Defense Claims Members of Jury Saw Newspaper Headline; Dr. J. W. Hurt, Coroner's Physician, Gives Expert Testimony

WHEN JUDGE ROAN UNWITTINGLY HELD RED HEADLINE IN FRONT OF JURY, DEFENSE MADE POINT

Jury Is Sent Out of Room While Attorneys for the Defense Tell the Court That the Jurymen Were Seen Reading Red Headline, "State Adds Links to Chain" - Judge Then Calls Jury Back and Cautions Them

FOLLOWING JUDGE'S SPEECH TO THE JURY, TESTIMONY IS RESUMED, NO FURTHER MOTION MADE BY DEFENSE

In His Address to the Jury, Judge Roan Declared That They Must Not Be Influenced by Anything They Had Read in the Newspaper, but Must Form Their Opinion Solely on the Evidence That Was Developed in Court

A red headline in a newspaper, held in the hands of the presiding judge, came near causing a mistrial Saturday about noon in the case against Leo M. Frank.

While the defense did not ask the court to declare a mistrial in the case, it seriously considered in a conference of attorneys, asking that the case be stopped, and while apparently satisfied with an admonition to the jury to disregard anything they might have seen in a paper, it is probable that the incident will be a part of the basis for an appeal, in event the verdict goes against the defense.

During the course of the discussion of the incident Solicitor Dorsey contended that the jurors had not seen the headline. During the progress of the trial Judge L. S. Roan picked up an extra edition of an afternoon Atlanta newspaper bearing an eight column red headline touching on the case before the jury. The headline read: "State Adding Links To Chain." Attorney Rosser for the defense noticed the line and also noticed that the members of the jury were craning their necks to read more of the matter on the front page. Immediately he and his associates went into conference and the jury was excused from the room. After Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser returned to the court, following their conference, Mr. Arnold held a brief conversation with the judge. Mr. Rosser requested that the jury be sent out. That was

On Cross-Examination, Dr. Hurt Admits That Cabbage Is Considered Very Difficult to Digest and That Under Some Conditions as Much as Three Hours and a Half. Might Be Required Before the Process of Digestion Was Completed

PHYSICIAN ON STAND GREATER PART OF MORNING AND UNDERWENT RIGID CROSS-EXAMINATION BY DEFENSE

He Found No Evidence of Violence, He Declared - Detective Waggoner, Chief Beavers, Detective Bass Rosser, Patrolman Lassiter and Miss Ferguson Testify-Court Adjourns Until Monday Morning at 9 o'Clock

Dr. J. W. Hurt, coroner's physician, who examined the body of little Mary Phagan, was the principal witness introduced by the state at the Saturday morning session of the Frank trial. Dr. Hurt's expert testimony was the subject of fierce contention between the lawyers for the defense and the state. Attorney Reuben R. Arnold succeeded in drawing from the physician testimony to offset that given on Friday by Dr. H. F. Harris. While Dr. Harris testified that he found evidence of violence of some sort having been committed, Dr. Hurt declared he did not find any evidence that would show a criminal attack of nay kind.

Dr. Hurt further admitted, in answer to Mr. Arnold's questions, that cabbage was a difficult article of food to digest and that under some circumstances it might require three and one-half hours before the process of digestion was complete. This testimony was brought out by Mr. Arnold for the evident purpose of disputing Dr. Harris' conclusion that the state of digestion the cabbage was found in showed that Mary Phagan must have been killed within a half hour or forty-five minutes after eating.

When court convened Miss Helen Ferguson was caled to the stand and testified that Frank refused to let her have Mary Phagan's pay on Firday afternoon, the day prior to the murder, and that she was told by some one in Frank's office that Mary would have to come to the factory Saturday and draw her own pay. Attorney Rosser drew from the witness on cross-examination the admission that she had never before drawn the Phagan girl's pay and that she didn't know whether Frank knew her name or not.

R. L. Waggoner, one of the city detectives, was next called and told of how Frank twisted his hands on Tuesday, April 29, at the National Pencil factory. The witness said that the accused appeared at the window of his office twelve times in a half hour and each time twisted his hands and looked down as if he was in a very nervous state. Detective Waggoner said that he had been sent there to watch Frank and the factory prior to the accused's arrest.

Patrolman Lassiter, on whose beat is the National pencil factory, told the court of finding Mary Phagan's parasol in the bottom of the elevator shaft on the Sunday morning after the tragedy. The witness also testified that the floor of the basement showed that something had been dragged

Chief of Police J. L. Beavers was another witness and he testified simply that he had seen the blood spots on the second floor of the factory. Had Judge Roan not adjourned court about 12:20 o'clock, Conley would have been placed on the stand during the day. Newt Garner, special deputy for the solicitor, and Detective Campbell, had an automobile at police headquarters during the morning, ready to rush the negro to the court, when notified by the solicitor.

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owes to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided nervous spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the charcter and tem-perament of the little one soon to come. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00. It preserves the mother's health, enables her herself to the care and attention which mean so much to the welfare of the child. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., 229

Booklovers' Bulletin

G. A. B., Atlanta, Ga .-- All pictures were drawn to fairly represent the title of a book as the party who ordered the picture saw it. No two men would order pictures alike, and we doubt if the pictures could be made fairer than we made them. As you say yourself, it is just as fair for one contestant as the other. If the pictures were all made easy it would be no contest at all and would not be interesting to anyone. A great deal of time and care was taken to select titles that would make the campaign interesting to all Journal readers, and the many letters of praise we received from all over the south prove to us that the contestants are nearly all well pleased. It is almost impossible to please everyone in a campaign of this kind, and we are satisfied to know that we did please the majority of the contestants who took part in the delightful game. As the titles were all selected and placed in a safety deposit box in the Empire Trust and Safe Deposit Company's vault room, one week before the close of the contest, it is useless at this time to talk of one title fitting a picture better than the one we selected. All these titles stand as selected, and could not be changed now, even though we wanted to change them.

TEXT OF M'CRORY BILL FOR CHEAPER TEXT BOOKS

Only Copy Book, Fifth Reader and Primary History of U. S. Included

Representative R. C. McCrory, who has led the movement for cheaper text books for the public schools, has sent a copy of his bill to The Journal with the request that it be published in order that every one may familiarize himself with the contents of the bill.

Representative McCrory draws attention to the fact that his idea is not to include all school books in the first experiment, but only three, the copy book, ofth reader and primary history of the United States being the ones suggested by the state school superintendent.

The bill, which provides also for a text book commission and an educational clerk, follows :

A bill to be entitled an act to create a special text book commission for the state of Georgia, to define their duties and to provide for an educational clerk, and define his duties and compensation, and to provide how certain text books used in the schools of this state shall be edited and electrotyped and approved and copyrighted, and let to the lowest bidder for publication by competitive bids, and for extending the present school book contracts for five years, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Georgia. and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that from and after the passage of this bill there shall be in the said state of Georgia a special text book commission to be composed of the governor and the other members of the state board of education of the state. The members of said special text book commission shall perform this special service without compensation, the governor shall be president and the state superintendent of schools shall be the executive officer of said special text book commission.

Section 2. Before transacting any business relating to the duties of this special text book commission, they each shall take an oath as follows:

A famous scientist condemns the light bottle

We reprint herewith an extract from an opinion rendered by a famous scientist showing that beer in light bottles can not remain pure.

> "Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of light.

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schonfeld.

When Father Dies His Son Makes Two Suicidal Attempts

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) TIFTON, Ga., Aug. 2 .- Upon being told that his father was dead, Edward Yaun, a young white farmer living three miles east of Tifton, made two unsuccessful attempts to end his life last night. His father, Jesse Yaun, was taken ill Wednesday and when told yesterday that there was no hope of recovery, Edward said if his father died he would go with him.

As soon as Edward was told of his father's death last night, he walked out of the room and stabbed himself in the throat with a pocket knife. The wound was an inch too high to prove fatal, the blade ranging upward toward the mouth instead of going straight into the throat. His first attempt failing, young Yaun waked over to the woodpile and picking blow in the center of the forehead. He

Dr. Harris Collapses on Stand as He Gives Sensational Evidence

Physician Testifies at Frank Trial That Mary Phagan Met Death Half Hour After Lunch-Describes Wounds

In the midst of sensational testimony, Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the state board of health, collapsed Friday afternoon on the witness stand and was exeused until Saturday. Dr. Harris had just testified that his examination of the contents of the stomach of little Mary Phagan showed that the dinner which she had eaten before leaving home was still undigested, and he therefore concluded that the little girl was killed within thirty minutes or threequarters of an hour after she had eaten. Part of the undigested food taken from the stomach was exhibited in the court room. It had been preserved in alco-

Where Everybody Agrees.

There are cheering indications that the Legislature will enact at its present session a law recognizing a mother's right to her child. A well-considered bill to this end, recently introduced by Messrs. Smith, of Fulton, and Olive, of Richmond, has the hearty support of leading members of the House and the Senate, the indersement of prominent superior court judges, the approval of representative lawyers and the very earnest commendation of the press and the public throughout the State.

It is doubtful, indeed, that the existing Georgia law relative to the legal custody of minor children would ever have been suffered to remain upon the statute books a year had the people been aware of its gross unwisdom and injustice. Now that their attention has been drawn, by an especially pitiable incident, to the fact that in cases of domestic controversy a mother has virtually no legal claim to her children, the rank and file of citizens are amazed and are insistent uopn a speedy change in the law.

The measure introduced by Messrs. Smith and Olive, though not so far-reaching as others that were suggested, will suffice to relieve Georgia of the flagrant shame and cruelty of the present law. Its provisions are conservative and eminently fair. It vouchsafes to a mother the right to which she is entitled by every principle of nature and every prompting of human conscience and experience, at the same time looking to the best interests of the child itself. This bill will be given a hearing before the General Judiciary Committee No. 1 of the House next Monday afternoon. It is to be hoped that it will be reported favorably and promptly and then pressed to enactment with all the speed that its importance deserves.

The Rights of the Horse.

Some wealthy humanitarian ought to endow : back-to-the-farm movement for horses. City pavements, blistering with the summer's sun and slippery with winter's ice, are no place for poor Dobbin. It is estimated that as a result of such conditions the annual loss of horses in the United States amounts to thirt six million dollars. That is as costly as it is unkind.

It is the way of science and invention to work not only in the interest of economy but also in behalf of the oppressed and, so, we may hope that in time machinery will completely liberate the overburdened city horse. The present tendency is in that direction. A writer in the Motor magazine calculates that by the end of the current year there will be one hundred thousand h. wagons and trucks "in use for commercial purposes."

Gasoline is more expensive than conder but in the long run, experience would seem to prove, a motor is cheaper than a horse when it comes to hauling city loads. There is no more likelihood that the horse will ever be entirely supplanted by a machine than that man himself will be. Indeed, the records show that the demand for horses has been greater and the price of horses has been higher during the past ten years-the palmy period of the automobile's development-than ever before.

This demand, however, comes chiefly from the farm; and we may hope that the day is not very distant when, as the Courier-Journal remarks, the hard-driven delivery wagon hack horses and the overworked heavy draught horses in cities will be dispensed with; for, "beasts of burden in the country have easy lives compared with those that are used in cities, where they are driven upon stone streets and rarely given a chance at grass until they become too sore for service."

A Sane Mexican Policy.

Secretary Bryan's reassuring statement that the United States is in no way being pressed by European governments to take aggressive action in Mexico simply confirms the opinion which all sober-minded people have held. Reports that Germany, England and other foreign Powers had insisted upon a forthwith, decisive policy at Washington and that they themselves would intervene in the affairs of the stormy republic, unless this nation did so, were discounted from the outset as wild rumors. It is possible, indeed probable, that European interests have made friendly inquiry as to our attitude toward the Mexican situation but that they done more is incredible.

The course thus far pursued by the administration has been the best possible for everyone concerned. A recognition of the Huerta regime would have been as ill-advised as unjust. The provisional government that was set up through the betrayal and murder of a President who had been constitutionally elected, lacked physical as well as moral support. Huerta is despised by his own countrymen, at least by the great majority of them. He has lost his grip upon the army, to such an extent that troops sent out to quell an uprising not infrequently go over in a body to the rebels. His sphere of influence has rapidly narrowed until now according to mos accounts, it is limited to the territory immediately about the capital. The United States could as consistently have recognized the revolutionary camps as it could have recognized the impotent Huerta regime.

Forcible Intervention in Mexico has been urged only by habitual jingoes or by those who have some selfish interest at stake. There are thoughtful Americans, to be sure, who feel that conditions across the Rio Grande cannot continue indefinitely as they are and that unless the Mexican people free themselves of anarchy and establish a responsible government, the United States will be compelled, in behalf of civilization itself, to take a firm hand in the emergency. But those who think thus realize that intervention would be unwise except as a last resort. If a United States army ever crosses the Southern border, it will not return for years or decades. Its presence would be a signal for a united Mexican uprising and the beginning of campaigns far more difficult and costly than those which the Philippines required. The cost would be paid not only in money and lives, but also in the interruption, if not the failure, of those important economic and political re forms in which this nation is now engaged. Only under the highest stress of moral responsibility could the United States afford to assume such a burden as intervention in Mexico would impose.

There are hopeful omens that the flimsy Huerta rule will soon be peacefully supplanted by a new administration which will be acceptable to all factions and which can hold things together at least until the forthcoming election this autumn. A reform element in the Mexican Chamber of Deputies plans to submit to Huerta and to the revolutionists a plan whereby the former will retire and be succeeded by some nonpartisan provisional president. It was thus that the revolution against the elder Diaz was finlly settled; and, if an acceptable man can be found, this plan will doubtless be the simplest and salest way out of the present difficulties.

Our government is evidently awaiting developments in that direction. In the meantime, President Wilson and the State department refuse to be rushed into any hasty or ill-considered action. They know more of the Mexican situation than anyone else; they are handling it to the country's best interests; they should be unreservedly trusted by Congress and the people to work out this delicate problem.

Reviving the Dictatorship.

The old Roman practice of naming a dictator in times of crucial public danger has been revived in the little republic of Venezuela.

Threatened with a revolution led by the banished tyrant Castro, who in deflance of an international mandate has secretly returned to vex his country, the Federal Council of Venezuela has authorized President Gomez to assume dictatorial powers until the brewing rebellion is crushed. The Gomez government was constitutionally formed and will doubtless have the recognition and support of foreign Powers in general and of the United States in particular. Indications are that the governors of the several Venezuelan 'States will also stand squarely behind the government. In these circumstances, it would seem, the Castro u; rising will soon be quelled. Certainly, that is the outcome to be hoped for. Castro is a menace to the welfare of his own country and to the peace of all Central America.

The Rockefeller Foundation By Frederic J. Haskin

Thirty-five million dollars is the first gift to the Rockefeller Foundation from its founder, John D. Rockefeller. The fact of this benefaction and the first plans of work for the Foundation are now announced for the first time, although the founders, having unsuccessfully applied to congress for a federal charter, organized under the laws of the state of New York in May. One hundred million dollars may be the ultimate endowment of this Foundation, which is to spend its money in philanthropic, educational and eleemosynary efforts to improve the condition of the race. In accordance with announcements made on behalf of the incorporators at the time the proposed federal charter was pending in congress the first work undertaken will have to do with the improvement of the public health. What other activities are contemplated for the near fu-

The Foundation at present is composed of the original incorporators, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Star: J. Murphy, Jerome D. Greene, Wickliffe Rose and Charles O. Heydt. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has been elected the first president of the Foundation; Jerome D. Greene is secretary, and L. G. Myers is treasurer.

. . . Its first work in the public health field is to be the extension to foreign countries of the successful fight against hookworm disease. This work has been carried on in the southern states of the union for three years past. It was undertaken on the initiative of the Rockefeller sanitary commission, and with its supervision, but without exception the actual work has been done with the co-operation and aid of the local health authorities and physicians, as well as of the county governments.

Of the million dollars pledged for the work in the south about one-half has been expended. More than a half million persons have been treated for the disease. The improvement in the physical condition of the thousands who have been treated, whether their infection was light or heavy, constitutes one of the most wonderful phenomena in the whole history of medical science. Economic improvement has followed upon physical rehabilitation and the result is that not only the individuals and families, but whole communities, have experienced the regenerating effects of this treatment.

The treatment is very simple, consisting of the administration of the drug called thymol, and is as inexpensive as it is simple. When the treatment is followed by improved sanitary conditions it results in a permanent cure.

When the Rockefeller commission began its work in 1910, the then but recently discovered biological and pathological factors of hookworm disease were all but entirely unknown to the laymen, and were but imperfectly known and appreciated by the physicians of the country. It was entirely natural, therefore, that the first reports of the prevalence of the disease were received with suspicion and distrust.

That this attitude of distrust has disappeared, that it has given away to a well-nigh universal attitude of frank recognition of conditions and a resolute determination to meet them, is due to the common sense and courage of the people in the communities affected, first, in observing and later in acting upon the information given them by the demonstrations made in their presence by the commission and its local

An important by-product of this campaign has been that in many states the hookworm propaganda has increased and has, therefore, advanced the efficiency of ment and has, therefore, advanced the efficiency of public health activities generally. The same public sentiment and spirit of action that has been employed against the hookworm is now directed against typhoid fever, tuberculosis, malaria and other diseases that can be fought effectively only by concerted community action. . . .

During the last two years, at the instance of the Rockefeller commission, a preliminary survey of the whole world with reference to hookworm infection has been made. This showed that the disease, with all its train of physical and economic woes, is prevalent in a zone engirdling the globe between the parallels of 36 degrees north and 30 degrees south. . . .

With this survey before its members the Rockefeller Foundation, at its very first session, reached the conclusion that the eradication of hookworm disease, to be permanently effective, must not stop in the United States, or in any one country, but must continue straight around the world.

What a wide belt this is, and how much of the world it includes, is not even hinted at when one merely says "between 36 north and 30 south." It comprises all of the American continent from about the Mason and Dixon line southward to the upper reaches of Argentine and Chile. It includes practically the whole of the continent of Africa. It takes in large parts of southern Europe. It comprises the northern three-fourths of Australia. It takes in the East Indies as well as the West Indies. And, more important than all, it comprises all that portion of Asia except Sibebia, northern China, Korea and Mongolia. It takes in China proper and India, the Malay states and Ceyloncovering a population in Asia alone of more than 800,-000,000 persons. No such stupendous task as ridding this wide belt of the hookworm disease ever before was undertaken by human beings, if we except the efforts of the followers of Jesus and of Buddha and Mohammed to convert the nations to their own religion. . . .

To this end, and having in mind public health movements that may follow the hookworm campaigns, the Foundation established an organization under the comprehensive title of International Health commission. To this new organization the Foundation has delegated the task of immediately attacking the hookworm disease in foreign countries-always with the support and co-operation of the local authorities and the people.

This work is undertaken with the understanding that the commission is only to organize and direct the forces of the people living in the countries affected, in other words, that it will work only with the hearty co-operation of the people. While its present purpose is to eradicate hookworm disease, it intends to follow up this work with the establishment of permanent agencies for the promotion of public sanitation and the spread of the knowledge of scientific medicine.

Wickliffe Rose, who has been for three years the administrative secretary in charge of the hookworm work in the south, has been appointed director of the International Health commission. Its other members are John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Charles W. Ellot, president emeritus of Harvard university; David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture; Walter H. rage, American ambassador to Great Britain; Simon Flexner, of the Institute for Medical Research; Fred T. Gates, Starr J. Murphy, C. O. Heydt and Jerome D. Greene, all connected with other philanthropic works. Dr. John A. Ferrell, of North Carolina, has been appointed assistant to the director. Colonel W. C. Gorgas, of the Isthmian canal commission, also has been invited to become a member and probably will accept.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

In the coming days of co-operative democracy the medical profession will also be absorbed by the state. We admit that the postoffice, the public school, and lossibly banking, railways, telegraph lines, and express companies will some day be taken over by the people. Why not public health also?

It is much more important that the bodies of the body politic be well and strong than that their money be safeguarded.

The whole theory upon which the medical profession now is and heretofore has been organized is irrational. That theory is that a doctor is one whose business it is to cure a man when he is ill. The physician is to wait around until there is a human breakdown. He is a repair man simply. Would it not be better for him to devote his energies to enabling humanity to avoid breakdown? An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is it not? And is it not cheaper to spend money to obviate /recks on a railway than to spend money in clearing away the wreckage? In the coming state, therefore, physicians will be chiefly occupied in the public schools. There boys and girls will be taught to know their own bodies and the proper functions of all the parts thereof. This will not be an elective side study, nor a matter to be disposed of in a fifteen-minute talk once a week, but it will be placed first in the curriculum, even before reading and writing in importance.

They will be drilled also in the rational exercise of their bodies. Gymnastics will be the first care of teachers. The bodies of human beings will be made as clean, sound, and vigorous as the bodies of deer or hounds, lithe, supple, efficient, Physicians will also find employment in the protection of public health. They will be engaged in the investigation of all foodstuffs, preventing private greed from selling poisonous or non-nutritious comestibles. Instead of waiting for the people to send for them because of ptomaine poisoning they will remove the ptomaines from the market.

Girls will be trained and enlightened as to motherhood and all it implies.

Boys will be taught into ligent control of themselves and the laws of manhood and the terrible consequences of breaking those laws.

In other words, the "doctor" will be a true "teacher," as the word itself connotes. The medical men themselves are realizing that, as a rule, all "cure" is quackery, and that the only science of medicine worthy of the name is PREVENTIVE MEDICINE.

The Garment of Mystical Sublimity.

Sir: The female-er-ankle is an object so terrible to "A. B. C." as to imbue him with the dismal apprehensions of what we are coming to! For nowadays it is sometimes visible! Well, as Mr. George Sampson remarked to Mrs. Reginald Wilfer, "After all, ma'am, we know they're there, you know!"-thereby petrifying Mrs. Wilfer, whose stony glare was fixed on Mr. Sampson in a silence of disapproval for five minutes. Why not get used to these fearful objects-pumps and silk stockings? Or must we say with "A. B. C.";

> These signs that it freezes my spirit to tell? In mercy dispel

I sob for Mr. Kenyon Cox-and, incidentally, for all other artists-who admits that the present styles of women's dress are simply charming. Oh, woe, woe, woe! No; let us mourn-let us deplore-but let us never try to get accustomed to the fact that woman is a biped.

Blue goggles for A. B. C., words of mournful reproach for Mr. Kenyon Cox, but for the rest of us endurance, however it may be tempered with an occasional awful unmoral sense that the present styles are, in many examples, exceedingly becoming and sensible. Exhortingly yours,

DEACON JABEZ ELIPHALET BASCOM. (From a letter to the New York Evening Post.)

Theater Audiences.

(New York Sun.)

When so keen an observer of human nature as David Belasco admits that his "chief object in going abroad was to study theater audiences in Paris, London and Berlin and to find how they took the plays of the day" he reveals to the layman the fundamental and undying perplexity that confronts successful dramatists. We say successful because the genius who sits in his closet and writes masterpieces evolved out of his own lurid atmosphere might as well throw his manuscript out of the window and jump out after it.

Mr. Belasco returned on Sunday and reports he found plays "as a rule wholesome," and that "human nature is the same in all the places." It would be well for certain aspirants for fame if they would hearken unto these simple facts. Let them not be misled by newspaper headlines about "the underworld" and "white slavery." Let them not pin their faith too absolutely to "the woman with a past" and "the wicked millionaire." Certain coteries, who call themselves "men and women of the world," like to dwell for a season or so on the morbid and seamy side of life, but any potential genius who so far misjudges the great American audience as to imagine that these sickly phases are of permanent interest had best go into the sole leather business and give a fond farewell kiss to fame. These mangy tendencies in our drama are no more indicative or descriptive of normal American life than the X-ray skirt is proof positive that we are to revert soon to the hoop of our grandmothers. One is as extreme as the other, both doomed to startle for a day and then fade under dust in the attic.

And so it is with freaks of fashion on the stage. The playwright who builds on the decayed sections of society, sections which have been decaying and drooping since the days of Sodom, writes for fly by night audiences and not for Anglo-Saxon descendants. Let him study Mr. Belasco's one adjective until it burns into his brain: "Wholesome."

Would he rather be the author of "Peter Pan" or of "The Easiest Way?" Which play continues to be acted, which will be remembered, which makes the broader, permanent appeal to Americans rearing families?

A Batch of Smiles

As a man entered a picture gallery the attendant tapped him on the shoulder, and, pointing to a small cur that followed him, said: "Dogs are not admitted."

"That's not my dog," replied the visitor. "But he follows you."

"So do you!" replied the old gentleman, sharply. The attendant growled and removed the dog with entirely unnecessary violence, Both of them were natives of the Emerald Isle. This perhaps explains the warmth and cordiality of the chance acquaintance which they struck up [1] while on railway journey. "An' so ye say yer name is Riley?" asked one. "Are ye, I wonder, any relation to my ould friend Tim Riley?" "Very distantly," replied the other. "Oi was me mother's first child; Tim was her twelfth."

It was all very affecting. It affected Selina Slim so that she laid her head clear over on Lingo's manly shoulder. It affected Lingo so that he squeezed Selina so hard that she could almost breathe. It affected Hugo the Hugger so that he threw both arms out to catch himself. Instead he caught Susanna the Susceptible. It affected Susanna the same way. She caught Hugo. Did they scream? Four Players To Be Called For 1914 Work

Keating, Nixon and Reynolds Sure to Come Back, While Dobard May Also Secure Another Chance to Stick

With the time for exercising optional agreements near at hand, Manager Billy Smith is getting reports on the numerous players he sent out under optional clauses with a view to recalling them for a trial next season. Already he has decided to call in Walter eKating, who is with Jim Fox at Columbus; Leonard Dobard and Hamond Reynolds, in the Texas league, and Nixon, with Macon. With the start of another season Billy will be minus several of the players now with the club, and it will be necessary to build up a large part of the club. It is hard to pick up new players who are sufficiently promising to place right in the thick of a game, and for this reason the manager is out to bring in players he has already tried and placed out for seasoning. The reports on Reynolds, Keating and Nixon are most excellent, and it is believed they will make good here with a rush. They have been fielding and hitting in pamb-up shape, and should make somone hustle for places when they join the Cracker club here for trials in 1914. Nixon has been playing like a fiend with the Macon club, and Keating has been showing up in grand style. Nixon stars in the outfield, while Keating is a short fielder, and a good one at that. One of the best assets of these players is their speed. Kating is regarded as one of the best base stealers in the South Atlantic league, while Nixon makes them all look like bushers when it comes to fielding the outfield

If reports are to be believed, the Crackers have in Reynolds a star receiver. Every scout who has seen him work states that he is ripe for Class A ball, and has recommended that he be recalled. Besides catching good ball, he is hitting hard. With the optional players recalled and several stars of the 1913 club left over, the start in 1914 should be good.

been comparatively quiet during the past week and aside from rather violent fluctuations in July contracts as that delivery finally matured, prices have been without any particular feature. On the last day of trading in July deliveries, quite a flurry of covering developed, which sent the price up 46 points, and again emphasized the firm old crop situation, while early week eclines in new crop deliveries were recovered ystrony on the publication of the government's August rport, showing a crop condition slightly under the ten-year average. The rally in new crop positions was also encouraged by renewed apprehension as to the crop situation in the outhwest. The light showers reported during 184 quite by many authorities and the reappearance of dry, hot weather has been followed by increasing complaints of deterloration, particularly from south Texas. Yesterday there seemed to be beter indications for lower temperatures and showers, but while accounts as to the immediute progress of the crop are more or less conflicting, most of the advices reaching the trade indicate that good, soaking rains are urgently 1,368 needed and that the situation will become serious should they not occur within the next week or ten days. Local statisticians figured that the condition figures of 79.6 as of July 25 point mainly to a total crop of loss than 14,000,0000 bales on the government's estimated acreage, out while such deductions compared very builishly with the consumption of the past two seasons, bearishly disposed traders base their position on the possibility of improvement in this respect, a slack trade demand, and approaching new crop movement. WEEKLY STOCK REVIEW. (By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The profesiona I and narrow tone of the week's stock market were its most conspicuous features. Price movements were highly irregular, the leaders fluctuating within a range of two to four points. Steel was strongest of the speculative favorites, touching its best quotation in months on the excellent statement of earnings for the second quarter, In the railway group a long deferred cut in the Illinois Central dividend caused that stock to drop to its lowest price since 1895. Other stecks whose dividend stability is a matter of doubt, also were weak.

Shares of the Southern and Southwestern road. became heavy towards the end on the unfavorable corn and cotton outlook. Coppers reflected a further rise in the metal, caused in part by San Marcos, 0.70 Temple, 0.02; Waco, 0.92; the strike in the Michigan district. There were movements, mainly upwards, in various special- Marble Falls, 0.22; Missing: Ballinger, Clarties, but they exercised little effect market-

The government's announcement of its intention to deposit large amounts of money at wes tern and southern points for crop movements, resulted in a general stiffening of government bonds but investment demand for general bonds again was lacking. Discounts eased abroad and noney was in fairly free supply here, a result in part, of light demand.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Bradstreet's review says: Trade reports still present mixed aspects with perhaps a sharper tendency to temporarily reflect quiet. In the east high rates for money and tariff uncertainty continues to act as representative influences, while in the west adverse ws of the corn crop has induced some hes On the other hand, southwestern advices indi cate that house trade has expanded, and feeling as to the future is decidedly optimistic, buoyancy being imparted by the tendency to increase estimates of wheat yields. At the same time,, trade in the south appears to be improving, and sentiment is certainly better.

proportions, that cotton will furnish a large rop, but that oats, hay and corn will be shorter than last year, when all three were, however, record-breakers. Business failures for the week were 248, which compares with 224 in 1912. Several loads of Tennesses cattle were on the market; one car of 1,200b, steers shipped from Wartrace. These were in a class to themselves and were sold prompt ly to the Atlanta packer at better than 7c, the top price of the week. These were two-year-old steers and fat, and the price was not considered too high for the quality. This only goes to show that Atlanta is like other markets; they will pay good prices for good stuff. Tennessee cows and heifers were fairly plentiful and prices fat and ragged bunches in the pens, although enough to supply the demand for this class. Prices vary according to flesh and condition. Acording to his story, and also the story of Dave Lamar, before the committee of the United States senate which investigated the charge made by Chairman Lovett, of the Union Pacific rail road, that an attempt had been made to force Lauterbach on the road as counsel in the dissolution proceedings, the whole amazing series of deceptions engineered by Lamar was undertaken for just one purpose. Mr. Lauterbach said to the committee:

"I had received no money retainer from Mr. Morgan since 1904. I worked a great deal without pay, and for Morgan & Co. without pay. My relations had always been friendly. On one occasion Mr. Morgan presented to me a and had invited me to be present while

JOURNAL WANT AD Horoscope

AUGUST 3. One thing that persons of this birthdate must be cautions about is marriage. They should not marry early in life, although much inclined to do so. They should be sure that the person they marry is congenial, or much unhappiness and disappointment will follow.

Marriage for Leo people or those born between July 22 and August 22 is happier if mated with persons born between March 21 and April 19 or between November 22 and December 21. Leo women have a tendency to criticise others and must guard themselves against this weakness. The selfish Leo person is very unhappy and miserable and most difficult to get along with. It is better to know a person with this birthdate for some time before uniting with them in marriage.

Feed, Live Stock and Poultry.

HILE it is true our cotton erop is bringing millions of dollars to the south, but when we fall short every year of not producing enough cotton to pay for our food and eatables it shows that we are losing ground instead of gaining wealth. It is the same thing as a man drawing a $100 salary and spending $150. We seem to be getting further and further behind every year, and if it continues there is no telling here are so long that we can grow two big feed crops every year on the same acre of ground, especially if we had rich acres which we would have if plenty live stock was in the country. A big oat crop can be harvested off an acre and then a big pea crop. A corn crop or a potato crop can be had on the same land and the richer the land the faster these crops will grow and greater will be the yield. I have recently looked over a corn field that I am confident will make 100 bushels per acre on six acres, in addition to a heavy yield of peas that is now growng among the corn. This ground has already produced more than seventy-five bushels of oats per acre and this six acres of land will probably yield more than many 50 to 100 acres will produce, simply because it has been highly fertilized. There has probably been ten carloads of manure put on this land during the past three years, and it is showing a tremendous yield that will make a big profit for its owner. The feed that is being produced on this six acres of land would easily keep'ten to twenty head of cattle with a small pasture in addition and the cattle could easily be converted into $1,000 per year, showing that this land is capable of making $1,000 per year out of the food that is produced on six acres. There are hundreds of such acres in Georgia that when attended to could do likewise with so much less labor than is required to produce cotton, but as I have said before we will never be able to grow live stock or poultry in the south at a profit until we grow our own feed, which can so easily be done and it is folly for any man to attempt to keep a large umber of live stock and poultry on his place and buy feed for them. It will sconer or later ruin him and he cannot stay in business and continue to buy feed. Buying feed has been the cause of putting more men out of bustness today than any other one thing. Not for the want of a market at fair prices has been the cause of many people quitting but it has been simply on account of their not being able to make a big enough profit out of the industry where the feed had to be bought, and the sooner we find this out and confine ourselves to just keeping the number of animals or fowls on our premises that we can produce the feed for the better off we will be. If we plant good seed on good land at the right time the amount of feed that we can produce is almost unlimited, and when taken care of and converted through live stock and poultry into eash it would bring millions of dollars into this country that we are now letting get away from us. The Florida vegetable growers and the south Georgia watermelon and fruit growers are finding out that they can make a big per cent of profit out of something to eat and are indulging in this line of work now more largely than ever before, and the sooner more of us diversify our crops and produce something to eat to be shipped out of the state and bring cash back and not degend absolutely on cotton the better off will our country be. There will at ways be a class and a certain number of people who will raise all the cotton we need and are compelled to do so because they do not know what else to do, but I believe the time is right now for the man who will undertake and study and raise more food products and more live stock and poultry that there is a better opportunity for him to make a better per cent of profit than he has ever made out of cotton. There is room at the top and opportunities here for all of us, and hundreds of more who will produce something to eat, and when we produce plenty of something to eat for ourselves it does not require so much money to supply our needs. But, how few of our southern people are self supporting and produce that which they consume at home. If a railroad strike should occur, or a flood or something similar to prevent the west supplying us with our food products we would be in a terrible state in less than four weeks and would be almost at the point of starvation, and we never know when this state of affairs will come. The strike on the Georgia road last year for a short time should be a warning to every man on the farm to wake up and at least produce enough home supplies every year to take care of his family needs and for the live stock that he keeps.

This can be done on every southern farm and the sooner we get at it the better off will we be. Yours very truly,
