BRITISH SEVER TURK

Lines on Gallipoli: TAKE TOWN, REPORT

Two Turkish ships were sunk in the midst of the gunners.

ARMED WRECK BATTERY.

"Nevertheless the Turks stood by their guns and managed to fire three ineffective shots before seven successive bombs dropped by airplane wiped them out.

"A fierce artillery duel took place at 7 o'clock between forces which had landed and Turkey posted on the heights beyond Eski Hissarlik. A great British battleship came in close to shore to assist the batteries of the landing force and silenced those of the Turkish shore.

"The net result of the operations is that the allies are in complete possession of the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula and the flat shores of Suvla Bay, ten miles from the peninsula. Good progress also has been made towards the reduction of the forts in the narrow."

5,000 Turks Are Reported Captured by French Army

LONDON, April 29.—It is reported from Mitylene, says the Exchange Telegraph's Athens correspondent under date of Thursday, "that the French on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, where there have been sanguinary battles at various points, have captured 5,000 Turks and continue their advance successfully."

8,000 Prisoners Taken on Plains of Troy, Report

LONDON, April 29.—An Express dispatch from its Athens correspondent says:

"I learn from Tenedos that the allies crossed the town of Gallipoli after heavy fighting. Allied forces disembarked at Suvla, advanced several miles and occupied several villages.

"Three British warships bombarded Turkish positions in the Gulf of Smyrna and it is stated that allied troops have landed in the neighborhood of Smyrna.

"Five points on the line between Suvla and Suvla were attacked by the allies for the disembarkation of troops. Another force was landed on the Suvla. A demonstration by a landing party on the plains of Troy led to the capture of 8,000 prisoners. Turkish troops continue to arrive."

British Capture 1,200 Turks

French 1,800, Says Report

LONDON, April 29.—A Mitylene dispatch to the Times dated Thursday says:

"From credible informants who have arrived from Tenedos and Lemnos the following details have been learned of the terrible fighting that has been going on in the Turkish neighborhood since last Sunday.

"Forces already have been landed on both shores of the straits and additional troops are to follow. The British have attacked the European side while the French have effected a landing on the Asiatic side.

"Several lines of trenches between Cape Helles and Kilit Bahr, on the European side, have been carried out and about 1,200 prisoners have been taken. On the Asiatic side the French have captured some 1,800 men around Kilit Bahr.

"Today the fighting in the Straits had progressed as far as the line of entrenchments along the ridge that runs from Suvla bay at Thymara to the hill of Hissarlik. From the summit of Tenedos, which was crowded with soldiers, shells could be seen exploding all along the line, on which the French allies were advancing at about noon. Inside the straits the warships had not yet penetrated beyond Kepher Point but the German garrisons between Kilit Bahr and Cape Helles are being cut off by a strong force of British troops that has established itself across the narrowest part of the Gallipoli peninsula.

"No loss of men or warships is known to have occurred so far."

Two Turkish Towns Reported Captured by Allied Troops

LONDON, April 29.—The bombardment in the Dardanelles continues vigorously, says the Daily Telegraph's Mitylene correspondent under date of Wednesday. "The allied ships have reached Vyzay. In front of the Channel fort, eight miles up the strait.

"Information received here regarding the landing operations is meagre. It is reported that the allies have occupied all along the line, as well as the Kilit Bahr of Gallipoli.

"Large numbers of Turkish prisoners are being brought to Lemnos and Tenedos.

"Accounts of the operations received here agree that the British and French are making excellent progress, but it is stated that their losses have been heavy."

"The Athens correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that difficulties for the allied troops will increase as they advance farther into the interior, where the Turks have strong defenses and long guns. The correspondent adds that the military authorities in the center have been driven off.

"We have damaged several warships and transports."

Turks Claim Victory on Both Sides of Straits

(By Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 29.—(Via London.)—An official statement issued here today says the allied forces which landed on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles have been entirely cleared away, that a large part of the troops which invaded Gallipoli peninsula has been driven off, and that several warships and transports of the allies have been damaged.

"The statement follows:

"No enemy forces remain on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles.

"Hostile forces at Gaba, Tepe (west of the Gallipoli peninsula, near the tip) are obstinately maintaining their positions, under the protection of ships.

"From the other parts of Gallipoli the enemy has been driven off.

"We have damaged several warships and transports."

COTTON MANUFACTURERS' CLOSE BOSTON SESSION

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, April 29.—A business session and the resumption of regular technical, completed the work of the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers today.

A paper by Arthur H. Gaudin, of Connecticut, dealt with problems in the textile industry emphasized by the European war.

"It is very necessary," said Mr. Gaudin, "that we take to consider with the most care the change in methods of doing business that have been brought to our attention by the European conflict. In the manufacture of dyes it is useless for us to try to compete at short notice with a nation that has made discoveries and experiments and has secured no export in production results from coal tar. It may be possible for us in a number of years to give them some competition."

BOOSTERS FOR HIGHWAY NAME VEREEN PRESIDENT

Georgia-Florida Association Is Organized at Rousing Meeting at Quitman

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., April 29.—At a meeting in the court house yesterday, with delegates from every county in Georgia and Florida south of Albany through Moultrie, Quitman, Madison, Live Oak, Lake City and Jacksonville, a permanent highway association was organized for the double purpose of building a network of highways from Chattanooga south through western Georgia and through northern Florida to Jacksonville.

