
THIRD WOMAN MURDERED IN YEAR IN AURORA, ILL.

Forty-Two Persons Held After Girl Is Found Beaten to Death on Street

(By Associated Press.)
AURORA, Ill., Feb. 26.—Forty-two suspects are being held by police in connection with the murder of Miss Emma Peterson, twenty-one years old, clubbed to death on the street here last night. Two other women have been killed here mysteriously in a similar manner within the last year.

An old woolen glove and a piece of gas pipe were found near the place where Miss Peterson was killed. Her handbag, opened and rifled, was found a block and a half away. The glove will be given to biologists for a scientific study.

FRENCH DESTROYER IS SENT TO BOTTOM OF ADRIATIC BY A MINE

Austrian mine off the port of Antivari (Montenegro) on February 24 and sank. Thirty-eight of the crew disappeared. The accident did not hinder finishing the work of provisioning and the return of the convoy.

The French cruiser Desaix made a demonstration against Akabah (Arabia) on February 24. A landing party, aided by the ship's cannon dispersed and put to flight a small band of Turks occupying the village.

The Desaix was 256 feet long and had a displacement of 720 tons. She was built in 1911 and was noted at a speed of 31.1 knots. Her complement was eighty-one men. She was armed with two 5.5-inch guns, four 3-pounders and four 18-inch torpedo tubes.

Again Austria Is Claiming Route to Enemy in Bukovina

(By Associated Press.)
COLOGNE, via London, Feb. 26.—After several days of artillery fighting, and in spite of great numerical superiority, the Austrians were driven from Buzin (Bukovina) which they had strongly fortified, according to a Bucharest dispatch. The Cologne Gazette, which reports that the Austrians had been driven from a point twelve and a half miles from the mouth of the Pruth river.

With this reverse, the correspondent says, the final Russian opposition in Bukovina is shattered and the province cleared of invaders.

Austrians Defeated by Small Army of Montenegrin Troops

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Feb. 26.—A Montenegrin column operating in Bosnia attacked Wednesday by a superior Austrian force, says a Cetinje dispatch to the Hava agency. After a violent action on the banks of the Drina, which lasted several hours, the Austrians were driven back and have been repulsed with considerable losses.

Turks Again Claim Damage— To Three Allied Warships

(By Associated Press.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—Three warships of the allies were damaged in the bombardment of the Dardanelles fort, February 25, according to an announcement issued by Turkish army headquarters here.

The text of the announcement follows: "Ten big armored vessels of the allies, 25 guns, bombarded the Turkish forts at the Dardanelles for 12 hours. As a result of this operation they retired in the direction of the island of Lemnos. The ship of the Agamemnon type and two other armored vessels were damaged by the fire from the forts on the Atlantic side of the straits."

It was announced from London last night that all the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles had been reduced by a continued British and French fire estimated at something over thirty vessels.

The English announcement made no mention of losses. It described the operations as successful and said they were continuing.

Efforts to force the Dardanelles, the key to Constantinople, have been in progress since the middle of December. In possession of this waterway which is 6 miles long and from one to three miles wide, the allies would not encounter any serious difficulty in making their way to Constantinople and training their guns on the Turkish capital. Turkey always has relied on the Dardanelles for protection from attack from sea.

It has been declared that with Constantinople in possession of the allies, a vast amount of Russian wheat would come out from the Black sea and be distributed to ports in France and England.

Possession of Constantinople also would have the effect of driving Turkish naval forces into the Black sea, where they could be without port of refuge.

Allies Prepare for Another German Lunge Against West

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Feb. 26.—The impression is gaining ground among British and French military critics that Germany is preparing for a fresh expeditionary energy in the land campaign in the west. Notwithstanding recent German successes in the east, the resiliency and recuperating powers of the Russian army seem to have convinced the German general staff that it is wisest to adopt the defensive in the Russian campaign while delivering another blow in the west.

If this rush comes, the allies will be well prepared to meet it. During the last few months it is decided changes for the better has taken place in the forces of the allies with reinforcements, big gun and more complete equipment, lack of which was keenly felt during the early stages of the war.

As against the expectation of a new German offensive in the west, the German theory is advanced in some quarters that the German attack in the east will be continued with the main idea of taking Warsaw from the north. Prasnaya, fifty miles north of Warsaw, now being in the hands of the Germans, according to their claims, it is probable a battle is now raging along the river Orze.

Belgians Recapture Trenches From the German Line

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—The war office today issued the communication: "The Belgian army has recaptured a small portion of the trenches which it had lost temporarily."

The British army reported in Belgium a German attack also gained 100 metres on La Bassée road.

German artillery displays considerable activity in the Aisne valley. Our batteries reduced it to silence in the afternoon.

In Champagne our progress continues.

We won some ground in the wood northwest of Perthes and north of Meulles-Hurlin. The engagement continued in the valley of the Meuse. At Juncelles-d'Orne we destroyed some machine gun shelters and wrecked the trenches of the enemy.

We made fresh progress in Bois Brule in the forest of Argonne. The Germans were driven from several communication trenches between trenches. They were subjected to heavy losses.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—No reply had been received today from Carranza to the representation the United States made against General Obregon's demand levying a heavy tax on foreigners and their properties in Mexico City. Protest have been made to the state department by the British and Spanish ambassadors.

The Carranza agency here today received this telegram from Laredo: "General Pablo Gonzalez, after receiving strong reinforcements, today began an attack on Monterrey."

The Villa agency announced General Mayorena had been ordered not to occupy nor menace Naco. His troops were reported in that vicinity.

200,000 Men Locked in Fierce Hand-to-Hand Fight

(By Associated Press.)
GONNEVA, Feb. 26.—(Via Paris.)—The fighting in the Carpathians is becoming rapidly much like siege warfare, according to dispatches reaching here.

Since February 13 these armies have hand to hand in the Carpathian trenches without making any material advance. The wounded are pouring into Ungvar and Sighet, in Hungary.

