

ATLANTA NUMBER OF THE ROTARIAN IS OUT

Regular March Issue Is Devoted Largely to Atlanta and Vicinity

The "Atlanta Number" of the Rotarian, official organ of the International Association of Rotary clubs, has just reached this city. It is the regular March issue but is devoted largely to Atlanta and vicinity. Each monthly issue of this magazine features some city that has a large and successful Rotary club. It has a circulation of 16,000 and is distributed almost exclusively among the more prominent business men of our city.

The front cover is most attractive. It depicts a scene showing a view of the center of the city, many of the most prominent office buildings showing in the distance. The main street scene is that of the Peace monument occurring in front of the Candler building. The Peace monument with the single word "Atlanta" inscribed on it, occurs in the famous Underneath the Hills, "Fifty Years of Peace and Plenty."

On the back of the front cover is a column of comments from a peace advertisement headed "Why is Atlanta?"

This recites briefly, but effectively, the advantages of Atlanta as a financial and manufacturing center, as well as a place of residence. The frontispiece is that of a bust of a young man, identical to the fact that the same ground is now occupied by skyscrapers. Pictures of the city are given in the pages of health and beauty. Then follows terse statements of the city's business life—post-office, railroads, banks, manufacturing, schools and public buildings.

A timely and interesting article entitled "Courting Public Favor" is contained in the March issue. It also explains some of the difficulties incident to the new railway business of a company merged in the Georgia Railway and Electric company handles not only the everyday crowds, but those in attendance at conventions, and the like.

Frank L. Stanton, president of the Atlanta convention bureau, contributes an article under the heading "Hunting Big Game in Conventionsland." He writes from no less than 200 cities, and the work of Mr. Allen and his associates will be best appreciated when one considers that he is the public relations hostess to 144 conventions during 1914.

H. G. Hastings concludes the Atlanta section with a most interesting and informative article entitled "The Agriculture of the Great South." He discusses the great contributions of soil and climate and predicts that she will yet enjoy the greatest prosperity of any section of the country.

Practically every member of the Atlanta Rotary club assisted in making the Atlanta number. Seven members contributed articles of both practical and historical value, while the names of the others are mentioned in the list of their business interests.

John E. Allen, president of the Atlanta convention bureau, contributes an article under the heading "Hunting Big Game in Conventionsland." He writes from no less than 200 cities, and the work of Mr. Allen and his associates will be best appreciated when one considers that he is the public relations hostess to 144 conventions during 1914.

ENDER BOUND OVER

Frank Ender, a young man about eighteen years old, was bound over by Judge Thomas of the Municipal court, Saturday, for breaking into a home, taking her purse $10. The burglar, who was a negro man, jumped out of an alley, grabbed her bag, then ran up the steps to the roof and escaped.

She screamed for assistance and passed by—summoned the police, who failed to discover any trace of the negro.

ONE FALSE NOTE

in music spoils the effect of the whole composition. It may be as clear and pure as any of the others, but it will not harmonize with the whole.

One false line in a suit of clothes makes a discord which spoils the effect of the suit. Every line must harmonize with the others to make an artistic whole.

THE BATTLE FRONT.

Petrograd, Russia, March 9, via London.

The number of head and arm wounds of the men at the front is enormous, for most are trench exactions and heads and arms. Many hundreds are hit in the head and death does not result from the wound. Occasionally one may see the slightly wounded walk back to the front, having been hit in the head, but not up to a soldier's heart. Motor cars are loaded with wounded tear along the roads leading back from the extreme front. Perhaps 40 per cent of the wounded are back on the firing line after three months, care and rest in a hospital. It is upon the soldier's health that the war depends.

If the "wood" is pure and good, the soldier gets the first aid, proper treatment, and his wounds heal by first intention.

Good blood is everything to every man. It means health, strength, nerve, good digestion, good circulation. Those who have fed Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery marvel at the way it to-day kills skin all broken out; see a man two weeks later after taking "Disevery" and he is clean up, color bright and he is content with himself.

The foundation of good health is good blood! Are you pale? Are you weak? Are you no longer ambitious or energetic? Have you plump or bony? Then you are not healthy—your blood is poor! Then you are anaemic—your blood is thin, lacking in healthy, strength-giving red corpuscles. Your blood is impure—and your liver is not up to its task of clearing the blood from the poison of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a temperance remedy that will taste good to you. It is a blood tonic, remedy proved by experience (in tablet or liquid form). It is a glycemic, a diuretic, a diaphoretic, a tonic to science as those which will best give the stomach, liver and bowels needed help.—(Advt.)

SAGE TEA PUTS LIFE AND COLOR IN HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautiful and dark and lustrous almost overnight. Dr. Chapman's Sage Tea—Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of it have been sold. Dr. Chapman sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally that nobody can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, he continues, "dry, gray and thin" have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray disappears, your locks are luxuriantly dark and beautiful—dark, dark, goes, scalp itching and falling hair.

This is the age of beauty, Dr. Chapman says. "It is the age of beauty, and you can get beauty with Weyl's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a week."—(Advt.)

WAR WILL KEEP OPERA STARS OUT OF EUROPE

Many Metropolitan Members Will Remain in U. S. During Summer

NEW YORK, March 9.—For the first time in the history of the Metropolitans the company expect this year to spend the summer in the United States instead of staying home in May with their earnings.

The war is responsible. It was said today that the opera season's entry into the war was sufficiently probable to induce the majority of the Italian stars to remain in the United States instead of going abroad. The Germans have no means of going home.

Giuseppe Di Stefano, Cazzara is expected to stay here part of the summer and will keep his singers together so he will not be compelled to go to Italy in assembling them as he faced last fall.

JITNEY BUS REGULATION ORDINANCE GOES OVER

Councilman Lee Admits Mr. Arkwright Aided in Drafting Measure

The completion of the public hearing on the jitney bus ordinance was postponed indefinitely Monday afternoon in order that councilmen may secure and attain legislation on the subject of the ordinance, which has been passed by other cities.

Probably after automobile men and prominent citizens of Atlanta and other representatives of the Georgia Rail way and Power company were present and other railroads and street cars took up the consideration of the ordinance.

Opposition was led by Councilman Jesse E. Lee, who introduced the ordinance in the session beginning last week.

Lee, in his speech, said he had drafted it in collaboration with F. S. Arkwright, of the power company.

Councilman Claude L. Ashby, pleading that the request of the jitney men for a delay of the hearing be granted, said the ordinance did not give time to confer or to secure data on which to base their arguments and defend the ordinance.

The power company, on the other hand, he said, was ready for the hearing.

Chairman Lee and his committee took the floor and stated that he had drawn the ordinance in collaboration with F. S. Arkwright.

EXTENSION OF CITY FIRE LIMITS TO BE DISCUSSED

Special Committee From the Board of Firemusters Meets Tuesday Afternoon

A special committee from the board of firemusters will meet Tuesday afternoon to discuss proposed extension of the city limits.

Fire insurance representatives have recommended an extension of the limits for several years, and the appointment of the subcommittee at the last session of the firemusters was the last step in that direction.

The subcommittee, which is headed by A. W. Cummings, has consulted with State Inspector Ed R. Hall and with Capt. W. B. Cummings, of the fire department, and it is believed that they will probably favor the extension of the limits.

At present the city has two fire limits—the inner limit, all buildings must be constructed with fire-proof walls and roofs. In the outer limits only fire-proof structures are allowed.

The inner limit and the outer limits are expected to be extended if present plans are carried out.

The present outer fire limits on Peachtree street, for instance, in Baker street. This may be extended to Peachtree and possibly to Ponce de Leon avenue.

On Edgewood avenue, the limit is now about 100 feet, but it will likely be extended across the railroad bridge. Similar extensions on the other sides of the city are expected.

The subcommittee expects to go thoroughly into proposed extension and will likely hold several meetings before reporting to the board of firemusters.

"NO BILL" IS REPORTED IN EMIL DITTLER CASE

Grand Jury Fails to Return Indictment Following Collision Probe

The Fulton county grand jury refused to return a bill against Emil Dittler on a charge of manslaughter for killing Fireman Charles A. Lowe in an automobile collision Sunday, February 2.

Dittler, driving south on Washington street in a six-cylinder White, was east on Peachtree avenue when his fire apparatus responded to an alarm. Fireman Lowe was hurled to the ground and died of his injuries in the justice. Several other firemen were hurt. Damage suits aggregating $70,000 have been filed against Dittler in the city court, growing out of the accident.

COFFEE COUNTY FARMERS ARE RAISING FOOD CROPS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) DOUGLASS, Ga., March 9.—The farmers of Coffee county are busy laying their plans for making a crop this year, looking forward to a better year than from previous years.

It is conservatively estimated that the county, with a population of 10,000, will not use more than 60 per cent of the amount of commercial fertilizers that the county used in 1914. The county will be moderately diversified, as more attention is being given to raising food crops.

Three decided interests in Coffee county. This year will be watermelons, cotton and corn. The cotton acreages are now that considerable acreage will be planted in each of these three years.

The tobacco growers are making special arrangements and are building their packing houses now.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE PASSED PRIMARY LAWS

This measure, which was introduced by a state commission, is an either result of the session. A bill respecting the joint nomination of candidates of all paid lobbyists and one providing means for arbitration of disputes between labor and capital also became laws.

March so far has been mostly fine.

The war still seems to be a case of keeping up front.

What has become of the water wagon that started out so gaily on January 1?

The Legacies of Militarism.

The London Economist estimates that the first seven months of the war have added to the debts of the five great belligerents a total of more than ten billion dollars, of which two and a half billion each is borne by Russia and Germany, one billion eight hundred million each by France and Austria-Hungary, and one and a half billion by Great Britain. It is calculated, moreover, that if the war continues through the current year, the debts of these nations on January the first, 1916, will be: Russia, $9,600,000,000; Germany, $7,500,000,000; France, $11,000,000,000; Austria-Hungary, $6,600,000,000; and Great Britain, $7,800,000,000—a total of $42,500,000,000.

What a fearful burden for the people of Europe! What a terrible tax upon the mass of men, by whose hard earnings the weight of this vast debt must be lifted! For years, the cost of war preparation has been well-nigh unbearable; and now the cost of war itself threatens to be overwhelming. To the victors, it will be heavy enough, whatever their requisites; to the vanquished, it will be almost fatally crushing.

Whether or not the economic folly of war will lead eventually to universal and enduring peace, it seems certain that in the dark aftermath of this war, the people of Europe will think more intently and profoundly than ever before upon the tragic issue of militarism. Through poverty and suffering, they will come face to face with the frightful legacies of war. They will learn that the horror of the battlefield is merely a prologue to innumerable other horrors that come and linger when the fighting is over. It will be only natural if this war is followed by revolutions, of one kind or another, against the tyranny of great armaments.

A little later still more Turkish cigarette factories will have to be moved to America.

After this war is over maybe we won't have another for a hundred years. By then most of us won't care.

The opening sale of grand opera seats wouldadden any pessimist. We really believe we could support two grand operas.

American Cotton Shipments.

For American cotton interests, there is much comfort in the notice issued yesterday by the British embassy at Washington. It seems that from an announcement that with the exception of cargoes consigned directly to German, Austrian or Turkish ports, all cotton for which contracts of sale and freight engagements had been made prior to March the second will be allowed free passage, if it is shipped not later than March the thirty-first; or if it should be stopped, will be bought at contract price.

This is a distinct modification of the plan originally announced by the Allies in their policy of shutting off the enemy from commerce with the outer world. It was proposed at first that all raw material shipped to ports in communication with Germany or Austria should be subject to interception, though not to confiscation; and this order was to become operative after March the second.

American dealers had contracted for the foreign sale of thousands of bales of cotton which could not be shipped by March the second, and which would have been held up, with the result of heavy losses to this country, had the order of the Allies been made effective on the date originally fixed. Under the latest concessions, however, this cotton can be shipped freely up to March the thirty-first. Thus a vast deal of cotton, which otherwise would have been detained, will cross the Atlantic in the course of this month.

True, this is temporary relief, but it is substantial as far as it goes; and meanwhile the United States Government will be trying by every practical means to safeguard and uphold our shipping rights in respect to cotton and other commodities.

Carranza should remember that the United States is not as unprepared as some people seem to think.

The world do change; and how many people can tell you where the heavyweight championship fight is to be pulled off or when?

Some of these congressmen have had enough vacation already to make them wonder what they're gonna do with the rest?

Pan-American Business.

The Pan-American conference to be held at Washington next May as a means of developing among the republics of this hemisphere more helpful relations in matters of commerce and finance promises to be an event of historic significance. Between the United States and the nations of Latin America, there is a vast field of common interest which needs only to be cultivated to yield wonderfully enriching results for all the countries concerned. Especially is this true at a time when the Old World, engrossed in war, is unable to do the business and render the services on which these republics heretofore have largely depended:

The facilities of finance and transportation that linked Latin America to Europe have broken down. European markets are virtually closed to Latin American products, and European capital is no longer available for Latin American needs. It becomes the privilege and responsibility of the United States to fill this great gap, to supply its neighbors' wants and to aid them in carrying forward their interrupted tasks. It is not simply a matter of selling goods and lending money to Latin America. It is the far greater and finer enterprise of international service and leadership, through which all the republics on this continent will be joined in a federation of commerce and good will.

In the forthcoming conference, each of the twenty-one governments forming the Pan-American Union will be represented by their leading bankers and ministers of finance. Congress recognized the importance of the conference by appropriating a substantial fund for the purpose; and the business as well as official interests of the United States are cordially disposed to the undertaking.

By taking common counsel among themselves and with the United States, the countries of Central and South America will reach a broader understanding of their needs and their opportunities. No part of the Union has better reason to be interested in this movement than the Southern States, whose geographic position gives them a peculiar advantage in Latin American markets.

Faithless people never go around pointing out the faults of others.

The man who is unable to bear misfortune is truly unfortunate.

Your Town.

Here is a bit of sound and genial patriotism from the Abbeville (Georgia) Chronicle:

"Do you know one thing?" Abbeville is YOUR town. Take pride in it. Boost it at every chance. Bring up on it. Dwell on its outstanding features—its pretty girls, its clean streets, its band, its Civic League, its park, and everything else that you know is attractive in the town. If you know of a nuisance, don't go around crying it to the world. Try to put a stop to it. And remember, first of all, that if you don't like the town, nobody will break his neck to hold you—unless you are in jail!"

A stanch and generous spirit! A narrow-minded man can be a patriot to his nation. A muddied man can be a patriot to his State. But it takes a broad-minded, up-and-doing citizen to be a patriot to his town. Every community has its distinctive virtues and resources. To perceive these, to be proud of them and to aid in upbuilding them—that is the test of useful citizenship.

Stand up for your town, if for no other reason, because it is YOUR town. When Touchstone led his simple shepherds, he betrothed, into the circle of courtiers around the Duke in the Forest of Arden, he introduced her by saying: "a poor virgin, Sir, an ill-favored thing, Sir, but mine own." Whatever limitations a man's town may have, it is his own. He ought to think well of it. He ought to speak well of it. And certainly he ought to work his best for its common interests and needs.

He who thinks only of himself has very little to think about.

According to statistics, there are more men with blockheads than wooden legs.

Editorial Echoes

Work never hurt anyone if it was only broad enough and deep enough to make claims on human nature. Our extremely long-lived parents have always been very hard workers. Pope Leo XIII, who died at 93; Humboldt, who died at 92; Gladstone, at 91; Vich, octogenarian, are examples in our time. Is it any wonder that a physician gets impatient when people talk about the men and women of our generation doing as much as they are exhausting vitality? The trouble is they do not do enough. Their interests are so few and so superficial that a lot of energy that could be used up in good work is dissipated within themselves and does them much greater harm than would any possible amount of work that they might try to accomplish with it.—James J. Walsh.

A farmer had twenty employees on his farm, and no one of them was as energetic as the farmer thought he should be, he hit upon a plan which he believed would cure them of their lazy habits. "Men," he said one morning, "I have a nice, easy job for the laziest man on the farm. Will the laziest man step forward?" Instantly nineteen of the men stepped forward.

"Why don't you step to the front with the rest?" inquired the farmer of the remaining one. "Too much trouble," came the reply.—Boston Record.

Shakespeare Says—

Now my co-mates and brothers in exile
Hath not old custom made this life more sweet
Than that of painted pomp? Are not these words

More free from peril than the envious court?
Here we feel not the penalty of Adam.
The season's difference, as the icy fang
And churlish chiding of the winter's wind,
Which, when it blows upon my body
Even till I shrink with cold, I smile and say
This is no flattery: these are counsors
That feelingly persuade me what I am.
Sweet are the uses of adversity
Which like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head;
And this our life exempt from public haunt,
Shows tongues to trees, books in running brooks,
Sermions in stones, and good in everything.

Editor The Journal:

I have noticed with a great deal of interest and surprise the contention and strife among our city fathers over the proposed salmon hatchery. If there is any truth in the old adage that a house divided against itself, the majority would be the better, I am for our doing away with all this clamor. I have wondered "What does the tax payer come in?" With a desire on the part of our fathers of increase in salaries, and creating new places to give somebody a job, I have wondered how many of the gentlemen wanting to increase salaries and make new places for others, have increased the salaries of their own employees and made their business too heavy to give employment to people. Do not understand me, I am in favor of helping the unemployed all we can, and putting every man and woman that is not paid, but not to the detriment of others that are paid. This is the point, I am for the tax to be removed, so that the people can have a better chance to earn their living. This was the reason the salmon hatchery was established in the first place, to help the salmon, which is becoming a very destructive fish, and the presence of many factories make the conditions unfavorable to the land-locked masters varieties, while they would not interfere with the deep-sea-going salmon.

Very peculiar condition was early found to exist in Yellowstone National park in so far as fish was concerned.

There was an abundance of ideal lakes and streams in that wonderland, but there were entirely without salmon, and the salmon, which had previously managed to get into the streams, was driven back to the ocean waters. This was decided to stock them with just the right varieties to furnish good sport in this playground of the salmon, which is becoming a very destructive fish.

It is the opinion of the experts that the hatchery did not communicate with each other, and it was decided that different varieties should be established in each. So, in one basin the black-spotted trout was established, in another the brook trout, and in another the lake trout, and so on. Under this arrangement the angler knows just where to go that he may get the sort of fishing that appeals to him.

The men who were attempting to improve the fishing in the nation's streams found that there were several varieties that were very choicer and at the same time so many that they might as any be exterminated.

Thus was born the idea of the salmon hatchery, which was to be established in the ocean waters. This was done to increase the salmon population, and to furnish a good sport in this playground of the salmon, which is becoming a very destructive fish.

Every private business that is run in Atlanta has been affected by the salmon hatchery. Times, to curtail their expenses on account of a decrease in business, so it is not fair, nor business, for our city government to increase the tax payers' expenses rather than decrease them. We do not forget that they have to exist as well as other people, and that Atlanta is no exception.

So I am writing to make a plea for the tax payers of Atlanta and to ask that they be considered, as there is now a thing as killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

If the country was in a prosperous, normal condition and in a position to pay taxes, I never could understand why a man could work for a pittance firm for $75 to $100 a month if the other man had to have $212 or $150 a month, with less hours to work during the day and more holidays during the year.

PLANTING FISH IN NEW STREAMS

BY JAMES B. GRAY.

Now is the time for riding in their private cars and traveling all over the continent, no longer is it safe to say that the trout is the only game fish in the country. The numbers of this trout were so great that it was considered important that more people should be made possible that more people should be sent into the mountains and streams to catch trout. An expedition was sent into the mountains and a foundry was set up.

The fish commissions of the various states, and the federal bureau of fisheries have been making over the angling map of the country. The men with rod and reel, however, are unlikely to find reason to compete with the various varieties of trout that have been introduced into the country. In some cases he would have caught nothing at all, but for the work that has been done in transplanting fish.

A short time ago, the announcement was made that the federal bureau of fisheries had been making over the angling map of the country. The men with rod and reel, however, are unlikely to find reason to compete with the various varieties of trout that have been introduced into the country. In some cases he would have caught nothing at all, but for the work that has been done in transplanting fish.

Columbus Club Protests Athletic Club's Claim to Southern Basketball Title

Columbus Five Disputes Claim Of Local Team

Manager Frank Bridges of Columbus Y. M. C. A. Basketball Team, Contests Claim of Athletic Club to Title of Southern Championship

The basketball season is not yet over, in spite of the fact that schedules have been about played out, that players have turned their attention to other lines of sport, and the old uniforms have been discarded. The arrival of another season, the game is still being played. At present, however, the contest of skill, speed and endurance comes through correspondence, a la chess, and a few other sports that can be played by mail.

This correspondence contest just goes to the wagons, between Columbus and the Atlanta Athletic club, with the Mississippi boys on the offensive. The object of contention just now is the title southern champion, and the Columbus five claim the title, the Atlanta five in laying claim to first honest manager Frank Bridges, of that team, as hustler, the first dorkish, and Joe ten stalkates in kind. Below is given a bit of correspondence which has just passed between the two.

FRANK BRIDGES.

Mr. Joe, Atlanta, Ga.
Dear Sir.—After getting away from Birmingham yesterday I am now able to dispute your claim for the southern championship. We have played them all, winning all the games in Columbus and the only game you can call a tie is Atlanta, and return played on the road. Marcus, Auburn, Athens, Atlanta and Birmingham.

The above being facts, the only way to decide who are the champions is to play the two on a neutral court.

The Birmingham Athletic club is willing to stage a game on their ground, and you will be welcome to you there or on any other neutral floor.

The five will put in a claim for a championship, it is up to you to defend your claim by the play off and the two will then decide the championship through your default.

Yours truly,
M. J. Donahue will suit you.

Trusting you will come out and give us battle, and appreciating a prompt reply.

Yours truly,
Signed, M. J. BRIDGES.

Enclosed are copies of this letter made, and should you not care to play, will send all the leading papers a copy.

BEAN'S RAPIDLY.

Athens, March 8, 1915.

Mr. Frank Bridges,
Columbus, Ga.

For a letter of March 2 forwarded to me in Athens, I was very much surprised at the tone of your letter. You say that you are the Atlanta club, and that you have been custom for years to make but two road trips, one to Columbus and one to Birmingham, and that you as annually meet these respective teams. We of course followed the same road, but we have been twice defeated in Columbus only, the score of 49-24. Our game in Birmingham was a tie, the score of 12-12. The Columbus team and Birmingham team we as annually meet in Atlanta. Other teams followed the same route. Our claim to the champion ship in Atlanta is that the team when in Atlanta, in fact you all admitted that you had met your two road trips, and that you had not the facilities. What has brought about your change of mind is hard to understand. We will not say that the championships are not won through the mail but more so by the road, and we are willing to stand on our record for the season and allow the rights to form its own opinion of our route.

I might also say that we are as anxious as you are to have a copy of our team with a souvenir emblem or the champion ship, also that we are furnishing you with this letter in reply to the Atlanta update.

Yours truly,
JOE BEAN.

Concerning F. WELSH.

Dear Sir.—

I see where you figure that in a dash right Ritchie would have been an even chance with Freddie Welsh. Willie I know is a good fighter, a smart boy hooked up with a wicked and dangerous punch. But from the inside you have the taint that from 10 rounds he would not have chance with Welsh. The present champion knows too much, more about the game than any other man in the top by long, hard work, and while not possessed with any killing will is entirely too clumsy for any other lightweight now in the ring. He will be headed off, but it will be by some younger just coming on, not by any of his present rivals such as Ritchie, White or Shugre.

OLD TIMER.

IN THE TRAINING CAMP.

Side by side on the beach
The two old timers sat;

Spanning the Old Days out;
Talking of this and that;

But each with a Vision spread,

And each with a Vision spread;

These are the dreams I read:

The Rookie dreamed of the blare

That rose from the Fields of Fame;

And the clamor of the frenzied mob;

Far flung at the old star's fame;

Of a life of fun and test;

And echoed a city's cheer;

Of the glory the Veteran knew

In the laurelled drift of years.

But looking 'another way,

Out from the Game's renown,

But from the golden years

And framed with the olive crown—

Forgetting the record span—

And facing the dreary truth,

Still rubbing a worn-out arm,

The Veteran dreamed of Youth.

We have forgotten the exact meaning of the word "ranging" as outlined in the dictionary. But no finer example could be had than to watch the look in a veteran's eye as he sees some recruit the second day out begin shooting a fast ball back and forth across the second without having to reach up and grab for the shoulder blade.

Yours truly,
Signed, M. J. BRIDGES.

FORTIFICATIONS AND SUCH.

Captain Tillington Hulbert, a player for the Yanks, was playing over Savannah's gold course which happens to be built and trapped with fortifications thrown up during the Civil war. They were built to penalize an over-approach by the late Mr. Sherman when the rebels under him enough for guns and ammunition to meet the very strong fortifications. The Yanks have a fortification as an expert at such work, "were perfectly constructed. They are fully up to par with any of the trenches now used in France, Belgium or Germany. With a few men to man them they would be impregnable to assault."

A minute later a cannoneer topped a massive shot against one of the tallest ramparts on the course. When he had taken his third shot to out we interjected with this:

"The point is that you were just saying about the perfect construction of these fortifications."

To which he replied about as follows: "One damm."

AS TO HOBBLITZEL.

Considerable amazement was expressed to the why Dick Hobblitzel batted only .210 for Cincinnati last year, and was over .300 in the league. But there is no amazement among Yankee pitchers as to why Hobbs pitched the .300 mark. "He is the hardest man to pitch to in the league," said the Yanks' captain. "He has a great arm, and when you get him to the right or left, he has never left his shoulder. In my opinion Hobblitzel has one of the best eyes for picking out the right ball to hit now in the game. As a batter he is about as wise as they grow."

THE MAN OF ALL FLEET.

Bound down with the pack of His native fields and short domains, He longed to take the outbound trail Which led across the distant plains: He had to leave the land he loved, And he in each dream he wandered forth A care-free, roving vagabond.

And he, whose steps had ever led

To stranger lands and alien coasts,

Now since his youth had held the trail

Of nature's ways, he had to go.

Looked ever forth across the plains

To where a heart-felt lit the gloom,

And in each dream he wandered back To where his people called him home.

So far, judging from requests that have come to this column, the Open Eyes Co., Ltd. can place at least 2,000 Willing Listeners in the field and not even approach the demanded demand.

RE-ECHOES.

Playing it safe in well enough where one is content to finish second. The top of the hill looks better than it is to those down in the valley going up.

Any entry has a chance who is game enough to take one.

RUSS FORD AND THE EMERY BALL.

The Germans who invented the sieve gun and kept the secret safe have little or nothing to do with Ford. The story of Ford and the emery ball is one of the most striking yarns in a game that is replete with spicy incident and anecdote.

Possessing only fair speed and a fair curve, but attached to an unusual keen brain, Ford perfected his pitch-and-service by using a strip of emery in a glove and a strip of leather to make it spin. But it was something to marvel at in the fact that Ford kept his secret safe for many years, two in the minors and three in the majors, before even his closest friends on the club were aware of the secret of his success. Now he is a star, and will be interesting to see how far he can go under the change. A brain keen enough to get by for fees with an outside invention is pretty nearly keen enough to get by on its own stuff.

A number of keen-eyed fanatics and players have probably wondered why was Ford always refused to act as a relief pitcher. Off days he kept the emery strip hidden in his locker, and, having left his annihilation off the field, wisely refrained from attempting to fire.

M. R.—You less. Jack Barry hit .342, which is about his normal mark.

Choice of Baugh Is Popular Here

Atlanta Fans Pleased With Election of Birmingham Man—Serves Until December

The announcement in Atlanta Monday, immediately following the election in Birmingham, that President Robert D. Baugh had been chosen to succeed Judge W. M. Kavanaugh as president of the Southern basketball conference, was received with enthusiasm by all who have taken an interest in the proposition of a successor to the Atlanta club. Frank Calaway, who attended the meeting, told the Atlanta Journal that the new president had come to him with the news and that he was pleased to receive it.

fact Frank Calaway himself had been chosen to succeed Baugh as president of the Atlanta club, the opening book, "Contesting the Title," George Kircher had been named, bound, gagged and shambled off to join the forces of one of the warring factions in the Tennessee Auto race, and he was more than a week ago had been expelled. George has not yet sent in his resignation, and Frank Calaway has been named to take his place.

Further news of the Atlanta club is a business proposition. Frank Calaway is prominently connected with a number of business enterprises in Birmingham, and his numerous interests would prevent him from accepting the leadership of the basketball conference. Another club, the Birmingham, has long standing, and knew intimately many of the top men in the basketball field. Frank Calaway is a man of great ability, and he would immediately dispose of his holdings in the Birmingham club. He has over 100,000 in the club, and he did over the other two in Columbus. The new president will have to worry about this in matter.

Another club, the Atlanta, has a good record, and Frank Calaway would be well received there. The Atlanta club is highly regarded, and the new president would be well received there.

We take it that the issue to settle the title will have no direct bearing on the election of a new president, as the new president will be held to account for the conduct of the club.

President Baugh was chosen to fill out the unexpired term of his predecessor, and that man will be held to account for the balance of the current year.

Another election will be held at the annual meeting in Atlanta in April. Atlanta fans are highly pleased with the election of President Baugh, and, while it is not certain that he will be chosen to fill out the unexpired term of his predecessor, and while he has a great record, he will be held to account for the conduct of the club.
