'Dynamite or anything else,' I said. "Could you get some dynamite?" said

"Then he suggested that perhaps Mr Pittman might get some."

The Pittman mentioned by the witness was Ernest R. Pittman, a builder, with whom the state alleges Wood, Atteaux and Collins conspired. Pittman committed suicide on the day he was subpoensed to appear as a witness before the grand jury which was investigating the alleged dynamite plot. "Atteaux telephoned to Pittman, Breen continued, "and an hour later

Pittman arrived at Atteaux' office. "Atteaux said, 'excuse us, John,' and he took Pittman into the corridor," said

"Pittman returned in about three minutes and said to me, 'Do you think you can do this business,' and I said, the pan-Presbyteri-'Yes, sir.' I am not sure that Atteaux was present at the time. "Pittman said to me, 'I'll get some." Where can I telephone you?"

Waster Wedgett, an expert on explosives, testified regarding the dynamite found at Lawrence.

From a bag he produced several sticks which he said resembled the dynamite he inspected. He explained that the sample did not contain dynamite. Dynamite that was thoroughly frozen, he said, was hard to discharge, but partially frozen dynamite was apt to be discharged unexpectedly and was more dangerous than any other form of the explosive.

It was very dangerous to have dynamite and detonators near each other. He described methods by which he identifled the Lawrence exhibits as dynamite and detonators. As part of the tests he and State Officer Flynn exploded three of the dynamite sticks at a cemetery at Lawrence. One of the blasting caps used to explode the dynamite had been found in a package of dynamite that had been "planted."

Wedgett said that the temperature of an ordinary railway passenger car in winter would thaw out frozen dynamite in three-quarters of an hour. Breen told of asking Collins to go to Lawrence with him. Later he met Atteaux at a street corner. Atteaux said: Follow me, John."

Breen made a second trip to the street corner, this time with Collins.

"I stood on the corner," said the witness, "until Pittman came up. He

CUT ALONG THIS LINE.

WHY ALL JOURNAL READERS SHOULD JOIN THE BOOKLOVERS' CLUB.

An old-time Journal subscriber called at Booklovers' Campaign headquarters yesterday to get some information in regard to the plan, saying that he was not in last year's campa'gn and so far had not tried his hand at selecting titles to The Journal's prize pictures, saying that his knowledge of books was limited and that he figured that was necessary in order to win. As we have told our readers right along that it is not necessary to know books in order to win, we were a little surprise to know that there were any Journal readers left who did not thoroughly understand that our Official Catalogue contained all the titles used and that each picture fairly represented the title and not a paragraph or any part of the story. When the plan was explained to him he could plainly see that his chances were just as good as the hest educated man or woman who might compete with him for one of the prizes, and we supplied him with our new Catalogue and the Answer Book with the first thirty-five pictures, and he left us declaring that he was out for one of the big prizes. If there are any Journal readers who are holding back for the same reason this gentleman did, we bope they will come in and get the Catalogue and Answer Book and all the pictures and go in this delightful home game determined that part of that $7,000 is bound to be theirs. The first prize is $1,000, the second $750 and the third $500. Any one of these prizes will make a rich reward for a few hours' pleasure in selecting the right titles

There are 747 prizes in all, so if you do not get one of the first three prizes you surely ought to get one of the others. And the nice thing about this plan is that you do not have to solicit subscriptions, advertising or BEG YOUR FRIENDS to It is a ladies' and gentleman's game with no d'sagrecable features connected with it. Just real pleasure in working out the titles with the aid of our new Official

The Answer Book As An Investment in the $7,000 Booklovers' Campaign

Looking at the matter of buying an Answer Book to submit your answers in The Journal's Booklovers' Campaign from a business standpoint, you cannot fairly decide against getting

You are certainly in this great home game to submit the full result of your skill and not one-fifth of it. As the rules allow you the right to ten answers with a picture and coupon for every answer, or only one of each picture, and the Answer Book only costing you 80c at the office or 90c by mail, it is certainly to your interest to get one of them before it is too late.

To submit 750 answers under the old system would cost you $15.00. If you use the Answer Book your only expense will be the cost of pictures 36 to 75 inclusive, as we give the Nos. 1 to 35 free with the Answer Book.

As The Journal is giving $7,000 worth of prizes in this delightful campaign there is no good reason why you cannot come in a winner. Don't forget that The Journal does not ask you to solicit or beg your friends to vote for you in order to win in this campaign. Just select the most correct titles to the 75 prize pictures that The Journal is publishing and you will receive $1,000 in gold. If you do not get first prize you certainly ought to get one of the 747 prizes that will be distributed among Journal readers at the close of the campaign.

See the prize pictures on page 2, and read details of the plan. Then come in and get our new catalogue and our fourpage circular giving you full details. Get in the game now, while you still have plenty of time to select titles.

You will find the Booklovers' Game the most enjoyable one you ever took part in.

It is the great home game that pays you a dividend!

United States Tires are good times

Name the features that induced you to select the tires you are now using and we will more than match them in a United States Tire

Was it a reputation for high mileage?

United States Tires to-day yield an average mileage from 25 to 50 per cent. above the highest point ever reached by any tire maker previous to the organization of the United States Tire Company.

Was it protection against rim cutting?

United States Dunlop tires bear the first and only guarantee against rim cutting ever issued by any tire maker.

Was it extra size?