The meeting organized itself by resolution into the Georgia-Florida Highway Association and elected five officers, viz: President, W. C. Vereen, Moultrie; first vice president, D. G. Malloy, Quitman; second vice president, J. L. Fonda, Moultrie; and treasurer, Herbert Stubbs, Quitman. These officers were named as the executive committee to perfect the final organization, and it was announced that this organization was not alone for the purpose of presenting to the State highway commission a list of highways to be constructed, but was a permanent organization and northern Florida good roads association.

VALUABLE OIL LANDS REVERT TO GOVERNMENT

(By Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 29.—Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane has affirmed the decision of the commission of the general land office withdrawing from entry the quarter section of land known as "The Oil Claims in Kern county from which millions of gallons of oil are said to have been taken, according to a statement made here today.

The land reverts to the United States government and there is no appeal from the decision.

It is held that the Pacific Midway Oil company and a number of other corporations and individuals who bought a patent did not diligently prosecute the work of exploration for six months. The judgment of the local land officers, rendered a year ago, is reversed.

Bori, Botta and Amato All Love Their Roles In "The Three Kings"

Lucresia Bori sat in the sunshine on the broad veranda of the Georgian Terrace. She was clad in white, from hat to slippers, and she was the prettiest picture which ever adorned it. She smiled as an admirer, just introduced, summoned a bit of Philippine Spanish to praise her studies in "The Three Kings." "And answered him in English, which was all the prettier for its bit of accent. Miss Bori has learned a great deal since she sang Manon here two years ago. She has gained in voice and in dramatic power, she has learned much new English, and apparently she has even achieved the long-sought and grown prettier.

Lucia Botta, the new Italian tenor who sang the Duke's role in Rigoletto Thursday afternoon, was chatting with her, and Pasquale Amato, the handsome baritone, joined the group. Miss Bori related him with a bar of new music from "The Love of Three Kings," and he responded with a bit of Manfredi's ball to discussing the music of the new Montemurri opera, billed for Friday night, and which all three love.

"It is beautiful," said Miss Bori. "It is a pleasure to sing it."

Amato's merry smile was his only remark upon his liking for his part, but he was expressive enough. Botta was sure that Amato would enjoy the opera. He has never sung the role of Avito in Amato, but he has given it several times in Buenos Aires and in the opera houses of other South American cities. Botta's voice is highly praised for the beauty of its tone, and members of the company say "The Love of Three Kings" will be one of the really fine works of the season.

ANDREW P. THOMPSON IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

Physicians Entertain Slight Hope for Recovery of Prominent Atlantian

The physicians attending Andrew P. Thompson, the well-known Atlanta citizen who is ill at the home of his son, Harry B. Thompson, on Ponce de Leon Avenue, entertain slight hope for his recovery.

Mr. Thompson, although seventy-four years of age, had enjoyed vigorous health until ten days ago, when he was stricken with acute internal complications, and his condition is now critical.

Among the out-of-town members of his family who arrived in the city Thursday to be at his bedside are Mrs. Harry H. Miles, of New York, his daughter, and Clarke W. Thompson, of Memphis, and Percy W. Thompson, of New York's sons.

After serving in the Confederate army through the Civil war Mr. Thompson located in Atlanta. For many years he was in the hardware business with Thomas M. Clarke, and later formed the Fifth-Thompson Hardware company. After that he was with the late Harvey Anderson in the Anderson Hardware company.

Some years ago, on account of Mr. Anderson's death and his advanced age, Mr. Thompson retired from active business.

FERTILIZER SALES FOR YEAR SHOW DECREASE

Shortage Is 4,741,965 Tons According to Figures of State Officials

Official figures compiled by Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price Thursday show that during the present season, from January 1, 1915, to April 28, 1915, there has been 4,741,965 tons less of commercial fertilizers marketed in Georgia than for the same period last year.

Mr. Price ascertains this fact from the number of fertilizer tags sold by the department. From January 1, to April 28 this year fertilizers sold in this state aggregated 7,795,140 tons as against 12,537,105 for the same period last year. This was 50.47 per cent of the 1914 record.

During the month of April there have been exceptionally heavy shipments of fertilizers. Up to Wednesday, the 24th, 15,547.4 tons had been sold in the state, as compared to 134,117 tons last year, an increase in favor of April this year of 53,424.4 tons.

JOHNSON IS ELIGIBLE TO EDUCATION BOARD

A man is not ineligible to appointment to membership on a county board of education simply because he happened to be a member of the grand jury which recommended him to the governor for the place.

This was held in an opinion rendered Thursday by Attorney General Greer. John R. Johnson, of St. Mary's, was recommended by the grand jury of Camden county for appointment to a vacancy on the board of education of that county.

Before Governor Slaton could make the appointment the question of his eligibility was raised and the governor referred the matter to the attorney general.

MOTHER THINKS DAUGHTER RAN AWAY WITH STUDENT

Atlanta detectives Thursday searched the hotels of the city in an effort to find Miss Mamie McJee, seventeen years old, of Athens, whose mother thinks she ran away with a student of the University of Georgia. No trace of the young woman was found, however.

Mrs. McJee, the girl's mother, came to Atlanta Thursday and invoked the aid of Chief Heavers in the search for her missing daughter.

SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga.—A simple and very beautiful home event was the marriage Tuesday evening of Miss Rose Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Gibbs, to Lucien J. Ger, lieutenant of engineers, United States coast guard. Only the members of the two families witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. James Y. Fair, of the Methodist church here. In the front drawing room, where the marriage took place, white roses and lilies were used in profusion, and in the second room through which the bride and her maid of honor entered, pink and white roses were the dominant flowers. Miss Emma Walthour, the maid of honor, preceded the bride, who entered with her father, Mr. C. M. Gibbs, and the groom, Mr. Ger, who was met by Mr. Ger and his best man, Dr. Robert Lattimore. The bride's wedding gown was an unusually lovely, fashioned entirely of soft silk tulle and rose point lace. The entire bodice was of lace, and a delicate and sophisticated design in pearls on the front of the corset. The bride wore a beautiful and elegant gown and a cap of lace and she carried a beautiful shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She wore the groom's gift, a beautiful bracelet of diamonds set in platinum. TUESDAY, MAY 4TH, THE SUMMER TERM OF THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS UNIVERSITY BEGINS

Summer Reduced Rates in Effect on May 4. Saturday and Monday Enrollment Days for the Summer Term.

Summer term opens May 4. Reduced rates for the summer session are now in effect. Saturday and Monday are enrollment days, and all who desire to take a summer course at the Southern Business and Commerce University are urged to call or write at once.

Those who are entering the Southern are doing so with the view to being ready for positions in the fall, knowing that the fall is the best time of the year to secure employment.

Several new pupils have entered the Southern this week, but the probabilities are that the attendance will be largely increased on May 4, the opening day of the summer term, as the reduced rates and the propitious time of beginning a course are strong incentives to many to start at this time.

Several secured positions this week. Call, phone or write at once.

SUFFRAGISTS HOLD MAY DAY RALLY SATURDAY

Atlanta and Georgia Associations Will Hold Joint Meeting on Capitol Steps

Heretofore by bugle blasts, a May day suffrage rally will be held by the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association and the Georgia Women's Suffrage association on the steps of the state capitol Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Alfred W. Jones, a cornetist, of Atlanta, will blow the bugle calls and will accompany the songs which the Georgia Young People's Suffrage association will sing.

An interesting feature of the meeting will be instructions from Mrs. McLenahan to every suffragist to plant yellow flowers in their gardens, and which have been sent the Georgia association by Pennsylvania suffragists.

The Quaker state have conceived the novel idea of "suffrage gardens" all blossoming in yellow, the suffrage color, in these gardens, "Victories," "Triumphs," "Battles," "Headlines," "Onwards" and other Atlanta unknown yellow flowers will grow.

See the Pennsylvania women have named all the yellow flowers, giving to each a new name expressing sentiments of cheer and inspiration to "the cause." Mrs. McLenahan will urge all suffragists to plant these flowers.

KAISER'S FLEET IS REPORTED AT LARGE OFF BELGIAN COAST

warships and Augustow, Russian charges failed.

Germans on Offensive Along Entire Prussian Frontier
PETHOROUGH, April 29.—(Via London.)—A general German offensive again is under way along the entire Prussian border from Tilsit to the Vistula.

The German advance this time evidently is aimed at the Baltic provinces, which are rich in crops and other food supplies.

For months the military operations on the Prussian border had been limited to scouting parties, isolated artillery duels and aeroplane warfare.

From Tolangen, in the Baltic province of Courland, it was reported today that an increased number of German cruisers are being concentrated in an effort to head back the Russian left wing with heavy artillery support.

On the Courlandian front nothing has happened in the last two days to alter the originally balanced situation.

Russian still are directing an offensive against Ussok and the Austrians attempting a movement toward Riga. The Austrians, temporarily are abandoning their attacks at other points and are being concentrated in an effort to head back the Russian left wing with heavy artillery support.

The increasing Russian menace on Ussok coast, however, Russian military observers say, has brought this movement to a standstill since with Ussok in Russian hands the operations of the Austrian right wing, deprived of most important support, would automatically collapse.

German Fleet Again Reported in North Sea

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, April 29.—(Via London.)—German warships have been seen off the Belgian coast, according to an official statement given out in Paris today.

There have been several dispatches in the past week indicating that German warships were at large in the North Sea, evidently having evaded the British men-of-war, which for many months have been doing patrol duty in front of the German naval bases on the eastern side of the North sea.

The latest report along that line was brought in by Captain Scott of the British steamer, who declared he had seen in the North sea a German fleet of 15 vessels of all classes. The officer did not say where or when the ships had been sighted, but the inference was that it was within a week.

Dunkirk is on the northern coast of France, within a few miles of the Belgian frontier. It is at the northern end of the English channel, east of Dover, and west of Ostend.

There have been four engagements of importance in the North sea since the beginning of the war. The first was the battle of Heligoland, late in August, in which a British fleet sent four German warships to the bottom.

In October, four German destroyers were sunk in an engagement off the Dutch coast. On December 16, a German cruiser squadron interfered with a German squadron while it was crossing the North sea to make another raid and sank the German cruiser Bluecher.

4,000 Germans Reported Slain Crossing the Yperlee

(By Associated Press.)

