CARRANZA FORTIFYING VERA CRUZ FOR ATTACK

Trenches Are Dug and Barbed Wire Entanglements Erected on Outskirts

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, March 20.—Carranza forces are digging trenches and fortifying Vera Cruz with a series of barbed wire stockades, apparently in anticipation of attack by the Villa-Zapata forces. Advice to the state department today may be barred wire extends from a point on the beach to the railroad a mile and a half north of the city, and will be continued to Tejeria, making a semi-circle.

Several business men from Progress and vicinity conferred with state department officials today on conditions in Yucatan. They fear Carranza's occupation of the port, which they say will make further business impossible because of excessive taxation.

Vicar General Paredes and fifteen priests taken from Mexico City by General Obregon when he evacuated the capital, have arrived at Vera Cruz, state department dispatches say today, and General Carranza has ordered them released.

The Carranza agency received a dispatch saying Carranza forces had occupied Merida, capital of Yucatan, twenty miles south of Progress.

Villa Troops Occupy Two Towns Near the Border

BROWNVILLE, Tex., March 20.—Occupation of Mier and Camargo, Mexico, seventy miles west of Brownsville by Villa troops was confirmed today by telephone messages from El Paso, City. Carranza forces are reported retreating toward Matamoros.

Camargo was not burned as reported last night.

DECATUR PLANNING FOR ANNUAL CLEAN-UP WEEK

Board of Trade Offers Prizes in Different Departments of Work

Active plans for the annual cleaning up week in Decatur have been arranged by the Decatur board of trade through the civic beauty committee. The cleaning up week will be observed from April 5 to April 12, the dates that have been designated by the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs.

The board of trade has offered prizes in the different departments of the work, which will be given invaluable assistance by the women's auxiliary of the civic beauty committee and the Decatur public schools, under the supervision of Superintendent E. E. Treadwell.

The heroes of Decatur will observe cleaning up week, not only the board of trade has also offered prizes for the work of the colored citizens.

Pledges will be distributed to the people of Decatur, asking them to assist in the general cleaning up of the town.

Mr. Delbert B. Craft, R. R. 4, Lowell, Ind., writes: "For a long time I suffered with chronic catarrh of nose, throat and stomach. I would continually take cold and my stomach was in bad condition. I truly suffered untold misery and tried various medicines and tried the treatment of several physicians, but I felt no better. A friend advised me to take Peruna. I wrote to the Peruna Medical Department, who prescribed treatment. As soon as I commenced to take Peruna, I was surprised at the relief it gave me. I kept on taking it until I was cured. I can therefore recommend it to those afflicted with catarrh to use your remedy. I am a great friend of Peruna, for it cured me of a bad case of catarrh."

Mr. E. T. Phillips, Amesbury, Mass., writes: "I have been troubled with a very serious case of catarrh of the head and throat for a number of years, and I tried many prescriptions from good physicians, but in the end I found myself no better. On the advice of a friend who had used Peruna with good results I purchased a bottle, and the effects from that one bottle were so encouraging that I continued its use and I think I used about six bottles in all, which I am glad to say cured me completely of this troublesome disease. I can therefore unhesitatingly recommend it and am a firm believer in the power of Peruna to cure catarrh."

Mr. J. B. Reese, Hahnab, Md., writes: "Two years ago I became a sufferer with catarrh, which continued to grow worse and made me miserable. I could scarcely smell at all, and my taste had almost entirely left me. My head ached constantly, and at times had high fever and bleeding at the nose. I was a perfect wreck. I tried several doctors, but derived no relief. I read in one of your little booklets called 'His of Life,' of Peruna being a remedy for catarrh, and procured a bottle at once. After the use of one bottle I felt some better, so I tried the second and then the third, and now I am a well man. My health is much better than it has been for three years. All praise is due Peruna."

SIMPLICITY OF THE SONG. A gospel chorus is simply a Scripture phrase or Biblical truth linked to a melody that cannot easily be forgotten. These gospel choruses have hooks in them. They grip and hold. And the message of the song sings its way on into the heart.

Musicians frequently say to me: "Why do you not use classical music tunes above the style of gospel songs?" I reply: "When you can show me similar effects following such high class music in moving the hearts of men and women I will use it fast enough. Until then I shall keep to gospel songs, which have a wonderful way of reaching everybody, because they touch the soul."

PERILS OF ATLANTA IS DR. CHAPMAN'S SUBJECT

Men Only at Revival Tabernacle and Women Only at Baptist in Afternoon

Today, the beginning of the last week of the Chapman-Alexander campaign, will be marked by two monster meetings—the one for men only at the Peoples Tabernacle at 3 p. m., when Dr. Chapman will speak on "The Perils That Threaten Atlanta," the other at the same hour for women only at the Baptist Tabernacle, conducted by Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Alexander.

The meeting tonight at the Tabernacle at 7:30 will be for everybody. Nearly 5,000 decision cards have been signed and turned in at headquarters. These have all been referred to the various pastors to be followed up by them. It is hoped to make the final week of the meeting notable not only for the number reached but for the deepening of the spiritual life of the churches as well. The program for the week has been built around that idea. It is as follows:

Monday, 7:30 p. m.—"The Second Coming of Christ."
Tuesday, 4 p. m.—Meeting for children.

Corn-Mad? Use "GETS-IT," It's Sure

Makes Corns Vanish Like Magic!

A hard spot of skin makes up every corn. When you put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on it, it absorbs up and comes right off—and there's your corn gone by thunder! Simple as taking off your hat! That's why every corn-sufferer should have a bottle of "GETS-IT."

Don't Waste Time "Hollering." "GETS-IT," World's Simplest Corn-Cure, Never Fails.

Have gone wild over "GETS-IT"—nothing like it ever known. Once used, it's out, gone, and with baggage, sticky, thick, dead skin, corn "blisters," scales, grime, corns and all new tissue with which you can't get rid of new corns. Use "GETS-IT," there's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. No pain, no itching, no oozing, no redness, no swelling, no fever, no trouble. Try it tonight for your corn, callus, wart, or bunion. That's the only "GETS-IT" and nothing else.

NEIL O'BRIEN IS DELIGHT OF REAL MINSTREL LOVER

Newest and Best in Minstrelsy Will Be Seen Here April 1

Minstrel shows may come and minstrel shows may go, but the real lover of minstrelsy is ever on the lookout for the new and the best. Neil O'Brien, a troupe, which will play an engagement at the Atlanta theater Thursday matinee and night, April 1, are the latest and best, the newest and the most progressive ideas in blackface.

Neil O'Brien's show is not only a comedy, but a drama. It is a good show. This year they will see a better, for Neil O'Brien is of the younger generation of minstrelsy who has seen the good in the bad, grasped the good and let the bad slide, and built up an organization around him, and he is the best.

O'Brien himself is the bright, artistic star, but he is no minstrel. He is a comedian. He has given attention to the most minute parts of his production, and he has made them sparkle. The first part is completely new, rich in artistic design. The olio has been entitled "Damon Run" or "A Dry Town."

There is a big dancing number, and while the stars of last year's show have been retained, there are many new ones, such as Harry Yau, Eddie Maser, Pete Delat, Carper Newark, Steve Weber, Doran, Shanon and others.

PRIZE BIRD CONTEST OF BURROUGHS CLUB
Grammar School Children Will Compete With Lists of Bird Houses

A prize has been offered by the Atlanta Burroughs Nature club to the boy and girl of the city and country grammar schools who reports the greatest number of bird houses in their yards by birds other than English sparrows and pigeons.

All who enter the contest must send their lists to Mrs. J. R. Macdonald 12 Peachtree way, N. E. D. C. before 10 o'clock, May 22. The number of bird houses, the exact location of each, the name and description of the bird and its nest, age, grade, school and address of the child must be given.

The nature club recommends the following to those who wish to attract birds: United States department of agriculture bulletin No. 669 on bird houses and how to build them; bulletin No. 631 on how to attract birds; Trapper's method of attracting birds; illustrated dictionary and note book.

The club urges the planting of trees and shrubs to attract birds, and the placing of bird houses and baths. Water in large quantities should be placed where birds can get it, as water is very necessary for bird life, the club states.

Don't Be Fussy About Eating
Your Stomach Will Digest Any Kind of Food When Given the Proper Assistance

We are prone to fall into the error of singling out some article of food as unwholesome because the food was first invented by the human hand. This is all wrong. What is required is a little assistance, which these tablets give upon which scientific students for many years have set their seal of approval because they have become absolute facts. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all stomach disorders are recognized; they have a fine record; they are reliable, dependable and worthy of confidence just as the president of a big bank puts his O. K. on a depositor's check and so you can put what you want, whatever you like, whatever you desire, into your stomach, and your stomach will digest it all in a few moments will put you right.

Costed to you by breath, heartburn, belching, flatulency, bloating—all the symptoms of digestive troubles disappear quickly when these tablets are used. They are not a cure for anything but the most reliable and most effective of all the stomach and digestive remedies put together.

The stomach is the heaviest work of any of the body organs, yet it's the one we treat with the least regard. We eat too much of the wrong kind of food at any time. The patient stomach stands much treatment as long as it can and then it rebels. You get notions of the rebellion in the shape of the gas and pains caused by undigested, fermenting food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold and recommended by all druggists at a box.

W. & A. MONTHLY RENTAL WILL GO UP, BELIEF OF CANDLER

$55,001, all betterments and improvements made by the lessee to become the property of the state on the termination of the lease. The lessee also pays to the state an annual tax on its net earnings.

The Hon. Hooper Alexander, of Attorney for the northern district of Georgia, for several years a leading member of the general assembly of Georgia, and for years chairman of the house standing committee on the Western and Atlantic railroad, is a recognized authority on the history, development and operation of the state and its lease, has been dug out and verified by him.

ROADS' EARNINGS
"I am enclosing herewith printed pamphlet by him containing some of his reply to your inquiry as to whether the road paid under state operation, I especially call your attention to the eighth article at page twenty-eight, in which he states that the state is to receive the net earnings of the road, and that the state has never been disappointed, so far as I know, and they have been widely disseminated throughout this state in newspapers and otherwise."

"There can be, in my opinion, no successful continuation of the fact that the road was profitable under state operation."

"Personally, I favor the extension to the sea and its operation by the state after the termination of the present lease, not primarily to make money, but for the influence it would exert toward the maintenance of just and reasonable rates."

"You ask why the state abandoned state operation in 1870 and leased its property."