Compare cross section for yourself. Make a few caliper measurements, or ask any dealer or tire manufacturer who has investigated the matter, and you will find that no tire made has a larger average air capacity or larger diameter measurements than the United States Dunlop. USE YOUR OWN EYES!

Was it ease of manipulation?

The round toe, an exclusive feature of our Dunlop tire, makes this the most easily manipulated tire on the market.

Most Important of All-

We have perfected and control a process that has practically doubled the fabric strength of United States Tires and reduced blow-outs to a minimum.

Four-factory co-operative methods of manufacture (used exclusively in the manufacture of United States Tires) have enabled us to take every feature of superiority it is possible to put into a tire and combine them all in one tire.

Mr. H. Anthony Dyer has just written us: "I have motored in Europe for six years, but never before have I had such satisfactory results from ANY tires as I have had from yours."

Separate Skirts Coming Into Their Own Wash Skirts, Silk Skirts, Woolen Skirts In Greater Favor Than In Many Seasons.

The finger of Fashion has touched separate skirts.

As is usual in such cases, you will find a generous wealth of them at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s.

We have not waited-we have anticipated and made preparations. Now things are ready.

The skirt styles new to New York are here. And they are bright, fresh, attractive affairs.

Among the wash skirts are piques, linens-French linen, ramie linen, basket-weave linen—and ratines.

The shepherd checked woolens are prime favorites; and Bedford cords, and always serviceable serges. Moire silks and silk poplins are charming in fashioning and in colors.

You will enjoy choosing yours where there are so many fine styles shown!

Wash Skirts

45 But $2.45 does not tell the full measure of their worth, they are $3.00 skirts. Wide wale pique is the material. Plain straight lines; fastens at side front with large pearl buttons; finished with a narrow belt at the high waist line.

Of pique, in extra sizes-thirty to thirty-eight inch waist. plenty of fullness; fastens in a side plait with large pearl buttons. Made very attractive with little tucks under the belt -a two-piece belt.

Skirts of heavy, yet very soft ramie linen in cream white. Pearl buttons trim them becomingly. Skirts of great service and attractiveness that will make many trips to the laundry without hurt.

Novel white ratine skirts, of straight lines, but made unusually smart by the way the seams are finished-inverted-and by the patch pockets. The back is tucked at the waist line and belted. Pearl buttons are used generously as trimmings.

Navy and tan ratine skirts in simple, but very pretty styles. Some have belts of self-material with rather large and heavy gilt buckles. They are in fact as well as in name-wash skirts.

Woolen and Silk Skirts Where there are so many styles and materials worthy of special note, it is hard to choose just one or two for your particular attention. But here-

Skirts of shepherd checks-two styles, one rather plain, fastening at side front with black horn buttons, finished at back with belt. Another, a draped skirt-very slightly draped near bottom of skirt. Buttons in back, undertucks placed lengthwise of the skirt.

Skirts of shepherd checks, rather elaborate with pipings and buttons, slight yoke effect in front, deep pointed gore running down over

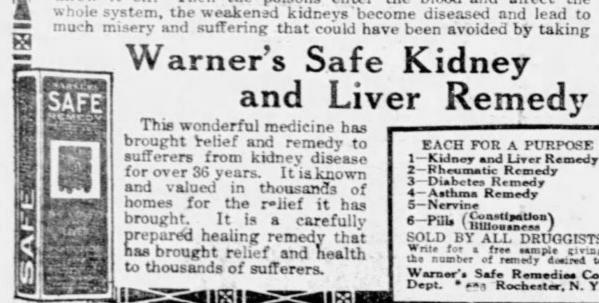

A novelty of moire poplin silk—these in black only-a style sure to find favor among those who have until now always turned to a black taffeta skirt.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL AND IRREGULAR

Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific Up. Union Pacific Off

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, May 21 .- Stocks were firmly seld at the opening of the market today. Steel and Union Pacific started the session at vesterday's closing price and the other leaders ranged slightly higher. The best gains were made by Canadian Pacific, wich rose 1% and Rock Island common and preferred, which advanced about a point each.

The tone list was quiet at a trifle over the forenoon lowest. California Petroleum dropped 416 to 47, a new low figure. Mexican Petroum lost 214. Dealings in the certificates for the new city bonds were inaugurated by a sale of $1,000,000 of bonds at 100%, after which a block of $100,000 changed hands at 100. Several stocks, the most conspicuous among which was Pennsylvania, sagged to new low gun to reach the cenclusion that insofar as the Instant Postum, large, $4.50; Instant Postum, marks under pressure of short selling and liquouth of May is concerned the crop is too small, $5.40; Instant Postum, assorted, $5.00; uidation. The cheerful feeling in London and reports of the success of the Chinese loan abroad were reflected in the firm undertone of the early market but efforts to bid up prices were neffectual, and the trend became downward. Sentiment was depressed by renewed liquida tion of some industrials, which was regarded as evidence that these stocks were being thrown out as collateral for loans. Building an Estate. BY JOHN M. OSKISON

My friend Richards is a second genacross from the old country when he was a boy-when the father was a boy. That was about 1840. My friend's father went to do chores on an uncle's farm in Illinois, then became a farm hand. From Illinois he went to Califor-

My friend was born when his father was renting a farm in Kansas. Last business in New York while he was in Idaho burying his father and arranging the small affairs connected with "the estate." When he came back Richards told me how pitifully insignificant that "estate" was, but how his stepmother tookw pride in using the term. Fortunately for her, Richards and his brother are able to piece it out. "Going back there gave me a shock and fixed on me a resolution," said Richards. "It occurred to me one day when I was appraising the value of my father's teams and small stock of tools that he had spent over seventy years in a country of opportunities and had failed to cash in on a single one of them. He was a restless man; fortune was waiting for him just over the hill. Yet he wanted money and property, and the standing which they > would give him among men. "I am resolved," went on Richards, 'to make the estate which I leave to my family one in reality. I'm going to train my children-all of them, my girl as well as my two boys, to think

> "I'm never going to become a moneygrubber, and I hope none of my children will-there are too many other interesting ways to spend time and energy to specialize on money getting. But don't you forget that the estate of this Richards is going to be, a comforting reality to his family." I believe that Richards has exactly the right notion.