HAVRE, April 30.—Virtual annihilation of 4,000 Germans who crossed the Yperlee over a bridge and blew it up is described by the newspaper Vingtieme Siecle. Belgian artillery destroyed the bridge and shot down the invaders with shrapnel. Many tied handkerchiefs to their bayonets and raised them in sign of surrender, but immediately their own quick fire, the newspaper says, opened fire and moved them down silently. Many survivors were made prisoners by the Belgians.

Paris Official Note Reports German Fleet at Large

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, April 29.—The French war office report said afternoon follows: "We made progress yesterday in the north of Tynes, in the region of Steenstraete."

The city of Rheims received 800 shells of which many were of an incendiary nature. These missiles started several fires, but it was found possible to circumscribe them and to put them out quickly.

In the Champagne district the enemy shelled one of our ambulances, wounding a doctor.

German warships have been reported at large off the coast of Belgium.

Dunkirk, yesterday received nineteen shells of large caliber. Twenty persons were killed and forty-five wounded. Some houses were destroyed.

French Statement Accuses Berlin of Mistating Facts

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, April 29.—An official note issued by the war office gives details designed to show that the Germans continually are mistating the facts in regard to recent battles. Assertions in regard to occupied territory made in French official statements are said to be absolutely exact. At several places, notably between Hemenen and Ancerville, an advance of between 2 and 2-3 miles is reported.

It is contended in the note that the French are making continual progress in this region, and now are not far from the Lorene line.

Belgians Claim Repulse to Germans and New Progress

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, April 30.—Belgian army headquarters has issued this official report:

"During the night of April 28-29 our troops repulsed with success a German attack from Steenstraete."

"On April 29 the enemy's artillery became active and bombarded at intervals various parts of our line. We occupied a farm south of Plaswetter."

German Attack on Yser Has Ceased, Says Correspondent

LONDON, April 30.—The German attack on the Yser has ceased, says the Times' correspondent in northern France, writing under date of Thursday.

"The enemy has fallen back on the defensive," says the correspondent, "and is struggling to defend the small territory gained."

"Folled in the attempt to cross the canal, the enemy made an equally vain attempt to force a passage of the Yser at Dinmude. Belgian shells and bombs destroyed position bridges as soon as they were in position, and the gallant Belgian army still holds its lines intact."

Turks Again Advancing Toward the Suez Canal

LONDON, April 29.—Military operations apparently are continuing in the vicinity of the Suez canal, about which little has been heard recently, says the Post, in publishing a letter from an officer who says a party of Turks fired on a white flag, killing two and wounding eight men while they were attempting to deliver a letter to Turkish officials.

"We expect soon to be sent up the canal again as we hear the Turks are advancing."

Will Spare Monuments

AMSTERDAM, April 29.—The German general staff has issued a formal reply to numerous letters and communications expressing a desire that monuments of art and civilization in the war zones should be preserved by the German armies as far as possible.

"These appeals," says the staff's statement, "show how deeply rooted in our people is the understanding of such culture questions. The German army is equally inspired by such sentiments, and always spares monuments when they are not either destroyed by the enemy or used in the enemy's scheme of battle."

If You Only Knew

If you have any doubt about the value of Hanovers, it's about time you let us dispel it.

For fourteen years Hanovers have been before the public as the greatest shoe value on earth and in that time they have become the best known and most worn $3.00 and $3.50 shoes on the market.

This tremendous popularity is due, not alone to value or wear, but to the unsurpassed fitting and conforming qualities of the shoe. Thousands of our wearers would pay double the price rather than do without the remarkable foot ease Hanovers afford.

Of course, Hanovers are stylish and distinctive looking else their other sterling qualities would be of no avail. A trial pair would be a revelation and a joy forever.

Atlanta on June 22

Plans for a state convention of temperance forces, to be held in Atlanta on June 22—the day before the legislature convenes—were laid at a meeting of the headquarters committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon league Thursday in its offices in the Empire life building.

The convention will be participated in by members of the league, the Woman's Christian Temperance union, churches, young people's societies, Sunday schools and similar organizations. Delegates will be elected and their names forwarded to the office of the league.

The board recommended also that such organizations elect delegates immediately to the national Anti-Saloon league biennial convention in Atlantic City, June 8, 9, and 10.

Several speakers addressed the board on the liquor question, among them Dr. A. J. Hughes, Dr. Dalbow, Mr. Whitman, Dr. R. R. Kime and Dr. Michaelberger.

Seats have been reserved for the class. The public is invited.

Vote early but not often.

Pinch waver for the opera and likewise for election day.

Among the new generals created by the war may be named General Advance, General Retreat, General Slaughter and a few others more or less notorious.

Increasing Traffic.

The fact that the earnings of the Central of Georgia railway for the week ended April the twenty-sixth last were greater than those of the corresponding week of 1914 is a particularly cheering sign of business improvement. Increased traffic means not only that better times are coming, but that they are actually here. It means that industries are rekindling, that markets are opening, that commercial travelers are in the field, that goods are being bought and sold. When the blood flows strong and free the heart is sound; and when railways, the arteries of trade, become active after months of depression, the heart of business is beating normally again.