"During the Civil war the road had been dismantled and destroyed. Sherman's march was down its length to the sea."

"With the close of the war Georgia found herself heavily in debt. Her citizens absolutely impoverished. The federal government was demanding and refusing to collect over $100,000 on the direct war tax of 1864."

"A state convention met in the fall of 1865 for the purpose of re-establishing the state government."

"With the state road as security, the state was enabled in 1866 to sell $5,000,000 of bonds. The proceeds were used for payment of the federal tax, for past due debts of the state, for current expenses, and $100,000 was advanced to the state road, for its rehabilitation."

"The road had been returned to the state by the military authorities in September, 1865."

"From September 25, 1865, to July 1, 1866, it was operated by the state, government of which was in the hands of Georgia."

TECH BOYS SCORE GREAT HIT WITH COLLEGE PLAY

Real Histrionic Ability Displayed in "Electricity" at Atlanta Last Night

There have been college plays and college almost-plays, but no play for real histrionic ability and finished acting, we would commend you to "Electricity," as presented by the Tech Marionettes at the Atlanta theater last night.

The audience which filled the boxes and the pit came to see a play by college boys, their friends or their friends' friends. A lot of them came to see W. A. Troy and F. B. Port in dresses, and a few came for the unique experience of hearing Clarence Jordan talk. It was a friendly crowd, good naturedly prepared to take the play in a friendly way.

And indeed, they were treated to a real show. We will except George Arlson and a few others, perhaps, but there have been "legitimate" dramas at the Atlanta which would take points from the Marionettes. When the curtain first rose there were the usual scenes of recognition of Messrs. Troy, Port, Saine and Stanley in wigs and stiffs. But the play was not a play, it was a play for real histrionic ability and finished acting, we would commend you to "Electricity," as presented by the Tech Marionettes at the Atlanta theater last night.

It was a ripping good comedy, well acted, well acted. Of course one could not expect to see a play by college boys, but the play was not a play, it was a play for real histrionic ability and finished acting, we would commend you to "Electricity," as presented by the Tech Marionettes at the Atlanta theater last night.

FATHER SUES FOR THE POSSESSION OF SON

J. R. Hammett, of Decatur, sues for possession of his son, Ralph Hammett, eight years old, who is said to have been in the possession of J. M. Purcell and Dorsey Purcell, his uncle, for some time.

The two uncles brought the boy to Atlanta Saturday to have an oculist examine his eyes, and Deputy Sheriff Roberts served them with the writ. Judge George L. Bell set March 17 for a hearing at which time the uncles are ordered to produce the boy. The uncles claim that Hammett abandoned by contract his right to his son when the boy's mother died.

WALRAVEN FINDS REAL GOLD MINE, HE SAYS

Proudly hearing several nuggets of gold, Dan C. Walraven, former city councilman, returned to the city Saturday afternoon, a two-weeks' prospecting trip in the mountains above Dahlonega. Mr. Walraven was accompanied by A. H. Maloney, a mining engineer recently from Mexico, and both were enthusiastic about "the strike."

Mr. Walraven declares that Thursday he discovered a big gold vein on the property of Dr. L. P. Stevens on which they have an option. The property is about twenty miles north of the town of Dahlonega.

"We have a real mine," declared the former councilman.

Quickly Relieves Without Distress

The congestion of waste and refuse from the stomach, fermenting in the bowels, generates poisonous gases that occasion distress and invite serious illness. Health and comfort demand that this congestion be speedily relieved and the food mass expelled.

The well-founded objection must have to the violence of cathartic and purgative agents is overcome by using the combination of simple laxative herbs with peppermint. A dose at night brings relief next morning, without discomfort or inconvenience. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. R. Caldwell, 21 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.—(Adv.)

THOUSANDS DIE EVERY YEAR FROM RESULTS OF A NEGLECTED COLD

And to Neglect a Cold in the Beginning Is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

Practically every case of pneumonia is antedated by a cold which becomes pneumonia. Sometimes the patient is unfortunate enough to contract fresh cold before he or she has entirely recovered from pneumonia, and consumption results. The death rate for pneumonia has for many years been 25 per cent, and the medical world seems unable to reduce that rate. Every one knows that the death rate for consumption, or the "great white plague," is 100 per cent. Millions of dollars have been spent to find a cure, but a temporary remedy is, at best, the best that can be done. A bad cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. You get overworked and cool too suddenly, and the pores of the skin becomes closed, the blood recedes from the surface of the body and a congestion is produced. The same condition exists if one sits in a draft, or gets wet. The liver finds its efforts overcome by pressure of the blood, also the food one has eaten remains in the stomach or bowels, the liver being unable to perform its functions. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Night then and there is the danger point. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is needed, and needed badly. The bowels, when such conditions arise, MUST be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It bears down, it will rejuvenate the liver, send the blood racing through the veins, dispel the congestion and make the patient feel as if life is worth living. It is a simple remedy, but like many simple things, important. TRY IT TODAY. One-half pound jar, etc. Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta. Insist on Jacobs' (Adv.)

PLAY WELL STAGED.

It was a ripping good comedy, well acted, well acted. Of course one could not expect to see a play by college boys, but the play was not a play, it was a play for real histrionic ability and finished acting, we would commend you to "Electricity," as presented by the Tech Marionettes at the Atlanta theater last night.

HOME-COMING WEEK. COLUMBUS APRIL 14

Columbus, Ga., is going to celebrate "Home Coming Week" on April 14, and the chamber of commerce of that place is making an effort to secure the names of all former residents of Columbus, who are now in Atlanta, in order to send them invitations to visit their old home town.

To that end the Columbus organization has written Mayor Woodward, asking for assistance in getting a list of former Columbus citizens. The mayor has returned the letter to the local chamber of commerce.

Dr. J. W. Brooks, traveling representative of The Atlanta Georgian and News, says: "For two years I have carried in my grip a bottle of EUCALIN, and would not think of going out on the road without it. I consider it the most wonderful discovery in medicine. The number of people who suffer with indigestion and dyspepsia, the terrible distress they suffer, no one knows but those who have experienced it. When I am routed after another fails, when digestive agents seem to aggravate it, in the face of all this, Eucalin cures in every case—truly it is a wonder-drug."

We will accept this advertisement and 25 cents in cash for a 50-cent bottle of the great stomach remedy, EUCALIN—one dose gives instant relief.

HOLLAND'S MINISTER AND BRYAN DISCUSS BLOCKADE

Outlines Note of Protest Netherlands Sent to England and France

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 20.—(Special) The Netherlands government has communicated informally to Secretary Bryan today an outline of a note sent by the Netherlands government to Great Britain and France protesting against the embargo on German exports of neutrals with Germany as having no precedent in law or history. The minister has been discussing the question informally with the United States during the last week, but the representations thus made are on behalf of the Netherlands government alone, inquiry as to the kind of communication to be sent by the United States to the same connection, brought the response from Secretary Bryan today that the question had not finally been decided.

Germans Confiscate Oil Aboard Danish Steamer

LONDON, March 20.—A cargo of oil aboard the Danish steamer Brynsdal has been confiscated by German authorities in the Pommeranian seaport of Swinemunde, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. The feeling at Copenhagen, the dispatch adds, is that the fact that Germany needs oil does not justify seizure of the Brynsdal's cargo.

The Brynsdal, bound from Philadelphia for Stockholm, was stopped in the Baltic, March 19, by a German cruiser and taken to Swinemunde.

The vessel previously had arrived at Kiel and had voluntarily submitted to an examination by the British authorities, which permitted her to pass. She also put into Elsinore, Denmark, where she received declarations from the consulates, certified by the Swedish authorities, that the oil was destined for use only in Sweden. A Copenhagen dispatch, March 12, said it was believed at the Danish capital that the Brynsdal had been stopped by the Germans because it was supposed to be carrying cargo other than that which had been declared.

FORCE CHILDREN TO GO TO SCHOOL, SAYS WOMAN

Settlement Home Night School Organizes Parent-Teacher Association

A Parent-Teacher association has been organized at the Settlement Home night school and at the first meeting held last Friday night there was a large attendance and a very enjoyable program of vocal and instrumental music, readings and story telling.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, who for many years has been chairman of the educational committee of Wesley House. Mrs. Tucker declared the main cause of ignorance among working people is indifference on the part of the parents. She urged a more earnest interest in children who object to going to school should be made to them, she said.

The association plans to meet on the third Friday evening of each month and it is believed frequent discussions (usually) subject to the parents and there will be of great benefit.

SCOTTISH RITE AND SHRINERS WILL SEE "THE MAGIC FLUTE"

Masons to Go in Body to Opera Depicting Egyptian Mysteries—Many Stars to Appear in This Work

Scottish Rite Masons and Nobles of the Mystic Shrine are planning to make a gala occasion of the Saturday matinee at the coming opera season, when the Scottish Rite and famous work, "The Magic Flute," is to be presented, for the opera is filled with Egyptian mysticism which particularly appeals to those versed in the secrets of Freemasonry. Secretary Joseph C. Greenfield of the Scottish Rite bodies, and Forrest Adair, chairman of the Rite and executive committee and illustrious Potentate of the Shrine in Atlanta, have announced a large number of members of the two great Masonic orders, and will arrange to have a great block of seats reserved for "The Magic Flute" performance.

The Masonic opera is a work of music and magic which will appeal to every opera-goer, and it introduces an unusual number of stars among the singers, but it has an especial importance to Masonry in its introduction of the temple of the Egyptian gods and its impressive ceremonies, which, Masons of high rank, say, is closely akin to the ritual of certain degrees in Masonry.

One of the central figures in the opera is Sarastro, high priest of Isis and Osiris. His dwelling on the Nile is the half palace, half temple, and he is the grand master of the Mysteries of Isis. The duty of his life, as Moser wrote, is to encourage virtue, to aid all who seek true wisdom, to watch over them during their periods of probation, and finally, to consecrate them as members of the holy fraternity of Isis.

In the same region, in a castle built in the darkest and most gloomy style of Egyptian architecture, dwells the mysterious being, the "Queen of Night." Her dress is black as darkness, but she wears bright stars. She has a daughter, the lovely Pamina, and to save her from temptation and finally, to consecrate her, the opera introduces the splendor of the palace of Sarastro and the majestic halls of the temple, with its priests and acolytes. Its settings are among the most great scenes in the Metropolitan.

The singers to appear in the Magic Flute include several of the Metropolitan's leading stars. Basil Ruysdael will sing Sarastro; Frieda Hempel, the Queen of the Night; Melaine Kurt, the new German soprano, will sing Pamina; and other women parts will be taken by Vera Curtis, Rita Fornia, Lila Rosenfeld, Nabel Garrison, Anna Cass, Marie Matfield and Elizabeth Schumann.

City Opera will have the great comedy role of Papageno, the Bird Catcher, who plays a prominent part; Johannes Sembach, the tenor who has created such a sensation in New York, will sing Tamino, the young Egyptian prince; and others will be Carl Schlegel, Mac Bloch, Anton Gries, Robert Leinhardt, and Albert Reiss. Richard Hageman will conduct.

There are some wonderful airs in the Magic Flute. Gortis is to sing "A Bird Catcher's Air," and Frieda Hempel will give the famous "Queen's Air," a number which makes heavy demands upon the greatest of sopranos. Melaine Kurt is the title, "The Magic Flute," and the great of Mozart's work, of particular interest to the Masons will be the air by Ruysdael, in the High Priest, "With This Hallowed Dwelling," and the great invocation by the chorus of High Priests, "O Isis and Osiris." The opera sparkles with riotous comedy, in contrast to the solemnity of the temple scenes.

The sale of season tickets for the opera will close next Wednesday, and after that full prices must be paid and tickets purchased separately. There is a marked economy in purchasing tickets for the season, and opera-goers are urged to secure their choice of seats in advance. The number of out-of-town orders indicate large crowds of visitors this year, and the hotels are reserved almost up to their capacity. The sale of tickets for individual opera will begin on April 6.

Johannes Sembach, said to be best German tenor of Europe, who will sing in "The Magic Flute."

BIBLE CONFERENCE TO BE CONDUCTED NEXT YEAR

Executive Committee Already Making Plans—Date Not Yet Fixed

That the Atlanta Bible Conference, which was called off this year on account of the illness of Dr. Len O. Houghton, its founder and president, as well as on account of Chapman-Alexander revival, will be held next year for ten days, is the announcement just issued by the executive committee of the conference, which consists of Rev. Richard C. Fenn, S. C. Callaway, H. A. Etheridge and John J. Egan. Friends of the conference are requested in this announcement to reserve ten days for the conference, exact dates not being fixed as yet, and to include the conference in their prayers and plans.

NEW SHOE STORE OPENS ON PEACHTREE

The Rothchild's shoe store, carrying sample shoes exclusively, opened at 62 Peachtree street yesterday morning, and throughout the day had a wonderful sale of spring and summer shoes for men and women. Mr. Samuel B. Rothchild, a prominent young business man who has been identified in Atlanta business circles for the past ten years, is manager of the store and proposes to make the Atlanta branch a permanent Atlanta institution. The people back of the company of which the Peachtree store is a branch were looking about for a southern location, and Mr. Rothchild induced them to locate in Atlanta. The pick of the lines of shoes manufactured by half a dozen big shoe factories have been secured for this sample shoe store, and it is to be made an institution unless anything Atlanta has had heretofore.—(Adv.)

Orders indicate large crowds of visitors this year, and the hotels are reserved almost up to their capacity. The sale of tickets for individual opera will begin on April 6.

SPEER AND LAMBDIN MAY HOLD A CONFERENCE SOON

Definite Division of Work in South Georgia District Expected at Early Date

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WATKINS, Ga., March 20.—That Judge Emory Speer of Macon and Judge William Wallace Lambdin of Waycross, will shortly adjust whatever differences of opinion may exist between them as to the division of the work in the southern district of Georgia is certain, according to friends who are in close touch with the situation.

No definite proposition regarding the district's work has been made either by Judge Speer to Judge Lambdin or by Judge Lambdin to Judge Speer. Several suggestions of a method for handling the work by Judge Speer were met with greater suggestions by Judge Lambdin, and with the two going into the matter thoroughly it is understood from their different views a satisfactory arrangement will be forthcoming.

Friends who are in close touch with the matter most emphatically that Judge Lambdin has any axe to grind and is going to seek arbitrarily to cut any officials at any given point. They hold that a federal judge is entitled to distribute some of the patronage in the control of a judge, and will not do so without the approval of the district judge in handling some of the business.

It is believed the two judges may decide to hold a conference in Macon shortly to reach a final conclusion over the division of the work. Plans for the division will not doubt be outlined in further correspondence but it is understood no announcement of their final conclusion will be made until they have a conference.

ALSTON SPECIAL COUNSEL IN EMPIRE LIFE CO. CASE

Attorney General Requested Appointment Owing to Rush of Work

Insurance Commissioner Wright has appointed Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, as special counsel in the case of the Empire Life Insurance company.

Under the terms of the insurance law passed in 1912, the insurance commissioner was empowered to name special counsel in cases where his department was handling the affairs of an insurance company turned over to it by the courts. This has been done by the insurance commissioner in previous cases, one of the most recent being that of the American Life and Annuity company.

Attorney General Grice has represented the state in all of the legal matters connected with the litigation affecting the Empire Life Insurance company, and he continued this service until two or three weeks ago, when the courts turned the affairs of the company over to the insurance commissioner.

The attorney general has had such an extraordinary amount of work placed upon him recently that he found it impossible to look after the detailed legal matters connected with the liquidation of the affairs of the Empire Life company, and for that reason he suggested to the insurance commissioner that he appoint special counsel.

In addition to assisting in preparing the state's argument in the Frank case before the United States supreme court, in assisting in preparing the state's argument in the Western and Atlantic railroad bill before the Tennessee legislature, the attorney general has been called upon to represent the state in all of the numerous situations involving receiverships for state banks.

MOUNT AIRY MARSHAL IS STABBED; WOUND SERIOUS

GOVERNOR MAKES THREE SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS

Will Speak in Macon, Chattanooga and Monroe During April

Governor Stanton has made three speaking engagements for April. On the second of April he and Mrs. Stanton will go to Macon, where the governor will be one of the principal speakers at the Founders' day exercises of Basile Ziff college, which is the second oldest woman's college in the United States, next in age only to Wesleyan college of Macon.

On April 3, Governor Stanton will address the governors of several states at Chattanooga. The governors of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, and perhaps one or two other states, will meet in Chattanooga to lend their indorsement to the movement for a great highway from Illinois and Indiana through to the southernmost part of Florida.

Several weeks ago Governor Stanton accepted an invitation to deliver the Memorial day address on April 26 at Monroe, Madison county.

ATLANTA NEGROES WILL OBSERVE HEALTH WEEK

National negro health week, March 21-27, will be observed in Atlanta. Leading negroes, who have the co-operation of the white citizens, have planned to make the week an important one for the members of their race by inducing them to clean up their premises, give a closer study to sanitation rules, and to learn much concerning the may health and sanitation problems facing them.

The city sanitary department will furnish wagons to haul away the trash cleaned from the premises of the negroes. There will be special services in dealing with hygienic methods of living in all negro churches today and during the week addresses will be delivered by a number of the negro churches and the Tuberculosis association and by colored physicians and teachers.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK, THICK, GLOSSY

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wynette's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 10 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You cannot see a single strand of gray hair, and your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—(Adv.)

Blood Risings Begin A Mere Speck

Stop Them From Growing Large and Dangerous.

Nearly everyone who uses S. & S. for blood recalls a friend who was troubled through untold suffering, as the result of a more or less common blood rising. A host of people did not realize until they knew what was wrong with them that they were suffering from a blood rising. They used S. & S. and in almost every case it brought about a complete cure and away back off the road is almost everyone who will tell how S. & S. the famous blood purifier, restored his health.

It is a most interesting fact that this remarkable vegetable medicine overhauls the blood in a manner that occupies physiological laws and yet its effect is almost beyond comprehension to those who are wedded to such drugs as mercury, calomel, arsenic, iodine, potassium, copper and other harmful substances, which all too often result in serious testimony to their destructive tendencies.

S. & S. is indeed a nature's tribute to what we need, and it is worthy of note that in almost any drug store it regularly is in stock. You will find it in the hands of the pharmacist, the Dispenser of the Swift Specific Co. Our word for it is one of our Georgia's approved specialties, and of our long and successful practice, but proud of his name and of his recognized ability.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

25-cent bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair

To be possessed of a head of beautiful hair, soft, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

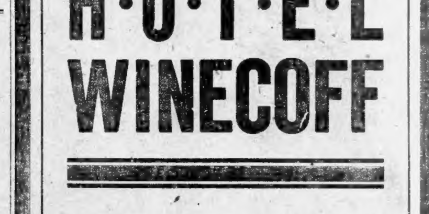

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine. Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little to the scalp and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance. Freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, restorer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

THIS WEEK IN ATLANTA'S MOVIES

SOME OF THE STARS AT THE MOVIES THIS WEEK. 1. John Barrymore, in "Are You a Mason?" Montgomery Monday and Tuesday. 2. Francis X. Bushman, Alamo 2 Friday. 3. Leah Baird, in "The Radium Thieves," Vaudeville Wednesday. 4. Scene from "The Greater Barrier," with George Gebhart, Alamo 1 Monday. 5. Anna Little, as Lenora in "The Black Box," Alpha Monday & Tuesday. 6. Betty Nansen, in "The Celebrated Scandal," Grand Monday and Tuesday. 7. Margaret Fischer, in "The Quest," Strand Monday.

"THE BLACK BOX" BEGINS AT ALPHA THEATRE MONDAY.
The "Black Box" is here. The wonder serial which has been awaited for weeks past by local movie fans makes its debut Monday at the Alpha theater, and those who wish to see the finest detective drama of them all will not miss the first installment.

This serial by E. Phillips Oppenheim already has broken all records. In New York City alone 400 theaters are showing it, and its popularity increases rather than wanes with the days. One reason for this is the authorship. Phillips Oppenheim is recognized as the master thriller of literature. And the map which wrote "The Prince of Demers," "The Master Mafner," "The Great Secret," "Mr. Gresh of Monte Carlo" and "The Double Traitor," now running in the Post, has turned into "The Black Box" all the lure and romance and climax of which he is king.

Another reason is the all-star United States cast, long-time favorites of the film world. The names of Herbert Hawthorne and Anna Little, Otto Toller, William Worthington, Frank McQuinn and others all testify to the merit of the production.

Impartial critics in "The Black Box" in a trade magazine say it is by far the most pleasing serial produced in some time. While it is a mystery story, instead of growing unaccountably complicated as it advances, the plot is followed with ease. At the same time it lacks nothing in romance and suspense.

He dreams, and in his dreams he has a vision of his return and the Villiers, his friends attempting to steal away his love. Waking, he decides not to return home, but to go back to the village and live there forever with her.

The showing of "The Quest" Monday varies somewhat the program of the strand, the "Twenty Million Dollar Mystery," being booked for Tuesday, with a Keystone comedy.

JOHN BARRYMORE, DOCKSTADER, OTHER STARS AT MONTGOMERY.

Four big feature films are booked for the Montgomery theater this week. John Barrymore, matinee idol and famous comedian, in "Are You a Mason?" A Paramount production, Monday and Tuesday. Henry Watthal in "Ride or Wrath," Wednesday. Lew Dockstader, the minstrel star you all know, in "Dan," a war time comedy drama, Thursday. Alice Doney in "The Commanding Officer," Friday and Saturday.

"Jack" Barrymore long ago won the hearts of his public in various stage comedies and later topped that success with even greater fame as a screen star in "An American Citizen" and "The Man from Mexico," but it remained for "Are You a Mason?" to place him in his element. Lew Dockstader's well known screen story of a young married man who is repeatedly urged by his wife to become a Mason, setting the chaos it gives him to stay out late nights, he tells her he has joined the lodge, only to become involved in the wildest fancies of deception and fear when his wife's father, "grand master of the Masons," arrives for a visit. Everybody who sees "Are You a Mason?" at the Montgomery Monday and Tuesday is assured of an hour's laughter.

Lew Dockstader in the movies, in an innovation that will be hailed with joy by thousands of Atlantans. Lew has been seen here time and again as a minstrel star, and has won a place as high favorite in fun-loving hearts. At the Montgomery Thursday in "Dan," a Civil war drama written by Hal Reid, he takes the part of an old negro servant, and through five acts, his scenes injects sparkling comedy into a play that thrills with melodrama.

ALICE DONEY MONDAY AT ALAMO NO. 2.
In "The Girl of the Music Hall," the Kaleidoscope drama in which Alice Joyce appears at the Alamo No. 2 Monday there is told one of the most gripping stories of modern city life. When the opera which Fane considers his masterpiece turns out a failure, the man looks all interest in life and in effort to divert his thoughts accompanies a party of friends to an East Side music hall. her, but becomes disgusted when he finds her uneducated, and leaves the place. Treated cruelly by Hagan, "bouncer," the girl goes to Fane next day for help and interests him again despite her crudeness. He undertakes her vocal training. In the meantime Hagan will threaten her, and one of Fane's friends, Alan Glynn, an artist returned from abroad, falls in love with the girl. Fane, too, loves her, but guards his secret.

For revenge, Hagan informs Glynn of Fane's past life. Glynn then tells her that he is willing to love her, but will never make her his wife. Ida's love for him turns to hate. Sick at heart, she Ridgeley and Flora Finch Friday; and G. M. Anderson and Helen Holmes Saturday—the Vaudeville offers an attractive bill to movie fans this week. Especially is Wednesday's drama interesting. It is "The Radium Thieves," in three parts, and tells how Dr. Samuel Rayner, superintendent of the American Skin and Cancer Hospital, was sent abroad to purchase half a million dollars worth of radium. He leaves his son, Robert, behind and takes Betty Watson, a pretty nurse, with him, to treat the radium burns on his hand. Incidentally he hopes to break up the growing intimacy between the two. A band of international crooks trail them, and in a desperate battle in Berlin, Betty rolls their efforts to steal the radium. On the voyage home, one of the crooks gets the radium, but is blinded by its rays. Betty secures the case, but the crooks frame up to have them kidnapped in New York. The arrival of Dr. Rayner to treat one of the crooks for the blindness, results in discovery of the imprisonment of the crooks and the ending of a happy romance.

MONDAY "THE QUEST"
An American Distinctive Creation in Five Reels
Tells a story of romantic beauty with the genuine atmosphere of the South Seas. A great ship is destroyed in the open ocean, merely to provide one scene of thrill. Margarita Fischer, the most beautiful woman in motion pictures; Harry Pollard, Nan Curry, Lucille Ward, Joseph E. Singleton and William Carroll are the chief players in an admirable company.
Great Mutual Masterpiece
Portrays every emotion of the human heart, with scenic effects that are thrilling and startling. The story takes one from the highest of American society to the primitive life of the South Sea Islands, and the heart throbs accompanies every act.
A picture that will make one feel better for having seen it. A true-to-life story with intense interest throughout. You can't afford to miss this great master picture.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

WOMEN are today a recognized factor in the industrial world. The rapidly growing army of wage-earning women, many of them youthful, untrained workers, presents a number of serious problems for the constructive student of social economic conditions. What are the working conditions in the women-employed industries, hours, wages, sanitation and effect on health? What laws protect them from exploitation? What is the standard of living of the woman adult? What is a living wage for the girl in a large city dependent upon herself for maintenance? How are the schools adjusting themselves to equip girls for the changing conditions of life? Nor are the problems confined to the unskilled workers. Even more marked than woman's invasion of the industries is her entrance into the professions. The colleges and technical schools are each year sending out a throng of earnest-minded young women who demand their part in the world's work. How can their services be best employed? What occupations are open to them? What new lines of employment offer reward for the adventurous? All those who are interested in the solution of these problems will find much valuable information and assistance in the reports of investigations made by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston, through its department of research, and published as studies in the Economic Relations of Women. These studies set forth the results of industrial and educational surveys prepared from data secured by college graduates holding fellowships in research and in several cases in co-operation with other individuals and organizations. They make an important contribution to the movements for legislative protection of working women and for vocational education and vocational guidance.

Several house parties are being arranged for opera week and every available minute in between the opera will be filled with a series of dinner parties, teas and dances.

Says Bread and Butter Most Nourishing Diet

BOSTON, March 18.—"Although great many people have expressed surprise that war suffering is being on 10 cents a day," said Dr. Franklin W. White, at the Harvard Medical School, "as a matter of fact any man can live on that amount by eating mainly a bread and butter diet."

Dr. White took a slice of bread and butter as a unit of food and declared it equal in nutritive value to one-eighth of a glass of milk, one ounce of meat and a half, a large potato, an ounce and a half of cereal, two slices of lean beef, a glass of soup, beans, 12 oysters, 20 cups of tea, or as many other extremes, or 100 cups of home-made beef tea—New York dispatch.

ANOTHER BIG MEETING OF GROCERS THURSDAY NIGHT

Atlanta's Groceryman Will Hold Get-Together Meeting—Splendid Program

There will be another get together meeting of Atlanta's groceryman on next Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce building, held under the auspices of the Retail Grocers and Butchers association. There will be refreshments, music, speeches and social pleasures and business combined. The address will be by J. K. Orr, president of the J. K. Orr shoe company; A. K. Franklin, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and J. C. Harrison, city salesmen.

"Our get together meetings of yesterday, Monday night, were a success in the past," said J. P. Orr, secretary of the association, "and we certainly look forward to a big time on next Thursday night, when we are sure to have a splendid program for all who attend. All the wholesale grocers, commission men, and grocers, retail grocers and their employees are invited. W. T. Allen will be the featured speaker. The meeting begins promptly at 7:30."

BURGALAR SPURNED MONEY: TOOK MORNING GLORY HAM

"Evidence continues to accumulate," said J. K. Simmons, of Simmons & Sons, "as to the popularity of Morning Glory Hams. Bares and lard. I know nothing that will illustrate the popularity of these products more than an incident which happened to B. E. Gardner, one of Atlanta's retail grocers, located at 134 Davis street. Some days ago Mr. Gardner's store was broken into by a burglar. There was some money in the store which the burglar could have found if he had looked for it with any degree of care, but the money was unaccounted for. A case of Morning Glory ham, however, which I had sold Mr. Gardner only the day previous was taken. It shows that even a burglar prefers Morning Glory hams to real money. I say that is some tribute to the unusually delicious flavor of these famous hams."

FULTON COUNCIL 505 INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

Entire Council Looking Forward to Beautiful Memorial Services on April 4

Editor Firing Line:
F. C. T. Council No. 505 installed officers Saturday night for the ensuing year. There was much enthusiasm, as usual, and it was especially evidenced in the many good resolutions by each member to co-operate with the officers to make the coming year the best yet for this live council.

The meeting last night was the close of the fiscal year, and all our members were very free in their remarks as to other on the line showing the council made during the past twelve months, notwithstanding it has, as commercial travelers had to exert greater efforts and more powerful energies to prosecute our profession than perhaps at any time during our existence. It is with great pride to all of us throughout America to note that the order has increased this past year over the previous year.

The officers were installed by Past Grand Counselor T. B. Lewis in an able manner. The officers were as follows: W. H. Arnold, senior counselor; S. E. McConnell, Jr., junior counselor; W. G. Moore, past counselor; R. L. Wallace, secretary and treasurer; W. R. Pierce, conductor; J. G. Moffatt, gate, and D. A. Hays, sentinel. Executive committee: E. W. E. Bunchoe and J. J. Baker; Grand Representatives W. G. Moore and W. R. Pierce; J. E. McConnell, Jr., and W. R. Pierce.

The council of Atlanta, and especially with Fulton council and its officers, is the beautiful memory service to be held two weeks from today. Everything is being arranged for the memorial service as prepared by the joint committee from both councils.

Chairman Press Committee Fulton, 505, U. C. T.

ALL STAR'S CUSTOMERS COME BACK FOR MORE

"An evidence of the lasting customers that All Star's customers make is the case of a former resident of Atlanta who now lives in Cincinnati. Ever since I have been connected with the company, which is now more than four years, this former resident sends an order once a year for All Star's underwear. While he was here he became acquainted with the company's products and though he has moved to another city, he thinks for our product continues and he has never been wasted away from it nor from patronizing the Atlanta market."

Thinking

"I've been thinking." This is the opening phrase of a score of interviews we have had in the last month from visiting merchants in our office.

Isn't it true, there's been more hard thinking in the last six months than in that many years?

"I've been thinking," usually continues the visitor, "that we made more money in the shoe business in the old days when we bought most of our shoes from some reliable house, kept our stock sized up weekly, and had our profits at the end of the season in money instead of on our shelves."

Many of them have been kind enough to say, "We are coming back home."

The merchant who is planning his fall campaign will make no mistake to consider the advantages to him of a connection with a nearby factory.

The best illustration we have is that over seventy per cent of our customers met their bills through this fall, just as if there was no war.

That's fair evidence that their business was in good shape. This may have been helped by the Red Seal system.

If you are thinking of any change in your shoe buying plans, we'd like to refer you to a few of our 5,000 satisfied customers.

Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. Gets Letter From Pleased Customers

J. M. Price and P. C. Stanley, retailing sole agents of the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co., have been commending with each other some time in the past. They are able to secure for their customers the friends the quickest possible delivery of goods, and a good many of them are realizing. First one will receive some evidence of the excellency of the service which he receives, and then the other competitor will receive testimony of his good work. Last week, however, Mr. Stanley scored. The company's retailing of the delivery service, which the order yesterday at 10 o'clock a. m. J. R. KELLY MAKES SALES BEYOND EXPECTATION

Is Now Taking Orders for a Second Car of "Grape Smash"

J. R. Kelly, representing the Tropical Fruit Juice company, is taking orders for his second carload of "Grape Smash." Mr. Kelly has been in Atlanta for several weeks working the trade with the city and out-of-town salesmen of the H. L. Shiner company, who are exclusive distributors of the territory for "Grape Smash." When Mr. Kelly first arrived he set his mark at one carload of his product in this market, but so heavy has been the demand that he found a second car necessary.

H. J. Atwood, traveler for McLeod-Stewart company, with headquarters at Tallahassee, Fla., was in Atlanta last Saturday, March 13, when he tendered a delightful dinner at the Winceff hotel to the members of the office and shipping forces of the McLeod-Stewart company. Everybody reported having a hit time and went away with Mr. Atwood's prices of good food.

NEW DELIVERY WAGON AND AUTO FOR STONE'S CAKES

In Line With Policy of Getting Cakes Fresh to Dealers

"That their cakes may get to the dealers and through the dealers to the consumers in the shortest possible time after they leave the baking ovens, the P. O. Stone Baking company has added to its delivery service another automobile truck and another wagon. This addition is necessitated by the ever-growing popularity of Stone's cakes and by the desire of the company to make its delivery facilities as nearly perfect as possible. The company's delivery wagon now leaves in the morning with two hours' supply of cakes. When these have been exhausted, the automobile trucks are sent from the bakery with cakes just out of the oven to meet the trucks. The fresh cakes are transferred from the auto to the wagon and get out quickly to the retail stores, where they may be had by the consumer."

"The aim toward which we are striving," said P. O. Stone, president of the company, "is that consumers shall be able to get today the cakes that are baked today. It is to further this aim that we have added an additional wagon and an additional auto to our service."

BETTER FEELING EXISTS OVER FLOOD SITUATION

The McCord-Stewart company reports that there is a better feeling over the flood situation since the price of wheat has returned to its old level following the sharp drop in price due to the news of the action of the allied fleet against the Dardanelles. This company states that the situation seems to be crystallizing at the next harvest at least purchasers of wheat will take no very great risk of sustaining unusual loss on account of an extreme decline in the price of wheat. On account of this steady tone of the wheat market now there is a great deal of flour being bought and sold at present.

"The season for the sale of baby carriages is now on," said A. W. Rosenfeld of the Rosenfeld company. "We are beginning to handle a great many baby carriages these days. They are being ordered out now by the retailers for the spring and summer when they are in greatest demand. The need carriages and the wooden side collapsible carts seem to be the favorite for the present season."

We expect a big time and a big crowd for the meeting."

Pagans from the East, Atheists in Europe, Coming to America

"We Must Strengthen Our Interior Defenses Against These Immigrants," Says Bishop Candler. "We Must Maintain the Holiness of the Sabbath Day"

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

Recently there was issued from Washington, D. C., the following dispatch:

Minister Bainsch, at Peking, reported today that a new steamship line between China, America, Gulf ports and New York is about to be started by Chinese financiers. The give much attention to the growing of cotton, at least not until they have been in the South for some years. They will give their attention at first mostly to the growing of grain, vegetables, poultry, fruits and livestock.

The prospect of such a future de-line will be operated by a joint stock company of Chinese and American capitalists, and dividends will be guaranteed by the Chinese government in return for advantageous freight rates on certain products.

This significant press dispatch has seemed to escape the notice of "war and rumors of wars," but it means more, probably, to this country commercially than all the matters in Europe which have engaged our attention. It is especially significant in connection with the rapid development in material things of the South-Atlantic and Gulf States. The turning of the Gulf Stream in the Atlantic Ocean would not more signally affect the forces of nature than will this turning of the current of Oriental traffic affect commercial and industrial conditions in the Southeast. In China there are above four-hundred millions of people who need our products, especially our cotton, and they have products which our people want. This trade with the Orient has been diverted from the South hitherto by the freight rates which were required by railway lines. Over water lines there is no trade to be kept in repair, and hence water rates will be far cheaper. Moreover, the element of time must be taken into account. These shipments from China will land at Southern ports nearly as quickly as Chinese importations have heretofore reached the ports on the Pacific coast; and therefore, they will more speedily reach their final destination.

All this means an accelerated movement of industrial development and material prosperity in our section. It also means a larger volume of immigration to the South than we have ever known before. It would not be impossible that the Chinese, our chief rivals in the world, should reach the interior regions back of them as it now is in California.

Moreover, when the war in Europe has ended, vast multitudes of people from European countries will flock to our shores. The burdens of taxation, which must follow the war, inevitably, will be too heavy for them to bear. Where the cartans is to flee from the habitations in which, heretofore, they have lived and labored. Their eyes will be directed to the South as the European emigrants of a generation ago looked to the West. "Where the cartans is, there will the eagles gather." And the South will be the richest, commercial center in America. Hence multitudes from both Asia and Europe will come to live among us.

Lands will advance in price and larger crops of foodstuffs will be produced than ever before. The Europeans and the Asiatics will not development will doubtless be very pleasing to many of our people. The hope of gains of a material sort will conquer their enthusiasm for the Sabbath. But our people should be warned beforehand that all these things will bring moral perils as well as material prosperity. Paganism will burst in upon us from the Orient, and a Continental type of religion will come upon us from Europe. Herein great strain will be brought to bear upon our social and religious institutions. For example, men will incline to relax the law of the Sabbath which the people of the South have been accustomed to respect more scrupulously for many years past than have the people of other sections of our country. Scandalous people coming among us, impelled by the desire to secure earthly goods, will be inclined to demand the prevalence, in our section, of the "Continental Sabbath." Many of our people will be quite ready, for the sake of gain, to accede to this demand. But we cannot afford to exchange the Christian Sabbath for any amount or kind of material prosperity. The want of such an institution as the Sabbath is one of the most grievous curses of pagan lands and one of the sorest needs of European nations. We know what comes from the lives of men dwelling in Sabbathless countries, and we cannot afford to invite these evil consequences to our own shores. Wherefore, before this tide of immigration has become too strong to resist, we must strengthen the defenses of the Sabbath day. The man who does not see this necessity is stupid, indeed, and he who sees it and does not care for it thereby evinces his utter lack of both piety and patriotism. Whatever men may think about the institution of the Sabbath, the life of a pure Christianity and the character of the holy day are inseparably bound up together. If the Sabbath perish, religion will perish with it; and hence this Sabbath question goes to the very roots of our civilization.

But the question of the Sabbath is only one of many moral and religious issues which we must prepare to meet. We want a vigorous, brotherly and zealous Christian life to meet the millions of immigrants, who are certainly coming to our shores, on their arrival in our section. Met by such a loving and fervent Christianity they will know that they have come to a new world. Indeed, and it is to a new world that they need to come in order to find a new, nobler and happier life than they have ever known in the lands from which they will come. On the other hand, if they come with the human, material, and worldly type of Christianity they

FROM A DEATH-LIKE COMA, CHILD IS RESTORED TO LIFE AT WAYCROSS AS THOUGH BY MIRACULOUS POWER

Waycross, Ga., March 20.—

From a coma so like death that her mother was told she had passed away, little May Bird, four years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bird, revived here last week. She was being prepared to undergo an operation at a local hospital, and the little girl's mother was waiting in the hospital parlors. The child's breathing seemed to stop entirely, and, apparently, she showed no signs at all of life. The mother was told the little one was dead.

But fifteen minutes later the pulse beat feebly, and efforts to restore respiration met with immediate success. In 30 minutes the natural color of the body had returned, and the baby began crying. During the time she was given up for dead there was not the slightest beating of the radial pulse.

Mrs. Bird, the mother, looks on her daughter's restoration to life as a miracle.

Can a Man Steal From His Wife?

Alton, Ga., March 20.—Can a man steal from his wife? That is a question being discussed by the local legal fraternity as the result of a case in the justice court here. A woman had her husband arrested for stealing her cow and selling it. Witnesses testified that both owned the cow, and arguing for the defense, the point was made that no theft had occurred when the defendant took the cow and sold it, and then pocketed the money. The court took the same view and dismissed the case.

Home-Like Jail Is Kept at Decatur By Only Woman Jailer

Prisoners Get Hot Coffee Every Morning, and All
Go Away Feeling Grateful. But None Ever
Escapes. Mercy and Firmness are Combined in Jail Routine.

By Angus Perkinson.

When a thick-necked caveman running true to form by cracking safes in this year 1915 as he did skulls in the glacial period, is brought to the Decatur jail, he first opens his eyes as though doubting his senses and chuckles to himself.

Already he sees his thick fingers guiding his work. It all seemed to her very simple and uninteresting and not worth newspaper space.

"Why I don't do what any other woman wouldn't," she insisted. "I'm not a bold suffragist, who has a man's courage and determination. The other day the commissioner was going will be deprived of one of the greatest blessings which they ought to find in America; and they will become curses both to themselves and to us.

We should also give them a higher type of education than they have known. It should be pronounced Christian education. They have had enough of more educational secularism; and the result has not been good for them or the world.

The Chinese have had the philosophy of Confucius; and if we are to give them the arid systems of modern materialism, such as Herbert Spencer and men of his type have propounded, their case will be no better in America than it has been in China. They should meet here in our colleges and universities more elevated systems of thought. Our institutions of learning should breathe an atmosphere of Christian life and exalt a sanctifying influence of Christian life.

The world has tried both rationalism and ritualism, and both systems have utterly failed to supply an adequate source of moral life. At best ritualism is a local thing, and rationalism is a transient mood. Neither is able to bring the highest blessings to the human mind and heart. But evangelical Christianity, being neither local nor transient, is effective for the highest good in all lands and at all times. It is Christianity of this sort which has prevailed heretofore in the South, and it is of infinite importance that it should continue to prevail among us with even greater power than ever.

Let us get ready for the multitudes who will be coming among us. Let us prepare the way of the Lord before their approach, and make straight paths of righteousness and peace for their stumbling and tired feet. They will be seeking refuge among us, and we ought to furnish them something more than a refuge from political and social life. We ought to prepare for them a solace for their souls as well as a retreat for their bodies. But we cannot do this if we surrender our best things and accept in the place of them the worst things which these immigrant people may bring with them. We cannot do that real and enduring good unless we ourselves are good.

Before their coming we need a great revival of religion that shall fit us for rendering them the most Christian service and the most spiritual ministrations. Bori for their welfare and ours we must proceed to strengthen the interior defenses of our civilization without delay.

ing a thin saw through the jail bars. In his mind's eye, right now, he is stepping out of the next little jail which has a violet-lined wall and shade trees in the yard; and is hiking up the Broad Highway.

But this thing of imagination often soars beyond reality. It is a venturesome, neckle, hope-disappointing jade. And, never does it fly on falser wings than when it points an immediate escape from the Decatur jail, Dekalb county.

Take it up. Because the jailer is a woman don't think the way out is easy. Since she accepted the keys of the jail two years ago not a thick-necked, low-browed breaker of the law has gone out except with his fine paid, his sentence finished and the scene of his activities transferred to a gang picking rocks or rocky clay on Dekalb county roads.

Mrs. J. A. McCurdy not only is the one woman jailer in Georgia, but she also is the best jailer. She has greater kindness and greater firmness, and, above all, she possesses the knack that makes a docile prisoner from a safe-breaker who naturally has a prohibitive simplicity and violence.

About once a month now the county chain-gang wagons drive up to the prison and drive off, a dozen or more prisoners bounding up and down on the hard, springless wagon-bed. And, just as they drive away all stand up, wave their hats, and shout to the jailer:

"Good-bye. Hate to leave here. Been mighty good to us."

She has shown the state how to keep a jail—how to make it not only proof against escape, but possessed of an air of homeliness and kindness that throws mercy, like a warm and comforting coat, over the people shut in there.

Mrs. McCurdy is the wife of the sheriff of Dekalb county, and somehow dropped into jail-keeping, as she did into helping with the records of the office, issuing subpoenas, and keeping accounts.

For two years she has been the most efficient deputy her husband has (and that's high praise).

"Why," said "Uncle Dave," county treasurer, last week, "We're thinking of running her against her husband for sheriff."

And it's a fact that the Dekalb county grand jury in its latest pronouncements recommended that Mrs. McCurdy be officially recognized as a deputy sheriff, the only woman deputy in Georgia.

For two years she's already done all and more than a deputy usually does do. There isn't a detail of the sheriff's office she hasn't mastered, not a duty to which she isn't equal, except one—she can't make arrests.

Mrs. McCurdy last week was signing receipts for money being paid into the office for fines, and was scribbling the "and by" in some embarrassing manner.

She didn't want to talk about herself and didn't want anything printed through the jail, and we were discussing what men deserved mercy. And when we'd finished I found out I'd asked for everyone of them to be turned loose.

"You wouldn't leave a single prisoner in jail if you had your way," the commissioner said.

"And it's the truth; I wouldn't. That shows you what a woman I am. Why, I couldn't any more arrest a person than I could fly; and I think the reason the jail does so well is because I feel sure enough sorry for everyone in there, and do try to make life endurable for them all."

For instance, she has hot coffee served in the morning to the white prisoners; she furnishes them with whatever odds and ends she can to read; and, all in all, throws about the jail a homely atmosphere. One boy who served there six months, just stayed on. He is paid a small salary and actually has made the jail his home.

"Bill," they call this boy (he has no other name), and he helps to feed the prisoners and to keep the lower beds trim, and to continue the jail in its neat hospitable appearance. The other day he also found a way to subdue unruly prisoners. Three had been cross and crabbed, sharp in their speech, and as ingenious as boys in disturbing the routine of the jail.

But suddenly they turned from perversity to absolute docility. Bill had cut off their morning coffee.

Another (a much older prisoner) has remained twelve months in jail awaiting a new trial. And he, too, through gratitude to the jailer, helps to preserve order. When there's the least cropping of the spirit of rebellion, he, by force of argument and his right arm, to quell the up-rising. And such is the power and pertinacity of the man, that never yet has he failed in his endeavor.

The whole jail has a spirit different from any other institution of its kind in the state, because it's the only prison in the state with a woman for a jailer.

Gets Third Set Of Teeth at 81 Years

H. M. HANCOCK, 81 years old, has a third set of teeth. He went to a dentist to have three upper front teeth removed because they were causing him pain. The dentist found that they were being replaced by sound, well-formed, new teeth.—Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

EDITED by MARION HARLAND

"GOOD FOR LITTLE BOYS."

A REQUEST for advice has just come to me from one of our correspondents. The doctor has told me that my year-old boy should be put on a "diet," she writes. "The child is not permitted to eat sweets—candy, chocolate, etc.—and like-fried apples, not bread, any variety of pork except bacon, no meat, no made dishes. How am I going to manage this? I have had to leave the child at the table with the rest of the family and not permit him to eat what we do, and harder yet to obligate him to have his meals by himself. I have arranged to have him eat only what is at the doctor's permit and still let him share our companionship at meals. Do advise me."

Likely Mr. Lincoln, "that reminds me of a story." A friend of mine had a cottage on the edge of a lake. She also had three children. One day a visitor remarked, "I should think you would have a fence built around that lake to keep your children from falling in!" "There is a fence around it," returned the mother smilingly. "My order to the children is never to go down by it unless an older person is with them. I have a fence sufficient protection to the children. They have been trained to obey and to take it for granted that their parents know best. But the same sort of fence about the food your child is not permitted to eat is not a fence at all."

But, you say, "it is hard for the child to be forbidden the articles we have, not to be allowed to eat as we do."

You might as well state that it is hard for the child not to be able to go to the same amusements enjoyed by his parents, to have the same privileges, to be in the same fashion. Your position is taken by so many parents in this age, that the pleasure of childhood and these of maturity should be practically identical.

Before we go further into that let me take up the original proposition—that of the child's special diet. I feel qualified to speak on that topic, for it is not so many years since there was a time like that of your own in my family. One of my children was put on a diet practically identical with that of the general population. I had rich foods of all kinds were cut out, but it was never for a moment considered that he should be banished from the family table or that the general diet of the family should be changed.

There were two or three reasons for this. In the first place, the child had been reared in habits of strict obedience and it was not to be expected that he would have him with no will on his part. In the second place, his mother had decided not to question the doctor's advice. I did not for a moment dream of taking a baby's disposition with the food that he was easily assimilated by a grown person.

Even when such articles as you have mentioned were tabooed, a generous choice was left. Soups of all except the richest kinds, cream soups, meat or vegetable broths, were allowed; eggs cooked in a variety of ways, many vegetables, fish, such meats as beef, lamb, mutton, chicken, turkey, etc., toast, porridge of all sorts, fruit, fresh and stewed—all these and sundry other dishes were on the child's menu. He did not have to have a special meal provided for him, for many of the items suitable to his diet were those taken for granted on the average table.

At the same time the articles he could not eat were not banished. When some preparation was served of which he was not certain the quick question would come, "Is that something that is good for little boys?" If the answer was in the negative the matter was settled and no protest was uttered. The food given him was abundant and good. Like nearly all children, he did not crave the variety sought by the more mature appetite and was satisfied with what was placed before him.

The truth is that we too often create a demand in our children which does not naturally exist. The normal child would be satisfied with a breakfast of fresh or stewed fruit, porridge and milk, supplemented perhaps by a glass of orange juice or a cup of cocoa. Why introduce him to those things which he does not need and which at this stage of his growth are too good for him? Why give him a taste of tea or coffee, a taste of sausage, a taste of a griddle cake? It is not as though these were articles he had to learn to like, wholesome foods which he would grow to like. If they please him, he is awakening in him a taste which it is harmful for him to indulge.

I have tried to analyze the attitude of mind which prompts a parent or more frequently a grandparent to give a baby a lump of sugar dipped in coffee or tea, a bit of pastry or other indigestible delicacy which can do the child no good and may work harm. When we hear of the habit of a small boy or girl to raise hands of holy horror. Yet we think nothing of the less dangerous but still injurious delicacies with which experiments are made on the infantile palate.

When we come down to it such conduct can only be classified as shortsighted indulgence. The older person seeks to give the child the pleasure of the agreeable flavor and does not stop to think he or she may be causing an inconvenient habit of eating and drinking which will be a source of trouble to him when he is older.

Therefore the mother is wise who from the first accustoms her brood to understanding that what is good for grownups is not suitable for children. There is no sense in the world in banishing peas, cakes, fried foods, and such dainties as lobster, crabs, cheese, etc., from the table because the children cannot have them. Establish the rule from the first that some articles are good for little people and some are not. If they have become used to seeing certain dishes placed before their elders which are not meant for them they will not feel themselves ill treated by being forbidden the food of their elders.

It is singular to see how little consistency parents practice with regard to the training of children. The father who will do as I have seen some fathers do, and refuse to eat a dessert because the children were not permitted to share it, would never feel he must abandon smoking on the ground that his small boys and girls could not enjoy it. The mother who is too tender-hearted to keep pastry and fried cakes away from her child would think for a moment of permitting her little daughter to wear the mother's jewelry or "play ladies" in the parent's best room because the child begged for it. The parents have their pursuits, their avocations, their amusements, their food, their entertainments at which they have arrived by the course of growth and development. It is absurd to fancy that the youngsters are ready for the same sort of thing when they are still far behind their elders in age. Why deprive the children of the simple enjoyments that belong to their years, why make miniature men and women of them instead of leaving them their baby joys until they outgrow them and naturally demand more fitted to their advance in age and understanding?

Of course this all has to do with the principle of training the children in habits of obedience and deference to constituted authority. If the parent yields in one way he or she can give no valid reason for not yielding in another. They have been unfortunate enough to be the guests in homes where the children ruled the establishment in fact if not in name. They absorbed the conversation at the table and elsewhere, their wishes were deferred to, their tastes studied, their opinions asked, their interruptions tolerated or taken as a matter of course. I have never observed that such children were any happier than those who were taught to do as they were told and whose indulgences were withheld to their age.

More than this, such training or lack of training robs the children of pleasure later in life. I wonder sometimes what there is in the young of the race when they attain years of supposed discretion. We read of the theater and movie crowd when the boys and girls in their early teens or even younger, we hear of their attending plays, dances, social affairs, and such things as these, and we wonder if all this is not a mere waste of time and money. The standard of these established for these little ones is a far cry from the standard of the adult world. The small boys have their miniature dresses, the small girls wear laces and veils, and some of them have jewelry. The simplicity of childhood seems to have passed into oblivion.

Not for a moment would I deprive the youngsters of all the good and happiness that is coming to them. But I confess a fondness for the old times when a girl had one or two "party frocks" which served her for a whole season at a small party to which she was invited; when no one heard of a Tuxedo or an Eton suit for a little boy to wear to the mid-party which seemed to fill the cup of happiness to overflowing in the days. I wonder what the girl is saying to a great surprise and joy in being brought up when she has such now. What will there be left for her or for the boy in the way of unaccustomed pleasures that are innocent and not extravagant?

Do I seem to have wandered a long way from the query with which this article began? The whole subject seems to me to be essentially one—the need of keeping our children young and happy, and the necessity, we force maturity upon our children while they should still be in the infancy of life. I do not think that the progress is identical. Food, raiment, occupations, amusements, indulgences, all these things which are so much a part of life should be reserved for their later youth and wrong them in the first.

Feed him with the food "good for little boys" now and don't distress your child by making him eat the same food as the adults. They will enjoy it when they are older. They will enjoy it when they are older.

I suppose the desire is for pieces of work to be embroidered, although the phrase "the request is such that they cannot be made. However, I think it will be safe to send anything in the line of B. B. indicates and I hope that the request will be gratified, but that she may be able to make some return for the kindness. I hold her address to send an application.

I wonder if you could help me to get some odds and ends to make baby clothes. Any old piece could be used, and I would appreciate them. Here are a few hints I have found good and would like to suggest to you. Making little things is a great deal of fun, and I have found that when there is a rush I put the milk and cream in an asbestos mat to boil, then add the flour and mix the milk well to make a paste. Take the milk from the fire, remove the asbestos, and turn out the gas. The melted butter, if covered, will be beautifully cooked and will not need stirring. To make plates hot, put over a small piece of asbestos about four inches or less. When cold it may be cut into slices and fried in butter or dripping to a good brown. This is good and appetizing, especially in cold weather, for luncheon or for supper.

I wonder if you would let me for just a few bits of a tablecloth or a few friends find a crack in the stove or the fireplace it can be mended by making a good paste of a mixture of a cup of salt and sawdust moistened with a paste made of flour and water boiled until it is thick. The sawdust and salt are stirred into the paste until it is thick. A board is then held against one side of the crack and the opening is filled with the paste. It will harden when it is dry until it is like a rock. I would much like a mandolin for my little boy. I am sure that you will let him, and he is taking lessons in it just now and needs one of his own body. If this letter please you I will tell you in my next of how I covered the walls out on our homestead and made them attractive without any wallpaper.

Thank you for the suggestion as to the cement. It is bound to be helpful to some of our readers. I hope the mandolin may be sent to the boy. I do not print you of an exchange because we do not offer exchanges of the kind, and I regret that I am unable to do so. The request for the baby's food. A CORNER HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

FIND the house hints in the Corner very helpful. I thought that the following little recipe of mine might assist some one now, as I have no more to say on that subject. Fry slices of salt pork or bacon, as many as you need for the family, with crisp corn meal. Cracker crumbs in as many eggs will be required for the persons who are to eat of the dish. Stir and add a little vinegar. Turn your fat and serve with mashed or baked potatoes. Two slices of pork and three eggs make a great dish for two persons. Another thing worth knowing is that crackers scalloped or oysters are delicious with fish. Ingredients: oysters, salt, pepper. Bake to a nice brown. I wonder how many know that scalloped oysters are delicious with all other kinds. Boil the potatoes, wash, season and a little butter or pork. Mash, moisten with milk. May I ask if you use has bulbs of Mariposa lilies? I have never seen them and am most anxious to have some. I have tried the seed, but they are not carried in stock.

Mrs. T. G. D. I have no doubt that eggs cooked as described would be good, although I fear that the name sour eggs does not appeal to me as especially appealing. I should call them "piquant eggs," or something of that sort. The dish thus made would be savory without the vinegar, or with the addition of a little onion. The scalloped crackers would be a very high thing to serve as an excellent accompaniment for potatoes and I know the eggs of potato dressing for ducks and so on. I hope the bulbs of the Mariposa may be found.

No Name or Address. Some time ago I noticed a request in the Corner by Mrs. B. for the poem, "The Little Phaedrus Tilted." I have the poem and would be glad to give it to Mrs. B. if she desires it. Miss L. M. I would like Mrs. B. would be glad to receive the poem, if it has not already been sent to her, but unfortunately Mrs. L. M. has no name or address. We have no way to reach her.

Wants Floral Band Formula. I am trying in every way to get the formula for making the floral bands. I understand are made from cornstarch, curculite, and gum arabic, but I do not know the proportions or how to mix them. If you published the same in the Corner I would be glad to see the directions. Although I can't see how, for I always read the Corner carefully. I can make a black rose buds from the real rose petals and would like very much to get a touch with some who would send me the formula for the kind I speak of.

Mrs. A. S. Recipes and directions please have been given for almost every kind of band which may be made at home. Those of cornstarch, of salt with gum arabic and orris

Rain Soaked Wall Paper. "I can answer the question asked by Mrs. P. J. C. in regard to restoring the papered ceiling which the rain has ruined. I have tried a paper hanger and painter, so I inquired of him the way to repair the damage. He says: 'Go to a paint store and buy some calcimine and water. Mix it in a bowl with water and it is then ready to apply. A brush should not be used as it would be done for painting, but the calcimine should be stippled on and the ceiling will look like new. I have lately learned how to make corn nut milk and it is a splendid dish. If any one would like the recipe I will send it to you.'"

Want Two White Kittens. "I notice all kinds of things are asked in the Corner, and I am sure that some seem so strange. My little boy and girl are anxious to have two white kittens. They want only white ones and those that have been well cared for and the ceiling will look like new. I have lately learned how to make corn nut milk and it is a splendid dish. Spendthrift Wives Cause of Divorce Here, Says Lawyer

"I'm in Favor of Divorces," Says Lawyer Who Gets Them. "If Man and Wife Can't Agree Why Should They Live Together?"

CAUSES of divorce in Atlanta are: 1—Extravagance, particularly on the wife's part. 2—Willingness of ministers to marry anyone, no matter how young or how stout. 3—Lax marriage laws, which permit anyone to get a license. These three reasons for divorce were given last week by John T. Smith, attorney, who has tried numerous divorce suits in Fulton county courts. In the following interview he looks at divorce from the "inside," from the lawyer's point of view.

"I wish to begin," he said, "by pointing out that divorce is not as frequent here as everyone thinks it is. Not over 150 absolute divorces are granted yearly in Atlanta to white people. When you consider our population and the number of marriages, that is not a great many. In fact, marriage is by far our most successful institution."

"But extravagance is a big rock in the road. Women crave pretty clothes. It looks as though the God Almighty constructed them so they can't help it. I don't believe they can. It's just an inborn instinct. But it does cause about as many divorces as any other one thing."

"The man makes, say from $100 to $125 a month, and the girl, without stepping to think how few luxuries that will buy, rushes into marriage, believing that she will be radiantly happy. She finds out soon that she can't have the things she wants, and she isn't radiantly happy at all. Later on she sees some other wife with a more fortunate husband and she becomes wretchedly miserable. Then a divorce suit is filed."

"The second reason is the willingness of many ministers to marry anybody. I don't mean to make this charge against all ministers, but it's a fact that the carelessness of some is adding all the time to the number of divorces."

"The third reason is the failure of our state laws to provide any reasonable or safe method of issuing marriage licenses. Anyone with the license fee can go to the ordinary and get a license. He can make any representation he wants to as to his age or the bride's age. It's all the same, he gets the license."

"But I am absolutely in favor of divorce. If a man and a woman can't agree, why should they live together? There's no state or moral law that can justly keep them in the wily and the husbandly wedlock. There's nothing for them to do except separate."

"As a rule the divorce suit is filed by the wife, and the husband is only too glad to see her petition granted."

Donald Fudge's Squab Farm Is a New Georgia Industry

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., March 20.—One of the largest squab farms in the state has been established here. Donald Fudge began eight months ago with five pairs of Red Carneaux pigeons, and today he has 500 pairs. He has made a close study of the business, and is convinced raising pigeons is one of the coming industries. The same laws in every state make it impossible for partridges to be served at banquets, and the squab is beginning to be looked on as the only logical substitute.

Donald Fudge is sure that the south, because of climate and other conditions, is the best place to raise these birds. The pigeon is hardy, prolific, and needs little care, except pure food and water.

He believes that raising pigeons is a profitable industry. One pair, in a year, will produce nine pairs of squabs. A pair of squabs, at the age of three to four weeks, will average six to twelve pounds in weight. At present, the price paid in New York for squabs is $3 a dozen.

According to close calculations, one pair of pigeons in a year will yield a profit of at least $1 net; and one man, on three acres of land, can tend 5,000 pairs of pigeons and make a profit of $2,000 to $3,000.

The average life of pigeons as a profit maker is ten years. They live much longer, but after they pass this age the degree of prolificacy decreases. Once mated, it is ordinarily a lifetime contract with pigeons; however, they are not unknown to jealousy and divorce. The birds take turn about at setting on the eggs and feeding the young. The hen, who sets on the eggs throughout the night and early morning, is regularly relieved by the cock, which goes on duty about 10 o'clock and comes off late in the afternoon. Frequently before one pair of squabs is old enough to open their eyes, the industrious parents are busy with another nest, and before pair number 1 is of a flying age pair number 2 is well on the way.

Although all of Mr. Fudge's birds are of registered stock, and considerably larger and of superior plumage and size, the common variety, he finds that some are more prolific by nature than others. By making a careful record of each pair, he intends to retain only those that are most valuable. The Red Carneaux, of which species he has more than 200, is possibly the most prolific of all pigeons, although both the Yellow Carneaux and White King are far superior to the common variety. The fact that physicians are beginning more and more to prescribe these squabs is indicative of their value.

Mr. Fudge has set his ambition at the 5,000 pair mark. He asserts that, with the number he now has, he will breed these birds within three years. His farm as it stands affords an interesting sight for persons who take stock in such things, and that its possibilities are not overestimated is the belief of experts.

Lion Tamer Plays Daniel And He Gets By With It

HOW many of us have read the Biblical story of "Daniel in the lions' den" and understood the thought embodied in it. Animal trainers throughout the world are known as the best students of this wonderful story, for they have found that a matter what progress they make with the king of beasts the story of "Daniel in the lions' den" forms the basic principle to follow.

No better illustration of this can be had than an incident which took place at the winter quarters of Captain Sheele's show, just a few weeks ago. "Levi," one of the most famous of a group of ten lions, was in the arena, looking as peaceful as a lamb, when Trainer Wilmouth entered the cage to go through his usual routine. As Wilmouth called to "Levi" to mount the pedestal the lion let out an angry growl that could be heard for blocks away. Wilmouth, with pistol and prod in hand, went at the lion, driving his revolver to force the animal into submission, but all to no avail.

"Levi" growled, and running around the cage in a fury, frequently attempted to jump at Wilmouth, the trainer, who with the aid of his prod and pistol, was able to keep the beast at a distance. As this unexpected incident was going on, Manager Rollins, of the animal department, saw that Trainer Wilmouth was in a serious predicament. Mr. Rollins looked on, wondering what to do when the happy thought of the story of "Daniel in the lions' den" came to him.

Rollins cried out, "Drop your prod, throw your pistol away, take the beast in the fact, if you don't show fear, show friendship. Remember 'Daniel in the lions' den'; you know it's the only way."

Wilmouth did as Rollins bid him, and in less than a few minutes the beast was accepting peacefully the hand stroke of the trainer—Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.

Gourd-Shaped Egg Is Laid at Waycross

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 20.—An egg shaped like a gourd is being exhibited today by W. H. Yerby, attracting much attention. The egg was found in a nest at his home. The egg proper is about the size of a pigeon egg, with a curving, gourd-like shape on one end and a half foot. The fresh egg is from a Rhode Island Red hen, and is one of the queerest looking specimens of her fruit seen in Waycross in some time.

PETER RABBIT POSING FOR EASTER

Henry Whittier Frees, Who Made These Pictures, Tells How Peter Rabbit Was Induced to Pose

THESE Easter pictures of live rabbits were made by Henry Whittier Frees, of Rockersford, Pa.

"A white rabbit," he says, "is comparatively easy to photograph, providing you know how to handle animals so that they do not fear you or are unduly excited by your presence. This of course applies to poses of the little animal sitting on all four feet. To take him sitting erect with his forepaws elevated in the air is not quite so easy."

"Although engaged in animal photography for a number of years, it was not until recently that I was enabled to picture these little models sitting in an upright position. My success in this respect is not due to any hypnotic influence as some people suppose, but merely the exercise of great patience and invariable kindness."

"If a rabbit's attention is once engaged there is very little likelihood of his moving during the short time of exposure. There is one exception, however, and that is his ears. They are really only means of expression and he uses them to voice all his emotions. If he is somewhat doubtful of your good intentions he gives them slightly down along the back of his neck. If he catches the odor of a bit of celery or carrot he raises them slant in such a rigid fashion that they fairly quiver with expectation. And the invariable accompaniment of his different ear movements is the constant 'wobble' of his nose."

"The slightest movement of his long tapering ears of course blurs the resultant negative. Strange as it may appear however, the constant 'wobble' of his nose does not prevent the making of a good sharp negative."

"One of the lesser drawbacks of rabbit photography is the fact that an innocent looking bunny will not hesitate a moment to take your finger if the mood so strikes him. Possibly his lack of good manners is due to the use of a stalk of celery to attract his attention. The odor of the celery clings to the fingers and he is hardly to be censured for not having the necessary intelligence to discriminate which is the celery and which is the finger."

"The more you study Peter Rabbit and his cute little sister, Molly, the more delightful they become. The soft, downy coat, the pink eyes, rivaling jewels in their beautiful luster, and their constant air of helpless innocence, endear them to the true lover of animals."

"Occasionally they display some very amusing traits of character worthy of Little Tommy himself. One day I was engaged in my studio posing several rabbits under a vase full of lilies-of-the-valley. They behaved beautifully as long as I faced them, never so much as giving an upward look at the tempting sprays overhead."

"Finally I turned about to make some adjustments to the camera which occupied several minutes. When I looked back the three innocent little bunnies were calmly chewing the last few stems of what was once a beautiful bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley."

Judge Gets Bowl of Pot-Liquor at a Fashionable Hotel

Negro With No 17 Feet Is a Convict in Hall County. Trained Rooster Is Owned at Juliette, Ga. Stones of Queer Appearance Found

A COUNTY ORDINARY who ordered pot-liquor at a fashionable hotel—and got it—a negro convict with a No. 17 foot, a trained rooster which plays tricks at its owner's bidding, and the discovery of queer stones which closely resemble bits of ice, make up some of the odd stories last week from Journal correspondents.

Judge James R. George, ordinary of DeKalb county for years and likely to stay on the job for several decades at the pot-liquor gourmand of the story.

"The old-fashioned country eating for me," quoth the ordinary, discussing bills of fare. "I had them all shocked the other day. We were at a hotel where the menu card had a list of fancy stuff as long as your arm. They didn't look good to me."

"Walter," I said, "got any pot-liquor?"

"We sho' has, boss," said the waiter, with a grin. "Bring me a bowl of it, a big bowl, with a good-sized hunk of corn bread."

"I started in on that pot-liquor, and I didn't leave a drop. The pot-liquor gave me a hankering for turnip greens. I had I got them, with a slab of side-meal as big as your head and a quart or two of butter milk. When I finished that I felt like I'd really eaten something."

"My me," said one of the crowd. "Judge, where do you reckon I could find some pot-liquor right now?"

Has Brobdignagian Foot

THE convict with the Brobdignagian foot is at work in the Hall county chain gang. His size of footwork is not a part of the regular chain-gang equipment, so a special order was placed with a manufacturer, and a pair of No. 17 shoes are now on exhibition in a Gainesville show window, to be delivered this week to the prisoner.

The shoes are so big and heavy that the boss of the gang says he will use their wearers to pack down the new-built roads and save the county the expense of running the steam roller.

Rooster Will Chase a Dog

WILL ROGERS, of Juliette, Ga., is the proud owner of the trained rooster which has excited the interest of every chicken fancier and the envy of every negro in Monroe county.

The rooster, a full-grown game, has been trained to jump over a chair, hop to a table, chase the dog and the cat, covey to order, and perform other stunts when Mr. Rogers gives the signal.

The performing bird is kept under lock and key at night. Several attempts have been made to steal it. Mr. Rogers wouldn't trade it for the most expensive blooded chicken that ever came off a poultry farm.

Queer Stones at Juliette

MR. WILLIAMS, of Juliette, is exhibiting to Monroe county citizens the most remarkable freaks in stone ever seen by amateur geologists of that section. In one of them all the colors of the rainbow can be seen, and if broken into bits the colors all appear in the smallest particles. Another resembles a bit of ice, and being as clear and white, Mr. Williams has quite a remarkable collection of Georgia stones, which has attracted wide attention.

Catfish Swallowed a Ring

THE story of the catfish which swallowed a ring has come to life again, this time in Juliette, Ga. A cook in the household of Mrs. R. L. Williams was carrying the catfish for dinner when she discovered a diamond ring, apparently worth several hundred dollars.

Years ago a catfish, the Juliette, who has since moved away, dropped such a ring in the Ocmulgee river while fishing. Mr. Williams is holding the jewel pending investigation. Identification and establishment of property rights.

Negro, 127 Years Old, Dies

THE past few months have been marked by a strange fatality among negroes more than 100 years of age, a score or two of black centenarians having passed away recently. The latest is Rachel Sandrick, of Orchard Hill, near Griffin, who died Friday. Rachel claimed to have been born in 1787, and therefore to have reached 127 years. Sandrick, despite his feminine name, was the father of five sons, one of whom died in Atlanta at the age of 106. The others are in their nineties. The old man fell dead while at work in his yard.

The Man Who Never Learned How to Spend

THE man who never learned to spend.

The title fits the case of Edward J. Halley, whose money has just been decreed out by the civil court of appeals in Jackson, Miss.

Halley and his mother, Mrs. J. W. Vaden, for years kept a grocery store on the east side of Main street, a few doors from Beale avenue, in Memphis, Tenn.

Both alayed by day, and lived in mean apartments over the store. They seemed to have no more than the bare need of life, and Halley himself thought this labor and mean living a necessity. But bit by bit his mother was accumulating money and hiding it away. While they worked long hours and habit, like an iron fist, was forcing him into rules of miserliness, she was gathering a fortune.

Halley had forgotten how to spend when his mother died in 1908, and gold, silver and currency to the amount of $240,000 was found under carpets, behind picture frames, in the walls, and in cubby-holes. Some of the currency had been out of circulation more than half a century, and bore the signature of Secretary of State Spinner, who served under President Lincoln. The gold coins were so old that they were worth a premium.

Halley, who was then pushing middle-age, decided he would go to Europe, would learn to spend, to live, to force the cramped miserly life of the little store, where every penny had been counted. Until now his whole existence had been confined to the store. To him it was his sun, total, and he liked a man setting out for the world, he was going on a long journey—a voyage of adventure to learn how money is spent and what it will buy.

It is a queer story—the ending of that voyage. It's the text of a sermon on habit. For the conclusion of that journey was right back at the little store in Memphis. Europe meant nothing to Edward J. Halley, where every penny was a thing he could never learn, life as other people will money live. It was an incomprehensible thing to him.

Habit had grown to him solidly in its barest, most meager form. Life meant to him living with a kindly, open heart; living in charity toward all his neighbors, but spending next to nothing.

He rented a room in Memphis for less than $15 a month, confined his friendships to the people of that neighborhood, and made his life entirely what it would have been had he never inherited a penny.

How to spend was something Edward J. Halley couldn't learn.

At his death he divided $240,000 among twelve people in Memphis, and gave $70,000 to St. Peter's Orphan Asylum. This will was contested by a man who had been a recent decision of the civil court of appeals at Jackson, Miss.
