Turks Claim Victories Over British and Russians, While Russians Say Fighting Has Halted to Bury Dead Turks

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Two steamers flying the American flag soon will be at sea, each bound for Germany, and each sailing with the avowed purpose of restoring the right of Great Britain to interfere, under certain circumstances, with American shipping.

The Dacla, cotton laden from Galveston, waiting under way in the harbor to sail, will determine the question of American participation in Germany's campaign against the British.

The Dacla, a German steamer, took American registry since the beginning of the war. The British government says it will stop her on her way to Germany.

Despairing Victim Of Pellagra Tries To Commit Suicide

Brooding Over Condition and Facing Separation From Children, Mrs. Sarah Farmer Drinks Laudanum, but Lives

Despairing of recovery from pellagra, a disease from which she has suffered for several months, and growing over the prospective separation from her three children whom she was preparing to turn over to her brother in Washington because of her ill health, Mrs. Sarah Farmer, thirty-nine years old, of 34 Gresham street, attempted suicide Saturday morning about 3 o'clock by drinking a ounce and a half of laudanum.

Mr. Farmer, her husband, discovered she had taken the poison a few minutes after she had done so and called a doctor. The doctor, however, was unable to reach the hospital, where she was given treatment. Hospital physicians say she will be able to return home in a day or two.

Mrs. Farmer, a widow with three children—a boy, aged seven, and two girls, aged nine and eleven—last November was married to her brother-in-law, Mr. Farmer, who was suffering from pellagra and so far has failed to respond to treatment. A few days ago she was informed that her brother, Dr. H. H. Farmer, of Washington, D. C., to take the children until her health improved.

Mr. Farmer is in Atlanta to arrange for taking the children back to Washington with him. The prospective separation from her children weighed heavily upon Mrs. Farmer. Friday her physician prescribed laudanum for her to take in small doses of a few drops at a time.

Mrs. Farmer went to give her husband medicine Saturday morning but found the bottle of laudanum was missing. She failed to discover the bottle and a search revealed the empty bottle behind the bed. Mr. Farmer then admitted he had taken the medicine with the intention of ending her life.

Capt. Tip Harrison Prefers Title Won To Title Bestowed

Not until the Associated Press on Saturday carried a dispatch telling of the appointment of General Joseph W. Preston, of Macon, to be commander of the Georgia division of Confederate veterans, did it become known that Harrison, of Atlanta, was relieved of duty.

General Harrison was elected at the reunion in Macon last fall, although he was not in the room when the vote was taken. He was elected by a vote of 100 to 1.

MERCURY WILL DROP TO 10 OR 12 DEGREES ATLANTA SUNDAY

Another Severe Cold Wave, Probably Worst of Winter, Is Promised by Official Weather Man

The chances favor a flurry of snow in Atlanta Saturday night, with falling temperature. At 6 o'clock Sunday morning the thermometer will register around 20 degrees below zero. During the forenoon it will be cloudy, but if there is any precipitation it is more likely to be snow than rain. During Sunday the mercury will go down steadily, reaching 10 or 12 degrees by Monday morning.

A temperature of 10 to 12 degrees Sunday night or Monday morning, which will be as cold as any winter Atlanta has experienced during the present winter, is predicted by Forecaster von Herrmann in his weather report today.

The northwest is now in the grip of a severe cold wave that is moving rapidly in this direction. It arrived at St. Louis Friday night and drove the thermometer down to 2 degrees.

The chances favor a flurry of snow in Atlanta Saturday night, with falling temperature. At 6 o'clock Sunday morning the thermometer will register around 20 degrees below zero. ## SHIP PURCHASE MEASURE IS TAKEN UP IN CAUCUS

Senate Democrats Are Working Hard in Effort to Perfect Bill

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Democrats of the senate in caucus today continued their efforts to perfect the administration ship purchase bill determined, if possible, to pass the measure at the present session. Details of the plan were outlined at a protracted session of the cabinet last night and fully discussed.

While all the steps the administration will take to acquiesce the people with its reasons for insisting on passage of the bill have been determined, one method used on calls for a speaking trip in the south by Secretary of the Interior, who will devote himself chiefly to the measure and President Wilson himself plans to discuss the bill fully in addresses before two large national conventions within a fortnight.

Notwithstanding the program of the Republicans of the senate calls for continued opposition to the ship purchase bill, President Wilson still does not admit the possibility of its failure. The fact that officials were going ahead today with plans for President Wilson's trip through the Panama canal to the San Francisco exposition following the adjournment of congress, was taken to indicate very clearly that administration leaders have no trace of an extra session.

It is thought probable that arguments of some Republican senators as to the possibility of complications with European countries through the purchase of ships of German or other belligerent nations will be answered in full by administration officials by the statement that the administration can be depended upon not to purchase any vessels which would cause trouble.

With the senate adjourned over until Monday Democratic senators met early today for an all-day session to discuss the ship purchase bill, hoping to reach a final agreement on all its features.

After four hours' debate, the caucus rejected Senator Hale Smith's amendment to provide that the bill should leave the ships to private concerns, instead of operating as a government-controlled corporation. Mr. Wheeler rejected a compromise suggestion that the government operate the ships except the European war and lease them to private corporations thereafter.

McCormick, former Illinois national committee chairman of the Progressive party and Progressive member of the Illinois legislature, today issued a statement explaining his acceptance of the invitation to attend the caucus of Republican legislators at Springfield and his efforts to aid in organizing the lower house of the general assembly. He said the largest number of letters J. P. Morgan, of the municipal court, had received from Republicans, as well as from Progressives, showed that undue importance has been given to my participation in the Republican caucus of the Illinois house of representatives because of the unintentional misquotation of my statement to the caucus, on the part of correspondents, who, of course, were not present. A purely personal explanation is necessary to clear up the country know why it is that on the passage of the ship purchase bill at the present session. Details of the plan were outlined at a protracted session of the cabinet last night and fully discussed.

Referring to the future of the Progressive party, he said: "It may be that in 1916 neither of the parties will want a program or put forward candidates who can be approved by the Progressive national convention, but if either of the older parties do so, it is probable that it will secure the support of the majority of the Progressive party. Some few, of course, especially in states like California, Colorado and Pennsylvania, will go to the Democratic party; some few, in states like New York, Indiana and Illinois, will go to the Republican party, without reference to collective action by the majority of the party."

PICTURES WILL SHOW CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

The pictures will give point to one of the purposes of the entertainment, the charity. The other purpose, that of raising a fund for the hospital, will be accomplished by the statement that the administration can be depended upon not to purchase any vessels which would cause trouble.

With the senate adjourned over until Monday Democratic senators met early today for an all-day session to discuss the ship purchase bill, hoping to reach a final agreement on all its features.

After four hours' debate, the caucus rejected Senator Hale Smith's amendment to provide that the bill should leave the ships to private concerns, instead of operating as a government-controlled corporation. Mr. Wheeler rejected a compromise suggestion that the government operate the ships except the European war and lease them to private corporations thereafter.

Many of the mothers were present. The presents were the Christmas gifts brought over by the United States and consisted of a great variety of toys. A number of the packages were accompanied by written messages conveying the good wishes of the children who sent them and were expressed in a most feeling manner. Every effort was made by the Paris officials to make the occasion one that would faithfully attest the deep feeling of gratitude of the French people to the allies. For this purpose the rooms of the beautiful building were thrown open to the public and a sentimental program was presented to the children. The selection of Franklin's birthday was the day for the ceremony. Madame Poincaré graciously lent her presence to the occasion and distributed many of the presents to the fortunate children.