MRS. OLIVE M. HEALEY DIES AFTER USEFUL LIFE

Ploneer Atlanta Woman Passed Away Tuesday Night. Funeral Thursday

Mrs. Olive Maria Healey, aged eigthtynine years, a resident of Atlanta since ante-bellum days, died Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock at her residence on the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue. She was the widow of the late Mr. Thomas G. Healey, and the mother of William H. Healey, one of Atlanta's foremost citizens. Besides her son and his wife, she is survived by two grandsons, William and Oliver Healey, her niece, Mrs. Robert J. Lowry and one nephew, Marcellus Markham.

For several months Mrs. Healey had been in ill health. Two weeks ago she began to grow weaker, but until the end came Tuesday night she was cheerful and smiling. Heart failure was said to be the direct cause of her death. In all the many years since Mrs. Healey has lived in Atlanta she has taken a prominent part in the social and intellectual life of the city. She was a member of leading women's organizations and a charity worker whose philanthropies had won the heart of hundreds of Atlanta's poor and needy.

Mrs. Healey was born in Connecticut, in 1824. When a mere girl she came south, making her home with her brother. the late William Markham, a pioneer Atlantian, in this city. The Markhams were a staunch old New England family, but their descendants early grew to love the south, its people and its standards. So it was that during the years of war and the hard days which followed there was not a daughter of the south more patient, brave and self-sacrificing than was Mrs. Healey.

Mrs. Healey was a constant reader of history and the classics, and was noted for her knowledge of the former subject. She was a brilliant conversationalist and her own personal charm made her scores of friends in Atlanta and throughout the

She was a member of the Pioneer Women's society and the "Butterflies." Justice Girardeau Is Referee. Warrants Against Smith, R. R. Arnold, J. C. Cox

The fight in the courthouse Tuesday in which Burton Smith was the central figure, will be aired at 3:15 o'clock Wednesday in Justice C. H. Girardeau's court, seminary, of which she is a member. where C. W. Walton and W. H. Byrd have drawn warrants charging assault and battery against Mr. Smith, Attorney Reuben R. Arnold and John C. Cox.

Walton and Byrd claim that Cox and Attorney Arnold joined in the fight to assist Mr. Smith, but this is denied by both of these. They declare they tried merely to stop the fight.

Mr. Arnold says that the statement that he knocked Byrd down is certainly cor-

I kicked him several times, good and hard, and he let go. I was simply endeavoring to get him off of Mr. Smith and that was all I did "As to Cox's part in the trouble, he held John Crawford, one of the men who attacked and who was beaten by Mr. Smith, when he (Crawford) was trying with the others to keep the fight going. Mr. Arnold characterizes the statement of Byrd and Walton that Mr. Smith made an objectionable remark to Mrs. Cora B. Cash and Mrs. Viola Whittimore, as an infamous lie. "After the fight was over, I heard Mr.

Smith ask Mrs. Cash if there was anything in his remarks to which she could object.." says Mr. Arnold, "and I heard her answer that there was nothing; that he had treated her very nicely." Mr. Arnold states that Byrd and Walton, immediately after the exciting fray,

Mr. Smith admits striking Walton the first blow in the face, and then, he says, friends of Walton rushed at him from all sides. According to several witnesses, Mr. Smith knocked his assailants down Mr. Smith states that his conversation with Mrs. Cash was pleasant in every way, and that Mrs. Cash afterwards told him that she greatly regretted the fact that Mr. Walton has assumed the attitude which he did, by objecting to Mr. Smith talking to her.

Byrd and Walton have issued a joint LAST IN ETHICAL SERIES statement about the affair. They are ooth among the heirs of Nancy E. and Joshua B. Crawford, over whose estate litigation has been in progress for years, and a phase of which was being heard before James N. Anderson, as auditor, when the fight occurred in the court room corridor.

They assert that Mr. Smith's remarks o Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Whittimore were insulting, and that Walton came up and ment was made Mr. Smith asked what John Lovejoy Elliott, head of the Hudhe (Mr. Walton) had to do with the The attitude of the association to- son Guild of New York City, and asso- matter, and the latter replied that these face, knocking him down. The talkative barber illustrates his story with Henry M. Flagler, a Builder of Florida.

There has passed in the death of Henry M. Flagler an industrial genius who towered in an age that was peculiarly rich in masters of finance and I builders of mighty enterprise. Had he done nothing but forge his way upward from the ranks of the humble and obscure to a station of great wealth and influence, his career would be wondrously interest-Oling as an example of what sheer brain and character can achieve in a land like America. But far more than this, he did; he applied his energy and fortune to constructive tasks that left those among whom he labored more prosperous for his having lived.

It'is not essential that a man be bor in a cabin or buffeted by hardship in order to win success and Renown but it is one of the glories of the United ofStates that from just this type of men its leaders in public or material affairs have so often sprung; and of this type was Henry M. Flagler. His childhood was spent in a little New York village whence he ventured forth to seek his fortune, as a boy of fourteen, in order that the family burdens might be lightened. He was next heard of as a clerk in a country grocery shop in Michigan. Later he established himself in a manufacturing business at Saginaw, Micharigan, and from that time forward his rise to fortune was rapid. Mr. Flagler was among the first to discern the varied and far-reaching possibilities of the petroleum industry. It was through his initiative that the company of Rockefeller, Andrews and Flagler, engaged in refining oil, was organized; and from that venture evolved the great Standard Cil company

Mr. Flagler was in his fifty-fifth year when he became definitely interested in Florida, the State that owes such a vast deal of its development to his generous faith in its resources. It was he who drew the world's attention to the rare advantages of Florida as a winter resort and opened the way for a tremendous inflow of population and wealth. He spent million: unhesitatingly in the building of hotels and transportation facilities, notably the East Coast railroad and, later, the extension of that line over the sea from Miami to Key West. This particular piece of work is considered one of the rarest engineering achievements of the rage; it stands as a monument not only to the scienwestific skill of those who wrought it out but also to the bold genius of him who conceived it and who, despite predictions that such an effort would prove vain, continued to support it with his means until whis dream stood fulfilled.

What Mr. Flagler did for Florida is beyond reckoning. The development of that commonwealth has benefited not only its own people but the Southeast gabas a whole and has opened new opportunities for thousands of men and families throughout the United States. The cities of Florida are now thriving wondrously; its farm lands are among the most promising fields of agriculture and investment; currents of fresh energy and progress are astir throughout the State; it has caught the entire country's ad attention. Jane . It is due to the vision and power of Henry M. Flagler as well as to the responsiveness of an enerregetic people that these resources are being turned to such splendid account. He lived a creative and usewoful life. For his brilliant talent he was admired by the entire country; and he was cordially esteemed by the South for his constructive work in its behalf.

The Tragic End of a Picturesque Turk.

The assassination of Essad Pasha, one of the most famous and picturesque of Turkish generals, adds another red episode to the recent treacherous chapters of Ottoman history. Essad Pasha commanded the garrison at Scutari throughout that city's fong and stoutly resisted siege. Whatever may have been the inner circumstances or motive of his final surrender, the resourcefulness and hardihood with and which he defended his trust during the heat of the siege won the admiration of the Montenegrins themselves. Shortly after the city fell, there was much gossip | country and the tariff.

to the effect that the Turkish commander had reached a secret agreement with King Nicholas whereby the former, on the condition that he surrender, would be permitted to withdraw his troops unmolested and proceed southward into Albania for the purpose of establishing at Tiran a distinct kingdom. However that may have been, he proclaimed himself king and met his tragic end at the hands of enemies in his own camp and among his own people.

The incident recalls the assassination at Constantinople some months ago of Envey Bey, by far the greatest general the Turkish army has owned in recent times, and divers attempts to make way with other leaders in the military or political affairs of that country. The fact is the Turkish army seems undermined with a spirit of mutiny and treachery has become so common as to threaten the very life of the existing government.

Neither the Young Turks nor the reactionary party seem to have any grip upon the masses of the people. There is no authority which can be counted upon to steer and control the nation in its present

The New President of Cuba.

General Mario G. Menocal who was inaugurated yesterday as the third president of the Cuban republic begins his administration under cheering auspices. True, the tasks that confront him and his associates in the new government are many and difficult. But he has given evidence of the integrity and insight that are needed to meet such responsibilities and he seems to hold the confidence of the island's thoughtful people.

The besetting weakness of Cuba's internal af fairs thus far has been the lack of square and efficient management in its administrative departments, particularly in matters of public finance. There has also been a plague of adventurous politicians who have sought to bestir trouble and disorder for the purpose of pushing forward their selfish

President Menocal pledges himself to "devote all his energies to giving the country a clean business administration that will foster the industries of the island and develop its splendid resources, that will welcome foreign capital and immigration and maintain friendly relations with all nations and especially with the United States, to which Cuba is so closely linked by bonds of mutual interest and affection."

It is said that the new administration will devote itself particularly to a land-tax reform to the end that vast holdings of property which now lie idle and contribute nothing to the country's wealth may be opened to agricultural enterprise.

The United States is peculiarly interested in the stability and progress of Cuban affairs; for, our government rightly feels a sense of responsibility to its little neighboring republic and to other nations that have dealings with the island. It is hoped that the new government will be peaceful and prosperous.

Now for Prompt Results In Closing That Underpass.

There are cheering indications that the long delayed but important task of closing the Forsyth street underpass will now be pressed to speedy completion. The resolution offered in Council Monday by Alderman Ragsdale and Councilman Haverty, providing for the appointment of a joint committee of Council members and citizens to deal conclusively with this matter, is seasonable and well advised. One of the inpediments to this enterprise has been the fact that it has been nobody's particular business, though it has been unanimously favored.

An energetic committee with definite ends in view can take up the plans already devised for closing the underpass and forge them into prompt and practical results. There are no serious difficulties to be overcome. Council has appropriated the funds necessary for this work. The State has consented that it be done under conditions that can easily be met. The general public and the property owners directly concerned are eager that it be done. It is to be hoped that the proposed committee will get promptly down to business.

THE INCOME TAX

XIV .- The Fight in France. BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

France is as yet without an income tax law, but this is neither due to the lack of a demand or the lack of effort to secure its passage. Rather it is due to a hitch between the senate and the chamber of deputies. The sentiment in favor of such a tax began to rise at the time of the revolution of 1848, grew more insistent after the creation of the third republic, and culminated, after a half century of agitation in 1909, in the passage of a bill creating such a tax by the chamber of depu-

It seems inevitable that at no distant date France will join the procession of fifty-odd nations which have income tax laws, and if it falls in behind the United States it will be the fifty-fourth nation to have such a tax as a part of its fiscal system. Then more than two-fifths of the earth's population will live under income tax laws and the total collections from such taxes will go far up past the billion dollar mark. The French program as adopted by the chamber of deputies borrows from every source, and it is said that no nation which ever attempted to enact an income tax law went so minutely into the whole matter as the French have done. The bill as adopted divides incomes into seven classes or schedules, as follows: incomes from lands, incomes from houses, incomes from movable capital, incomes from business profits, incomes from agricultural profits, incomes from wages and salaries, and incomes from professional earnings and all other sources not otherwise provided. . . .

on the first three classes of incomes the rate is fixed at 4 per cent, with 3 1-2 per cent on incomes from business profits, and 3 per cent on professional earnings, agricultural profits, and wages and salaries. In the case of the house tax the income is considered to be the rental value of the property, less one-fourth in the case of dwellings, and less twofifths in the case of factories. These deductions are made so as to allow for repairs and depreciation. In the determination of the income from land it is to be considered as the rental value of the land, less a reduction of one-lifth for maintenance. The incomes from houses and lands are to be determined every ten years. Where the incomes are small various abatements are made.

Movable capital profits are considered as the income from personal property, including nearly all government securities. Wherever possible the tax on this class of incomes is collected at the source, for instance, on the corporations and associations that pay interest or dividends. Mortgages pay their tax by means of a stamp, and securities taxes are collected through bankers.

Business profits are regarded as those which arise from industrial or commercial operations. The assessment is made upon the basis of an average of three years' income, and taxpayers are invited to make returns of such incomes. Those having incomes in excess of 5,000 francs, or approximately $1,000, are required to make their reports to the comptroller of taxes. If he is not satisfied with a report he may ask a modification of it within twenty days. If this is not forthcoming the comptroller may make an assessment, which shall stand unless changed by the courts. The taxpayer cannot be required to show his books, but if he is caught attempting to dodge the tax it is doubled. Incomes of this nature up to 1,250 francs are exempt, and there is a sliding scale of abatements on incomes up to 3,000 francs. Where the income goes above 12,000 francs there are no exemptions allowed. . . .

In the case of wages, salaries and pensions, the tax is advanced by the individuals, associations or governments which pay them. Ever employer is required to hand in a list of employes with the amount paid them. In case of incomes under 5,000 francs, or approximately $1,000, two-tnirds of the income is exempt, and above that amount certain abatements are made, calculated partly on the basis of the size of the income, and partly on the basis of the size of the

The last schedule, relating to professional incomes, is the only one in the whole list where compulsory declaration applies to all having such incomes. And even here they cannot be compelled to reveal any professional secrets in making their returns. There is a liberal exemption, and above that there are the usual abatements up to the point where the tax ceases to be burdensome. . . .

In addition to the regular income tax levied on all incomes whether of natural or of artificial persons, there is provided what is known as a "complementary tax" levied only on natural persons who have an income of more than 5,000 francs. This bears a close resemblance to the English supertax. It is levied on those who reside in France without having their domicile there, as well as upon those who are domiciled there. In the case of the sojourners their income is rated at seven times their house rent. There is no tax on the first 5,000 francs, and thereafter each successive 5,000 francs income pays an additional 1 per cent until an income of 25,000 francs is reached, when the tax becomes 5 per cent on the income. If any one who is required by law to pay this supplementary tax tries to dodge it, or any part of it by false declarations the penalty is one-half of the income concealed. If he fails to make any returns at all the penalty is three times the amount of the tax.

It will be seen from this account of the French plan that it borrows what are perhaps the best features of both the English and the German laws. Its schedules follow to a large extent the ideas incorporated in the English law, but it differentiates more markedly between the income that is the sweat of the brow and the income that is the product of invested capital. It establishes a lower exemption than the English law, and follows the German idea of taxing the entire income after it reaches a point where the taxpayer incurs no hardship in paying it. There is great care to have the necessity of inquisitorial proceedings.

After the bill had passed the chamber of deputies it went to the senate where it was defeated. This served as a rallying point for the forces opposed to income tax legislation; several societies in opposition were formed, meetings were held throughout the republic, and at least a semblance of public opposition to the measure was made. Most observers believe, however, that the income tax legislation has received only a temporary setback, and that the French senate will be forced to do with it just what the American senate was forced to do with railroad rate legislation. . . .

Meantime, there are some parts of existing French laws which represent the growing determination of the French people to levy taxes upon the basis of ability to pay. There is a real estate tax, a business tax, a door and window tax, and a capitation and personal property tax. The real estate tax is assessed on the basis of the rental value of the property as determined by a periodical survey. The business tax is designed to hit the income of the business, and is levied on a basis of such outward appearances as the rent paid, the number of clerks employed, and the like. The door and window tax is levied on all openings for doors and windows, a man's ability to pay being measured by the number of such openings in his house or factory he may have. This is a rather odious tax and has been declared to be a tax on light and health.

DIVORCE AND PUBLICTIY BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

A Mrs. Scott, in England, had been found guilty of contempt of court by the Court of Appeals for having circulated among her friends some of the report of the case heard in "in camera," in which she had been charged with infidelity, but vindicated. She appealed to the highest court, which consists of the House of Lords. Here the Lord Chancellor rendered judgment reversing the decision of the Court of Appeals, and made this significant statement: "Every court of justice in the land is open to every subject of the king, and a court has no power to sit otherwise than with open doors."

This raises the question as to the advisability of publishing the 1 oceedings in divorce cases. There can be no doubt that such news-matter in a newspaper is prurient a.d unpleasant, and that its effect upon the reading public is, to a degree, harmful. It is a common thing to hear expressions of condemnation regarding newspapers for lending their columns to such offensive matter.

But there is another side to the case. It is this: That the real punishment which the social sinner dreads is not the penalty adjudged by the court, but the publicity caused by the public press. He does not so much mind paying his fine and alimony, particularly if he is rich; and it is the affairs of the rich that the reporters are fondest of exploiting and readers are most cager to follow.

After all, ours is a government by public opinion. Say what we will, it is the printed word and not the Judge before whom all tremble who value their reputations. The powerful offender with his skilled lawyers is not alarmed at the prospect of a legal trial; it is the terrible newspaper that gives him that gone

Supreme Court Justice Ford says: "Severance of the marriage tie concerns the wellbeing of society as deeply as criminal prosecutions, and secrecy is as objectionable in the one case as in the other. Publicity in judicial proceedings should be preserved so far as practicable."

Justice Greenbaum: "For my part, I should like to see every divorce action tried in open court." Justice Guy: "In my judgment, everything which occurs in court should be open to public hearing. The fact that an action for divorce is pending should be given the widest publicity to prevent fraud and injury to those who are innocent. I do not think, however, that the loathsome details-more humiliating generally to the innocent than guilty-should be published. This, however, is more properly, within the wise discretion of publishers of newspapers than within the control of courts."

To the credit of metropolitan journals, with few exceptions, it must be said that disgusting as are the bare facts in the case that are printed, the facts unprinted, the facts they suppress from a sense of public decency, are far more appalling.

Those who condemn newspapers, therefore, for their open accounts of domestic scandal, should think twice, and reflect that it is the very medicine of publicity that most restrains divorce. It is bitter medicine, but

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

May 15 .- To luncheon with Jack Reed the poet and he told me of the four days he was in prison in Paterson, and of the dreadsome, noisome condition of the place and its horrible uncleanness, and of one man 80 yrs, of age and ill, that was imprisoned for six months for begging five cents. Also he told me how great a man is Bill Haywood, and it may be as Jack saith. Also he told me that the Industrial Workers are sorely misjudged and that the tayles in the publick prints of their bloodthirstiness are lies told by the scriveners. And out of it all I wish I did know how to appraise what is true and what is false, but I am too ignorant, and ill-fitted to judge truly. To-day I heard how that Will Aulick hath been stricken with a great illness, which made me heavy to hear, and 1 pray Heaven he may soon be whole again. To a meeting of coledge men who assembled to hear some talk of the efforts some are making to increase the happiness of others, and noble work they are doing, too.

16 .- Met with Mistress Hilda in her petroleum waggon, who took me and my wife to the tennis-court, where all the day. Came D. Taylor and Jeannette and C. Beebe the naturalist to dinner, and I gave my wife 8s. to buy a chicken with, which I did think a stupendous price, but said nought. Thenafter to a playhouse where Julius Tannen was playing, but found on arriving he had already done, so I did go to his room and ask him to come home with us, so all back again and talking of our preferences and hatreds until near one o'clock. I hear that N. Hapgood hath bought Harper's Weekly and I believe he will make it a fine thing, for he is a brave, true man and a gifted.

17.-Up in good time and to my work, which I have, been a very Laodicean at these last weeks, sloth that I am. At it all the day, and with much content, such as cometh but from labouring at a task, albeit I may be ill-pleased before morning with what I have wrought, as is ever the case with me.

Before utterly condemning the I. W. W. on the count of having no respect for the law, consider what destroyed the reverence they originally, as individuals, had for it. The palpable maladministration of justice, frequently.

C. C. CLUB TAKES FORMAL LEASE OF BROOKHAVEN Since 1875

Capital City Club Will Assume Possession of Country Club June 1

A lease for a year of the Brookhaver club was signed on behalf of the Capital City club Tuesday. The city club will take possession of this beautiful country club on Peachtree road on June 1 making the latter its own country club feature. It will be known as the Capital City Country club, and will be for the exclusive use of the members of that organization.

The property of the Brookhaven club consists of 150 acres of land, which includes a club house, a fresh water lake, tennis courts and a golf course. The grounds are surrounded by rolling pine lad hills, making it an ideal spot for outdoor recreation

The lease gives the club authorities the privilege of a renewal of two years at the expiration of the present lease, and the additional right to purchase inside of three years the property for $100,000, same to be paid in first mort-

The Capital City club recently has increased its membership from 700 800, and now has a waiting list.

The following committee from the Capital City club made the present lease of the Brookhaven club possible: Robert F. Maddox, chairman; Edward H. Inman, John E. Murphy, Jack J. Spalding Dr. W. S. Elkin, Preston S. Arkwright, Madison Bell and W. G. Humphrey.

Diamonds Economically Handled

We have made it a point to acquaint ourselves with every detail in the handling of diamonds from the time they are mined until they go into possession of the individual. Information thus gained has enabled us to lop many of the expenses connected therewith. We do not, therefore, believe that there is anyone that can offer greater values for the money.

We exercise unsually careful attention in the selection of our sock, in addition to buying in quantities, and as a consequence, get them much below what they would cost us were we to buy in smaller lots.

In addition to these reasons there are many minor ones to bear out our contention that no better values are to be had than here.

For those who do not wish to go into ready cash, or disturb other investments, we are glad to extend our partial payment plan whereby a small amount cash can be paid at the time of purchase, and the remainder extended over a number of months best suited to the purchaser.

Campbell's Tomato Soup is many good things in one.

Beside its regular use as a soupcourse, it may be combined in its condensed form—just as you receive it-with croquettes, omelettes, spaghetti, welsh rarebits and numerous other well-known dishes, adding greatly to their tasty and wholesome effect.

Visit our establishment during the tomato season if you possibly can and see the beautiful red-ripe tomatoes coming in from the surrounding farms.

See our careful dainty method of preparing them, and blending their delicious juices and fruity part with the other materials used in this popular Campbell "kind".

After that you'll want to order a dozen at a time.

General Offices at Atlantic Beach, Florida

The New City by the Sea

Atlantic Beach is the finest district on the entire Southern coast line. It will be better a year from now. Better still in 2 or 3 years.

Soon it will have no rival in Florida or elsewhere in the South. It has an incomparable combination of initial advantages in its electric lights, abundant cistern water, railway transportation, splendid paved road to Jacksonville and the finest beach in the world.

Atlantic Beach Hotel

One of the really great resort hotels and the coming social center of the Southeastern States, This magnificent hotel property is close to Atlantic Beach and will forever add to its attractiveness and its value both as a home and a resort city. Right on the edge of the ocean---think of it. The bracing salt breezes, the cooling winds, the health giving air of the wide reaches of the sea. Go to the Beach and see why it is growing---why it must grow. Prices so reasonable that they are within reach of those who can pay modest house rent. There's money waiting for you at Atlantic Beach.

Bungalow Now Building in Same Hammock

The Future—A Prophecy

Atlantic Beach property is a wonderful investment. It must increase greatly and rapidly. It is controlled by successful men of brains, energy and ample capital. They have spared no expense in employing the greatest professional experts to carry out their plans. These are in charge of architects, builders, sanitary engineers, and landscape artists who have made records of splendid successes. With its inimitable natural advantages, the great skill employed in its structure and the determination and financial strength behind it, Atlantic Beach cannot fall short of its builders' purpose--- A model city.

CONTROL

Sore Arms Have Caused Flingers to Pitch Inferior Ball -BY JULIAN MURPHEY .-

The class of pitching in the South ern league is right now showing great improvement and you can bet there was plenty of room for the heavers of each club to put over a bit better class of work. During the first month of the season the class of flinging, taken as a whole, was decidedly off color but it now begins to appear as if all the slabbers are doing better. Banks. Umpire, McLaughlin.

ARMS WERE SORE. Brunswick 6 11 .353 Opelika 6 7 .462 One of the greatest howls let out by Americus 6 11 .353 LaGrange 4 10 .286 the flingers was that they were worried with sore arms. This in a large measure was caused by the early start when the weather was rather chilly At Newman 7 and raw. The season began this year seven days earlier than usual and this was just early enough to run into some eight or ten days of the very worst sort of weather and the result was that many of the hurlers had to work on rainy days when they caught cold in their arms.

> A sound arm is essential in good hurling. There is no denying that it is impossible for a man to go into the box and serve up his best class of ball when every motion of the arm hurts him. He forgets how to curve the ball and it is an impossibility for him to control the straight ones he serves up. He is lucky to even get them over in the groove and when he does it only serves to fatten batting averages.

One of the surest signs of the poor hurling is shown by the very large batting averages possessed by so many batters. COBB JUMPS HIS AVERAGE EACH BATTLE

Ty Cobb is showing up his critics in amazingly fast fashion by the manner Crackers Came Through With in which he is now clouting the ball. His average through the game of Tuesday is .491, the mark having taken a big jump almost daily since Ty's return to the game.

When Cobb held out on the Detroit club many made the prediction that he would get away badly and encounter a big batting slump. At first he was a bit off, due to sickness, but during the past week he has been making from two to three hits almost daily, and right now he is leading the major league hit-

SCHOOL TEAMS IN BIG GAME

The champianship game of the season will be played this afternoon between the teams of the Formwalt Street school and the Edgewood Avenue school. The game will be played on the Marist campus diamond at 3:30 o'clock. This is the third game of the series, Formwalt winning the first and Edgewood the second. There are loads of rooters for both teams and interest is at fever heat.

This game will decide the outcome of who is champion of the public schools of Atlanta. One of the teams is the champions of the north side and the other is the champion of the south side. The game will be some game if advance dope spells anything.

a Hit Whenever It Was Needed and the Final Count Was 11 to 0 in Six Rounds

The Atlanta batters hit in their customary form Tuesday, and, as Big Bill Chappelle pitched a grand article of ball, there was nothing to it but a decisive win for the home bunch. It might be mentioned that the score was 11 to 0 and the game went but five and a half rounds, rain interfering.

During the first five innings Chappelle did not allow a hit, and just two runners reached first. Just one of these got as far as second, and this was on an error. ome Breeders Who Have Made Poultry Raising Profitable

RS. L. D. SINGLEY, of Jackson, Ga., a farmer's wife who has a large family has probably made more real money for the amount invested and has been a greater help to her family from the income from poultry than any other one person I know of. She has established a reputation for her White Indian Games that is growing day by day, and in addition to giving better value for the money received now than she did years ago she has better birds to do so with, more of them to select from, and naturally the per cent of profit is much greater and will continue to be year by year, and she and her family will hereafter be independent from the income of her poultry alone, even though their outside crops are a total failure. Mrs. Singley having only a limited amount of money to invest in poultry started out with not over $25, covering her total first year's expenses. While her buildings are rough and crude they are comfortable and answer the purpose, but naturally require more work to care for her fowls than if she was possibly better equipped, which would cost a lot more money. She, making a specialty of only one variety, she can keep them much cheaper and with far less expense than if she had several varieties. She has only been keeping poultry about four years, but naturally if her business grows in the next four years, as it has in the past four she will soon have a large other lines where many times more money is invested. nother very successful breeder and one who is on the right line Mr. H. A. Black, of Cartersville, Ga. He makes a Orpingtons. Mr. Black invested something over $100 irds to start with. The result was that every bird he good one. The world soon found it out and business came overwhelmingly. He is a clerk in a store in this little town and only has a small space to keep his fowls,, but he is nicely situated, has splendid yards and with his wife's assistance they have built up a busif he should so desire now to give up his position his poultry would pay him handsomely and make a good living for himself and family.

Another man who has been very sccessful with his poultry and ensplendid trade until this season has been Dr. R. B. Watson, of Chamblee, Ga. He has made a specialty of selling day-old chicks and for the past three or four years has possibly done a larger business in this respect than any other breeder in the south. He has just moved to the country, built him a beautiful home, fitted up a splendid lot of poultry houses and is equipped now to do a large business and take care of his trade in splendid shape. However, this past season, from come cause, the demand for day-old chicks has not been so good as in former years. However, such things will happen, and he has a large lot of young chickens now on hand that will make up in egg production the coming season what he has lost in sales for young chickens. These things will come not only in the poultry business but in all other lines of industry. Some seasons will be good and some bad, and the man who is able to hold on in the poultry business and keep up his stock to the highest standard cannot help but win, although he has some off seasons.

Mr. J. L. Reinhardt, of Colbert, Ga., who started in a small way with White Leghorns, Indian Runner ducks and several other varieties has gotten down to real business now and has equipped at Colbert, Ga., one of the best and most up to date poultry plants in the United States. This place covers seventeen acres of land, he has a Mammoth incubator, holding 5,500 eggs, brooder houses, laying houses, colony houses and everything else necessary for convenience in handling the large number of fowls. The best of all is his plant is stocked with some 2,500 to 3,000 magnificent White Leghorn hens of the laying kind, and possibly 5,000 head of young White Leghorns coming along to produce eggs this winter. Mr. Reinhardt is supplying one of the hotels at Athens, one at Macon and several parties in Atlanta with daily shipments of fresh eggs. They are packed clean and nice in an attractive manner and he is giving to the public something that is being appreciated, and they are paying a profitable price for these products that a few years ago it was impossible for them to secure. His business, by being worked on a business basis has been very profitable and has practically paid its own way and the plant built itself from a small beginning to a business now amounting to something like $1,500 a year. Two men are employed to look after this plant, and with the spare time that Mr. Reinhardt can give and his business ability as a successful busi-

POULTRY FEED

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29, 1913. Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Sirs: - Until a few months ago I lived in Atlanta, Ga., and while there I fed my hens and baby chicks Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, and had no trouble in raising my young chickens or getting plenty Since moving to Indianapolis, I have not been able to get Aunt Patsy and have had lots of trouble with my baby chicks and my hens have not laid well at all, so I am writing to know if you won't ship me 500 pounds of Aunt Patsy at the best price you can delivered. If so, I will appreciate it very much. I have just got to have Aunt Patsy or sell my hens and I don't want to do that. So please let me know if I can expect the feed, and oblige, Mrs. S. M. Smith. Ask your dealer for Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, the Egg producer.

If you are a Hen Eat Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed-the Egg producer. If you are a Baby Chick Eat Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed. If you are a Rooster-Well! Be gallant and tell the hen she should Eat Aunt Patsy.

Diabetes No Longer Feared

Poculiar Action of a Remarkable Remedy in

There is no need to feel any alarm over the symptoms of diabetes. This disease is apt to be purely a digestive trouble, and for this reason the liver is held largely responsible. The liver is the largest organ of the body, and is not only a mass of thread-like blood vessels, but throughout its entire fabric is intimately associated with the digestive system. The thing to do is to so stimulate the action of this myriad of blood vessels that each cellular part selects its own essential nutriment by healthy and judicious divine discretion. This is accomplished by S. S., the most potent, the most active and the most naturally stimulating blood medicine known. You do not need purgatives; do not be alarmed at the presence of sugar nor of so-called sediment. Just stick to S. S. S. and bear in mind that this celebrated remedy has such a specific stimulating action on the local cells of the liver as to preserve their mutual welfare and give a proper relative assistance, each cell to the other.

Dropsical tendencies are thus overcome, biliousness soon becomes a memory and jaundice, malaria, afflictions of the spleen and glandular swellings will be entirely eliminated. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores and for competent medical advice, free, consult by mail the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga
