L.M.FRANK, FACTORY SUPERINTENDENT, DETAINED BY POLICE

NEGRO WROTE THE TWO NOTES FOUND BY BODY OF GIRL

Frank M. Berry of the Fourth National Bank, Andrew M. Bergstrom of Third National, and Pope C. Driver, of the American National, Examined Notes at Journal's Request And Found Same Person Wrote Both

ALL THREE ARE EXPERTS AND MADE MICROSCOPICAL EXAMINATIONS

Their Investigation Shows He Wrote Both Notes and Seems to Prove Conclusively That Either the Negro Committed the Crime or Knows Who the Guilty Party Is

THROUGH its own investigations The Atlanta Journal has proven conclusively that Newt Lee, the negro night watchman for the National Pencil company, either himself mistreated and murdered pretty Mary Phagan, or that he knows who committed the crime and is assisting the perpetrator to conceal his identity. Locked in this negro's breast is the key to the murder mystery which has shocked the entire south.

Three handwriting experts who Tuesday compared the notes found ear the girl's body in the factory basement with notes written by Lee after his arrest and at the instigation of the city detectives are positive that the same hand penned them all.

The experts who made a microscopical examination of these notes and who are unanimous in declaring that the same person was the author of them all are:

FRANK M. BERRY, assistant cashier of the Fourth National Bank. ANDREW M. BERGSTROM, assistant cashier of the Thir National POPE C. DRIVER, chief bookkeeper and head of the mail department of the American National bank.

ALL AGREE THAT NEGRO WROTE BOTH. These men have for years made a study of handwriting and they turn their knowledge to account in detecting all manner of forgeries. In examaning the notes submitted to them Tuesday they employed powerful magnifying glasses and minutely analyzed the slant of the writing, the shape and size of the letters, the peculiarities of spelling, the method of expression, and the punctuation.

Two notes were found nearby the corpse of the mutilated girl. One of these, written on a yellow scratch pad, read as follows:

"Mam that negro fire down here did this i went to get water and he push me down thro hole a long tall negro black that hoo it woke long sleam tall negro I wright while play with me."

The second note was written on a coarse-fibred pencil tablet, such as is used by school children. This note read:

"he said he wood love me (land dab n?) play like nigh witch did it but that long tall black negro did boy his slef."

Shortly after Lee was arrested Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford caused him to write the last line of the second note, dictating it to him word by word.

COULDN'T DISGUISE HANDWRITING. Although the negro was very nervous and very naturally sought to disguise his handwriting he was unable to do so. With the exception of the use of four capital letters in the note written at police headquarters and the insertion of an extra e in the word negro this note was identical with the last two lines in the note found in the basement of the pencil factory.

The experts agreed that the size and slant of the writing was the same, that the mode of expression was identical, that there were characteristic peculiarities in the formation of the o's y's, g's, t's, b's, k's, n's and other letters used in the two notes.

In both the negro writes boy for by and slef for self. These and a number of other similarities convinced the experts that Lee wrote the notes found beside the dead girl.

MARY PHAGAN DID NOT WRITE

They examined the handwriting of Mary Phagan and positively declared that she could not have written these notes, even while delirfous and suffering great pain. She wrote smoothly, used good grammar, capitalized, punctuated and spelled 'properly, and it is pointed out that under no circumstances would she have lapsed into an illiterate style of writing. It is plain that the notes found in the factory cellar were written by an gnorant and illiterate person. It is also plain that the person who wrote them sought to cast suspicion upon the fireman at the factory; and that they were very particular to describe the man which they alleged to have committed the crime, for in the same sentence of one of them the perpetrator is described as a long, tall, black negro.

The other refers to the intention of the perpetrator to fix the crime on the night watchman. It is believed that Lee deliberately described another negro and that he endeavored to divert suspicion from himself by writing into one of the notes that the guilty man would play like the nigh witch did it."

Neither of these notes could have been written by Mary Pragan, even though she were still alive when dragged into the cellar, for the cellar was dark as pitch night. And it is not to be supposed that while in a dying condition she would have found it convenient to have obtained a pencil and two different kings of tablet paper. Further than this she would not have written two notes.

The detectives are satisfied that Lee wrote both notes, but are of the opinion that he wrote them at different times. After writing the first he evidently thought of something else which he believed would divert suspicion from himself and then wrote the second.

Only one question now puzzles the detectives-

Did Lee murder the girl himself or did he undertake to dispose of the girl's body and to shield some one

GEORGIA CHAIR CO. IS SOLD AT FLOWERY BRANCH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 29 .- The property of the Georgia Chair company, bankrupt, at Flowery Branch, Ga., was sold by the trustee in bankruptcy at Flowery Branch today for the sum of $10,000, J. H. Hunt, banker, of Gainesville, Ga., being the purchaser. This means that the entire plant will be operated at Flowery Branch, Ga., and not be moved away. This property was appraised at something like $15,000, but cost originally in the neighborhood of $40,000, and was only operated a short time before going into bankrupter, Driver, chief bookkeper and head of mail departments of the American National bank, unhesitatingly declare that the same hand penned them both. Detectives are satisfied that Lee knows all about the killing of the girl. The only question in their minds is whether he is

GANTT'S RELEASE ASKED IN HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

L. Bell and Will Be Heard at 4 o'Clock

M. GANT charged with the murder of Mary Phagan is seeking his release upon a writ of habeas corpus. Petition for such a writ was made Tuesday morning to Judge Bell of the superior court and he directed that a hearing be had at 4 o'clock Tuesday aft.

Judge Gober, attorney for Gant, made the petition, and will argue Tuesday afternoon for the immediate release of the former bookkeeper.

Gant sets forth in his petition to Judge Bell that he is absolutely innocent of the crime of which he is accused, and that his detention by the police is without reason or authority. Gant was arrested Monday about noon in Marietta, as he was on his way from Atlanta to his mother's home, who lives in the country a short distance from

He was arrested as he stepped from the street car, and was returned Monday afternoon to Atlanta and lodged in police station on the charge of having murdered Mary Phagan. Upon his arrival he was reluctant to talk, but at police station he made a vigorous statement in which he denied any knowledge of the murder of the four-

He seemed irritated and pushed her away. 'You are trying to get away from me,' she cried stamping her foot. 'You are trying to leave me and you shan't do it.'

HE REFUSED TO KISS HER. The man refusing to kiss her, again jerked away, saying he had paid $1 taxi hire to tell her goodbye. 'No you didn't,' screamed the girl, 'you are trying to slip away from me and you can't do it.' The man then appealed to me to quiet her and winking, asked me if I had seen him come up to the gate before and then go away. I replied that I had but, of course did not know where he had gone. This did not seem to quiet the child at all and again she accused him of trying

NEGRO CAN CLEAR MYSTERY

Chief Lanford Believes That Testimony of the Superintenddent and Negro Night Watchman May Lead to the Arrest of the Person Guilty of the Atrocious Crime That Has Shocked the Whole City-No Further Arrests Expected Soon

MRS, FRANK IN TEARS AT POLICE STATION WHILE HUSBAND IS UNDER EXAMINATION

Frank Was Confronted by Negro Night Watchman-His Attorney, Luther Z. Rosser, Present at Inquiry, Which Was Conducted by Chief Beavers, Chief Lanford and Detectives Behind Closed Doors-Conference Still in Progress at 2

T 1:35 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Chief of Detectives, N. A. Lanford, announced that L. M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil company's factory, where Mary Phagan was found murdered early Sunday morning, would be detained by the police until after the coroner's inquest. The inquest will be resumed Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Chief Lanford made this statement when he emerged from a conference which had been in progress in his office on the third floor of the police station since shortly after 1 o'clock. Present at this conference were L. M. Frank, Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Chief Lanford, Luther Z. Rosser, Mr. Frank's attorney; John Black, a city detective; Harry Scott, a Pinkerton detective, and W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the city finance committee and former chairman of the police committee.

For an hour or more Newt Lee, the negro night watchman at the factory, had been in the room, when he was returned to his cell at 1:30 o'clock.

Chief Lanford declared that the police were working on the theory that the murder mystery could be cleared up through evidence which they hoped to obtain from the negro night watchman and from Mr. Frank. He said that the detectives had been unable to find any credible evidence to the effect that the girl ever had been seen since she entered the factory about noon last Saturday to get her wages. Chief Lanford returned to the meeting. Mrs. Frank, with a number of friends, was standing in the hall of headquarters at the foot of the stairs on the floor below that where weeping.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the statement was drawn from Newt Lee, the negro nightwatchman, that he made visits of inspection every half hour during Saturday night to the metal room in which Mary Phagan was murdered.

But he says that he was relieved from duty at 4 delock by Inspector Frank, and told not to return until 6 p'clock.

If his statement is true the girl must have been murdered during his absence—that is, between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock Sat-

Detective Starnes discovered a drop of blood near the elevator, which is taken as further evidence that the body of the girl was dragged from the metal room to the elevator shaft.

Chief Lanford seemed to regard the negro's statement that he visited the metal room every half hour during the night, as very important.

The police are now entertaining the theory that the murder was committed during the afternoon, and that Newt Lee probably was absent from the factory at the time that it was done. NO FURTHER ARRESTS SOON.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Chief Beavers came from the meeting in Chief Lanford's office. He confirmed the statement of Chief Lanford that the police would detain Mr. Frank until after the coroner's inquest. He also said that no further arrests in the case were contemplated in the immediate future, indicating that he thought the detectives were now working on the theory that they hoped would clear up the mystery.

Attorney Luther Z. Rosser left the room. He made light of the evidence against his client, Mr. Frank, and declared that the police could not hold him any longer than he, Mr. Rosser, was willing for them to hold him. By this it was believed Mr. Rosser meant he could obtain his client's release on a habeas corpus if he chose to take this procedure. It was stated by the chief of detectives that Mr. Frank would not be confined to a cell at headquarters. He had employed a supernumerary policeman, said the chief, and would be allowed the freedom of headquarters under charge of that policeman.

Attorney Rosser declared that "all this talk about fear of violence to Mr. Frank is pure bosh. At the request of the detectives, Mr. Frank copied the notes found by the dead girl's body, in his own handwriting Angry protest that emanated occasionally from behind the doors of the conference was not distinguishable as to the words, but the tones indicated unmistakably that the questions being plied by the detectives to Mr. Frank and the negro were arousing the opposition of his attorney. Mr. Frank, emerging from the conference for a moment, unaccompanied, was as perturbed as a man might be under the circumstances. He seemed to be indignant. A Journal representative ques-

"They are asking me about things this negro has said," was Mr. Frank's answer. "And about statements other people have made."

"What has the negro said?" The Journal man asked.

"What he's said all along," returned Mr. Frank. "He hasn't said a thing that's new." He returned to the conference then.

Mr. Frank returned to police headquarters in company with detectives from the pencil plant Tuesday morning shortly after 11 o'clock. He and the detectives stated that he was not under arrest. Newt Lee, the negro night watchman who had been awakened at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning by detectives and put on the griddle of questions once more, was taken into the room and confronted Mr. Frank shortly after the latter arrived at headquarters. Conviction grows that the negro knows more than he has told. His own admission that the elevator could not have been moved Saturday night without his hearing it, is made absolute by the observation of detectives at the plant itself, it is reported. And the theory that the elevator must have been used to carry Mary Phagan's body from the second floor, where other evidence has shown that she was attacked, to the basement, where it was found, is said to have been better established by stains found along the floor leading from the machine room to the elevator shaft. These appear to be blood soaked into the dirty wood of the floor. One of them was found Tuesday to have fallen upon a nail head, and the nail was pulled by Detectives Starnes and Campbell, the metal not having absorbed whatever was upon it. The analysis of that stain will be practically absolute. Yet nowhere upon the floor of the elevator, or upon the shaft, was a blood stain distinguishable.

How Much Does $1,000 In Gold Weigh?

In the Campaign Editor's mail on Saturday there was a list of five questions from one of the Booklovers, and the last question was, "How much does $1,000 in gold weigh?" As the Campaign Editor never had $1,000 in gold at one time, and any gold that he ever did have did not stay with him long enough to be weighed, it was necessary to get some gold and have it weighed so that we could tell the lady just what weight she would have to carry when we turned over $1,000 in Gold to her at the close of the Contest.

As Saturday was a legal holiday it was hard to get the information correct over the phone, but through the kindness of Jos. A. McCord, of the Third National Bank, we are able to give our readers the exact weight of $1,000 in Gold. It is just 414 pounds. We know a great many of you will be surprised and no doubt a great many of you have had the idea that that much money ought to weigh at least a ton. At least that was our idea of it as a boy, and the lady's question made it neces-

Mr. McCord talked interestingly on the value of gold as a legal tender, showing how it is the one money that is wortth as much abroad as it is at home. So if you get one of The Journal's big gold prizes you can go to Europe and know that the money is worth its face value to you And if you should win the $1,000 you know now that you will only have to carry 4 pounds with you, but that the 4 1/4 pounds will do wonders for you. You can buy home; take a trip to Europe; buy a touring car or save it to go to the Exposition at brisco in 1915. But the principal thing to do now is to devote a few pleasant hours each week to solving the prize pictures and keeping up with them. Work bird and take home 4% pounds in gold.

The police considered his questions of such importance that they made a sten ographic record of them.

Mr. Frank employed Luther Rosser and Albert Haas as attorneys to represent him at this inquisition by the Police. Detective Chief Lanford announced at 10 o'clock that he will hold both Arthur Mullinax and J. M. Gantt without a preliminary hearing.

The statement was made to him by John E. Phillips, manager of the Forsyth hotel, at 67 1-2 South Forsyth street, that a man who seemed to resemble Gantt, and a girl who answers the description of Mary Phagan, came to his hotel at 11 o'clock Saturday night and asked for a room.

He inquired whether they were mar ried, and, upon the man's giving an in definite answer, he refused to admit them to a room. BEGAN BEFORE DAYLIGHT.

He was brought face to face with tiant at police station Monday afternoon, and said that Gant seemed to be this man. But he was not sure, and the police are not convinced that the girl he saw was Mary.

DID GIRL LEAVE FACTORY? They are still doubtful whether Mary Phagan ever left the factory after going there at 12 o'clock on Saturday to collect wages for two days' work. This is a question of great importance in the search for her murderer, and is one that the police are using every effort to answer. "They are endeavoring to settle this uncertainty, and to discover whether ste was murdered in the afternoon, the evening, or late at night on Saturday,

The chief hope for solving all details of the mystery seems to be through a statement by Newt Lee or by J. M. Gant. But the police are using also all ma-

MENINGITIS DISCUSSED BY STATE HEALTH BOARD

Bulletin Issued on Character, Course, Treatment and Prevention of Disease .

The Georgia state board of health has issued the following bulletin on cereprospinal meningitis:

Cerebro-spinal meningitis, spotted fever, or as it is more commonly called, simply meningitis, is one of the most terrible and fatal of all diseases, the mortality running up as high as 100 per cent in some local epidemics.

Although the cause of the disease has been known for a number of years, the exact method by which the germ that produces it spreads from man to man was, until quite recently, entirely unrecognized, and even now it can not be said that the whole matter has been demonstrated with scientific exactness; notwithstanding this, in view of the fact that the disease has recently existed to a considerable extent in Atlanta, and has appeared in a number of the smaller towns of Geogla-the state board of health deems it its duty to furnish to the people such information concerning the malady as may be thought to be of value in connection

Cerebro-spinal meningitis is a disease which is produced by a minute vegetable organism known as the nicrococcus intracellularis. It is very fortunately a germ of low vitality, as it develops only at about blood heat, and when expelled from its normal dwelling place in the human body it dies very

These germs get within the skull and spinal canal, and produce violent inflammation of the coverings of the brain and cord; these membranes are called "meninges," hence the name "cerebrospinal meningitis." Association of the Carolinas and Georgia, With 300 Delegates, Met Tuesday

The laundrymen of three states were gathered in Atlanta Tuesday, and expected to conclude in the one day the business of the convention. It was the seventh annual gathering of the Launderers' association of the Carolinas and Georgia. Tuesday will be devoted to entertainment and to such business (if any) as remains unfinished from the Monday sessions.

President F. D. Lethco, of the Charlotte, laundry, Charlotte, N. C., called the convention to order in the assembly hall of the Piedmont hotel shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Following the opening prayer by Rev. Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist, and the welcome by Mayor J. G. Woodward on behalf of Atlanta, responses were delivered by A. W. Solomon, of Savannah, in behalf of the visiting laundrymen, and by E. B. Stanley, of Cincinnati, in behalf of the allied trades. W. W. Orr, of the George Muse Clothing company, Atlanta, addressed the convention upon "Trade Organization and Co-operation." The association then went into executive session, to appoint committees, receive applications for membership, approve the minutes of the last meeting, hear the reports of President Lethco and Secretary H. A. Smith, of Florence, S. C., and attend to unfinished business. An address by President C. A. Wheeler, of the Laundrymen's National association, closed the morning session. The program for the afternoon session Tuesday was replete with interest. It included addresses by W. The Girl Who Proposed By Marianne Gauss

By Ruth Sawyer

This, the opening story of the first five-cent Collier's, is especially a sincere and touching love story, but it is also a character story and, in a very human way, it touches a very human problem.

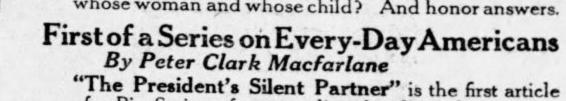

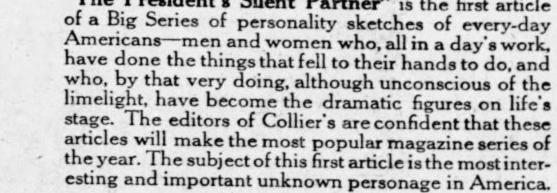

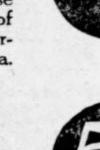

This is the first story by an American girl-of whom Seumas MacManus has said that she is the only outsider of the day who understands the "Old Country."

New Summer Waists Have Just Arrived Voiles, Crepes and Batistes Most Attractively Fashioned

One thing you will notice at once is the wonderful quantity of them, justified, however, by the charming points of the waists individually-a greater variety than we have had at any time this season. It all means that your waist will be a delight! For they are indeed out of the ordinary -in many ways.

Waists with little net vests overlaid with shadow laces are new.

Waists with veil ruffles on fronts and sleeves are new—the newness is a matter of the way the ruffles are fashioned and used.

Waists with touches of colors around collars, cuffs and down fronts are new-and decidedly smart right now. The colors show in hand-made buttons, in little folds, in bows. The colors are oftenest Nell rose, old blue or Copenhagen.

Waists with long flat and pointed collars are new-sometimes embroidered, sometimes of Irish crochet lace.

And still no mention of the new embroidered waists with Dutch, square and high necks-daintier, lighter, cooler-looking than ever, since the materials are crepes, voiles and ratines.

But there is no use in telling you of what your eves will see-charmingest waists of any summer!

This, however, rather positively—the woman seeking fresh waists different from those she has grown accustomed to will end her search right

They are priced from $5.00 slowly up to $22.50.

A Good Collector

A statement reaching a debtor on the first of the month is a good collector-five, or even two days later, the same statement won't pull as well.

That's just one of many advantages of Burroughs-made statements-to make out, they take less than half the time of penmade statements.

Which means, they go out on the first of the month-not from the fifth to the tenth. And the oid rule of "first come, first served" applies to statements.

Results—less collection expense -less money on the books-less bad debts.

And it's being proved every month by many thousands of business men now using these machines.

Let us make out your statements next month-no cost nor obligation.

Atlanta is advertised by her loving grand opera patrons.

And as for that matter, the town is pretty well advertised by its baseball team.

A Nation of Savers.

There could be no surer evidence of American thrift and prosperity than the fact that the savings bank deposits in this country amount to four and a half billion dollars. This record is unapproached by any other nation. It is said to be four times as great as that of France, whose people have so long been famed for their industry and acquisitive genius. It is a remarkable tribute to the energy and hardihood of the American character-

We have been won't to think of the United States as a land where vast fortunes are acquired by comparatively a few men; but this is only one view or the situation. There can be no doubt that for several decades past, and particularly during the last ten or fifteen years, the country's wealth became abnormally centered at certain points and unduly controlled by special groups on financiers. Conditions have been such that practically all the people were permitted to share in the nation's prosperity but only a small proportion of them were permitted to originate it, That is inevitably the case when industrial and commercial enterprise and the sources of credit are dominated by trusts and monopolies. But there are bright omens that at length we are emerging into a freer era when individual worth and initiative will find itself unobstructed.

If that be true, American thrift will establish even a finer record than ever before. Savings accounts will increase in number and volume, as the individual opportunity to produce wealth is extended. In the meantime it is cheering to know that this country's savings accounts exceed those of any other people and that the facilities and inducements to saving are being continually multiplied.

California doesn't intend to extend her real estate activity to the Japs.

Every mail and every wire bring more congrat ulations to Atlanta on opera week.

The supreme court has decided that a corporation can't get out of its debts by reorganization. It would be great if individuals could reorganize.

The Huerta-Diaz Brawl.

Reports from Mexico continue to reveal the tense rivalry and suspicion that have sprung up between Huerta, the provisional President, and Felix Diaz, the leader of the late revolution.

Each of these ambitious men has his partisans; each has developed a large factional following in the capital; and both have their common enemies, people who believe that the downfall of Madero was accomplished by methods beneath civilization.

It has seemed inevitable from the outset that the two dictators would eventually fall apart and that one or the other would be trodden under foot. Their mutual distrust and enmity may yet lead to the over-'hrow of them both.

Recent dispatches state that Huerta has added to the infantry at the national palace and that Diaz "has encamped much of the artillery on his estate, Hacienda del Cristo, about thirty miles away."

It thus seems that the federal forces are being divided into two personal camps and that individual ssues threaten to overshadow the government.

That five-minute debate on the tariff will limit the labors of the old Congressional Record.

The war correspondents may be getting a rest from actual labor, but the diplomats are working wertime.

There may be some dispute between officials about the quality of our paving, but the public hasn't much toubt on the subject.

Homes for Our Envoys.

For the sake of the freedom and prestige of America's diplomatic service, it is to be hoped that the bills by Senator Bacon and Congressman Henry providing suitable legation and embassy residences will pass. As conditions now are our representatives abroad are more than likely to le bandicapped, uness they are men of extraordinary wealth. Their salaries are insufficient to pay the rental on acceptable quarters and also meet the other responsibilities of their position

This state of affairs frequently has the effect of closing the diplomatic service to Americans of high talent and distinction, men who would be of great aonor and value to the nation, but whose energies gave been directed into other channels than those of money-making.

It is very shortsighted and very undemocratic for a republic like the United States to suffer such conditions to continue. Our ambassadors and ministers should be provided with quarters that will be worthy of the nation's name and with salaries that will enable them to uphold the dignity of their office.