Few interests, if any, felt the numbing effects of the war more acutely than did the railroads. Their revenues for the last five months of 1914 showed declines of from fifteen to forty per cent as compared with the same period of the preceding year, this being due, of course, to the misfortunes of cotton. It is especially significant, therefore, that the Central of Georgia has experienced a week of earnings greater than those of the same week last year when there was no handicap of war conditions. This record is in keeping with that of Atlanta's bank clearings and postal receipts; it chimes with the announcement that cotton mills are running again on full time, and with the reports from competent observers everywhere that business is moving steadily forward.

It is noteworthy in this connection that several of the large railway systems of the East are placing orders for millions of dollars' worth of new equipment. The carriers are preparing for a season of expansion and activity. Their credit has been restored, their affairs are on a sounder basis than they have been for years, in common with all industry, they face a time of abounding prosperity.

Nothing succeeds like grand opera.

One must remember that the war must continue for the sake of the movies.

You must admit that Secretary Bryan was instrumental in putting three kings and the mayor of Chicago on the water wagon.

Springtime and Purses.

As the increase in railway traffic, this bit of comment from the Athens Herald is interesting. A passenger leaving Athens last Thursday reports that the train was crowded with shoppers, and that bundles were piled high on the seats and in the laps of the passengers. It did not look much like hard times. It looked like old times, the good old summer time when passengers would fill the train with bundles which they had purchased in Athens and were taking home.

Every shopping center in Georgia is enjoying a measure of this trade revival. Springtime is reaching into the people's purse. "Riches take upon themselves wings, and fly." But it all depends on which way they fly. Just now, it seems, they are flying back and forth between buyers and sellers, and that is what money is for.

Atlanta was beaten by a score of twelve to one, but think of what it would have been in a ten-point game.

Grand opera may come and go, but there are those in our midst who like best of all—and are not ashamed to admit it—the male quartet and the corner solo.

Cultivation, Harvesting And—Marketing.

The occupation of farming comprises three distinct departments, namely cultivation, harvesting, and marketing. Much thought and attention have been given in the past to the first two. But it is only within very recent times that the last one has received any attention at all.

It is now being discovered that in importance it leads before the others. There has long been a cry for diversified crops in the South. Little attention was paid to it at first but conditions within the past year brought the farmers to a real desire to break away from the one-crop system. They were confronted immediately with the problem of marketing their products—a problem that has confronted and oftentimes dumfounded and discouraged every man in the past who has attempted to get out of the soil cotton and corn only. It was no trouble for such a man to raise abundance of the crops but he frequently saw their spoil on his hands after they had been harvested through his inability to sell them. This inability may have grown out of ignorance of how best to pack his products so that they would keep and be attractive to the city consumer or it may have been through want of knowledge of the best centers in which to dispose of the fruits of his fields.

It is gratifying, however, to note the efforts that are now being put forth to assist the farmers in the marketing problem. The federal government has begun upon it, state governments are formulating many plans of help, chambers of commerce and other industrial organizations are studying methods and wholesale and retail grocers in all large cities are making it their special duty to co-operate with farmers in showing them ways of packing and preparing country products, if the articles are to find ready sale in city stores.

With all these agencies at work, it will undoubtedly be brought about within the next few years that farmers will be as familiar with all the intricacies of marketing as they are now familiar with furrows, harrows and harvesters.

"Zeppelins read English towns." "Allies continue drive." War news is one repetition of history—and modern history at that—after another.

A Waning Sport.

"Dollar chasing in this country is not the sport it used to be," observes former President Taft. His idea being that Americans have found, or are finding, paths better worth their while than the quest of vast fortunes. Few Americans, it is true, have succeeded in finding even a blind trail to vast fortunes; the rank and file of them have been sufficiently occupied in keeping step on the broad and dusty highway. But our country has been peculiarly marked by kings of wealth. Its capitalists of industry and finance have set new records of achievement, and money-making has been at least one of our national idols.

That was only to be expected of a land which was mostly wilderness two centuries ago and where opportunities hitherto undreamed of awaited the man of energy and ambition. The same spirit that felled the forest and built railways across a wild continent found renewed and appropriate expression later on in turning natural resources and industrial appliances to wonderful account. So, too, the age of "commercialism" in America was a natural outcome of earlier forces and of preceding development. But "commercialism," despite its grip on popular thought and on government itself, was destined to pass as the pioneers before it.

Human interests and human values count for more and more in the United States. We shall measure our prosperity not by the amount of wealth which a score or a hundred of exceptionally gifted or exceptionally lucky men have accumulated, but by the economic and social attainment of the people as a whole. Business will not cease to be admired; but we shall be more and more concerned with what men are rather than with what they have. Education and culture will weigh more than dollars and cents. We shall live more broadly, and think more deeply.

It wouldn't be surprising if Barnes, Libel suit were merely a scheme to put the colonel politically on record.

Colored Cotton.

Experiments looking to the production of black cotton are being conducted by Mr. A. W. Brabham, of Olat, South Carolina. The Savannah Press quotes him as saying:

"God gave me five primal sorts of cotton—white, red, brown, yellow and black. The black has been lost somewhere in the mists of the ages, but every experienced breeder knows that so long as the species exists the lost variety can be restored. To this end, I am working, and only last week the sowing was made by planting deep green lint cotton, red lint cotton and brown lint cotton in my experimental patch. If I can get the three to come into blossom at the same time, black lint is assured."

This strikes one as outbursts of Burbank. A blue moon, a purple cow or a green snow would be tame surprises compared with able cotton. Yet, "there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio—"

The distinctive feature of Mr. Brabham's experiment is the utility of its aim. He is not simply prying into the secrets of nature. If he succeeds, he will have produced something of commercial value, and, perhaps, will have solved, or at least have simplified the dyestuff problem, now of such intense concern to American textile mills. If colored cotton can be grown the South will be more of a wonderland than ever, and sand-colored stockings along with rainbow shirts can be raised by the acre.

Some men's ideas of progress is to stand and watch others go backward.

Many a man who talks like a war hero compels his wife to interview the Janitor every time he has occasion to make a kick.

Editorial Echoes

The epigrammatic remark of Mr. Carnegie that "steel is either prince or pauper" is recalled by the statement published this morning of the United States Steel Corporation's earnings for the first quarter of the current year. In the aggregate they are much smaller than for the corresponding three months of the current year, but the significant fact is that the earnings for March are twice as large as those for February, which, in turn, were twice as large as those for January. It is not arithmetical but geometrical progression. Students of economics regard the steel and iron industry as a barometer of general conditions—these metals entering into so many varied constructive and manufacturing activities. The exhibit made by the great Steel Corporation therefore is gratifying evidence of general return of the activity that spells prosperity.—New York Herald.

Your Thoughts and Your Face.

BY E. H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.
(Author of "The Middle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," Etc.)

The other evening I was asked the performance of a delightful little play in which these striking lines occurred:

"Beautiful thoughts make beautiful lives, and beautiful lives make beautiful faces."

Psychologically this is absolutely sound. The most beautiful of all recipes in the world is phrased in this simple formula:

"Lay hold of high ideals, and cling to them."

Even those to whom Nature has been generous in point of facial appearance may become beautiful in the eyes of the world by dint of right thinking and right living.

Does anybody, looking at the portrait of Abraham Lincoln, ever think of him as an example?

And, on the opposite, no matter with what beauty of feature a person may begin life, the cultivation of a few thoughts to certain soon or late to give a cast to the countenance that will negate the original endowment of beauty.

The face is truly the mirror of the soul, and reflects accurately the state of a man or woman's inward being.

In fact, there is now in process of development a real science of physiognomy based on the demonstrable fact that a person's face is affected for good or for ill by his or her character. So far has this science developed that one of its exponents has secured thousands of dollars selecting employees for large firms on the basis of the character told by the faces of the applicants for employment.

In this there is nothing occult or mystical. It is a whole logic of the face. The science of the discovery that a person's face is affected for good or for ill by his or her character is also well known as a sort of game, on people who have no doubt whatever that their minds are all right. To illustrate what can be done in this way here are three questions which, among others, were recently propounded to a young woman of Chicago, who was suspected of being mentally some years younger.

A man went walking in the woods. He saw something hanging from a tree. He ran to the police station and told the police. What did he see?

If a bicycle rider fell from his bicycle and broke his neck and was taken to a hospital, what would he say about it?

It is easier to forgive any one if he struck you in anger or otherwise?

To the first question the young woman's answer was, "A dead body," and it was marked "correct." Her reply to the second was, "Wasn't successful."—He should not ride a bicycle if he does not know how." And the third response took a truly strange form, "God forgive us all."

The expert decided that though the "subject" had lived for eighteen years, so far as responsibility and ability went she was only eleven years old. The decision seems rather harsh, or at least dubiously accurate, for not a few people might be caught by that second question. The expert decided that though the "subject" was a clumsy expressed—so clumsily that perhaps it shows nearly as much about the questioner as the answer did about the young woman.—New York Times

WHERE MATRONS IS MADE.

The United States now supplies a large part of the matron bread used by the Jews of the world during their Passover week, which they have kept for 2,000 years in celebration of their delivery from the bondage of Egypt. This celebration comes in March, and for months before that time a matron factory has been working almost day and night to supply the demand for this special unleavened bread.

A single factory in Cincinnati manufactures the bulk of this food, making an average production of ten thousand matron breads per week, and consuming 100 barrels of flour per week. All of the work of baking this bread is in the hands of skilled Jewish bakers. The ancient formula is used, although the bread is baked by steam and electricity instead of being, literally, in the sun as in the early days.

The matron is a sort of cracker, about six inches square, made of a stiff dough, baked for four minutes in a pan of moderate heat. The matron is a thin, crisp little thing that is all parts of the world. Although the eating of matron is a custom peculiar to the orthodox Jews, it is rapidly spreading among other people, who find it a toothsome cracker, or many uses. It is similar to a bread made by the Norwegians, except that it is crispier and more tender. The matron is made with no effort to popularize it with the Jewish race. They will not place upon the market at any time during the year except for the Feast of the Passover.

Quips and Quiddities

"Could you be satisfied with love in a cottage, dear?" asked the poor young man. "Certainly I could," responded the girl, who really loved him; "but there must be a breakfast room, a music room, a parlor, a dining room and a big marble fireplace in the front hall."

"How is it that nobody ever ventures to discuss the war with Jinks, and he has all the talking to himself?" "Well, you see, he's the only fellow in the club who knows how to pronounce the names of those Russian and Polish jawbreakers."

"Ma," remonstrated Bobby, "when I was at grandma's she used to let me have two pieces of cake."

"Well, she ought not to have done so, Bobby," said his mother, "but she gave you two pieces of cake for little boys. The older you grow the more wisdom you will gain."

Bobby was silenced, but only for a moment.

"Well, ma," he said, "grandma is a good deal older than you are."

We asked pityingly on the listless drug store clerk leaning against the soda counter.

"I don't care for anything," he quipped kindly, and all that.

"No," he replied, with brightening intelligence; "but I have something just what you need."

A mother told her small son she would punish him if he ever asked for anything to eat while at a neighbor's.

The next time he went over to call on the neighbor he sat still for a few minutes, then he spoke up.

"Now, I must go. Do you know why I must go?" "Well, I'm hungry, that's why."—Woman's Home Companion.

THE ALASKAN OPPORTUNITY

—AN AGRICULTURE

Now that the president of the United States has formally set his hand to the opening of a railroad into the heart of Alaska, that the route has been definitely determined, that provision has been made for appropriate financial aid, it is not too much to say that the time has come when the possibilities of planting homes in this region.

The American is instinctively a pioneer and ever on the move. He has marked a spot across the great area of a continent he has developed the spirit of the conquest of the wild which has been turned back on itself because of the impossibility of obtaining the land. The demands of pioneers are therefore likely to ask themselves if a new opportunity is being here opened to them.

The wise pioneer, who ascertains all the facts before he needs the land, will find that the situation that will surprise him is in favor of a venture there which he never dreamed, and difficult of realization in the way to overcome which it seems next to impossible. Obstacles that would seem insurmountable to the average man are not insurmountable to the pioneer and they probably will not be deterred in the present instance.

The first misapprehension to be corrected is that as to climate. The visitor to Alaska may make the trip in winter time, may start on his journey in the middle of the month, inland near the line between the many islands and the mainland, may reach seaward, from where a railroad is now being built, to the interior, and yet may encounter no temperature as low as those prevailing at the same time in Virginia. In this great country there is no milder in its winter climate than is the Mississippi valley. The thermometer almost never goes down to zero. It is in the winter months that the winter is the most comfortable. A bit cooler in summer, making the annual mean temperature about the same as that of the Capital.

So, from the standpoint of climate, the coastal region, warmed by the waters of the Pacific, would be the best place for the pioneer. The interior, however, and the pursuit of agriculture. This, of course, is the fringe of Alaska. The square block of it that lies between the mountains and the coast is the big "Texas," has an entirely different climate. The winters are long and dark, but the interior is not a region of perpetual snow and ice. The interior is the greatest ice field in Alaska pushed down into the warm waters of the Pacific. In the interior the snowfall is not great and melts off early in the spring. Throughout the summer season the sun pours down its warmth for twenty hours a day upon a land that knows no frost, and vegetation grows almost as it might in a tropical land.

So it happens that interior Alaska, even that portion of it within the Arctic circle, has ideal weather, for, for four months, crops will grow. The soil is abundant in fertility. At Fairbanks, in the center of the great interior and the terminus of the proposed railroad, the climate is such that the farmer can grow wheat, oats, barley, and corn. The climate is such that the farmer can grow wheat, oats, barley, and corn. The climate is such that the farmer can grow wheat, oats, barley, and corn.

All of which facts, taken singly or collectively, might lead to the conclusion that there were great agricultural possibilities in Alaska. There probably are, but there are great drawbacks, too, which would make the prospective pioneer should be aware of these in mind.

There is the 2,000 miles of southern coast warmed by the Pacific, for instance. In all that stretch there is very little land fit for growing crops. The region is a vast, flat, open country, with a few scattered mountains of 20,000 feet at Mount McKinley, and 10,000 feet at Mount St. Elias. The warm and moisture-laden winds from the Pacific Ocean blow over the mountains, and the result is a heavy rain. The result is a heavy rain. The result is a heavy rain.

The best farming lands of the coastal region are just where they are needed—in the valleys of the Seward, the Matanuska and the Copper rivers. These valleys are fertile, and the soil is rich. The valleys are fertile, and the soil is rich. The valleys are fertile, and the soil is rich.

They are all on the line of the railroad that is to be. The Chugach mountains, near the coast, are a barrier to the inland. The Chugach mountains, near the coast, are a barrier to the inland. The Chugach mountains, near the coast, are a barrier to the inland.

level lands on the benches above them. Upon these have already been planted farms and are destined to be planted many more. In these coastal basins it is estimated that there are altogether about 1,000,000 acres of level land, an area half as big as the entire of New Jersey.

On these farm lands near the coast the most able crops are hardy and quick-growing vegetables of all kinds. Potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, corn, peas, beans, and the like. These crops will grow well. The whole coastal region is overrun with excellent grasses and much of it is well fitted to raise stock. The whole coastal region is overrun with excellent grasses and much of it is well fitted to raise stock. The whole coastal region is overrun with excellent grasses and much of it is well fitted to raise stock.

The impression, which has gone abroad that there are extensive regions in the interior of Alaska where the possibility of open grain-raising, or upon the coast of Alaska, among other things, is a serious mistake. The interior of Alaska is a region of mountains and there is no possibility of open grain-raising in the interior of Alaska. ALUMNI SECRETARY OF VANDERBILT IN ATLANTA

New Department Will Be Similar to Those of Yale and Harvard

Charles Cason, alumni secretary of Vanderbilt university, a new position recently created by the university and filled by the alumni, is in Atlanta for the purpose of getting in touch with Vanderbilt alumni in this city, and was their guest at luncheon Friday at the Capital City club.

