article he would talk about way in which new "world's records" for Presbyterianism are being made in Atlanta. In addition to the momentous ' fact of this unprecedented pan-Presbyterian meeting itself; and in addition to the demolition of eccle-siastical politics in the U.S. A. assembly, Atlanta has seen the greatest in interdeno minational communion service ever held in Presbyterian his-

significance of the great sacramental service at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon is scarcely to be written; it had to be experienced. Veteran leaders in religious work were so moved that they wept hot tears, even as a young woman at her first communion. Words cannot describe the impression made upon the 3,000 persons present. One well known editor, an elderly man, said afterwards, "I can debate and write and discuss through day and night, and men cannot move me, but that servive broke me all up. I give in." The bearing of this united sacrament upon the relations of the four participating denominations was well expressed by a well known pastor from northern New Jersey, "If we could only quit talking about union and bring our people together three or four times in such a service as that, nothing could keep us from being one church."

The four moderators of the assemblies had charge of the service. The United Presbyterian, Rev. Dr. R. M. Russell, preached a tender, intimate sermon on what the sacrament means to the Christian in his personal relationship with the Saviour. The singing was of the Psalms, and as a Philadelphia official remarked, "That service should insure a new place for the psalter in all our churches." The music was like the sound of many waters chorusing the praise of the Creator.

A GREAT PHYSICAL TASK. The physical task of serving the elements to that company of 3,000 men and women in two galleries as well as on the main floor must have presented difficulties, but the forty-six elders from all parts of the country did their work as though accustomed to such a task. The service moved with the silence and efficiency of a Corliss engine. Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, who had charge of all the arrangements, has done a work of efficiency that will cause his name to be spoken from many pulpits. There were tables in the galleries as well as in front of the pulpit, and the service was simultaneous, one moderator having charge in each gallery and two on the floor. The individual communion service was in the auditorium, there will be a great mass meeting for men, at which President John Wills Baer, of Occidental college, Pasadena, Cal., will be the principal speaker. Dr. Baer was for many years the general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, and he has presided over and spoken to some of the largest religious meetination. This meeting is for the general public, as are all the meetings scheduled for tomorrow. Most of Atlanta's pulpits will be filled by visiting ministers. Evangelism and social service will merge tonight, "hen the auditorium will be filled with the joint meeting on the social service theme. This is a meeting organized by Rev. Charles Stelzle, the best known of social workers in the whole country. Similir gatherings have for years past been the

During the communion the great organ played softly the hymns of the Passion, and its music breathed upon the hearts of the worshippers like a message of peace from another world. The beauty, the uplift, the fellowship, of this unparalleled occasion revealed the assemblies in their truest light. They are consecrated disciples of the Crucified, whose deepest passion is devotion to the Master and to the work which He has left for them to do. That great sacrament has sweetened and sanctified all the subsequent proceedings of the several assemblies.

The distinctive religious purpose of the meetings will grow plainer to the general public day after day. The leaders in evangelistic work have planned to hold daily theater meetings and street meetings, addressed by commissioners and evangelists. Tomorrow afternoon.

"big meeting" of the Presbyterian

ings in recent American history.

He is probably the most popular layman in the Presbyterian denomgeneral assembly in the United States of America. THE GREATEST SPEAKER. The whole country has been reading about Atlanta's advertising campaign for the eradication of the supervised social evil, and the commissioners are keen to hear Marion M. Jackson, the man who wrote the advertisements, tell the story. Atlanta, as a whole, has not yet wakened up to the personality of Dr. James A. McDonald. editor of the Toronto Globe, and an interpreter of the theme of internationalism who has caught the country by storm. It is a commonplace experience for him to make the one outstanding speech at great national conventions of many kinds. He is probably the greatest speaker whom this unusual gathering has brought to Atlanta. Whether the general public has found it out or not, commissioners know there will be "something doing" when Dr. McDonald speaks at the auditorium tonight. While the theme of union is "in the air," the only actual proposal for organic union before the assemblies are the negotiations that are proceeding between the Presbyterian church in the United States and the United Presbyterian church. These were considered today in concurrent resolutions in both assemblies. The text of the basis of union is printed elsewhere in this issue. Final action is impossible at this time, even if it were desirable, for ecclesiastical woolngs should be leisurely. The basis will be debated and then sent down to the presbyteries for fuller consideration. MORE PSALM SINGING. Both of these denominations are extremely conservative in their theology and in their polity, and while they both are among the smaller bodies of the country, they have unquestionably led all other churches in organized activities by the laymen; in the proportion of giving to benevolence by the congregations, and in advanced foreign mission service. The singing of psalms has been thought by some to be an obstacle to union since this is distinctive with the United Presbyterians, but when the union is effected, the choice of music will be optional with individual congregations. The impetus given to psalm soinging in yesterday's communion service was also paralleled by the impressiveness of the fact that the wonderful organ music rendered the hymns of the passion which are, of course, lacking from the old Testament hymnody. It is reasonable to predict that there is going to be more psalm singing in all Presbyterian churches-and an increase in the use of hymns of the cross in United Presbyterian churches.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, May 17 .- Twelve thousand city employes turned out today to give New York an object lesson in municipal government. The lesson was the second inauguration "for two hours a street parade six miles long. It was the first in which all the various municipal departments united.