During the night of Friday, February 19, taking advantage of a lull in hostilities, the Austrians picked up at Svidnik 1,800 wounded and over 5,000 dead. The wounded had been lying on the ground, food or rations for eighteen hours without cover or shelter. A chief officer of the Austrian medical department is authority for the estimate that 70 per cent of them will be invalids for life.

A majority of the wounded at Svidnik were injured in the head by blows from rifle butts, and 20 per cent of them will be partially or totally blind.

TUBERCULOSIS CATECHISM OPPOSED IN CITY SCHOOLS

Children Will Not Be Made to Read Them Unless Parents
Give Consent

A petition signed by 150 persons objecting to the distribution in the public schools of a "Catechism on Tuberculosis," published by the Anti-Tuberculosis association, was presented to the board of education Thursday.

The objection is based on the argument that a child should not be taught the "horrors" of a disease because the fear instilled in its mind by such teaching will have a decidedly harmful effect.

"We have no objection to the study of methods of preserving health," the petitioners said, "but we do oppose a study of disease."

The petition was presented by Mrs. Joseph L. Cox, 133 East Eleventh street, and Mrs. M. I. Cushman, 273 Juniper street. Mrs. Cushman was formerly a school teacher and she told the board she was forced to instruct the children of her class about tuberculosis, and she had formed the definite and final conclusion from the effect on those children that the teaching was harmful.

George Buhanks, a member of the board, declared he favored a general distribution of the pamphlet and thought every child should be forced to study it.

However, the board adopted a resolution instructing the superintendent not to have the "catechism" distributed where the parents of the child objected.

The previous order of the board had been that each child be furnished with the pamphlet.

GORDON LEE WOULD CALL COOSA RIVER THE ALABAMA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 26.—From Washington comes the interesting news that Congressman Gordon Lee favors the changing of the name of the Coosa river to the Alabama. The Coosa is a tributary of the Alabama, and the congressman believes that the Coosa, being smaller and less important, suffers in appropriations for permanent improvements.

Heretofore, for sentimental reasons, the people of Rome and that section of Georgia, through the Coosa river, have been somewhat opposed to the change in name, which is favored by the people of Alabama. However, the recommendation of Congressman Lee will doubtless bear weight with them.

A World of New Fashions for the Young Folk In the Junior Department—Third Floor

One of the brightest, most interesting spots of the store is the Junior Department—Third Floor.

It is READY with the spring things for the young folk—so splendidly ready that it is just bound to be of interest to every mother, to every young woman.

We invite you to come and enjoy the new fashions we've gathered—suits, coats, dresses, hats. The display takes on the nature of an exhibition, so complete is it with novel out-of-the-ordinary styles.

Take for instance—

The New Hats

It really takes on the importance of a pre-Easter display.

For it seems that we've about every smart style that could be imagined for the tots, the girls and the young women.

For the tots, here's an infinite variety of lingerie bonnets; lacy, frilly and wreathed in flowers.

For the girls and young women come hats of distinctive and charming style, of varied styles, calculated to be becoming to the various young faces they will frame. There are hats with silk crowns, plain and hand embroidered; there are white Panama hats, and there are Milan straws in white and colors; there are sailors with wide brims; there are chic Tipperary shapes; there are the small pull-down shapes—these with every manner of flower and ribbon trimming and in every color—there are the dress hats of chiffon and lingerie.

And all priced so easily! At $1.25, $2.00, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 upwards to $15.00.

Girls' Dresses Priced

A few linen and lingerie dresses in sizes six to fourteen years are priced. All white, a bit mused, not every size of each style, but every size here.

At $2.00, $4.50, $6.00 to $8.50.
At $2.00, $3.00, $3.95 to $5.33.

Boys' $1 to $1.50 Suits 69c

Little Russian suits in sizes two to seven years—a variety, to be disposed of at 69c each!

Little "French" Dresses that just came in deserve special mention, so fresh and crisp and lovely are they.

In sizes one to six years; they are, we believe, prettier than we have ever shown at their prices, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 up to $5.00.

They are made of lawns, of dimities and the like—all white save for a rosette here and there and the ribbons run in beadings at the low waist and in sleeves and neck.

Girls' Wash Dresses

In sizes six to fourteen years and in intermediate sizes.

The collection is unusually large and attractive, even for the first bloom of spring, when every young woman must have new wash dresses for school and afternoons.

Dresses that show little coat effects, tiered skirts, skirts made on yokes, guimpe styles. These are developed in thoroughly dependable linens, limes, ginghams, piques and the like. Priced at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 upwards to $12.50.

"A girl should wear a pretty shoe
And smile if she is spoken to."

But it's not always easy to smile when wearing a "pretty shoe." Comfort is quite as important as prettiness.

Children's SOROSIS SHOES are as practical as they are pretty.

If you permit our experts to apply their knowledge and experience in choosing the shoes for your children they will be properly fitted. This method will relieve you of all responsibility and may save your children's feet from all the ills they are heir to.

And now that new spring styles have come in, it is the most appropriate time to make the children ready for the coming season.

DR. CHAPMAN ASKS POWER TO BREAK HUMAN HEARTS

Repentance; Not Mere Sorrow, Is What Is Needed, He Says

The sermon this evening in not a case, it is not taken up with a sermon, I speak to you with all tenderness—with all the tenderness which my soul possesses. I have prayed by the power that God will touch me, so as to break your hearts," was the keynote of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman's sermon Thursday night.

The sermon was quietly and restrainedly spoken, marked by the absence of the many striking gestures usually used by the evangelist. Only once did he lean upon his left arm with his left hand, clasping a small Bible, outstretched in a pointing gesture at the congregation—a characteristic movement familiar to those who have attended services at the Peachtree tabernacle.

Only once did he raise himself upon his feet, stretching above him toward heaven a Bible in his right hand; this was in quoting the words of Jesus: "I, even I am He that blot out the transgressions and will not remember them any more."

Then, bending forward, in a voice which seemed low, but which carried to the last row of the great wooden structure, Dr. Chapman spoke the words which have run like music through all of his sermons, the words which promise forgiveness to all who turn their hearts to God. "I have forgiven them, though they be as the sands of the sea, because you acknowledge them to Him, He'll forgive them."

TABERNACLE FILLED. Following the sermon of Wednesday night, "Your Sin Is Not Forgotten," Dr. Chapman's sermon Thursday night upon "What Do You Wish Your Sin to Be?" drew thousands of people crowded into the tabernacle; all of these, nearly a hundred walked by after the service and gave their names to God.

Never during the twelve days of the festival, did the congregation and choir which as they did Thursday night, Dr. Chapman led and exhorted the people like a man inspired; standing high on the little platform above the wooden pulpit, his commanding, frock-coated figure moved with the rhythm of the music, his hands, his voice, even his feet, which he stamped at times, united in holding out the promise of "I'll sing it," he would say, and four thousand throats did their best to obey his command.

One song, written by Dr. Chapman himself, entitled "What Do You Wish Your Sin to Be?" was sung to both the choir and congregation in less than three minutes by Dr. Alexander. Under the leadership of his leadership, the inspiring words and ringing music rocked the building, "Hail, all hail! Sing Hallelujahs to Jesus!" "Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!" "Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!"

STRIKING ILLUSTRATION. He shall be hidden with the cords of war, Dr. Chapman's text, and, in "Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!" "Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!" "Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!"

Everybody is sorry for their sin, never may anyone who wasn't sorry, sorry for their transgressions. That doesn't mean anything. I remember a young business man whom I knew, my arms, writhing in delirium tremens above him, and his mother, saying, "I would cry, and again, in moments of consciousness, 'Lucy, Lucy, I'm so sorry.' 'We're sorry, I received a letter from his wife's mother, saying that 'poor Charlie died last night, and I'm so sorry and still drink.' 'Repentance, not sorrow, is what is needed—and repentance is being so sorry for your sin that with God's help you'll give it up.'"

CORPORATION DIVIDENDS SUBJECT TO INCOME TAX

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Cash dividends paid by corporations after March 1, 1915, constitute taxable income which should be included in the income tax returns of individuals whose total income is more than $200.00, according to a ruling today by Commissioner Belmont. GENERAL CHURCH WORK DISCUSSED BY BAPTISTS

Men's Conference One of Most Interesting in Organization's History

Withholding assents in the work of the church were discussed during the last hours of the Baptist men's conference which ended Thursday night at the Baptist tabernacle after one of the most successful meetings in the organization's history.

With W. W. Gaines presiding at the afternoon session, speakers forcibly presented the need for more power on the part of laymen and clerics, young and old, in prayer, meeting, Sunday school, mission and charitable work.

Among those speaking were Rev. Gilbert Dobbs, of Commerce; Rev. W. E. Evans, of the "Prayer Meeting"; A. W. Evans, of Sandy Hill, on "The Baptist School and Mission"; F. H. Leavelle, secretary of the State Baptist Young People's Union; "The Union's Work in Georgia"; Dr. W. L. Pickard, president of the Georgia Baptist conference; Dr. J. M. Long, superintendent of the Georgia Baptist hospital; Dr. J. G. Powell, of Macon, on "Our Disabled Veterans."

Nov. 19, 1914: "All my life, until about a year ago, I was troubled with itching and burning sores over my entire body. The itching and burning was terrible and I could hardly sleep. I used many treatments that were unsuccessful and did not give me any relief. I started using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and they helped me wonderfully. School in Flames

Panic Is Averted By Brave Teacher

Miss Anna Campbell, Principal of Lakewood Heights School, Is Congratulated by Superintendent Merry.

While 436 pupils of the Lakewood Heights school, on Sawhill avenue, just outside the city limits, were huddled in their A B C's or studiously engaged at other tasks, Monday morning fire broke out in the roof and was burning fiercely when a frantic woman living in the neighborhood rushed in and cried fire!

Miss Anna Campbell, principal of the school, happened to be nearest the school hall when the excited person entered. Miss Campbell did not get into hysterics. Instead, she warned her own class to keep quiet, and then reaching for the school gun she gave the signal for a fire drill.

Instantly, the 436 children dropped their slates and books and formed into line in their classrooms. At another signal they marched out of the burning building and onto the lawn.

There they realized that the fire signal had been given for a sure reason. Fire, and when their excitement died down they were allowed to seek spots in the neighborhood where they could view the spectacle of the burning roof.

The teacher and a number of the oldest boys of the school climbed to the roof and the flames out with water and a fire extinguisher.

The building suffered only through the damage of the roof. The county superintendent, R. C. Merry, was immediately notified of the fire, and when he learned of the heroism of Miss Campbell he personally congratulated her on behalf of himself and for the county board.

The Present in the Light of the Past

President Washington wrote, in September, 1796:
"After deliberate examination, with the aid of the best lights I could obtain, I was well satisfied that our country, under all the circumstances of the case, had a right to take and was bound, in duty and interest, to take, a neutral position. Having taken it, I determined as early as should depend on me to maintain it with moderation, perseverance and firmness. The duty of holding a neutral conduct may be inferred, without anything more, from the obligation which justice and humanity impose on every nation, in cases in which it is free to act, to maintain inviolate the relations of peace and amity towards other nations."

President John Adams wrote, in May, 1797:
"It is my sincere desire to preserve peace and friendship with all nations. If we have committed errors and those can be demonstrated, we shall be willing to correct them; if we have done injuries, we shall be willing to make reparation; and if we have done wrong, we have a right to expect from every other nation."

President Jefferson wrote, in October, 1803:

"We have seen with sincere concern the flames of war lighted again in Europe, and nations with whom we have the most friendly and useful relations engaged in mutual destruction. In the course of this conflict, let it be our endeavor, as it is our interest and desire, to cultivate the friendship of the belligerent nations by every act of justice and of innocent kindness . . . to exact from every nation the observance towards our vessels and citizens of the principles of justice, and to call attention to the respect of the nations at war to fulfill its neutral obligations with the most scrupulous impartiality. . . . This unexceptionable course could not avoid the injustices and violence of the belligerent Powers. In their rage against each other, principles of retaliation have been introduced, equally contrary to universal reason and acknowledged law."

Three years later President Madison wrote, in the same connection:

"Under pretended blockades, without the presence of an adequate force, and sometimes without the practicability of applying one, our commerce has been plundered in every sea. And to render the outrage the more signal, these mock blockades have been enforced and enforced in the face of official communications from the British government, declaring as the true definition of a legal blockade, 'that particular ports must be actually invested and previous warning given to vessels bound to them not to enter.'"

Written more than a century ago, how true to present day circumstances are these words of the nation's forefathers! Washington's insistence upon firm neutrality, Adams' insistence that all the warring nations treat us "justly as we were treating them, Jefferson's insistence that the rights of American vessels and American citizens be respected, Madison's insistence that "pretended blockades" should not interfere with the commerce and the rightful interests of the United States.

The spirit that animated those great leaders, the policies they adopted and the service they rendered (we again in the course which President Wilson pursues in this trying juncture of the nation's foreign affairs.

Our forecast of more cold weather in February was justified. Look out for wind in March and showers in April.

Russia and the Bosphorus.

Sir Edward Grey's announcement in the House of Commons that Great Britain "is in entire accord with Russia's desire for access to the sea" forebodes one of the most important possibilities of the war. It suggests that if the Allies are ultimately victorious Russia will acquire Constantinople, and the Turks will be shovelled out of Europe.

Russia's natural approach to world commerce lies through the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles to the Aegean and the Mediterranean seas, and to gain that route has long been the dream of her diplomacy and the effort of her arms. Heretofore she has been opposed and thwarted by Great Britain, but now the British are favorably inclined, if not actually committed, to the Russian plan. The allied fleet is bombarding the Turkish defenses at the Dardanelles. If the attack is finally successful, Russia's warships, which are now bottled in the Black Sea, will be released, together with hundreds of Russian merchant vessels.

The Trade Commission:

The Standpat Republicans of the Senate are gnashing their teeth over the President's appointments to the Federal Trade Commission. Their interests have been slighted, they protest, and their feelings coldly disregarded. Of the five members the President has named, three are Democrats, one is a progressive Republican and the other a straight-out Progressive. "Bolts and shackles!" the Standpatters cry. "Is this all we are to get on a commission that will deal with the great corporations and have an important say-so in matters relating to the tariff?"

The law establishing the Trade Commission provides that not more than three of its members shall be of the same political party. The President is not bound to name any Republicans; certainly, he is not bound to name any Democrats; and he would have acted contrary to public interest. The fact is, the President considered chiefly the fitness of the men he nominated, and secondarily their politics. Yet, their politics, the feeling being used in its broader sense, was properly considered. A man who believed in special privileges for the trusts, who favored monopolies and a tariff arbitrarily high would be of no service on the Federal Trade Commission; rather, he would be a drawback and a danger. Naturally, Mr. Wilson appointed three Democrats, three real Democrats; and just as naturally, he appointed progressive rather than reactionary Republicans.

His nominations to membership on the Commission are: Joseph E. Davis, Democrat, of Wisconsin, now Commissioner of Corporations; William J. Harris, Democrat, of Georgia, now Director of the Census Bureau; W. H. Perry, progressive Republican, of Washington, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; and George H. Rublee, Progressive, of New Hampshire, a lawyer. The President spent more than three months and considered more than sixty eligible men before deciding upon these appointments. They are the result of searching investigation, governed by an earnest desire to serve the country's interests; as such they ought promptly to be confirmed.

Georgia is peculiarly gratified over the nomination of Mr. William J. Harris, of whose ability and character the people of this State have personal knowledge. As director of the Census Bureau, Mr. Harris has proved himself exceptionally competent. His business experience, his grasp of affairs and his loyalty to every public trust well qualify him for this responsible office.

The Federal Trade Commission has been aptly described as "a sort of mediating body, standing between corporations and Congress, and also serving as a kind of assistant to the Department of Justice; taking over entire the duties of the Bureau of Corporations, it will have to deal with a large number of questions relating to unfair trade practices, and to the general enforcement and reasonable application of the anti-trust laws." Another function of the Commission was suggested by President Wilson when he said in his Jackson Day speech at Indianapolis: "If by scientific treatment of the tariff, the Republicans mean adjustment to trade conditions of America and the world, then I am with them; and I want to call their attention, for though they voted for it, they apparently have not noticed it, to the fact that the bill which creates the Trade Commission provides for that very thing." The fact is, this Commission, with the right sort of personnel, will go far toward taking the tariff out of politics; and that is one of the major reasons why the Standpat Republicans are objecting to the President's appointments.

How time flies! Pretty soon we shall be receiving illustrated folders from the summer resorts.

What is needed now is an impartial historian to begin the writing of the history of the war.

Why shouldn't business improve? If it is picking up in the war zone, it is not surprising to see it get better a few thousand miles removed.

Editorial Echoes

German children have been asked to eat a little less sausage as a patriotic measure. The fact that there is a good deal less sausage will make it also a practical measure.—Courier-Journal.

We paid a visit to the town of Fair Bluff last week. Business conditions seem to be improving in that thriving little town. The merchants are looking better, and we did not hear anyone complain about the war. Judge Mulrow was presiding at the court with his usual ease and dignity. Two miles, hitched to a wagon and down Main street, scattering pedestrians and making things lively.—Whiteville News-Reporter.

According to Dr. Hadley of Yale, "the man who makes politics a profession and has a wife and children will have the choice of doing the which is not quite right and staying in office or doing that which is right and getting out of office, permitting his wife and children to starve." The statement is somewhat large and professorial, but if taken as a warning to the moral sense to be politicians should be bachelors.—New York Sun.

In the course of one of the all too few letters which I have for contemplation, for what Carlyle called "labelling one's thoughts," it occurred to me the other day that the significance is the original meaning of the word recreation. On theatrical managers speak of offering us entertainments, they speak of attractions—a hideous term—but recreations, recreation, how true a definition in one word of what our pleasures, our leisure hours ought to do for us. To recreate the fatigues of our souls, the worn body, to give it a new lease of life, to stimulate, to move, to cheer—that is the purpose of recreation; and art, particularly the art of the stage, has the power to accomplish that purpose.

Shakespeare Says--

When workmen enter to better what is well, They do confound their skill in covetousness; And oftentimes excusing of a fault, Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse. As patches set upon a little breach Discredit more in hiding of the fault Than did the fault before it was so patch'd.

—King John.

(The Journal welcomes short letters on reasonable subjects; but long epistles are not printed. Send all communications to the Editor.)

Editor The Journal:
I have just read your account of the signing of the treaty of Ghent in 1814. It brings vividly to my memory "Yankee Doodle" as sung by the negroes at corn-shuckings years ago when I was a boy. The music of "Yankee Doodle" is fully as inspiring as Dixie and I have wondered why the cause of American revolution had not brought it to the front as it was the only patriotic music used by the soldiers of the Revolution in 1776. I only remember it as sung and paraded in the dance around the first lighted bonfire after the capture of the British at Yorktown. I only remember these words: "Ole Massa's gone to Heben—Yankee Doodle, doodle, doodle, dandy now." If the Journal would print the song, I have no doubt it would be greatly appreciated by our readers.

The Ideal and the Job

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

ANYONE who writes me wanting to know how to decide between sticking to his ideals and earning a living, I tell him to stick to his ideals. He is an artist. As such, shall he paint only as the divine inspiration moves him, for which the money he gets is uncertain and small, or shall he lower himself to drawing illustrations for cigarette and soap advertisements, where profits are large?

William Dean Howells, the great publisher, the latter says: "I don't know much about art, but I know what the public wants, and you must change this, the first place, you shall be subject to this dictation, or stand for his own genius?"

My answer is: Cherish your own vision by all means, but without the creative work of one of our peculiar inspiration is poor stuff. But—there are several points to be noted.

First, the first place, you shall be subject to what your ideals are. And to find that out it is necessary to wrestle with the workaday world. Not only is labor the test of inspiration, it is also the channel of inspiration. Our private convictions are not much good until they are broadened into the events that come to us from destiny. Our environment is an integral factor of our personality. We do not know what we are, without passing through experience. It means that we are the resulting compound of the force that is in us and the forces that act upon us.

Another thing, the first duty of a man is not to "follow his ideals." It is rather to do some kind of work the world is willing to pay for. It is to earn a living, to take himself and his back to the street, to present to mankind a marketable equivalent for his bread, shelter, and warmth even him.

The Paul, went tents for a living and only wrote his epistles after he had sold the publisher of his lot to get something to eat. And it is not degrading to us to do with his might what his hand finds to do, to provide for his wife and babies.

I like the story, printed in a Chicago paper the other day, of a young man who had accumulated $2,000 by writing stories for magazines, yet who goes right on clicking in a hardware store, continuing his literary activities until, one day, we would be saved a deal of sorrow tragedy if all young men and women of genius would hang on to the job while setting forth to make a living by art and letters.

Besides this, it must be remembered that the same Delhi, the Atlanta newspaper says, has been in the world you live in. And it is not unreasonable to suppose that the world is as much inspired in its way as you are.

John Wesley used to say to his young preachers something to the effect that when God calls a man to preach, let him somebody to hear him. Let us not despise our time, nor the people of it, nor the demands of it. If we learn to understand and interpret our surroundings, to feel the zeitgeist, to read the message of events, and to follow the lead of the people who fate sends us; and if we respond to the call of the world, we shall find ourselves much more quickly, and be not only true to our own ideals, but we shall find more agreeable to the folk that have to do with us.

TRAVELETTE

BY JEROME.

NO. 145—JEYPORE.
There is only one city in the world that is truly built to order—every street and house conforming to a right plan of architectural design and even carrying the faithfulness to the color of the paint. That city is what Kipling called a dream of pink and blue—Jeyapore.

A long time ago, the maharajah of Jeyapore had his seat in a typical Indian city in the hills. About the time the thirteen American colonies were fighting for their independence, this Indian ruler moved down into the plains and built a city according to his own ideas.

The streets were laid out on the plan of a chessboard, and with an amplitude that surpasses even the generosity of Washington, to be planned a few years ago.

THE RUSSIAN DEFEAT

OTTE Berlin and Petrograd speak of the battle of the Masur region; but the decisive blow in the latest German victory was delivered at some distance from the Masur region. It was the battle of the Niemen river, where flows from east to west and enters Prussian territory as the stem. Here the German army, under the command of the Kaiser, against the Russian right wing, which turned and fled. No other interpretation is possible of the official Russian statement right after the battle. The Russian army was defeated, and the German army was victorious. The Russian army was defeated, and the German army was victorious. The Russian army was defeated, and the German army was victorious.

The moral effect of the German victory are obvious. Once more the immense superiority of the Kaiser's forces has been demonstrated, man for man. More emphatic is the established superiority of the German command. In no way is the efficiency of an army's leadership so tested as in the course of retreat. The ease with which huge numbers of Russian prisoners are captured after their defeat is a reflection on the fighting qualities of the Russian soldier than on the abilities of the corps commanders. The Russian army has demonstrated its fighting qualities. It is true that at no time have the Russians given such a good account of themselves as they did at the battle of the Niemen. But even from the German side it is admitted that the Russians fought with courage. If they were not the time of thousands after every victory, it is primarily the fault of their commanders. This General Hindenburg's first victory in November 1914, he gained over a single advance corps of about 28,000 men, or more than half the corps, were taken captive. Two corps, rushed up to their aid, were defeated. The German army is the most powerful army. It is impossible to imagine the German forces thus exposed to separate defeat because of imperfect co-ordination.

With at least half its numbers gone, the Tenth Russian army, now driven from east Prussia, comes to the aid of the German army. It is a measure of the Russian claim that "strategically" the defeat is the Russian's. The Russian army is a great army. It is a measure of the Russian claim that "strategically" the defeat is the Russian's. The Russian army is a great army. FEDERAL DETECTIVE BUREAUS

L.—The Secret Service

THE men of all the detective agencies of the government, surrounded by an atmosphere of romance such as attaches to no other organization of its kind in America, the secret service represented in the United States, are now going forth in the guise of a slough. Yet the secret service is but one of a dozen detective bureaus of the government. Several of them are larger than the secret service. Some of them cover a much wider field of activity. But the secret service is the most important of them, and the one that has gained first place in the public consciousness.

The activities of the secret service are limited by the fact that it is a bureau of the government, and its work is to protect the coin and currency of the nation, and to the protection of the president. It has a small body of men, but the number of employees of the secret service is not small. The chief duty of these detectives is to prevent counterfeiters from duplicating the money of the nation and from using it in the commerce of its circulating medium. It is no easy task, for every criminal in the nation sees the vision of unlimited wealth if he can but print a bill or a check that is distinguished from the government-made currency.

One of a few months ago, bank tellers in St. Louis and Kansas City were busy with the counterfeit money of the United States. One of these was immediately sent to the Kansas City headquarters of the secret service. There an experienced man in the field was charged with the task of the bill convinced him that he was familiar with the workmanship of it. Every man who engraves a plate is bound to allow his individuality to steal into the work. The secret service has a man who can recognize their production just as an art connoisseur can tell that a painting is by Reynolds or Gainsborough the moment he sees it.

So this secret service agent knew the counterfeit was made by a certain man who was an old offender who, he remembered, was serving a term in Leavenworth. He called up the warden of the penitentiary and found that the suspect had recently been discharged. He immediately went to the man's home in Washington and was told that the whereabouts of the old offender were known, for it is the policy of the service to keep track of all criminals. His arrest and conviction soon followed.

This is the simplest sort of case. A bit different in the working out was that of a frank and attractive young man who appeared at the race track of a western city and bet hundred-dollar bills on various horses. Someone suspected that the bills were counterfeit and a secret service man was called into the case. The man was arrested.

He acknowledged betting the bills in question. He produced twenty-nine more of them from an inner pocket. He stated that he had found an envelope full of them in the railway station the day before. He said that he had wanted to return them to the owner and had placed an advertisement in the papers to that effect. He showed the advertisement. He had bet the money from indifference, as he had plenty of other money to make it up in case the owner was found.

So plausible was his story that his accusers were almost convinced that he made a single mistake as to the bills he was lying with. He was, however, furnished sufficient detail. He had left the advertisement at one of the newspaper offices two hours before the arrest.

The value of the Japanese paper fabric "kamiko" for winter clothing was demonstrated by the Japanese soldiers when they were compelled to undergo the hardships of a Siberian winter. All of them wore paper underwear and vests, and these are not only warmer, but more comfortable than flannels. The only objection to this kind of clothing is that it is not washable; but this does not seem to be considered a drawback for military purposes; for the Russian army, profiting by what it learned from the little brown men in the Russo-Japanese war, is now making use of the same material in its winter campaign against Austria. Japanese firms in Yokohama are making most of this clothing for the Russian army.

The clothing called "kamiko" is made from a paper manufactured of the bark of the mulberry tree. A thin sheet of paper is placed between two sheets of the paper, and the fabric is then quilted. The garment that will keep the body at a remarkably uniform temperature.

These paper garments are not at all fragile, but wear well, and buttons may be sewed upon them in the usual way. They are made of a material that costs but for about $1, but in large quantities, they are chased for military use, the material is, of course, expensive, and doubtless is much less expensive than wool.

until it strikes the Vistula in the neighborhood of Ploensk. That the Russians will here make an obstinate resistance is to be predicted from the president of the United States. The Russian army is a great army. It is a measure of the Russian claim that "strategically" the defeat is the Russian's. The Russian army is a great army. So the suspect in this case was left alone for a week. In the meantime his past was investigated. It was found that he had a printing shop in New England town. He was a skilled engraver. He had once worked in the secret service, but he was not a member of the secret service. He was a skilled engraver. He had once worked in the secret service, but he was not a member of the secret service. He was a skilled engraver. He had once worked in the secret service, but he was not a member of the secret service.

There is a little, wrinkled, red-whiskered man down in the Kansas penitentiary who has probably counterfeited more of the note issues of the world than any other man who ever lived. His name is John Schmidt, and William J. Flynn, the head of the secret service, was his nemesis. It was as far back as 1897 that Flynn, then a mere operative with the bureau, first met John Schmidt. The man was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers. Flynn was a little, wrinkled, red-whiskered man, and he was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers. Flynn was a little, wrinkled, red-whiskered man, and he was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers.

A condition to Schmidt's immunity was that he should not go to Berlin, of which city he was a native. He was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers. Flynn was a little, wrinkled, red-whiskered man, and he was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers.

It was a year later that the secret service, through its careful supervision of the sources of supply of the materials that are used in making spurious money, found that such materials were being sent to a small New England town. They were traced to a certain house. Flynn himself raided the house and found the materials. He was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers.

A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, had been asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office after the signature of a witness to the matrimonial ceremony.

He consented, but when the scene was reached he was told that the mayor was not there. He was a scoundrel, and he was on at Gravesend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers.

Just as the mayor was ready for the last formalities, he broke out, to the astonishment of all parties, with the words: "Gentlemen, cannot this unhappy affair be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this and occurrence?"

J. P. NICHOLS IS LEADING GEORGIA BAPTIST LAYMEN

Church Entrusts Griffin Business Man With Many Important Duties

BY REV. A. W. BRADLEY.
J. P. Nichols is looked upon among the Baptists as the leading layman in the state. He is an unusually busy man and for that reason his brethren have laid their hands upon him and have committed great tasks into his hands. In Griffin, his home town, he is president of one bank and director in another. He is president of one cotton mill and treasurer of another. He has the unlimited confidence of the business world of his home town.

Recognizing his ability the First Baptist church to which he belongs elected him as one of its deacons and then put him at the head of the Sunday school by electing him superintendent. The First River association to which the Griffin church belongs appointed him as chairman of the laymen's committee. When the state association appointed him as chairman of the laymen's committee for the whole state. Through his efforts this Baptist assembly was made possible. In addition to all of these things Mr. Nichols is elected president of the Georgia Baptist assembly whose annual convocation is held at Blue Ridge.

Mr. Nichols believes in and practices the injunction of Jesus "seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness" and all these things (material interests) shall be added unto you. He is a man who is too busy to do anything that would advance the interest of the Lord's cause.

WANT LAKEWOOD MADE PART OF PARK SYSTEM

Chamber Committee Would Have It Conducted as Other City Parks Are

That Lakewood park be made a regular part of the city park system, just as Piedmont park and Grant park are now, with free bathing facilities, a public golf links, adequate tennis courts, baseball diamonds and playgrounds for children, was proposed to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Thursday by the chamber's committee on parks and playgrounds, of which Albert S. Adams is chairman. The question will probably be taken up with the park board in the near future. The recommendations of the chamber's committee provide that only that part of Lakewood be made a part of the park system which will not be used directly by the Southeastern Fair association; that the park shall not be rented, but be placed under direct control of the park department, with proper police protection and other features which are now characteristic of other parks in the city; and that a comprehensive plan of landscape development be adopted which shall make Lakewood one of the finest recreation centers in the south.

MAKES STUDY OF NEGRO IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

Ernest Sevier Cox, of Knoxville, Tenn., Will Put His Findings in Book Form

After five years Ernest Sevier Cox, of Knoxville, Tenn., has traveled the earth over studying the negro problem. Now his labors completed, he is preparing a book, "The Negro in the World," which will be published in book form. Cox, who is a sociologist, a graduate of Vanderbilt University and a post-graduate of the University of Chicago, for years a resident of the South, he was intimate with the negro problem, and through much study the conviction came upon him that the negro was not a race but a color. He has written a book on the negro in Africa, visiting at least one negro colony of each European power. He has also written a book on the negro in the East, and a book on the negro in the West. He has also written a book on the negro in the South, and a book on the negro in the North. He has also written a book on the negro in the East, and a book on the negro in the West. Everybody is asking how we can sell for $3.00 and $3.50 a shoe which seems to equal the $5.00 kind in every way. Even leather salesmen and shoe machinery agents can't understand how we do it, and they know what goes into our shoes as well as into the other fellows'. They will tell you that the materials, construction and workmanship of Hanovers are identical with $5 shoes.

PRESENTS NEW VIEW ABOUT BREAKING JAIL

Moonshiner Denies "Breaking" Out—Says He Just Walked With Others

It is possible for a man to escape from jail involuntarily, according to the viewpoint of Jim Jones, a moonshiner from Murray county, who, after being rearrested, was arraigned before Judge Newman in the federal court Friday morning.

Jones left the jail at Home last December with four or five other prisoners. He had served less than thirty days of a four-month term. "Why did you escape?" asked the court.

"I didn't, your honor," Jones, a red-headed man past middle age, replied. "You see, some other fellows got out. I simply followed them."

"They broke the jail; you simply walked out," the court commented. Judge Newman decided to allow Jones to continue serving his sentence at the Fulton county jail. He told Assistant District Attorney Hensley to look further into the case and see what action the government should take on the escape feature.

WOMEN GIVE FUNDS FOR AID OF NEGRO SCHOOL

Two checks for $100 each have been received by Captain J. W. English for use in buying up purchase money notes of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, the negro training school. These contributions were the result of a few letters from Rev. Richard D.

Stinson, president of the school, advising friends of the school of the urgent needs. They were sent by Mrs. G. F. Swift, of Chicago, and Miss Mary E. Converse, of Philadelphia. Miss Converse is the daughter of the late John Converse, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works. Both she and Mrs. Swift have taken a considerable interest in the work of industrial training among the negroes.

Waleska, in Cherokee county, on Wednesday night by R. E. Tuttle, a deputy revenue officer and Tom Curtis and W. A. Kemp. They found 4,000 gallons of beer and elaborate equipment. The operators of the still were not caught. Incidentally the men were almost drowned in crossing a swollen creek against the advice of a married doctor. They had to cut down two horses from the buggy and swim out.

"Fighting Carpenter" Has the Best of Five Rounds—Abel Gets One, and Rest Are Even—Bout One of Best Ever Staged in the City

By Innis Brown

In the absence of late dispatches, there is no way of telling just how long Frankie Howard, the Jacksonville fight phenom, spent last evening, or than that he is at present sojourning in the city of Havana. But Howard suddenly awoke to find himself in the midst of a tornado, he was blown himself on the fact that he was in Havana, rather than in Jacksonville. A south-east wind entered into him with a force which he had never experienced before. He was blown into a Kansas cyclone would have used Howard any rougher than a wind, had the Jacksonville cyclone been as strong as this.

Howard's inference is drawn from the fact that the "Fighting Carpenter" has been in the city of Havana, rather than in Jacksonville. Gleam of Light

BY GRANTLAND RICE

According to Mr. Kipling "The Colonel's lady and Julia O'Grady are sisters under the skin."

In the same way the spirits of John Franklin Baker and of Ralph Waldo Emerson are not so far apart as one might imagine the space to be between a home run hitter and a poet-philosopher.

Emerson, when he decided to quit the game, expressed the idea as follows:

"Good-by, proud world, I'm going home;
Thou art not my friend, and I'm not thine;
Long through the weary crowd I roam
A river-king on the ocean brine.
Long I've been tossed by the driven foam:
But now, proud world, I'm going home."

Baker expressed the same idea in a slightly different way. But evidently the two might well have been "brothers under the skin."

GREAT ENTERPRISE.

This is no chaffing matter. Messrs Ford and Ade are to be congratulated for having devised one of the greatest of all boons to humanity. There are now 700,000 golfers in America. The families of these golfers number at least 2,000,000. In addition there are outside friends to the number of 10,000,000.

So the Willing Ears Co., Ltd., appeals directly to at least 13,700,000 folks! In addition, when the company is fully organized it will furnish employment to 700,000 men, and possibly a great many more, as most golfers will want at least two Willing Ears around. So that means over 14,000,000 people—men, women and children, affected by this miraculous organization.

STILL ON THE JOB.

Home-run Baker has quit baseball for the farm; Hobe Baker is going to quit New York for St. Paul, and Homer Baker is planning to quit the running game for cycle racing.

But those bakers in charge of the bread supply are entirely willing to stay put without the semblance of a shift—save in price.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

Brave kings and emperors and counsellors. Who graven low responses unto the cheer. Who, if they had to face one peasant's charge, Would find their yellow souls torn out by fear.

Why haven't baseball conditions been greatly improved for the players? H. L. K. G. to know, "Isn't the player getting more money than he ever got before?"

Many of them are. But how about those 600 players who will be present by May through the inability of club owners to stand the heavy tax? Are conditions improved where those getting good money receive additional kale at the expense of those barely making a living?

SACRIFICED HITS.

Walter Johnson's period of partial unpopularity still has six weeks to run—up to 4 p. m. on the afternoon of April 14, when he pitches his first shut out.

Few ball players have any tendency to step away from the plate when the old dinner zone begins to boom.

It's easy enough to pan Buck Herzog for cutting Dick Hoblitzel adrift. Hobby later on in 58 games batted .319 for the Red Sox. But batting .319 for the Red Sox was of no great help to the Reds where in 78 games Hoblitzel batted .210 and stole only seven bases. Herzog might count with the old Irish.

"If he be no good for me, What care I how great he be?"

Yale is going back for help to the Old Guard that held only the tradition of victory. With Hinkley in charge of club owners to stand the heavy tax. It is easy enough to see just how that 360-sinner from last fall jolted the Bull Dog, for when November arrives the final ounce of preparation will have been packed on with nothing overlooked.

F. Welsh Wins Press Decision Over C. White

Lightweight King Had Better of Five Rounds, While Three Went to White and Two Were Even—The Champion Showed Speed—White Finished Strong

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 25.—Freddie Welsh outboxed Charlie White in a ten-round decision boxing contest at the Auditorium last night, according to the almost unanimous opinion of sporting writers. Welsh appeared to have had the advantage of five rounds, the third to seventh inclusive. White shaded his opponent in the ninth and tenth and the first, second and eighth appeared to be even.

The Englishman had White at his mercy during most of the fight, being fast and clever and getting away without punishment. White was slow and seemed unable to solve Welsh's whirlwind attack.

In the earlier rounds Welsh set a brisk pace but found White willing to fight. White waited carefully for openings, evidently hoping to smother in the left hand, which was his chief effort of no avail. White seemed more confident than in their former meeting and the first two rounds seemed to spectators to be fairly even.

White's fast left jab did an excellent execution in the third and fairly smothered the Chickadee, who fought back wildly. Freddie landed half a dozen punches to Charlie's face without a rapid return. White was slow and seemed accidentally landed loss, but apparently did no damage to Welsh. White's accuracy was not to his credit, but his punches were avoided or checked by the champion's left jab. Freddie danced around the challenger, landing almost at will in the fifth and sixth rounds and Welsh was left with a sore head and a landed hit frequently. White continually tried to whip in his left, but Welsh was too shifty.

White's eyes were puffed and he became so wild in the seventh and eighth that the crowd began to hoot. Welsh timed his blows carefully and drove them in almost without return. White landed a clean, hard left to the body in the eighth.

White made a desperate attempt to counter in the ninth and came out of his corner with a rush, swinging both hands. He landed several times, but his punches apparently did not slow the champion, although his aggressiveness gave him a little the better of the round. In the opinion of experts, he continued his rushing tactics in the final round and Welsh was left with a sore head and a landed hit frequently. White continually tried to whip in his left, but Welsh was too shifty.

Griffin Lands Berth In Georgia-Alabama League

MEMPHIS, Ga., Feb. 25.—At an adjourned meeting of the Georgia-Alabama league held here Thursday night, it was voted on the heels and berths for the league and the franchise turned over to Griffin, Ga., a cash consideration.

The president of the league will therefore be Griffin, LaGrange, Newnan and Rome in Georgia and Anniston and Talladega in Alabama.

It was also decided that a 40-game schedule would be used, but with the proviso that if at the end of this time the clubs saw fit, they could increase the schedule to 50 games. This provides for one season.

Every club was represented at the meeting but Rome. Her proxy was held by Anniston.

The salary limit remained at $750 as agreed upon at the meeting in Talladega, though some of the clubs made a fight to have it raised to $850.

Cubs Pack Kits For Training Camps

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Barnes was packed for members of the Chicago club of the National league today for their departure tonight on their spring training trip to Tampa, Fla.

Only eleven players, including Manager Roger Bresnahan, will leave from here, the others going to the training camp direct from their homes or joining the squad en route. President Charles Thomas plans to spend a week in the south watching his players in their early practice.

The squad is due to reach Tampa on Sunday and work will be started on Monday.

Trailing the News

BY INNIS BROWN

If reports sent out to New Orleans papers are correct, the baseball outfit in Little Rock for the coming season is not what might be termed rosy. It appears that the Arkansas city is in a bad way over playing grounds, and also that much of the money, which was subscribed by business men and others of the city for having the Montgomery franchise last fall, is yet to be paid in, and the organization is handicapped by a lack of funds.

Manager Bill Smith stated when he returned from the league meeting last week that the situation did not look especially promising to him. He says Bob Allen is very much up in the air over the proposition, and that with the time for starting practice work so close at hand, the pilot of the Traveler is growing very nervous over the situation. It is hinted in the dispatches to the New Orleans paper that another transfer of the franchise may be made before the season is finished. Knoxville, Tenn., is favored as the next choice, in case a further change is made.

Notice Given Johnson by Feds

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Water

who pitched for the Chicago Cubs, has been notified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that he has been placed on the same list as the other players who were notified last fall. The list was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, until after United States District Judge Landis announces his decision in the Federal league anti-trust suit.

This decision may determine Johnson's case. Tinker said, "and I understand he's decided to go with the Cubs. Landis decides he belongs."

For a speech. He modestly declined, however, and in lieu thereof, the club made a speech by proxy of what would have said, etc.
