fall Into Grate—Parent Injured Rescuing Child From Death.

Falling head foremost into an open grate, with his clothing and hair on fire, Charlie Battle, the 5-year-old son of C. G. Battle, of No. 216 Dawson street, was saved from death early Monday morning by his mother, who dragged the little boy from the flames.

With her own clothing ablaze, the frantic mother bent out the flames with her bare hands. She then called the Grady Hospital ambulance and the child was taken to the hospital, where his injuries were dressed. The boy was severely burned about the head and face, and most of his hair had been destroyed, but surgeons declared that he probably will live. The efforts of the doctors will be centered on saving his eyesight.

Mrs. Battle was burned slightly about the hands, but she refused to have her wounds attended to until she had heard that the little boy's life could be saved.

The accident followed the first Mrs. Battle had kindled in the open grate this season. Shortly after starting the blaze she left the room on some household errand, leaving the little boy playing with his toys on the floor. The fire had a fascination for little Charlie. He pitched one of his toys into the flames and then, in reaching over to retrieve it, stumbled and slipped head foremost into the blaze.

Mrs. Battle, busy in another room, heard the screams of the little boy and fought vainly to climb out of the grate.

"Sell Bonds at Retail." In effect, I simply want the Government to sell its bonds at retail instead of wholesale, and I believe the Government can accumulate all the money necessary for the retirement of the present method of national bank bond issue at 2 per cent.

I suggest that when a man deposits money in the postal savings bank he be given a Government coupon or obligation bearing 2 per cent interest to repay his deposit. If he deposits $1 he gets a $1 coupon bond from the Treasury of the United States and can be cashed anywhere in the world.

I believe this plan will be of benefit to the Government and the people. It will distribute the bonded indebtedness of the Government among hundreds of thousands of its citizens, maintain its bonds at par at a rate of 2 per cent, and put it beyond the power of any man or set of men to wield an undue influence over any legislation affecting Governmental policies.

SELL TWO PER CENT BONDS TO PEOPLE

That Congressman Tells How to Be Retired in This Way.

BY HUGH MILLER.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Representative William Scully Howard of Georgia in a speech before the House today explained an advanced means of meeting one of the greatest problems confronting the framers of the currency bill—the retirement of the $742,000,000 Government 2 per cent bonds now held by the banks and used by them as a basis for a national bank circulation. He urged placing of this debt in the hands of the people, where, he declared, it belonged.

It is contemplated by the provisions of the currency bill that in twenty years the present national bank issue of bonds will be replaced by a new issue of bonds. The Government will issue a 1 per cent interest-bearing bond without the circulation privilege. It is unnecessary, in his judgment, to increase the rate of interest to 2 per cent. Such an operation will cost about $100,000,000 per year, and the Government always must issue its bonds at a minimum rate of interest of not less than 2 per cent on all new loans.

These bonds should be distributed among the people at large. They should be held by the saving class. The machinery for accumulating the savings of the masses is already in operation and it is available and adequate to carry out this plan through the 56,000 postoffice scattered throughout the country.

"Sell Bonds at Retail." In effect, I simply want the Government to sell its bonds at retail instead of wholesale, and I believe the Government can accumulate all the money necessary for the retirement of the present method of national bank bond issue at 2 per cent. I suggest that when a man deposits money in the postal savings bank he be given a Government coupon or obligation bearing 2 per cent interest to repay his deposit. It will distribute the bonded indebtedness of the Government among hundreds of thousands of its citizens, maintain its bonds at par at a rate of 2 per cent, and put it beyond the power of any man or set of men to wield an undue influence over any legislation affecting Governmental policies.

Second, It will encourage thrift among the people at large and legitimate business channels at least a billion dollars which is now hidden away because the people are accustomed to ordinary savings bank institutions.

Third, The accumulation in the hands of the Government of thousands of its citizens, maintain its bonds at par at a rate of 2 per cent, and put it beyond the power of any man or set of men to wield an undue influence over any legislation affecting Governmental policies.

Louis B. Magid and Driver Near Death in Burning Auto

With his automobile involved in flames, Louis B. Magid, the banker with offices in the Chandler Building and his chauffeur narrowly escaped being burned while motoring in Peachtree street last Sunday afternoon. The man leaped from the machine just in time.

Mr. Magid ran into the house of Robert P. Freeman, No. 328 Peachtree street, in front of which the machine caught fire, and telephoned to the fire department. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemical. The damage to the car amounted to several hundred dollars.

The fire was caused by faulty installation and broke out as Mr. Magid was en route home. The chauffeur failed to notice it until the flames sprang up all around the car. He shouted to Mr. Magid, and they jumped out.

MAUGHTON HIGHLY JOYFUL NOW NEAR BRASS JOY IN GEORGIA

Feel Depressed for the First Season of Prosperity Forecast in Good Yield and Prices of Staple.

With cotton bringing from 12 to 14 cents a pound in Georgia a season of prosperity for farmers and merchants of this state is forecast this fall and winter. Reports from over the State also indicate that larger crops of grain and food supplies have been grown this year than in past seasons.

The cash is being used to supply cotton banks with the currency needed for active marketing.

It is estimated that when cotton is moving actively $1,000,000 always is added. From the time the buyer comes until the cash is back in the banks is a period of about three days on the average. Though cotton is bought and sold in Atlanta territory so in the three-day transactions in the Governmental deposits of $1,000,000 are being used to supply this demand for real money.

There are five national banks in Atlanta. Each received its proportionate share of the $1,000,000. This money is not loaned, but is deposited. Securities have been put up as collateral. In per cent in Government bonds, the rest either in municipal and State bonds at 75 per cent valuation, or prime commercial paper approved by the Clearing House Association committee headed by J. K. Orr, at 60 per cent valuation.

The distinction between a loan and a deposit of this kind is that the deposit is not entered in the "liability" account. The deposit draws 2 per cent, just as do all other Government deposits. The money must be repaid in four installments in December, January, February and March.

DECLARES HE IS VICTIM OF PLOT

"I Feel Depressed for the First Time," Says Physician in Chatham Cell.

With Governor Slaton's verdict expected at any time, Dr. W. A. McNaughton, under sentence to hang for the murder of Fred Flinders, broke down for the first time in his cell in the Chatham County Jail Monday. The spirit which has held the physician as one of the most cheerful men who has ever stood trial for his life, disappeared completely, and McNaughton gave way to his feelings.

Bitterly denouncing his personal enemies, yet declaring his belief that Governor Slaton would pardon him, Dr. McNaughton issued his cell as the picture of a man whose nerves were broken. The new fight which suddenly developed by the prosecution after the Pardon Commission had recommended the granting of a full pardon, proved too great a strain upon the doctor and McNaughton was completely broken, languid and distraught from what he declares is persecution on the part of a number of influential County residents.

His announcement that the new fight has been made to send me to the gallows for a crime, or alleged crime, of which I am wholly innocent," he said. "I feel depressed for the first time since I have been here, but I have an unshakable confidence in the judgment of Governor Slaton, and believe that justice and truth will triumph in the end. I had no idea my personal enemies would carry their fight to the Governor when the Pardon Commission recommended a pardon. I can't understand why they have taken an utter denouncing the Governor Slaton was still considering the evidence in the McNaughton case Monday. He is going carefully into each part of it and will make a complete review of the case before making his decision. The Governor informed the lawyers that he would make his decision in writing, explaining his reasons for making it. His decision is not expected to be rendered until the latter part of the week.

ALDERMAN DECLARES CHARGES ABSURD

Woodward's Card Attacking the Charter is Called a Canard by Nutting.

Mayor James O. Woodward's attack on the new charter has caused the leaders of the supporters of the movement to hastily call a meeting for Monday afternoon to prepare a reply. The Mayor's charges have aroused the feelings of the charter advocates and an interview given on by Alderman James H. Nutting, one of their number, Monday morning, indicates that the counter attack will be given from a position that Mayor Woodward.

The first came in Mayor Woodward's attack on the new charter, said Alderman Nutting. "He claims there is a plot to change the charter of the city government when he ran for Mayor and it seemed to take with some force. He is working the charges on the street."

"Practically the whole city government organization is opposed to Mayor Woodward's policies. Nearly every member of council who supports him at the first of the year has been forced to turn against him."

"The aim to charge that there is a 'ring' because Council won't do as much as he has the seventh man on a jury who held out against the other eleven and declared that they were against of the hardest leadership he ever saw."

"The letter is nothing but a series of statements. The points charged are generally in passages copied verbatim from the old charter."

"Council is given no more power under the new charter than it has under the present one. The charges are made either a lack of familiarity with the form of government or a deliberate attempt to plant a false foundation."

"Council is given the same authority over subordinate officials as it has under the present charter."

"His Sanitary Tax Attack."

A great billboards has been raised over the repeal of the sanitary tax. This charge that a fee system is being substituted.

"The 'sanitary' study will continue over that there is no basis for the charge. It is not that for a down town hotel to pay the same sanitary tax that a little cottage in the Fifth Ward pays. Therefore the new charter for addition of the sanitary tax."

"Council is given the same authority to levy fees under the new charter that is provided under the old. Council generally is opposed to fee systems and the city government itself will never have any more than at present, whatever form of government the people select."

"We hardly expected Mayor Woodward to consider it a good charter if any other man who ever held office in Georgia ever did anything worth while besides hummer. I have been in it for 12 years."

"The new charter contains and gives no present charter. That's all that is to be said."

Victories campaigning on the new charter advocates will mark the end of the new charter campaign. When the ballot boxes are closed Wednesday night at 7 o'clock a heavy vote will have been polled, according to the present indications.

Boy Burned Badly in Fall Into Grate—Parent Injured Rescuing Child from Death.

Falling head foremost into an open grate, with his clothing and hair on fire, Charles Battle, the 2-year-old son of C. O. Battle, No. 206 Rawson street, was saved from death early Monday morning by his mother, who dragged the little boy from the flames. With her own clothing alight, the frantic mother lay out the flames with her bare hands. She then called for a nearby hospital ambulance and the child was taken to the hospital. There the injuries were dressed. The boy was severely burned about the head and face, and most of his hair had been destroyed, but surgeons declared that he probably will live. The efforts of the doctors will be continued as quickly as possible.

Judge Did Not Hear Frank's Trial Motion

Four Superior Judges Will Elect One of Their Number to Pass on Plea.

The puzzle I regard to the judge who will hear the motion for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, as well as the date of the convening of the new branch of the Atlanta Superior Court, was cleared up somewhat Monday when it became known on good authority that Judge Ben Hill appointed to the new judgeship, would tender his resignation as judge of the Court of Appeals on October 1.

The rumor that Judge Hill would hear the motion in view of the fact that he is ex-acting judge of the Court of Appeals, was set at rest following authoritative information that the four judges of the Superior Court will confer, according to custom, and decide which one shall hear the Frank motion.

According to all indications one of these judges actually will hear the Frank motion, and the one who will assume his new duties on the Court of Appeals, bench Monday following the resignation of Judge Hill on October 1.

Frank's Lawyers Opposed to Delay

Lucas Z. Rosser, leading counsel for Leo M. Frank, convicted and sentenced to hang for the Atlanta murder Monday, emphatically denied Monday morning that he intended to ask for a postponement of the hearing of arguments for a new trial, which has been set for October 4.

"We will be ready to argue our side of the case at the specified time, Mr. Rosser said. We do not now and never did intend to ask for any more time."

Attorneys on both sides of the case, waiting for the reopening of the trial, were in the courtroom Monday morning. Mr. Rosser in the Frank defense, will argue on the other side, the ability will hold a conference with the attorneys of the State to discuss the plan of battle. The impression is that the new trial will be held on October 4, the day after the case closed.

McNaughton, on Decision's Eve, Breaks Down

"I Feel Depressed for the First Time," Says Physician in Chatham Cell.

With Governor Slatton's verdict expected at any time, in W. J. McNaughton, under sentence to hang for the murder of Fred Plander, broke down for the first time in his cell in the Chatham County Jail Monday.

The spirit which has held the physician as one of the most cheerful men who has ever stood trial for his life, disappeared completely, and McNaughton gave way to his feelings.

Bitterly denouncing his present conviction, and declaring his belief that Governor Slatton would pardon him, McNaughton paced his cell at the penitentiary during the three years following the trial, which had been developed by the prosecution after the Prison Commission had recommended the granting of a full pardon.

McNaughton was completely broken, and dispirited, and believed that justice and truth would triumph in the end. I had no idea my personal enemies would fight their fight to the Governor when the Prison Commission recommended pardon. I can't understand why they have been so bitter denouncing me."

Governor Slatton was still considering the evidence in the McNaughton case Monday. He is going careful, but he has an unshakable confidence in the judgment of Governor Slatton, and believes that justice and truth will triumph in the end. I had no idea my personal enemies would fight their fight to the Governor when the Prison Commission recommended pardon. I can't understand why they have been so bitter denouncing me."

Life's Worth Living in Georgia

If you prefer city life, there are no better cities in the world than those in Georgia. If you prefer village life, the smaller towns in Georgia offer every inducement. If you prefer country or farm life, Georgia offers greater inducements than any State in the Union.

Climate and Soil

The climate is such that farmers do not have to house stock during the winter, there being good grazing the entire year. For raising cattle and stock Georgia offers greater inducements than can be found elsewhere. The soil is suited for almost anything that grows and can be utilized the entire year.

5. FINEST OF GREAT COTTON CROP; GEORGIA JOYFUL

With cotton bringing from 12 to 14 cents a pound in Georgia a season of prosperity for farmers and merchants of this State is forecast this fall and winter. Reports from over the State show that larger crops of grain and food supplies have been grown this year than in past seasons.

Atlanta banks have received the $1,000,000 allotted them by the United States Treasury to aid in moving the cotton crop. The cash is being used to supply country banks with the currency needed for cotton marketing.

It is estimated that when cotton is moving actively $1,000,000 always is ahead. From the time the buyer goes into the market to purchase cotton until the cash is back in the banks is a period of about three days.

There are five national banks in Georgia. Each received its proportionate share of the $1,000,000. This money is not loaned, but deposited. Securities have been put up as collateral, 10 per cent in Government bonds, the rest either in municipal and State bonds or 75 per cent valuation of prime commercial paper.

Augusta Exports Receipts of $30,000,000 in Cotton. AUGUSTA, Sept. 22.—Prosperity will crown Georgia's cotton harvest this fall and winter. Already cotton has been received here and the farmers are excited about the prospect.

We Have Passed Over Night From Summer Into Autumn
 And The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s Ready-to-Wear Section Presents
 In a Fine Degree of Completeness

The New Season's Authentic and Authoritative Fashions

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried Nor yet the last to lay the old aside"

Women are concerned principally now by the latter admonition—the passing of the autumnal equinox precluded the possibility of one being the first to try the new.

It is time now for the new styles!

Soon we will be getting late—and no one wants to be the last to lay the old aside.

The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company display of fall fashions has been timed to this moment of certainty—of certainty as to what is genuine and authentic in style.

And now it speaks with that authority!

No, it does not speak, but exhibits with that authority.

Here Are Hundreds of Suits of Different Styles

And the happy result is a season where the strict following of an arbitrary law gives place to the abstract becomingness. That is the style, as you shall find here, and that is why we stress the bigness of this display.

Becoming Suits for Hundreds and Hundreds of Women

If there is one style-point that is notable above others it is that the cutaway coat is the motif of the fashions. It seems to run through the scheme of things. It is varied, very, very varied.

There are cutaway coats that button close about the neck, others have the wide lapels and the general appearance of a man's evening coat; others are fashioned to show a tapestry or brocade vest over the bust, others show the vest at the waist; and then there are others—and very smart—that are fashioned with a sash to hold the coat to a blouse.

All of which means that women may have a stylish suit that best becomes them!

Long shoulders are noticeable, sleeves hardly begin to be sleeves until they are brought below the shoulders. The butterfly or kimono effect is the result. In many of the "dressy" suits this butterfly effect is carried out with a seamless back and a big butterfly bow at the back waist.

This advertisement can never disclose the wealth and beauty and surpassing variety of the Ready-to-Wear Section. It can but throw out a few hints and leave it to woman's interest in the fall fashions to see what has been done in preparation for this announcement.

There is a completeness and thoroughness about things here this season that has never been attained before—the progress we have made over last year seems greater than from any other season to another. Is it the diversity of the styles that Paris has given us, is it extreme effort on our part?

It is both. Paris has given us varied styles, we have worked with a determination that must put this Ready-to-Wear Section first in the minds and hearts of Atlanta women.

What is the style?

The word "fancy" fits in with the new styles, as the cutaway coats, the draped skirts, the trimmings (fur bands, skunk, fitch, broadtail, chinchilla and ermine, tapestry and velvet vests, velvet buttons, collars and cuffs) and the fabrics—velour, matalasse, diagonals, wool failles, wool crepes, duvetyne and peau de peche—all these tend to make suits this season fancy and the colors, rich mahogany shades, the greens—bottle and bronze—the prune shades, tete de negre.

These points show in

—a broadtail suit with skunk collar and cuff.
 —a taupe bayadere cloth suit with velvet collar and wide revers, a tunic of cloth over velvet.

—a black duvetyne blouse model with sash, Oriental embroidered vest and peg-top skirt.

—and, to prove the scope of style this year, is a ruby chiffon cloth suit with a long, straight Balkan coat edged and belted with velvet and having a collar of sable squirrel.

—A combination suit has a coat of tete de negre matelasse and a draped skirt of peau de peche in the same shade. The coat has a collar of gold and prune tapestry.

But it seems hardly fair to mention a mere half dozen suits out of all these that are worthy and distinctive.

See them with your own eyes and judge how well we have solved the suit problem for the women of Atlanta this Fall.

We Hold the Exclusive Atlanta Agency for Max M. Schwarcz Suits

Max M. Schwarcz has long overtopped all American makers of elegant tailored suits—he uses the finest foreign cloths; he imparts a wonderful grace of line and cut.

The New Dresses Are Charming Affairs Exquisite Evening Dresses, Glorious Afternoon Costumes and Smart Street Dresses

Here is Paris!

Fact is we doubt if one could shop in Paris with such satisfaction as one may right here. The fashions that the wizards scattered over Paris have evolved are gathered here within arms-reach—you may see and study them all, side by side—reproductions, yes, and therefore sans the prices of the originals.

To tell you that we have gathered greater numbers of more beautiful dresses this season than ever before is but to tell you what will probably be the first expression of those who know us best.

The styles are not simple, the richness of fabrics, of colors and the masses of laces and nets rob the evening and afternoon dresses of simplicity and create glory that is new.

And therefore one must be very circumspect this season. Good taste is never gaudy—and in the hands of the lesser artists the richness that is the mark of fashion becomes a mass of colors—bizarre and outré. Not so here.

One dress after another of surprising beauty—a salmon pink Canton crepe has a six-inches wide girdle of blue chenille embroidered in green and yellow and terra cotta flowers—Oriental in the extreme—the girdle ends in a long navy streamer. A bold combination of colors and a beautiful one. The bodice is covered with sand-colored Chantilly lace—a bronze crepe dress has a bodice of shadow lace, a wide black moire girdle, red corsage rose, the skirt drapes most gracefully.

A dainty affair, a chiffon dress of morning light blue underbodice with lavender girdle and little French flowers on bodice. The skirt shows an overdrop of shadow lace.

Dresses for street wear take on more richness. The materials—woolen crepes, woolen matelasses, diagonals, charmeuse, the new corded silks, the silk brocades and the silk matelasses show the tendency, as do the always draped skirts, the use of the sashes, the frillings at the sleeves and necks, the "vest effects" in Oriental colors—there is much of interest here right now.

KISSING 'WAR' IS CONDEMNED IN 3 PULPITS

Sharply criticizing those who have aligned themselves on the side of the sponsors in the recent "war" and asserting that the newspapers and politicians have made Atlanta foolish, three Atlanta preachers on Sunday launched a campaign of support for Chief of Police Beavers and his department. A forum against the methods of modern reformers, though he mentioned no names and dealt only in generalities.

The three who vehemently declared in favor of the police were Dr. John E. White of the Second Baptist Church; Dr. L. O. Bricker, of the First Christian, and Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, of the Central Presbyterian. Their sermons abounded in praise of the police department and its head, Dr. Bricker expressing his amazement at the "moral grandeur and strength of Chief Beavers." Dr. White characterized the assault on the police force on behalf of the down-trodden sponsors of the land as plain old "war" and said, Dr. Ogden declared that the "war of the sponsors" merely showed that the old conflict of vice and virtue is still waged in Atlanta.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker, of the First Presbyterian Church, scoring modern reformers and their methods, sought to show that they are not following the plans of Jesus.

"Christ came not to take away the rights of civil government or personal liberty," Dr. Walker said, "but He came to save sinners and not His way, rendering unto Caesar what is Caesar's and rendering unto God what is God's. He would restore the world."

Dr. White differentiated, speaking on "The Little About the Marriage Vow," Dr. White issued a broad invitation for the person known as the "sponser" to come forth and show himself, "I would like to see him," he said.

"We have fresh evidence of the evil influence which are undermining the family and the home," said Dr. White. "In the recent exhibition of loose moral thinking on the subject of young men and women meeting in dark places in the night and festive gentlemen have come forward to advocate spooning. For the last two weeks the newspapers have made an ass of Atlanta. Politicians have had the gall to assail the police force in behalf of the down-trodden sponsors of the land. There have been tirades against the abuse of personal liberty."

Dr. White gave also his opinion of the difference between spooning and courting. "Spooning," he said, "is the exploit of the Lathrop-courting the glory of the lover. Spooning is dullness with the best-courting in the list of many lovelies, the assertion of confidence over love, the nothing engagement of honest souls."

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden based his sermon on the assertion that the conflict which began a year ago, when Chief Beavers closed the tenderloin, still rages. He cited the "sponser's" way to prove it.

Preachers Defend Police.
The aim of those who oppose moral reform is to discredit the police force," Dr. Ogden said. "The Chief of Police is the man for the enforcement of the law against the reports has shown that he has the courage to be true to his oath of office. In wading out the segregated district and in dealing with scattered vice, he has proven his efficiency. It is our duty as citizens, therefore, to uphold him, and to so mold public thought as to maintain him in this mighty conflict with the forces of lawlessness."

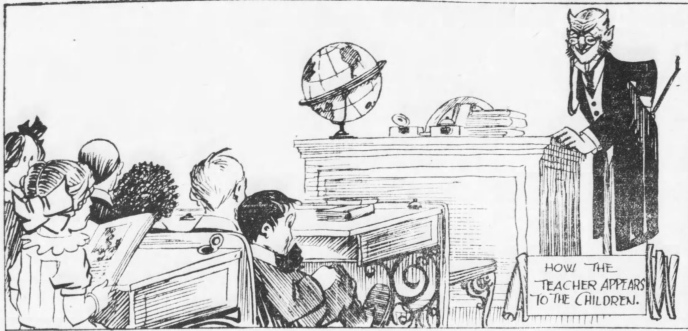

Asserting that the police department made a mistake in arresting a couple for spooning on the steps of the Capitol, Dr. L. O. Bricker asserted that the city has become disgusted, not with the police but with the men who took up the issue on behalf of the lovers.

"For the last several weeks," said Dr. Bricker, "we have had the most stinking mess of hogwash in the way of cartoons, jeers and sneers and polemic articles in the newspapers, that was ever served up to the massed people of any city in the world. The purpose of it all was to stoke and disgust the people with the police department. They have stoked and nauseated the people—but thank God, not with the police department. Yet it is surprising that the department did not go to pieces utterly. I am amazed at the moral grandeur and strength of Chief Beavers."

Declaring that most great reforms originate in the pulpit, Dr. Lathrop of the Central Baptist Church, vigorously defended the right of the preacher to base his sermons on current happenings.

"Who is going to create moral sentiment against public houses?" he asked, "who will lead the fight against the political power of the saloon and the reservation, parlor and the club gambling by both men and women, and the open destruction of the Sabbath of the preacher's soul?"

SAYS VICE HOLDS BACK NEGRO RACE

Judge Broyles, in Sermon, Urges Blacks to Fight Evils With Weapon of Education.

Characterizing the five great stumbling blocks to-day in the path of advancement of the negro race as whisky-drinking, gambling, lewdness, idled tongue and vagrancy, Police Judge Nash R. Broyles, Sunday, addressed a negro congregation which had gathered at the Big Bethel Methodist church to hear his talk on "Some Things We Ought to Do."

Judge Broyles announced himself as the negro's friend and made a plea to the negroes present to put their shoulders to the wheel and work among the negroes of Atlanta to abolish the evils which are holding down the negro race in the South.

"Education will be your greatest help in the fight and also your ultimate salvation," said Judge Broyles. His remarks met with attentive attention, and especially when he scouted the idea of colonizing the negroes in South Africa.

"The negro is here to stay," said Judge Broyles. "It would be impossible to carry out the colonization plan suggested by some who are unfamiliar with the negro question. You are citizens of this country, just the same as myself and other whites, and as such should be given the same consideration, but in turn you should conduct yourself as becomes good citizens."

The judge was followed by Bishop Hipper, of the negro Methodist church, who told the congregation Judge Broyles was exactly right in everything that he had said to them, stating that if his ideas were carried out the successful future of the negro race was assured.

The address made by Judge Broyles is the first of a series planned by the negro Y. M. C. A.

Dr. James T. Moore Dies at Son's Home

Dr. James T. Moore, a former member of the "Old Guard" of the state City Guard, died Sunday at the residence of his son, J. M. Moore, No. 25 South Gordon street, West End. He formerly was in business in Atlanta, but of late years had conducted a drug store at Whitman, Ga.

He was 51 years old, and is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Emma Newman of Macon, one son, J. M. Moore, who is Southern sales manager for Palm, Fletcher & Co. of New York, one daughter, Mrs. J. E. Baker, of Atlanta, and three sisters.

The body will be sent Tuesday morning to Opelika, Ala., for funeral and interment.

The Government Should Be More Potent, Not Less, In Its Control of the New Currency System

THE three great objects of the currency measure now before the United States Senate are:

1. To provide, under Federal control, an elastic currency that will expand or contract according to legitimate needs of trade and commerce, and prevent "panics."
2. To extend the operations of the national banks to the farmer or agriculturist, hitherto excluded from the benefits of the national banking system by the provision in the banking act forbidding loans on real estate.
3. To make the national banks more helpful to commerce, industry and production, instead of fostering, as they do now, speculation and monopolies.

The national banks are fighting the bill in its present form. They are in sympathy with the first object above.

But they are opposed to any legislation that will disturb the partnership between the big banks and the stock speculative operations at the money centers. The avowed purpose of the Owen-Glass bill is to break up this partnership. The bankers do not want that partnership disturbed.

They desire to perpetuate a fictitious, unscientific system, sanctioned by law, but condemned by experience and bitterly offensive to the American people—"a system which everybody knows encourages and promotes the wildest description of stock gambling," in the words of Chairman Glass in introducing the currency bill in the House.

1 HOW THESE OBJECTS ARE TO BE ATTAINED

To provide for additional currency, and gradually to replace the more than $700,000,000 of national bank notes now in circulation, the Government proposes to establish twelve Reserve Banks. These banks will issue additional notes of currency, obligations of the United States, payable in gold or lawful money, in exchange for the notes of merchants, manufacturers and tradesmen. The Reserve Banks will also hold a large part of the reserves of all national banks, will rediscount the commercial paper of the individual banks, and fix the rate of discount or interest to be charged for such rediscounts.

But the new Federal Reserve Banks are expressly forbidden to rediscount notes based upon stock and bond transactions or Wall Street collateral.

This system will supply the ordinary needs of trade. It will encourage industry. It will facilitate legitimate business by making the rate of discount more stable. It will greatly facilitate the movement of the crops by a temporary increase in the volume of currency to pay for them without disturbing the money rates at industrial centers.

The Federal Reserve Banks are to be capitalized in this way: The 7,473 national banks, or as many of them as enter the new system, and as many of the 18,000 other banks and trust companies as apply for national charters, will each pay into the new Reserve Banks 10 per cent of such bank's paid up capital. In addition, each bank will be required to keep in the Reserve Bank of its district a small percentage of its deposits.

2 WHY BANKERS DO NOT LIKE THE BILL

They do not like it because the bill substitutes great PUBLIC RESERVOIRS OF CREDIT in place of the great PRIVATE RESERVOIRS OF CREDIT now managed by private bankers.

Under the present system, a small bank needing currency applies to its "correspondent," a big bank in one of the reserve cities. In return for this accommodation, the small bank keeps at all times a part of its own reserves in the big bank.

The present law operates in this way: Under existing bank statutes, there are only three central Reserve Cities in the United States. These are New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

Next to these central Reserve Cities the National Bank act names the forty-seven next largest cities in the country as Reserve Cities. The law requires all banks in Reserve Cities to keep nominally on hand in reserve at all times one-quarter of the total amount of their deposits. But the law permits every bank in every Reserve City to send one-half of its total reserve to the central Reserve Cities as a special deposit and still to count this special deposit as a part of its own reserves, exactly as if the cash were in its own vaults.

It is this system, which has gradually grown up under laws favoring the larger national banks, that enables six or eight banks in New York and Chicago to control so large a part of the bank reserves of the entire country that they practically control the credit situation.

It is this fund which furnishes constant fuel for the fevered speculation in Wall Street. A very large part of this reserve fund—three-fourths of it, according to experts—is loaned by the big banks from day to day on "call loans" for Wall Street operations.

This enormous fund also greatly facilitates loans to "Big Business." It aids the underwriting of the trusts. It facilitates all the operations of Organized Capital.

The country bankers that deposit their reserves with the big bankers are permitted to share in the profits of organizing trusts, underwriting short-term notes of big corporations, etc.

Loss of the profits derived from a system which makes them the legal custodians of all the reserve funds of the country naturally vexes the big bankers, the High Financiers of New York and Chicago. Also many country bankers, their small partners.

The statement of the Comptroller of the Currency, on November 24 last, shows that TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY MILLION DOLLARS belonging to the depositors of the 7,473 national banks in all parts of the country were on that date in the custody of the big bankers of the central Reserve Cities, and were thus put into the maelstrom of Wall Street stock operations. It has thus come to pass that Wall Street is financed by the small depositors of banks in all parts of the country.

In the words of the authors of the Owen-Glass currency bill, "the whole fight of the great bankers is to drive us from our firm resolve to break down the artificial connection between the banking institutions of this country and the stock speculators at the money centers. The avowed purpose of the bill is to cure this evil.

3 ONE RESPECT IN WHICH THE MEASURE FAILS

It fails utterly to provide an agricultural loan system.

There is no better security in the world than improved farms for long-term loans, and there is no other industry in the world so worthy of the fostering care of government as agriculture. The farms of the country not only sustain more than 20,000,000 of people, but the products of the farms feed the other 80,000,000.

Nothing is so important in this country as to stop the long-continued rise in the cost of living.

Food has risen in cost more than clothing or any other necessity of life.

The value of the American dollar compared with the prices of food has shrunk too far and too fast. It is not a tariff question, nor even a trust question, mainly, as Mr. Hearst has shown by comparing European prices with American.

Food has risen in cost much faster in the United States than in Europe. First, because our population has increased nearly twenty times as fast as the production of our farms; and, second, because the little farmer of Germany and France borrows money from local loan associations to improve his farm and increase its production, while our own national bank laws EXPRESSLY FORBID national banks to make such loans.

Thus it happens that the European farmer, borrowing money at less than 5 per cent, can improve his farm and increase his crops, while the American farmer, forced to deal with loan agents of associations not national banks, pays an average of 8½ per cent for such loans (United States census figures). Intensive farming, thus made possible, the German and the French farmer produces twice as much per acre as the American farmer.

Cheaper loans for the farmer is the greatest of our agricultural needs. The total number of our farms is 6,000,000. The average farm has a mortgage debt of $500, and a current debt of about the same amount.

The farm land mortgages, according to the census figures, amount to $3,000,000,000.

The current loans to farmers on account of crops, chattels, etc., amount to $3,000,000,000 more.

To an exorbitant rate of interest charged for these loans are added recording fees, commissions for renewals and compulsory insurance, raising the total cost to more than 8½ per cent annually—an interest bill of $510,000,000 a year. The total value of the entire wheat crop of the United States will barely pay this interest charge alone.

The farmer has the finest security for current loans, namely, products that go into immediate consumption and that sell in all the markets of the world every hour of the day. Yet he pays a rate double the rate paid by organized industries, and more than double the average rate paid for "call loans" in Stock Exchange operations in Wall Street. The farmer, who produces for others and benefits mankind, is put under a heavy burden. The stock gambler, who produces nothing, benefits nobody, works not at all—his path has been made easy for him by our Government's currency laws for fifty years.

Germany, a great and rapidly growing agricultural nation, has created by Government aid, associations of land credit, cooperative societies, syndicating their farm lands under negotiable bonds offered as security for the credit they need. This system has been in general use for more than one hundred years. It is not an experiment. The German farmer so obtains money for less than 5 per cent. The rate this year is about 4½ per cent.

In France, another great agricultural nation, there is an institution called the Credit Foncier. This institution started with government support, but does not now need government help. Up to the present time it has loaned to farmers more than two billion dollars, at rates varying, but always less than 5 per cent. The loans, moreover, are made from ten to seventy-five years and are retired in very small installments year by year.

In this country we have savings banks with many billions of deposits (saving only 3½ per cent). We have Postal Savings Banks paying even less to the depositor. But the government at Washington has never made an effort to work out a perfectly balanced system whereby the savings of the people throughout the country could be used to meet the needs of the producers of the country.

The greatest producing element in the country, namely, the small intensive farmer, should be the supreme object of the Government's fostering care.

The new currency bill removes the prohibition against loans upon farms by national banks, but it limits such loans to periods of one year. This very short and inadequate step will do little good, but it shows in what honest and right direction relief is moving. Much longer and more radical steps must be taken before relief is had. No phase of our national currency problem is so important.

4 THE CURRENCY REFORM BILL IS SURE TO PASS CONGRESS

Opposition to it by privilege and plutocracy will be futile.

The banks can insure its success, greatly improve its terms, and remove all difficulties, if they will only receive the bill in a hospitable spirit and recognize the principle behind it as an absolutely necessary and inevitable step in the country's progress.

The banks object to Government control of the Federal Reserve Board. Without that control no currency reform bill can pass Congress.

As the national banks are to elect six of the nine directors of the new banking system, i. e., the operations of the Federal Reserve Banks, in a Government board of seven members, all appointed by the President, with the approval of the Senate.

The bankers demand the right to appoint three of the seven members of the Federal Reserve Board, leaving three to be appointed by the President, and the member to be the Secretary of the Treasury.

With such a board of control, it is probable that the banks—and not the Government—would control the entire system.

With three out of seven members actually named by the banks, it would be necessary, in order to make their control secure, to obtain the passive consent of only one of the other four members, and, if the future can be judged in the light of the past, the Secretary of the Treasury would in practice vote with the bankers in defense of bankers' profits and privileges.

As the national banks are to elect six of the nine directors of every one of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, it is obvious that the Federal Board, having supervision and control of the entire system, should be a Government board. An advisory board of expert bankers might be helpful in the organization of the new system; but the final authority must reside in the Government. The Government should be more potent, instead of less, than the present bill proposes.

The Federal Reserve Banks will not compete in any way with individual banks. Each of these will conduct its own operations with its own customers, exactly as at present.

Bankers ought to ask no more. But the new Federal Reserve Banks will control, in the public interests, the distribution from the public reservoir of credits, created by the Reserve Banks, the reserves of the banks and the Government's general funds.

President Wilson is entitled to the credit for adopting the Owen-Glass Currency bill and making it an administration measure. We assume that he will not for an instant consider the demand of the bankers that the Federal Reserve Board shall be constituted partly by the Government and partly by the banks. This board should represent the public alone.

5 WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF THE BANKS FIGHT THE CURRENCY ACT

The authors of the bill do not venture the prediction that all the national banks will at once come into the fold.

The small country banks object to the breaking up of their relations with the big city banks. They object strenuously to the abolition of collection charges on checks which, under the new system, will be "cleared" through the Federal Reserve Bank of each district free of charge.

The big banks object strenuously, not to the little things, but to the paramount principles behind the bill, as we have stated.

Many amendments and improvements will be made in the bill in its progress through the Senate that will improve its workableness and remove unnecessary friction. But we hope that Senator Owen and his Democratic colleagues will stand like adamant against any merely reactionary amendment and against abandonment of any cardinal principles underlying this measure of currency reform.

Many national banks may refuse to adopt the new law. They will be free to do so. They may surrender their charters and become State banks. Many of the largest banks in several of the States now operate under State (instead of national) charters. There are only 7,473 national banks. But there are more than 18,000 State banks and trust companies. Under the new law all of these will be eligible to membership if they comply with the new law as to subscribing to the Reserve Banks and depositing in them a small part of their reserves.

If all the national banks in the country subscribe 10 per cent of their capital, the twelve new Federal Reserve Banks will start with a capital of $180,000,000.

But these banks would at once become the Government depositaries. If organized to-day, the Government's general fund deposited in them would amount to $185,000,000.

The Reserve Banks would be the sole fiscal agents of the Government. Deposits of special funds of the Government in them would raise the Government's contribution to the deposits to about $200,000,000.

The Government will, therefore, itself contribute to the available funds of the Reserve Banks, not only more than any other bank, but more than all the national banks put together.

No big banker, no high financier, wants to see the Government of the United States in the banking business AS A COMPETITOR. The only way in which they can keep the Government out of the banking business is to cooperate cheerfully and heartily in the just measure of currency reform to which the Government is now committed and which the public interests require.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The cotton market, after remaining closed until Monday, opened with prices 1/4 cent advance to 1 1/8 points from the closing quotations of Saturday, being influenced by much better cotton than expected with favorable advices from Washington and a front warning report to-night. Interior of North Carolina light, and heavy South Carolina, probably light, from the north and Liverpool. Prices advanced, increasing anxiety on the part of foreign cotton manufacturers.

After the call prices eased to 2 1/4 points in most active positions from the opening range.

Settlements are 16 a bale in New Orleans, 14 in Liverpool, 12 in London.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.—The general trade here seems to feel that there is a heavy cotton crop in the United States, and that the market will advance. It is just a question of how rapidly the market will advance.

COTTON GOSSIP

Dallas wires: "Texas and Oklahoma, generally clear, very good."

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—Hayward and other cotton crops in the western half of the State, 50 percent minimum, but some of the northern sections report over the northern section of the State, 60 percent minimum. The Tennessee Mountain, with light to heavy crops, 40 to 50 percent. The warmer the weather and central belt, fair and cotton, 40 to 50 percent. The northern portion of the State, 40 to 50 percent.

French Give Greek King Cool Greeting

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—The Paris press today gave cool comment to the speech of King Constantine of Greece, lauding the work of the French instructors in the Greek army.

They believe that it does not offset completely the Greek King's Berlin speech in which he gave the German credit for the effective discipline and fighting strength of his army.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The wheat market was under pressure this morning and showed early losses of 1/4 to 1/2 cent. World's shipments were considerably larger than looked for and Liverpool prices were lower. Northwestern receipts were heavy, and they are expected to increase still further. Large wheat crops were unchanged for September. There was no rain west of the Indiana line since August 15th. The crops in Wisconsin and eastern Iowa, but rains were general in the Ohio Valley.

GRAIN NOTES

Life's Worth Living in Georgia

If you prefer city life, there are no better cities in the world than those in Georgia. If you prefer village life, the smaller towns in Georgia offer every inducement.

Climate and Soil

The climate is such that farmers do not have to house stock during the winter, there being good grazing throughout the year. For raising cattle and stock Georgia offers greater inducements than can be found elsewhere.

Enthusiasm Is Running High In Pedalmobile Contest

"Gee, ain't it a peach! Couldn't I speed some if I had one of them! How many are you going to give away, Mister?" These are some of the remarks to be heard around The Georgian Office where the big red "Georgian Flyer" is on exhibition—the one just like The Hearst's Sunday American and Atlanta Georgian will give to each boy and girl who secures forty new subscriptions to the paper before October 1.

There are many earnest workers and the subscriptions are coming fast. It would be a wild guess now to say who will win the first fifteen cars and receive the Charter Membership Certificates to the Atlanta Pedalmobile Racing Club. These Certificates will entitle the holder to compete in any or all races and events to be held in the near future.

Pedalmobile Clubs are to be found in many of the large cities, having been promoted by some of the largest and best newspapers in the country. This sort of sport may be new in Atlanta, but in many particulars the Pedalmobile races are to the children what the Auto races are to the grown-ups. In fact, they are handled a good deal on the same order and are interesting to the parents as well as the children.

These little machines are not to be confined to pleasure alone, but can be put to good use in many different ways. In some cities carrier boys who have won Pedalmobiles may be seen distributing their papers in them. All these cars are well-made and serviceable and will surely gladden the heart of any boy or girl who is fortunate enough to win one.

These cars are now on exhibition in the window of O. C. Polk Dry Goods Store, 29 South Gordon Street; South Pryor Ice Cream Parlor, 353 South Pryor Street, and Imperial Tire and Tube Company, 349 Peachtree Street. While attending the Odd-and-Ends Sale at Polk's Dry Goods Company, be sure to notice the "Georgian Flyer" in the window.

Noted Cartoonist Prints Golf Yarns

H. B. Martin, the famous Hearst cartoonist, has just issued a new book which he has entitled "Golf Yarns" (Dodd, Mead & Co., 50 cents net). It is a clever compilation of the best of the best of the "golf yarns" picked up from here, there and everywhere, most of which are true or might have happened.

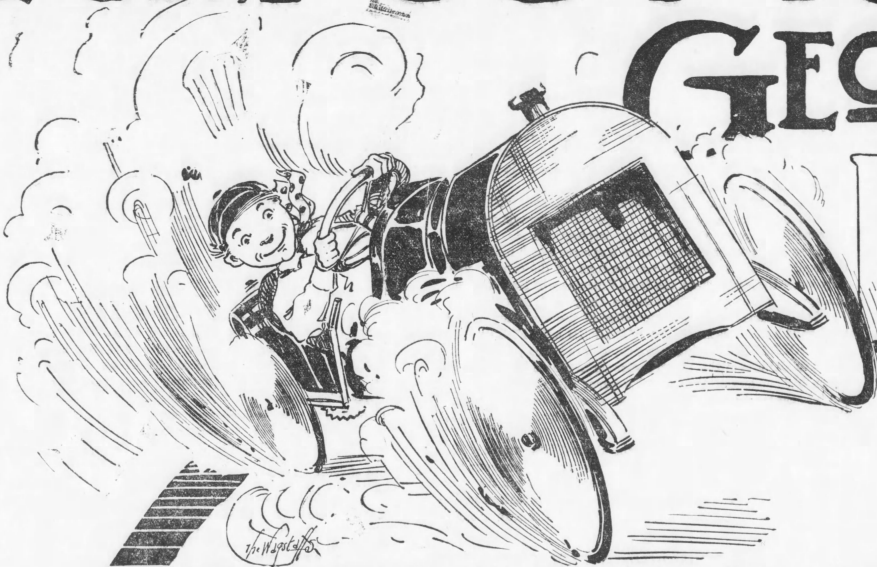

The book is plentifully illustrated by the artist who wears the double-eyeglasses. To his credit he has also included several "golf" jokes.

STOCKS WOULD KEEP UP CASH IN PAUPERS' EXCHANGES

Charges Suggested by Currency Tinkers Would Prove Serious Mistake, Says Forbes.

In the country you have to put up your money before a Stock Exchange broker will buy securities for you and the broker, in turn, has to settle his accounts with other brokers every day.

On the London Stock Exchange and on the Paris Bourse there is not a daily settlement of accounts, but only once every fortnight.

Among the varied recommendations made to the Washington Legislature handling the currency problem is one that American stock exchanges should adopt the fortnightly settlement of accounts.

Our stock exchanges should do nothing of the kind. For these plain reasons:

1. Daily settlements conduce to reduction of risk.

2. Fortnightly settlements encourage venturesome speculation and entail numerous failures.

3. Settlements made only bi-monthly entail frequent strains upon delicate money markets, causing disturbance to business.

4. In times of stress each fortnightly settlement is a lightning rod. Americans are prone enough to speculate rashly even when they are in case of "money fire." If they were given two weeks in which to examine their would often be unable to do so when the day of reckoning came.

The existing machinery for effecting settlements on the London Stock Exchange is one of the soundest features of our whole financial organization. Leave it alone, and let matters burning with real and pressing worry brains are flogging about the newly-founded Securities. They will tire by and by. These reforms can be quietly undertaken by sensible people having knowledge of what they are doing.

The Hearst papers did not mislead words in using the Stock Exchange as a clean house month for the day. In all fairness it should now be said that the Exchange authorities have accomplished a great deal.

The main thing remaining for the Exchange to do is to let the public get better acquainted with it, with its many admitted rules, with its new system of raising up a questionable practice, with its above-board methods of doing business.

The ordinary person of modest means likes to enter a broker's office as well for the little fellow to approach. He feels that he is being scolded, and that he had better sneak into some tenth-rate place—some doghouse as often as not, especially out of town.

The exclusiveness of the Stock Exchange, its haughtiness in the past, its "we-are-a-private-club" doctrine, all have contributed to keep the public away from it into disfavor. The Stock Exchange houses and the public need to get together. The brokers really want to inspire general confidence. There must be a concerted movement to cultivate friendly relations to convince the public that brokers have much in common with themselves.

And there also must be organized co-operation among investors and brokers—each as well as on the floor of the Exchange—to protect the public from questionable offerings of securities, no matter how powerful and dominating the underwriters may be. There are a hundred and two other things a vigorous, wide-awake, capable association of men could take up with results infinitely beneficial to themselves, to investors and to the country at large.

By neglecting their opportunity to do public favor and confidence, the Stock Exchange interests are standing in their own light. They are coming forward and point to an institution run on very different lines from theirs, and if the rest of the country is to be in a fever of speculation, the ultimate results would repay the thousands-fold.

The task of a sane amateur is not one for politicians. But if it were that the brokers should undertake for their own sake of their successors.

WASHINGTON NEWS SENDS COTTON OFF

Fear that the Cotton Tax Bill Will Pass Causes Tremendous Sales From All Sources.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The cotton market, after remaining closed until noon today, opened with prices at a net advance of 1/16 to 1/8 cents per pound for the 1913 crop. The market was characterized by a heavy volume of business, and prices were generally higher than in the previous week. The advance was attributed to the fear that the Cotton Tax Bill would pass, which would result in a significant increase in the tax on cotton. The market was also influenced by the fact that the crop was expected to be smaller than in previous years.