The fire department headed the line with 1,495 men and twenty-two pieces of apparatus (all that could be spared with safety), three floats and ten trucks; and the police brought up the eral Grant's services to his country rear, 7,224 strong with thirty-five vehicles.

The divisions between comprised the other municipal workers, many in uniform and all accompanied by the implements and vehicles of their work. The department of parks added variety with sages of animals from the Central park zoo, headed by a trick elephant.

HOW THE JOURNAL READERS APPRECIATE THE NEW ANSWER BOOK

CUT ALONG THIS LINE.

The Atlanta Journal.

In the hundreds of readers who called at Campaign headquarters for the new Answer Book for the last two days, there were a great many who expressed their opinions of the Answer Book, declaring that The Journal deserved a great deal of credit for getting up such a convenent and economical way of submitting answers

With the Answer Book The Journal is giving them the first thirty-five pictures free, thus giving all new contestants a clean start for the big money. The old contestants who have the first thirty-five pictures can give the new ones to some good friend and let them get in a game that is worth while. Remember the Answer Book gives you the right to ten answers on each picture or 750 answers in all, yet you will only need one of each picture if you use the Answer Book. Under the old system of a picture and a coupon with every answer it would cost you $15.00 to submit 750 answers. The Answer Book will only cost you 80 cents at the office or 90 cents by mail. Come in now and get yours.

Waw-Waw (an obsolete who had suffered for years with severe indigestion, and by the help of vegetable) is a purely vegetable vegetable) is a purely vegetable sauce and contains no raw spices and is guaranteed absolutely pure. Waw-Waw is unlike all other sauces and although it resembles a Worcestershire, yet the ingredients used are quite different. It costs very little to try this wonderful Waw-Waw, which is now to be found in the principal hotels, rail-roads and homes in America. A 25 cent bottle will convince you how much more you will enjoy your food by adding Waw-Waw and how easily you will digest your food. For Waw-Waw Sauce-H. L. Singer

NEW ORLEANS COTTON (By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 17. Cotton futures somed steady at a decline of five to six points on rains in the eastern half of the cotton belt. Bears were not disposed to follow up their advantage although the forecast promised more rain in the Atlantics. Fresh short selling was met by rather heavy buying of covers on the part of shorts who wanted to even up over the week-end. Not much fresh long buying was in evidence. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were five points down. The market was quiet and very narrow throughout the entire session. At no time were offerings liberal and the moderate inquiry for covers from the short side served to maintain prices very steadily. Rumors of a revision by the government in last year's acreage statistics that would cause a bullish construction to be placed on many of this season's private estimates of the crop planted, helped the market to some extent, although it could not be said that they caused long buying. At the highest the trading months were 2 to 3 points under yesterday's final flures. The close was at a net decline of three to four points.

NEW YORK, May 17.—While advances have not been fully maintained, the cotton market has shown a fairly steady tone during the past week, with considerable buying power noted on breaks below the 11-cent level for new crop to European spinners and there has also been a good deal of covering by recent sellers who are upposed to have been influenced by further hipments from the local stock and reports of ow temperatures and dry weather in the eastern beit. Scattering showers in droughty sections prompted reactions toward the end of the week, but continued talk of delayed germination and a late start for the crop east of the river seemed to cause anxiety as to the showing Bultimore and Ohio 914 s due on June 2, and prices held well above the recent low level. NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL AND IRREGULAR

Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Reading Off-Am. Telephone Up

NEW YORK, May 17.—Few orders were on and when the stock market opened and trading was exceptionally dull. Prices of the active stocks in most cases showed slight recessions from yesterday's close. There was renewed pressure against some of the lower priced railway shares. St. Louis and San Francisco secand preferred receded to 18, a new low record. Rock Island preferred lost 14. Selling of the dividend paying shares stopped when the realizing sales had been disposed of.

With this weight off the market, prices rallied half a point or more, although the Rock Island and St. Louis and San Francisco issued coninued to go down. Trading operations were confined within a narrow range. The general market was not affected by a further break in the Rock Island, and St. Louis and San Francisco secur ties, for which no authoritive explanation was offered. Some heaviness was shown but this tendency soon were off and the list moved up to above resterday's close. Top figures, however, were not maintained. Bends steady

MUNICIPAL BONDS NOW

partment Makes Possible Long-Felt Need

WASHINGTON, May 17 .- A revolutionary ruling by the treasury depart. ment came to light today in the announcement by Secretary McAdoo of the department's intention to accept temporary bonds of municipalities as security for national bank deposits. The department heretofore has refused to accept temporary bonds or certificates as security. But in the case of New York City, where bids are to be opened on May 20 for 4 1-2 per cent bonds, the secretary announced that the department would accept the temporary certificates, when legally issued, as security for 30 per cent of the government deposits in New York City national banks. These certificates are to hold good until the engraving of new definite bonds.

Many inquiries have come to the treasury department asking if temporary bonds or certificates would be accepted.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says: There to anticipated tariff changes, but the volume of transactions in all the leading branches of Estimated trade and industry is very large. Conservatisa Tomorrow, is naturally more pronounced in the industria and financial east, while in the agricultura west and south there is a marked feeling o confidence, based upon the splendid crop 190 ditions and the enormous export trade, much 41,000 of which means large returns to producers in those sections. The decrease in bank exchanges this week of 13.0 per cent compared with the corresponding week a year ago, was chiefly due to reduced speculative transactions at New York, the volume of business at many points being equal to, or even larger than last year, It is noticeable that in contrast to the falling off in bank clearings, railroad gross earnings coninue to expand, the gain in the NEW YORK, May 17.-Trading in stocks week of May being 7.2 per cent. PRESBYTERIANS ALLOWED TO PREACH ON STREETS

Mayor Woodward Saturday Morning Grants Permit at Dr. Walker's Request

Mayor Woodward Saturday morning ministers who are meeting in Atlanta to hold services upon the streets during the remaining days of the Presbyterian

He made no restrictions as to the streets where these services are to be and Whitehall streets at Five Points shall not be used as meeting places. He made exception to avoid a congestion in the center of the city. Upon all other streets, at any time during the emaining days of the great Presbytedan gatherings, services may be held. Mayor Woodward Saturday morning granted this permission to Dr. Hugh Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who applied to him for a permit for street services.

Beginning on Monday evening the most famous ministers of the Presbyterian church will preach upon the streets of Atlanta. No street meetings, however, will be held on Sunday.

COMMITTEES GET TIME TO FORMULATE REPORTS

Roberts, D. D. U. S. A.; 8, Rev. Claude Southern Presbyterians Hold Brief Session-Adjourn Till Monday Morning

When the third day's session of the southern Presbyterian assembly convened at the North Avenue Presbyterian church Saturday morning it was manifest at the outset that the standing committees appointed Friday by the moderator, Dr. J. S. Lyons, had not been given sufficient time to get down to active work and prepare their reports on the ninety-odd communications Nellie Chapel Methodist-11, Rev. "ELECT INFANT" CLAUSE. Dr. R. C. Reed, of Columbia, S. C. has explained the meaning of the infant clause which is touched on in the "brief statement" that comes up as a special order Tuesday afternoon for discussion and action of the assembly. As the clause now stands, Dr. Reed explains, it expresses the belief that only elect infants are saved in the event of death. The movement on foot is to include all infants in the clause, and not only those specified as "elect." committee that has been appointed got down to active work, and indications are that real progress will be made Monday morning. There is much to be accomplished between now and that time, and sessions of the committee will be held as late as Saturday night. When the session was called to order there were even more present than on the day previous. There were a number of ladies scattered around the church and the gallery was occupied for the first time since the conference began. As usual the meeting was opened with a short devotional service of song and Quarterly Reports of County Fees.

It is doubtless through oversight rather than design that a hundred or more county officials in Georgla have failed to observe the State law which requires them to submit to the comptroller general at the end of each quarter of the year detailed reports showing the fees collected by them and the expenses fincurred in the conduct of their offices. It is important, however, for their own as well as the State's interests that they delay this duty no longer; for, all delinquents in this matter are subject to a fine of a thousandadollars or to a year's sentence on the public works.

The law inequestion was enacted at the last session of Generall Assembly. It is a good law both in its immediate and its ulterior purpose. Sound busimess requires that the State should have a definite accounting of the funds received and spent in the transaction of its affairs. Public officials are not acting as individuals but as agents of the community. The people are entitled to know how every dollar of their money, whether derived through taxation or fees, is expended. The Legislature, in order to proceed wisely and efficiently in dealing with fiscal matters, should have at its disposal detailed and comprehensive information of this character. It was for this among other reasons that there was enacted a law requiring all officials receiving fees to submit quarterly statements to the comptroller and requiring the comptroller to compile all these reports.

The law was also intended to furnish data upon which the succeeding Legislature, if it thought wise, could frame a general act establishing the salary system instead of the fee for county officials. Regardless of the merits or the demerits of such a law, these reports should be carefully kept; for, only through such a device can the Legislature secure the definite information which it ought to have in considering a bill to this effect.

The first quarter of the current year expired March the thirty-hrst. Though a majority of State and county officials promptly submitted their reports to the comptroller general, something like a hundred of them, it seems, have not yet done so. The simple announcement of the facts in the case should serve to bring all delinquents to an accounting.

It was Jack Prince that brought that rain.

Motion Picture Censorship.

The ordinance recently passed by Council and now approved by the Mayor, constituting the trustees of Carnegie library a board of censors for motion picture shows, is a wholesome and useful measure. It should, and doubtless will, commend itself not only to the public in whose interest it was enacted but also to the producers and exhibitors who represent the worthy and really substantial side of motion pic-"ture enterprises.