More Food, If Less Cotton.

According to an estimate made by the New York Commercial, after a thoroughgoing inquiry, Georgia's cotton acreage for the current year shows a reduction of about three per cent. Assuming this to be true, how are we to interpret it? What does it mean to the State's agricultural and economic life?

Its chief significance is undoubtedly this: that Georgia farmers are realizing the disadvantage of the one-crop plan and are devoting more soil and more energy to the production of food supplies. They are responding to the appeals of science and of good business, which means, in the first place, that they are adopting intensive methods of cultivation and, furthermore, that they are managing their affairs with a view to home comfort and independence.

The fact that fewer acres of cotton were planted in Georgia this year does not mean necessarily that the State's cotton crop will be smaller than heretofore or that it will net the planters less money. On the contrary, it indicates a more progressive system of farming. One acre, carefully tended, will yield a richer harvest and a larger profit than two acres without up-to-date methods. A farmer who raises ten bales of cotton and also his own supplies is far better off than he who raises twenty and must then spend the entire proceeds of his money crop for necessaries which he could have produced at home.

In this light, therefore, the reported reduction of Georgia's cotton acreage is distinctly cheering. In other cotton growing States a contrary tendency is manifest. Louisiana, for instance, is credited with a fifteen per cent increase in cotton acreage, Mississippi with a ten por cent increase and Texas with a ten per cent increase. Yet, with the exception of the last named State, Georgia's cotton acreage appears still to be the largest in the South. It is estimated by the New York Commercial at four million, eight hundred and ninety thousand acres. That of Mississippi is set down at a little less than three and a half million, South Carolina at two million, seven hundred and thirty-four thousand, Alabama, nearly four million, Louisiana, about a million, three hundred and fifty-five thousand; Texas, at eleven million, nine hundred and sixty-two thousand.

Cotton will continue to be a great source of Georgia's wealth, but it is encouraging to know that other fields of agricultural interest, which were once sorely neglected, are coming into their own and that our farmers are utlizing the wondrously varied opportunities that lie about them. If we produce more corn, more wheat, more livestock, more vegetables and other foodstuffs, instead of inporting them at high prices from distant markets, we shall be well compensated for the reduction in the cotton acreage; we shall be a richer and a more independent people.

Of course we'll have grand opera next year.

A New Balkan Danger.

In their efforts to bring Montenegro to terms on the question of Scutari, the European Powers are tacitly supported by the Balkan allies; and naturally so. For, Bulgaria, Servia and Greece realize that should anything happen to set the great nations at war among themselves, the issues for which they, the Allies, have been fighting would probably be reopened and the territory they have won would be subject to a new plan of distribution.

The Allies have been forunate beyond their dreams. They have conquered great areas of fertile land and they now have every assurance of being permitted to retain their prizes. Montenegro presents the one obstacle to speedy peace and a satisfactory partitioning of Turkey's domain among Bulgaria, Servia and Greece.

But if a foreign expedition should be required to bring Montenegro to terms, a general European conflict might ensue and in that event whether Austria or Russia gained the upper hand, the interests of the Balkan countries would be endangered by the ambitions of the greater nations.

It has been suggested that Bulgaria and Servia may offer to compensate Montenegro, if the latter will give up Scutari. For the sake of their own peace and profit, the Allies, it would seem, could well afford to do so.

Grand opera is now but a phonographic record.

THE MODERN WOMAN

XXXV .- Votes for Women. BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Never in the history of the suffrage movement has the sentiment in favor of votes for women been so strong and so farreaching. Despite the recent defeat of the effort in three state legislatures and in one state at the polls, the leaders never were so hopeful. To the general public the defeat in Michigan seemed a hard blow to "the cause." To the leaders of the suffrage movement it was only a stimulus to encourage them to greater effort, as the enthusiasm over the enormous parade in New York this week bears testimony. . . .

Many leaders frankly admit that the recent militant demonstration in England was the prime reason for the defeat in Michigan. Others ignore that theory and accredit the defeat partially to the floods which prevented many rural from reaching the polls. The short voting hours in many towns, it is said, prevented a large number of men from voting. The majority of the leaders agree that the combined forces of the liquor interests had a most potent influence in addition to these other causes. At the election last fall the liquor interests scattered their forces over the different states in which the suffrage amendment seemed likely to be adopted. Little attention was paid to Michigan then, because even the leaders themselves had not regarded the situation as promising. This spring, however, Michigan was the one state upon which the liquor interests had been concentrating their efforts for six months and the power of the.r influence, in the minds of the suffrage leaders who have been carrying on the campaign in that state, is largely responsible for the result of the vote in the legislature. Of course, all such views are scouted as ridiculous by the opposition.

The loss of the state of Michigan is not regarded by the suffragists as more than a temporary defeat. It is more than balanced in their minds by the increased interest in the submission of the federal constitutional amendment. On the very day Michigan voted adversely regarding granting the vote to women, the congressional committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association marched to the capitol in Washington at the head of a long procession, to present its petition to the new congress to submit to the states an amendment to the constitution of the United States so as to give political rights to the women of the nation. This petition has been made to numerous other congresses, but with far less apparent results. The committee this year was received at the capitol steps by a committee representing both the senate and the house of representatives. It was extended every courtesy, and has the assurance now that a respectable percentage of the members of both bodies are actively interested instad of being passivly unopposed, which was the most hopeful attitude encountered even five years ago.

Further than this, the woman suffrage committee, which has always been regarded as inactive, is to be a most active one in the present senate for the first time in the history of the country. The Democratic leaders notified the Republicans that they intended to take over the committee on woman suffrage which had hitherto been known as a "minority committee," and enlarge it from five to nine members. The senate committee on woman suffrage now includes Senator Thomas, of Colorado, chairman; Senators Owen, Oklahoma; Ashurst, Arizona; Ransdell, Louisiana; Hollis, New Hampshire; Clapp, Minnesota; Sutherland, Utah; Jones, Washington, and Catron, New Mexico.

While all the leaders of the great suffrage movement in America work harmoniously together for the good of the cause, a great difference of opinion exists among them as individuals regarding the methods adopted by the English militants. Some of the least militant Americans seem most generous towards the English women. "The suffrage question is no longer a minor issue in England," said Miss Alice Lord. "It is a war for personal and individual liberty. England is rapidly approaching a condition of civil warfare and the destructive violence of the women must be taken as their declaration of an issue that may terminate in actual war. The destruction of property and risk of human life is deplorable and the non-combatants may be the greatest sufferers at times. That happens always in war. Two cabinet members advised Mrs. Pankhurst that the only way the women could hope to win was by making it a positive issue. This advice has led thousands of refined English women to imprisonment, degradation and personal suffering which they are enduring gladly, knowing that the greater the severity meted out to them, the sooner will come the recognition of the equality of the women of the world."

English history shows that, reprehensible as may seem the course of the militant suffragettes, it is only a continuation of the methods adopted by other political reformers in that country. The great charter itself was only secured from King John by demonstrations which included the demolition of property as well as the loss of human life. Today John Burns is an honored member of the British cabinet. Yet a little more than twenty-five years ago he led a mob of English workmen through different parts of London. They smashed windows, looted shops, burned Nottingham castle, tore the gates off Hyde Park and committed just such breaches of public peace as the suffragettes are now charged with. John Burns served a six months' sentence in jail. A number of his followers were similarly punished.

The English law never regarded John Burns, or any of the others who committed offenses of that kind in protest against existing conditions, as criminals and their imprisonment involved neither stigma nor hardship. They were regarded as political offenders and were given separate rooms in the jail with the privilege of providing their own food and any other desired comfort. The women have been treated differently from the beginning, and it is the refusal of the British government to recognize the feminine right of appeal against injustice which is largely responsible for the increase in militancy.

THE NEWSPAPER SUP-PLANTS THE BOOK BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The book is passing. The magazine and newspaper are taking its place. Men read books to divert their minds, to forget the present. It is the constant effort of the human race to escape the actual; for this reason they get drunk, they engage in sports, they read books. Sometimes they read books in order that they may have something to talk about, to secure ammunition for conversation. Sometimes it is to acquire information. Little by little the periodicals are meeting these wants more satisfactorily than books.

The book is heavy to hold, inconvenient for the pocket. The newspaper can be carried easily.

The book is expensive; the newspaper is cheap. One feels like a criminal if he tears a page from a book; there is no such feeling in clipping from a newspaper.

The book is long: three or four hundred pages. It is full of irrelevant matter. A grain of story is lost in a bushel of description. We wade through innumerable pages to be in at the death when Old Sleuth nabs the criminal; to witness the loves of Lady Vivian and Lord Guy finally adjusted; to see some aristocratic pervert walk through infinite analysis to find his soul, and finally eat poison. We get the same thing every day in the newspaper in capsule form; juicy scandals, the escapades of auto bandits, the murder of police, the downfall of reputations. The people in books are fictitious; in newspapers they are real. Books are filled with boresome padding. The author feels that he must be literary. In newspapers we get our romance stripped clean. Here people write who have something to say.

Every newspaper is an epic poem. There are the affairs of nations, wars, councils, popular uprisings, doings of kings, Chinese mobs, suffragette outrages, Mexican barbarities.

The real Comedie Humaine is a newspaper. In it you have the human race exposed. In its kaleidoscope you see the striking shirt waist girls, the strut and extravagance of the rich, the drunken orgies of fools, the thunders of ascetic moralists, the various worlds of sports, of finance, of the stage, of courts.

By the vast organisms of the news service the world is combed over daily, and every nugget of human interest picked out. In its feature service the newspaper supplies us with philosophy, the latest triumphs of science, the vast discoveries in medicine, the most recent theories of pedagogy, with sermons, essays, short stories, serial

In the evolution of printing the book was the first product, but it was for the few; it is giving place to the newspaper, which is for the many. A book is fortunate to reach a circulation of 10,000. There are many newspapers with a circulation of over 100,000; some periodicals have issues of over a million.

In all realms of human activity aristocracy is receding before the advance of democracy. The book is the aristocrat; the newspaper is the democrat.

o it for either musement or profit. In . my case it was far out at sea, and I' wits, so I can safely say I was the first aviator than-air machine. Incidentally, I pi oted this strange craft from near the island of St Helena to the Azores, and not from a wreck, but made money on the adventure.

"I had shipped as master of the pretty little bark Elsie. She was a dandy little ship, and I was proud of her. We were carrying coke from Liverpool to Cape Town, and I had planned to make a record passage. I would have done so if we hadn't struck a half submerged derelict which battered in my little vessel's bows, and she started to sink. I ordered the crew to take to the boats. Then I found there wasn't room for me. So, like a good ship captain, I stayed by my sinking vessel and waved farewell to the men as they pulled away. But when they were really gone I decided that I didn't care to die. By this time it was night. I had lighted a lantern on deck, and this attracted about a thousand flying fish. They came in clouds and piled all over the deck. They flopped around helpless. But watching them gave me an idea. I hustled below and dug up some light canvas. This I tacked over a light framework, which I hastily constructed, shaped something like the modern monoplane. I rigged a seat and rudder and basket for provisions. Then I took 782 of these flying fish and attached them to the aeroplane by very light but strong twine. Then I provided myself with a long hose and several casks of water. As soon as this was all arranged I took my seat and sprinkled the. wings of the flying fish. You know flying fish can fly as long as their wings are wet. As soon as they are dry the little fish have to drop back into the ocean. Knowing this, it was easy for me.

"Well, sir, as soon as I had sprinkled these fish they all started to fly, and they picked my aeroplane up off the deck of the ship, and it was all I could do to steer my aerial craft, she went so fast. I glanced back and saw the old Elsie going down. I headed for the Azores, and at evening on the following day I sighted the islands. All I had to do was keep the host turned on my flying fish, and they carried me through the air at wonderful speed. When Y reached Funchal, the capital, there was a British lord's yacht there, and I sold him the flying fish for $182 and a passage home. So I came out pretty well. That was the way I became an aviator."

HOW TO BE STRONG

(By Montgomery Irving, Ph. D.)

Some years ago I lived for a time among, and fought against, the wild Soudanese in that far off land of burning sun and dried baked sand, and since that time I have never ceased to marvel at the busy, active lives led by these strange warriors.

Whenever it was possible to see either in daylight or semi-darkness, these restless people could always be observed "on the move," The Soudanese that I came in contact with believed in the old medicine man theory, but in spite of their ignorance I never saw or heard of a single one of them being sick or even indisposed unless wounded in battle. They possessed nerve the like of which the greatest hero of modern times would be very proud of. They were as fleet of foot as a stag; moulded on the lines of a Greek god and brave to a fault. These men wore little or no clothing. Their skins were like the finest of satin without a blemish. They rarely, if ever, "caught cold" because they were nature's own children, while we or most of us are nature's own cranks or "stuffed ur coddles." If all men moved about and exercised as the Soudanese and other wild tribes do, there would be more health enjoyed and less clothing worn.

Some men will insist upon wearing a straw hat or certain date, no matter if the ground is a foot thick of snow, and likewise they would discard summer headgear on a certain date though it were possible to fry a steak by the heat of the sun on the sidewalk And the same silly custom prevails in respect to over coats. When once this heavy garment is put on nothing could persu de the average man to go out ; single day without wearing it, no matter if the heal of the sun parboiled or roasted him.

One bright, sunny day a well-known business mar presented himself for physical instruction so thoroughly overheated that he was ready to drop, and because overcoats were not yet called in, and to prevent himself from "catching cold." I observed when he was removing his clothing that he wore the following garments: One sleeveless undershirt, one long sleevel woolen undershirt, one Oxford shirt, cloth vest, a but toned woolen sweater with lon- sleeves, an English morning coat, a heavy fur-lined overcoat, and a silker arrangement about the neck, to say nothing of the heavy garments that covered his lower extremities Were a man sentenced to wear this awful amount of health-killing clothing for some offense it would be considered nothing less than slow murder.

To the casual observer women dress far more reasonably than men, irrespective of the frightful things we see in the shop windows called "corsets." Though the peek-a-boo waists were not made for health, nevertheless, if the skin is allowed a certain amount of air and light it is more likely to thrive and remain healthy than if always covered, therefore in summer and in winter, too, for that matter, the peek-a-box has more value than most people imagine. In winter we wear certain articles of clothing to prevent conduction, radiation, and evaporation of heat from the skin, and in hot weather to promote it. If those whi now bundle themselves up in heavy clothing would take regular form of exercise, eat plain nourishing food, and sample all kinds of weather, they would find that they could wear considerably less clothing, feel all the better for it, and less liable to take cold.

The writer has only owned five overcoats in his life. and he has had but little use for these. Cuddling us always kills if practiced long enough. Man is a fresh air anima! He can live weeks without food, days without water, but little more than two minutes with out pure air. Therefore, if he insists upon passing most of his time indoors, with the steam heat going at full blast, all the windows closed, the gas eating up the oxygen, and his body covered with the same clothing that he wears out of doors, it is only reason able to suppose that he will soon be a fit subject for nearly every disease on the calendar, and must soone; or later pay for his folly, perhaps with his life,

The Summer School of the South

Students and teachers will be interested in the announcement that the Summer School of the South, now definitely adopted as a part of the organization of the University of Tennessee, will hold its twelfth session from June 24 to August 1, 1913. This school has throughout its history, enlisted the hearty admiration and good will of all friends to the south's educational progress. During the past eleven sessions well over 20,000 persons have been enrolled as students and great majority of these are among its most ardent admirers today. From the outset, the Summer School of the South has made it a matter of policy to strive for the advancement of educational interests in general and to secure the services of the most able and emb nent men obtainable in their several departments from the best universities of the land. In addition to this it provides for popular entertainments, lectures, theab rical performances, and a famous series of concerts constituting what is known as Music week, in every instance seeking to secure the best possible talent from both the United States and foreign countries In this way a very happy program combination has been worked out, providing for six weeks of serious classroom work on the one hand, and for daily diversions of a high g: de chautauqua quality on the other

Knoxville, the seat of the University of Tennessea is one of the most beautiful towns in the entire south It is situated in the mountains of east Tennessee, of the Tennessee river, and has a population of some 75,000. The campus on which the summer school is held contains forty acres, and is provided with ample equipment in the way of classrooms, laboratories, dormitories, etc., for the care of the great throngs that annually register as students. Last year the faculty numbered nearly 100, and that number will be exceeded this year. The total enrollment last year was 2,408. The courses of study offered by the summer school are exceptionally varied and inviting.

The Southern Sociological congress unwittingly had a tinge of politics intected into its proceedings Tuesday morning when Dr. Paxton Hibben, director of the bureau of education of the progressive national service, and one of Theodore Roosevelt's stanchest supporters, declared

"The problem of the practical regeneration of the times and spirit of our democracy imposes itself upon the Progressive party as an essential condition to its continued existence.

Officers of the congress and Dr. Hibben himself maintained that his address on "Politics and Social Service" was strictly along non-partisan lines, and that he sketched the birth of the Propressive party merely as a "historical liustration of the growth of social service in politics."

A Renewal of the Oxford

A Plea for Ties and Buttons for Women

For walking tis agreed that the ankle support is the comfort feature of a shoe. Tis the Oxford that furnishes it.

For several seasons this splendid style shoe has been almost supplanted by the dressier pump. No less popular is the pump, tho the worthy Oxford is very positively claiming its own.

The flat English tie, typifying the trend of the times, leads us back to the Sensible Shoe. Following closely is the walking tie of heavy sole and staunch build, and the 3-button Oxford of real beauty and even dressy effect when developed in combinations of patent and dull leather.

Oxfords are the shoes that make walking popular. All leathers---

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS WEAK AND LOWER

Wholesale Liquidation Broke Out on News of Disturbances in Foreign Markets

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, April 29.-The stock market was again under pressure at the opening. Large blocks of the leading issues were marketed. Prices in some cases fell to the low point reached in yesterday's break. Canadian Pacific sustained a break of 414. Fractional losses were also recorded in other stocks. By the time active isnes had been driven to point or so below yesterday's closing, selling began to lose its force. Prices picked up

Lack of support for well known stock issues was the most significant feature of speculation. steel, the Harrimans and other leaders touching new low levels Short traders made the most of the political ituation here and abroad and the financial emarrassmen of the southwestern roads. Bear vering brought back prices before noon to about vesterday's close. Bonds, irregular. Restricted dealings did not affect the market's stability, prices holding well. Railroad stocks went off sharply. Steel and Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific touched the day's bottom prices. European political advices were responsible for the resumption of pressure against International stocks. Wpolesale liquidation croke out again news of serious disturbances in foreign markets.

Saving and Investing Systematic Thrift Gets Results. BY JOHN M. OSKISON

A country banker in Pennsylvania i responsible for this story illustrating the

"I have in mind a young man about twenty years of age who is working as a slate maker in a quarry, and who is a regular depositor in the savings de partment of our bank. During the period of four years just passed he has deposited each month an average of $25, about $300 a year, or $1,200 for the whole "Periodically, this young man withdraws $500 and puts it in good bonds yielding a fair rate of interest. Since beginning his saving campaign four years ago, this young man has accumulated through the regular deposits he makes and interest $2,500 in good securities. If he maintains his average savings for a few years longer, he will have the nucleus of a small fortune-certainly enough to establish himself in almost any business he could handle." By this time the interest payments on his securities alone are adding more than $10 a month to the $25 which this young man has decided he could save out of his wages. Already he has got to the point where there exists no doubt of the success of his plan-in four years and when the young man has just turned twenty.

Here is a demonstration that any young man can set himself up financially before he reaches the age when he ought to think about getting married. It certainly is not lack of opportunity which puts us so low in the scale .00 of savers (France, Germany, England, .00 Italy-practically over other country has a greater proportion of savers than 00 we can show). Probably it is because .00 saving is so easy that we neglect to do

Think of a system which enables a boy who goes from school to work, say, hours at $10 a week when he is eighteen years old to make himself a capitalist in a very real sense by the time he is twenty-

What happened in Pennsylvania can happen anywhere in this land.

The Two-Faced Man

Nobody likes a two-faced man or woman singleness of purpose is a good thing. Truth is the pearl of great price. A two-faced man is disliked because you all druggists hereabouts sell them for never know where to find him. One face may be pleasant and the other sour. One may invite you with a smile, the other repel you with contempt. If a man's two faces were alike one would be unnecessary. A man is not like a church clock in a tower, for that needs four faces to tell the time to the four quarters of the earth. All tiese faces must tell the same time, or the clock is discredited. There are more two-faced men in politics than in any other walk of life. The people are just beginning to find it out. They play the public's prejudices, weaknesses and vanities. They appeal to the lowest instincts of the crowd. They stir up the mob spirit and then run off with the loot. They make all sorts of promises and always fail, in their performance. They have the audacity to adopt party platforms and then to forget all about them after they are elected. What they want is the offices, fat salaries and an opportunity to play their favorites.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that

Wedding of Interest

The following from a Washington exchange will be of interest in Atlanta, where the bride is well known through visits to her cousin, Mrs. Burton Smith: "One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place last evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Caroline Gordon Williams, daughter of the late Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Williams, U. S. A., and Mrs. Williams, was married to Lieutenant Arthur W. Ford, United States coast artillery. "The ceremony was performed at the ome of Mrs. Williams, in Kenyon street, which was beautifully decorated with apple blossoms, palms, and hydrangeas. The Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's, officiated, in the presence of only intimate friends and relatives. The wedding was to have taken place in St. John's church, but owing to the death of the bride's sister-in-law the plans were changed A stringed orchestra played the wedding music and during the reception which followed.

"The bride was given in marriage by General Weaver, chief of the artillery meuse, trimmed with old lace. Her veil roses. Ensign Howard S. Jeans, U. S. Dowell was flower girl.

"After the reception Lieutenant and Mrs. Ford left Washington for a wedday's session, is in charge of the child ding trip before going to Fort Dupont, welfare work of Birmingham; and has Del., where Lieutenant Ford is stationed. Use less Butter-More Cottolene

No wonder butter is so high. Particular women who are loath to use lard or cooking butter in their cakes and fine pastry, use table butter. With butter at the price you have to pay for it, that's downright extravagance. Cottolene is just as good as butter for pastry; for frying, it is better. And Cottolene costs no more than lard. Moreover, Cottolene is richer, and two-thirds of a pound of it will go as far as a pound of butter or lard.

And lard and Cottolene are not to be mentioned in the same breath, for Cottolene is a vegetable product. healthful, always safe makes digestible, rich, but never greasy food.

PEERLESS NEW MODELS Again First in Beauty, and Safety

HROUGH the development of details these Peerless New Models reach Le the highest point yet attained in motor car construction.

Absolute confidence in the Peerless is evinced by the large booking of orders even before the first of the new models was ready for demonstration.

The outward beauty of the Peerless New Models is an expression of their inward fitnessof years of research and critical appreciation maturing into the perfect car: The inside quality of a piece of steel-as well as its size-determines its strength, and your safety. Heat treatment, a vital science developed in the Peerless Plant to a point that exceeds the resources of the universities, is the controlling factor that fixes for good the durability of a gear, the strength of a shaft, the resiliency of a spring, the life of a bearing.

Three Sixes

To meet the power ranges proper to a car of the Peerless type we offer three six cylinder models: "38-Six," "48-Six" and "60-Stx." Long Stroke Motor

The cylinder dimensions of the "38-Six," "48-Six" and "60-Six" are respectively 4x5-1/2; 4-1/2 x6; and 5x7 inches. The long stroke Peerless motor is known for its silent, vibrationless operation and its unusual power, flexibility and smooth action at low speeds. Peerless Bodies Body lines are unequaled in beauty. No obtrusion of mechanism is evident anywhere. Chair seats in the tonneau fold out of sight. Extra tires are carried in the rear.

"48 Six"

"60-Six"

Electric Starting and Easy Steering

The Peerless was the first high quality motor car to adopt the electric starter with separate electric motor. Pressure on a pedal starts the engine. The steering column is irreversible. It is almost as easy to drive a Peerless Car over rough roads as over smooth roads

Heat Treated Steels

Rigid selection and inspection of steels and specific modes of heat treatment insure the highest development of physical qualities required in each vital part. Wearproof gears, with tough cores and glass-hard tooth surfaces are produced with scientific accuracy.

News of Consequence From the Children's Section

Women who know real values, who appreciate economy opportunities, will be quick to take advantage of this pricing of girls' needed apparel.

$2.50 at $1.00

Well-made, stylish Dresses of pretty wash materials, ginghams and percales; a variety of styles to select from; sizes 4 to 14 years.

These Dresses are slightly display soiled, but that is a small objection, when you consider the price.

Little Tots Dresses at 49c

These cunning little Frocks have become almost as staple with us as spool Shipment after shipment comes, to be entirely exhausted in a few days. Another fresh lot is heremade of pretty ginghams and percales, very desirable in every particular.

The price is the same—49c each.

Children's Muslin Drawers at 10c Pair

They have hemstitched hem, cluster tucks above; unusually well made, carefully worked button holes; sizes 2 to 10 years. The number that we have for tomorrow's sale well not supply the demand.

Women's 25c Muslin Drawers at 19c Pair

Circular Drawers, with French fitted band; lace or embroidery trimmed.

$7.50 and $8.50 Dresses at $3.85

One of the most interesting "finds" in opening up this shipment of delightful Apparel, is an assortment of Dresses, above quoted at $3.85—as stated they are regular $7.50 and $8.50 Dresses. One might choose with eyes closed and then not be disappointed, they are all so pretty. Four different materials:

Egyptian tissue, heavy, round cord pique, madras and ginghams. The illustration gives an idea (though not exact) of the style of one—the white pique which has collar and cuffs and buttons of colored French linen; the buttons applied in front to give a cutaway or tunic effect. The others are in popular color tones, striped, checked and plaid effect, beautifully made and trimmed. These Dresses will not long remain, for they are of truly wonderful value at this price.

We are conservative when we say we have never seen more charming, or better Blouses at this price.

Of entirely new and extremely dainty fashioning. One particularly irresistible style is a soft Crepe with wee Dresden roses, and blue or pink Delphine collar and cuffs under very sheer white collar and cuffs.

Another especially dainty style is fashioned of sheer Voile with delicate pink, blue and lavender silk stripe; colored collar to match stripe. Others are of fine, sheer Voile all-white prettily made. All Blouses of a very high order, and one would expect to find them much higher priced.

Demonstration of Bien Hemstitched Jolie Grecian Treco Corsets Continues

When a woman looks well dressed she is very apt to feel well dressed. A good Corset has much to do with that pleasing effect.

You cannot present an attractive demeanor if the freedom and suppleness of your movements are restricted by a rigid harness-like Corset.

The Bien Jolie Grecian Treco Corset, made of fine knitted fabric, will not stifle or prevent the desired effect of looking your best at all times.

Mrs. Miller, an expert demonstrator, is here to show you the various lovely models, and fit you properly. There is a style for every figure. Prices $3.50 to $15.

NEW OF WOMEN AND SOCIETY

To Meet Miss Wynne Mrs. Hugh Lokey was hostess, this afteroon at a delightful tea in honor of her guest Miss Elizabeth Wynne of Richmond Va.

The attractive rooms were bright with flowers, lovely garden blossoms being used with great branches of dogwood and honeysuckle from the spring woods, which filled jardinieres and tall stands

In the drawing room fragrant lemon lilies were used with peonies, the tea table beautiful with a plateau of pink peonles whose petals reflected the pink of the silk shades which tipped silver candlesticks and harmonized with the minor details of the pretty table.

Mrs. Lokey received her guests wearing a becoming gown of wistaria-colored charmeuse combined with shadow lace, and Miss Wynne was attractive in a gown of white chepe embroidered.

Assisting Mrs. Lokey were Mrs. Samuel D. Hewlett, Mrs. Frank Boland, Mrs. Philip Alston and Mrs. Kemp Slaughter. Invited to meet the honor guest were twenty-five members of the unmarried

Kindergarten Day

At Woman's Club An interesting feature of the meeting at the Woman's club Monday afternoon was the appearance of the normal class of Miss Willette Allen's kindergarten preparatory school. The young women gave an interesting illustration of the work done in the schools, which was not only instructive, but entertained the grownups as delightfully as if they had been children

Every woman knows the luxury of having soft water at her command, especially for washing clothes, but Nature has denied this luxury to many, especially to those living in cities or in "hard water" countries.

However, every woman can have soft water in her home with little trouble and less expense. The sprinkling of Gold Dust washing powder in the water from your taps or well will make it as soft as the rain water that falls from the clouds.

Gold Dust takes out the mineral substances that make the water

Price Allowed but Three Hits, While Crackers Got Nine, Yet Score Gave Nashville an Edge Just 4 to 3

Bill Schwartz and Pitcher Cy Dahl. gren were clothed in horseshoes through Monday's game with the Crackers and of course, Nashville won the game Gilbert Price was the victim of the horseshoe-luck, the game winding up Nash-

Price pitched a grand article of ball and for the Vols to get away with the game was nothing short of luok. The Cracker southpaw gave up just three hits and Nashville managed to score four runs, while on nine bingles the Crack ers were able to tally only three times And not only did Price allow fewer hits than Dahlgren, but fewer bases on balls the Vol wheeler giving up eleven passes

The fourth inning proved Price's un on an error and went to second on Perry's bunt, on which both were safe Schwartz then sacrificed them up a bag each and James was walked and the bags were filled. Then came along Johnny Lindsay and Bill Ludwig, neither of whom bat .100 anywhere but in Atlanta

During the first three innings the Vol hurler gave up just seven bases on balls and one hit and yet the Atlanta bunch was unable to tally. Against any hurler other than Dahlgren this kind of work would have resulted in something the horseshoe habit there isn't a chance for even one tally

Shortstop Williams made a fair imhances. His error came on a hard-hit center which Callahan misjudged but managed to spear by a grandstand onehanded catch. At that it was lucky. Wallace Smith had a busy day around third, most all of his chances being of the mean kind. In the third he made a most spectacular play on Goalby's hit. Gilbert Price was certainly the hit-.700 hitting safely. It was the hurler who

Tommy Long twice got away with neat slides and each time it resulted was on third when Williams was thrown out from third and by a neat slide Tommy got past Ludwig as the catcher held

In the seventh inning Price retired the Vols on four pitched balls. Callahan fouled out on the first pitched ball and Perry hit the first ball to third and was safe on an error, only to be caught stealing, and Schwartz then took one and flied to center on the next.

OVERSIGHT LOST STAR

It was Charlie Frank's astuteness and his knowledge of the inner workings of baseball legislation that enabled the leader of the Pelicans to secure Pete Snedecor, the promising young first-sacker new covering the initial sak for the New Orleans club.

Last year Mike Finn picked up the young player from the University o Alabama, but did not use him and turn ed him over to the Greenwood club of the Cotton States league. When the Cotton States season was over, Snedecor joined the Mobile team. Snedeco had finished the season with Greenwood and had not been sent to the club under the optional agreement whereby he was to be recalled by August 20.

JOURNAL WANT AD HOROSCOPE APRIL 30.

This date favors all men and women, who are masters of detail. as well as capable executives, to seek positions through The Journal Want Ads.

Men and women with this birth. date acquire fortunes in spite of their extravagance.

It is an easy matter for people born today to amass large sums of money, but they never save it. They are inclined to reckless speculation and delignt to spend money in large quantities.

No matter what line of work they pursue, they are enthusiastic and determined. They will not bear opposition. They have wonderful memories. These people are naturally fitted for the stage and would find the career of ah actor or actress most congenial.

They are magnetic and dominating, but do not make harmonious marriage partners. This coming week will find The Journal Want Ads giving many favorable chances for bookkeepers. accountants, clerks, stenographers and apprentices in all trades.

Shipping Day Old Chicks

S this method is now being largely practiced throughout the country and has proven to be a cheap and safe way of distributing good blood it offers an opportunity for anyone to soon stock their place with good thoroughbred chickens, and those who are not prepared to hatch a large number of chickens can secure day-old chicks so cheaply that it certainly does offer a splendid opportunity for one to get a pice start at a small expense and has helped many people to stock their places with thoroughbreds that would not have done so had it not been for this method as is now practiced by hundreds of breeders. It has been proven that little chicks can be so safely shipped in great quantities a long distance and thrive and do well afterwards and it has added much business to the poultryman and has been one of the cheapest methods by which a distribution of thoroughbred stock has been brought about.

Any one can for $15 to $50 per hundred secure a nice bunch of day old thoroughbred chicks, and if they have their brooders properly constructed ready to receive the little chickens when they first arrive and will give them proper care and attention afterwards it is no trouble to get a nice start for a small amount of money in this way. I know of several people last year who bought day-old chicks during the months of May and June, and two ladies especially raised to maturity more than eighty per cent of the original number they bought. One of these parties raised eighty-seven out of one hundred chickens shipped the first weel; in June. These chickens were well cared for and by the middle of November a large part of these pullets were laying and soon brought in enough revenue in return for eggs to more than pay for the original investment. Any one who has a small space can even now secure one or two hundred day-old chicks and by taking proper care of them have this coming winter a nice yard of acclimated, home grown pullets to produce eggs through the winter months when they are high. With the many brooders that are now on the market, and with warm weather prevailing during the next few months it is no trouble to raise a few hundred chickens either in heated or fireless brooders during the remainder of the season.

If a person will not crowd their little chickens, will look after them ally for the first two weeks at least and get them started off right they will have no trouble in raising a large per cent day-old chicks, especially if they have been secured from strong, well-bred parent stock. The eackerels can be sold as broilers for nearly enough to pay for the raising of the pullets, and for a very small amount of money one can soon stock their place with good, vigorous, thrifty pullets that you know will produce an abundance of eggs during the winter. This method of stocking your place with thoroughbreds is now being largely practiced and it is surprising to watch the express offices and see how many thousands of little chickens are being transported every day to different parts of the world. If the little ones are properly packed and are not over-heated in shipment or allowed to become chilled after receipt of them there is usually no danger in raising a good per cent of them. On receipt of such a shipment the first thing that should be done is to have a good dry brooder with the floor covered with coarse sand. The little chicks should be placed in the brooder and given all the water they will drink before being fed. Then immediately afterwards they should be fed all they will eat up clean of any of the commercial chick feeds that are sold on the market. They should be fed every two hours just what they will eat up clean, and at the end of five or six days a fresh lot of nice tender grass should be placed in the brooder or run twice a day for the little chicks to scratch at and get green food from. This plays a very important part in the healthfulness and appetite your little chicks will have as it not only gives exercise but furnishes a variety of food little different from the grain feed. After they pass one week or ten days old the feed should be varied and either Aunt Patsy or a mixture of two parts bran and one part meat scraps should be kept constantly before the chickens at all times, and still continue to feed the little chick feed.

Yours very truly,

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

QUESTION. Brunswick, Ga. On the 5th and 6th of this month we had forty chicks hatched outfine Barred Plymouth Rocks, as saw. I began feeding them what the grocer here sells he as "biddie feed" and bran. When about four or five days old I noticed tome were droopy, and from then on I never went out to see after them that I did not find one dead. They have died daily until now. I have eighteen left. I have have fed chicken chowder in addition to biddle feed, and this week added raw oatmeal to their menu, with a lttle salts i ntheir drinking water occasionally. Every one that has died has seemed to have bowel trouble, and I had to keep the rectum open by bathing and greasmg. but in spite of all my efforts I have not saved one that has been affected in this way. On the 15th of this month I had twelve more chicks to hatch, and today I have only six of the twelve left. They have died just as the others did. I have eleven hens, only two of which are more than a year old, the rest ranging from eight months to twelve months old, and these chicks are from the pullets' first litter of eggs. I am told that the chicks from the first litter of eggs are not healthy. Is there any truth in the statement? Please tell me why my chicks die and how to feed them. The older ones are in an enclosure on the ground, and I put sand in for them that I got from the sand pile in the streets, used when a cement walk was being laid.

is there any danger in the use of this sand? Others use it successfully and also feed their chicks

as I do, and only lose one or two out of a brood. My youngest chicks I have in a large box on the porch. They get the sunshine and are kept in the house well covered at night. After having such dreadful luck with the first ones which were equally divided between hens, I decided to raise these last ones by hand, and I find no way whatever of remedying conditions, as these off the ground, are dying as those on the ground died. I shall watch the poultry columns for your reply, and trust you can help me save my chicks.

Your letter indicates that several things would cause the trouble trouble and feed practically the same way shows that the breeding stock does not impart the strength they should to the offspring. Furthermore, your feeding method is not proper. They should not have straight bran to cat. They should not have the chowder to cat until they are ten days to two weeks old. If fed the ordinary scratch feed up until they are one week to ten days old, just what they will eat up clean every two hours is sufficient food for them. After they pass ten days old they should have more of a variety. small amount of cracked rice, whole or crushed wheat or pinhead oatmeal should be added to the scratch feed. After they are ten days old, the chowder can be kept before them in little self-feeding troughs so tha tthey will not waste it. It should not become damp. They should have plenty of coarse grit and charcoal where they can get it at all times, and in addition should have some green food every day after they are one week old. The trouble is their digestive organs have been upset. The feed is too coarse for young chicks... besides they should not be physicked with salts and other things. No young chickens need this, and it will surely get their systems up-

They should not be greased more than once every three weeks, and then only a tiny bit should be used. If they are greased, insect powder should not be used, as it will stick to their feathers and injure them. You are doctoring your chickens too much and are killing them with over-kindness. They should be kept in a dry, comfortable place, where they can get sunlight, but if the hot rays of the sun should shine on them directly for a few hours it is likely to overheat them and a place should be provided where they can get out of the hot sun, but still have access to it if they wish. When they are once upset it is hard to get them straightened out again, but by careful feeding you can probably save some of them yet. In the next lot you hatch off treat them as above instructed. and I think you will have better success.