The university has established and proposes to develop an alumni department similar to those maintained by Yale, Harvard, Chicago and the other great universities of the country. It is the first university in the south to take this step. Mr. Cason is in charge of the department with the title of alumni secretary, and is paid a salary by the university faculty.

Discussing the university and its plans, Mr. Cason had the following to say:

"Vanderbilt university has entered upon a new era. Its status is definitely established. It knows where it stands. Its outlook is broader than ever before, and it can and is planning and working toward definite ends.

"One of the movements undertaken by the university is the organization of the alumni. Of this work I can speak with more detailed knowledge as I am in charge of it as alumni secretary.

"Therefore the alumni of Vanderbilt have not been thoroughly organized. Now the university proposes to organize them and make them a power for the upbuilding of the institution. They will be organized by communities and states and these will be merged into a general organization. The university will undertake to locate every alumnus, and keep in touch with him and keep him in touch with the other alumni. To this end the department plans the publication of a magazine especially devoted to the alumni.

"Moreover, the department will perfect a permanent organization for every graduating class. The class of 1915, 190 strong, has already organized and elected a secretary to serve for a term of years. He will keep in touch with the members of the class and through him the university will keep in touch with them. The 1915 class has formed a fund, to be paid by the members of the class within twelve years after graduation, which will amount to $20,000 when paid in. Future graduating classes will be encouraged to do the same.

"In every department the university is looking forward as never before. The freshman academic class this year is the largest in 55 per cent in the history of the institution.

"The medical department has recently received bids for a magnificent new chemical laboratory building and the hospital is being enlarged. Next year's academic work will be required before entering the medical department. The department will grade as an A-1 medical school.

"The theological department, or Biblical department, as it is called, will hereafter be non-sectarian and will emphasize the points of agreement between the various creeds, rather than the points of difference. Its faculty will be composed of men of the highest ability representing various denominations. In addition to training young men for the ministry, it will train young men for Y. M. C. A. work and for social service work.

New Head of the Vanderbilt Alumni

"The whole spirit of the university is wonderfully renewed and optimistic. Students, faculty and board of trustees are welded together in a compact, cohesive, aggressive and enthusiastic organization, and with this organization the university, by means of the alumni department, proposes to connect up the organized power of Vanderbilt graduates everywhere.

"As I said before, Vanderbilt has entered upon a new era. And standing upon the threshold of this new era, she is inspired with a new hope and a new purpose. Under the magnificent leadership of Chancellor James H. Kirkland, she aspires to become one of the great institutions of learning in America, and this ambition and spirit are backed by the resources necessary to achieve success.

CREW OF THE MANNING IS BELIEVED TO BE LOST

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., April 30.—Identification of the bulk of a sailing ship beached on Hampton bar, and the cutter Hemlock as the four-masted schooner John B. Manning, leads to the belief in shipping circles that Captain Tyler Curtis, his father, Jacob Curtis, and the crew of ten on the Manning have been lost.

The Manning sailed from Philadelphia for Philadelphia March 24, and was caught in a hurricane off Hatteras on the night of April 2. She was seen in distress by Captain Frye, of the schooner M. D. Cressey.

WILSON URGES INSPECTION OF SIBERIAN WAR CAMPS
President Sends Note to Czar at Request of Austro-Hungarian Government

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—In official circles today it was widely expected that although negotiations conducted through American diplomatic channels with the Russian government looking to inspection by American representatives of detention camps for prisoners of war in Siberia have come to naught, President Wilson's personal efforts in that direction would result in early action. The president, at the request of the Austro-Hungarian government, has written to Emperor Nicholas urging this inspection.

Russia never has acted upon a proposal by Germany for inspection of detention camps in the respective countries similar to Germany's arrangement with Great Britain.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more of 'strong' women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they would enjoy better health. Whitney Beats Eddie Hanlon in 10 Round Match

Local Welter Unable to Get by Frank's Defense—Latter All but Scored Kayo in Final Round—Budd and Young Go Ten Rounds to a Draw

By Innis Brown

Twenty rounds of boxing that deserved a great deal more than it got in the financial support was exhibited at the Bijou theater Thursday night, when Frank Whitney landed a decision over Eddie Hanlon and Betting House and Kid Young went ten rounds to a draw. The decision in each case was properly called.

The well-betted Whitney and Hanlon proved even more furious than had been anticipated, and if anything was a more lively affair than the Whitney-Abel scrap a few weeks ago.

Whitney's knowledge of the game was too much for the local product. Eddie found it very difficult to land cleanly on Whitney, and except for the time when he was hooking him in with an under hand under Frank's left shoulder with his right hand, he really landed no more than a few close punches.

During the melee in the fourth round Hanlon got over his celebrated right to the jaw at five rings, but Whitney did not seem at all deterred. He was working a straight job with this in an upward, but Whitney was too wary, and never left an opening for either of these blows. Hanlon tried a little with his right hand, but Whitney was too wary, and never left an opening for either of these blows.

Whitney was very angry at the finish, and he was not without cause.