Under the terms of the new ordinance, the Library boad is given jurisdiction over the films and also the vaudeville features presented in motion picture theaters in Atlanta. The board may prohibit the exhibition of a picture or an act which it considers harmful to public morals, decency or welfare; and a violation of such an order makes the offender liable to a forfeiture of his license.

Such regulation, it may safely be assumed, will not be perverted into any Puritanical or blue law procedures. But it will make effective the principles of good taste and moral healthfulness. In a great majority of progressive and right-minded cities, sim-Har laws have been enacted. The Atlanta ordinance will be welcomed by the thoughtful public and, we are sure, will enlist the hearty co-operation of representative motion picture houses.

The Task Before the Powers

Peace having been virtually concluded between Turkey and the Balkan States, it remains for the concert of European Powers to settle the question of war indemnities, define territorial boundaries and adjust such differences as now exist or may develop among the Allies themselves.

The Bulgarian minister of finance is reported as saying that the Balkans will demand eighty million dollars from Turkey as compensation for the losses they have sustained. How the weakened and impoverished Ottoman government could shoulder such a burden, it is rather difficult to-conceive. The Powers are doubtless disposed to deal with Turkey in this connection as leniently as they may.

In respect to territory, however, the Allies will probably get the greater part of what they demand. The fall of Adrianople settled decisively in their favor what promised at one time to be the most difficult and delicate issue the diplomats would have to consider. Indeed, the Allies have fairly won the major portion of Turkey's European realm. It is generally conceded that the Sultan's domain will be narrowed to Constantinople and a small sphere of influence about the Bosporus. Such differences as may arise in regard to Turkish and Balkan boundaries will be comparatively minor-except perhaps in the case of certain Aegean islands-and can be easily re-

But issues among the Allies themselves will call for more painstaking treatment. Bulgaria, Servia and Greece are each ambitious to build up their individual power. They have stood stanchly together during the war, subordinating their particular to their common interests. But now that the immediate pressure of circumstances is removed, they are disposed to assert their individual claims. So long, however, as the larger Powers act in unison, they can enforce their judgment; and there is every indication that they will continue so to act, at least until present Balkan problems are satisfactorily worked out

An international force is now occupying Scutari. The fact that the Po ers are acting together on this mission, instead of leaving it to any one of their number, means that Austria has assented to the general plan and that Russia, too, has given it her sanction. The situation is thus greatly simplified and is relieved of many dangers that once threatened. So long as the powerful nations-England, France and Russia, Germany, Austria and Italy-move together in these matters, their suspicions and jealousies one of the other will be kept in the background and their will will be supreme. But should one of them, or a particular group of them, attempt to proceed independently, trouble would undobtedly arise.

Besides settling issues between the Allies and Turkey and among the Allies themselves, the Powers must also agree upon a government for Albania. They have already determined that this territory shall be an autonomou; State and at least nominally independent. It was in this connection that the Montenegrin problem came about and here the designs of Austria are manifest. Just how Albania will be disposed of remains to be seen. Much interesting history has been made in the Balkans during the past seven months and much more, it would seem, remains to be written.

Welcome the Returning Shriners.

The return of the Atlanta Shriners from Dallas will be an incident well worthy of celebration. The winning of the 1914 meeting of the Imperial Council was a victory that has already meant much and that will mean still more to the city's prestige. In the campaign for that trophy, the Shrine patrol played a brilliant and distinctive part. Its members should be greeted on their home-coming with a charasteristic Atlanta welcome.

Atlanta Shriners are preparing to be present in a body at the Terminal station when the delegation arrives. Hundreds who are not Shriners will doubtless join in making the return of the victors a characteristic Atlanta welcome.

Keep Hoke Smith in the Senate

From the Nashville (Ga.) Herald.

The Nashville Herald has been watching Hoke Smith's career in the United States senate, and we are moved to say that he deserves re-election, and for the first time we expect to support him. We have always lined up just as strongly as we knew how with the Joe Brown faction in Georgia, and we have no fight to make on our crowd now, but justice and fairness prompts us to "acknowledge the corn" and come out for Hoke for re-election to the senate.

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H. WISHAR

"Ostriches are wonderful birds, and their eggs are even more wonderful, for it was a cargo of ostrich eggs that saved twenty-five passengers and the crew Hammerlock and about a thousand miles off the South American coast," said Cap-Barnacle was the steamer I commanded. were bound Umul-emrey, on the west coast, for Baltimore. I had carried a general carto African ports, and was ordered to bring home a load of ostrich eggs.

which went down

near the equator

which were to be sent to California to start a big ostrich farm. There was exactly 1,200 of these eggs, and they were all so big they practically filled the ship's hold. You know they are like a cannon ball, and didn't have to be packed. All we did was roll them in the hold.

"Well, I also got orders to bring home a party of twenty-five tourists who had missed their regular boat. Now I didn't like this order, as the steamer was old and wasn't built for carrying passengers, but orders are orders, so I stowed them away as best I could. But I smelled trouble as soon as I saw those tourists on board, and sure enough we had bad weather from the time we weighed anchor. The Hammerlock was one of the first iron vessels ever built and she soon started to leak. This was discovered in the height of the hurricane. The water started to pour in, and I gave all up for lost. The boats and rafts had been swept overboard, and there was no chance to escape drowning. I was standing on the bridge waiting for the ship to go down when I glanced below. That one glance gave me an idea. Like a flash I was below and had the crew start throwing up ostrich eggs. The storm went down and the sea quickly became calm. But it was too late to save the vessel.

"I ordered every passenger to grab an ostrich egg and jump overboard, which they did, and the water was soon filled with men and women floating around on these eggs. I kept the crew throwing the eggs overboard until the entire 1,200 was floating alongside. Then I grabed a few casks of water, a few coils of rope, and a sack of grain and leaped just as the ship went down.

"Well, sir, there we were floating around the middle of the Atlantic on those ostrich eggs. The passengers and crew bemoaned their fate, but I knew what I was doing. The tropical sun was so hot it fairly scorched us and in a little while I heard a pecking inside one of the eggs. The same thing happened to all the eggs that weren't covered, and before long a little ostrich poked his head out through the shell of each egg.

"I quickly tied them together and fed them plenty of corn and they sat on the water just like ducks. The sun was so hot it made their plumes grew so fast that before night they all had fine feathers.

"Well, sir, for two weeks we lived on ostrich eggs and plucked feathers out of these young ostriches. used the empty shells to build a big raft, which held all the passengers, and when I found these marine ostriches had web feet I made them tow us clear to Montevideo, where I sold the plumes for enough to get us all back to Boston and leave a nice little balance for me besides."

THE INCOME TAX

X.-THE LAW OF 1894. BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

When the Democrats undertook the work of revising the tariff after the second election of Grover Cleveland, very many of them felt that the proper course to pursue was to take off many duties that had been bringing in revenue and to raise an amount equivalent to the lost revenue by the imposition of an income tax. The first suggestion in favor of such a tax came from President Cleveland, in his annual message. He said he was satisfied that the proposed new tariff, in the near future, would produce enough revenue to take care of the expenditures, but that there might be a deficit for the time being He stated that "the committee" had decided to provide against any temporary deficiencles in revenue by adding a few internal revenue taxes, including a small tax upon incomes derived from certain corporate investments. He added that they had the double merit of being absolutely just and easily borne and of being easy to remit without disturbing business just as soon as they were no longer needed. . . .

It is presumed that "the committee" to which Mr. Cleveland referred was the ways and means committee of the house, although Senator David B. Hill declared afterward that neither the committee nor the Democrats who were members of it had agreed upon any income tax or other internal taxes. The probabilities are Mr. Cleveland had consulted with William L. Wilson and a few other members of the committee, and did not mean what his message seemed to imply.

When the house received the tariff bill from the ways and means committee there was no reference in it to an income tax. The tariff bill was debated for several weeks, and as late as February 22, 1894, Chairman Wilson declared that no income tax amendment had yet been received by him. Seven days later Representative Benton McMillin, of Tennessee, introduced an income tax amendment. It did not set any date for the termination of the proposed law, however, and it provided not only a tax on net incomes, but on all dividends in scrip or money, and on all interest paid on indebtedness for which bonds had been issued. There was very little debate upon the income tax amendment, and three days after its introduction it was passed as a part of the tariff bill.

The bill went to the senate the next day, and remained with the firance committee for some six weeks. When the senate took up the consideration of the tariff act it considered it paragraph by paragraph, and it was not until the latter part of June that the income tax provision was reached. Senator Peffer, of Kansas, Populist, offered some amendments providing for the exemption of mutual life insurance companies, building and loan associations and other institutions of like character. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment excluding the salaries of federal judges, and Senator Peffer also offered an amendment providing that the income tax should be graduated in proportion to income. Senator Hill, of New York, attacked the amendment, and he was joined by several other senators, but this opposition was easily brushed aside. The first amendment adopted was one limiting the collection of the tax to the 1st of January, 1900. Many amendments were offered designed to nullify the rigor of the tax upon corporations and to render less inquisitorial the methods of collection of the tax and some of them were accepted.

After that the income tax provision traveled along with the tariff law through the tortuous channels of conferences on the disagreeing votes of the two houses. It finally passed, and along with the other parts of the bill became the law without the signature of President Cleveland, although he warmly favored that part of the measure.

The law was a comprehensive one, made, it was thought, to conform to the decisions of the courts from the beginning of the government down to the time of its enactment. It provided a flat rate of 2 per cent upon the incomes of all citizens and of every other person residing in the United States, where such incomes exceeded $4,000 a year; and the tax was to be levied only on the portion of the income in excess of $4,000. Foreigners residing abroad and having property interests in the United States were required to pay taxes upon their incomes from such property. . . .

There was explicit provision in the law as to how incomes should be estimated. United States bonds were not to be considered which provided by the law of their issuance that both principal and interest should be exempt from federal taxation, but all other interest was. But when it is considered that the tax was only 2 per cent, it amounted to less than one-eighth of 1 per cent on the principal value of a 6 per cent investment. In estimating income the profits derived from the sale of lands bought within two years previous had to be reckoned. The profits of all sales of live stock, wheat, hay and other products of the farm had to be counted as income, but as the farmer who makes $4,000 a year net income is the exception he would hardly have felt the imposition of the tax. It also amounted to an inheritance tax, for the law reckoned inheritance as a matter of income.

The tax was intended to be a net income tax so far as businesses, professions and vocations were concerned, and practically so in the case of the farmer. The law recited that in computing incomes the necessary expenses actually incurred in carrying on a business, profession or occupation, should be deducted. Thus, a lawyer was entitled to deduct the cost of maintaining his law practice, the doctor the cost of keeping his office, his carriages and the like. A man who received $10,000 income and had to pay out $7,000 of it in interest had no income tax to pay.

All persons having an income of more than $5,500 a year were required to render to the proper authorities a list or return of the items making it up. Neglect to make this list or return gave the tax collector or his assistant the right to fix the income from the best information available and to add 50 per cent to the amount of the tax as a penalty for the failure, This penalty was also prescribed for those who failed truthfully to state their incomes. . . .

Such portions of incomes as were derived from dividends of corporations, joint stock companies, and other similar organizations, which had paid income taxes upon their net earnings were exempted from inclusion in taxable incomes, in order to prevent double taxation. Building and loan associations, savings banks, charitable, religious and educational organizations, mutual insurance companies, and states, counties and municipalities were exempted from the tax. In the case of government officials the tax was to be collected at its source-that is, deducted from the pay envelopes before they were passed to the officials whose names they bore.

TECH HIGH LOSES FAST CONTEST TO BOYS' HIGH

BY D. G. THOMAS.

Tech Hi dropped the second game to Roys' H! Wednesday, 4 to 0. The game was no walkaway as the score might lead one to surmise. Boys' Mi had all the "break" of luck and this, together with two costly erors charged to the Tech Hi players, proved their undoing.

Spurlock, the first man of the opposition to face Weston, pasted a scorer to the score board. It was a peach of a hit, but would have been good for only three bags had it been fielded clearly by the Tech Hi outfield. As it was, he made the circuit just as the ball was relayed back to the plate.

In the third Reynolds walked, stole second and went to third on Armistead's out. At this point Hair tossed the ball over Weston's head and "Hal" romped Again in the sixth ragged work by Tech Hi resulted in two more tallies. Singles by Spurlock and Reynolds, and an error by Tech Hi's receiver caused these two Lcores.

For Tech Hi, Weston pitched an excellent game, allowing four hits and striking ut ten men. He also secured one of the three hits garnered from Fox's benders.

Fox also pitched an excellent game, allowing three hits and causing nine Tech Hi batters to swing at space. A team with Fox and Weston as its hurling staff would certainly be a formidable outfit. Spurlock also played allprep ball, securing two hits and fielding his position faultlessly.

In making the presentations Miss Pitts said that numbers of other children had done their best, and that these had already received a great reward in strengthened intellectuality. She told us the beautiful parable of the talents and drew especial attention to the fact that the man who had only five talents got the same reward as the man who had ten. We may never win what the world calls prizes, our names may never be written high on the roll of fame. but if we have used the talents God has given us to the very best advantage, we have done all that could be expected of us.

Just as we had hoped to put in four weeks of steady work on such essen-" tials as "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic," along comes another body of civic workers and offers prizes for the best compositions in the schools on "Fly Prevention." Tut, tut, gentlemen, you know very well that "specialists" have been at work on this problem long before we ever saw the light, and each one has owned himself defeated. Surely you cannot expect us to find the key to the puzzle, unless you are taking Matt. 21:16 literally.

The schools are getting to be clearing houses for the distribution of every social and civic notion that springs up in the public mind. Give the children of today time to build a solid foundation in the studies that stand for mental strength, and the men and women of tomorrow will be able to grapple intelligently with all these perplexing problems.

Hitting the ball will tell and when the University of Georgia nine Friday hit "Smooey" Eubanks for eleven safe hits, some eight of which were of the undisputable class, the red and black defeated Georgia Tech in the first of the two games at Grant field. The score was Both teams played a rather jam up article of ball, the right thing being pulled at most every turn. It was just a case of Georgia having the hitters backed up by good pitching and no matter where you see it hitting will win baseball games as played under the present rules. All season the Georgia team has been regarded as a hard hitting bunch and this was shown here Friday, the red and black bunch getting next to Eubenks for opportune hits and this lad was not hugling any slouch article of the national pastime.

Pitcher Corley showed his early season form which caused the scouts to predict a bright future for him. Ably assisted by Hutchens, who by the way is a grand college catcher, Corley hurled jam up ball all the route. He allowed just four hits and one of this quartet was somewhat of the freak variety. He was right in there with the old confidence all the while and this proved a big help to him, especially in the tight places he ran across in the third, eighth and ninth innings.

HANK SLIPPED ONE OVER ON THE LANDLADY---BUT!

BY FARREN

SPORTLIGHT RANTLAND RICE

wild animal range. Sporting note.)

I rarely mind where traps your blind Or bunkers guard my shot; And shooting golf balls out of grass I deem no fearful lot: But when I'm stymied by a lion, Or, pitching from a glen I find a boa constructor curled That's something clse again.

I don't care how a course is trapped What hazards guard the green; I'll pike along and take my chance Or what may loam between; But when a bloke must play a shot Acros a leopard lie-Great little game may be the word-But not for this here guy.

I like the grand old Scottish game-I like it best of all. But if I found an elephant Reposing on the ball, Or pythons wiggling by the cup, In May, June or October I might edge in two rounds each day-But not if I was sober.

Here's another problem. In the above case would soaking an elephant with a cleek shot be regarded as a "rub of the green"? Or merely the essence of a perfect stymie?

On the other hand one could hardly be blamed for not looking at the ball with a two-horned rhinoceros pawing up dirt directly in the path of the shot. One might almost be tempted to look up abruptly to discover just what said rhino's intentions were in regard to the next move. And then again one might not even wait long enough to think about it at all.

We call the attention of the Phillies and Dodgers to a certain development in the campaign of 1912. This is with no thought of discouraging two hustling ball clubs who have earned their right to be up where they are. BUT-a year ago the Reds at this date had won something like nineteen games and dropped five. They were then first. They finished fourth. Or as Longfellow said just a shot before us, "It is not always May." Not by five months in a pennant race.

The Reds of 1912 are not to be taken as any certain example of what is sure to take place. They merely represent the uncompromising attitude of the dope, once it begins to split with a sharp, rending crash.

THE LAW OF FATE.

Back in 1911 Walter Johnson compiled eleven straight wins and the Yanks, in sixth place, broke up his streak. Last season he had sixteen wins under his belt when the Browns, then last, ended his tour. This season with the world's shot out record in sight he bumps into the Browns again and the record passes. It's the soft spot along the trail which generally provides the upset.

The cinch bets are the ones that are rarely cashed.

Nine times out of ten we are with the umpire in whatever move he makes. But when one of these moves consists in chasing Al Bridwell from the field we begin to wonder whther or not the power conferred isn't something overplayed.

If the rest of the field of 400 were inclined to rowdiness, Bridwell alone would bring the average up to a fairly decent point.

It isn't so much a question now as to who is managing the Cubs. The query now is can any manager win a pennant with one regular pitcher whatever the status of the others may be?

Detroit and Cleveland are now looking for the bloke who suggested that Chance was leading a bunch of junk into the west lucky to win one game a fortnight. The Yanks, like the worm and barrel hoop, might have taken considerable trodding but the turn came at last.

BEST ROOTER THAT TECH HAS: ALWAYS BACKS ATHLETES

A. G. Allen Is Always on the Job When a Tech Athletic Team Is in Field

This man is known to every student that ever entered the halls of the Georgia Tech for the past twelve years. He is the man that has seen Tech up and has seen Tech down and he says now that next fall Tech will be up and up by a big margin. So far he has never predicted a series wrong and if you will look in his forecast book, you will find that two weeks before the Georgia games of the past three years he had said that things were not going to be like they ought to be.

He has trained the athletes for Coach Heisman ever since the coach has been at the school. That is he has seen that they have had the very best eats that money oan buy and that the men were fed, so as to be in the best possible condition. It was due in a great measure to his care of the team that they went so well last year against such overwhelming odds. He is the most loyal fan that has ever worn the gold and wir te. To miss a Tech game would be a sure ticket for him to the college at Milledgeville that is not intended for people that are throughly capable of sciding their destinies. When he can't go to see the team play, he has a wire put in the grand stand and there gets every play just as it is played at the grounds. For the past two years the HOT HITTING Allen baseball matinees have been one of the most pleasant features of the Georgia-Tech series.

Incidentally he is the man that puts the Heisman in Tech. He got up the money that was necessary for the coming of the wizard to the school. have entered a claim for J. M. Mann, '76, as the discoverer of the art of curve pitching. According to baseball lore available at Princeton, Mann was the star pitcher of the college team known as the Nassau nine at that

During the fall of 1874 Mann pitched several games in one week, and his peculiar delivery wore the skin from the tips of his fingers. In the final contest of the week he was obliged to play third base. Late in the game he was forced to relieve the pitcher in order to save the game. Owing to the tender condition of his fingers, he was obliged to throw the ball with little or no grip.

He immediately noticed that his delivery was breaking in an odd manner, which caused opposing batters to strike out. During the winter months he continued to experiment, and in the spring blossomed out as a pitcher with a real outcurve at his command.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Importance of Green Food in the Successful Keeping of Poultry

tion is paid to this particular feature connected with the poultry business, but it should be and the sooner we give our young growing chickens a free range where they can get prenty green succulent grass at all times the more profitable will our towls be to us. This same thing applies to dairy cattle, hogs, and horses, and where you will find a heavy milking herd of cattle you will find that special attention had been paid to the feeding and grazing of the young neifers as they are being brought up. With the many great opportunities we have in this country for growing an abundance of grasses, clover and alfalfa it is no trouble for one to have a good range to raise their young chickens on, or it they haven't this it is easy to provide a small patch where an abundance of this green succulent food can be had every day and fed continually to both the old and young chickens. The successful growing of alfalfa all over Georgia will eventually make this a great poultry and live stock state, as it is undoubtedly the greatest and cheapest food that up to the present tim nas ever been produced. At present I have had occasion to not only reduce my feed bill nearly one-half but am getting far better results than ever before by feeding something I have raised at home largely in a mixture composed of 60 per cent well cured alfalta leaves which have shattered off of my hay mixed with 15 per cent corn meal, 10 per cent meat scraps and a small amount of charcoal and salt added to this mixture. This is fed in a dry mash and kept before the chickens at all times. It is surprising how they like it and wonderful what an amount of eggs they are are producing on this feed, and the best part of it all is the cheapness by which it has been produced and the saving in dollars and cents it is to me. Alfalfa will eventually revolutionize the cheap keeping of poultry and solve to a large extent the feed proposition and no feed produced gives better results. Its feeding value analyzes high and it contains all the necessary elements to produce eggs and develop the young chicks. An abundance However it satisfies their appetites and furnishes them with sufficient food to produce a wonderful lot of eggs on.

The poultry people of this country will have to eventually raise a large per cent of their feed, and the farmer who is so admirably time and crops into cash through his poultry and get two profits where he is now getting one. The sooner people realize that they can raise their feed so cheaply in this section that much sooner will we keep more poultry, but the great trouble is we put off doing these things year by year which is a big mistake. We should even in a small way keep on trying until we find out how troubles can be There has much knowledge been gained in the keeping size and get better results from our fowls, and we husiness of these undertakings the same as a merchant or a manufacturer does in his lines. It is the only way we can acresults, and the work now being done at the National Egg Laving contest is opening the eyes of the people in the poultry world only learning us how to feed and the importance of same and I am thoroughly convinced that as much depends on the way young chickens are raised as to their future usefulness as I am the breeding that is behind them. Plenty green food will develop in young chickens and animals a constitution capable of converting food when they are matured into profitable egg production.

$3,000 to $5,000 SURE PROFIT

ON FOURTEENTH Street, West, just a few doors from Peachtree, we own a strictly modern up-to-date and practically new residence of nine rooms. This place also has a cement driveway, a garage and the lot is 50x180 to an alley, and is on the South side of the street. The house itself is attractive, has all conveniences-the street, as everyone knows, is one of the most select North Side Residence Streets. We will sell this property $2,000 under value. On this basis:

$6,000 cash will be required, balance of $6,500 will be divided into seven or eight annual payments, if desired-$3,000 to $5,000 profit here sure in next three years. Several parties have applied for lease at $75 per month. This means about 7 per cent net on the investment. Or we will exchange the property for well located income city property, accept or pay difference.

Delegates Can't Afford It, and, Besides, the Cause of Prison Reform Suffers

George W. Crabtree, a prison reformer has addressed an open letter to the "grafters and pickpockets of Atlanta." In that letter he reproaches these evildoers for preying on delegates to the Presbyterian assemblies now in session

Mr. Crabtree says that he himself and these delegates are doing all they can to bring about prison reform, and that pickpockets who rob them here are stinging the hand of their benefactors. He adds that this is not only true, but that the action hurts the poor fellows now doing terms in the prisons. Mr. Crabtree's letter follows:

"The Presbyterian assemblies, now convening in this city, together with myself, are doing all in their power to help prison conditions, trying to get legislation for the unfortunate prisoners now doing time in the penal institutions of the United States

"Some of you (pickpockets) have been preying on these kind, good men. One poor old gentlemean was relieved of $300. He cannot afford to lose this money. Be men and send it back. You are not only hurting yourselves but hurting the poor fellows doing life terms in the prisons. Do not sting the hand of your benefactor and God will be merciful to you."

An unexpected and thrilling exchange of greetings between a Confederate vetfollowed Sherman, through Atlanta marked the opening of Saturday morning's session of the northern assembly. S. B. Scott, of Atlanta Camp 159, U. C. V., was introduced to the assembly to extend an invitation. He was applauded heartily as he came forward. "We Confederate veterans of Atlanta Camp 159 will meet next Monday night," said he, "and we want the Sherman veterans in this assembly, if there are any, to meet with us." The assembly's applause was cut short by the moderator's gavel, who inquired in a loud voice:
